Mr. Strong 2.

We do want to play the game to the full and to the best of our powers I think we are. If the committee insists that we do go on with these daily reports they must fully realize that they order it against my deep conviction and protest. That, however, important such reports may seem on a priori grounds or from some lines of business, they are comparatively not important for us when we consider the sacrifices we must make in order to carry them out.

I should be glad if you will take the matter up with the finance committee and let me know what their decision is.

Very sincerely yours,

H W Luce

If a report must be made, it would seem to me that the best way would be, as far as Caskey & I are concerned, to have us write a report letter at the end of each week. Our travel cards however, studied over by you, would give you altogether better results.
