Tuesday, January 1st [1895]

Our first New Year's day in China! We are spending it with Mr. Hubbard's people at Pagoda Anchorage. Willard and Mr. Hubbard returned yesterday afternoon from a three day's journey in the country about Sharp Peak. We have never been separated for a single night before since we were married. Today Willard and Mr. H. went on another short trip in a boat expecting to return by one o'clock; but did not appear until three. This disturbed Mrs. H's plan to go across the river which was eventually carried out in part.

The thoughts which events have led me to entertain today are apropos to the beginning of a new year. Briefly stated they are, - The necessity of plan and purpose in life; and the necessity of persistence and finess in executing them. Our obligation to others. True love and unselfishness the foundation of happiness in the home.

[When asked about Sharp Peak, Donald MacInnis replied: "Sharp Peak was an island in the mouth of the Min River where the early missionaries went to escape the summer heat. Later, stone houses were built on Kuliang mountain, a day's walk from the city, and a whole summer community built up there."].

Wednesday, January 2nd

The weather today is similar to that of yesterday altho it has not rained. We started at 10:30 for home. I felt a slight headache and after eating lunch, I was thoroughly seasick. We had intended to attend the Missionary Concert at the So. Side but walked directly home from the boat.

Tuesday, January 15th.

The weather has been true to the standard of late preceeding days, - the thermometer running below 50 degrees and heavy mists or rain filling the air all day.

Affairs of the mission have precluded all study. At 9.30 A.M. we went into the city and sat in business meeting assembled at Dr. Baldwin's for nearly an hour when it adjourned to attend Miss Woodhull's examination of her Woman's School and Kindergarten. There were several very interesting little ones among the sixteen, who carried off the motion songs and the ball and block studies very creditably after only four months study. We heard little of the woman's work as we returned to resume business before dinner. We with Mr. Woodin dined with Miss Woodhull. At two o'clock we attended the Class Day exercises at Mr. Pete's school. They were arranged wholly by the class and consisted of a discussion of the question "Is an education profitable?" The boys talked readily each from the standpoint of a different occupation and the audience seemed much amused altho I understood none of it.

Immediately following this was Dr. Woodhull's examination of hospital students. This showed good work with four students. Tea was served at the close of the exercises. Business meeting again convened holding until 6 P.M. The principle items of business transacted was the expunging of the "Dr. Whitney resolution", appropriation in asking for a new man to take Mr. Pete's school; also sanitarium suites were voted to be rented.

I have firmly concluded that the rule for new missionaries not voting the first year should be strictly adhered to.

Wednesday, January 16.

The Field Day Exercises of the Scientific College called Willard into the City for the forenoon; they passed off much to the satisfaction of the audience.

I assisted Miss Newton in decorations for the graduating exercises. The exercises passed off very creditably in the afternoon altho not a large audience was present. The class consisted of two girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete, Mary and Miss Chittenden took dinner with us. After the close of the afternoon exercises, a business meeting was held at Mr. Woodin's. Mr. Goddard called in the evening.

Foochow China.
Jan. 2nd 1895.

Dear Folks:-

A Happy New Year has been wished and I trust spent by you all. We thought of you and remembered you when we talked with the Father.

Last week we experienced the first wet days in Foochow. The rain began to fall Thurs. and it rained steadily till Sun. morning. Fri. afternoon Mrs. Hubbard sent a sampan up from Pagoda Anchorage for us to come down and spend the Sabbath. It was a cold, raw time and rained hard but we went. The wind favored us and we were less than two hours on the water, and found a nice warm fire and a good supper waiting for us. Sat. morning Mr. Hubbard and I arose at 5:30 o'clock and started for Sharp Peak at the mouth of the Min river. About half way down the tide met us and we stopped at one of the numberless little villages along the bank of the Min. Mr. H. talked and read to the crowd that everywhere gather about a foreigner whenever he stops and I stood by him and allowed the natives to examine my coat and gloves and hair, and sold tracts. One man invited us into his house, gave us a seat and treated us to boiled sweet potatoes. They were good. Mr. Hubbard had an errand on board one of the steamers lying in the anchorage so we went on board and were treated to tea cake and crackers. We arrived at Sharp Peak village just as dark fell. The helper= the Pastor- was at the boat to meet us and we went straight to the chapel. The mud was pretty deep in the streets but it was so dark we could not see it so it made little difference. This church was to celebrate Christmas that evening and many of them had already gathered. The servant- a Christian worker and sort of colporteur [or colporteur - sells religious materials]- made supper ready for me. The Pastor gave us some tea and a neighbor sent in some milk. These with the food which we took with us made a good supper. The chapel was very prettily trimmed and all in good taste except one cross which was all covered with advertisement cards. It looked a little odd to see this decoration on a cross, but to the Chinese it was very pretty, and answered the same as a cross decorated with roses and lilies for us at home. A number of men spoke, and after these exercises, the presents were given to the children. These chapels in the different parts of the mission- all have a day school connected with them. Where the work is not too large the pastor is also teacher in the day school, so the church and school are very closely linked together. Nearly all the children in the Sharp Peak church are day school scholars. These each had an image of play and gaily painted, and a picture card. The one who had been most regular in attendance had first choice of the images. It was as hard work for them to decide which was the handsomest images as it is for some little American boys to decide which is the biggest orange. After the children were disposed of the older ones went in for a feast. Of course Mr. H and I had to partake. This was my third Chinese feast within a week,- and I had eaten a supper only two hours before! But I sailed in and wished I had not taken any thing with Mr. H. This feast was good. They had some fried oysters that would do credit to any New Eng. house wife's cooking, and the chicken was good. And they had eggs boiled hard, the shells taken off and then fried in batter- fried whole. These were delicious. Two kinds of fish were very nice. I am getting used to diving into the same dish with seven others, and throwing the refuse either under or on the table. Here is a description of our bed. Two horses - just like our carpenter's horses,- on these four boards each a foot wide, on these an oil cloth, then a mattress of cotton one inch and a half thick, and then a plush robe,- sheets and covering. We slept like bricks. The next morning was bright and clear. We rolled out and climbed the hill to create an appetite for breakfast. Hot potatoes and rice were added to our bread and meat. This was our fare till Monday night. I liked it. The sweet potatoes are good and the rice is always good, add a little bread and eggs and meat, and have sugar, salt and milk and I shall enjoy these country trips. It makes me happy to find that they are agreeable to me for my work is in this line. After I have learned to talk I shall be all over this part of the province of Fukien- for 75 miles back from the site of Foochow. Mr. Woodin was gone 16 days on his last trip. This I believe is the longest one that is made in the mission. Mr. Hubbard is located near the center of his field and is seldom away from home more than one night at a time. Sharp Peak is the place where we expect to spend next Summer. Up on top of the hill is a very pleasant house arranged for five families. I think we shall enjoy it. A fine beach lies at the foot of the hill and we can bathe as often as we are willing to descend and climb the hill. Monday morning we started up the river stopping on the way at Wung puo to rent a place for school and chapel and rooms for chapel and school teacher. We reached the Anchorage late in the afternoon. In the evening we all took tea with Dr. and Mrs. Whitney and then son Henry and daughter Mary. New Years morning Dr. Whitney, Mr. H and I started again on a tour, visiting other of the stations and returning at 3:30 P.M. This morning Ellen and I started for Foochow at 11:00 o'clock and reached our home at Ponasang at 3:00 P.M. It is now 4:45 and I'll take a rest. The mail came again last Thurs. Ellen received a letter from Etta. That was all. Fri. morning, Jan. 4th a letter has just arrived from home. I tell you it has done me good. You may be sure there is no discount on home news. We are full of business, but there is always time for and everything is always dropped when the American mail arrives. I am glad to hear that you are all well. I think it may be a good thing to box up some of the snow and send it over to us. We shall not be likely to see any for a few years. I believe that a little falls sometimes, but it is so uncommon that the Chinese stand on the bridge and watch flakes fall into the river and dissolve, wondering what becomes of them. All along the street they pack it into images- men and women engaging in the sport. Some box it up to preserve it. We have had one or two frosts- nothing colder. Mrs. Woodin's calas are out door in bloom. She has had them put in two nights is all. The Chinese never have fires for warmth. When a cold comes they put on the clothes- padded coats and fur lined coats. The class called Coolies who do the work about the house and carrying on the streets never cover their ankles. It looks rather incongruous to us to see these men with their shoulders and bodies thickly padded, but with ankles bare, no stockings and only a pair of Chinese shoes.

I am glad to hear from Ruth that school is going on so well with all of you. Does James still peddle? I wonder how Ben is getting along. I must write him. You see, you folks have the advantage over me. I must write a full letter myself. Each time you have several for each letter and can take turns writing. I hope you will write all about the farm work and how Oliver is getting along, and all about the Uncles and Aunts and cousins and I hope Aunt Louise will find time to write a letter to us telling all about Grandfather and Grandmother and the news at White Hills. [Louise is Willard's mother's sister. The 1900 census shows Louise Nichols, born in Sept. 1857, living with her mother, Phebe A. Nichols, born May 1819 in Huntington Town, CT. Louise's father, Nathan Bennett Nichols died in May 1899.]

I think that we shall send a list of articles for Oliver to purchase and send to the Board rooms in Boston to be forwarded to us. I am lonely without any tools. My knife which you have not seen- which contains a saw, gimblet and tweezers punch, cork screw, hook and two blades- is my whole outfit. It does very well, but I think I must have a complete set of tools for carpentry work. I'll see what I can do here before I write definitely. We have not heard from our goods yet since they passed the Suez Canal Nov. 27. We wish we had bought less furniture in Boston. We can have it made to order here for about half what we paid in Boston. I gave Ellen a writing desk, - 2 ½ ft. long, slanting top, covered with cloth. The top lifts up and under it is a large space and a number of pigeon holes below and back are three drawers a foot wide and half a foot deep. It is of hard wood stained to represent black walnut. It cost only $4.75 in silver. That means about $2.50 in gold. I have ordered a desk for myself- an office desk for $11.00. It is to be 53 in. long. 32 in. wide, - flat top- four drawers on each side of me as I sit at it, and a cupboard on each side at the back and pigeon holes above that are separate from the desk. We are going to have a side board, a book case and one or two wardrobes made. There are no closets in these houses, so each one had to have his own.

Next week will be the week of prayer. The three missions here observe it together. The meetings are held in the P.M. at 3:00 P.M. Next Sunday Dwight preaches. This begins the series of meetings and the week day meetings are prayer meetings held at the private houses. I lead the meeting one week from to day "Home and Foreign Missions".

Yes Phebe, I knew Eddy quite well. He was in Hartford last year and spent one night at the Seminary. I saw him again at Detroit. I do not remember seeing him at Madison. Pitkin his chum was there. Eddy and Pitkin I understand have means at their disposal and are going out to the foreign field under the A.B.C.F.M. but will pay their own expenses. So the Board gains not only two good men but their support as well. I almost envy the man who is able to give not only himself but his expenses as well, and yet this is wrong for the Lord asks of us only what we have and if we give that we have given all, whether it be only self or self with money added. Then again He asks only prayers and work and money and does not want self in the foreign work, but desires the personal work in the Christian land. One work is no greater than the other, and I am more and more inclined to think one work is no harder than the other if both are done with equal consecration and devotedness. There are temptations to battle against here as well as in America. This city has so many missionaries and other foreigners in it that a spirit of rivalry in dress etc. is not entirely absent. Then servants are so cheap- only $4.00 silver per month that one has to guard against laziness. We new comers feel this more than those who have been here longer, for they can use the language and there is always work enough for every one who can talk. We find it hard to study all the time, and get the proper exercise. Here at Ponasang there is no good place to walk. The city is on all sides of us, and one is not forcibly impelled by the pleasant streets and handsome store windows to stroll out. Dwight and I went out into one of the cemeteries nearby and a beggar spied us. He followed thro the streets for a mile and up on a high hill and would not let us look off with any comfort. When we started down into the street again he blocked our way. I kicked his shins and Dwight accidentally hit him on the head with his cane. He left us then. Begging is a profession here as much [as] making idols, and the beggars are often rich people who ply their vocation part of the day and sit at home in ease the rest.

Now that letters have started I trust that each mail will bring something from home, and unless the work becomes very demanding and takes me off away from home you will hear often from me. I am in no danger of going into the country at present- not till my tongue twists more easily.

Love to all Will and Ellen.

Ponasang, Foochow, China
Jan. 4" 1895.

My dear Friends,

Willard has left a place in his envelope for my letter which may not be a repetition of his, as we do have some different experiences.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodin invited [me or us] to dinner today, Dr's. Woodhull and Nieberg of the Woman's Hospital, Miss Woodhull, of the Woman's and Kindergarten Schools, and Mr. Goddard; it was a very pleasant party. I think it has taken as much of our time to accept invitations for dinners, evenings, excursions and visits since we have been here as it did ordinarily in America; so you see social life is not entirely lacking even in China.

This afternoon I attended the Native Women's Missionary Society. It took eight members, two hours to discuss the disposal of fifty dollars which they had raised in two years with the aid of foreign contributors. I did not stay through the session as I could understand only such of the discussion as filtered through the minds and escaped in occasional remarks of the foreign women present. The society is but two years old, has a membership of thirty, nearly all of whom are comparatively poor women and are doing a good work among their heathen sisters and in the schools. They pledge themselves to go out once or twice a week to do personal missionary work among the women.

We had quite a rest from studying the language the past week, in one visit to Pagoda Anchorage. Willard's three day's trip with Mr. Hubbard was his first experience in "touring" and was the longest we have been separated since our marriage. But I suppose I must become accustomed to his long absences from home as touring is to be an important part of his work.

I am coming to understand enough of this "Baby lovish jargon" to comprehend our washerman's request for starch and blueing and to find the hymns as announced in Chinese; so I think there is a possibility that I may speak the Foochow dialect intelligibly some time.

Miss Newton's school is preparing for the Graduating Exercises of its class of two. She has asked me to assist in the floral decorations which are to be elaborate, I assure you. They are to have a class ode and a parting song composed by the graduates, organ solos and duets by the native teachers and undergraduate pupils, and their diplomas are printed on white silk.

Following close upon the Commencement Exercises of the two schools comes the Chinese New Year which is a time of great festivity. As they reckon time by the moon, their new year begins several days later than ours, - Jan. 26" - it being to day the 9" day of the 12" moon.

I have received but one letter from my home and we were both very glad to hear from you in the letter received to day.

My limited space prevents personal messages, but I send a big bundle of love which may be distributed in Holiday Greetings (perhaps now somewhat passé) and every day remembrances to each and all.

Very Sincerely,

Ellen.

Foochow, China
 Jan 29th '95

Dear Folks

It is a long time since I have written you, not because there was nothing to write but rather because there was too much "going on." Two weeks before last was our Week of Prayer. The three Missions joined in daily meetings. Dwight preached the first Sunday in the English Ch. and during the afternoons of the week meetings were held at the homes of different members of the Missions. I led the meeting Fri. P.M. Subj: - Home and Foreign Missions." The meetings were very interesting, well attended and lasted from 3-4:30 o'clock. One of the Ch. Of Eng. Missionaries preached on the last Sunday and administered the Sacrament after the custom of that Church. Interspersed with the prayer meeting our Mission held a number of business meetings which completely filled the day. Then add to this going away to dinner and having others come to dinner and the time was all occupied. To explain this:- the day that I led the meeting, our Mission held a business meeting at our house from 9 A.M. -1:00 P.M. Well ten persons had to come from the city out here and if they attended the prayer meeting in the P.M. they had to stay to dinner. So the folks at Ponasang invited them to stay for dinner. The courtesy was returned when the meetings were in the city.

Week before last was Commencement week in our schools and colleges. And every day was full two or three times over- if we count the invitations from the Meth. and C. of Eng. Missions. Nearly every day was rainy. I conducted the Field Day exercises for our Banyan City Scientific College on Wed. morning of that week. We had arranged to hold them in our compound in front of our house but the rain drove us under shelter and we had to exercise in Cowan Hall at the College Business meetings demanded very much of our time this week also. One can form no conception of the amount of brain work it takes to manage a Mission like this with the educational and evangelistic work- with too few preachers, too few teachers, too many seeking employment, too many unqualified, a Chinaman is just as ready to accept a lucrative position- even if he does not have to work very hard in it as an American as most of the converts are from the poorer classes and a good living means much to these- they do not look to laying by anything. Our pastors are paid according to their expenses- a man with a large family has more than one with a small family. Then some of the churches help more than others. The largest sum which any pastor receives is $108.00 per year from the mission, he has a large family and is working where there are no church members. We hold a meeting tomorrow morning to consider whether it is best to keep him. He has worked in this village four years and has done nothing. His boys go to our schools and his girls are in our boarding school. They get all the help possible and then skip off where there is more pay or more (to them) desirable employment. Of course they have a right to do so in one sense, but the man seems to be simply scheming to see how he can squeeze another dollar out of the Mission. This is only one case out of many that come. We young fellows are apt to think the older Missionaries rather lenient sometimes. But old heads are generally better for counsel and I prefer to be seen more than heard for a year or so. Well beside the planning connected with our own work alone, we have to take into consideration the methods and fields of the other missions. Most of the country about is definitely apportioned to each of the three missions. But the city and suburbs are undivided and sometimes before one of us knows it he is working in the same locality as another mission then one has to remove himself. To add to the difficulty of our business this year in arranging our mission work, the appropriations asked for were $ 2422.00. We received $840.00. What was to be done? We could not turn off preachers and teachers in this way so we went into our own salaries and have nearly supplied the deficit. Ellen and I gave 1/6 of our appropriation from the Board for this year. But when you know that one dollar in gold which we receive from the U.S. is equal to two of our silver dollars and that one of these silver dollars has as great purchasing power here as one gold dollar in America, we are not so benevolent as would seem at first thought. This is letting you into the inner working of the Mission a little. I hope I have given the true color to the picture. There are so many influences at work, and one part of the work is so vitally connected with every other that it is a very easy matter to give a one sided view of any question pertaining to Mission matters.

A week ago last Saturday all but four boxes of our goods arrived and I have been at work on them since Wed. evening. First I dove into the box which contained the bicycle and wedding presents. Nearly everything came thro in good condition. Some of the spoons or ladles look as if they had breathed a little salt air, and found it rather strong for their lungs. The bicycle arrived in perfect condition and I have been out twice on it. The main street is rather crowded for it, and the paths over the rice fields are too narrow and crooked. Chinese New Years Day, Jan. 26th I rode it thro' the street without difficulty- the people shut up shop on that day- and over in the foreign settlement the roads are very good. I had a ride of about seven miles on a very fine road. After the contents of this box were examined I let the stove loose and we have it at work, and are very much delighted with it, then we opened two boxes of furniture and found a dining table and six chairs, a parlor table, two folding rockers and two folding chairs, rugs lamps etc. So now we have our setting room furnished with our own furniture, our dining room ready for use, and are sleeping under our own clothing but not over our mattresses yet. The beds have not arrived. My desk is finished but it is varnished with Chinese varnish which poisons some people unless it is thoroughly dry. It requires about six weeks to harden. When it is once hard it is like iron. Hot dishes, boiling water etc have no effect on it. Furniture that was varnished 8 or 10 years ago is as good looking now after constant use during all that time. When this desk is in our sitting room, we shall call the room the study, and it will be furnished as completely as we expect to have it. We are taking much pleasure in arranging the articles in our new home and it is a long drawn out pleasure, for the goods come lagging along so. It is nearly two weeks since the other boxes came and the rest have not been heard from since they arrived at Hong Kong. I have bought a Chinese saw, balance and chisel, and have a hammer which I brought from home, and have borrowed a nail puller. The boxes furnish excellent lumber, and I take exercise by pulling out and saving nails, and I have already made a cupboard for oil cans, dust cloths, tools etc and on top the lamps are placed each day and cleaned. I have begun to make an ironing table and must make an ironing board and a bench for the wash tubs. Then we shall need a framework covered with an iron screen or netting for our "pantry." The people here call it a "safe." I shall make the frame for this and there will [be] numerous other articles that we shall need, which I expect to manufacture out of the nails and boxes that come from America. The carpenter or cabinet maker would like to do the work I suppose but I should have to wait his time and pay his price.

A week ago last Saturday was an eventful day for us. Our first goods from home arrived that day and when we went to supper we left our wedding presents and a lot of other nick nacks strewn about the room. We were just about to put them away after supper as the mail from America was announced and we each found a letter from home. It would not be surprising if our eyes were a little blurred as we read them silently and then it was nothing against us if our voices were a little husky as we reread them aloud. Every thing spoke very loudly that night of home and dear ones. But my best of wives is very brave and we have so much to do, with study and arranging the house, etc that homesickness is not allowed to hold the fort for long at a time. Sat. evening:- I have had a very prosperous sore throat for the last two weeks. It has not however kept me from eating or from working most of the time. It has kept me from finishing this letter for I felt so ugly last evening and the evening before that I did not want to write. The throat is better now.

I think you will enjoy a brief account of a Chinese New Year as it has been seen by one of the Yankees for the first time.

Our time is reckoned from the birth of Christ. The Chinese reckon according to the cycle of sixty years, according to the Dynasty, and according to the year of the reigning Emperor. This sixty year cycle was started arbitrarily 2637 B.C. by Hwangti or his minister Yau. The present year would then be the 32nd year of the 76th cycle. The present Dynasty came in in 1644 at the end of the celebrated Ming Dynasty, and is called the Tsing i.e. Pure Dynasty. The rulers are not Chinese but Tartars. One of the first acts of this power was to compel the Chinese to adopt the national Tartar mode of shaving the front of the head and braiding the back hair into a long queue as a sign of submission. This then is the 251st year of the present Dynasty and the 21st year of the Kuang Hsu reign. The Chinese month begins with the new moon. This year the first of the first month or New Years Day came on the 26th of our January. As there are really more than twelve moons in a year, an intercalary month is put in when the calendar needs it. This year we shall have 13 moons. The 5th month ends June 22nd. The next month is called "In 5th" month and ends July 21st. Then begins the 6th month. The next Chinese New Years Day will be toward the middle of February.

With each New Years Day life begins anew for the Chinaman. He is one year older then without reference to the day or month of his birth. A child born in the last month of the year, is a year old at birth, as all children are, and after the next New Years Day is two years old. One of the first signs of the approaching New Year is house-cleaning. Every house must be scrubbed, inside and out. As none of the houses are painted, and as a hole in the roof is the chimney, and as this is the only house cleaning of the year, the appearance of the city and the villages is greatly changed. I thought at first, as I was passing thro' a small village on the plain the other day, that the houses were new, but it was the effect of the recent scrubbing. The shopkeeper tears down his old sign and puts up a new one in the most gorgeous colors he can find. The old candle stick is thrown on the rubbish heap and a new one is bought. The children appear in new garments, and the older ones also to a less extent. The confectionary stands blossom out in sweet meats of fantastic colors. Restaurants and bakeries manufacture their most tempting and indigestible cakes. One of the most popular is made of glutinous rice flour. The cake is about eighteen inches in diameter and about two and one half inches thick, of a dark brown color, rather sweet, but as heavy as flour and water mixed without shortening, and sticks to your teeth like putty. Fire crackers are very numerous at New Years and the air is as full of noise and powder in China, as at Fourth of July in America. Business is very lively for two weeks at the close of the year. The streets are more crowded than in the busiest parts of our largest cities during the Holiday Season. All accounts must be balanced at the end of the year. This makes a general cessation of business at the end of the year and a fresh start again with the ushering in of the New Year. It is a serious time with debtors, for if a man allows a debt to remain over a New Year's Day, his credit is gone. In some respect this is a good custom, a man cannot run in debt for years and then fail with a few millions in his pocket because his business standing is known at the end of each year. The last day of the year, and I had better add the last night also is a very busy time for the man who is hard up and who has debts to collect. He lights his lantern and goes out in quest of the delinquents, and custom allows him to extend the night into New Years Day as far as he can make one candle burn. But so long as he is collecting he must carry this lighted lantern with him. The last night is spent, by those who have settled their accounts, in feasting and drinking. New Years morning dawns and the city is as quiet as a New England village on a Sunday morning. Every shop is closed and the inhabitants are sleeping. About noon the people wake up, and a few stroll out and form into groups by the road side to gamble. No business is done that day and as I passed thro' the street, the city looked deserted. I rode my wheel without difficulty thro' the same streets in which I found difficulty in making my way on foot two days before. On the second day a very few of the poorer shops open, you meet a few men and women carrying burdens, gradually business starts. But as yet it is far from its usual briskness and this is the 9th day of the New Year. The Feast of Lanterns occurring the 15th of the 1st month helps to enliven business at this season. Lanterns of every conceivable shape are made and exposed for sale. Every one is supposed to purchase one. As we pass thro' the streets now we see the purchasers selecting and we meet others carrying home the paper forms. The lanterns are all made of bamboo frames covered with paper. Inside each is a place for a candle. They are all on the same principle as the Chinese lanterns we have at home, only of all shapes- fish, horses with riders, men, women, houses, boats, birds, cows, ornaments etc. Some with a windmill arrangement inside, so that the draught of air caused by the heat of the candle will turn an apparatus on which are arranged figures of men, women, officers on horseback and sedans etc. They are very artistic and quite worth seeing. For the first two weeks of the New Year the women are free to go about. There is little work to do at home, as the house has just been thoroughly cleaned and as the men are not busy. Several groups of six or eight women have visited our houses during the past week. This must be a happy season for the poor women who are kept so secluded at all other times- little better than slaves. The house cleaning is done mostly by women who live in boats on the river. And after New Years Day these boat women- all large footed and strong may be seen with baskets going from house to house asking for gifts of cakes etc this they are allowed to do at no other season of the year.

The chair coolies always demand one half more pay for the first time they carry a foreigner after New Years. The native churches observe the first week of the Chinese year as the week of prayer.

The beginning of the New Year is a holiday season with the Chinese, not a holiday as with us. It effects not only the business among the natives but all business with which a Chinaman is connected. Ships are stranded for days because the Chinese sailors must have a vacation. I saw the books of one of the merchants here this morning and during the last month his business was recorded in about ten lines of one page of the ledger. Ordinarily his business for one month covers ten pages. It will take about five days more for business to assume its normal proportions. The more aristocratic a man is the longer he keeps his shop closed. But I can learn of no unusual religious ceremonies connected with the celebration of this festival season. It is the Chinaman's vacation as the summer weeks are the American's vacation and with this difference. The American can not afford the time to rest completely and all at once, so part of him remains at work in the city while the other part climbs the mountain or wades the shore.

I have written this account thinking you might like to copy it for some of the papers, if you deem it desirable. I would send it direct to the Sentinel or Bee but my time has more demands than I know how to meet, and then I have been using borrowed stamps thus far and do not like to ask for more than are necessary. All our goods have arrived and are unpacked (Wed. Feb. 6th) except the sewing machine. That will come in about another month. The mirror on our bureau was in 1000000's of pieces. This is the only serious breakage. I have had quite a siege putting together ten chairs, a dining table, commode, bureau, bicycle and stove. These all came knocked down and packed closely. We have used only about 215 cu. ft. of the 240 cu. ft. allowed us. And have about $100.00 left with which to purchase furniture here. We ordered a side board 45 in long 41 in high three drawers and two shelves. The back extends 30 in above the top, making it 72 in high. There is a shelf on the back, 18 in from the top of the side board, 12 in wide. Then I ordered a low bureau or rather chest of drawers- 1 drawer 12 in deep one 6 in deep both 45 in long and two drawers 4 ½ in deep 22 in long. Beside these a book case 3 ½ ft long and about 4 ft high the whole will cost $ 24.50 silver. Alas! Alas!! The bicycle and I have parted. The captain of one of the coast steamers came to see it the other day and asked me what I would take. I told him $100.00 silver and he gave it. I could make no practical use of the machine and I thought $100.00 was most too much to have lying about for the sake of a little pleasure once in two weeks or so. The money is on interest at 5%.

I have ordered about $4.00 worth of silver ornaments- scarf pins, ladies hat pins, breast pins and hope to send them home to you some time within six months. These are all of solid silver- in very pretty designs- silver is so cheap here now that I thought I could send them home and if you like you may show them to friends and sell as many as you like.

Well I must close this long drawn out epistle. I hope you will continue to write for each mail. They arrive once in about 10 days. The last mail bro't no letters from America for us.

God is very kind to us as to all His creatures and we leave all our loved ones in His care. Give love to all. Congratulations for all birthdays. I was 30 yesterday.

[These letters, dated February 21, 1895 and March 4, 1895, were written from Foochow, China by Willard and Ellen to the folks at home. Willard preached his first sermon and they had their first meal in their own home. Willard talks about the extravagance but necessity of having Chinese servants and the contrast between the missionary homes to the world outside the compound. Ellen tells about a visit to a Chinese home. Letter from the collection of Virginia Beard Van Andel.]

Foochow, China.

Feb. 21st 1895.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I think the last letter I wrote to you must have left Foochow 'ere this altho the only means of ascertaining would be to go over and ask, for there is no regularity yet in the coast service. I received this morning $5.00 of U.S. stamps and sometime there will [be] another mail start for "the land of the free and the home of the brave." Then too we are getting ready to brave disappointment if another home mail arrives and we find no letters. All these considerations lend an excuse for starting another epistle. Even if the fundamental reason be love for the dear ones. [The following 2-3 sentences were written upside down among the above sentences:]
Mon. A.M. 7:40- I delivered my first address in the Foochow dialect last evening before the Y.P.S.C.E. at Ha puo ga- two sentences, twenty three words. The natives listened with wide open mouths- not exactly aghast- I do not know if they understood but I think they did most of it. Will.

I preached my first sermon a week ago last Sunday. (If I have told this before pardon me. I have written it somewhere but I think not to you.) Mr. Woodin was unable to make the usual tour into his district, and he was unwilling to send me with an interpreter, so the pastor of the church which we attend was delegated to go, and Mr. Woodin expected to preach for him. On Sunday he had the ear ache, and I spoke thro Ming Wung, as fine a young man as I ever saw. He is the same man who translates for me each Sabbath at S.S. Wouldn't we have had a good time in the country together if Mr. Woodin had allowed it! Tell Aunt Louise I should have eaten with this Chinaman and probably slept with him and been his constant companion for ten days, and come out of [it] all whiter than I was after haying a year ago last Summer. Ming Wung is a lovely young man [probably Ding Ming Uong]. He is the second generation of Christians, yes really the third, and the whole family are as nice as our own countrymen. There is one married son, Ming Wung, a little cripple, and little Kau Kau,= (Nine nine), and three nice daughters. The eldest graduated from our Girls School this year and begins to-day as a teacher in the school for a year before she is married. The other two are in the school, the youngest is as bright as a dollar and her eyes snap and her whole face has a roguish a look as you ever see on an American "witch cat".

I wrote that the mirror which came with our furniture was broken to flinders. I attended an auction the other day and paid $7.35 for one to replace it, and as it was too large and there is no instrument here to cut it I must pay $2.00 more to have the frame enlarged. I may feel thankful tho if this is the only extra for breakage on $300.00 of goods coming so far. The fabulous prices which old articles brought at the auction made me think it would almost pay to break up house keeping and seen off once in a while. A half doz. chairs something the style of our dining chairs at home went for about $14.00 and other things in proportion.

We are steadily working toward "getting settled" for housekeeping. The kitchen is in order, but only the stove or rather furnace is there- no spiders that stay where they are put, and such utensils, these must yet be bought. The dining room is all ready- as soon as the side-board arrives, which will be sooner or later. I think we shall be able to keep things running with one man to devote his whole time to cooking our food, and buying it from day to day, and another to help him in setting table and washing dishes, beside doing our washing and ironing and other work. I tell you what missionaries are extravagant on the servant question, but it is surprising to find how indispensable the servants are, and what a means of saving they are. In the first place, it would be poor economy for us to spend our time and strength to do that which a man will do for $4.00 a month and board himself. In the next place, it is impossible for a foreigner to buy in the market for anything like a reasonable price, when his cook will go to the same market and buy meat and eggs etc. at the same cheap rates as other natives. Then it is impossible to buy in quantities as we do at home. Our cook spends about three hours nearly every day going to market. If we had to do this, how much could we do at the work for which we came out? We do no buying from the shops. When we are on the streets we go straight along. If we chance to stop to look at any thing we are immediately smothered with the crowd. Picture Ellen selecting a silk dress with twenty five Chinamen about her and each are near enough to touch her. Or me buying wash tubs under the same circumstances. I tell the servant I want an article and describe its size, shape etc. and show him one like the article I want and he brings it for less money than I could possibly have gotten it. Our furniture we ask the carpenter or cabinet-maker to come to us for orders.

I have arrived at the stage in the study of the language, when I can find out what is said to me, with the help of my teacher who cannot speak or understand a word of English- and a Dictionary. To-day our servant was going to buy a bed and he wanted to go and see it made so that he might not be cheated. Here is what he said to me. "Cing Siong mo ki kang i hek ngai gi pieng neng ga" (Cing Siong not go see he get badly him cheated.)

Cing Siong is the servant name, I would write out the Chinese characters for you but if I should chance to transpose two of them I could not tell the difference and you might laugh at me(?) for showing my ignorance. I have been able to settle with my carpenter, mason and cabinet-maker for two weeks or more. That is I can tell or understand the numerals and am able to distinguish whether an item is for work or material. When my forgetting and ignorance are in prime condition my good wife comes to the rescue and her superior knowledge brings the laugh on me. The other day we were out calling on some of the friends of the Meth. and Ch. of Eng. Missions. Ellen was riding, and one of her coolies asked me what time it was “gui deng cung” and I could not make him out. Ellen told me and then he laughed. Bi Sing Sang could not know, but Pi Sing Sang niong knew [or Bi Sing Sang niong?]. I am known among the natives as Bi. The Sing Sang is the word for teacher, Niong means wife. The Bi is a high head tone and is not exactly like our B, but is a soft unaspirated P. The words for teacher have the same tones and are pronounced naturally. To pronounce Niong you begin with the high pitch and drop. Use the same quality of voice and pronounce the word as you do the “out” when you say sharply to a dog, “get out.” Well if I keep on at this you will know more of the language than I do.

We have just received $5.00 worth of U.S. stamps (postage) from Shanghai. The report is that we will have to pay for them on the gold basis after this. We have the advantage over you thus far, for our stamps cost us only half as much as yours cost you owing to the exchange.

Last Fri. night Mr. Woodin was taken ill. He has not been very strong for over a year and the day before Fri. he had a very hard day's work- helping settle some difficulties among the Chinese. The Dr. says he has a constant low fever, but has no vitality- nothing to build upon. He has been here at work steadily for over ten years now since he came back from America the last time and was sadly in need of a rest, and Mrs. Woodin were planning to go home in the Spring of '96, but this makes it imperative that they go at once, if Mr. Woodin gets better. It will somewhat disarrange our plans and the plans of the whole mission. But it is all for the best. At present Mr. Woodin is a very sick man and the Dr. says very little about him. Well I am either tired or lazy and will bid you good night, to resume when thoughts are more plenty.

Mon. Feb. 25th, 8 P.M. This has been a very full day for us. We decided Sat. that, in view of Mr. Woodin's illness and the consequent addition to Mrs. Woodin's burdens, we must take care of ourselves as soon as possible, and planned to eat supper in our own home. We carried out the plan. And this was the way of it:- Our cook arrived about 12 o'clock to-day. We had previously bought a tea kettle and had ordered some flour, sugar, salt, pepper, vinegar, apricots, figs, plums and corn starch. These goods arrived about 6:00 P.M. to-day. But we ate supper in our own dining room just the same, and here is the menu. Boiled eggs, apple-sauce, bread and butter, cake, peanuts, hot-water, cold-water, salt, pepper, sugar.-SATISFACTION, HAPPINESS. Mrs. Woodin had more bread and butter than she could use, so she gave up a little. Miss Newton happened in a few moments before we sat down and wanted to give some thing, so over came apple sauce, cake and peanuts, the eggs, hot and cold water, sugar, salt and pepper. Our cook or we furnished. This was something like picnicing but we did not trouble Mrs. Woodin, and from small beginnings, often, large engines follow. This may be the case with us, for our cook is an experienced hand and may run us into extravagance.

Birthdays have been lying about numerously of late. Feb 5th, 18th, 24th Father Kinney 25th and Mother only a few days before mine.

Wed. Evening Feb. 27th. We have just read your letters of Jan 6th and 8th. If you take half as much pleasure in receiving our letters as we do in getting one from home, I am sorry I cannot write oftener. I feel sorry every time a steamer leaves for Shanghai without bearing a letter from me to you. It seemed to me before I arrived that there would be plenty of time for letter-writing during the first year, but I have decided that there is never plenty of time for anything, for him who would make the most of life. There is sufficient time to do everything required and to do it well, but I believe it is detrimental to character, and it certainly impairs one's usefulness to live on the principal that time is an inexhaustible quantity. The men and women who today are making the world move and the men and women who have every minute full and a good many duties to perform between the minutes. So I always expect to be too busy to do anything “when I have time.” I must manufacture time by rapidity. This principle is being worked out right here in China now- China lives on the principle that there is time enough. The Chinaman moves only so fast, he swaggers along the street and if a man with a heavy load overtakes him, it is just as well, if he barely escapes being knocked down, as it would have been, had he quickly stepped out of the way as soon as the load approached him. And if- as I have often seen- one of the gentlemen of leisure is suddenly capsized by the force of an approaching sedan or other burden, he growls at the man whose road he persisted in blocking. In her war the same principle is seen. “There's time enough.” But little Japan has no time for anything and the big fat giant whimpers “these little men makes me muchee trouble. Please Christian Nation makee him stop.”-like a big black crow and a little king bird. By the way- Wei Hai Wei is taken, the Chinese fleet is all in the hands of the Japanese, so the fighting will not be on land entirely- I might better write the running away will be on land- There is nothing now to hinder the Japanese from going right to Tien Tsin and to Peking. The ambassadors from China are in Japan, and the last report was that at last they had full authority to negotiate for peace. China is learning that she is not the only schemer. Dr. Smith in speaking of this writes me:- “Coming from Japan, a nation which in itself presents in so striking a way the advantages that come from open-mindedness toward the new light and arts and machinery of the times, the lesson cannot fail to be the deepest possible.” It is hard to see what but overthrow will bring the present government corps under the power of the Gospel. Every official must obtain his office dishonestly, and must be a worshipper of idols- else he is not an officer. It is his business to receive the revenues and expend as little as possible for the people and hoard or appropriate to his own use as much as possible.

Sat. evening March 2nd – This is a kind of piece-meal letter. But it may all the better give you a picture of our life here- it will be more like a diary. Our life is running along smoothly with housekeeping. Ellen tells the cook what she wants for some meals and for the others he prepares what he likes. He is a sharp looking man and an experienced cook. He comes to me with the reputation of being rather quick tempered and able to look out for No. 1. But thus far he has been all that we could desire. We have breakfast at 7:30 A.M. I get up and unlock the door at 6:45. After breakfast we have Chinese prayers. Ellen and I read a verse in turns with the two servants and we sing a hymn, after which the cook who is a member of the church offers prayer closing with the Lord's Prayer nearly all of which we can now repeat. The N.T. and PS and hymns are printed in the Romanized so we can read after a fashion. And each day with our teacher we read over the scripture which we are to read at worship next morning. The teacher does not know the Romanized so he reads the character and we read after him the Romanized. After prayers Ellen sees that the servant fills the lamps and then busies herself with sewing or prinking while I study with one teacher of about two hours when she relieves me of study and I "putter round" till dinner at 1 PM. After dinner we read one half hour, unless we have to go away, and then study till 4:30. And we busy at something till supper at 6:00. After supper we have our family worship soon after which the cook comes up to give Ellen his accounts. He does all the buying. She gives him silver dollars. He exchanges them for brass cash and buys his produce with the cash. One dollar exchanges for 1060 cash. The taking of the accounts consumes some time and is quite a task, for the cook does not speak or understand any English, and we have to find out in some way what he means by what he says. The dictionary helps us and we generally understand perfectly what he has bought, and what each article cost. After he is thro we read or write till we feel like retiring which is early. Since the goods arrived- about the middle of Jan. we have both spent all the spare time and more in putting things to rights and arranging for housekeeping. I have used the few native tools that I have bought to very good advantage, and believe that everything is in order now as far as I can put it in order till more furniture arrives from the cabinet maker.

During the last two weeks the weather has been delightful. We have not had a fire more than half the time- that is not more than half the days. Thurs. afternoon we walked over to the city thro the fields. It was so hot that we had to carry an umbrella to endure the heat. The sun is very hot here and even in the Winter foreigners have to use caution or they are liable to sunstroke. The Winter wheat is just heading out. The rape seed plant is all in blossom- it looks much like our wild radish- grows about two and one half feet high and has a yellow blossom. The fields are very handsome now with this rape seed plant and the wheat all planted in rows. This morning we were up and out in the compound for a walk ten minutes before breakfast. There was a shower last night and the atmosphere was as clear and fresh as a May morning at home. Our rooms are on the South side of the house and our dining the S.E. corner room. It was a very cheerful place this morning with the windows and doors all open, and the sun shining in. And we were a very cheerful pair as we sat down to oranges and bananas for 1st course, eggs on toast for 2nd course, and fried potatoes and gems of whole-wheat flour and coffee to top off. I wish that every young couple might be as happy the first week of housekeeping as we are. If you should suddenly drop down in Foochow and take breakfast dinner or supper with us, I expect you would open your eyes in astonishment and perhaps horror. Everything would be so different from what you had expected. You might accuse us of gross and wicked extravagance, for we have a very good house- not like a Fifth Ave. palace exactly, for our window panes are only 12x14 in. and all the windows are on hinges, instead of in window frames, and very likely you would be able to see outdoors thro some of the cracks around the windows. Our furniture is mostly from Boston. That which we have had made here is just as good. The food which you would find before you would not be wholly rice- This noon you would have had soup, mutton chops, potatoes, boiled rice, peas, beets, oranges, bananas, and hot water- no tea. You could have coffee for breakfast, but never any tea. To find the table arranged as nicely as at home, and a waiter to come at the call of the bell, and clear the table for each course would almost shock you- it did us at first- Then after dinner you write a letter home and instead of going to drop it in the box, you call your servant and send him two miles to the post office. Or you want to borrow a book of paper of one of the missionaries in the city and the servant goes with a note and brings the article. And you make up your mind that the missionary's life is very easy and pleasant. But you have been nowhere yet except in the compound which is divided from the native houses by a high wall, and the gate is watched all day and locked at night. When you go out on the street and are in the turmoil and strife of the busy noisy multitudes, and then go into the dark dirty, close rooms they call homes, or when you go off into the country sixty or seventy miles, and see nobody but Chinamen, and you hear no word but such as the Chinese speak, and live on what you can carry from your home, supplemented by Chinese food, and sleep each night on boards with a blanket over them, and hear nothing from any of your friends during the time you are gone, for at a distance of 20 miles up into the country you are nearly as far away from home as N.Y. is from San Francisco, practically. When you come to get into the work you are ready to change your mind and eat with humble thanks the best food you can find when you are at your own home, and you see it is your duty to reserve all your strength for work which the natives cannot do, and allow them not only to do what you would otherwise have to do, but even to do many things for your comfort that might not under other circumstances be found necessary, and that might be entirely unnecessary. Now in this I have just written out the change which has taken place in my own mind since I left the dear home in the home land- I must leave the rest of this sheet for Ellen.

Most Lovingly your Son and Brother, Will.

Mar. 4" '95

My Dear Father and Mother, Brothers, and Sisters,

Willard has left a little space for me to fill hastily this morning before he goes to the P.O.- We have a most beautiful weather this morning, so like our December morning at home. There was a heavy frost last night and the air is the keenest we have felt in China; it is very bracing and refreshing. It was only three of four days ago that we suffered from the intense heat during a leisurely walk through the fields.

We are nicely settled now at housekeeping as I suppose Willard has already written. Our first meal in our own home alone at our own table was eaten with mingled feelings which made it peculiarly memorable; of course we relished it more than any other meal we have taken since we left our old homes.

I suppose our efforts at conversation with our servants are often ludicrous, from their point of view, but we generally make them understand our wishes.

That I may not repeat anything Willard has written I am going to give briefly a little sketch of a visit which is outside his personal experience.

Miss Newton, the lady in charge of the girls school invited me to go with her to call on some of the pupils during the vacation when they were at their homes. The first place we visited was the home of a wire maker and his shop was the front room of the dwelling, opening upon the street i.e. the entire front of the room was open. This seemed to serve also as the general living room of the family which consisted of man and wife, son and wife, too little sons, a daughter and a "little wife" (a babe of two years) bought to bring up for a wife of the second son.

As this was their only place to receive, we entered and were offered chairs after they had been unloaded of a non-descript lot of stuff and dusted, but we preferred some narrow benches which were at hand. As we were fully exposed to vision from the street, in this guest room, crowds gathered in front of the shop as foreign ladies visiting Chinese ladies, is a curiosity indeed. As this was a poor family we were offered only little cakes but the usual courtesy, along this line, is tea, watermelon seeds, and two or three kinds of cakes. After a few minutes conversation Miss N. asked a little girl of the school who had come in from a neighboring house, to read from the New Testament. This drew the by-standers into the room as thick as they could stand and nearly treading upon our toes. The street too was nearly blocked. Miss N. then took this opportunity to talk to them of the story of Jesus and the salvation he brought to all men if they will accept. They listened open eyed and open-mouthed; for many had probably never heard it before and not more than two or three of the whole company were Christians. When she had finished we worked our way out through the crowd and were followed by a multitude as we went our way to another place to repeat the same scene.

I must leave you here but again will tell you of a visit to a wealthy family.

With love to all,

Your daughter and sister, Ellen.

[Probably March 1895]

[Excerpt from a letter written by Ellen that was probably re-written by Willard's mother, Nancy Nichols Beard.]

Mrs. Beards visit to a wealthy Chinese family.

...have come here to teach these people, is the only thing which can really better the condition of the individual, we may feel that the opportunities for personal work, pressing so thickly upon us, are avenues through which we may indirectly exert our influence, (be it ever so small) to uplift the nation.

Life for the Chinese is so hum-drum; there is so little change from the old ways of generations ago; so little variety, diversion; so little that is inspiring to either body, intellect, or soul; so little of amusement, wit, humor; little that contributes to the happiness of child life; little to interest leisure; little to comfort and brighten old age.

I have often seen in my travels, through the streets, little ones sitting listlessly on the compters[counters?] of the shops, or wallowing with dogs and chickens and pigs on the filthy pavements, with nothing to busy and train hand eye or mind. I have seen aged men and women in their homes, with no other diversion or occupation than smoking the pipe, gossiping with neighbors, or brooding gloomily over their blindness or other afflictions, wondering why the gods should have inflicted so great an evil on so good a person.

I have seen young men and young women, of wealthy families in their homes, who had apparently nothing by way of employment, except the disposal of their leisure which they must accomplish, I fancy, by keeping their numerous servants busy, and by tricking themselves out in their finery and making visits.

As I visited one of these wealthy families with Miss Newton I found much that was interesting to me, and will doubtless be to you.

Entering the outer court of the dwelling, we passed through a door which shut off immediate contact with the street turmoil, as the poorer houses are not. We were ushered into the reception room which was a continuation of the court, and separated from it only by a flight of three stairs, dividing the floor into two parts across the entire width.

On opposite sides of this room were arranged the two tea tables, with a chair on either side, the indispensable furniture of the great room, of all Chinese homes.

Being ladies, however, we were not seated here, but invited to a more private place, - the ladies bedroom. This was small and dark, much of the room being occupied by the large curtained bed, and most of the remainder by high chests of drawers, surmounted by ornaments, idols, bouquets and what not; or by gaily painted and decorated boxes of camphor wood, piled one above another, in which I suppose the gay garments are kept.

The bed is a wooden framed structure, with rattan bottom, on which there is a layer of straw covered with straw matting, to make it warmer. The only cover is made of two thicknesses of bright colored cloth, with a thick layer of cotton between, which is whipped till it is very fluffy. This is rolled up, and with the wooden pillow are pushed to the back side of the bed during the day. The bedstead and pillow are generally painted red, ornamented with gold. The door is closed only by a rattan screen. In such a room we were invited to sit and were accompanied by a host of servants and children one of whom hastened to prepare the pipe for us but was told by our Bible woman that we never use one.

Neither the calmness nor the pride of our entertainers was disturbed when a big rat made an observation tour through the room. (May it not be said to the credit of the guests that none of them lost their self control!) We were told that the entire household numbered about forty souls- counting slaves, servants, their children and all. Two of the young men of the house being advised of our arrival invited us into "a better place."

This proved to be an ampler bedroom of better appointments generally among them being two foreign upholstered chairs and other foreign articles. The servants brought us tea as usual in covered cups, and later served hot milk in covered cups with foreign spoons. This later courtesy was unprecedented in Miss Newton's experience.

The three ladies of the house were out but these two gentlemen entertained us while we waited. They were very intelligent and pretty well informed. They asked many questions regarding America, and the Japan-China war. Yet with all their intelligence and social courtesy, one of the young men did not hesitate to cross the room to where I sat, and bend over me with the most unconcealed curiosity to make a closer examination of my hat, especially the feathers; it was really a marvel to them. My kid gloves have also been a great curiosity; but this man refrained from touching them and asking the price, as so many women have done, yes and men also.

As the ladies did not arrive, we left the house after a call of an hour.

Miss Newton and I received a call from another wealthy family last week. Three ladies, one a graduate of her school, came at about 10.30 A.M. and staid to dinner. When she had exhausted all her powers of entertaining, she brought them to me. You should have seen their costumes. The glory of the rainbow – fades beside them and their heads more...[the rest of the excerpt is missing]

Foochow, China. March, 12th 1895.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It may be a surprise to you to hear that a Missionary's mail is delivered to him on Sunday. But as we were sitting for a few moments between arriving home from S. School, and taking supper last Sunday afternoon, a letter from each home and one from Harvey Lawson, Ellen's cousin in the Marathi mission, Ahmednagar, India came into the room and we opened them at once. Yesterday a letter arrived from Geo. Wilder in North China. Both of these letters were full of joyful news. Wilder stopped for a week in Tientsin before going to Tung Cho. He met Gertrude Stanley, youngest daughter of Missionary Stanley, and a classmate of ours in Oberlin '91. It was love at first sight and the dear old boy succumbed completely. He is no longer his own. Queer isn't it what foolish things strong men will do. I do not know when the wedding will take place. I think perhaps they are so happy they have not yet thought of that event in detail. Of course under the brilliancy of that bright and glowing mass of frizzles which is Gertrude's crown, every thing in China looked lovely to Geo. And he has enjoyed the study of the language, and the meeting with the people and every thing else. Harvey stands on the end of one big toe which only barely rests on this earth. He can scarcely look down so far as to see other common mortals and all because a young lady looked on him for the first time last New Year's day. His letter is full of the word "papa", and "the nicest girl" etc. I'll just wink to myself for a few months. The American Board in Foochow has the promise of a new member to help in the evangelistic work. The arrangements so far are to have the new member board with us. We think that by July we shall have had sufficient experience in dealing with Chinese servants so that we can make the board satisfactory. We shall have more room in a few weeks- or as soon as Mr. and Mrs. Woodin go home. Mr. Woodin does not gain very fast. Both he and Mrs. W. are getting a little discouraged. But the Dr. says he is doing as well as can be expected. They have written to engage passage on the China from Japan May 4th.

My mistake in thinking that the first year or two would be devoted to uninterrupted study of the language is further intensified. Last Wed. these churches were put into my charge. This means have a general oversight of them, pay the Pastors and the chapel keepers, and in a word do all I can for the good of the church, in all its branches of work. Wouldn't you laugh to see one of the Pastors or helpers call on me. He cannot speak or understand a word of English and I an infinitesimal amount of Chinese. Yet the other day- yesterday a fellow who is temporarily teaching a Day School came in for his months pay, and I gave it to him without any help (it was only a small load $2.50) and got everything straight. Of course I knew some of the circumstances and I had seen the young man before. But I'll do no more blowing. I must however say that I have thus far found the study of the language very pleasant. I regret that my time is occupied so much in other business that study is sometimes made a secondary matter. Although the phase may have its bright side= it may guard against my becoming tired of study. Then while I am at other things I am always in positions where I hear the language used, and words are brought to my attention and fixed in memory, when they would not be by just sitting with the teacher. For instance this P.M. I went over to the college to give a lesson in gymnastics. I told the boys to exhale. Mr. Peet said "who". I said "all the boys". "Ok" he said. "That is the word for breath out." That word sticks.

It seems hard to realize that you are having sleighing and skating while we are almost sweltering. To-day has been the hottest day we have seen in China. The windows and doors are all open and have been all day. It is now 9 P.M. and the ther. in our room on the east side of the house, with windows and doors all open, registers 74 degrees, and this is the beginning of Spring! We shall try to get down to Sharp Peak for the Summer early in June. We can study just as well there as here, and it will be cooler- with a sea bath only a few hundred feet below you free of charge- except the climb to get back home. I must learn about a six more characters before going to bed so good night-

Wed. 9:20 P.M. This morning I went over to the Bank. Since Mr. Woodin has been ill, I have done the physical part of treasurer's duties. In less than one week I have had in my hands over 500 silver dollars. You see the bank is two miles distant and not very much frequented by ladies anyway, so the treasurer is kind enough to go to the Bank and draw the money for the unmarried ladies. Three of them chanced to get out of funds lately. At first I used to feel rather shy with 150 or more silver dollars, going thro' the mass of humanity of all descriptions, but I suppose there is not danger whatever much less in a crowded street than in a side street. The weather this morning was very oppressive. I have taken off part of my winter underclothes, and if this temperature keeps up the rest will have to go.

Ellen led the prayer meeting this afternoon, and covered herself with credit- which is nothing to be surprised at. She has set a good standard for the other ladies of the Mission. It is only a very few years since the ladies began to lead these weekly mission prayer-meetings and some of them refuse to do it at all. We see here, among the older missionaries much of that conservatism which characterized the churches at home half a century ago. And it is surprising that we do not see more, when we think that these men and women were transplanted from those churches and have lived here ever since, with only two or three breathing spells. They accept with great readiness the new ideas, and institutions which we younger fry bring out.

Thurs. evening:- Another hot day. This A.M. I attended prayers at Dr. Kinnear's hospital. He meets all of the patients who care to attend at 9 o'clock each morning. Nearly all of the patients who can, attend, and often people from outside stop in. This morning the room was as full as it would hold, nearly 40 present. Some of these students at the Hospital, one was the evangelist and is regularly employed to work among the patients and one was a Ch. of Eng. pastor who had come to consult the Dr. about himself. The account of the demand of Herodias for the head of In. Baptist was read and then the feeding of the 5000 with a little exposition of each by the Dr. and one of the students, then a hymn was sung and prayer offered. After this an invitation was extended to all who wished, to come into the inquiry meeting in an adjoining room. About 23 came in to ask questions and learn about the "Jesus doctrine". I never shall forget the scene. On my right a pastor who has just dropped in to consult the Dr. is talking to a poor old half-blind man and a young man. Both are listening intently. The Dr. tells me that the pastor is saying to them that Confucius and Mencius were sinners as the rest of us, and that they needed the saving power of Jesus as much as we. They did not have any of that power in themselves. How foolish to worship them! Directly in front of me the Evangelist is talking to an old blind man who is almost a Christian and 4 or 5 others, all are listening intently. At the left a medical student of the Dr's. is talking to 5 or 6 more. Now another student enters the room and a corner is found for him, and he has three listeners. A full half hour is spent in this way. The Dr. and I are looking on. But the inpatients must be dressed before clinic at 11 o'clock and it is necessary to stop the inquiry. I speak a few words to all, after another student comes in with about a 10 more men with whom he has been talking in an adjoining room. Then all kneel and prayer is offered. A few more words from the Dr. and the company disperses. Do you realize what this means? That about 40 persons hear the Gospel in some of its parts every day. And that here many of them hear it for the first time, and that these persons would not be at all likely to hear it in any other way. It means more than this. It means that about 25 persons are daily asking questions with a true desire to learn about the Gospel. Do not understand that these are different persons each day, for many come day after day, for weeks and months. It is hard for us to realize the state of mind of a Chinaman who has no idea of God, - who worships the Earth and the heaven and believes in spirits with evil intent only. And whose worship consists in trying to appease the spirits, who plans to have his house situated so that the spirits will not trouble it, and if the situation is bad builds a fence in front so that the spirits will not find the entrance. For this man to turn about and accept the Gospel of Jesus Christ, which has for its beginning and middle and end love – love to God and love to man, - love to God as a king and forgiving and provident Father. And love to man as a brother with a soul, to whom he is under obligation to not only wish him well, but to work for his wellbeing, - for this man to turn about in his career in this way is not a thing of a moment's achievement. No person will read or hear this, who does not know enough to duty, to know that he ought to love God with his whole being. Conversion with him then is a simple act of the will in deciding to choose the right course. With the ignorant heathen it is different. "How shall they believe in him whom they have not heard?" Often- I may say all the time people are refused the privilege of joining the church simply because they do not in the estimation of the missionaries know enough yet about the truth of the Gospel. This doubtless does sometimes try their faith, but their faith is all the stronger for the test. To-day about a fifteen persons came into the city from a village out on the plain on which our missionaries have been working, to ask for entrance into the church. Since I have been here I do not know of one communion in any of the three churches of Foochow City and suburbs, without at least four persons to join the church. But I was speaking more particularly of the work in the Hospital. Dr. Kinnear speaks of a very marked change among the patients, in the manner in which they receive and treat the Gospel. He said that it would have been an utter impossibility two years ago to have gathered thirty persons for reading the Bible and singing and prayer. He says that the patients used daily to dispute and contradict the Christian workers. There were almost no inquiries. Now there is no disputing. The listeners want to hear and they listen thoughtfully. One of the Pastors (Chinese) told Sunday of the changed attitude of the people toward Christians which has been so noticeable by all workers during the past few months, in this way. When any are to now heard talking about putting out the eyes of the foreign children (=missionaries) even the heathen rebuke him by saying- "Why do you speak thus, that is the language of years ago."

I do not know but every time is a time of opportunity and therefore of responsibility, but I cannot help feeling that God is preparing the hearts of men and women in Foochow just now as never before to listen thoughtfully and honestly to the message which his servants are bringing them. And I do not know how to be thankful enough to Him that He has led me to this field. I have reason already to thank Him for the friendship of Chinese young men. It gives me a thrill of joy, and at the same time a sense of my own unworthiness steals in, every time I shake hands with Ming Wung. And there is another boy- Muk li whom I am getting to love very much. I have been teaching him to conduct a class in the Gymnasium for Mr. Peet, and so have become well acquainted with him. The other day I saw some of the fruits of his labors- a young man who is teaching school in one of the villages on the plain outside the city. He is the first Christian in his village and the only one. His father has recently died. This village has boasted that it has no Christians, and this boast was a great barrier against anyone's carrying out for Christ. Moreover it furnished a good excuse for those who had heard the Gospel and whose consciences were not easy. But this young man had the courage to brave it all and now stands alone- a babe in Christ but as yet firm. The villagers are all the more angry with him because he has taken away their boast that there are no Christians in their village. He is enduring much persecution. Won't you pray for him, and for a number of his fellow villagers who want to believe and confess Christ but who as yet have not the courage. And I trust you will all remember the daily work in the Hospital.

Fri. evening:- We had the first thunder storm this morning. The thunder and lightening were just like American thunder and lightening. And the rain much the same. It came down in generous quantities for a few moments. We have had a fire all day, so you see New England is not monopolizing all the sudden changes in weather, - today the house closed up and a fire to keep comfortable.

Mrs. Woodin is anxiously making arrangements to go home. It is rather hard work for her. She has Mr. W. to care for and he is not very easily enter[tained?] and then the Dr. tells them that they must stay in America at least two years and when they speak of the stay they say "if we come back." As they have been here for 10 years a large amount of stuff has collected, and this has to be disposed of, for the house must be occupied by another while they are away. Mrs. W. is selling most of her furniture etc. We have bought all the stores she had, - butter, canned goods, soap, essences etc. and the kitchen utensils and some other furniture amounting to about $40.00. Perhaps you would like to know the course of procedure for a miss'y to leave for home. He goes about his premises and rakes together all his old trash, and then puts in that part of the newer that he does not wish to keep or take with him and puts each article down on a piece of paper with the price he will take for it. Then he sends it around to all the people of the mission. They look it over and mark off the articles they will buy. If anything is left, he may have to leave it or throw or give it away, or he may send it over to the auction rooms.

[The following sentence was written upside down:] If Ben will write me a letter I'll send him a solid silver scarf pin.

I have just run on to the clipping from Aunt Maria [possibly Sarah Maria Shelton Beard, the wife of Willard's Uncle William Thomas Beard] concerning the use of the phonograph for training young missionaries in foreign languages. I forget whether I have expressed my thoughts. But the language is only a part of what we have to learn. It takes some time to become acquainted with and accustomed to the people themselves, and personal contact is here a necessity. Then the young missionary- unless his experience is different from mine will have no moments left unoccupied if he is only willing to work. I doubt if the phonograph entirely supplants the native teacher, just yet.

I was very glad to hear of the church meeting. God must result from such a gathering. It will keep the members alive to what the church is doing, and thus will open their eyes to what the church is not doing but ought to do. And every such gathering will help to make the church members more truly "members of one body" and when we come to realize most fully that we are the different members of Christs body- one the hand another the foot, another only one toe or finger, another an arm, another a mind, etc. All the work according to the direction of the head which is Christ,- each of us obeying that head just as the different parts of our bodies obey our heads,- then we shall realize the fulfillment of the prayer we so often pray "thy Kingdom come." I want to tender my congratulations to Uncle Charlie and Aunt Hannah. They will be fresh even at this late day for it will help to revive the pleasant memories of the anniversary. And people have long ago stopped congratulating them. I payed the poor wheezing Chinaman just as I had agreed with him. I am sorry to hear that Grandfather and Grandmother are not as well as usual, but I hope they are better now.

Flora has written us two nice letters, and we must write her direct sometime. It was a letter from her that reached us first after our arrival at Foochow. I think I have explained the Am. stamps. China has only private local stamps. Japanese stamps were used till the war began. Now we must use U.S. stamps or English stamps in which case our letters would likely go by Eng. Then the Eng stamps cost 10 cents.

I was glad to see a letter from the little brother who used me for a greased pole when I came home from the Seminary, and who used to spoil a clean collar for me every time I came. I wish he could be where he could soil a few of them now. You wonder what I'm living on. Well, pretty good food. This morning we had whole-wheat gems, boiled eggs, white and brown bread, coffee, oranges and bananas. This noon we had soup and duck pie, cracker and 2 kinds of bread and fruit as before. We think it better to eat much fruit and vegetables and less meat, so we each eat one orange and one banana at nearly every meal. Oh I forgot to mention potatoes, peas and boiled rice for dinner beside what I mentioned. I think we are living pretty well, don't you? We have chicken or duck once a week and that means about three meals of it. We get rice, steak and roast and nice corn beef. But we try to have meat only for dinner. We have as great a variety of vegetables as you have at home. We see lots of little pigs here in Foochow. Every time we go out on the streets we have to push them out of our way or go around them.

Mary we set- no, there were several fires set in December, but the rains soon came and since the middle of Jan. there has been no fires that promised to burn thro to the U.S.

I have not had a heartier laugh for a long time than over the word picture of the Episcopal ministers appearance and disappearance. I suppose I had better congratulate all whose birthdays came at or near the arrival of this letter. Tell Father to take care of himself and throw those tablets (brown) of Dr. Randall's into the sound. Lovingly Will.

Apr. 8", '95.

Our Dear Ones at Home,

Your letter dated Feb. 3"-20" reached us on Apr. 4"; and Willard says because it was addressed to me. I must write four sheets and he will put in a note (which by the way is at this moment fast outgrowing the proportions of that name).

I think you must be having a delightfully snowy winter from all accounts; we should appreciate a slice of it here on some days when "nik tan" waxes hot, making us escort to our summer frocks, and the mosquitoes to sally forth in swarms to an evening picnic with genuine picnic appetites. A letter from Mrs. Evans of Shanghai two weeks ago told us they had been having snow for two days and the streets were nearly blocked. It seems strange to think of snow so short a distance north of us, but I think the cold rain and hail we had at that time must have been the fringes of their snow storm. It was amusing on that Sunday afternoon to see the girls in the Boarding School coming home from Sunday School holding up the front part of their gowns to catch the hail stones; it seemed to be a novel experience to them.

When the clouds lifted from the mountain tops on the previous Friday morning a quantity of snow could be seen, but the next day it had all disappeared. So we have seen snow this winter- about the same as seeing it in a picture.

We have recently purchased at Shanghai, a baby-organ which we enjoy very much. It leads the singing every morning at family worship and keeps up our patriotism by rendering "America" two or three times a day.

The 29" of Mar. was my birthday anniversary and Willard was as successful in giving me a surprise as I was in getting my First of April joke on him. Without giving me the slightest suspicion of his purpose, he solicited Miss Newton's assistance to get me away from home about half past five to give him and the cook a chance to work; then he asked the cook to make a birthday cake and get up a supper for three. Miss Newton appeared at the appointed time with an invitation to come over and meet Mrs. Hubbard [Nellie L.]. I went and for the succeeding twenty-five minutes there were lively proceedings at our house, I imagine.

When I started home Miss N. walked along with me and as she did not seem inclined to return I invited her in and she accepted. Until the teabell sung I noticed nothing suspicious except that Willard had filled all the vases and rosejars with fresh flowers and gotten out some extra decoration for the room. But when he asked me if we should invite Miss N. to stay to tea and I entered the dining-room to arrange another sitting at the table, the discoveries I made there revealed the secret. It was a perfect surprise and a very pleasant one.

For two weeks I have been employing a Chinese tailor to do dress-making and plain sewing. His work has been unexpectedly satisfactory considering how imperfectly I can use the language to explain my wishes. But let me tell you what he has accomplished and see if you ever got as much sewing done for five dollars (in silver= 2.50 in gold) in America. He has made two mattress covers, two cases for woolen clothing (to protect from moths) two pillow covers, five summer dresses for myself, fixed over two other dresses and done five or six other odd jobs which would take an hour or more apiece. He does his sewing very well and can copy almost any illustration in a fashion-plate with a few suggestions and a waist pattern. The ladies who are just returning to America have had all their dressmaking, sewing and some millinery done here because it is so much cheaper than in America.

Tonight, Willard starts off at about one o'clock to accompany Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin, and Dr. Kinnear [Hardman N.] who is ill, down the river to the steamer, in a launch which leaves Foochow about 2 o'clock [see photo next page]. The Dr. takes a trip to Shanghai for his health and Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin are on their way, to America. Willard will stop on his way home at Sharp Peak where we are to spend the summer in the Sanitarium and I do not know when he will return.

Well, Stanley, another thing we have to eat now is strawberries. We are having them every night for tea and occasionally a shortcake or strawberry cream for dinner.

Now I have no more room and must close without having said anything about our missionary work or anything else except our own personal affairs; but I'll save all the interesting things along that line for another letter. Very Lovingly Your daughter and sister

Ellen.

Overland travelers must take bedding, clothes, and food in bamboo baskets, carried by coolies. On the rivers and larger creeks these launches carry densely-packed passengers.

Foochow, China, April 8th 1895.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The diary tells me that the last letter set out on its eastward journey nineteen days ago. It does not seem so long. Since that time I have fallen prey to my better half in an easy April Fool. April 1st was the 75th birthday of Dr. C.C. Baldwin of our mission. He has been here in Foochow since 1848- a stay of 47 years. - He wanted to spend this 75th birthday here and then he was ready to return to America. The members of the three Missions gave him and Mrs. Baldwin a surprise on that day. We had a nice little programme of singing, and speaking by some of the little folks and three addresses, by the three oldest members of the mission body. Beside the missionaries, the Consul's brother, Marshall Hixson and his wife, Mrs. Wynde, one of the secretaries of the Meth. Ch. from America, and Mrs. Isabelle Bird Bishop were present. We had our pictures taken, and Ellen and I are going to send one to each of the homes. Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin enjoyed the afternoon immensely. They knew just enough about it, to break the exhausting force of the surprise, and we were at the house only about two hours in all. That evening Mr. Hubbard [George H.] gave a stereopticon entertainment in Miss Newton's school. E and I attended. After the show we were sitting in the parlor and E. looked at my shoes very inquiringly and asked if I had worn them in that way all day. "How?" "Why, the left shoe on the rt. foot." I fell into the trap. But only one other person in the room heard the fall. Ellen has not spoken of it for two days now. I hope she has forgotten it, for it makes a fellow feel so small to be twitted of such a thing.

A week ago last Sat. night we had the rare privilege of hearing Mrs. I. Bird Bishop. I rather think this is the result of coming to China, for I doubt very much if you at home have had the same privilege. She is a very ordinary looking woman medium height, rather stout, about sixty years old, and some gray. When the picture of the birthday party comes you can make up the rest of the description. She spoke on Korea, and was very interesting, tho not an orator. It is very evident that she keeps her eyes wide open while travelling. She has visited Korea twice- once before the war and once since it began. She was wary about prophesying, but said that the Japanese had begun a good reform. The government of Korea was the government of China carried to the limit of corruption. There are two classes of people- one works and the other squeezes. The result is that no one has any enterprise. She illustrated the squeezing process by telling of the building of a telegraph line recently. This actually cost only about one tenth of the money collected from the people. Each collector and officer took a handsome slice as it passed thro his hands. Tigers abound in the land, so that people never go out after dark. Men bury their money in the garden in the absence of banks. The cash- the only medium of exchange is so unwieldy that she actually ballasted her boat with the cash that was necessary for her trip of a few weeks. The women are worse off than here. They never go out in the daytime uncovered, and they must work almost night and day. The Japanese are undermining the squeezing and monetary systems and have assumed control of Seoul (Sool).

[According to the book The Boxer Rebellion by Diana Preston, page 25, Isabella Bird was attacked and nearly burned to death while traveling in 1896 by a crowd in Liang-shan, China. She survived.]

I have no doubt that you are watching the papers and the mails very closely for news concerning the war. It seems to be the prevalent opinion that the seat of war is changing fr. the North to the South. I think it is true that the Pescadore Islands are taken; that Li Hung Chang has gone to Japan; that a fanatic Japanese has shot him under the left eye; that the bullet has been found after much probing; that his son has taken his place on the peace commission; that Japan offers peace on condition. (1) that Korea be independent, (2) that Formosa be given to Japan (3) that 400,000,000 taels (1 tael= about $1.30 silver) be given Japan (4) that a part of the main land be given Japan. In all probability China will agree to the first three conditions. But it is also probable that she will not agree to give up any of the main land. In view of the shooting of Li Hung Chang an armistice of three weeks has been granted by Japan, which will end April 21st, (if it does not before, the Chinese may break the law, and Japan will defend herself). The atmosphere in Foochow is as full of rumors and fears as it is of misquitos. The people saw a great many foreigners going thro the streets last Mon. to Dr. Baldwins and they at once thought that it was connected in some way with the war. The Chinese Christians are very much alarmed- not so much on account of the danger from Japanese soldiers as from Chinese mobs. To-day the Christians are fasting and praying over the matter, and many of them declare that with the report of the first gun they will fly to the mountains. Our cook asked me very curiously the other night if we're going to Sharp Peak- at the mouth of the river- or to the mountains for the summer. He thought Sharp Peak would be nearer the Japanese. Some women called at one of the missionaries houses in the city the other day and wanted to see Miss Chittenden's trunks. They would not believe the words of the missionaries but wanted to see for themselves if the trunks were being packed. These were not Christian women. Those who have charge of the Boarding Schools are in straights. The boys and the girls go out just enough to hear the worst rumors and then come back to the school and tell each other what they hear and the result is chaos. The girls in one of the schools were discussing the way in which they would prefer to be killed the other day. Last evening Miss Newton could not attend church because her girls (about 90) were so excited over the rumors they had heard Sat. P.M. when they visited their homes for an hour or so. If the Christians can only be prevailed upon to keep quiet, and keep their heads I do not think there will be much danger. But they are like so many children ready to believe and fear the worst. They think we will run off as soon as danger threatens, and they think that our Consul will tell us beforehand when the Japs will come,- as if the Japs sent messengers ahead of themselves to notify the people when a battle was to be fought. According to the best reports they will find Foochow an easy prey. The present resident Viceroy is a very old man. His successor has been appointed, but he is sharp enough to be a long time on the way. If he arrives during the war he must pay the soldiers in his province out of the grants made to him, and he prefers to let the present incumbent do this. But the present incumbent does not delight in paying out money any more than the other Chinese officials. He does not care a fig whether the Japs take Foochow or not. He has only a few soldiers with him now. His forts down the river are poorly manned; he has sent all of his goods away, and the Chinese say he has only his pipe and opium bag left. He is not a native of this province, and if he can be relieved of his office soon will be glad. The next officer under him is nearly dead and his deputy is a hot headed rash fellow. This is all from the lips of Consul Hixson and I suppose is reliable.

Tues. night:- The latest rumor is to the effect that peace is declared. You will probably know it before we do if such is the case. The latest papers to-day report Li Hung Chang as doing well.

Dr. Kinnear does not get much better. He has been sick for five days with a bowel trouble. We hope he will be able to go to Shanghai with Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin. They start Fri. The steamer is now in.

The last mail brought the class letter- Hartford Sem. '94- All the boys have written. Abe and Darius are or were in Berlin. Strong in the Maine frontier. Summer still in Minn. Carleton in Ky. among the mountain whites, Bell at Hartford and Brewer in South Glastonbury. Are we not widely scattered? Carleton trots young "Dwight" on his knee in his leisure moments after teaching twenty four classes a day. Bell has accepted a call to preach in the south and is there at work I suppose before this time.

This photo was probably taken at Hartford Seminary between the years of 1891-1894. Willard names the men in the photo on back as: 1= Thomas J. Bell, 2=James A. Solandt, 3=Herbert C. Carleton, 4=Willard L. Beard, 5=Iso Abe, 6=Ozora S. Davis, 7=Frank S. Brewer, 8=F.A. Sumner, 9=J.A. Otis, 10=Dwight Goddard.

The big bundle of Advances arrived all right. If you will continue to send them, I will order them from Chicago for next year. The orders are sent to the Board rooms from the Mission in a lump in time for the Jan. numbers to start. The papers had all been ordered for Foochow before we arrived and I will not bother to order till next Fall. The Putnam Patrol arrives with each mail and is a very welcome guest- especially to Ellen. I wonder if any of the papers- Bee or Sentinels- care for any of my letters. Enough to send the paper to me?

Here is a conundrum for Stanley. I am walking in the main street of Foochow, which is eight feet wide. In front of me is [a] Chinaman- Just here the street is comparatively clear of travelers- I want to pass by this Chinaman. He takes up, with his body and numerous coats four feet of the street. His swagger occupies four feet more. Where am I to pass by him?

These days are full of business for me. In the last letter I think I wrote of a theft from one of the churches in my charge,- well I had to get Mr. Hartwell to help me out of the matter- we arranged it all satisfactorily to everyone. To-day another of the buildings is sagging and must be repaired. Last week I had nine new benches made and put into the other church. This is very pleasant business,- to be compelled to provide more room for those who ask to come to church. But the more one is compelled to use the language the more he can use it. I spoke again Sunday evening with no one to interpret. This time about thirty words. E. and I have both made a nice mistake this week. She thought to give up coffee for breakfast and told the cook to make only half as much, after that morning. At dinner instead of bringing only hot water as usual, he brought on coffee for one, and I laughed at Ellen. I wanted to go over to a lacquer shop and so told the cook I would go with him when he went to buy for the table, as he would have to go to show me the way, but I heard nothing more from him till he called me about noon and told me he had brought the lacquer man to me. I had to send him away as I wanted to go myself and see the articles. I wanted to buy something for Oliver and Grace. We have to send by Mr. and Mrs. Woodin when they go. I found a box which I trust Oliver and Grace will find useful and ornamental in some place in their home. We should have chosen a different article if time had allowed. But this gold lacquer requires two months at least in the making and Mr. and Mrs. Woodin's goods go in about two weeks. We send also the silver articles which I wrote of some time ago. In each will be found the price for which it can be sold, and I will put in the box also the price I paid for it in silver. These articles are all solid silver. I gave out the silver dollars for some of them. If you or any friends want more like them I can have them made, if silver remains low. If it jumps up no six[?].

Next Sunday Ming Uong and I are to try an experiment of a S.S. Easter concert at the Ha buo church. We practice a little last Sunday. You might have laughed at some of the responsive reading and at some of the singing, but the boys and others did the best they could. One little fellow yells so both in singing and reading that he grows poor over it. You know the Chinese study aloud and recite with backs to teacher. Their vocal chords are well developed.

The latest news from the Boston office was that a mistake had been made in our appropriations and we must find $460.00 more somewhere. You remember I wrote that it required $2422.00 to carry on the work one year. The Board sent out $840.97. But thro some misunderstanding we (the parent Board) had to pay over to the Woman's Board work, from last year's acc't about $625.00. Add to this $460.00 and you see the appropriation is - $245.00. It looks rather dubious but it will never do for God's servants to distrust Him. I believe the funds will come from some direction just as much as I believe God is to be revered in the whole Empire of China. And if I did not believe that I would start for home next Fri. with Dr. Baldwin. By way of Heaven it is only a step to all the dear ones in Conn. Ellen and I are very happy. The Father is very good. Lovingly Will.

This is the last page of the letter. I wish I could get a letter from Aunt Louise [Willard's mother's sister, Louise Nichols]. I used to enjoy her letters so much when in Oberlin and in Hartford. But I know her principle is not to write till the gentleman has written to her. I wish she would lay aside her scruples since this is an old married man. If I wrote to her I should feel as if it ought to go all around as these home letters do. I spend nearly every evening and some of the daytime at this desk with this pen. Harvey Lawson's letter is over a month old and not answered. Of course you will give Grandfather and grandmother our best wishes. Kiss Aunt L for me, and give her a little of Ellen's love. Tell all the Uncles and Aunts and cousins we think of them often. If Elsie will write to us we'll send a letter for her to read to the mission circle.

Ellen is studying Websters Unabridged. She is specially interested in Proper Names. [Hinting at pregnancy?] We read of thermometers freezing up and of blizzards- but even while we read the mosquitoes are so thick we have to clear the air before we can see clearly and pith hats are a necessity if one would be armed against sun stroke.

Lovingly, Will

[This letter dated April 16, 1895 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. He talks about the preparations of getting Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin to their steamer for their trip back to the U.S. Mr. and Mrs. Woodin left for Shanghai to go back to the U.S. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China, April, 26' 95.

Dear Folks at Home:-

A great deal has occurred since I wrote last, not only here in the Mission and in our home life, but in the world about us. We have been busy and so have nations.

Of course we have been looking forward to bidding good bye to Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin, ever since we met them in Nov. last. But when the time came, it was a different feeling that came over us, and then too some one had to do a great deal to help them off. This was pretty well divided. One of the ladies helped Mrs. Baldwin in making her outfit; Dr. Kinnear arranged about shipping the goods, etc. When they came to start, more help was needed. Owing to the war also, this steamer has to anchor at the mouth of the river, 40 miles from Foochow. It was advertised to start at 4 A.M. April 11th. The launch which transfers passengers from the city to the steamer left the city at the delightful hour of 2:00 A.M. Dr. Kinnear and I had it all planned to go with Dr. and Mrs. B. as far as the steamer, and after seeing them off go up to our Sanitarium, which is only a mile or so from the buoy at which the steamer anchored, and stay till Sat. and return home for Sunday. But what did Dr. Kinnear do but up and get sick, and not want to have the care of two people over 70 years old.- 75 years old- and one sick man on a launch. Nor did they want to go on the launch. So I and they tried to find a house-boat. This is a boat built [for the] purpose to live on, and when a family is moving down the river and have to be on the water over night they always try to have one. There are eight or ten of them on the river. But at this particular time they were all in use and I could not find one for love or money. So it was arranged that we would start from Ponasang at 12 midnight. Mrs. Hubbard at last volunteered to go down the river to be company for Mrs. Baldwin. We all got over to the launch on time and in good condition if it was dead of night. But the launch was packed with Chinamen and inside it, one could not get a breath- so dense was the tobacco smoke. The deck also was full of luggage. But a sampan was hitched on behind and the two ladies and the sick man rode on that, while Dr. Baldwin and I stuck to the bow of the launch. The trip down the river was rather pleasant after all. We reached the steamer a little after daylight- we hung up to a junk and waited a little for the light.- But the steamer was literally swarming with Chinese. Every state-room was full. The Chinese were fleeing from the city- afraid of the attack by the Japs. But Mrs. Hubbard kicked up such a row that Dr. and Mrs. B. were given a stateroom, and Dr. K. had part of the saloon curtained off. After taking a cup of coffee with our patients Mrs. Hubbard and I said good bye, and took a sampan for Sharp Peak, visited the Sanitarium, then took another sampan for Pagoda Anchorage. I staid that night with Dwight. Next morning we came back to Foochow arriving just in time for dinner. Mrs. Hubbard has been up to Foochow for over two weeks, while Mr. H. has been into the country, and while their house at Pagoda Anchorage was being painted. Well, we arrived at Ponasang to find Miss Newton, who is at the head of the Girls School, with 90 girls, ready to break down. Mrs. Hubbard had to step into her place, and Miss Newton went off to visit and rest. She has been resting since, but expects to return and resume her duties Monday April 29th.

I had thought that the box which I wanted to send home was all arranged for, but the first thing that I heard from Mr. Woodin, when I returned from seeing the friends off, was that he could not invoice my box with his. An invoice costs $5.26 silver, and lest the merchants who ship large quantities shall stick together and put all their goods under one name, each man has to say that he has purchased the goods which he invoices. Mr. Woodin did not wish to purchase my box. Miss Chittenden was in the same fix. So I bought her box and had the two invoiced. It took me two whole forenoons to get that invoice where I could leave it for the proper men to sign and finish ready to send. But I was glad of the experience.

Then Mr. and Mrs. Woodin were about ready to start,- waiting for the next steamer to Shanghai. They were able to help themselves off. But as soon as they were off we had to tear up and move into their part of the house,- which we have been doing ever since. To-day we have the last of our effects over, and are partially settled.

Since I wrote you last until yesterday, I have been the only man in the compound- only foreign man. Our cook went home Wed. will return to-morrow. Our coolie has never had any experience in cooking, and Ellen has been into the kitchen a number of times daily. We hope to settle down for a month now. Then we must pull up and go to Sharp Peak for the summer.

Tues. A.M. April 30th.

Your letter arrived yesterday. Congratulations to the big 11 year old- take good care of the pigs. If some of the fallow animals that wander about the streets here could find some kind benefactor with nice wheat middlings, to feed them. They would deem it a God send.

The cards arrived yesterday- just in time, for the S.S.'s are all out of them and the little folks begged hard for them last Sunday.

You will notice in the Miss'y Herald just arrived here an article and picture from the Foochow Mission. [See an example of the Missionary Herald on the last page of 1902.] The young man whose picture you see is a familiar person. He passes our house four or five times each day. He is one of the staunch characters here in the church, and the head man in the large Xn. [Christian] Endeavor of Geu Cio Dong. The young woman read a fine essay at her Graduation last Jan. We heard it. I do not say we understood it.

The hot weather has struck us altho we are standing it very well so far.

Goddard comes in with his servant and teacher each morning to attend prayers. Three of our servants are Christians and they offer prayer in turn. Dwight and I take our turn in English prayer. But always repeat the Cio Gi do Ung -Lord's prayer in concert in Foochow.

A bevy of papers arrived the other day from you and they were very welcome. A thoughtful friend in Putnam has sent us a few copies of Public Opinion.

When does Elizabeth graduate? I thought it was in March. Well I must make this letter short for it must to this A.M. to try and catch the steamer. Ellen has been very well indeed, has suffered from hives some, but otherwise is all right. Before this reaches you we shall be at Sharp Peak. But our address will be the same. I expect to telegraph to Putnam about July 7th and I shall write them to send a dispatch to you immediately upon receiving mine. [Willard is referring to the impending birth of their first child.]

Love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Rest! Peace! Happiness! These three words express the conditions of the Dear One and myself this first Sabbath of Summer months and of our vacation at the sea-shore. Before us stretches the ocean with little islands dotting the horizon in one direction, and the ragged outline of the mountains on the mainland just visible in the other direction. The muddy water of the river gives to the deep blue or green of the sea many varied hues. Just about us on every side are the little hilliest and larger peaks of the island each under cultivation- some to the very top- and each terrassed [terraced] in quarter moon fashion, making the scenery very picturesque. The telegraph station shows clearly only 100 rods away, in its dress of pure white. The Methodist Sanitarium a little nearer and the residence of Mr. S. Pye the telegrapher only 50 rods distant remind us that we are not the only inhabitants of our little world. The birds sing merrily and the sea gently rolls and the waves dash against the rocks just enough to lull us into rest. We have lived again to-day the morning at Block Island last Sept 7th [Willard and Ellen spent their honeymoon on Block Island, located off the coast of Rhode Island.], and with the intervening experiences of practical live-work, are realizing that God has made man and woman helpmeets, and these two possess in themselves all that is necessary with God's love to bring rest and peace and happiness into love.

We left Foochow- Ellen left Thurs. afternoon and I left Fri. afternoon. We had made arrangements to start with goods and servants and teacher Thurs. P.M. I had to go into the city to attend a business meeting of the Mission Thurs. A.M. Ellen was to direct the last of the packing and be ready to start for the boat when I returned from the city. The cook always attends to the carrying of the goods from the house to the boat. He had several coolie loads on the boat when an officer came and said that it must be reserved for the transportation of soldiers that P.M. The goods had to be taken off- altho we had definitely hired the boat and altho there were other boats which the officer could just as well have employed. We received Ellen's note stating the difficulty just as we were sitting down to dinner in the city, and sent Mr. Hubbard's Chinese card and the U.S. Flag over to the boat, but it was of no avail. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard were up from Pagoda Anchorage in their own boat and took Ellen home with them that night. I staid with Dwight and the next morning went over to the river with the cook and procured two smaller boats. The coolies had the goods ready by 4 P.M. and the cook told me to come over myself for the boats did not dare to approach the landing to receive the goods for fear the officer would seal them. My presence would deter him from doing it as I could appeal to the U.S. Consul. This intimidates the Chinese every time. So at last we were off. I reached Mr. Hubbard's about 9 A.M. the next morning yesterday. Ellen and I started down the river reaching Sharp Peak about 11:30 A.M. and were at the Sanitarium eating dinner- cooked dinner- eggs, potatoes, etc. at 2 P.M. It took 39 men to bring all our goods up from the boat. These are paid 60 cash apiece. 55 cash = 5 cents. Now do not imagine that we brought the whole city of Foochow up with us. It is a very steep climb from the water up to the peak on which our Sanitarium stands. Some of the way is so steep that stone steps are made. In one place there must be nearly 200 of these on a stretch, and it was all three men could do to carry Ellen up. I made them stop and rest three times on the road up and helped them up the steepest places. The path, much of the way is built on a very steep side hill and a misstep would take the whole lot of them – Ellen, chair, and men down from 10 to 200 feet. Then we have to bring wood for the weekly washing and coal for cooking and provisions- flour, sugar, etc. for the whole summer. Oh yes! The cook bought 9 chickens also and they were brought down (there are only eight now).

We land at the little village at the North side of the island. I have already described this village in a previous letter. It is stuck in between the hills in a little cove, with about 175 houses. There are no other houses on the island except the Customs telegraph. Three Sanitariums and the native houses in which live the men who take care of the Sanitarium during the winter. These buildings are at the opposite end of the island. I should say that the distance from the village up to our Sanitarium was 1 ½ miles. The road of course is very crooked and the straight line would not be over 1 mile.

We are in the East end of the building- have three small rooms one at the outside- one closet – one for the Amah's room [an amah is a Chinese woman working as a nanny], one for our wash rooms and wardrobes. Next these are three larger rooms- one a dining room, and I sleep in the next room to that and Ellen sleeps in the other. There is a veranda which can be closed in, besides. There are five suites in the sanitarium. There is a veranda which can be closed in, besides. There are five suites in the Sanitarium. The two end suites are as I have described ours. The three middle suites have the three large rooms and a wash room each. The kitchen and servants quarters are about 10 feet from the dining room door. We look from the East windows down on the ocean, some 400 feet below. The beach in which we bathe is a little to the South, and a very steep descent and climb it takes to get a swim.

We are cut off somewhat from food supplies but fish, oysters and milk and eggs and vegetables are plenty.

Wed. P.M. June 5

It has been very cool since we have been here. We wear the thickest clothes we have, and keep the house closed. Mosquitoes are absent and the fleas which were so friendly at Ponasang are not here.

It is nine months ago to-day since we were married. The time has passed very swiftly and has been freighted with blessings that have fallen upon us so thick and fast, that we have had to stop at times to realize that these good things came from the hand of an all wise and provident Heavenly Father- that they were not chance droppings or mere matters that the ordinary course of events brought.

We have both been well all the time and for the past few weeks have had added to the other joys of life the pleasure of anticipation [Ellen is pregnant], which can be understood only by those who have experienced it. Before this arrives it may be that a cable gram will have reached you by way of Putnam. [In a future letter dated October 29, 1942, Ellen says, "Times certainly have changed! People talk much more freely about this matter than they used to when I was young. Then it was more or less of a secret between husband and wife and the wife's mother and sisters, and the Dr. If a woman was "expecting" it was spoken of in whispers just between two women. Now it is common talk in the family "when the baby comes" unless there are young children present, - before the men relatives too."]

It is very good of you mother to copy the letters. I had a feeling before I left home that no small part of my work when in China would be in touch with the progress of God's work in the whole world before she has used the means of growth which God has placed at her disposal. And the church at home does not understand how much her knowledge of and interest in the work in foreign lands has to do with her success at home. I shall feel happy if my letters can increase that knowledge and thereby the interest. I only wish the letters were better and more frequent. But you can do much to help on both these deficiencies both by improving the language and by scattering the information. I am glad that you are copying parts of them. I was anxious that some parts of them might reach more eyes, but could not find time to send separate letters. This copying obviates the difficulty. I shall write the Shelton people in the near future. I had quite a list of such letters to write and am reducing it as fast as possible.

[Letter not finished. Ellen's letter dated June 9, 1895 explains why.]

*[This letter dated June 9, 1895 was written from Pagoda Anchorage by Ellen to her Dear Friends. Pagoda Anchorage, June 9", '95.

My Dear Friends,

We are not wandering Arabs who fold their tents with each sunrising to spread them at its setting, in a different place, altho the several places of residence referred to in this one letter may seem to indicate as much.

It chanced that the adjourned annual business meeting of the Mission, at which Willard ought to be present, was appointed for the Thursday following our migration to Sharp Peak. It was arranged on Mr. Hubbard's offer, that his boat should take us up as far as Pagoda Wednesday eve and that I should stay at Mr. H's to take care of the children and keep house while all the rest went to Foochow. We further planned that I should stay with Mrs. H. for a week while Mr. H. took Willard and Mr. Goddard around through Ing Hok City [about 50 miles up the Min River from Foochow] and several adjacent out stations. This is a field of great possibilities and opportunity but has been only half worked for a number of years on account of the non-residence of missionaries miles north of Foochow, and W. and Mrs. G are looking over the field with the hope of establishing a missionarie's residence there, where one of them expects to reside, and enlarge the work in every way. Mr. Woodin has previously had charge of the work there, visiting the place two or three times a year.

Mrs. Hubbard is in poor health just at present from a low state of the system. She needs a rest very much as the trying summer weather is at hand which will make improvement difficult. They are to spend the coming summer at the mountains.

Our rainy season is nearly over now; it generally ends about the 20th of June after which it is very hot and dry. We have not had as much rain or warm weather this season as usual; but the few days we have already spent at Sharp Peak were very rainy and cool.

This is a very pleasant and restful place, - quite as much so as Sharp Peak as the constant dashing of the waves is not heard here. It hardly seems a typical Sabbath today, however, as I have not been out to church. Last Sabbath (at Sharp Peak) was the first Sunday on which I have not attended at least one service, since I reached China; and I have rarely omitted the second. Willard generally attends three each Sunday.

As he did not have time to finish his letter before leaving, I will complete it by sending his love with mine to all.

Your loving daughter and sister, Ellen.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Another letter arrived last evening from Mother and Phebe. It always makes us feel better to hear from you, and between the two homes, we receive a letter nearly every mail. I am especially thankful for two items of news which this last letter brought. First that Grandfather and Grandmother were so much better and second that Phebe was back in school. And now a little advise my dear sister, - but what is the use of advise after the turkeys are all stolen for this will not reach you till one term is over and a good part of the vacation gone, - but it may help on next years work. When I began the second time in the B.H.S. [Birmingham High School] I started the same as you in the Spring term and got along all right that term but the next Fall I tried to do two days work in 18 hours and then in the other 6 hours get rest enough to do two days work more in the same time. This was distasteful to Mother nature as well as to Mother Beard. Mother Beard used persuasion to no avail but the other Mother came to her assistance and said “stop”, just in time to save me. It does not pay to study after 10 o’clock at night. And if you stop at 9 o’clock and go to bed you will recite all the better the next day. You will be tempted to study late at night unless I am much mistaken. If you yield, it will be only a short time before you become tired and study becomes a burden and you get nervous etc. It requires a struggle to close a book with a lesson half learned and go to bed but it pays. Now another mistake that I made all thro my course of study. I used to study as late as I dared and as hard as I could and then jump into bed as quickly as possible so as to have as much time for rest as possible. But I found only this Summer that this is a poor policy. The brain requires much of the blood to do its work while in action and if one lies down immediately after studying or thinking hard, his blood is all in his head and sleep is out of the question for an hour or more if not longer. I used to get so tired on Sunday that I could not sleep often till midnight and I was troubled in the same way in college at times. I tried last Summer, reading for $\frac{3}{4}$ of an hour before retiring. I looked for a simple story that took no mental effort. If it was funny all the better. It was a short story in an “Advance” or “Independent” and so entirely different from the line of the day’s work that my brain and nerves were quieted and I found no trouble in sleeping as soon as my head touched the pillow. The person who takes a half hour of perfect relaxation before retiring is pretty sure of a good night’s rest. Even if the hour is late he will gain by taking this half hour in which to prepare for rest. Well postage is too costly and time too scarce to authorize further expenditure in cheap advice.

In the last letter I think Ellen told you I had gone for a week’s trip into the country. We had a delightful time. Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Goddard and I. We started June 7th, Friday at 8 A.M. traveled all day by boat. At 4:45 P.M. we reached the rapids and had to exchange our deep boat for an “up river boat”. The ascent from this time was very interesting. Our boat had two men three women and two children. The older a girl of about 10 years. The younger an infant. Here is the process of ascending a rapid: - the stronger man jumps into the water and with a stick, fastened across the bow of the boat, lifts the boat along thro the rushing waters. When the water is a little above his knees, this stick just rests on his neck. The other man is doing the same work at the stern. The water in some places is very shallow and the bottom of the river full of stones. The boat catches on these and the men must lift it off. At times it requires the combined strength of the whole six [these men are called “trackers”] to move the boat up against down-coming water.

[From the collection of Virginia Van Andel.]

Fri. night we reached Gak Liang, and spent the night there. We found a chapel as large as an old fashioned New England dining room. The ceiling was about as high as the ceilings to those rooms used to be. The floor was of dirt, and a pool of water stood a little one of side of the center. In the second story, we found a native stove, a table, a rattan bed bottom on two wooden stools, and some chairs. We carried our own mattresses and bedding. In a very few moments we had the beds ready, and were called to supper. This was a little like picnicking, - a little better for we had hot rice and potatoes, and hot water to drink. Supper over we held a service at which the natives crowded [crowded] in with curiosity to see the little organ which Mr. Hubbard carried with him, and of which old and young never tire. What would they do if they should hear a large pipe organ, or an orchestra? The next morning we started again for Ing Hok, 15 miles up the river. The scenery was very pleasing. The river became narrower, and in places full of rocks. The mountains rose continually on either side in long ranges. The valleys between the ranges extending many miles back from the river. The sides of the mountains were covered with trees and here and there a mountain brook dashed headlong over rocks and this gorges racing with itself on the way to the larger stream at the mountain base. The banks of the river were beautiful by flowers of different kinds, prominent among them were Easter Lilies in full bloom. Very few villages were seen from the boat, and these not large. But we walked two or three miles for a rest, and found the houses stuck in behind the hills all along, so the country was by no means devoid of population. Orchards of Plumb, orange and peach trees were seen wherever the land was level enough for them. The water buffalo was a common sight. We saw several herds of from 9 to 12 feeding under the care of a boy or lying in the water taking their daily bath. The little yellow cow, something like our Jerseys was frequently seen also. In and about Foochow we use the milk of both these animals, but I could not find as they were used for anything except for plowing and for food up the river. At 5 P.M. we landed at the walled city of Ing Hok.

Sunday June 23rd (A whole week has sped since I began. This bringing to our home the little daughter, of whose advent you are doubtless acquainted 'ere I write this. Inclination leads me to break off the Ing Hok trip and tell the weeks experiences now, but I'll stick with my story.)

We were scarcely unpacked when the native helpers came to Mr. Hubbard with a problem. There are here, one theological student who has studied two years, one who has taken the full course and a young man. Ming Uong's brother who has studied medicine and is practicing some, and preaching every other Sunday. The whole region has one ordained Pastor. We found him here at Ing Hok. These helpers said that a church members wife had died. His father is not a Christian. She had a younger brother who was not a Christian. In the hurry of the funeral arrangements the husband asked a friend to order some food for the friends who came in to attend the funeral services. The deceased wife's heathen brother met the friend and told him to buy also some idol paper, very much more food, and to have the Taoist Priests come to perform their incantations. When the husband heard of this he refused not to pay for the idolatrous part of the ceremony. Now what should we do? We all went over to the officials, told him the case and asked him to send and inform the heathen relatives that the Christians would not pay for the idolatrous worship. He was very kind and did as we desired. The approach to the officer was a very interesting part of our trip. Arriving at the Yamen, we pass thro three doors which are open, and which lead into open courts with the quarters of Yamen runners and hangers-on on the side of the courts. At last we came to a little side door where are two door keepers. We must now produce cards. Each of us has his Chinese card and one of the doorkeepers takes these while the other watches us and the crowd that have followed us in. We are asked to walk in. We go thro a dark room with another open court. Here a man asks our business. This explained partially and after a time we are asked further in. This a little dark room with an office. A table stands in the center of the room and everything looks as if a game of gambling had been broken up. We do not find the head officer even here. But this young man is his deputy and has authority to inquire into all cases. If they are not too serious he manages them himself. Our case was listened to by him, and after consulting the head officer he did as we desired. All the time the case was being stated the windows were full of natives who had followed us in and hear all. Nothing can be done in secret here in China. The public is peace maker and police court. Every wrong is told in the street- shouted out at top of the voice, curses called down upon the offender's head, and the neighbors given the details and made the judges. This for petty offenses. The serious crimes go before the officials. I have seen many a fight on the street, which after all was only words. The would be (?) fighters begin with loud words and curses, and finally come to blows. This is the signal for the lookers-on to interfere. The fighters are torn apart, and held, then they become very fierce- they act like mad men. You would think they were ready to tear each others eyes out. But the truth is they know, they are safe, for the neighbors will hold them. Well this publicity is the balance wheel of society, and were it not for the power of money, and official squeezing I should think it might work very well.

But to get back on the subject: -Sat. evening Mr. Hubbard held a service in the chapel at Ing Hok. Sun. he administered the sacrament. In the P.M. we walked up the valley about 4 mi. to hold service at a village but the only one had gone to another place that day. So we sold some tracts- I sold one with Dwight's help- and came back to the city and had another service in the chapel. [Earlier missionaries passed out tracts (religious literature) for free until they realized many were coming to get them just for the paper and not the information on them. Carlson, Ellsworth C. The Foochow Missionaries 1847-1880. Cambridge, MA: East Asian Research, Harvard University, 1974.] Mon. we went up the mountain about 7 miles. It was a delightful trip in all senses. The day was cloudy, and not excessively hot. The scenery was grand. We wound up around one peak after another- most of the way by a mountain stream now shut in with a very narrow vision- now coming out in view of the city below us, and catching glimpses of the river as it felt its way down between the mountains. We were to visit two chapels. The first was Gatau=the head of the divide. Here we saw one Christian whose face I shall remember a long time. It was so buoyant, and he seemed to be so sure of his hope. Mr. Hubbard talked with his neighbors a little. They knew the right, but just like so many people at home said "yes it is a good life, but your neighbors only curse you, and then one can not live up to the standard. If you only do as well as you profess it would be very nice." To which this bright man answered, "Your neighbors curses fall back on himself. A peaceful mind comes from doing the best one knows how." We held a service here with about 25 and went on to Uo-cia, ate lunch with three dear old Christian gentlemen- farmers to bring us tea and hot water and help us in any way possible. We held another service here and then came down to Ing Hok. The mountaineers greatly took my fancy. They are so simple and earnest, and modest. They live in the midst of God's most beautiful handiwork. Nature teaches them in the quiet morning, at hot noon, and with the lengthening shades of fading day. The bird in the tree above their heads and pure water rippling over the stones below them is each unsullied by contact with the world of sin. The whispering breezes from the fir does not think so harshly of the old monks who retired from the wicked world, and the quiet of the mountain solitude, to live out their days in contemplating God.

The mountain sides here are very steep. But, some of them are cultivated to the very peaks. All the terraces. I saw many of these terraces only 4 ft. wide and 3 ft. above each other. They are irrigated by water led thro bamboo troughs from the mountain brooks. How would you like such farming on strips of land 4 ft. wide and 3 rods long- on an average I counted 17 hills of sweet potatoes on one of these terraces the other day.

Mon. night Mr. Hubbard had to go to see the officials again and I conducted the service in the chapel. I did not preach. But I could ask one and another of the Christians if they loved Jesus, or if Jesus loved them, or if Jesus loved all men, and then when they said yes, ask them to tell why. The men in the audience- and the room was packed [and they] were very attentive. Tues. A.M. - At 6 we were descending the river. At 4 P.M. we reached Liong A where was a chapel and where we stopped for the night. Wed. we reached Pagoda Anchorage and found the dear ones all right at 4 P.M.

July 3rd. Another letter arrived from Mother, James and Ruth night before last. I read them to Phebe. She expressed a strong desire to see her Grandparents and uncles and aunts. When I told her of them and their number and how much they would like to see her, she opened her eyes wide. Now you want to hear more of her history than than the brief note I sent to her great grandparents. Well. Ellen was quite well till 12 o'clock midnight June 17. She woke me at 2 A.M. June 18. At 7 A.M. Miss Phebe greeted us with a lusty yell. Since then Ellen has been growing strong steadily every day, and Phebe has been growing smart, pretty, good etc. large and fat also. If I had been able to order the whole course of events I would scarcely change a thing. I wrote in the White Hills letter that we had a Dr. and his wife a trained nurse in the same building. The weather has not been excessively hot, and this was just right for we have not been afraid of colds. I have done everything except wash and dress Phebe, and to-day I did that. How she enjoyed it! I put her into a bowl of water and let her kick, - at which occupation she is an adept. I have not touched the language since Phebe arrived but I have done a lot of writing. The Mission have voted to ask money to enlarge one of the churches in my care and to build a Theo. Sem. I shall probably be in charge of this also. I was asked to present these needs to the Board in a letter, and it took all my moments for 12 days. I am also authorized to engage Ming Uong to help me in teaching, and have had to write him two letters. Then last Sunday the Missionaries here on Sharp Peak said that they must have a service and I was at the top of the alphabet so I preached to-day. I have the Mission Prayer meeting. Tomorrow we celebrate and you must not judge too harshly of the character of the Americans if I tell you I am the last resort for the oration. I hope to write a good long letter to Dr. Smith after this work and then get to studying again. - But this is digressing. I am very sorry Dear Mother that a letter does not go home by every steamer, but other duties press so hard that it is a very hard thing to do. I tell Ellen she will have to do a little more in that line when she gets up. She sits up now to have the bed made and to eat. She also can tend Phebe some. But that little darling needs little but enough to eat- of which Ellen has a good supply, - clean dry clothes and a good bed. She is not in arms one hour of the 24. She is awake about 5 hours now, but amuses herself. You see we began at the very first and she never has been walked with at all except as she has been carried from one bed to the other. Why did you all keep so mum about the fire? But we are thankful for the Providence that kept you all safe. This letter is all about myself and my increasing family, but I judge your wishes of my own in making it so. God has been very good to us. I never saw Ellen look so perfectly happy clear thro as when she lies watching her little charge. We have only one wish unsatisfied and that makes the other blessings all the more dear.- We wish, so much, that you could all see your little great granddaughter, granddaughter, great niece, niece, but we must abide the Father's will. Meantime pray that her parents may have wisdom to guide the little life into Christ's love from infancy.

We think of Oliver, and Grace as very happy in their home. Most hearty.

With love Will.

[This letter dated July 28, 1895 was written from Sharp Peak, Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. They are still at Sharp Peak. Willard updates his family on the growth and development of weeks old baby Phebe. He attended a convention on Kuliang of missionaries and other religious men. Willard attended a native church on Sharp Peak. He speaks of an epidemic in Sharp Peak and Foochow which caused many deaths in Canton and Hong Kong the previous summer, but he feels they are safe high up on Sharp Peak in the pure air. He lists others who are staying at Sharp Peak for the summer, also. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Sharp Peak

Foochow, China

July 28th 1895.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The sun and the tide keep on their course and Phebe grows just the same whether study and letter writing is done or not. But too long an interval between letters is sure to bring news of anxious waiting so I'll improve a few minutes now. Phebe is asleep and her mama is preparing to go to the service which is in English this afternoon. Today it is held in the Methodist Sanitarium and the distance is not far, - about five minutes walk. Ellen has not yet been down the hill from our San. but she plays croquet and walks about as she likes, so I am going to let the Amah sit by Phebe while I help Ellen down the hill then. I'll come back and "tend baby", unless she sleeps and lets me write. We do not like to leave the little girl with the amah alone yet. Ellen can not bare to see the amah touch her, so one of us is always at home. Phebe is doing well- growing like a little pig. Her stretching is something prodigious. In the morning about 5 o'clock she begins and as if she had grown so much during the night that her skin had to be stretched out to allow for room. She still sleeps a good deal of the time, tho she begins to think that life does not consist wholly of eating and sleeping. She holds to eating well, and that is the one thing she cannot be cheated on or out of. She has outgrown two shirts and four pairs of socks. It is impossible to keep on a pillow for she is sure to roll off. Today she turned over in bed alone. I am thinking of taking her down to the sea some day and put her in to see if she will swim naturally. I think there is little doubt about it for when she is awake her hands and feet are seldom still. Last night she slept from six o'clock till twelve. Here endeth the first chapter which is all about a little bit a bundle of humanity of only about 10 lbs. weight.

Since I wrote last I have paid a visit to the city and to the mountain where some of the missionaries and other foreigners spend the summer. Mr. Hartwell and Mr. Hubbard held a meeting for Pastors and helpers July 16-18. The Pastors and Preachers and teachers and colporteurs [a seller of religious books or material] and others in the employ of the Mission come together for a kind of convention. Three meetings were held each day. Sermons, prayer meetings, essays- the subj. of one was the advisability of a newspaper for our Christians- Foochow has no such medium of news now,- then the drawing ticket for the men is the fact that at this time they receive their quarterly pay. And this is a bad feature. The men got their money by Thurs. noon. The meetings closed Thurs. evening and one of the best men was to preach that evening. But only six of the brethren were to be found. The rest had gone away to be near the stores where they could buy what they wanted to take back home. I told Mr. Hartwell I should have ended the meetings before rather than have such a slim attendance at the last. But it seems this is not an unusual occurrence, and the older men are used to it. - Wait a bit!!! But another outside feature did more to take away from the real spiritual life of the meeting. This will give you a little idea of the multitudinous demands upon a missionary's time, strength, patience and tact and executive ability. I wrote you of the little difficulty we found at Ing Hok between the Christian and the idolaters. At this meeting in Foochow these difficulties were large and numerous and all the time of Mr. Hartwell and Mr. Hubbard and the ordained pastors was given to these cases, when the meeting was not in session. I did not hear much of the trouble because I could not understand and then I was not present all the time, but I got enough to see Christianity is making... [Unfinished, then jumps to the following:]

Monday.

This is the last page. - I am getting very careless about the order of my pages, but please pardon me. Phebe kept a faithful watch all the time her mother was at service yesterday, but the Amah held her and I wrote till Ellen was seen on her way home. Then I went down the hill to help her up. This was her first time away from the Sanitarium and she stood it all right. Phebe lies on the bed cooing, and beginning to think someone might attend to her.

Next week we are to have daily meetings in English. Sat. evening we got ready for a typhoon but it did not come. A typhoon gives warning at least 24 hrs. beforehand. In this it is better than a cyclone, or a tornado. But it lasts about 3 days and tears roofs off and carries away the sides of houses etc. Our Sanitarium is built with a view to keeping the wind and rain outside when a typhoon comes along. The Eng. San. is in a very exposed place. A few years ago a family was living in one end. A typhoon came along and tore off the roof from the room they were in. They moved. That roof went and on till the last room in the San. happened to hold and they were safe.

Lovingly
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Everything but study is progressing well. I have begun again to study some and find that some of the characters have stuck. I am reviewing the first 6 chaps. of [unreadable word] in the character by myself. My teacher has heard that he has a two weeks old son and wants to go and see him. I could not say no.

I went to the native church yesterday for the first time since Phebe was born. It is in the village at the other end of the island and down on the seashore between two high cliffs, - so high and steep that there are only three or four places where one can go up by means of steps. Of course it is very hot down there and as it is a walk of two miles the foreign attendance is not large. I was alone. But I was glad to count 14 Chinese who came from our homes, - servants, teachers and students who are here studying with some of the missionaries. I pronounced the benediction in the Foochow dialect- the first time here, the second time in all.

While coming home from church I heard that the same or a similar epidemic to the one that caused so many deaths in Canton and Hong Kong last summer, had appeared in Foochow, and in the Sharp Peak village. It has taken away some whole families in Foochow. It appeared down here only a few days ago. I write this because I expect you will read an account of it in the papers and at once think of us. But we are as safe here as you are in America. We are on one of the highest points of the island- about 350 or 400 above the sea- if I have written differently before, take these figures in preference- the air is very pure. A strong sea breeze that makes the mould grow luxuriantly on everything blows nearly all the time. Our shoes have to be cleaned every other day. A mouldy Bible is no proof that it is not read every day. The case to my razor is green every time I take it out. But we bro't down only the few things necessary to live with, so our trouble from mould is slight. The thermometer remains at about 78 degrees, rising to 85 degrees and falling to 75 degrees. But there is a something about the atmosphere that makes one perspire at the least exertion, so that a change of clothes is necessary about every day. During the morning and until 4 P.M. the sun is very hot and very bright so that no one goes out unless necessary. About 4 P.M. you will see different ones going for walks or to make calls or for baths. I have enjoyed the bathing very much. Sat. P.M. 22 were in the water together. It makes a jolly time. But as the path is much of the way steps and all of the way very steep it makes a good climb of 350 or 400 ft. up to our sanitarium.

As the population is now settled for the Summer perhaps you would like the personelle of the island. The foreigners are all in five houses, - three Sanitariums and two private houses. The Eng. Sanitarium has six suites of rooms. There are one family with children, a gentleman and his wife and a single gentleman in this Sanitarium. The name of the single gentleman is Star. The married man's name is Light. So as Ellen says it is always Star-light at this place. There are six suites in the Meth. San. also. Here we find Rev. and Mrs. Wilcox and five children, Rev. and Mrs. Mirror two children, Miss Rouse, Miss Sites, Mrs. Gray (who knows Miss S.) and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hixson brother of Consul Hixson. These last three are visitors. Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear [Ella J.] of whom we have written before have moved into their own house. In what is known as the "telegraph house" there are two English gentlemen- Hill and Pye. In our Sanitarium, we occupy one end suite. In the next two suites are Dr. and Mrs. Whitney and Henry and Mary aged about 16 and 14, and Miss Wiley [Martha S.] a Eng. Lady who is boarding with them till she gets married. Her intended is a young man in the customs and cannot get off till sometime in Aug. to take to himself a wife. Next there is Dr. Bliss, a young man out only a year and a half. He is stationed at Shaowu (Shaowu) the station 250 mi. up the Min river. Next him in the other end suite are Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner [G. Milton and Mary J.] and two small children. If you should call on us you might think we were rather lazy and lived in a narrow world. It is true there is little physical activity. But we are doing quite a little work after all. Mr. Gardner has two theological students who came down from Shaowu [pronounced show-woo with the ow as in how, according to the ABCFM] with him and he has a recitation with them each day. Then they have two Shaowu girls about 14 yrs. of age who have been in Miss Newton's school during the last term. It is so far up to Shaowu- a three weeks journey- that they are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Gardner. These are some care also. Then I consider that I have earned $12.00 a week beside my board as nurse during the last four weeks. And besides I have done a lot of writing that makes me feel good. Ellen needs no care now, indeed. She takes the most of the care of Phebe. So I have been able for three days now to put in about six hours on the language. Each Sunday afternoon we have a service in Eng. and each Wed. afternoon our Mission holds a prayer meeting. Two of the servants are quite athletic and after supper we have a little sport. Even my imperfect efforts and only ordinary strength gives me no little prestige among the Chinese. There are three croquet grounds and a tennis court here so we have a little fun, and in the evening we sometimes have games and social times. About week after next I expect to go up to Foochow to attend a quarterly meeting which Mr. Hartwell and Mr. Hubbard are to hold for the native preachers and helpers.

Week before last I received a friendly letter from a nice little Chinese boy. He is bookseller and chapel keeper at my Ha Puo church and a fine little man. But his letters are knotty things to read. He wrote it the classical character which is no more like the Foochow dialect than English is like French. But my teacher translated it with the dialect and I could make sense out of it. He said he had been on a visit to his home, and had been talking with some of his farmer friends about his religion. One family who kept an incense shop with many idols in it have just thrown away their idols and given up the sale of incense. I hope this young man may study theology under me in the near future.

I think I have told you that I am in a fair way to become Pres. of the Theological Sem. next year. I have written two or three letters to Ming Uong about it, and shall see him when I go up to Foochow. I must, if it is a possibility, obtain him for my helper.

You are in the midst of haying- all at home I expect, except the two sons who have families. I wonder if father and mother feel any bigger with 12 children and a grandchild. There must be a little more room in the old home, - unless the younger ones have grown enough to fill the space. Has Mary reached Ellen's stature yet? They say I must not say "little sisters" when referring to Ruth and Mary, but save that appellation for Phebe. I want to hear from Elizabeth, about her tussles with bread. How much rice does it take for a pudding? Can you make a good pumpkin pie? If Ben won't write me I shall not send him a wedding present. If he will write me in time- at least one year before the event, I'll have something fine made. I suppose Flora writes as often as "school ma'am duties permit. Father ought to honor his first granddaughter with a letter. I enjoyed your letter James very much. I know you are having to work hard. But if you set out to go thro college and then take a professional course afterward you have a good many years of hard work before you and it may be an encouragement to you if I say that the boys who had to work with their hands to help the pocketbook while I was in college are the boys who are being heard from now. The last review brought news from four or five of these poor boys and the news was that they had taken first place or high places in their seminary classes, or had become associate editor on a city paper, had had honorable mention for work done in science while at Harvard or other institutions, had just been called to an important church etc. Of course the names of boys who had money enough, are in this category also, but proportionally the poor boys come out best, and the reason is, it takes hard work with sticktoitiveness to keep at study for 10 years with one purpose in view and the boy who has huge difficulties to surmount at the beginning has already learned a lesson in grit that comes to his aid many a time later. I do not know what college you intend to enter. There is plenty of time to consider anyway. It would be well to take the examinations at Yale and obtain certificates. But before I entered I should think twice. More on this later perhaps.

Letters overweight in foreign mail have to have double postage paid. Aunt Louise put a 2 ct. stamp on her letter. I had to pay 6 cts.-12 cts. in our money to get it. So if my letter was over weight you would have to pay 10 cts. extra- don't tell Aunt L. I'd rather pay twice that than go without her letter. Love to all Will.

The Hua Sang Massacre

Written by Willard L. Beard in Fukien A Study of A Province in China, by the Anti-Cobweb Club, Foochow, Presbyterian Mission Press, Shanghai, 1925.

In the early nineties there grew up in the Kutien district a society called the Vegetarians. By 1895 their numbers had reached 3,000 or 4,000. They seem to have been bandits bent on destroying the power of the officials. In 1895 the missionaries of the Methodist and Church Missionary Society missions in Kutien left for the summer resort at Hua Sang, fifteen miles distant. On the night of July 31, 1895, 2809 men started for Hua Sang; 120 actually reached the place, about six a.m. on August 1st. The Vegetarians burned the houses and killed nine adults and seriously injured two others, and two children died of wounds received during the massacre. All the victims were British except Miss Hartford who was an American. This massacre was not the result of anti-foreign feeling.

The cruel and savage murder of a whole household of English Church missionaries, including the Rev. R. W. Stewart and his family, eleven persons in all, by a fanatical band of Chinese, on Thursday, Aug. 1, at their residence, Wha-sang, near Ku-chen, some days' journey inland from the commercial treaty-port of Foo-chow, is a shocking event to be more precisely related. The victims killed are Mr. Stewart and his wife, formerly of Dublin, with three of their children, Miss Elsie Marshall, daughter of the Vicar of St. John the Evangelist, Blackheath, Miss Flora Stuart, Miss H.E. Saunders and Miss E. M. Saunders from Melbourne, Australia, Miss HESSIE Newcombe, and Miss Gordon, Miss Codrington and several others were severely wounded; two of the children were saved, but hardly anyone in the house escaped without cuts or stabs intended to kill. The attack was made in the night, when they were all in bed; most of the wounds appear to have been made with spears. It is said that the assailants numbered about eighty, and that they were a sworn band connected with a Chinese secret society, widely spread in the province of Fu-kian, and in other southern provinces, which has undertaken to destroy or expel all foreigners. The members of this association can scarcely belong either to the Confucian or to the Buddhist religion, both of which are supremely tolerant; it is more probable that they form a new sect arising in the pagan barbarism of the lower classes, but encouraged, possibly, by conspirators who are men of education, and even by some corrupt official persons, seeking to overthrow the empire, already much shaken, by bringing it into collision with the European Powers. The members of this fanatical league seem to have also taken ascetic vows of abstinence from liquor, opium, tobacco, and flesh-meat; hence they are sometimes called "Vegetarians." It is certain that they do not at all represent the ordinary disposition of the mass of the people, who regard Christian missions, in general, with complete indifference, and whose behaviour to strangers is usually quiet and peaceable.

We have been favoured by the Church Missionary Society with some photographs of Ku-chen, and of the mission premises there, which were the ordinary residence of the Rev. R. W. Stewart, and of the ladies belonging to the Zenana Mission. There are also views of the chapel and summer dwelling of the missionaries at Wha-sang, situated on the hills about six miles from the town of Ku-chen, and the actual scene of the late dreadful massacre. These have been communicated by the Rev. H.C. Knox, Vicar of Sileby, Loughborough.

[This letter dated Sept. 8, 1895 from Sharp Peak, Foochow, China was written by Willard to the Folks at Home. Because of the raging cholera outbreak, the schools are not opening. One doctor estimates that as many as 21,000 have died in a small portion of Foochow. All of the missionaries from the country were called in because of the massacres in Kucheng. Dwight Goddard and Dr. Nieberg are secretly engaged. Willard describes a wedding of Christian natives which he attended. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Sharp Peak- Foochow
Sept. 8th 1895.

Dear Folks at Home:-

You see we are still at Sharp Peak and we expect to stay here until the first of Oct. I can do very little if we go back now, and as for studying I might just as well be here. The cholera is raging quite badly in Foochow and neither Miss Newton's Girl's School nor Mr. Peet's college will open until about Oct. 1st. This will keep all the workers in Foochow at the summer resorts later than usual. All Missionaries who were in the country have been called in, so the whole force of the three missions in Foochow is now at Foochow or at the mountain or here. I say at Foochow because on what we call the South Side the missionaries houses are on quite high ground and entirely separated at some distance from any native houses. It is much cooler here, and some of the missionaries may be found here all summer. Those who have come in from the country at the Consul's call do not know when they can return to take up their work. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and Dr. Bliss from Shaowu 250 miles N.W. have been down since May and expected to start back about Oct. 1st. They may not go this winter. Mr. and Mrs. Walker the other Shaowu workers did not expect to come down this summer. But after the Kucheng trouble the Consul called them in. They arrived a week ago. So we may have a big force in Foochow this winter. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard and their family are to move from the mountain and occupy the two suites next to us here in the Sanitarium next Thursday. Dr. Whitney and his family have gone home to Pagoda Anchorage. Mrs. Hubbard has been far from well all summer. She has been under a Dr.'s care all the time, - has not been confined to her bed, but not able to do anything. She is better now and they hope she will be all right if she takes proper rest.

Perhaps it will do no harm now to write you that Dwight is engaged. Dr. Nieberg is the fortunate one. They told us in May, but we have had to enjoy it in oyster fashion. They have finally told Mr. Peet. And others I find are wondering why he makes so many calls on one particular lady. Her picture is in the Baldwin Reception group which we sent to Putnam, - one photo for the Putnam home, one for the Long Hill home, and one for Grandfather's folks. I will send the tissue paper with the names of the different ones on (may have gone to Putnam) in this letter. But the paper over the picture and the number comes directly over the face of its owner. You will find the name elsewhere on the paper opposite the number.

Phebe grows like a little pig- as her great grandparents would say. I think it would make Uncle Stanley tired to take care of her for half an hour. She is such an active child, kicking all the time while awake. She is beginning to want to jump now, - watches us as we move about the room, laughs and plays and cries. She sleeps perfectly all night. The other night she went to sleep at 8 P.M. and woke at five the next morning as bright as a new silver dollar. She generally takes one lunch during the night. Sometimes I know about it and sometimes I do not. She is becoming somewhat accustomed to lying on the bed, alone, or with one of us to entertain her. She enjoys nothing as much as her bath in the morning and her rubbings at night. She measures 23 inches from tip to toe. Weighs about 12 lbs. But she has no use for the Amah. I am afraid we shall have to turn her off. She does nothing that one of the men could not just as well do, except washing the baby's clothes and tending her a little.

It has been nearly three weeks now since the home mail came. We begin to feel hungry for letters and papers. I have no doubt that the account of the massacre at Kucheng have caused the friends in Conn. many anxious moments, as their thoughts turned toward Foochow. But you have accurate accounts I think and are informed that we are all right because nothing is said about us. The cholera is raging furiously in Foochow. The Dr. forbids the opening of the schools yet. Our Dr. advises that they be not opened till November. One scarcely knows whether it is not more merciful to rejoice with the victims. Many of them are wretched beings simply existing from day to day, - some in houses crowded worse than the N.Y. tenements. Some with no place even sleep, eating and sleeping on the streets, and picking over rubbish heaps to find morsels of food. It is impossible for me to tell anything about the number of deaths from what I have seen. There was a report that 300 were dying in a day. The head physician (foreign) says that there have been 21000 deaths in a small portion of Foochow suburbs.

Sept. 16th Mr. Hubbard and family are in the suite next us. The children are very much interested in Phebe. The Sanitarium is not so lonely. Dr. Bliss and I expect to start for Guliang- the mountain- today. We go to Pagoda Anchorage and spend to-night and go on up tomorrow morning. We will return the latter part of this week.

Mother's letter arrived since I began this. I do not understand why you have to pay extra postage on our letters. I take pains to see that they are not over weight. Ask the Post Master to weigh them and if they do not weigh over ½ ounce they have no right to charge anything.

I suppose you are all scattered again. Flora back at (?) teaching. Phebe and James in Derby High School and Ruth in Shelton. Mary and Stanley at Long Hill University. Elizabeth in the culinary department of Century Farm Industrial Academy. Ben is eating 30 peaches a day, - is the oldest child at home feeling the weight of his responsibility and his increasing years. Evidently both he and father should be taught the art of writing. I have been waiting a long time to hear something about the arrangement of the new barn.

I came very near performing my first marriage ceremony the other day. Mr. Hubbard has charge of the work in Sharp Peak village. A couple wished to be tied. Mr. H. was notified, but had not replied. The evening before, I received a call from a friend of the bridegroom. He asked me if I could do the business, and I consented. I had the ceremony in Chinese character and set up till nearly midnight plugging on it, arose early before b-fast and read it thro 3 or 4 times. The time was 8 A.M. I took an early b-fast and started. I had all the arrangements, had the names of the victims, and was getting anxious when in walked Mr. Hubbard just in time to take all the honor. My invitation came on red paper in a large red envelope. The groom himself came to announce when all was in readiness. Arriving at the house we found one room- dirt floor, board partitions, bare rafters, one table, 4 candles, a tray with tea and cakes on it, two wooden horses for seats for Mr. H. and myself, the bride in a robe of bright red, and a red cloth covering her head. Her mother or an elderly woman stood holding her with both arms about her. When all was in readiness a mat was spread on the dirt, and over that a blanket. The groom stepped on one side. The bride was led onto the other side. The groom wore an official hat, and a thick wadded ulster. A coarse cloth hung on the partition, which he used from time to time to mop off the perspiration. He said very politely "I will". She merely bowed. No one saw her face. While the ceremony was being read they were not near enough to touch one another. The room was about 12 and 14 ft. In it were no less than 75 people and as many more looking on from all directions. These people were dressed as they happened to be at the time. Some had sickles and other tools in their hands. The children had bibs on- no other clothing. Many of the spectators never saw such a ceremony and were much amused. In the afternoon the groom called on me with an invitation to attend the wedding feast. The invitation was verbal accompanied by a blank red paper envelope and paper. A half grown chicken was flying and jumping about the room all during the ceremony.

Sat morning I caused great surprise by donning an old suit and dressing a beef. We have had three small cattle dressed by the Chinese. The skin is not taken off. The natives must have it on or they will not buy the meat. The dressing is done very poorly and I just thought I would show them how. The natives were not a little surprised to see a foreigner working at this.

I must close now to get ready to start.

With love to all
Will.

[The following was written in Ellen's handwriting:]

My Dear Uncle Ben and all the rest:-

Papa said I might put on the P.S. so I'm going to fill the rest of this page. Papa has been gone almost a week and I shall be glad when he gets home; he's coming next Tuesday and what do you suppose he'll say when he sees my first tooth through for mama says it's really almost through. Mary and Henry Whitney are staying with us while papa is away but they go home tomorrow. There was a little boy missionary come to Mr. Peet's home just a week ago but I have not seen him as he is at the mountain; probably papa will, before he comes home. Love to you all. Phebe

Sunday.

We have had typhoon weather ever since the day Willard left home, so that the houseboat has not been able to run; consequently this letter has been delayed a week. It has come off clear and cool today with the mercury at 74 degrees. Ellen.

Foochow- Nov. 10th 1895.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I have half an hour before church service to jot down a few scattered thoughts. The Annual Meeting of the Mission began last Tuesday evening, and of course there has been no time for anything else since. It closes next Tuesday. All the pastors and preachers and colporteurs, and teachers and others in Christian work under the supervision of the Mission are in Foochow in attendance. I think altogether too much time has been given to the examination of Bible students, in which only the examiners and the students were interested, and to detailed reports of the years work. One Missionary took half an hour to tell what books the children in a few Day schools in his care were reading. And this when the next topic was "Self-support in the native churches". The same man the next day was reading a paper on "Dangerous Habits" and was telling about the manufacture of wine in different countries. He asked how long he had been talking. I insolently spoke up and said "25 minutes". It had the effect of shortening his speech a little but Mr. Hartwell was cut out of a talk and the delegates from the Meth. and English missions were limited to 5 minutes. But this straw will never do for a missionary any more than for another person. It is a very natural and a very easy thing to criticize, in my position- a new comer and mostly an observer. - Then beside the men who saw the beginning of the work here in Foochow is still here and the leader because he has been here the longest of any one. The work has grown and developed. Mr. Hartwell has also grown but he has not kept pace with the new methods at home. The introduction of a little more "hustle" and the eradication of stereotyped forms would be a great benefit to the meetings. And altho the Chinese do not realize this so as to perceive what is the matter. Yet they are very quick to perceive when the change is made from the old ruts into new paths, and they are also quick to respond.

Another hindrance to the best results from our Annual Meeting is the lack of any suitable place in which to hold it. No church will accommodate the gatherings and thus all meetings are held in two different churches two miles apart. When we all come together some can't come together for lack of room. But we have just purchased a building and lot adjoining the church here near me and I trust in His own best time, God will provide the means for the enlargement of the church building.

7:45 P.M. I am at home this evening, have just put Phebe to bed. She is a darling little treasure, happy all day long- if her food comes regularly. She did not like the first amah any better than her parents did, and frequently she expressed her dislike in no gentle strains. We have a new one and I am sometimes afraid that we shall leave the little girl too much to her care. I think she takes just as good care of her as we do and the little one is very good with her. Thus far we have not asked the amah to have the care of her after we have furnished supper unless we are out of the house. The little bird wakes about day light and coos for $\frac{3}{4}$ of an hour. Then she wants to get up. I am generally ready by that time to take her to the amah. After our breakfast her mama puts her in a large tin bath tub and she kicks and crows and generally gets good and tired so she takes a nap after the bath. She does not sleep much during the day now. She is out of doors quite a good time in pleasant weather- and when the sun is not too hot. She has just purchased a carriage \$5.50 in which she takes a ride two or three times a day. After tea she is dressed for bed and that is the signal for a frolic. She has the privilege of jumping and cooing and laughing with papa and mama for a hour. And I wish you could see her improve the privilege. She bounds up like a rubber ball, and we have to hold her tight or she will jump away from us. It is her special delight to have her mama hold her, so that she can jump and her papa sit near and read or do something from which he can look up and talk with her. She expresses her delight in this by the most extravagant smiles. Last Wed. night she fell out of bed. I heard her wake about 4 A.M. and after kicking and wiggling for a few minutes she began to talk to herself. I was dosing when I heard a thump and then a yell. I jumped out of my bed and went over to find her the misquito netting was so tucked in that it broke her fall and sent her under the bed. She struck flat on her nose. Her mother lit the lamp and at the sight of the light the tears dried and the noise stopped.

We entertained about 30 Chinese Christians the other evening. They arrived half an hour before we expected them. We had asked Mr. Gardner to show them stereopticon views and Mr. Walker to come over to talk with them and act as interpreter. But there was half an hour and I was in a straight. Ellen was busy and I could talk but little. I took our daughter and if you could have seen the way in which she entertained that room full of Chinese, you would have been doubly proud of your descendants. She acted as if she understood the situation and put on her sweetest smiles and threw them out to all alike with no partiality. It pleased the men very much to have the little foreigner take so much notice of them. I think she must be a true missionary.

Dr. Bartow has written from Japan that it is probable that he will visit China before returning to the States.

Last Thursday morning at 9:04 o'clock five more Kutien murderers were beheaded here at Foochow. They were brought down some time ago, but had to be reexamined and identified by the Consuls. Four of these were the leaders in the massacre. One of them carried the flag and shouted "Kill outright". Another was the instigator of the plot. The fifth man did not go to Hua-sang at all and advised the others not to go. He wanted to plunder and said the missionaries had little money or valuables. He advised attacking the officers Yamen at Kucheng. So his case was entirely in the hands of Chinese. The execution took place on the parade ground just outside the city wall. Dr. Kinnear and Mr. Peet attended. Dr. took 10 pictures- snapped all the time from the time the prisoners were brought to the place until the business was all over. He said the Chinese Prefect was very kind to him and kept the crowd away so that he could work his instrument. He estimated that not less than 10,000 people were on the grounds- 22 foreigners were there 22 at least- many of the Chinese officials were there. I attended the meeting that morning at Giu eio dong. On the way home, I walk on the street about 30 rods. I met the Eng. Consul, Dr. Gregory (M.E. Mission), the executioner carrying his sword and followed by an excited crowd and two other foreigners. I started from my home immediately with Dr. Kinnear- just as soon as he arrived from the execution, to go over to the river. All along the street the one topic of conversation was the execution and frequently the natives "that man was there and took pictures". We heard this four miles from the parade grounds. This shows that the event was thoroughly known. That the people know that foreigners are not incapable or afraid to punish the evil doers. There has existed an idea in the minds of the natives that missionaries especially were what we term chicken-hearted. That they could injure them with impunity. This event I think must do much to disabuse their minds of the illusion. The reports about the executions have been very confused. I was at the consulate Wed. and the following is the official number. At Kucheng the first time 14. Second time 7. At Foochow 5. - 26 in all. But in my mind it is not that this number has been beheaded. That should cause us to rejoice, but that a just court has been held and that guilty men have been executed. The Chinese have a way of offering to kill any number at a time like this. But they take no pains to find the guilty ones. Indeed they pick up coolies and beggars, any worthless friendless fellow, and he head counts one. But Consul Hixson insisted on a fair trial. He found by cross examination one of the men whom the Chinese wished convicted was a professional beggar. Under torture such a man would confess or say that he was one of the guilty party. On the other side the Chinese let a number of the prisoners go after the first examinations. Consul Hixson demanded they be brought back. One of these men was guilty and thro him they got the names of 25 more implicated in the business. The precedent has been established that a foreign government can demand and receive due recognition- in the settlement of such cases, and that a foreign government can also compel a fair examination of the prisoners. Now let Christian governments follow the good precedent and never be satisfied with a few dollars and a few beggars heads.

I forgot to tell of my latest achievement which was the attempt to read a 15 minute paper in the Foochow dialect at the meeting Friday morning. I was able to make the men understand enough so that there was a very lively discussion afterwards for nearly half an hour. I wrote on "Ken Laung Sing-ta Giong Caung Cai U Lieng-lik"= The necessity of proper exercise for the preservation of health. Of course it was only an attempt. The pronunciation was very faulty. But I consider it some encouragement that I could make the natives understand most of it. I wrote it in English and Miss Newton translated it for me. So only the reading was mine.

Will you send me the receipt [recipe] for making communion wine. I think you father make a lot of it and bottle it so that it keeps all the year. We are troubled here to get anything good. Grape jelly dissolved makes a substitute but a poor one. We have nice grapes in August and Sept. and if I can get the receipt and your method of bottling I will put up some next year.

Before this reaches you another thanksgiving will have passed. God has preserved us another year and given us blessings too numerous to mention. Let us always remember Him as our Provider, Protector, and Father.

Love to every one of the dear ones is sent by Ellen and Will.

I shall send Phebe's photo in a sermon by Mr. Walker which you will like to read, and lend to Mr. Park and Mr. Kenneston and Mr. White.

[This letter dated Nov. 28, 1895 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to his Dear Ones at Home. Foochow, China,
Nov. 28th 1895

My Dear Ones at Home:-

A year has passed since we began work in Foochow for a Missionary begins his work the moment he lands in the place where he is to labor. The time has been very short, because each day has been full of duties. Of course the study of the language never lets up. One is continually on the alert for a new word or phrase and when one recognizes a sentence it so rejoices him that his senses are all alive. He hangs it up on a peg in his memory box, sure that it will remain right where he has put it, and sure that he can go at it at a moments notice. In a day or two he wants to use it or perchance he hears it again, and lo' it has slipped off the peg and lies in a heap with the common lot of jabber, and he must haul the pile over till he finds it. Only repeated use serves to find where it is found when wanted.

Perhaps I am a trifle disappointed in the progress I have made in the language. To be sure I can make myself understood to some extent, but I know the idioms which I use are very laughable to one who knows the genius of the language. But this disappointment is partially compensated by a greater knowledge of the work and the field than I had hoped to gain in one year. It is further compensated by the thought that I have really done some work which the older and over worked missionaries would have had to do. The Annual Meeting which closed Nov. 12th with a Grand Y.P.S.C.E. [Young Persons Society of Christian Endeavors] Rally was a great help in learning the field and work. All the helpers both men and women were in attendance and each had something to do, so that we saw each one and knew where he was working, and also heard something about him.

The experienced missionaries agreed that this was by far the best Annual Meeting that the Mission has ever held. The reports showed great progress in some fields and little in other fields. But on the whole the progress has been greater than in former years. There are several villages calling for pastors- one in which there are 37 church members- but there are no pastors. And the only available man to place at the head of a theological class is my own poor, weak self-made weaker by the ignorance of the language. But in God's plan there is time enough for all things, and He will bring all things to pass in His own best time. I have written many letters during the past few months mentioning the need both of the enlargement of the first church of which I have charge and of the need of a building for a Theological Seminary. We pray for these objects daily. This morning I found this verse in Micah 7:7. "I will look unto the Lord; I will wait for the God of my salvation; my God will hear me". I am afraid if we men had our own way the world would get to whirling so fast it would fly in pieces. WAIT. But to-day is Thanksgiving Day. Don't think I am going to enumerate the things for which thanks should be offered, - for it would be an enumeration of all my experiences. If I live up to the thoughts which I gave in my Sunday's Sermon on the U.S. Concord I must be thankful for bitter as well as happy experiences, for God intends them all for our development into well rounded Christian characters. We have both been well all the time. The news from home has been good news. God has protected us here from any danger, and has continually surrounded us with the kindest of friends, who have been always very thoughtful and helpful. Above all of these he has given us the best little cherub to brighten our home that we have ever seen. She is becoming daily more interesting, and as she grows older of course her personality is stronger. I think that she naturally has a very pleasant, happy disposition. She cries very little and is always ready to smile. Even when Mama or Papa speak to her from the other side of the room. And in the evening after her clumsy fettering day clothes are off and she feels free in a little flannel night gown she is ready to jump and kick and laugh in Mama's lap or roll and tumble on the floor with Papa. They tell me that I'll make a tom-boy of her. But if she only preserves a strong healthy body, develops a sound mind, and has a hopeful happy spirit that seeks to do good and above all tries to live a Christ life I will take all the risks of the tom-boy phantom. Thus far she is exceptionally healthy and happy. Her blue eyes are still blue. Her bald head is beginning to look streaked with a little hair. The day she was 5 months old she weighed 16 ¼ pounds with no clothing. Mother Kinney wants her picture at 8 months to put beside baby's mother's taken at the same age. Before this reaches you, you will have seen her photo at 4 months old.

Sat. Nov. 30th. It is too bad after what I have written about Phebe to have to say that she has a hard cold. But this morning she seems better.

Last Sunday we all three spent with Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard at Pagoda Anchorage. We started from home at 7:30 Sat. morning so as to catch the tide down. It was a sail of three hours. In the afternoon we visited some potteries. The process of making the earthen jars out of the mud that is dug up near the river is very interesting. The large jars that hold half a barrel or more are made by sticking one layer after another of the mud on, and squeezing it into the proper thickness and shape. The men become very expert at the trade. The jars are put aside and allowed to dry after which they are baked. A long flume, partly under ground, on a side-hill is filled with the dried jars. In the side of the flume, once in 8 ft. or so, is a hole into which dried brush and grass is stuffed and fired. The flume being on the side-hill with an opening at the lower end. There is a tremendous draft and the heat is all kept in by the thick walls of the flume. The smaller jars are made on revolving wheels which are set in motion by the foot of the workman. One of these men was very proud to have us look at his dexterous motions and said that he had many designs of different forms of jars in his stomach. This is the ordinary way of saying "in his head" in English. Sunday morning I preached on the U.S. Gunboat "Concord". The Captain, 1st Lieut. and two other officers were present and about 40 of the men. The whole audience gave the closest attention and several stopped to speak a few words with us after the service. A Y.P.S.C.E. society of 4 members floats on the river and goes from place to place. These four men are the only Christians so far as I know on board. The Captain asked us to come over Mon. A.M. and see the men drill and look over the boat. Mrs. Hubbard, Ellen and I went. Mon. P.M. we returned to Ponasang.

Wed. P.M. the weekly prayermeeting of the Mission was held at the Kate E. Woodhull's in the city. Dwight and Dr. Nieberg had arranged two weeks previously to be married immediately after the meeting. E. and I were the only parties informed, and we were hermetically sealed. The Consul had to be present so as late as possible he was asked. He arrived when the meeting was about half over. He did not know about any prayer meeting. And when the hymn "Rescue the perishing" was given out soon after he sat down, he was at a loss what to make of it thinking that hymn hardly appropriate for a wedding gathering. The officiating clergyman never performed the task before, but he succeeded in tying the knot so that all were satisfied. Most of the party were completely surprised. The Mission had been calculating on a Christmas wedding, and not even the Consul's appearance caused some to suspect. A collation was served, while Mr. Peet and I sowed the apartment of the newly wedded couple with China's staff of life. And a few toasts were given one to the bride- one to the groom and one each to the next Foochow bride and groom.

Thanksgiving evening all the Americans in Foochow were invited to a 7 o'clock dinner at the Consulate. It took about 2 ½ hours to eat. Then a few toasts and music and we arrived home a little after 1 A.M. next day.

The cholera is still present all about us. In August it was specially bad near Ponasang. Then it abated here and was bad in other regions. One of Mr. Gardner's servants died in our house Nov. 11th and Dr. Bliss' servant has been sick for over a week now. This is a good sign as a man is not likely to live more than three or four days after he is taken unless he is going to get well. One of the chair bearer's who carried Ellen over to the Consulate Thanksgiving evening was taken while there and was unable to carry her back home. He died next morning. This I know would seem very dangerous to me if I were at home and heard such news from a friend on the opposite side of the globe. But in China one simply must become accustomed to living in the midst of all sorts of disease and death. Trusting in the protection of an Almighty Hand to shield him. There is no danger from cholera if everything eaten is boiled, as boiling destroys the germs and the only way to catch the disease is to take the germs into the stomach.

Mon. morning Dec. 2nd. To day is the 54th anniversary of Grandfather's and Grandmother's wedding. Please give them the heartiest congratulations from their great-granddaughter- from their eldest grandson and eldest granddaughter.

Phebe is almost herself this morning. She slept all right last night and awoke with a smile this morning. The amah has gone home for two days so Phebe will have the care of her mother and father for a little time. The cook went home to see a sick relative more than a week ago. He sent a substitute. Sat. evening the cook returned sick. The substitute was taken sick at the same time. So with two cooks we have none. The coolie however is very anxious to learn the cook trade and he is willing to do his own and the coolies work for a little time.

I have not written much about the Y.P.S.C.E. Rally because I hope you will see an account of it either in the Golden Rule, Miss'y Herald or Advance. To all three of which I have sent a report and to the first two a photo of the gathering. I have sent to Father Kinney some photos and marked some of them for you.

Please tell Aunt Louise that the Advances have been very acceptable this year. But during 1896 we shall receive a copy each week from the office, so she need not send them. Tell her she might write some letters instead, to me.

Have I written that Mr. and Mrs. Gardner have another son the third. He arrived Nov. 13th 5:30 A.M. and is getting up good vocal muscles. Mrs. Gardner is doing well.

I want to hear from the school goers and the school teacher and the home stayers. Love to all from the three of us.

Although Willard and Ellen never mentioned it in their letters, many of the missionaries throughout China were called "Foreign Devils" by the Chinese.

From a letter in the collection of Virginia Van Andel, dated November 15, 1940, written by Catherine Hsueh (wife of Donald Hsueh, President of Foochow College at the time), we read an account of her trip up the Ingtai (Ing Hok) River and the difficulties of negotiating the river rapids:

"By this time perhaps you have received my last letter telling about our safe arrival in Foochow. Now we are at Ingtai, an interior place where Foochow College is, about thirty-five miles from Foochow City. The trip from Foochow to Ingtai was harder than the one from America to Shanghai.

Ingtai river is very narrow and has more than twenty rapids on the way between Ingtai and Foochow. When the boat came to a rapid the four boatmen jumped into the water, one man at each end of the boat to push it up and the other two men to pull on a long bamboo rope tied to the mast. It required a skilful man to handle the long oar at the end of the boat. One of the boats in which we had put some baggage crashed against the rocks in the rapids and was wrecked and all the games which our American friends gave to our children were lost and some of our clothes spoiled. Fortunately we had put most of our baggage in the boat on which we were."

FIRST LESSON IN CHINESE

One man has two hands. "One" is a single horizontal stroke to the left; "two" is two strokes and so on. Take a look at the character for "man."

一	one
人	man
二	(has)
手	two hands

It looks like a man. It has a body and two legs. "Hand" too, looks like a hand with its fingers. The word "has" is not written in the sentence.

Foochow Jan. 13th 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Since I wrote you two letters have arrived from you and one from Ellen's home. I have only a moment now then must attend a business meeting of the Mission to plan for this year's work. I trust you will pardon the careless way in which I have answered your letters. I have been so taken up with the things about me when writing, and the thought that you would like best to hear all about the home here and the work in which we're engaged, has been so prominent in my mind while writing that I have neglected to look and see if all the questions in your letters were answered. We did receive the letters and the pictures referred to in your last letter. In fact I may as well make a universal statement and say that as we read the letters Sat evening we had to admit that everything which you referred to as sent and not acknowledged had been received.

The mail before last brought a note from Mrs. J. D. Philbrick and a package of cards from her. I suppose she lives in Mass. East Andover was the only address at the head of her letter. She is Mr. Keneston's Mother-in-law. If you think of it when you see him you might ask him if I sent to the right place, and if he can write to East Andover, Mass. and have the letter forwarded. It pleased me to read of the interest in my letters shown by the people in Shelton, and to hear that they would send more cards. The money which they sent me last year has helped to purchase land on which to fit up a building for a Theol. Sem.

For the past two weeks I have been busy making arrangements for the fitting up of this building. Of course my lack of experience with the customs as well as with the language of the people has made this task harder and longer than the next one will be. It has not been the custom for the Missionaries here at Ponasang to write out a contract with masons and carpenters, nor have they received bids from two different men for the same work. I had written a plan of the work to be done, both in masonry and in wood work and told the carpenter to tell me their figures. I told him that would not do, but that I must now give No. 1 another chance. No. 2 was at last the lower and I gave him the contract. No. 1 then had a grievance and accused me of unfairness. But after a little he had to own that I had been entirely fair. I find later that it hurts his standing to be underbid, and that he was relying on the fact that he was a church member at my Ponasang church and the other man not, to give him the job. To add to the unpleasantness, the Pastor and fellow church members of No. 1 wish very much that he should have the contract. But I think it will do the man good to find that even if he is a church member, he must act on principle and that he himself must bear the responsibility of his actions. I have given the masons each an envelope and told them to enclose their figures, seal, and give to me and that I would accept only one bid.

The new building is to be 26 ft. X 70 ft. with an extra room in the rear for a kitchen.

A 3 ft. hall will extend the entire length, with doors opening into the students rooms "3", the Dedication room "R" and Ming Uong's room "M", the room marked "C" is for a reception room. In front the wall will be of brick 1 ½ ft. thick and three ft. higher than the roof to act as a protection against fire. On the north side, the opposite side from the church there will be a fire wall 1 ½ ft. thick and a little higher than one peak of the roof. The rooms will be wainscotted 4 ft. up from the floor and plastered 4 ft. above that. Above this all will be open- no ceilings. "D" is for dining room and "K" for kitchen. I can put two students in each room, and if necessary 3 and 4 in some.

The land and building- a mere native shell= posts enough to hold up the roof and a board partition in front, - cost $931.67. Cost of recording deeds about $125.00. The repairs will cost, carpenter $174.50. Mason about $110.00, moving the fire wall from the South to North side $70.00 making a total cost of about $1410.00. It is now the intention to use this lot for the enlargement of the church as soon as the funds come (when?). I am trying to arrange the repairs so that they shall be permanent in case the church is enlarged. The front wall of brick will stand, the fire wall on N. side also. The floor will be all right for the church floor. Of course the frame and the roof must be changed. To meet the cost, we have $420.70 only at present. The rest of the money will have to be furnished by individual missionaries and we will wait till more is sent us for our pay. We can not use the funds of the Board for the work, but when money is sent as the Shelton church and as Abington church and Hartford Sem. has sent to me. I am at liberty to use it as I see fit.

The men from the English Gun-Boat, the "Swift" which lies in the river at Foochow, have attended our meetings regularly during the week of prayer. Six partook of the Communion with us last Sunday. I have been over to the city with two this afternoon. They are clean, earnest Englishmen of the working class and it does us good to associate with them and they do so enjoy a bit of home life. One of those who was with me this afternoon had just received a photo of his wife and little boy. I know how delighted he was with it. We have asked some of them to attend Communion in our native church next time. They are very sympathetic and much interested in our work. It will do them good to see native Chinese baptized and with them partake of the emblems of Christ's body. This intercourse of Missionaries with the men in the navies of both U.S. and England and the knowledge which the navy gets of the work among the natives, will be the best means of giving the people at home a true estimate of the work which the missionaries are engaged in.

For several weeks news has come from a region between Pagoda Anchorage and the Ocean that the people wished to hear the Gospel. Later men from different villages in this region came to Foochow asking for preachers. But all our preachers were engaged and there seemed to be no one to go. The Mission was doing nothing. The Pastor of my 1st church preached two rousing Missionary sermons. Speaking in particular of this opening where the people actually asked for instruction in the Gospel and promised definite sums for the preachers salary and the rental of a suitable place to hold service. A week ago Sunday evening Miss Newton told me how earnest Pastor Bang Ho was and that he could hardly endure it to think that the Mission was doing nothing to occupy the field which had opened it's doors so widely. I asked Miss Newton to go back with me and talk with the Pastor about it. Some of the Y.P.S.C.E. members were still there and after talking over the matter we decided to let the pastor come Mon. A.M. and recommend ten men without regard to vocation or calling. If only they were spiritually fitted to go down to these villages and work for a few days or two weeks. Mon. morning he came with ten names, but he thought they would all want wages and board, and travelling expenses. These I refused to give. We finally agreed to give four of them $1.00 apiece if they would go down and stay for at least a week. In the evening he returned with the names of four men who were willing to go Tues. morning at 8 o'clock and the pastor was to go with them to arrange for the work. But the field was under the jurisdiction of Mr. Hubbard and Dr. Whitney, and it would not be right for me to send men into it without their consent and approval, so I had to take an early breakfast and board the launch and go to Pagoda.

On the way down the most of the talk among the natives near me was about accepting the "doctrine". This just to show that in general people are becoming to know and think about what the missionaries are doing. Of course the Rev. and Dr. were glad of our arrival and after eating dinner and bidding my fine companion Home missionaries adieu, with the understanding that they would go immediately that afternoon into the field and work. I took the launch for home and arrived at 4 o'clock. Went 15 miles from home, transacted business, ate dinner, made a call and returned home within eight hours in China! Don't call us slow.

Tues.

Last evening, Jan 13th, the Missionaries arrived home, and gave the following report, which I took from the Pastor this morning. Their plan was to go two by two into villages, and if received, stay and work, talking and praying with the people. They went to villages where no work was being done, and where the people invited them. 11 villages were visited. Some of them twice. In these there were only 8 church members. 5 in one village and 3 in another. There were 149 men who were already going to church on Sunday and learning the truth. Some of these were walking 17 miles and back on Sunday over a bad mountain road for the privilege of hearing the truth. To do this they must rise before light in the morning cook and eat their rice, and start by the light of their lanterns. Returning they would not reach home till after dark. Is it any wonder that such men are calling earnestly for a teacher, and are willing to give money to one who knows the truth which they are seeking, if he will come and live with them and teach them?

In one village an organ has been given and awaits a skillful hand to use it for the Lord. In one village a large house is offered free for worship in another Buddhist temple is offered. The brethren used it last Sunday. This means that a majority of them are not given to swimming about looking for a chance to get into the net nor do they try to find the hook to deliberately swallow it. Christ told his disciples to follow and He would make them fishers of men. Man must be baited and caught to-day as well as 200 years ago. These men near us are looking at the bait. Shall we withdraw the hook for fear they want only the bait? And wait till we are sure they want to swallow hook and all? I say by no means. Teach them the truth as fast as they will hear it, and leave it to the Holy Spirit to lead them "into all the Truth".

I have been much pleased with this Home Missionary Enterprise. Because of the five men who went, three were business men and gave up their business for one week. These are the members of the church which is this year to be self supporting. The men- some of them- who took off their long robes and carried the benches from the church to the tent for the Y.P.S.C.E. Rally.

About the time that this reaches you I shall be opening the Seminary. Pray for me Love from Ellen and Phebe and me Will.

Foochow, China-
Jan. 27th 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last time I wrote was on the eve of the wedding day. I arose at 5:30 next morning and was off before sunrise. The cloth dyers were spreading the native woven cloth about 14 inches wide on the fields sprinkled with rice straw. The sun would shortly be shining and dry the colored fabrics. The farmers in the little hamlets by the way came out of doors rubbing their eyes as if they had just come out. My three coolies knew that they had kept me waiting for nearly half an hour and that I was afraid we should not reach the village in time to witness the marriage. They therefore made good time. In a little over 1 hour we had made 15 li or 5 miles and reached the Upper Bridge. Here I was dropped and the coolies went after some breakfast- no less than 40 men and boys gathered about me, almost shutting out the light. I was glad to rise and stand. One after another asked my name and age and residence and native country. My clothes were duly wondered at and the material and price inquired about. A "Christian Herald" which I had been reading on the way and had finished was eagerly snatched by the boys as I divided the leaves and gave each a picture. These people knew of the work of the Missionaries and some of them had been to our churches in Foochow. (Last week word came that this village would give $36.00 toward the support of two day school teachers, - about half enough to pay them. We shall supply them and hope to teach them something beside and better than Chinese classics.) Rice eaten the coolies started on only one more stop of about five minutes for a drink of tea before we arrived at To Cheng- having made the distance of 36 li 12 miles in 3 ¾ hours. I had walked over the roughest places and up and down the hills to help the coolies. The family were awaiting the arrival of the bridal chair bringing the bride. I did not wait long. An Eastern house you know is a big thing. There are 353 people in this one. There is only one outside door. We walk thro this into an open court. Directly in front of this court and opposite the front door is the parlor or guest room. The first announcement of the approach of the bridal chair is the sound of distant music. Then a man enters the door carrying a large Chinese lantern on the end of a long pole. The bridal chair is a sedan covered with bright red cloth, and highly ornamented with gold and other materials and raised images and pictures. Four men carry it. They bring it into the open guest room where I am seated and where the family are standing about, and set it on the earth floor. The poles are taken out and the chair left while blankets are spread before it and the youngest child in the house is held before the chair to call the bride out, (which the half frightened child does in natural, lusty child yells- something like a hungry American baby's language- the bridesmaid takes off the front curtain and reaches in and half drags out a covered figure, the bride entirely covered. The chair is removed and the bride is led away by the bridesmaid. The blankets are taken up one after another and carried before the bride spread out for her to walk on so that her shoes do not touch the ground. She is led into an inner room while the bargain is sealed and the grooms father pays the rest of the money. Then she is brought back to the guest room, and she stands on one side of the blanket and the groom on the other. I am asked to read the service with the help of the grooms brother (who speaks a little English). I read the character, explaining the Christian marriage and ask the young man if he takes "this woman to love cherish and protect while both love." He answers "yes." The woman is asked the same and thro the maid answers. A hymn is sung. I offer a few words of prayer in Chinese and pronounce the benediction, then some native ceremonies which I could not understand were performed. On the table I noticed a platter with some cakes, a pair of scales and other articles on it. I watched the ceremonies closely till the maid reached for this, without detecting any idolatry. Here I exhibited some concern and the ceremony was stopped. The bride was led away to the bridal chamber and preparations for the feast began. I had brought no lunch so of course sat down to eat with the most distinguished guests. Ellen tried to make me promise not to eat any of the native food but I was hungry and I ate. However I should think that pigs were the chief product of that farm. The courses were many and I could eat some of them. When I could not eat, I took up the time eating water melon seeds. After the feast, the neighbors and friends came to see the foreigner for half an hour. Then I was asked to come and see the bride. Three of us men beside the groom all of whom had eaten with me, were led into the bridal chamber. The groom and I sat on the bed. The others on stools. There were perhaps ten people in the room and we filled it. I saw only one woman and I recognized in her the maid. Query, where was the bride? I waited. I thought I could see all over the dimly lit little room and I was sure she was not there. But presently there was a stir at the foot of the bed- between the bed and the wall, a space of about one foot. I looked and saw the maid pulling at something. The groom turned to me and said "She is very cross." By this time the blushing, bashful maiden stood before us with chin on her breast. I arose to greet her. The maid stuck her hand under the girls chin and raised her head. When she saw me she smiled, and I saw a pretty girlish face. She was in a hurry to crawl back behind the bed out of the gaze of so many pairs of eyes. I was not happy. I was sad as I sat beside the young husband and told him that he must be loving and gentle to his wife, and saw the other men staring at the poor girl in idle curiosity. It seemed just like the purchase of a new cow at home. There was no sign of love in the husbands act or word. The girl had been brought away from her home to this strange house and not one of her kin were present. She must come out and be looked at and laughed at and commented upon by all who wished to do so. If she uttered a word of remonstrance, she was dubbed as unfilial and "cross." She was virtually now the slave of the oldest woman in the house= the wife of the oldest brother of the groom. I left for home, glad that I had been present to help the Christians stand against the pressure for heathen ceremonies, and thinking of the vast difference between this poor girl and an American bride. "How long O God, how long??", before this kingdom shall know the Love of God, and emancipate these enslaved girls? How long before true love shall be the basis of the family instead of $150.00 silver dollars? The groom would remain at home four days then return to his school and study for five years more unless a lucrative position is offered him before the expiration of that time. The bride does not know a character, and cannot write her own name. She will wear the common blue cotton dress of the field women and go barefoot. Her husband will wear silk and his hands will not know toil. His fingernails will be half an inch long to testify to his high literary position and to the fact that he does not work.

Since I wrote you I have written to the Miss'y Herald about the call for workers in Diong Loh [pronounced de-ong-lock according to the ABCFM], and the offers of financial help which the villages of that field make for Christian preachers and places for worship. I will not write of this in detail, trusting that you will see at least the main points in print. The "Chinese Recorder"- The Missionary Journal of China- Intercontinental- gives my account of the Y.P.S.C.E. Rally of Nov. 12- in full. Sat. evening another home mail arrived. I was gratified to find again the cause of Missions was given space in the Sentinal. I was also glad to read of the dedication of the new Library and of the new advance in Christian activities outlined by Mr. Kenneston. Please remember me to him and to Mr. Tomlinson and thank them both for the cards which are on the way. The last mail brought a few picture cards from C.S.B. Tilton N.H. I cannot think who it is. The Advance, Golden Rule, Century, Public Opinion, and Christian Herald now come regularly. The Independent will soon begin to come. Some of these are gifts and some we have subscribed for. I have begun to read the new serial in the Advance "Mand Brayton" "The cow-boys adventure in the Girls Seminary was very amusing.

The Theological Seminary is going up as fast as 15 or 20 men can make it. The mason has been in to consult about putting iron bars in the street windows. It is pleasant to be able to talk with him. I had to tell one applicant for the course that he could not be accepted. I asked Miss Newton to translate for me and told him frankly that his reputation was not clear. That he had not been strictly honest and square in his business during the past year; that I would let him continue to teach his day school another year and would pray for him and help him in any way possible to live a strictly honest and manly life during the year and if his actions warranted it would be glad to have him study next year. He thanked us for the talk when he left. Dwight has been given the charge of the Ing Hok field 40 miles up the river, where he hopes to build a house and live in about two years. He with Messrs Hubbard and Peet have started for that field to-day to visit the churches and to arrange for a building site. The appropriations have not yet arrived. They are later this year than ever before the missionaries say. It makes it bad for us because we ought to have our plans for this years work all laid now. But cannot complete them till we know about the money foundation. We have changed personal teachers. This year we are to have a 1st degree man who joined the church only at the last communion.

After the last letter was mailed it occurred to me that I had not mentioned Phebe at all. Why? Well why do men go to town with only one errand and return after having done other business, and suddenly remember that the one errand had slipped their minds? It is a queer freak of the human mind to sometimes forget the most important thing. The little sunbeam has just torn a paper into little bits and scattered it all over the floor, and has put her tired head on the Amah's shoulder and gone to sleep. Still we say, without thinking of exaggerating, that Phebe is the best natured baby in existence. She never cries except when she is hungry or tired or frightened. And all of these causes have remedies which she yields to immediately. She is always ready to smile at Mama or Papa and is getting to play bo peep, and to clapping her hands etc. She sings (?) a great deal. Her notes were all vowels, till Saturday evening when she struck up a new strain that sounded like "Gu Ge, Gu Ge", u as in put, e as in her". This was just after Dwight had been in and as I was holding Phebe and we were all joking. Dwight made a sudden gesture and spoke rather loudly. Phebe was very much frightened. Soon after she recovered she began this new strain. It sounded a little like "Goddard, Goddard."

Both Dwight and I have written urgent letters to James D. Solandt to come out and take the Theological Seminary. If he does I shall take several churches and do direct evangelistic work.

Flora's long letter was a delight. Until I can write her she must accept congratulations for her success. The Mission is calling loudly for seven young ladies to come out to take up teaching and work among us men. Who will come? Who will send them? The Eng. Ch. Mission has 12 ladies on the way. These have come out to join the Methodists this last Fall. The Eng. have also welcomed three young men and the Methodists one.

We have arranged to spend the summer at Mt. Guliang sharing a house with Dwight and Dr.

Tell Grandfather and Grandmother we think of them often. Tell Aunt Louise to wait patiently and she will find a letter from Foochow. The same to Elsie.

Love to all from the whole family.

Ellen, Phebe, Will.

This may be similar to the bridal chair that Willard talks about in the above letter.

Foochow, China.

Feb. 9th 1896

Dear Folks at Home:-

Yesterday and to day have been so full of events and doings which were not in the ordinary course of my life in Foochow hitherto that I think a diary of the events which have occurred may be the most interesting form to cast this letter in.

The fitting up of the building to be occupied as a Theological School has progressed rapidly and as far as all could judge, well, the high fire wall on the north of the First Church and between the church and the building which we were fitting up, had been moved so as to protect both buildings i.e. pulled down and built up on the north side of the school building. The wall was of dirt made by building brick posts about 14 feet apart in the wall and then filling in between these with mud tamped solid. The wall was about two feet thick at the bottom and tapered to a little more than one foot thick on the top. It was about 20 feet high. One of these walls stands for a long time if it has a good chance to get dry, after it is built. This wall was finished a week ago. There was very little dry weather while it was in process of construction. Every day was cloudy and damp. Just as it was finished the heavy winter rains set in. Thus giving the wall no chance to dry. On the other side of the wall from our building stood a native shop about 16 ft. wide and of the same length as our building. This shop was used for the wire pulling business, and four men and a boy occupied it. Yesterday morning at 5:30 before light there was a loud pounding on our compound gate which brought both Ellen and me to the window to see what was the matter. The keeper opened the gate and I heard the Pastor of the First Church tell him the wall had fallen and some men were under it. I went to the door immediately and the Pastor wanted to call my coolie to go over and help rescue the men. I started at once for the scene of the accident, and found the wall had fallen, and had taken the wire shop with it. Wall and shop lay flat on the ground. 30 or 40 men had already collected. But they were all strangers to me. Our friends were away notifying interested parties. I met the Pastor when I was about half way and he told me one man had been killed. I asked him to go and call Dr. Kinnear. I was perhaps a little excited when I reached the scene, and the men who had collected were in similar state of mind. I asked how many men were in the building before it fell and understood 7 or 8 and that only 5 had been found. I tried to have them tell me where the three were sleeping and wanted to know why they were not trying to find them. I was much relieved however to see a much battered man come to me and tell me there were only 5 in all. Three of these had been rescued and the other two were nearly dug out. I went over and helped free these two. By this time, Drs. Kinnear and Bliss and Mr. Walker arrived. All the men but one had been able to walk when dug out. He was placed in a sedan and taken to the hospital. Three others afterward went there. After examination no bones were found broken and the wounds were all superficial. So my mind was greatly relieved.

Now that life and limb were safe the next thing to demand attention was the damage to property. According to Chinese custom the mason who built the wall would be held responsible for all damages. I wrote Mr. Hartwell, before I ate breakfast, all the facts, and started for the city immediately after breakfast to talk with him. But the mason was there before my note arrived begging Mr. Hartwell to have pity on him and to influence the Mission to help him bear the loss. The wall was built so far as I know according to contract and I think it only just that we bear most of the loss. This matter however is still to be adjusted.

We have some time ago tried to buy the lot on which the wire shop stood, but have been unsuccessful hitherto. It seemed best to try now to purchase the whole thing instead of throwing away money in replacing the building. Operations were accordingly begun. You will be interested to know these in detail. First let me say that the Chinese year ends Feb. 12th. And you remember I wrote last year that there is a general settling of accounts at that time. This makes the end of the year a very busy time, and a time favorable for purchasers who have ready money.

We tell one of the church members we wish to purchase this lot. He calls another man. They together go to the owner and get his price. $600.00. They come again after consulting the owner and report that he will take $550.00. I answer the same as before, and we stop for Sunday. In the early afternoon another go between hears that we wish to purchase and comes to ask me if he may go and talk with the owner. He is quite confident that we have offered all the land is worth. I tell him to go ahead. He reports that he has seen the owner who has several brothers, these will all be consulted to night (Sat.) and the business will be settled satisfactorily. Here Sunday- the day of rest (?) - stops operations as far as I am an actor.

I had just finished dinner yesterday as the Pastor came and wanted me to go down to the hospital. One of the wounded men wished to talk with me. With Mr. Walker as advisor and interpreter I go. It is the head man of the shop. He is looking better than when I saw him in the morning- his head sticking up out of the debris in which his body was still buried. He is now quite comfortable lying on a clean couch in the hospital ward. He says that a friend had entrusted to his care the day before $28.00 in native bank bills and he did not get them from the ruins. It took several questions and some pressing to extract from him the place where he had left this money the night previous. Finally he said he put it into a table drawer that the table had been carried away, but no money found. I asked why he did not tell us before, instead of waiting 7 hours, and until the debris was nearly all cleared away. He said his head was not very clear in the morning. The Pastor thought it highly improbable that a man would have $28.00 in a table drawer, unlocked, and go to sleep, especially as the money was in bills and could easily be put into a pocket. Here this business rests with strong suspicion that the shop man is trying a sharp game in which he will be worsted.

About the middle of the afternoon a man comes in for the yearly dues of the police in the vicinity of one of my chapels. In the evening our personal teacher who next year will preach in one of the villages recently opened to Christianity in Diong Loh next Chinese year came in to say good bye. Add to this two hours talk with Ming Uong about theological school matters, a talk with various interruption and you have an account of yesterdays work.

This morning I walked over to the Au Long Die chapel to morning service. Just before we were ready to set down to dinner, Mr. Walker came in to say that one of the members of the First Church had been unjustly seized and imprisoned. The Pastor wanted us to go and help get him out. I heard the story and thought it wise to go to the Yamen and see about it. It might be interesting, but it is too lengthy to report the different versions of the story that I received until I was satisfied that I had the true one. So I will give only the one. About a week ago an official came up the river, and was going into Foochow city. He had three men loads of goods to be carried into the city. A little more than half way in the coolies stopped to eat at a restaurant kept by a man who has been attending church and learning about Christianity at the First Church. After the coolies had finished eating the shop man wanted his pay. The coolies had no money but opened one of the baskets and took out a garment proposing to pawn it. The shop man said "no." And recognizing that the goods did not belong to the coolies, refused to let them take them away. For they had already proposed to pawn some. They would never dare to take the baskets to their owner with some of the goods missing. So the shop man suspecting that the coolies intended to steal the goods and run off with them, compelled them to leave the goods with him till the owner instituted a search, then restore them. In a few days a reward of $10.00 was offered for the goods. The shop man restored them. He went before the Prefect who commended him for uprightness, and allowed him to depart. But before he could get outside the Yamen gate, some of the "runners"- the words used to designate the innumerable swarm of hangers-on, about all the official residences here, - seized him and shut him up. They knew that he has some money and hoped that money would be paid for his release.

Mr. Walker and I with the Pastor and another Chinaman went to the Yamen this afternoon and called on the attendant who had had charge of the case. He admitted all that I have written above and pretended not to know why the man was not released. But said he would go and speak to the official. After 15 or 20 minutes he returned accompanied by the aforesaid shop man who kneeled before us in grateful acknowledgement of our help in gaining for him his liberty. Mr. Walker said that it was very probable the "runners" did not wish the head official who had commended the man and sent him away, to know that they had detained him. And it was not at all likely that the attendant who said he would go and ask the official, had seen that official at all. But this attendant had just gone to work to get the man, and if the justice of the affair were to be enquired into he wanted to be rid of the man.

What a system of Government!!! No man is ever safe. Justice is well nigh impossible. Even if the head officials are all honest and try to be just, there is such a ravenous pack of vultures hanging about- each official, upon whom he must depend to execute his commands, that his honesty and justice does not reach beyond the walk of his own apartment. But this supposition is contrary to fact. The officials are neither honest nor just. How can the people rise? Never except by the interposition of a merciful Heavenly Father whose is all power in heaven and on earth who is King of Kings and Lord of Lords. He knows how to purify even this corrupt mass called the Government of China.

Ming Uong graduated from the Anglo Chinese College last Tuesday [see photos following]. have sent you his graduation essay on "The Education Needed in China." This is the production of a young Chinaman who has studied English for eight years. Mrs. Smyth the lady who looked over and corrected all the essays for the class told me that she made a very few corrections. Ming Uong is now at home. He will have a vacation till Mar. 1st., then the Theological School will begin and he will teach 2 hours a day and I will give him private lessons in the Theological subjects. I think the fall of the wall will not have any bad effect on the Theological School.

I sent with the essay 10 photos. In this letter I enclose the index to the photos. Perhaps in justice to the photographer I should say that these are not A No. 1 photos but some cells that he let me have for less than half price. Perhaps you will send them to Putnam some time and let the friends there look at them.

Love from all to all Will.

Tuesday, Feb. 11th.

I had so much other business yesterday that this letter could not be sent, so I can put in a word about Phebe. She is just the same little sun shine. Her mother bathes her after we are thro breakfast and then the Amah has most of the care of her until we are thro with supper, then we give up an hour or more- until she goes to bed to visiting with the young queen. This is the happiest time of the day for all three. She is now taking one or two meals a day of cows milk, - has two upper and two lower teeth, - will be 8 months old one week from today.

The wire shop men have given up the $28.00 dollar business. It was too thin.

Love Will.

[On back of letter is written:]

I enclose an invitation to the wedding I attended a few weeks ago up in the mountains. It is in English(?)

Foochow, China.

March 4th 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My diary tells me that three weeks have passed since I started a letter toward the old home. We received letters from you Feb. 21st bringing the proofs of the girls pictures. Father spoke of sending his proofs but we did not find them. It did us good to see how foolish you all were acting over Phebe's picture. But the dear little sunbeam is worthy of it. She is so good that the amah has a very easy time. For a few days past the sky has been clear and the weather mild. Phebe has spent nearly all day in the open air. If she does not get out before about 2:30 P.M. she begins to tease and keeps it up till she is in the fresh air. She is now taking two meals of cows milk each day. Her mother thought she ought to have some mellins food with the cows milk so we bought some and tried it yesterday. Phebe was not wholly pleased with the experiment. At 8 months old she weighed 19 ½ lbs. with no clothes. Her eyes continue to be blue. She does not creep and I think she will not learn. It is better for her not to be on the floor as the ever present flea would be too cordial. She stands in chairs and holds herself up by the backs of the chairs, enjoys her baths as much as ever, sings and jabbars like any other common baby- in short is the most uncommon baby that we have ever had.

The mail Mr. 2nd brought a letter from Mr. Park- Miss Wooster (Ella), Mrs. Albert Smith of Abington, and one from a Mrs. Parsons of Salt Lake City. He wanted me to send some stamps to his little son. He did not put sufficient postage on the letter and I pay 20 cents for it. A few weeks ago an advertisement came from a Chicago firm on which 20 cents was due. This overdue postage is quite an item in our expenses in the course of the year. The worst of the matter is that these letters are nearly all of the nature of above mentioned two- of no importance to us.

Since I wrote you, very much has transpired here. I think I was in the midst of buying the lot and building on which the wall fell when I finished the last letter. We bargained to pay $500.00 in a bank check. But at this juncture Chinese New Years came and all business came to a stand still. We waited till the bank opened. Then the go-between came and demanded that I go to the bank and get the silver dollars and give the owners. This I flatly refused to do. After an hour of bantering I told them I would go to the bank with them, as I had business there, but I would not bring the money. Then four brothers who owned the property came to our house. Three of them signed the deed. The two go betweens signed and the man who wrote the deed signed. Then the fourth brother took the pen and told me that before he would sign I must give each of them $1.00. I kicked. After talking for an hour and a half, one of the go betweens said if I would give $1.00 he would fix it up. I succumbed and the fourth name went on the deed. Then we counted the deed eighteen in all. Each sale makes two new deeds so we have the records of the last 9 sales of this property. We had consumed the whole forenoon in getting these 7 names on the new deed. Ming Uong had been with me to help as interpreter. I was hungry and not in the happiest frame of mind. It was raining hard and the bank was nearly two miles distant. I told Ming Uong to come up stairs and have a little lunch with me and then we would go to the bank. While we were waiting for our lunch I thought about loving enemies and doing good to those who spitefully use you and we asked the five hungry men down stairs waiting to come up and take a cup of tea and some cake. Then in all that rain 7 Chinamen went over to the bank to get the money. So distrustful are they of all mankind. When we agree to pay so many "dollars", we meant the so called "chopped dollar." But these are becoming scarce and when the bank pays new dollars a premium of .50 on $100.00 is charged. I had at last to bear this for the $5.00. All the gouging the 7 Chinaman did amounted to $3.15. This is not so bad when you know that in a transaction of $900.00 last year it amounted to over $30.00.

This was my first experience. The natives are beginning to think of me that when I say $10.00 I mean it, and not $10.50. They are also getting rather wary of asking me to lend money. The falling of the wall has made many changes in the plan of the building for our Seminary. But it is rising slowly and all we want is pleasant weather to see a nice clean building ready for use.

When I mailed the last letter Mrs. Walker was not well, but as she was subject to attacks of indigestion we thought little of it. Tues. Feb. 11th Ming Uong graduated from the Anglo-Chinese College, and Mrs. Walker had known him from a babe, and made a great effort to go and hear him. When she arrived home she felt worse, and continued gradually to fail. The next Mon. Miss Newton, with whom you remember Mr. and Mrs. Walker were staying, and Dr. Kinnears family went down to Sharp Peak for a vacation. They did not think that Mrs. Walkers illness was serious. But Thurs. Feb. 20th the Dr's decided that her trouble was cancer of the stomach and said that she could not recover. Sat. P.M. Feb. 22nd she passed on before very peacefully. She was conscious to the last and very happy. She suffered almost none at all. The funeral was arranged for Monday 24th at 10:30 A.M. Telegrams were sent to Pagoda and Sharp Peak. The Pagoda people arrived in time. But there was a flood in the river and the friends from Sharp Peak did not get up till 5 P.M. Mrs. Walker leaves one daughter a little over 20 yrs. in Oberlin. Mr. Walker has shown the sustaining, comforting presence of God's Holy Spirit to a wonderful degree. I can see now how God uses the Christians death as well as his life to bring the heathen to a true knowledge of Him. There is and always will be a mystery about death. But in this heathen land this mystery is enveloped in a mass – a thick cloud of superstitious fear. The whole family will spend the last dollar to have the proper rites and ceremonies performed, and the requisite number of prayers chanted, for fear the spirit of the dead member will return to harm in some way. There were about 50 Christian natives present at the services Monday morning. Much was said of the joy that Mrs. Walker had during her last days, and of her willingness to go. Mr. Walker came over and took his meals with us after Mrs. Walker's death. That Saturday evening the cook as he came in to serve tea said to Mr. Walker "So Mrs. Walker has gone to heaven." Mr. W. said "yes." The cook said "Alas!" Mr. W. at once said, "No, don't say that. She is very happy now with Jesus and the Angels." On the next Friday Feb. 27th the little boy of our Ha Puo pastor passed away and his funeral was a thoroughly Christian service. The little body laid in flowers was brought with into the church and a beautiful service held there. This was also a great object lesson to the unconverted Chinese. No member of the family can touch the body of the dead member. Strange hands must perform all the last ceremonies. The casket must be sealed and never opened. But here the little boys father and brother (Ming Uong) and I placed him in the casket and carried him into the church and after the service the friends were asked to take a last look at the little Christian. One needs only see a little of the heathen superstition about death, and the ceremonies to which it leads to heathen, and then to witness a ceremony like this and hear the father himself standing by the open casket, tell of his last talk with his little boy to realize the power of Christianity to lift up the poorest mortal however far down in sin and ignorance and superstition he may be Pastor Ding said. Before the little boy passed away he asked him if he was ready to go and the little fellow said yes. He told him then that Mrs. Walker had gone on before and would be ready to greet him. This pleased the little boy very much. He has been ill with a spinal disease for over three years, but has always been a very patient and trusting little sufferer. He was about 11 years old.

Since the last letter I have arranged for 9 Day Schools in connection with the other work here. These are to be under Ellen's care.

The Seminary opened this morning with 8 young men to study for the ministry. Ming Uong is a prize. I shall put him into Fairchild's Theology next week and into Greek. Until the new building is ready for occupancy the boys will have to sleep in the chapels. They are now studying O.T. [Old Testament] exercises under Mr. Hartwell 3 hrs. weekly. Biblical Geography 3 hrs. weekly, Geography 1 hr., the Romanized Foochow colloquial 2 hrs. under Ming Uong, the native books 5 hrs. under my personal teacher, 1 hr. per week in general exercises. Then we have chapel each morning at 8:30. Sat. is free. On Sunday the young men will visit the different churches in the morning and in the P.M. each will have his S.S. class. In the evening they will help in the Y.P.S.C.E.s of the churches. We help each man to the extent of $2.50 silver= about $1.35 gold per month. This makes about $17.00 per year in gold. On this the young man lives, with the little help he can get from home. You might put this bit of information in the paper. $17.00 enables a young man to study theology one year.

Thurs. A.M. Mar. 5th.

The Shaowu brethren Mr. Walker, Mr. Gardner and Dr. Bliss start for Shaowu this morning. They are happy at the thought. And the Christians up there will be rejoiced to meet them, they have been away so long. They will be about three weeks on the way. It takes a large boat to hold them with all their goods. This boat costs $28.00 for a little more than half the distance. A contract is written, a little bargain money paid, at the time of signing the writing more when they take the boat and the remainder when the journey is accomplished. The goods were put on the boat yesterday afternoon, and the boat was to go up the river about 7 miles last night. The brothers will walk up to this place and go aboard. Yesterday afternoon, they went over to see the boat as the goods were being put on. After a long search they found it with 1 ton of kerosene oil aboard. This was rather tough considering they had bargained for the whole boat. The duty on all foreign articles is very heavy for natives. Missionaries goods go through free. There are 8 or 10 "leekin" stations where duty has to be paid between here and Shaowu. These boat-men thought to get this oil on board and run it up river as Missionary goods thus avoiding the duty. The oil was all taken off the last I knew. What they will find this A.M. I do not know. Thursday evening. The Seminary has now 12 students and is doing regular work. I am pleased with the men thus far. Six have applied who for various reasons are not admitted.

To-day has brought two experiences of the same kind, that are more depressing to my feelings than other experiences that I have in my work. First one of the school teachers came in and wanted money to buy brooms etc. for his school room. I have not furnished these articles to any of the new schools. But the old schools under Mrs. Woodins care last year were furnished. But the teachers also had less pay than I give them. I gave one of these teachers .20 yesterday for these articles and he was perfectly satisfied. To day the other boy came and wanted .30. I gave him .20 and told him that was all. He begged for a long time and all I could do was to say no until he got tired and went away. In about an hour the mason who built the wall that fell came and wanted some money. He wants the Mission to bear the expense incurred by the falling of the wall and I told him to-day positively that I was willing to bear just ½ of it. He put on a very injured look and said it made him very sad. He wished I would help him a little. The man is rich- has got rich out of the work the Mission has given him. According to native custom he would have to stand the whole expense of the falling of the wall what makes my position all the harder to bear. Mr. Hartwell sympathizes with the Mason. Well you will find it very difficult to understand the Chinese way of begging. But I want your prayers that I may be able to strike the golden mean= not be too severe so as to repel the Chinese- not be too easy so as to take away their sense of manliness and self respect.

Ellen is buying peanuts by the half bushel, - come over and visit us Stanley. You may have all the peanuts you can eat after each meal but nothing between meals. Pumeloos are gone. We are now reduced to 2 kinds of oranges, bananas and peanuts.

We are talking of riding out to Century Farm on the electric cars and visiting the public library and art Gallery of the city of Shelton. Its prominent citizens must stop pleading in court for more saloons tho or prosperity may not dwell within her borders. Love to all from all Yours

Will, Ellen, Phebe.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It looked like rain. It began to rain. It rained. It has been raining. It was raining. It rained again. It continued to rain. It rained incessantly. The rain fell. The rain descended. The rain came down. It was rainy. Day and night the clouds distilled rain. It stopped raining. It rained again. There was a thunder shower. Then another. There is a thunder shower at the present moment.
Mar. 19th.

We have had a pleasant day today, but this evening, there is thunder and lightning and it rains. The winter seems to be over. The air feels like spring but very damp. The pastors and others in my chapels and parsonages are complaining of leaky roofs and some of our houses are letting in the rain. But it will stop sometime. The workmen have been busy again on the Seminary today. They worked some yesterday. And it did me good to see the building move on a little.

The Secretary of the Woman's Board for Boston, Miss Abbie B. Child arrived Tues. Mar. 17th with her sister. I met them at the launch which bro't them up from the steamer. They will stay with Miss Newton, and Dr. and Miss Woodhull, visiting the work of the W.B. M. and also to a good extent the work of the parent Board. Yesterday morning, Ellen and I took them over to Ha Puo church where Ellen has charge of a Woman's Station

Class. About 25 women were present. They were learning characters i.e., learning to read- some John's Gospel, some Mark's, some the Acts, some the Commandments, some the catechism, etc. They were all reading these different books aloud. Miss Child asked if any foreigner was compelled to listen to the jargon all day. Fortunately not, then after she had spoken a few words and I had tried to translate them for the women, she and Ellen looked over the pastors house with his wife while I played with his grandson and chatted with him. Then we visited the Day School connected with this church with the 27 boys present,- then went on a mile or more and visited another Day School with 17 scholars, then another with 17 scholars. Of these 61 students 3 were girls and 5 were from Christian families. This shows somewhat the foundation work which these Day Schools are doing. The boy from the heathen family goes to the school and read Christian books, - learns the Lord's Prayer and 10 commandments, hears the Gospel each Sunday, and learns Christian hymns. Thus the knowledge of God and His Book is spread.

A few days ago a man came to me and said he owned the house in which the father of one of my chapel keepers lived. He said that during the last 15 years about $10.00 had been accumulating on rent due and not paid,- a little each year. Then on last years rent $2.00 were still due. - The rent was $12.00 per year. He asked me to take this amount out of the chapel keeper's salary and give it to him. I told him I would investigate and he might come again. I found that during the 15 years the owner had repaired twice. That the renter had to repair often himself. I found also that the owner had promised a year ago not to say anything more about the $18.00. That the chapel keeper had asked him to wait a few weeks and he would pay the $2.00 due on last years rent. Well when the man came he met me just coming out of the door to go into the city to prayermeeting, I told him I was busy but would do his business. In about 4 minutes, I told him of his promise concerning the $10.00 and assured him that the $2.00 would be paid. I also assured him that I would let severely alone all that pertained to the $10.00. He then asked me if I would not collect his rent for him and give it to him. I answered him with one word. Then he asked me if one of my pastors could do it. I answered him in like manner. He began to talk about the bothersome business of collecting and I told him I had lots of bothersome business, meanwhile closing the door of my study, and asking him to walk slowly left.

Last Sat. evening as we were going out into the dining room for supper I was called back by a helper and a church member. They had the following story. A man who is learning the truth at Au Long Die bought some goods for $2.00 a load after looking at the sample. The goods came and he said they were not as good as the sample and was willing to pay only $1.50. The two could not agree. The learner went to the helper at Au Long Die and the helper and a ch. member went to the merchant. The two parties could not understand each other very well and after a time the merchant thought that these two men meant to help the learner cheat him, and told his men to beat the visitors which they did in short order. The helper and ch. member ran to me as little boys at home do to their parents when bigger boys pummel them. I told them it was too late to do anything then and the next day was Sunday, and I was busy until 12:00 Mon. They might come then. I decided at that time to call the merchant and have a talk with him. I sent my card and asked him to come over immediately. He could not come that P.M. but would come Tues. A.M. He sent his card with his greeting to me. Tues. A.M. at the Seminary prayers at 8:30 about 12 church members were present. They had come to see that the merchant was dealt with in the right manner. Fortunately he had not arrived when prayers were over and I took these ch. members into a room by themselves and asked the pastor to read Matt. 5:38- end of chap. then told them we were not seeking this man harm but his good. He had hurt some of our members but now we must not want to injure him in return, but pray for him. When he came I asked him about the beating. He began to tell about the money difficulty. I had to shut him off and tell him I would not touch that. That was a purely business transaction and I had nothing to do with it. But when I heard of men beating other men without cause it was my duty to help the weak. I asked him if he did tell his clerks to beat the 2 men. He frankly said "yes." I asked if he considered that he did right. He frankly said "no." I asked if he was willing to make reparation. He was willing to pay the doctors expenses to visit the man who had been hurt by the beating. He also promised to tell his neighbors that the beating was wrong. I thanked him for coming to me and for being so frank and fair and left. The natives afterwards settled the money difficulty; assured him that we were not after money but wanted fair dealing and honesty. They also asked him to come to church and hear the Gospel. He promised to come. I was very much pleased with the visit from this man and especially please with his readiness to do the fair thing. I cannot account for it. Because all the other cases of this kind have been so troublesome. I may be hasty in judging but so far as I have heard, the older missionaries are very apt to try to find out the facts thro third parties instead of going directly to the parties interested. This is the Chinese custom. Do no business direct- always have a middle man.

Mon. Evening Mar. 23rd.

It rains. This is the principle new item since I wrote last. The Theol'l School goes on each day, slowly but surely. Ming Uong is proving himself invaluable. He does not work so many hours each day for so much pay but has the welfare of the school at heart and spares no pains on his efforts to promote the efficiency of the school. Beside this he is doing good work in his father's church. The S.S. and Y.P.S.C.E. already show the results of his efforts. The last scheme that he proposed was to institute a Village Improvement Society to keep the street in front of his house= our church- clean. I am going to help him in this all I can. This help however will consist principally in sympathy and such influence as I being a U.S. citizen can exert. The Seminary building progresses slowly on account of the rain. The roofs are only partly on. But the carpenters are at work every day. The floor is all down and the partitions partly up. The doors and windows are all made ready to be put in.

Phebe is the next and last topic for discussion. I am sorry I cannot give as good an account of her as heretofore. But it is not her fault. Her mother has ceased to furnish her with the staff of life, except during the night and the young lady feels slighted and as is her custom she expresses her dissatisfaction in tones of unmistakable meaning.

This however has been the order of the day for over a week now and the princess is getting a little accustomed to the spoon. We tried a rubber nipple the other day and she rebelled absolutely. We desisted. She now takes 6 good tea cupfuls of milk each day. It is going to be an added expense to us to keep her in this way. I have already ordered half a bottle of milk extra for each day. This will be $1.00 a month added expense. But I tell you she is a cherub, - a dear little comfort. Plays like a kitten only with much more intelligence. Sees her Papa as soon as he comes in sight and always has a smile for him- unless some one is trying to stuff milk down her in that unnatural way. Her naps during the day are quite short- never over 1 hr. and seldom as long as that- generally ½ hour. She still sleeps well at night calling for food 2 or 3 times. But scarcely waking while taking it. She is now trying the experiment of ducking herself when in her bath. Twice she has deliberately put her face under water and of course drew in her breath almost strangling herself. But it does not make her afraid of the water at all. She passed the 9 months post last Wed.

I send in this letter a list of goods that I should like you to put up and ship to Boston if time permits. I sent a draft on the treasurer of the Board for $50.00 last Oct. I sent to Oliver Jr. but have not heard from it. Will some of you not look up the matter and let me know just how I stand with you. Tell me also how much there is due on this (enclosed) order after you have put it up and I will remit. The last shipment has not yet arrived. It is unusually late. It has also been over three weeks since a home mail arrived. We are expecting one at any time now.

I ought to add a word more about some of the things in on this list. As to the shoes. I think it would be well if either Ben or Oliver could go and try them on. They should be a little large for them. Also ask the dealer to remember the style and size and name of shoe. Please do not get pointed toes. If they fit I shall want about 1 pair a year. $3.00 ought to buy a pair good enough.

Most of the things ordered are perishable and I think it would be wise and perhaps the cheapest way to estimate how large the box should be and after making it have a lining of cheapest tin put in and then a tin lid soldered on before nailing the board lid on. Dr. Kinnear is packing all his goods in boxes fixed like this. - Bedding and books etc.- If you do this way cloth bags or paper board packages are good enough for all the cereals- By the way Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear are going to live in Meriden a good part of the next year and a half. I know you will see them. I will write more explicitly later. Ellen and Phebe send love- me too Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It seems more like Spring for the last few days. The warm weather is later this year. A year ago we had misquito nettings up before this. Last night we heard one or two of the visitors but were not annoyed. Strawberries are not yet in market. I am afraid that the continued rains will damage the fruit. We have not yet taken down our stoves, but shall in a few days.

Since I wrote last letters have arrived from both homes and one from Northfield from Etta. The last mail brought the news of the sudden death of Dr. Bliss' father. He does not know of it yet nor can he hear of it for two or three weeks to come.

Miss Abbie Child Sect'y of the Woman's Board left us a week ago to-day, and went to Pagoda, hoping to have two or three days there to visit the work. But her steamer sailed two days earlier than advertised and she had to go on board Thurs. evening- 24 hrs. after arriving at Pagoda. Her visit here was a very pleasant one. She was at Ponasang Sunday Mar. 29th. In the morning she attended Geu Cio Dong= First Church. As usual the standing room was all utilized. The vestibule full and men could not get near enough to hear the preacher. This was the same last Sun. Apr. 5th. How to obtain funds to enlarge this church is one of my great problems. I want the people to make a start first tho'. In the afternoon I started with Miss Child at 1:45. We visited Au Iong Die chapel- found it full of Sun. School scholars. After remaining 15 min. we went to Ha Puo Ga and found it full with orderly classes systematically arranged. Here we went thro' the customary opening exercises and part of the lesson study and Miss C. watched. Then we went to Dr. Kinnear's Hospital and saw 120 little street waifs gathered in a room not more than 12 X 14 singing Christian hymns, learning the Lord's Prayer and listening to the explanation of the parable of the vineyard. When we were thro here we stopped for the afternoon. As to the results of Miss Child's visit I am sure that she realizes as never before and as one never can from reading letters the difficulty of reaching women of China. She sees that in order to reach the women, women must be sent to us. The men cannot work among the women. If 3 or 4 young women do not come out during the next year I shall be surprised. Then she also received the impression that we needed more room in our church.

One week ago to day I laid me down and rested and rested till day before yesterday. - Mon. I got up and took breakfast with Ellen. I believe some say I have been trying to work my Chinese teacher too hard, others that I had imbibed some of the malaria with which the region is abundantly supplied. I am on my feet again however - went over to the Consulate and took dinner yesterday. To day I have done nearly my usual amount of work.

Apr. 9th.

The next subject to which we will give our undivided attention is a new one i.e. of recent date - June 18th '96. Phebe is all right. She is entirely weaned, and accepts the situation as one that is for the best and that is to be permanent. We take super at 6 P.M., and are thro' with it about 6:30. Then the little girl gets into her night robe and either her papa or mama lies down with her a few moments while she coos and pulls their nose and pinches their necks until Somnus [Roman God of sleep] gets the better of her and takes her off. She wakes once or twice before morning and takes a drink of water or is turned over and then goes right to sleep again.

This morning I awoke at 6:30. She was singing away like a canary. She had kicked all the clothes off and her feet were the drum sticks and Ellen's body the drum. E. was asleep but soon awoke. The little girl is in doors just long enough to sleep and eat. The rest of the time she spends in the open air. The Dr. vaccinated her the other day, and her arm is getting pretty tender. The vaccine took well. So during the next week she may not be as good natured as usual. She sits alone now anywhere, and pulls herself up on her feet. While sitting in her bath she has great sport in turning to one side and taking hold of the top of the tub and pulling herself up. The other day her mother wanted to leave her a moment and so put her in the clothes basket thinking she would be safe there. She had not moved ten steps before the young giant was on her feet ready to go nose first over the edge of the basket on the floor. We have not had another picture taken but are watching for it.

There is nothing but the most encouraging news to write concerning the work. The churches are all full every Sun. Every week requests come for a preacher to go to some new place, - sometimes the people offer to pay his salary if we i.e. the Mission will provide the room to meet in. I have started three new centers of work this year. At one 5 min. away, 70 were present a week ago last Sunday and as many more last Sunday. In another place a little temple was filled with people who had come to listen to the preaching. In the third place the room hired for a day school could not hold the people who wanted to listen. So it is all over the field not only in our Mission but in the other Missions as well - all the churches full and crowded to the doors - not with curiosity seekers but with men and a few women who want to listen and learn about the Truth. There is only one phase of the present condition that disturbs me. We have not the laborers to thrust forth into this wonderful harvest. The people are anxious to learn the Truth, but where are the men to teach these multitudes that throng our churches and homes and the homes of our Pastors. The force of Christian workers is inadequate. Consequently many are asking admission to the church who have not been, and could not be sufficiently instructed in the Truth to intelligently accept the vows which church members are required to make. These must wait then until they are better instructed, unless the examining committee is too late.

Sat. April 11- Yesterday afternoon I went with two of my right hand men to visit a village which has been calling for a man to come and teach them the Truth. I found one of our church members there. I wish you could have seen him when he saw me. He did not know how to express his joy. He made all sorts of excuses for his poor house and when we said we were in a hurry and started to go he fairly held us down and declared that he must have the privilege of showing his respect to us and said that he had a meal almost cooked for us. I knew I could not eat much, but I told the boys we must go in and sit down and eat a little to please him. I'll not describe the room or the food or the 20 naked and half naked children that were within the sweep of my arm while I ate (?). We saw about 6 men whom this church member had interested in the Gospel. All the people were very friendly. This man comes to church quite regularly. To do so he must walk 2 miles to the river, cross in a ferry boat, and walk 2 miles more. This makes a walk of 8 miles to attend church. Don't you think he ought to be helped in his endeavor to tell of Christ's love to his neighbors?

When we returned he accompanied us as far as the river and kept the boatman from charging us twice as much as he should for our fare.

This morning another American mail arrived bringing a letter from Etta and one from Mr. Kenneston. That letter from Mr. Kenneston was better than all the pills Dr. has been giving me during the past week. Work has pressed very fast. One of the Meth. brethren is finding fault with me for getting a school to near his. Au long Die chapel wants to break off from Geu Cio Dong church and this just as the church and chapel were together working to make one self supporting church. Calls and requests are coming oftener than once a week for men to go to new places to teach the people the Gospel of Christ. The Theological Seminary requires 2 or 3 hours of my time every day. Then I pretend to be studying the language. I must confess however that this takes a back seat now-a-days – altho I get the practice in the business that I have to attend to every day. I hope that the oversight of the 30 or more men who are under my care will become easier in time. I have put a stop to borrowing- am getting hard hearted. Last week a young man sent word to me that he was sick and out of money and wanted to borrow $2.00. I said no flat because I knew he was not in destitute circumstances. Dwight is with me in this movement, so are Dr. Kinnear and Miss Newton. As soon as the men see that I mean what I say, when I tell them "no" they will stop coming to me. But you must not think that all these 30 men are of this stamp. Many of them are as conscientious as I am about these matters and these men are the people that hold me up.

Monday April 13. We are now having genuine hot sultry weather. Last night and this morning heavy thunder and copious rain is the order. Ellen was a little under the weather yesterday, but is better today. Phebe's vaccination is past the worst stage. The little girl looks about melted these hot days. But she is happy when in the open air and gives us very little trouble at night.

Next Fri. a church is to be dedicated in Diong Loh, Dr. Whitney's field. It is an Ancestral temple given up and made over into a house to be used for the worship of the one true God. Our washerman was taken out of a heathen home when we first arrived in China. He has been under Christian influence now for more than a year. But he has never said any thing about becoming a Christian. Two or three weeks ago I asked him if he was not going to make a start and he said he wanted to go slow. I told him I thought he had been slow enough. But that Jesus never said "go slow" in becoming a Christian. I was pleased last evening when he told me he was to join the C.E. next Sun.

Love to all from all Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

If I do not begin to write very soon I shall loose my bearings and shall not know where to begin or how to select from the many interesting items those which will be most interesting to you.

Last week I was busy on my Annual Report which each Missionary must write to be sent to the Rooms at Boston. This week I am the only member of the male persuasion in our Mission, at home. Messrs. Hubbard and Goddard are in Ing Hok. Mr. Hartwell is also in the country. Messrs. Peet and Dr. Whitney are to night half way to Shanghai to attend the Education Conference, and Mr. Peet expects to remain for the Y.P.S.C.E. Convention the last of May.

Two very interesting developments have taken place in my work since I last wrote. Thursday April 23rd. The Senior deacon at Geu Cio Dong came to me and said there was a division in the church regarding the self-support of the Pastor this year. The Pastor he said wanted $10.00 per month. Some of the members were willing to give it but some were not willing to give more than $8.00 per month. He wanted to know if he might come with some of the church members and talk over matters the next evening. I told him of course. He also went to Miss Newton and asked her to be present telling her the same that he told me adding "do not let the Pastor know as we would prefer to talk over the matter in his absence." With Friday evening came about fifteen of the church members- with the Pastor. I saw the Pastor alone and told him the business to be discussed and suggested that it might be better if he were not present. That the men might feel more free to express their real thoughts. But the Pastor did not seem at all alarmed and said the Deacon had invited him to come. So we all sat down. I said to them, "We have a difficult matter before us. What shall we do first?" Some one said "Pray." After two prayers I asked the Deacon if he were spokesman and if so if he would state the business, - telling just where the difficulty lay. He simply said, "We members of Geu Cio Dong have talked the matter over and are agreed to pay our Pastor $10.00 per month. We are also ready to vote to night on the question of paying our Pastor." This gust of wind from this unexpected quarter caught me unawares. I had rigged all my sails to meet two factions of men at variance, and was steering to affect a reconciliation thro a compromise. This sentence from the old deacon upset my bark and I was left sitting on the wrecked hull helpless. I could hardly believe my ears, and lest I had misunderstood simply said "That is very good. I am glad. Then there is no difficulty?" the men answered with a shake of the head while a sly smile passed along the line and I realized then they thought best to act on self support. The little seed has made wonderful growth in one short year. Pray for this church that it may be guided by the Holy Spirit in this new undertaking and that the leaders may be given great wisdom in managing the money matters of the church.

Written on back of photo by Willard: "Interior of Geu Cio Dong church- oldest church in Foochow. I now have charge of it. It seats about 250 and is packed every Sunday at 10:30 and at S.S. in P.M. 2:30."

About a month ago the man who preaches at my Au Long Die chapel told me that there were several men who spoke a Southern dialect (which was his native dialect) doing business in the great fish market, the busiest place in Foochow, who wanted a chapel started in their street. They were willing to pay him if he would come and preach for them. But they wanted the Mission to rent, repair and furnish a chapel. This would take about $200.00. There was no money in the Mission treasury, so I went to Miss Newton and told her the state of things. She was willing to help $50.00. We put in an equal amount. I told the people that we could help them $100.00. If they could do the rest we should be very happy. At first they said "Impossible." I also said impossible to raise on the $100.00. But in about a week they came five men and told me they were ready. They had the carpenter and the mason with them with contracts all written out. And the orders for the benches and other furniture had been given. They are to have the new chapel dedicated in a few weeks, and pay their preacher from the first. This makes two self-supporting for me. The next surprise I expect from Au Long Die. I do not know in what line it will be, but there are some energetic, warm hearted, Christian men there who are not poor, and they are planning something these days. I do not know exactly what. I prefer to give any help in the form of suggesting principles and giving hints and leave the people to do the thing in their own way. If they do it in my way, they derive no benefit, and they do not take the interest in it that they do if done by themselves in their own way, feeling that they have my prayers and sympathy and that I am ready at any moment to help them in any difficult problem.

We are just now busy examining the Day Schools. Thus far three have been examined. I go with our personal teacher to the school. 20 or 30 pupils are sitting at their desks awaiting our arrival. I ask my teacher to offer a short prayer, after which he calls the pupils one at a time to come forward with the books which they have read. The first boy brings two or more books, some the native books of Confucius or Mencius and some the Christian books written by the missionaries and native Christians. He places these books on the table before us, turns his back toward us, and begins to recite as if his supper depended upon his finishing at a given limited time. The teacher turns two or more leaves ahead of where he is reciting – for there is not time to hear him recite the whole book- and reads three or four words. The boy takes up one passage without even repeating what the teacher has said- literally takes the words out of the teacher's mouth and rattles on at a break-neck pace. This break-neck pace of itself is laugh-provoking, but you add to it that peculiar swaying or rather tattering from side to side, from one foot to the other it makes Ellen and me bite our lips. This motion is for the sake of helping the memory and when the memory stops the boy stands still. When the memory is the swiftest the boy goes from side to side like the sieves in a farming mill. This motion is however going out of date in our best schools. I have three teachers who have never taught for the Mission before and do not know how ludicrous we regard this practice. In other schools it is not so prevalent.

May 8th.

I was roused this morning at 2 A.M. and requested about 1 mile to see a dying widow who asked to will her little girl 7 yrs. old to me. I dressed and went over to Ha Puo Church of which the widow is a member, and told the Pastor and his wife, who had sent for me that I was not willing to accept any such responsibility. If they or the church wished to take the little girl good, I would witness the transaction and be of any service within my power. Here the real state of affairs came out. The woman was the 2nd wife of a man who had 2 brothers- one older- one younger. When he died according to custom the older brother has power over his family. In this case the older brother came and ransacked the house taking away all the deceased mans deeds to property and leaving the widow destitute. She had one little boy and a girl who had been bought for his wife. She herself has since bought another little girl and has the deed for the little girl!! Afterward she became a Christian and joined the church thinking that she was not likely to live. She realized that these children would fall into the hands of the husband's elder brother and his only thought regarding them would be to get as much money for their sale as possible. Lord how long, how long? must this people continue to devour each other? Widows houses are devoured, the bread is taken from the children's mouths. - The man that falls is trampled under foot by those who are stronger- every advantage is taken to get a cash. Mercy is almost unknown- and justice is rare.

I told this Pastor if the church wished to take the little girl good. They must write a will to that effect. I would witness and this they did. Then we went to the house. Within were the elder and younger brothers- ready to grab the booty as soon [as] the woman was really gone. Also a daughter of the deceased husband by a former wife all bitterly opposed to Christianity, also a Bible Woman, an old man, a church member and myself. The note which called me said that if they waited till day light they feared the woman could not speak- she however could make a good deal of noise when I arrived and I did not feel in any hurry for fear we were too late. We asked her in the presence of the brother-in-laws what was her wish. She spoke very plainly saying she was afraid she might not live and if not she feared that the older brother of her husband would take her little girl and bring her up to worship Buddha and perhaps sell her for the worst purposes. She spoke plainly also of her love of Jesus and of her desire to have the little girl brought up to love Jesus and to serve Him. Then we read to her the will we had prepared and she assented and signed it. I signed as witness. Ming Uong as another witness. We then asked the elder brother to sign but he refused. He said however in the presence of us all that he had no power over the girl. The woman bought and paid for her. With this oral evidence from him we left after praying with the woman and saying a few words of comfort and cheer.

Not until just this moment has the realization of my situation while in that house reoccurred to me. But it comes back to me now as it flashed over my mind while standing in the room alone last night with those Chinese. I was alone far from any other foreigner at dead of night in the presence of two men whose evil purpose I had openly come to thwart. Within sound of their voices were not less than 100 persons who were not friendly to Christianity. But did not once for a second think of fear. I think this fact has two explanations. 1st I am accustomed to go anywhere among the people and have never received anything but kind treatment. 2nd I think God shuts out fear from the mind of His children when they are about His business.

Sunday evening: May 10th. It is my first duty to say that after the Dr. had been to see the above mentioned woman, and found that she had indigestion and worms, and is now well on the road to recovery, my sympathies have abated.

The amah has gone home for Sunday. As Ellen has a S.S. at the Hospital and as she plays for the Y.P.S.C.E. at Geu Cio Dong, I have been amah, have had the care of Phebe all the P.M. and until she went to bed and fell asleep. Her habits are getting quite regular now that the weaning process is over. She wakes about 6 A.M., takes breakfast 6:30, her bath at 9:00, then has a good long nap, and another meal and works (?) till 1:30 when she eats again and then has another nap, eats again at 4:30, again at 7:00 and goes to bed. She is very active, never quiet. One of her great amusements is to play with four or five little stones on the steps. She will pound these against one another by the half hour. Perhaps she will make a stone mason. Then she is much taken with watching the birds and gets so excited she almost flies. I have not gone down stairs with her today when she has not begged for a flower. The red and pink geraniums are very pretty now and she will hold one of these blossoms extending it now and then for me to smell and if her mother comes out will hold out for her to smell and she will keep it for a long time, then suddenly crumble it up and train to other business. Ellen gives her cows milk boiled and the cream stirred in with enough hot water to warm it and with each meal 2 tea spoonfuls of Mellins food. She is getting fat every day. To day she received her first severe bump. I was rolling her in her carriage on the walk when she suddenly put both hands on one side of the carriage, raised herself up on her feet and went out head first turning a complete somersault. Fortunately the place where she struck was soft and in a few minutes she was all right. I expect it is only in this way that she will learn to be careful about falling. At present she is entirely devoid of any fear.

Dr. Kinnear's family started for home a week ago Thurs. I am the only man in the compound. A week ago for four days I was the only man of our Mission in Foochow. The others were either in the country or had started for Shanghai.

As to your offer to make the balance due me $50.00 and put it in the bank father. We intended to do that very thing before the year is gone only we shall not tie the money for any length of time. To accept your offer I should have to send you an order for $30.00 which I do not want to do now. Her allowance is this year $45.00. We expect to lay this aside each year. But it would not be wise for us to lock it up till she was 21 years of age for if every thing is favorable she will need some of it before that time for her education.

The boxes from home have not yet arrived. They may be expected any time. Mr. Kenneston wrote that the Shelton church had sent 14 lbs. of cards to us. We have not received them. I wonder if he put them in the box which you sent.

The work is very encouraging in all parts of the field. We no longer seek opportunities to preach, no longer try to gain an entrance into villages or sections of the city and suburbs. We simply cannot supply all the calls that come. There has been one chapel connected with Geu Cio Dong for three years. Within the next two weeks there will be two more off-shoots- one a chapel, the other the self-supporting church in the fish market referred to above. Not a week passes when the pastor does not tell me there must be one more chapel in another important section where there are several church members. One village that comes under the care of Ha Puo Ga has teased so long that I have at last given the church members there money to buy the lumber and they are going to make benches themselves to put in one of the members houses, so as to hold worship each Sunday. Other places are waiting. The harvest is ripe. Laborers are few. Who among the 1000's in Christian America will say "Send me??" Who will send him?

Lovingly, Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Last week brought with it the long looked for boxes from Shelton and Putnam. The box from Shelton came all right except two of the glass cans. One in which dried apples were put must have had a good rap some time for it was well shattered. One of the cans of butter arrived- only we could not find the butter- with the lid in two parts. The butter was in the box well distributed but we could not find it. However the damage amounted to almost nothing. Perhaps two pounds of cereal were damaged- nothing else suffered. Elizabeth was very thoughtful to put in pumpkin pie seeds and dear little Stanley- is little right now? - was very kind to put in the popping corn. We shall enjoy it so much and it will make us think of home. Ellen's eyes snapped when the little shoes and bonnet came to light. Do you know the little girl has such big feet that those shoes will just go on now. We gave Phebe the ball and she looked at it rather demurely, but when the little paste board box with the pumpkin pie seeds came out and we shook that before her she gave one jump, stretched out her hand and during the rest of the day that old rattle box was her companion- she likes a noise. Ellen put on the ring from Uncle James, but after a glance she turned again to her pumpkin pie seeds. The ball has since become attractive to her, and a rubber rattle from Putnam has been a great source of amusement to her. When the boxes of cards came to light Ellen fairly screamed with delight. She had given away nearly all of her stock and the children were literally crying tears for more. It looked rather dubious, but this addition makes it all right for the next few months. Ellen said the dress pattern for herself was exactly what she wanted. The pen, shears, comb etc. were all in perfect condition.

Last Sat. afternoon we went up to Guliang- the mountain resort with Dwight and his Dr. and staid till Monday afternoon. It seemed like moving to another sphere. The air was cool and clear. All was as quiet as it is out in the fields at home. The temperature on the mountain was about what you are enjoying at home at this season of the year. But the best of the outing was to think that no Chinaman could reach you for two whole days with any business. Now don't accuse me of disloyalty to the cause which we came here to foster. But since the first of last Oct. I have had three days off at different times. With this exception it has been a steady pull almost seven days in the week in spite of everything I could do. The work has grown and developed wonderfully since Jan 1st '96 and every day brings men to consult about new work or the enlargement of old work- or some man is in trouble and wants help- or a church or chapel must be repaired etc. etc. this is all work that must be done and therefore is in the line of duty and when done brings its reward in a peaceful and contented mind. But the body gets weary and the mind gets weary, and two days of perfect quiet surrounded by God's own handiwork- out of the din of the crowded city, are better than any amount of pills if one must remain in the whirl. We were in bed at 8:30 each night. Sun. A.M. we breakfasted at 9:30 o'clock. Mon. A.M. we did better. Phebe was asleep when we started from Ponasang. She woke up while we [were] on the plain and did not know where she was. She acted just as if she thought some one was carrying her off. I had to carry her in my arms about half way up the mountain. This gave me good exercise.

Fri. May 22nd. Last night was Ong ick that is very hot and this morning is about like a hot, muggy dog days morning at home.

Ming Uong was taken ill last Sunday, and has not done any thing this week. I have taken two classes. But as I do not have to teach him, I have been comparatively free this week and letter writing has advanced a peg. This makes the sixth since Tues.

We have waited most a week vainly for a home mail. The last arrived three weeks and three days ago. Yesterday we hear that the "Rio" one of the Pacific steamers was off for repairs and so one trip skipped. The result is a long period with no letter, no papers, then we are covered with both up to our necks.

The work grows amazingly. The self support idea has taken hold of the heartstrings and purse-strings of the people in my field, and every one is planning for enlargement of the work- and planning to give themselves a good share of the money. Several of the members of Geu Cio Dong live within the city wall. There are about 20 of them living quite near together. Goddard wanted to do a little work on his own hook and I told him these people would greatly appreciate a chapel in their midst. He told them to rent one and he would meet the expenses. They tried several places, but it is a section in which foreigners are not well known and none of the natives were willing to rent. The Christians had no suitable place. So they say, "Never mind, we will rent ourselves and pay for it." Now this is the spirit that will be conducive to the surest and swiftest, and healthiest growth of the native church. I have been working and praying for this spirit during the past year and the pastor at Geu Cio Dong has preached and talked and prayed for it. Now I have to hold the people back sometimes. A few evenings ago I asked some members living in a suburb if they could not rent a house for a chapel and pay for it themselves. Yesterday morning they reported that they wanted to buy instead of rent. They wanted a nice looking church, but they could not raise the money now and wanted me to advance it and let them pay it back after a few years. But I do not do business in that way. And I told them to begin small and as their numbers increased enlarge and beautify.

It is most time for another letter telling all about the farm work, and the cattle and horses, - telling about Flora's school, and Phebe's lessons, and James' and Ruth's. I shall hear whether Mary goes to Shelton in the Fall. And is Stanley as indispensable to the running of the farm as ever? How tall are you Stanley? If you can be spared for a few moments, I wish you would write me another letter. Ben's letters are very interesting, but like many interesting things they are rare. Elizabeth I know is having a great time playing duets with Grace. Now my dear girl, just lock up that old noise board some day, and give Grace a sheet of paper, take another yourself and write a good long letter- leaving space for Oliver to add a few pages. I have not heard directly from him since I was in China.

The news has come to us from a round about source that five new ladies were coming this Fall to help us. One is Mr. Hartwell's daughter. We know she is coming. But as to the other four we do not feel all sure the news is too good to be true, and then why have we not heard directly? Mr. Woodin has written that he was to return in the Fall.

Phebe creeps some. We do not encourage her in it. But she goes all over the bed and in the morning when her mother wants to sleep the little girl is just full of the old nick. This morning she woke Ellen by screaming. Ellen found her more than half off the bed caught in the corner between the side of the bed and the door post. She knew enough to be afraid. She pulls herself up on her feet, but has not yet tried to stand alone. She says MaMa and PaPa all right and eats five times a day. She knows when she is hungry and whether her food is properly fixed or not.

Strawberries have been very plentiful this year. We have them three times a day and I believe Ellen has several quarts canned. The other fresh fruits are pebas, a yellow round fruit about the size of guineas eggs- 1 ½ in. in diameter. Each has three large seeds in it. We like it very much. Bananas and oranges are nearly gone. Plums will be ripe in a few weeks. Another fruit that looks much like strawberries- but which is very sour is just coming into market. We can eat it if plenty of sugar is used and it is cooked.

We have packed and addressed another box for America this time we send to Putnam. The box contains most (?) every thing that the Chinese use! It is full of stuff and is Ellen's gift. You will need to buy no more knives or forks or spoons or razors, or ear rings, etc. etc. use chop sticks and Chinese substitutes instead. The box contains two of each article. The Putnam folks will keep one of each and send one to you.

I must close this now with love to you- a lot of love to Grandfather and Grandmother and Aunt Louise. From us all

Will Ellen Phebe

Foochow China
June 5th 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

This is writing an answer to letters before those letters have arrived. I do not know what is the matter with the mails but during the last month American news has been very scarce. We have had two papers- no letters.

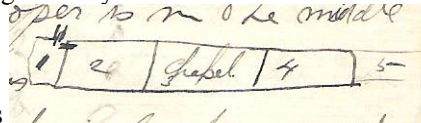

Phebe is just getting there! Her daily gymnastics are to climb the stairs to our house three times each day. It is fun to watch her go up. The Amah ties her dress up so that it cannot trip her. And the little thing acts just as if she knew we wanted to see her creep up. She often goes from bottom to top without stopping. She never goes from top to bottom,- because Amah does not allow it. She creeps all over the house, and mops up the floors in great style. It has been so hot that we have put nothing on her feet lately and she wears only a very thin little sleeveless shirt and a thin white dress. Her knees are getting brown and callous. She stands the heat very well indeed- better than many of the other children. She says Papa and Mama and "shakes a day-day" when her papa goes away. As yet she eats only Mellins food and milk. She pulls herself up on her feet and stands by holding onto things, but does not yet try to walk. She goes out of bed frequently, but as the misquito netting is always well tucked in at the edge of the bed and as there is a good deal of elasticity to it, her fall is so broken that she is not much hurt.

Mr. Walker, Mr. Gardner, and Dr. Bliss returned from Shaowu Wednesday. Since they have been away from Foochow a line of steam launches has been put on the river, running up to the foot of the rapids. Mr. Gardner took the launch when they got down to the place where the launch was. He arrived about 5 P.M. Tues. Mr. Walker and Dr. stuck to their boat and arrived about 3 P.M. Wed. So the launch makes some difference. These little launches that run up and down the main river and a little distance into the branches are completely revolutionizing to passenger traffic about Foochow. In this way- by the patronage which these launches have the Chinese shown that they do have some idea of the value of time. The launches must be immensely lucrative, for it is reported that one line paid the government $30,000.00 for it's charter. Another line offered Mr. Peet $1200.00 if he would simply help them get a charter, and allow his name be used in connection with the company. When I tell you that I can go 15 miles on one of these launches for 5 2/3 cent you can estimate the immense traffic there is on them. But the expense of running one of the boats is slight. An engineer, a fireman, two steermen, two conductors to collect fare, and perhaps two others. $2.00 a day will pay all eight. $1.00 will buy the coal. The furnishing amounts to almost nothing. A few wooden horses, the passengers for the most part sit on baggage on the sides of the boat, on the floor or stand and lean against each other.

Before this reaches you we shall be at Guliang if all goes well. The Seminary will close June 26th. Then we are off as fast as possible. Ellen and Phebe may go up before. We can see the house on Guliang in which we are to live from Ponasang, so we seem very near home. It takes a little over three hours to go up from Ponasang. This will make it easy for me to run down occasionally and see how the work so going on. I can come down in the early morning and return in the afternoon, thus avoiding the heat while travelling. The Seminary building- temporary building- is almost done. We expect to recite in the new recitation next week. The sleeping rooms will not be dry enough this term for safety to health so we shall not move into them till next Fall.

Mon. June 8th. Yesterday we dedicated a new chapel- rather two new ones. Mr. Hartwell has opened a new one in the city. He pays all the expenses there. The other in my field is self-supporting from the first. The people there have also furnished most of the money for the repairs and furniture. This chapel is in the busiest portion of the suburbs.- The big fish market- It is the back portion of one of the stores. These stores are from 12-15 ft. wide and this one is nearly 200 ft. deep,- very long and very narrow. We have about 90 ft. on the back end. The chapel proper is in the middle 30 ft. It is arranged thus and lamps is in the center. 1 is an open court at the rear, with a door opening on to a side street, and is a room fully as large as the chapel which we can use for a school room. 4 is a court closed in which can be used to enlarge the chapel. 5 is the house of the fish dealer i.e. the rooms in which he lives. Further from the chapel and next the big street is his store.- The arrangement for the chapel makes a very elastic affair, ordinarily they will use only no. 3 or the chapel proper, which will seat 100 men if crowded. Yesterday 2, 3 and 4 were all thrown together and there were about 300 men and women in attendance. Over no. 2 are the rooms for preacher and janitor. The funds for this church are as follows: rent $72.00, Preacher $50.00, repairs about $70.00 I=Mission have helped them $100.00.

The mail has just arrived from home. How we rejoiced! Hurrah for Annie Gilbert Beard [daughter of Oliver Gould Beard, Jr. and Grace Gilbert Beard, born April 25, 1896]. I'd like to see her and Phebe have a tussle. They would stand and look at each other and then Phebe would touch her, then feel of her eyes to see what color they were. Can she walk yet? But I'll save further inquiries to send direct to Oliver and Grace. It's most time for a picture to arrive. We did not receive a letter from Aunt Ella, but are ready for one at any time. I am afraid it got lost some where. You see from the "Herald" (Missionary) that a fellow has to do lots of writing or I should say ought to do lots of writing. I have a whole stack of unanswered letters now on hand. I try to write regularly to you and to report all interesting items to the Herald. Other correspondents are answered when I have time.

A mail closes this afternoon. The messenger is waiting to take this so I must close with love to all from us all.

Cards came this A.M.
Thanks.

Will.

Guliang.

Foochow, China
June 29th 96

Dear Folks at Home:-

Last Wednesday we all three came up to Guliang. I staid just long enough to put up the bed and do a little unpacking so that Ellen and Phebe could be comfortable for a few days. Then I went back down the mountain to Ponasang. Thurs. the examination of the young men who have been studying in the Theol. Sch. took place. Mrs. Hartwell [Hannah L.], Mr. Peet, and Mrs. Goddard and two of the native pastors were present. The boys acquitted themselves well and the examiners spoke very favorably. Thurs. afternoon I met them for the last time this term and talked with them about the Summer's work, and they went away to their various homes where they will help in their home churches, with happy faces and I think buoyant hearts. Fri. morning various little things had to be done, and the cook had to be paid off and a good bye said to him and I had to listen to his story, that he was honest and that Ellen had misunderstood him etc. I started in company with Miss Newton at 3:45 P.M. and reached the house here at 6:00 P.M. Dwight and his Dr. had arrived for dinner. You know we are living with them in their house. We are all living in three rooms. The house is built in this wise

The rooms are each 12 X 20 ft. The outside walls are of stone two ft. thick, the veranda has a wooden floor, is 8 ft. wide. We are snugly packed in here, and thus far have not fought at all. The temperature is very much like that at home in New England. When I was down at Ponasang I had to wear the very thin white cotton pants and coat with the thinnest undervest. Here the clothes I wore at home in America are very comfortable. At night we need a blanket. I hardly knew Phebe when I came up Fri. evening. She had changed so much since Wed. The heat has caused a bad breaking out all over her head, hands and body. This had all disappeared by Friday and her little face was sweet and fair.

June 21st was one of the most interesting Sundays I have spent in Foochow. Mr. Walker conducted the communion at Au Long Die. This was the establishment of a church organization in this place. Mr. Hartwell opened a chapel there two years ago. The work had been connected with Geu Cio Dong and the people in this field have joined the Geu Cio Dong church. I have had charge of it since March '95. 39 members took letters from Geu Cio Dong and formed a new organization at Au Long Die. 6 men and 1 woman also joined on confession making a church of 45 members. These people have already offered a man $8.00 per month to be their pastor. I attended church that morning at Ha Puo Ga. The subject of the morning was "giving." Ha Puo Ga had not yet been very enthusiastic on the subject of self support. I have been talking to them for a long time and they have at last opened their eyes. The Pastor, Ming Uong's father, gave a good sermon on giving. Then I spoke a few words, and the two deacons and Ming Uong followed. Subscriptions were taken and collectors appointed. One man subscribed $4.00 another $3.00 another $1.00, another $6.00. The whole amount subscribed that day and previously was about $60.00. This compared with the $18.00 of last year is very gratifying.

In the afternoon I went over to city, to attend the opening exercises of a new chapel. About 12 members of Geu Cio Dong live near together here and it is over two miles for them to come to church. They have with their own money rented this chapel and are going to fit it up. I had tried to rent three different places in this vicinity for these people but the rentees were afraid to rent to foreigners. It was very pleasing to hear that the people had gone ahead and done it themselves without asking a cent of me. The room was filled with about 100 persons. The Pastor of Geu Cio Dong was over and gave them a good talk- telling them that God looked not to the house they worshipped in but into the heart. If that was all right, it mattered not whether the house was fine or coarse. A thunder storm came up during the service and I was sent home in a sedan chair at the expense of the people. Mr. Walker was also thus treated to a free ride by the people at Au Long Die after his morning service.

So you see that three events of marked importance make June 21st 1896 long to be remembered. The self support idea I think had taken firm hold of every one of my churches and the churches in other parts of the field are beginning to catch the idea.

Last Sat. evening a letter arrived from you addressed to Ellen. We were glad to hear good news from the baby. It must be fun for Elizabeth to take care of a baby two hours each night. I sent a letter to Oliver and Grace in care of father because I did not know the B-port address.

(This is Phebe's greeting to Annie in her own hand. Her mark is above.) [There is a 3" pencil line on the letter. He's referring to Oliver and Grace's new baby, Anna Gilbert Beard.] We were also happy to hear that Grandfather and Grandmother were so well. The measles seem to be having their own way in Conn. It was good tho to hear the news after you were getting most well. By this time Phebe is out of school with all the rest. Flora is home, and with the exception of the two eldest the children are at home. How your borders are enlarging father and mother, and how your numbers increase! When Au Long Die took 39 members away from Geu Cio Dong, the pastor and leading members of the mother church looked rather anxious especially as they are just trying this year to pay all of their own expenses. I told them this church was like a father and mother. They have now three children. One a church as large as themselves- another with 70 members and the youngest Au Long Die with 45. The Lord is prospering them greatly. And in a short time they will have grandchildren. But all this time this parent church itself has gained in strength and numbers to found other churches. After the last church- before Au Long Die- went away, there were about 70 members left. After Au Long Die left there were about 170 left. This it always is, when we are willing to give freely God amply reimburses us. A man never loses by unselfishly giving of the goods God has lent him to the Lord's cause.

I wonder if a letter was lost or whether you have not yet received it. I wrote father about the Literary Digest, saying that a gentleman from Putnam sends me the Public Opinion each week. This comes before the Digest does, and covers nearly the same ground, so perhaps it will not be necessary to send the Digest. If the Putnam gentleman discontinues I will let you know. I also wrote concerning the money you offered to put into the Bank. I do not know when I can do it but we plan to put by at least that sum. It looks as if we might have to put up a shanty here at Guliang that will take about $300.00, and will make it look sharply to the dollars for a time. We have not been here long enough yet to decide certainly. The weather is much cooler here, and it is much easier of access than Sharp Peak. The expense of summering at the two places is about the same. It takes at least a whole day to go from Foochow to the Peak, we come up here in 4 hours easily and go down in less time. We also get better food here. Meat and fruit are fresher. There are now so many on Guliang that two stores have been started here and we can buy every thing we need. I can run down once a month to see how things are going on in the churches. But Ellen counts this a draw back and declares I am not going. The only reason why the Peak should be chosen is that the rent there can be paid each year. Here we must build and have all the money at once. This we shall be able to do next year.

We have heard that Dr. Kinnear and family were quarantined in Japan. They must be in America by this time however. I do not know when they will come to Meriden. I hope you will see them while they are there. Mr. Walker started for America last week Friday. He said he should be likely to visit New Haven. I gave him your address and invited him to call. We feel very slim in numbers now but hope that the Autumn will bring 4 or five out to help. Mr. and Mrs. Woodin, 2 Misses Woodhull, Dr. Kinnear and family and Mr. Walker are in America.

With Love from all of us to all of you Will.

July 13th 1896

Dear Folks at Home:-

I started from the top of Mt. Guliang this morning at 5:55 o'clock and reached Ponasang at 9:30 o'clock. I never experienced a more rapid rise in the temperature. When I arose I tried to dress for the hotter regions below, but was compelled to put on an extra woolen coat, to eat breakfast and I found it very comfortable during the first quarter of the descent, then the temperature went up as I went down and I soon found myself in a reeking perspiration, from which I have scarcely dried yet. The day here has not been as hot as many but coming down from the cool mountain air one feels the heat more than he would if he were in it all the time. I have ridden in a sedan or walked before it about 12 miles today. This is the time when I have to meet the Day School teachers and Preachers to give them the money which comes from the Mission as help. As soon as it was known that I was in the compound every one who was at home and had any trouble rushed in and the relatives of the absent ones came as representatives. The mother of a young man under Dwight's care came to ask for her son's money, Dwight had paid it two weeks ago and I knew it. One man came once and four men came once to get me to intercede with the Consul in behalf of some people in trouble, who are in Mr. Hubbard's field and this after Mr. Hubbard had himself twice visited the consul about the matter.

God had very richly blessed our churches during the past ten months. They have nearly doubled their membership. Now it looks as if he were testing and hardening the young shoots by persecution. If the persecution did not come, it is certain the growth of the church in numbers would be abnormal. It would be next to impossible to keep men out of the church until they had learned the fundamental truth of the Christian Gospel.

A man from a village about 100 miles up the river Min joined my Ha Puo church three months ago. Upon returning home he was seized and imprisoned and has been in torture every since. As near as I can get at the truth of his case it is this: About two years ago there was difficulty in his family over a wood lot owned by several members of the family. This man was seized and imprisoned – not for the wrong he had done but because he had money. He was tortured till he promised to pay $200.00. This money he did not pay. But the case was dropped until this man joined the church, then he was rearrested, and he has had his hands cramped in a torturing position for three months. I can hardly endure to think of him in this condition and I have to by mere force of will power put him out of my mind. He called on me twice while he was in Foochow. The last time was the morning before he left for home and just as he was about to say good bye he asked to have a prayer with me and we knelt and prayed together. Pray for him.

It is bed time and I have had a long day of it. It seems very lonely with no dear ones near. I have thought once or twice I hear that familiar little grunt that means Please Mama or Papa come in a moment and kiss me and pat me a few times then I'll go right to sleep again. But it is only a delusion and I am alone in the midst a teeming multitude. I must retire to a hot bed and try to sleep. - Will

Sunday, July 19th. - You see I have taken a rest. But to begin where I left off. I slept quite well at Ponasang. I just opened all the doors and the slats of the blinds and drew the bed into the middle of the room and thus got the benefit of every breeze that came along.

Tuesday morning I paid out about $100.00 and met and talked with 25 or thirty natives one or two at a time to "Pang gong" i.e. chat. About 3:00 P.M. I started for Guliang and arrived just in time for supper.

Thursday Henry Whitney and I arose at 3:50 and started at 4:30 A.M. on a deer or anything – else hunt. We went down into a valley and the four natives with their dogs raced over the mountain sides for game. We hear partridges whistle, but nothing better till 8 o'clock when we scented bread and jam and boiled eggs etc. After a lunch we were resting a little when one of the dogs began to bark and a native shouted "gi eeng duai" which is being interpreted, "A deer, very big." Of course we started but the deer came down into the valley, crossed the path right where I had been standing and went up on the other side of the valley. This was about 10 A.M. It was getting hot and the dogs were getting tired. I must tell the truth. We lost the deer and then returned home having had a grand good walk, and seen some beautiful scenery.

There are now about 200 foreigners on the mountain, including missionaries and merchants. Several missionaries are here from Amoy. Sunday is a full day. I try to attend Chinese service at 9:30 A.M. Chinese C.E. at 5:00 P.M. There are more Chinese appendages to foreigners than foreigners themselves. You see there must [be] a teacher, cook and coolie for every house, and where there are children an amah is added. A special effort is being made to interest the mountaineers in Truth. The missionaries have been here now for eight summers and there is not yet one Guliang native who has embraced the Gospel. They have been too eager to get money out of the foreigners, and the foreigners have been too eager to keep from being cheated by them, I am afraid, to pay much attention to the higher spiritual things.

Phebe is developing very fast. She stands alone and walks along the wall quite easily. Mrs. Goddard is very much attached to her. The little girl kisses every one permiscuously. When she happens to have a kissing speck on she begins to smack her lips and reaches first toward one and then toward another to let her kiss them, giving the amah her full share. She still wants her milk and Mellins food and is very much grieved if we try to palm off oat meal on her. The other evening we gave her the soft part of popped corn and she ate it ravenously. To day she ate the best part of two lie chis- a fruit of China.

Well I am glad to hear that Long Hill Ave. is to be macadamized, and that Ben is to do the work. What a lot of stone will disappear from the old farm! I shall be interested to hear all about it. How many teams were on the work, and how the work was done, and [how] long it took etc.

Mrs. Kate Johnson's death must have cast a gloom over the whole community. I have not been so much surprised at any news received since I came to China. But the Lord's ways are always wonderful and always best.

I was glad to hear that the measles had withdrawn leaving you all well and that Grandfather and Grandfather [Grandmother] were able to come down to see you. I wonder when I shall find time to write directly to White Hills. I must also write Mr. Park and Mr. Kenneston. James Solandt has written me a very earnest letter of enquiry about coming to Foochow. I must answer that.

The days are getting pretty warm, but not so bad but that I can wear collars and cuffs. I could not think of doing this at Sharp Peak last year. We are talking seriously of buying and putting up a house this Fall to be ready for use next Summer. If any one wishes to send money to me they can either give it to father to place to my credit, as I shall have to send home twice a year for things- or they can send it to the treasurer- Frank Wiggins 1 Somerset St. Boston and ask him to place it to my credit. I shall personally receive it then. Lovingly Will.

[This letter dated July 19, 1896 was written from Foochow, China by Ellen to the dear ones at Huntington home. Ellen talks about the latest on Phebe and thanks those at home for the box of gifts. She thanks them for the cards that they sent for the Chinese church members. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Mt. Kuliang, Foochow,
July 19", '96.

My dear ones at Huntington home.

Just as I sit down to write, Phebe climbs up by my knee and offers to dictate while I write her thoughts; at least, she is chattering away as fast as her little tongue can move and pulling at my dress to attract my attention. Is this a plea for that "whole letter about her", do you suppose, Ruth? I hope before the summer is gone I shall find opportunity to gratify your wish.

The little girl has been very happy entertaining and shall I say "cute"? this afternoon. She has just learned to kiss and always gives three rousing smacks when asked to bestow that token of affection. She goes spitting about the house at a lively pace especially if she knows she is wanted, or any one chases her in play. She is learning to walk and can already stand alone for a part of a minute. Her amah is very fond of her and cares for her very patiently and lovingly; Phebe likes her very much too and always stays with her contentedly. She was thirteen months old yesterday and weighed twenty-one and one-half pounds.

Now Phebe and I both want to thank you very much for the beautiful gifts you sent us in the box. The dress pattern is especially appropriate for a wool dress in this climate since we wear summer clothing so long and need it so thin for comfort. Phebe's pink cashmere is just her color and will make her a very handsome dress for next fall. The bonnet she has had a great deal of use for already. The shoes she will wear when her little trotters become accustomed to their work. She has taken one deep breath of the perfumery so I think she appreciates it. But one thing in which she takes great delight is the pansy bouquet calendar. She points to it across the room and when held up before it talks and laughs, pats the faces and says very plainly "pretty babies." The box of pumpkin-seeds she enjoyed immensely as a rattle: it made such a big racket.

Until I came to the mountain Dr. Kinnear's Hospital Sunday School was in my charge, from the time they left for America. In the little clinic room were gathered the lame, the leper and the sick of all manner of disease- a company it seemed to me as I looked upon them, not so very unlike the multitudes that followed Jesus when upon earth. Of course I could only teach them, through my Chinese assistant a simple Bible story from one of the large Bible pictures such as are used in primary classes at home, and give them one of the cards you sent with a text pasted on the back. It is the ambition of many of these boys and girls to learn that text to recite the next Sunday and so receive a large, beautiful card in addition to the one received in the general distribution. In this way some part of the Scripture is carried each Sabbath, into more than a hundred homes.

If you could be present once and witness the eagerness and delight with which they listen to the story and receive the cards, you would feel repaid for the trouble you have taken to collect them.

Several hundreds of the cards were given to our day-school scholars who thanked us profusely for them; but as we only asked the American friends for the pictures, I think their gratitude should be passed along to the real donors.

Now, we have sent a box of -trash Willard calls it, to Putnam; after taking out the things designated for them they will forward the rest to you. An explanation of the articles and their use will be sent later.

Thanking you for all the kind letters and promising a longer answer next time I am yours with loving regards to all, especially little Annie.

Ellen.

Mt. Kuliang.

Dear Folks at Home:-

During the last ten days the mail has arrived twice but other people had all the letters. Mrs. Goddard received letters from Dr. Woodhull and her sister written en route for Van Couver from Yokahama and one also written two days East from Van Couver while they were resting for Sunday. Just as the ship came into Van Couver a heavy freshet came in that region and trains for the East were delayed. Their train was the first to pass over a large bridge that had to be rebuilt. They left Yokahama June 19th. Dr. Kinneer and his family were still there. The children had the whooping cough and the ship's Dr. would not let them come on board. They intended to stay in Japan three weeks. The last we knew they were detained six weeks longer making nine weeks in all. It is too bad for the delay will bring them into the hot weather to cross the Continent and will also cut a big slice of the stay in America.

The past week all the residents of Kuliang have given themselves up to the "Kuliang Convention." There have been two meetings each day one at 9:30 A.M. and one at 5:00 P.M. there has also been a daily prayer meeting at 7:00 A.M. which we have "skipped." The meetings as a whole have been very interesting and profitable. I will enclose a programme. There are about 50 young ladies here, most of them from England, Scotland, Ireland and Australia. About ten from America. The British young ladies especially are very fond of prayer meetings, and they can attend longer services and more of them than people who have families. Then too they are entirely free from care and work connected with their stations, so we are well supplied with meetings. We found the meetings on Mon. A.M., Fri. A.M. and Sat. P.M. very interesting and helpful. Ellen and Mrs. Goddard attended Thurs. P.M. and told Dwight and me, who climbed the next to the highest peak near here, instead of going to meeting, that we missed a good service. The Memorial service Aug. 1st was very impressive. Mr. Saddler is a man of about 60 of the London Mission in Amoy. He is a very effective speaker, and made us all feel that the eleven who laid down their lives at Kucheng a year ago had served Christ in this way as they could in no other way. It is generally conceded that the connection between the massacre and the great interest in the truth in this whole region during the past nine months, is very close. Mr. Saddler made the thought very impressive, that when we came to China to work with God we gave ourselves into his care and into his service to be used in any way, whether by our lives or by our death for His glory. The meetings all through with the exception of Miss Newtons have dealt with the subjective side of the Christian life. We most need one or two meetings now to fasten these new glimpses of Truth and to help us apply them to every day life and service. There will be several conferences on different subjects following on now. This coming week we will meet to consider the Student Volunteer movement. I am to head the meeting. Then we talk of considering the subject of persecutions and how we shall act with regard to taking these troubles of the native Christians to the officials and to the Consuls. Doubtless other subjects will be presented at other meetings. I was reading an article to day in the Advance which said that a minister needed to attend some good rousing convention during his vacation, for his mind was apt to get in a starving condition, and the quiet solitude of the country was not all that he needed. Kuliang furnishes both. The Archdeacon of the English Mission here has built his house about two miles away from the other houses because he did not want any company, nor did he want people coming to see him all the time while on Kuliang. He came here to rest and he wanted quiet. I have seen him at just one of the meetings this week.

We were very happy to receive the piece of paper with a blot on it. Annie must be a very handsome baby to affect the camera in that way. Allow me Flora to suggest that next time you do not let your camera face a window. However this is a very good piece of work for an amateur. I am afraid that Phebe's photo which has reached you before you read this will be a disappointment. Phebe had had rather a tough time with her teeth. She now has ten, four in front both lower and upper, and one eye tooth and one next back of it. The two corresponding on the other side are trying to get out to the light very hard. She eats fish balls, bananas, apples, and other native fruit. Her mother gives oat meal with nearly every meal.

About April 1896

I have been negotiating for the rental of a piece of land on which to build. You will be interested in the details showing Chinese greed, custom, law, and that quality which keeps the greedy from utterly devouring the widow's house and lands. You will also see the rise in property which will equal some of the instances in the Western part of the U.S.

I wanted a piece of land on a hill top sloping to the South. The northern boundary is 202 ft E. 76 ft. S. 115,

W. 90. Brother's gran, three fourths of it was claimed by two brothers, grandsons of the oldest man on the mountain. The N.E. portion of this lies nearly on the hill top, and is useless. The other quarter is lower and has sometime been used to raise potatoes (sweet). I was to rent this piece of land for 20 yrs. for $3.00 per year, all to be paid now. The land lords were to furnish a place for a well and to provide a place where stone could be gotten for the house. They wanted the contract to read that at the end of 20 yrs. the house should be owned by them. But I changed the pronoun. Well the contract, after three days of bartering was satisfactory and I was to have it all fixed up last Mon. P.M. But then an old woman- a widow without children or near relatives put in appearance. She said that her son who was an opium smoker, had sold the hill top (3/4 of the piece wanted) unknown to her some years ago to these two brothers who claim now to own it. They had given the son about $1.50 for the land and he had given them a false deed. She now demanded of the $50.00 if they rented the land to me. They were willing to give her $4.00. She finally came down to $20.00 and they raised to $5.00. Here the matter rests. As near as I can learn

$1.50 was a fair price for the land, but now that the value has so much increased, the man who last sold it, can come and demand a slice of the "unearned increment." This would be the case even if the sale had been bona fide. As it is the sale was not straight and the widow has the men in her power. She is a pauper, but has friends who are backing her. So long as the land remains vacant nothing will be done, but if these men rent the land without satisfying her she will take the case to the court. She has nothing to loose. The men have money. If the officers send for them the fees will not be less than $10.00 and they will have to give up the land and loose the chance of renting. The natives tell me that if this woman were a man the case would be much better for the two landlords. Custom, public opinion, and the fear which the people have of each other are China's salvation. This fear, gives an old woman who can scarcely walk, who has to live off her neighbors, who is alone in the world, the power to say to a rich household of 60 persons "You must not" and they dare not.

The invoice for the last shipment has arrived. The goods started very promptly and should arrive about the middle of Sept. I do not see any account of table cutlery. I wonder if I made a mistake in ordering. But it makes no difference. We can live with what we have or buy here. I sent a letter to Aunt Louise last week. I directed to Shelton I believe. That was before the Ladies H.G.[?] with her Derby address arrived. We are all well and send Love

Aug. 23rd 1896

Dear Folks at Home:-

Two weeks have passed since I wrote you. These vacation days fairly fly. Only one week and two days more for me, then the Seminary must begin. I shall go down Sept. 1st for the opening and see that everything starts all right. Then I shall come back and spend a few days before taking wife and baby down. The hottest weather is past on the mountain now. The days are getting shorter and the sun does not have time to heat things thro. Some days are still rather hot in the middle of the day but we must keep under blankets at night and an hour at noon is a very short time to endure the heat.

After the convention week the Chinese held meetings each afternoon for a week following much the same topics as the English services. There was much interest taken in the Chinese meetings. At the last one on Sat. P.M. several Chinese arose to confess their sins. Many of the cooks said they had been cheating and charging more for things they had bought them they had paid for them. This is something that the missionaries have been very much troubled over and which they have failed thus far to remedy. The cooks of course have us entirely in their power. We must depend on them to buy for us. The prices fluctuate, and then we do not know the prices of all articles. So they can charge any price they like. The native custom from the highest officials down is for servants to get most of their living thro squeezes. Not only do they take a portion of all the money they pay out for their employers, but no one can bring anything to us to sell without giving the servants a tip. Miss Newton happened sometime ago to order a ton of coal. She had a new servant and an honest one. When she paid for the coal the coolie who ordered it for her came back with 50 cents and said the man who brought the coal gave both cook and coolie 50 cents. He, the coolie thought it not right to take the money and so he returned it. This squeezing is felt to be wrong by all the servants, and they do not like to admit that they do it. It is a great problem for us. We pay the servants enough so that they do not need to do it. Can we treat as a Christian one whom we know is cheating in this way every day. We knew our cook was doing this last Winter and Spring, and we discharged him. Now we must look up another (Mrs. Goddard's cook is cooking for us all this summer). Shall we be able to better ourselves?

Well we have rented a piece of land. This is the shape and dimensions.

The land is rented for 24 years at $3.00 per year and the money is all paid in advance. I believe I wrote you that an old woman without relatives and a beggar had blocked the business. Well I finally told the men I would rent the land for 4 years longer. This would give them extra money enough to cover the difference between the woman and them. I also gave him just two days to come to our agreement and he did it. I wish you could have seen the signing of the agreement. There were present two men who owned most of the land- or claimed to own it- their uncle who owned the remainder. The woman who claimed a share, and two of her relatives, my teacher and myself. The agreement was read in the presence of all. The uncle then took one of the copies to his father, an old man 87 years old to read for fear of getting cheated. Then the two men, their uncle, my teacher and myself signed the agreement. The second I put my name on one of the men grabbed the three copies which had been signed. I told him I was to have one of the copies. He said "money." So I got the checks. But before the checks were given the woman and her two relatives had to sign the deed quitting all claim on the land which her son had sold some 8 years ago without her knowledge. I gave the woman a check for $20.00 and the uncle one for 26 and the two men one for 26 they were happy- why not. The land was bought for about $1.35 and now after only 8 yrs. rental for $72.00. They do not worry about the morality of accepting money before they have earned - or without having earned it. It was 25 days after agreement was written before it was signed, and not a day except Sunday when some of the parties interested did not come to say something about the matter.

We plan now to put up a house immediately so as to have it ready for occupancy next Summer. This is the plan as we have it now.

We can use either the middle or the round room for a dining room and the other two rooms will be used as sleeping rooms. The kitchen will each have a loft over them for teachers and servants. The double traced lines indicate stone walls. The stone is broken out of the quarries by hand, and laid up in the rough just like a stone wall at home only not as smoothly. Then the cracks are filled up on the outside with mud mixed with rice straw, and an apology for white plaster put over this. The inside is plastered with the same mud and straw and a very good looking wall is made. The partitions are boarded up four feet then a single set of reeds or sedge is woven in among some pieces of wood above the partition and plastered on both sides. The roof is of tiles. I want the whole done for $1500.00 silver. This is as yet in my mind. I have not put it into a Chinaman's mind.

Your letter to Ellen came night before last. Mother's letter to Mr. Woodin must have reached them just after Mr. Woodin's death. We have received full particulars from Mrs. Woodin. They were at Clifton Springs June 10th attending the Missionary Union. Mr. Woodin was advised to take sulphur baths and did so, but he was there only a week- not long enough to do any good. Returning home he did not feel well Sunday June 21st, but did not see the doctor till Fri. and he then walked to the Drs. house in the morning. Dr. was out, called on Mr. W. in the afternoon, found him with a high fever and malaria. He had had so many like attacks that Mrs. Woodin nor he thought much about it till Sun. noon when Mrs. Woodin knew he was much worse than she had ever known him to be. She at once called the Dr. who said Mr. Woodin was past recovery. He passed away at 4:30 P.M. He suffered no pain and was hardly conscious after Sat. noon. When he had these attacks he often lay in kind of stupor for half a day at a time. Mrs. W. wrote that he passed away so quietly that they did not know the exact time. He seemed to be worn out and like a tired child fell asleep. On the field here nearly every one felt that his work was done some months ago and Goddard and I have written that a young man on the field would be of more service than Mr. Woodin. But, altho he knew this, he wanted to return and asked the Board to send him out again. The Lord had other plans. Now the great question with us is will the Board send another young man this Fall. We must have another young woman also to help Miss Newton in her school. Miss Emily Hartwell sails tomorrow from Van Couver but her work will be in the city. We want a young lady at Ponasang to be with Miss Newton. She has over 70 girls in the school and for 2 years has been alone. She cannot stand it much longer. It seems sometimes as if the work was going to break us all down. When will the young man and young woman offer themselves and when will the people to whom God has entrusted the money send them?

Phebe eats fruit and cereals and milk toast and pins and seeds and stones etc. She takes two steps alone, but she has creeping down so finely that she does not try very hard to walk. Both Ellen and she are quite well.

The last papers brought the news of the Chicago Democratic Convention. The sense this year seems to be along the line of finance, and it looks as if there was going to be a general shaking up of political parties. We shall watch the result with interest, both as to ourselves and the work. If silver goes up it means less for the work here unless more gold comes from home. But God reigneth in the Heavens and on the Earth.

Love to all Will Ellen Phebe

Sept. 6th '96

Dear Folks at Home:-

The mail from America has been very shy of bringing home letters recently. Last week both Ellen and I had a letter from Mrs. Woodin relating to the settling up of her affairs here. She has practically left everything in our hands with very large discretionary power. Nearly all of her household furniture, dishes, books etc. are in our house in Ponasang. We are to dispose of these as best we can, or send home to her some few things. The prices she leaves with us. This will be no easy task. Most of her things are several years of age- many could vote if they were U.S. citizens.

My work has begun, the Seminary opened last Tuesday, Sept. 1st. I went down on that day and came back Fri. afternoon. The weather was terrific, - 93 degrees in the coolest place I could find. In other houses 97 degrees and 98 degrees. At this season there is apt to be much sickness in the city and suburbs. The way the natives ward it off is to form big lantern processions and carry an image of Buddha about till daylight. Or they decorate the streets with gay colors, and about one store in five they trim up in all colors of the rainbow, and then get foreign clocks, and glass cases with wax flowers inside, and a lot of other nice looking things, and then light the whole with Chinese lanterns, and beat gongs and fire crackers and yell. The image of Buddha sits serenely in the rear of the store pleased (?) with the sights and the sounds. The first evening at Ponasang I had occasion to go over to the church and so had a good view of the proceedings the street was so full of men I could scarcely squeeze thro. At night with the ther. at 90 degrees and 100 beaters of puter for idol paper within from 40-100 ft. of my bed, and these idolatrous ceremonies as near, with canon crackers going off hourly you may imagine me not sleeping all the time. But Thurs. most of the idols were moved to another region and I forgot the heat and had a good nights rest. But how refreshing the mountain air was Fri. afternoon as I ascended into it. The Seminary was my one source of encouragement while at Ponasang. The 9 young men are all back in good health and in good spirits and have gone to work at once. Both Ming Uong and Gong Sing Sang- my native teacher are well and for a week to two will have charge of the teaching. Most of my time however was spent in dealing with persecutions or with quarrels or in listening to bad reports from new church members. This however must be expected after the great increase of the past 9 months. In my field three new chapels have been opened since May and they have all borne most of their own expenses. This is new work for the Chinese here, and it is almost inevitable that mistakes will be made. Some of the church members have been seen in the idol processions. Some are reported to have been connected with gambling, some men who I hoped would be ready to join the church this month are still smoking opium. One chapel is reported to have been fitted up with money contributed by evil men who will use the chapel for wrong purposes. The man who has taken the lead in fitting up this chapel is rather an aristocrat who joined the church last December, and who thinks more of making a big show than of being of a true heart. He has fitted up a chapel in elegant style. It stands among the other buildings on the street like a rose among dead thorns. He has spent $30.00 more than he has collected, and now he comes to me and tells me that I promised to pay the rent on the chapel. Last Spring I spoke to the church members in this place about renting and fitting up a chapel with their own money telling them very plainly I had no money with which to help them. They tried to agree on some plan but could not raise money enough. This old man kept saying they must have a nice looking chapel or people would not come. They tried in every way to get me to help. I simply repeated what I told them at first, that I had no funds. Now this old man thinks if he goes ahead and gets a nice looking chapel all ready I will be that pleased that I will give them money to pay the debt. He finds me different from his expectations and he actually foams at the mouth as he talks and gesticulates. What is worse he is in a quarrel with a young man who lives near him. I do not know the beginning of the quarrel- some difference of opinion I think. This was fanned into a flame of hatred when the young man wrote to me that they had raised $80.00 and spent $65.00 on the church. The old man did not know of the letter till after he had shown me his memoranda of $80.00 spend and $55.00 raised. He then was too mad to be sane. I sent for both men to come to see me and talk over matters with the two Pastors. The young man arrived first. The old man came up the stairs out to the veranda. When near the top of the stairs he caught sight of the young man, and he could not have gone down those stairs quicker if he had been knocked down. He refused to see the other man, saying "When I see his face, I am so mad I do not know what to do." The young man withdrew and then the angry man came up but words were lost on him and I shall have to pray about the matter and work over the case again this week. One day was spent in helping Dwight in a case of persecution in his district. This has been going on all Summer. Seven members of the church are not allowed to do business. Two influential men in the village command the people not to see to these members and if any one buys of them, these wicked persons give authority to any body to snatch away the goods with impunity. The Day School of the village is closed and the work on the new church is suspended- I write these things to show that a Missionary's labors do not at the present time consist of going about with a bundle of tracts and preaching to crowds on the streets until he is tired, and then going into the house and reading or writing or resting. Thursday morning before I was up I had a call and before I had finished supper five men were waiting to see me and they left just in time for me to retire reasonably early. Fri. I had to politely send a man away in order to get to the mountain before dark. These poor people are suffering. It is often due to what we may call their own impudence. But they must be taught better. Then there are those who are in distress from persecution for righteousness sake. They need sympathy and physical help. All need counsel and advice. The Missionary's store of patience should be inexhaustible. The coming year is going to be [a] hard one on my stock patience. Six centers in my field have put forth strenuous efforts toward self support. They have done it after many talks with me. Their ideal has been high. It is as hard to raise money here as anywhere, and I feel as if the next year was a very vital time. The first burst of enthusiasm will have passed ere long and then the hard pull will come. Pray for me.

Have I written that John R. Mott chairman of the Students Volunteer Movement was coming to Foochow? We expect the Conference here to begin Oct. 14th or 15th. D. Willard Lyon who arrived in Tientsin a year ago under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions is coming with him. The Conference will last 5 days. Chinese addresses (Mott's addresses translated) in the morning and English addresses in the P.M. I have the work of committee of arrangements, and it is not easier to satisfy 75 Missionaries than it is to satisfy that number of people at home, as to time, place and other details. Then we are going to try to unite the young people of the three missions more than they have been before. We are working for a grand rally and get about 1200 of the young Christians together for a day about the middle of Nov. I seem to have the arrangements for this mostly on my hands also.

Phebe is learning to walk and as a result gets numerous bumps. She is such a good creeper that she does not see the need of walking until some other children come around her. When she sees them walking she wants to do likewise. Ben must have the road all finished. I should like to drive over it. Ground was broken for our house last Fri. The men promise to have done Jan. 3rd. We expect a new Missionary about the middle of Nov. We have not heard whether it is to be a gentleman or lady. Whichever it is will board with us. Ellen is quite well.

Love to all Will.

Mt. Kuliang.

Dear Ones at Home:-

The past two weeks I have divided between Ponasang and the Mt. I have gone down on Tues. morning and week before last returned Fri. afternoon- last week I returned Thurs. afternoon- the weather was very pleasant and comfortable last week. The mercury did not rise above 80 degrees, and I wanted a blanket at night. But it is lonely down there with no other foreigner. Four days on a stretch is enough. It is very pleasant to meet a wife and little girl again as I ascend the Mt. I have taken a sedan to and from the foot of the Mt. and walked both down and up the Mt. I can go down in 45 min. easily and can come up in 1 hr. 35 min. if the temperature is not too high. I shall go down again on Tues. and come back Fri. to go down the next Tues. with Ellen and Phebe. Week before last was very hot. Last week was cooler. It is already getting quite warm again. I am counting on a warm week this week and a cooler week next week. It makes a pretty hard life to keep running up and down and the expense is not trifle. But both Ellen and Phebe need to stay up on the Mt. till the hottest of the weather is broken. Phebe seems to feel the heat very much. She was very badly broken out with prickly heat in June and once this Summer here she has been broken out some. Next Tues. Sept. 15th, Kuliang will be nearly deserted. The schools will all begin this week. This is the signal for all to go down. Mon. to pack and Tues. to descend. Mr. and Dr. Goddard will go then. Ellen and Phebe will be alone in the house till I come up again on Fri. Four or five houses will be occupied, so they will not be all alone.

Phebe is getting quite independent on her feet. She runs along by the side of the house and by chairs easily and thinks nothing of cutting corners with nothing to hold on to. She has eight teeth on the upper and four on the lower jaw, with two more on the lower trying hard to come thro. She talks a great deal but does not say much. She however understands very many things, either in Chinese or English. She is familiar with the word "misquitoes", and knows how to distinguish several different persons when the names are spoken and understands when we talk about her food or a drink of water. The word "dog" or "cow" makes her very animated. She continues as healthy as ever. Wouldn't it be fine if she and Annie could see each other!! We are anxiously waiting a letter from Oliver and Grace for only then shall we have the praises of the dear little cherub worthily sung.

I think I wrote you a week ago about the old man who had been fixing up a chapel this Summer and is now in trouble because he has spent more money than he could collect and because he could not bluff me into paying something which I had not promised and which I had on five different occasions distinctly told him I could not pay. I wrote also about how angry he became and how mad he was at a young man who lived near him, because this young man had written me a letter giving a different account of the finances of the new chapel from that which the old man himself gave. Well, this last week I again invited both men to come to my home and meet with some of the pastors and Christians. The old man came first and took a much more hopeful view of the financial situation. He says he can raise the money all right, and wants the chapel dedicated in about four weeks. When this was nearly settled the young man came up the stairs on the veranda where we sat. The elder man immediately went down stairs. I kindly invited him to return and Ming Uong went down and talked with him. But not till I had asked the young man to withdraw to the dining room would he come back. We talked with him for some time. I called his attention to the "forgive" petition in the Lord's Prayer and made it very clear that if he could not forgive the young man, he was asking God not to forgive him. After a time he consented to let the young man be called. I asked the young man if he felt sorry for what he had said and written. He answered "yes." I then asked him if he wished to be forgiven. He said "yes." Then I asked the old man if he was willing to forgive, and he said yes. We then knelt and two prayers were offered, after which we consulted in regard to a case of persecution, and before we separated the old man had frankly spoken his opinion in a calm manner and had also offered prayer for the persecuted. I felt very much encouraged.

A letter from each home arrived last week. They reported the visit of the Putnamites, Phebe's graduation, Flora's intended visit to Putnam and return to East Berlin. The road stoned to Donovan's gate, and dug out to school house, grandparent's at church, haying in progress. Etc. Etc. This mail has been delayed somewhere. It was nearly two months coming.

A week ago yesterday was our wedding anniversary- no. 2. Four young ladies from Amoy who are spending the Summer near here came over in the evening and ate goose with us to celebrate.

Theodore Hubbard arrived Sept. 6th. Mrs. H. and the boy are both doing well. This makes three girls and three boys.

The excavation for our house goes on slowly. This morning as I was on my way to Chinese service I saw the full force at work up on the hill. I went up and told them this was Sunday and they must not work. But they immediately said they had not been informed. I told them they knew now, and must stop. I asked them to accompany me down to service. One accepted and after the rest had taken their tools and left we two went to church where we listened to a simple sermon on PS. 90:12. Much of the talk also was based on Math. 6:19 + The man listened attentively thro the whole service.

Tues. evening Ponasang.-

I started from the Mt. this morning at 6:45, and reached Ponasang at 9:00. My theory about the heat is proving real thus far. The ther. has registered 84 all day and stands there now. I hope next week when Ellen and Phebe come down the ther. will also come down.

It seems quite like old times here now. Miss Newton came down yesterday preparatory to opening school Thurs. Mr. Hartwell came from Sharp Peak last Fri. and I have seen him twice today. To-night I think of Mr. and Mrs. Peet and family, Miss Chittenden [Caroline E.], Mr. and Mrs. Goddard as in the city and tomorrow we have our first prayermeeting.

Another home mail arrived this noon. It came to me. I looked over finding papers and letters for all the folks but us, and wondered at it until I remembered that the mail distributors were informed yesterday that the others were all coming down- we were going to stay on the Mt. another week. So Ellen will have the pleasure of whatever letters came. As for papers, I have a whole stack of Mr. Walker's papers here to read if I have time.

Wed. A.M. 6:30. Ther. 80 degrees. Quite cool. We have just heard of Mr. [actually Mrs.] C.C. Baldwin's death. She went home just 31 days after Mr. Woodin, Dr. Baldwin writes very pathetically. In his 77th year he is quite well, but few husbands and wives were as attached as he and Mrs. Baldwin. He will feel very lonely and his desire will be to join her as soon as possible. This makes the third Foochow worker who has gone to his reward since last Feb. 22nd. Our question is- when will God send more to take their places. The work is more than doubled in the last 3 years. The force!!! When we came to Foochow there were 27 missionaries here. To day there are 17- Miss Emily Hartwell will arrive next week Tues. and Mr. and Mrs. Peet will go home next Spring. If no more come out next year we shall have 16 to do twice the work that 27 were doing 2 yrs. ago. But God has a purpose in it all. The Chinese are learning to do more for themselves and the missionary is learning (or ought to be) to help them less. Kiss Annie for us all and take our love.

Will.

[This letter dated Sept. 23, 1896 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. Because there have been jokes about his penmanship, Willard has started typing his letters. They moved back from the mountain and their house at Kuliang should be ready in May. The box was received from home and the enclosed cheese made quite an impression on them when the box was opened. They are still working on the disposal of items from Mrs. Woodin's house. Willard comments on the upcoming election and choosing either a gold or silver standard. Foochow, China Sept. 23rd. 1896.

Dear Folks at Home,-

When I was taking lessons in Bookkeeping of Mr. Joseph Tomlinson he told me that my hand writing was below par. Since that time very many persons in different parts of the world have agreed with him. Oliver once told me that he could not spend time to decipher my letters, so he let the others read them and tell him the contents. Since I have been in China the Missionaries have had a standing joke about my penmanship. Dr. Whitney declares he cannot get the meaning of the letters I send him. I know you folks at home would say the same thing if you spoke your mind freely. The only one that might differ would be Flora, and she is prejudiced because she has already said that if I ever wrote a letter to her on a typewriter she would not read it. Now I am truly sorry for her, but really I do not see what to do about the matter, except to write you as usual and allow her to get the substance from you. Fairchild says that "Benevolence" consists in regarding the greatest good of the greatest number. This I am trying to do.

Fri. Sept. 18th I went to the mountain again and remained till Mon. when we all came down. Sunday was a homesick kind of a day. The sun did not get out at all, and there were only a few people left. We had a service at which I held forth. In all there were eighteen present. Of these only four were men, the rest women. This week will see nearly every house deserted. The men are still digging away at the sidehill to make a level place for our house. They agreed to have it all finished Jan. 3rd, but if it is ready for occupancy by the first of next May we shall be satisfied. It was very hot coming down the mountain Mon., the sun had unhindered access to our path, and the wind could not strike at all. But when we reached the plain there was a fine breeze all the way home. Phebe seemed to enjoy the journey, talking to the birds and other objects along the way.

The weather seemed to understand that we were green hands in China, and the delightful cool atmosphere that I had found for two weeks, withdrew in favor of 90 degree weather. Every day has been sultry and hot, - much like our dogdays at home, only more so in all bad respects. The little girl feels the heat very much. Her neck is covered with prickly heat and she looks as if she was miserable. To add to her trials, two double teeth are just coming thro. She is running wherever her fancy leads her. This helps to make her cross, (for I shall have to admit that she is cross these days. She continues to sleep well at night tho, so it is not as bad as it might be. We are going to have a hard time to tell whether she is to speak her native tongue or Chinese. Several words already she says in the Foochow colloquial. Would you not laugh to hear her come home now and address you in the Chinese tongue?

The boxes from Boston arrived last Fri. just as I was starting for the mountain, so I had to let them remain till Tues. before opening them. Every thing came in good condition. The cheese- ah, well the cheese. Its strength was not at all impaired by the long journey. It came out as fresh and strong as when it was put in. I believe if the engine had at any time given out that cheese could have pulled the load alone. But Ellen says it is good, so never mind, it has done no harm, and we will call it - - CHEESE. A little blue salt or pepper shaker surprised us as we opened the box, the samples of cocoa and soap also came in perfect condition. If we are to thank any one for these - THANK YOU- The different pieces of cloth also came in good condition. The doll's head made Phebe beg for it. The picture cards will make the little Chinese eyes bug out with delight, and anticipation.

We have had two mails this week. One came Wed. and one tonight. - Fri. The picture of "the most wonderful baby on this side of the earth" arrived in perfect condition. The earth is now balanced, and ought to run smoothly for two months. I was very much please to receive a good long letter from Oliver also. Mr. Kenneston sent a cheerful, spicy letter at the same time. The mail to-night brings a letter from Mrs. Woodin merely repeating what she wrote in the last, in case that should be lost. Dr. Smith writes a very pleasant letter from the Rooms at Boston in reply to mine of July 6th. He says nothing about finances in which we folks out here are particularly interested. The work has assumed such large proportions that merely to keep up with it requires a large amount of money. Of course the Chinese are themselves giving liberally in many places, but there are many important centers where the work is new, and to curtail in these places means disaster. Then as I wrote last week it seems as if we must have more foreign workers.

Just now Ellen and I are both utilizing every moment possible in settling Mrs. Woodins affairs. She has left a lot of things to be sent to her, and more to be sold and others to be given away or destroyed. It is very slow work, for I can work only half a day at a time. The Mission work demands the rest. You should see our house. Not a room put in order yet. Mrs. Woodins things everywhere. Today I nailed up the first box, and got two more under headway, so the coast is beginning to clear.

I expect times are pretty lively at home just now. The issue is entirely one of principle. This I consider fortunate. Both candidates are clean men, with clean records. The youth of the country will not have to read a lot of filthy stuff in order to get the campaign news. On the other hand they will be educated in one of the greatest questions that the countries of the world have to deal with. A dissertation on the relative merits of gold and silver as monetary standards, from me, would not influence the coming election greatly so I refrain. At the same time I cannot help thinking from what I have been able to read, that the Silverites are working for the poorer classes and the Goldites are pulling for the moneyed classes. It is not at all strange that the people who have money due them should desire to be paid in gold, and the people who owe of course would prefer to pay in the cheaper metal. But whether the gold or the silver standard will be better for the poor man in the long run is the question. I see one paper in Ohio recommends the free coinage of mud at the ratio of 6,000,000,000 to 1. Well I expect that neither party will demolish the government in four years. If something can be done to let the merchants and others who invest money, know upon what basis to make their estimates, and upon what to depend, they will be willing to invest.

Ellen thinks we have done enough for one day and had better go to bed.

Mon. Sept. 28th.

The Shanghai steamer came in to day, so I must finish this and start it eastward. The first and most important new is – It is HOT- I think the mercury rises as high at home, but it never continues as hot for a long period. Day and night there is no let up. People say it is unusual at this season. I hope so. Phebe bears it bravely, but she looks most uncomfortable, with her little head covered with red blotches. Tonight we have another theater to make things lively.

Yesterday the churches here were full. Geu Cio Dong was filled to the doors and men left for want of room. What is to be done here I do not know. The people are doing bravely at self support, but they do not seem to be able to build a large church. It will require about $1500 to enlarge this church so that it will seat 1000 people.

We are not going to send to you for an order of groceries etc. this Fall. The cereal that came last Spring is not all gone yet. If we want one or two things it is very easy to send to Boston. The planes that arrived last week have already nearly paid for themselves. I have had to make special boxes for three of Mrs. Woodins articles, and the planes were indispensable.

Fruit is just beginning to be good again, after a few months of comparative scarcity. Pumeloes, and persimmons are very good. Bananas are good part of the time. Phebe enjoys all kinds of fruit. It is also good for her. She often eats a whole banana and used to eat peaches and plumbs like old folks. As soon as I get some of Mrs. Woodins things off my hands, I am going to make a chicken coop and buy some fowls. We then shall have good eggs and good poultry to eat. The idea that it makes no difference on what hens are fed, about the quality of the eggs, is erroneous. It does not take any more of an expert than I, to tell the difference.

The M.E. Mission has just received an addition of a young man whose name is McVey. I met him today, and one of the first things he said was that he had a card of introduction from Davis. He met Davis in Leipsic, about Spring. It was unusual to hear from an acquaintance in such a round about way, as McVey came back by way of the States. The message came more than half way round the globe. It is Davis' business to start another class letter on its way around the world, but I expect his mind is so taken up with Ph.D. and Matrimonie, that he has not time for miner details.

Well this machine is getting tired. So wishing you all the best things from the Giver of all good.

We are with lots of love,

Ellen, Phebe, Will.

Mr. Mott and Lyon and many native preachers and teachers will be coming to the Foochow Conference of Christian Workers. He checked on the excavation of his future Kuliang house and found it was not to his specifications. He and Ellen have now been missionaries for 2 years and Willard feels that it was the right thing for him to do with his life. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, October, 1st. 1896.

Dear Folks at Home;-

I am writing this simply to let one of my boys see the wonderful machine that can write.

Oct. 10th.- This paper has enjoyed quite a rest. I on the other hand have not. Mrs. Woodin's boxes are all packed but one little lacquer box which is not dry. We have one room full of her things. It is a veritable curiosity shop. Every thing in it from an old tin plate to a mahogany bureau. I just let the things rest there, and nearly every day something is disposed of. To-day has been an especially good day in sales. 9.00 p.m. Consulting with Miss Newton about the program for the S.E. rally to be held Nov. 18th. has consumed the evening, so I must say good night, and good bye till another time.

Sunday p.m. 4:30. Today has been the regular day for the 9th month Communion. All of our churches that could, have observed it. Those that have no ordained pastor and those where an ordained pastor or a missionary could not attend, will celebrate next week or week after. Today at Geu Cio Dong 9 people joined, and at Ha Puo Ga 6. I think that 5 or more will join at other places in my field in a week or two, making the number for the Suberbs 20. As many more have been examined and asked to wait. For the first time, I have today helped in administering the Sacrament. I went over to Ha Puo Ga, and finding the pastor laboring under a heavy cold, I accepted his invitation to help at the service. This means that hereafter I must stay at home if I do not wish to take part in the service.

Query, - how long before I preach the first sermon in Chinese?

The Foochow Conference of Christian Workers is the all absorbing topic now. I received a telegram last night at 11.00 o'clock saying that they would start from Shanghai today. "They" means Messrs Mott and Lyon. So they will arrive here tomorrow or Tues. The conference will begin Wed. morning with a session in Chinese. There will be two Chinese and two English sessions each day. The tent which is in process of construction will seat about 1500 people. I think it will be full. Very encouraging letters have come from country stations far up in the country, announcing that plans were being made to send native preachers, teachers etc. down to Foochow to attend the conference.

The weather has at last changed. It was an awful struggle but the cooler head has at last come off victorious. Today is the first that I have been able to wear my ordinary home Summer clothes, since we came from Kuliang. The mercury stands at 74 now. Phebe is looking quite like a healthy child again. The heat came out on her so badly that she resembled one who has been poisoned and is just getting well. The skin that covered the festers of heat is all peeling off. She is sitting at the table with us for dinner and supper. We let her eat most every thing that we eat except meat. She is very fond of fruit and eats most kinds without harm. She is getting too old for two naps a day. One nap a little before noon is all she can find time for. This makes her sleepy earlier than formerly and she now wants to go to bed as soon as her supper is over. I have Annie's picture and Phebe's on my desk side by side. They are two pretty good specimens. I should think Annie was a little fatter than Phebe. She has never been fat, only plump. If she would be content to keep still long enough the fat might accumulate now as the weather is all right and she is eating us out of house and home, and sleeping like a log every night.

I went to Kuliang last Monday to see the house. The mason told me the excavating was done and he wanted to have me stake out the position of the house. I went up and found the land all smoothed off nicely, but the excavation was only 6 feet and a half. It was to have been 7 feet. Be-sides the lower portion of the land was not excavated at all. This would let the water run under the house when it rained. So our house is not yet done. One of the greatest reforms that Christianity has to accomplish in China is that of making men keep their agreements. I agreed with the carpenter to give him so much to make a speakers stand and some seats for the meetings this week. The work was to be done Tues. noon. I was over yesterday and the job was not half finished. About three fourths of the time was gone. I told the man that for every hour after twelve o'clock Tues. noon, I should cut him 50 cents. We buy potatoes and stipulate emphatically that there shall be no small ones. The tubers are brought just as they are taken out of the ground. It is not at all pleasant to be compelled to keep punishing by cutting in money payments and other ways all the time, but if this people were perfect or comparatively so, we should have no business here. Then we and the nation which we represent are not above reproach in many of the qualities for which we blame the Chinese. These two facts, especially the former, are a great help to me in being patient.

I must close this now. We have not had a home mail for a long time, the next steamer should bring as news from you. All about what each one is doing this Fall. More than two years have passed since we said goodbye to the dear ones in Conn. The time has passed very swiftly, and pleasantly. I have never had the thought come to my mind that I ought to be doing anything else than working right here. I do not know why I should have thought of it now. Before we actually decided to come to Foochow, I used often to wonder if this were really God's plan. But for two years now I have not thought as there could be anything else for me to do.

Give our love to all the friends. Hug and kiss Annie. Congratulate grandfather and grandmother on their 55th wedding anniversary (if I'm right). Tell Mr. Park I'll try hard to get a letter around for the New Year. Take a lot of love for yourselves from us all.

Will, Ellen, Phebe.

[This letter dated Oct. 25, 1896 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. Mr. Mott and Mr. Lyon arrived just on time for the Foochow Convention. Foochow, China, Oct. 25th 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It seems as if it had been a long time since I had sent a letter eastward, but if I am right in my calculations, it was only about two weeks ago. These two weeks have been full tho, so the time may seem longer on that account. I cannot give as detailed an account of the doings of the last fortnight as I should like, but I will try in the little time remaining before I crawl into my little bed to give a brief outline of events.

When I last wrote Messers. Mott and Lyon had not arrived. The meetings were advertised for Oct. 14th. The steamer was late and the gentlemen reached Pagoda Anchorage at 1.00 p.m. Oct. 13th. I had spent all the day Oct. 12th. trying to find out when they would arrive, and decided to let them come up the river alone. But the 13th. dawned bright and clear, with a good breeze blowing down river. I arose a little early and took my houseboy, and hired a sampan. We were at Pagoda in 2 hours and 30 minutes. I took dinner with Dr. Whitney, and had just arisen from the table as the steamer came in sight. The trip up the river we spent in arranging affairs for the Convention. We arrived at Ponasang at 4.00 p.m. It was decided that the gentlemen should go into the city that night and visit Mr. Peet's school. Mrs. Mott who accompanies her husband on this trip, spent the night at Miss Newton's. At 9.30 a.m. of the 14th. the first session would commence. I was over the river where the tent was to be erected, at 8.00 o'clock. Just about one half the work was done. I was sick- that is sick of depending on Chinese workmen to do anything on time. But Ming Uong and the 9 young men who are studying Theology under me proved true. We all took off our coats and in less time than I am writing this we had a covering of cotton cloth over the seats, and the meetings began on time.

The friends had to return in three days, so the meetings had to be crowded in pretty thick. There were three meetings in the tent each day for three days. Beside these, Six Institutions were visited, and a Y.M.C.A. instituted in each. Also one session in English was held each day. The friends left at 10.15 Oct. 16th.

The results of the work done during those three days cannot be written now. We can see only a few of the influences which we exerted. The people here are alive to the benefits and necessity of a National Y.M.C.A. for China. As I have already said six local Associations were established here in Foochow. Each of the three Missions is planning to send a delegate to Shanghai this week to attend a convention of the leading Educators in the Empire, for the purpose of establishing the National Association. Beside the Missionaries and other Foreigners, who attend, there will be present several English speaking Chinese from the various Colleges and schools in the Empire. At least two will go from Foochow. It has been my good fortune to be chosen by our Mission to represent them at this Conference. I expect to start next Fri. Oct. 30th. and shall be gone a little over a week. So before this intelligence reaches you I shall be back in Foochow.

There are now about a 20 Associations in China. These are scattered from Tientsin to Canton. They reach into the interior to Hankow. Gilbert Reid will be present at Shanghai to represent some of the interests among the higher classes in North China. Dr. Sheffield of our Board will come from Tungchoo. Mr. Banister of the English and Mr. Smyth of the Methodist Mission will go from Foochow.

The day after the friends left, an interesting gathering was held in the tent by the Chinese. On the Sunday following the church members of the three Missions here met together in the tent for a united Communion service. About 700 were present. 550 partook of the Sacrament. The oldest Pastor present, Ming Uong's father, stood before the audience and said that in his more than 30 years of service, here in Foochow as a Pastor he had never witnessed such a sight. He was glad to see the union. The Christians of our Mission and those of the English Mission are working hard to get the three Missions united. The Methodists rather stay by themselves.

At the Convention were 51 preachers, 570 students, 150 teachers, and over 400 others. A good number volunteered for the ministry and a very large number agreed to study the Bible daily. Prayer and Bible study are impressed on the minds of the Foochow native Christians as never before.

[The remainder of the letter is handwritten.]

Phebe is a joy forever. Wonder what she would say to another incumbent. - Ellen is delighted (?) with the rapidity and perfection with which her tailor does his work. The Shaowu people are hindered on account of sickness and are still here at Ponasang.

Lovingly Will.

[*This letter dated Oct. 16, 1896 was written by Ellen Lucy Kinney Beard from Foochow, China to her family back home in the states. The letter was started in October and finished in December. Willard was in Shanghai for various missionary meetings. The Gardner's and Dr. Bliss are leaving for Shaowu after being away from there for a year because of a massacre. She reports that in November she gave birth to a baby boy named Myron Gould. She talks of her missionary work preparing for Christmas and tells a funny story about daughter Phebe and a doll. Foochow, China,
Oct. 26", '96. [1896]

Dear Home Friends,

It is time I began another letter to you. The needle was mailed day before yesterday and this is the knot-at-the-end-of-the-thread.

I don't think I shall dare write such familiar and nonsensical letters if you are going to send them as a whole to Mr. Beard's people and others. I naturally have written them only for the family knowing of course that you would tell or read some portions to others; but if your scrutinizing and conservative judgment does not condemn them or feel ashamed of them I suppose their author ought not to be.

I am glad you asked these questions in your last letter indicating what had been lacking in my previous letters as I often do not recall when I sit down to write what I have not written nor know what you would most like to know. But in this letter I would like to write about things to which you have suffered or about which you have asked in former letters.

First let me say that I suspect there have been about two home-bound mails lost; one leaving here a little over a year ago now in which there was a letter to Mr. Sargent from Willard which we thought would be read on Church Day or, at least at the Missionary Concert preceding; but of which you have never written not Mr. Sargent ever acknowledged. The other leaving here last January in which there was a letter from me describing our last year's Thanksgiving party at the Consulate of which I distinctly remember of writing and which could not have reached you in December at which time you say your last letter from me was received. I am particularly sorry that Mr. Sargent's letter was not received, for obvious reasons.

Nov. 8.

My pen has had a long rest and I doubt if I can recall all that has transpired between, that might be of interest to you. One thing I do not forget, in that time is our largest separation since our marriage. Willard has been in Shanghai for a week and during that time Phebe and I have been in the house alone with the servants in the basement.

The occasion of his going was an outcome of the visit of Messrs. Mott [John R. Mott, 1946 Nobel Peace Prize winner] and Lyon. During Mott's trip through China he has organized twenty-five Y.M.C.A.'s in the Educational Institutions where he has held conferences; and before he left China he picked delegates, one foreign and one native from each of those institutions to meet at a central city, Shanghai, and organize a National Union. Willard represented the Theological Seminary and Mr. Peet the College. Three other foreigners went from the other missions here.

They started from here at 7 o'clock, Saturday morning Oct. 31" and arrived home yesterday morning rather unexpectedly to me. Willard was dreadfully seasick both ways and now that he has landed at home is in bed living on toast and milk, and under the Dr.'s care. A very poor sailor, I fear he would make. It takes two days and one night to make the distance from Foochow to Shanghai. Willard was appointed secretary of the meeting. Upon him also, devolved the management and responsibility of the Mott Conference, and there was a great deal of planning and hard work to be done for it; so I was very glad that he could have this little rest from regular duties, and recreation in the trip, but don't know as he is going to gain so much as I had hoped from it, the voyage was so trying to him.

Our Annual Meeting begins next Tuesday and Willard has had charge of arrangements for a tent (a huge affair of matting and bamboo) to be erected in our compound for holding the meetings. With so much to attend to he can ill afford to be sick long. We shall have lively times in our compound for the next week.

Tomorrow the Missionaries whose work is at Shaowu, several hundred miles up the Min river, return to their field after the summer vacation spent here and at Sharp Peak. The company consists of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, their three boys and Dr. Bliss. They came down a year ago last summer and on account of the massacre the Consul did not give his consent to their return the following October as they had planned; but Mr. Gardner and Dr. Bliss went up later, returning for this last summer, while Mrs. G. and the children have remained here a year and a half. As she goes unaccompanied by any other woman and will probably not see any other foreign woman till she returns next summer, she will probably be rather lonely. Mrs. Walker who died last fall has always been up there with her before. They have occupied Dr. Kinnear's house in our compound since they came from Sharp Peak and we shall miss them when that house is shut up and vacant and there is no one but Miss Newton and us in this compound. They have been detained here a month longer than they expected on account of the illness of the two youngest children of dysentery.

Written on back of photo: "Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear wish you all a bright 'Good Morning'." And also in different handwriting: "The comfortable temporary home of one of our missionary doctors (Dr. Kinnear of Foochow). One of the newest and best houses of the Foochow Mission."

December, the sixth.

As this news could not reach you in time to be counted among your blessings for Thanksgiving, nor yet to be hung on your Christmas Tree or put into your stockings, we present you with a little Grandson and Nephew for a New Year's gift, as reaching you nearest that distinguished day of any unless it be better to call him a Valentine or his Grandpa's Birthday gift.

In November, the thirteenth at 1:20 P.M. the new little life began and brought a great new joy into our home. We have both gotten along nicely and are now today for the first time all out in the library with the regular routine of life taking up again.

"Boy" or "Buoy" as Phebe pronounces it, weighed 8 ½ lbs. on his arrival- over ½ lb. more than Phebe weighed. The first week he gained 1 ¾ lbs. a very remarkable gain. We thought Phebe a very strong child but this one goes ahead of her. His papa often remarks that he doesn't think of being careful of him in handling him,- it doesn't seem natural to be, he is so stiff and strong. The way he stretches and straightens and kicks, and the kaleidoscopic variation of physiognomy resultant there from is certainly amusing to say the least. This is the fiftieth anniversary of the Mission in Foochow and as he came in the midst of our Annual Meetings in which we celebrated the Jubilee, it was suggested that we name him Nathan Jubilee. We hesitated some time between Myron Gould and Nathan Bennett for a name; the latter, to have him like Phebe, named for the great-grandparent; the former, for both grandfathers. But I wanted Willard to name his first boy and as Myron Gould was his first choice, of course it was mine. We call him Gould to avoid confusion by having two Myrons in the family and also to have a name somewhat new and unique. We were over two weeks deciding on a name for him but were less than that number of hours deciding our little girl's name. He has brown eyes like his father, I think, and dark brown hair.

[The next paragraph is written by Willard.]

At this p't E. left to give the little dear his supper. I have read the letter once- out of curiosity, but according to our custom of always knowing and criticizing each others letters- I want to write just a word re the first paragraph of this letter. You must continue to send these letters (RARE GEMS) to the home in Shelton. They would feel very badly indeed to be deprived of any letters at all from Ellen. Ellen also seconds this command. It was only her false(?) modesty that led her to write that first paragraph- Loving Father of the Boy.

Dec. 13th 1896.

Phebe loves her little brother very much, and expresses it by kissing and hugging him, the latter quite to his displeasure. He thinks too, that she pats him on the head rather savagely sometimes; but she gives it all in love. The other evening Phebe was very tired and for the first time thought little Gould had usurped her rights. She pulled at my dress asking me to come, ran to the bed and told me in, in Chinese, to put the boy down there then came back and asked me to take her. This was plainer than she ever expressed herself before.

Dec. 13.

This letter having taken three long rests decides to be finished and start for America.

I have been busy for the last two days preparing cards for Christmas distribution. We give this season over four hundred cards to women and children only, who are members of the church, and of the schools. The finest and largest cards of all that are sent us during the year must be selected for Christmas gifts; they often need the edges trimmed after their long journey through the mail; and these things with the counting and apportioning to each church and school preparatory to our teacher's writing the names on them takes more time than one would think. This is one of the small branches of missionary work but contributes much to the happiness of the Chinese,- small as regards my share of the work, but very much appreciated as regards the work and sacrifice of contributing and collecting at your end of the line.

Each church and chapel has its celebration on a different day so that its members may attend all the others.

In my next letter I will give you some account of how they celebrate Christmas.

Now something more about the children, of course. I must tell you about Phebe's doll. Some one from Willard's home sent a doll's head to her, in a box; but as it was breakable we thought it best not to give it to her until she knew better how to handle things. But Mr. Goddard bought her a doll (all dressed) of the Shanghai merchant who was here for a week or two.

You should have seen the expression on her face when she received it. She looked astonished to see a human being (as she evidently thought it) so small and acted as if she were waiting to see what it would do. Then she reached out her hands and took it, held it up to look at it again then hugged it to her bosom as naturally as a mother would her child. Back and forth she ran from one room to another putting the doll down in a chair and taking it up again many times. Finally she dropped it on the floor and in trying to pick it up stepped on the dress which was made of thin cheap silk. She grasped the doll gave it a jerk that entirely faced it from its gay gown leaving it in rags on the floor while a few shreds dangled from its neck. Before she went to bed that night the unfortunate doll had lost an arm; and in five short days, all that remained of this luckless doll was a one-armed headless body with a petticoat and sash on. Not all of her toys end their career so promptly.

By the By I want my two old dolls sent in the next box, the wax one and the "speckled faced" paper-head doll, with the hat, just as they are. The one will be a great treasure to her a few years later; the other will stand hard usage by another family of children I think.

Well I drifted off on to a branch stream and found myself so far from the main channel that I have not attempted to return against the current of thought; so "the things to which you have referred or about which you have asked in former letters" are not "written about" after all. [Letter torn] you are as well and happy as we are under the one Father's care,

I am

Your loving daughter

And sister,

Ellen L.K.B.

N.B.- This letter is too stale to be sent away from home to anybody.

E.L.K.B.

That is to say, I shall be overjoyed to hear, - as I have heard from each one of my letters excessively, - that it has been read with pleasure and profit by all friends near and far, and that it has been read in the columns of the Patriot.

Foochow, China, Nov. 10th. 1896.

Dear Folks at Home;-

Just before I started for Shanghai I dropped a short letter into the mail for you. Two weeks have again slipped away and no writing has gone homeward in the meantime. Our Annual meeting begins tonight and the next ten days will be fully occupied so I must dash off a few lines to let you know we are well and in working order.

On the trip up the coast from Foochow to Shanghai I was seasick. Please notice I use no adjectives. I leave you to use your most vivid imagination. No man was ever sicker than I was. We started Sat. a.m. at 6 o'clock from Ponasang. The steamer left Pagoda at 12 noon. A head wind made the ship pitch all the way. Sun. night we anchored at the mouth of the Shanghai river. At daylight we went up the river reaching the city at 9.30 o'clock. There were ten of us in the party. Five foreigners and five natives. We went directly to the Presbyterian Press and were assigned to various places in the city for entertainment. In the afternoon we went with the Chinese out to see the big cotton mills in which Li Hung Chang is a very large owner. These mills cover several acres of ground, are run night and day, are lit by electricity, and furnish employment to 5000 persons. The machinery is driven by a giant engine made by a firm in England. It seemed for a little time that I was in one of our American cities looking thro a big factory. The only thing to remind me that this was China were the Chinese. The operatives are mostly women. The looms are tended entirely, so far as I saw, by women. The men were engaged in the heavier labor. A large number of boys were also at work at the spindles and then lighter parts of the work. The cotton comes to the mills from the cotton Gin. It goes out in the cloth. The machinery is of the most modern type and there is no reason why these mills should not compete with the mills of any other country. As yet only plain, unbleached, white cotton cloth is made. But as the cotton is raised near the mills and as labor is so cheap- about $8.00 per month- gold- England and Germany which have shipping this cloth to us in large quantities, must feel the difference in the amount of trade.

This mill is controlled by Chinese capital. One Foreigner is employed to be at the head and look after the running of the machinery, and have general supervision of the mills. Otherwise the Chinese do all. The location is a little over three miles down the river from the city of Shanghai. Adjoining this mill are two other large mills in process of construction. These are built with foreign money. Each is about the size of the one in operation. This new industry has the same effect on the city of Shanghai as it would on any city in the U.S. There is a great influx of population, and wages are creeping up fast. There seems little doubt that Shanghai is soon to be a large and influential city, - the New York of China. Just now everything seems to be centering there.

While in Shanghai I met J. Arnold Norcross a class mate in the Birmingham High School. I was too busy to talk long but it was very pleasant to meet an old schoolmate for even a quarter of an hour.

The Conference of course was first in order. We held five sessions. Two on Wed. and three on Thurs. There were present 21 voting and 13 visiting delegates. Each Institution in which a Y.M.C.A. had been started was allowed one voting member. These were mostly Foreigners, but in some cases the Chinese were given the power of wielding the ballot. Perhaps I was the youngest member of the company. At the other extreme were Dr. D.Z. Sheffield of our Board from Tuncho, and Dr. Calvin W. Mateer, Presbyterian, from Tunchow.

It was voted to organize a National Y.M.C.A. in China. The time was then given to the constitution, and the terminology to be used. Nearly all the terms used in an organization of this kind have been coined by Missionaries. In this big Empire of course a great many different terms have stood for the same idea. And so when these men from different parts come together to decide on some one term which shall represent the same idea in all parts, there is much discussion. After the committee of the best scholars had worked for hours together - some of them had been working for weeks - The Convention spent over an hour on the term for "Young Men's Christian Association." But in the discussion there was the utmost unity and all were satisfied at last. An Executive Committee of 14 was elected and the National Y.M.C.A. of China is now a fact. The management of the National Association is in the hands of this Executive Committee. Another Committee is appointed to decide on the relation the Student Volunteer Movement shall bear to this Y.M.C.A. I was unable to remain for the meeting of this Committee, as the steamer left Thurs. morning at daylight. If I waited for the next steamer it would delay me too long. So I left Ming Uong to do the business for me. By the way he is one of the Executive Committee of the National Association.

There are at present 26 Y.M.C.A.s in China. More will soon be formed. From the way in which this Movement has started, and the way in which the students of China are taking hold of it, I believe it will be a mighty power in this land to lead young men to Christ. One of the greatest advantages of the movement, is to come out of the union of the Christian young men of China. And the union of these again with the Christian young men of the world. The "World's Student Christian Federation" will encircle the globe as soon as Japan comes in. What a power against the forces of evil! - This band of Christ's Disciples with hands and hearts joined forming a complete circle of the globe!

Phebe is becoming more and more interesting each day. She is talking as much as a girl of her age ought to. She points to her nose, eyes, ears, mouth, hands, feet, etc. and can express "yes" and "no", calls the kitty, and wants her Papa to use the napkin if a little of the food gets on her hand or mouth at the table. I am afraid if she were to be the only child long she would become very proud.

The Shaowu people, -Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and three children and Dr. Bliss, started for Shaowu yesterday morning. That field needs a young man and wife and two young ladies. We must have a man and wife and three young ladies here. How long will God wait before sending them?

Lovingly Will, Ellen, Phebe.

I want a photo of Stanley. I wish it might be full length. Will Foochow, China, Nov. 14th. 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I have time for just a word this morning concerning very interesting business. Yesterday at 1.20 p.m. a young Missionary, a single gentleman, arrived. He will board with us for the present. His name is _____ . Phebe is as much pleased as any of us. The only thing that she rebels at, is the lack of attention which she receives since the new arrival. She realizes that something has changed, just what the change is she has not yet analyzed. But she knows that it is a detriment to her in some way. However she puts up with it well, and will soon fall into the regime. The BOY tipped the scales at 8 pounds and one half. He has behaved so as to bring credit to his ancestors. He aired his lungs well for about five minutes and has slept nearly all the time since. Ellen is doing very well. I told her I thought this was the ideal way to do things, - use the daytime for work and save the night for rest. We all got our usual amount of rest last night, and the regular order of things was not disturbed. Dr. Nieberg-Goddard is a jewel. She came in again this morning and gave the HEIR his ablution. We have an extra

Amah for a little while. I am the only man in the Compound now and I can not afford to work for $4.00 a month, when a native will do the work just as well.

I received a letter from D. Willard Lyon last night giving me an account of the doings at Shanghai after I was obliged to leave. There is one point that may concern you a little so I tell it now and I hope you will answer as soon as possible. Ding Ming Uong my assistant in the Seminary has been appointed delegate to the Conference of the World's Student Christian Federation. This Conference will be held at Williamstown, Mass. about the middle of July next, - July 1897. - Would you like him to spend a week sometime in Aug. with you? I should like very much to have him speak in Shelton, Huntington, Trumbull, Stratford and perhaps other places. It is not certain yet that he will come, but probable. If he comes he will be in Springfield Mass. about June 1st, and probably remain there till July 15th or so. Then he will visit in Sept. some of the colleges. This is all for now. Send news to Putnam.

Love from the family of four. Will.

Foochow, China, Nov. 29th. 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

There is no letter to answer, but I expect it will be all right to send a few lines. The heir and his mother have been doing well every day, and sleeping soundly every night. I think he is awake more than Phebe was at his age, but he is as good as you could expect a boy to be. His greatest anxiety seems to be in regard to food. He seemingly has an apparition that we are trying to starve him, and it is very evident that he has made up his mind that he will "die game." He has a prodigious pair of lungs, judging from the amount of noise he can make with them. He has a large amount of that commodity known as "sticktoitiveness". If he develops in this direction, there will be very few unfinished undertakings among the accounts of his life. He rolled off the pillow on which he was placed yesterday. He was lying on his face on the right side of his head the other day, and he raised up and turned his head over and lay on his other cheek. To make a long account of the wonderful feats he has already performed short, he is one of the most wonderful boys that this world has ever seen or had the honor to contain. I sent a short letter to Putnam a week ago, and told them that we had named the young man Myron Gould, and shall call him Gould. He will be known as M. Gould Beard.

Phebe is quite well and grows like a weed. She has eaten with me every meal since Ellen was in bed. I let her have nearly everything except meat. She is very fond of fruit and cereal. I opened the tin of codfish the other day, and have had the cook make it into fish cakes. Phebe is very fond of them. I have just weighed her and she weighs 26 lbs.

The Annual Meeting was in every respect a success. The numbers exceeded those of any other year in the history of the Mission, by at least 300. The attendance last year was about 400. This year 700. About the time this reaches you, this Mission will be 50 years old. The ANNUAL Meeting this year took the form of a Jubilee. The larger part of the time was given to historical addresses.

The oldest Christian in Foochow was present, the man who cooked the first meal for Mr. Hartwell was here, and many others who well remember the earliest days of the Mission. In the a.m. the men and women held separate sessions. In the afternoon a union session was held in the compound here at Ponasang. The audience numbered each p.m. about 700. Beside these there were from 100 to 200 who came and sat for a few minutes and went out. I gave my first address in Chinese before an audience. From the most authentic reports I think the people understood me. I had anticipated the session on self-support, which I was to have conducted, very much. The Suberb station here of which I have charge is the leader in this new department, and during the past year the whole field has caught the idea. Last year one of our oldest Pastors spoke against trying to urge the churches to become self supporting, because he thought the time was not ripe for it. But he has been changed during the year, and has gone to a district in which one church is paying the pastor's salary, and several others have made good liberal contributions toward their own expences. But unfortunately I was in bed that day. However I was very glad that the report of every one was the same- "It was a good meeting". Mr. Hartwell has not been at all enthusiastic on the subject, because he has rather held that the people were not able to meet their own expences, owing to the poverty that existed among the church members generally. But he was very much pleased with the results as brought out in the meeting this year. And he stands ready to push the matter now with the rest of us. Thus far this year in my field there has been more than $100 given by the churches which last year had to be paid by the Mission. If every thing goes well another $100 will be paid before the end of the Chinese year. - a little after Feb. 1st.

The last day of the Annual Meeting, or rather the day after the Annual Meeting, the 4th. Annual Rally of the Foochow Y.P.S.C.E. was held in the tent here. 750 were counted in the a.m. and 900 in the p.m. Over 30 societies reported. And there are as many more in the province that were not represented. All the addresses were short. An American could not have done better as a presiding officer than did Mr. Ling Muk Gek the first Christian Endeavorer in China. At the Consecration meeting in the p.m. I believe 132 took part in one half hour. The leader resorted to a unique method in conducting this part of the meeting. He first asked those who wished to speak, consecrating themselves to Christ, or who wished to recite a verse of Scripture, to rise. They remained standing, and sat as each had finished speaking. Then he asked- those who wished to pray to rise, and all bowed the head, and as each had prayed he sat as before. This saved time and confusion. We like the plan. But I will not delay longer on this, for you will see reports of the Rally in the Golden Rule and in the Missionary Herald.

I have just sent Mrs. Woodin's goods to the steamer. - 5 boxes and a bale. They have been around in the way since Sept. 1st. The effects that she wished sold here are also off my hands. They have brought about $160. These were as many articles to be sold as they brought dollars. So you see it was no small job. During the month of Oct. my bookkeeping amounted to as much in items as many store clerks have to show for a months work. I have over $300 to collect for the Mott Conference and the National Y.M.C.A. of China.

Last Thurs. was Thanksgiving day. It was the quietest and most uneventful day that I ever knew. The Consul as usual invited all the American citizens to his home for the Thanksgiving dinner. But Gould thought we had better not attend. Of course we had to follow his directions. So we simply staid at home and rested. We want to hear all the news about the gathering at White Hill. The number was one more this year I suppose. Wheo! How the number of greatgrandchildren is swelling!

Ming Uong will probably cross the Pacific with Mr. and Mrs. Peet who return to the States next Spring on a furlough. His expenses will be about $800. Mexicans i.e. silver. I know where $500 of this is coming from. The rest I think can be raised without much trouble. It is a National affair and the sources are many from which to look for help. Mr. Lyon of Tientsin is fully as much interested in his going as any one, and he will raise a good part of the money. Of course there is some risk in sending him. He may get the "Bighead". But it is the opinion of all the Missionaries that this risk is small. I hope it will only open his eyes to greater possibilities in Christ's service here.

Love to All

Will.

Foochow, Dec. 5 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last two days have been very pleasant. Unusually for Foochow, we have had several rainy days in Nov. this year. The weather has also been quite warm. We put the stove up today, and put the carpet down. I have had a stove in the bedroom for several days, with a fire night and morning. Ellen took dinner and supper with me in the dining room today for the first time since Gould was born.

Sunday: - Ellen has taken all her meals with me today. I have urged her to lie down but to no purpose. She says she is not tired. The boy grows like a weed. It seeks [seems] as if he were an exceptionally strong child. He holds his head up like a grown person, and if he gets the chance he bears his whole weight on his feet. He has thus far slept well every night. We are greatly blessed in having two children who go to bed and sleep all night. Phebe has taken only one nap a day for sometime. She goes to bed and sleeps all night. Phebe has taken only one nap a day for sometime. She goes to bed about 7:00 p.m. and wakes about daylight. She wants to come from her crib into my bed when she wakes, and you should see the way she hugs! When it is time for me to dress she goes to the amah and has on a thick coat until after breakfast, when she takes her bath and is dressed for the day. Now that it is colder I think we shall keep her in bed until a fire is started and the room warm.

It has been a long time since we have heard from you. Mails have arrived, but they brought only papers for us. We have to accept no news as good news and trust the Father that all is well.

Mon.:- Yesterday was Communion Sunday in the churches here in Foochow. At Geu Cio Dong 8 were received. One more was examined, but he was not able to attend the service yesterday, because the Official called him to see about some matter. I counted this rather an unfortunate circumstance, because this man was a Second Degree man. - the first Second Degree graduate who has asked admittance to one of our churches. I had the honor to conduct the examination. He has been thinking about accepting the Gospel for nearly a year now. He seemed to understand the principle Truths of the Gospel thoroughly. I asked him if he found it hard to accept a Gospel that placed all men on the same level. - that told him to recognize the coolie who carried burdens on his shoulder, or the man who carried the sedan chair in which he the Literary man sits, as his equal. He said it was hard, but he recognized that the Gospel of Christ required this. Another who united was a First Degree graduate. This makes two of the First Degree men in Geu Cio Dong. It means much for one of these Literary men to leave the ranks of the Four Hundred, as they would be called in the U.S., and unite with the Church. Next to the Officials these Literary men i.e. those who have taken examinations and obtained a degree hold the power in this land. They are respected and feared by the people, and the Officials are very careful when a case involves one of these men. A case has just come to my notice this morning in which the Literary men instead of the Officials were consulted. There was a dispute between two men over a piece of land. The case was left to a number of Literary men to decide. In this instance however the decision, altho agreed to by both parties, was not final. One of the men has secretly carried it to the Officials. And now, as he has implicated me by writing the Official that "Several tens of Missionaries came to his house who looked as fierce as tigers, and forced him to give up his land to the other party," I have business with the Officials. This however is an unusual case, bordering very closely on perscutisn [persecution?]. I have seen the answer which the Official sent to this petition, and he tells the man who wrote it that he does not think the church member would do as he has accused him of doing. And that he has heard of the decision of the Literary men and thinks they are right.

If these Literary graduates are sincere, and earnest, they will be of great help to the Church. Of course there is danger of pride among the other members, because of the presence of these "Honorable brethren". There are other dangers also, but we are much rejoiced that the Gospel is taking hold of the upper classes.

Christmas is near, and the Churches are already planning for the festivities. Last year the crowds were so great that we are to hold the services in all the churches at the same time this year. I meant to have written earlier, but altho too late for Christmas this year, it will be of use next year. If you have and Exercises for Christmas, or Easter Concerts, I wish you would send me some. Of course one of a kind is enough, as I shall use only the translation.

Mon. evening: - I have been to Kuliang today to see our house. I am getting to enjoy a trip up there hugely. It takes me entirely away from all the work here, and gives me an entire change. The exercise is just right, not that I am used to the climbing. I ride to the foot of the mountain in a chair, and walk up. The ride occupies one and three fourths hours. It took me today just one and one half hours to walk from the foot of the mountain to our house. Today I laid out and drove the stakes for a house of one of the Methodist ladies. I was on the mountain about three hours. The air up there is clear and crisp. It is so cold that the workmen say they cannot work at all in the early morning and late afternoon.

An American mail came last evening. Letters arrived from Long Hill and from East Berlin. They were good and newsy, jut the kind we want. What was the matter with old Dandy? How much of the stone wall in front of the house went into the road? How have you fixed the ground in front of the house now? What has become of my little brother? You don't know how I long to see him. You must write oftener Stanley. I wish you would send me one of your photos- a recent one. And if I was real selfish I should want a full length portrait so that I might see your size.

I was very much pleased today to read in the account of the Board Meeting at Toledo, that the Prudential Committee have been instructed to increase appropriations for next year $65,000. This gives me courage to hope that our appropriation will not be less this year than it was last. With this amount we can keep the work moving. To cut off help in many places, means to kill the work.

Love to all Will

I read with much concern of Mr. Keneston's illness- May God spare him to the work in Shelton. Cousin Carrie Bennett has endured much. I trust she is now happy with her Saviour. Remember me in sympathy to cousin Elizabeth.

[This letter dated Dec. 18, 1896 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. He tells how Gould and Phebe are doing. He has had the duty to prepare and send a shipment of food up the Min River to the Shaowu missionaries. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, Dec. 18th. 1896.

Dear Folks at Home:-

There is time to commence a letter tonight before going to rest. The mail Wed. brought a letter from Mother and one from Phebe. - aunt Phebe. Father and mother must feel lonely now with half their children away from home. But they must at the same time feel very broad and long when they think of the extent to which they have expanded, and they must feel very important when they think of the influences which today emanate from them thro their children.

Myron Gould is flourishing. He is a good boy. This is true whether his mother admits it or not. Ellen left him today for the first time. She was gone about three hours. His manship decided that his dinner basket should be filled before his mother returned, and the way he talked was a guarantee of his strength in body limb and lung. He never will starve because he did not ask for something to eat, or because he did not ask loud or long enough. He is good as can be about going to bed. His mother puts him in the bed wide awake and he does not peep but just shuts his eyes and goes to sleep. Phebe is just now suffering from Eczema which makes her rather particular. She is developing fast. Ellen has a set of blocks which the little girl plays with quite intelligently. She understands all ordinary household language and says many words. If she does not know how to express her thoughts, she finds other ways to tell her wants. This morning I took a stuffed cat she was playing with and used it for a foot-ball. After I had stopped she wished me to do it some more. She took my hand and put it on the cat and then patted my shoe, and stood off looking for the result. She loves little brother as well as ever, and is quite happy to sit on one knee and have the "Buoy" sit on the other. If all parents take as much pleasure in their little ones as we do in ours this world has a lot of happiness in it.

Today I have sent a shipment of oranges, potatoes and books to Shaowu. This is the first time I have had this duty to perform. It is not fun with all the other business connected with the Station. Oranges and potatoes, and in fact almost everything is bought by weight. The buying is much like buying at an auction or a fair at home. No goods guaranteed. You buy with your eyes open and if you get the worst of the bargain you must bear it.

Mon. Dec. 21st. All work now centers around Christmas celebrations. In my field there will be 7 this year. Last year there were 3. The first is today. One is on Thurs., one on Fri. (Christmas day) two on Sat. one next Mon. One place celebrates for three days in succession. It has been no little task to satisfy all these different sets of Christmas Committees in the amount of money which we gave them toward the expenses. A Chinaman thinks that what has been done once should be a precedent for succeeding generations. Last year there were 10 Missionaries in the compound and each gave $1.00. This year there are only 3 of us, and the difference between $10.00 and $3.00 rather discourages the Chinese Christians. Ellen and I have taken pity on them to the extent of $6.50. This is not by any means as much as they received last year, and there are fully twice as many to divide it among this year. It is good for them tho, the sooner they learn to be independent of foreign help, the sooner the Chinese Church will begin to grow by leaps and bounds of which the world has never yet known. The young Christians are fast learning this lesson of self-dependence, and they see that dependence on foreign help, (more than is absolutely necessary is a detriment to the Lord's cause. But these old men and women who have been "babied" for two score years or more, look on the Missionary's pocketbook and the Mission treasury as inexhaustible sources of supply, and as sources from which first of all the money is to come for carrying on the work. But we are thankful for the young blood and that some of it is finding its way into the veins of these older Christians.

Dec. 10th. the 2nd. Degree man of whom I wrote in my last letter, united with the church. The same day at Au long Die 6 men united. This makes 19 this month. Next Sun. I hold another Communion at the Fish Market chapel and shall receive 5 or 6 more.

Sat. p.m. the two eldest sons of one of our neighbors returned to Tientsin, where they have been attending the Medical Department of the Imperial University. The father of these boys was a preacher in our Mission, but for some misconduct was turned out. He is repenting now and talks of again uniting with the church. The mother is a lovely Christian woman. There are three daughters in Miss Newton's school who are earnest Christians. Then there are two or three younger children. The family are quite well to do. These two boys (now about 20 years of age) have been in Tientsin for three years. When they went they were both hostile to Christianity. But they have come under influences in Tientsin which have turned them about and made them very earnest and outspoken Christians. Doubtless before this reaches you, the papers will be full of the accounts of the trouble in the Imperial University. These two young men were the prime movers in the affair, and I must get time to send a correct account to the Sentinel. The papers do not tell the truth, and as I have it first hand, and from those who have been in the thickest of the fight from the first I'll send it home. So I say no more here now. What I want to say now is that we are hoping to find that God has in this occurrence in Tientsin a blessing for His Cause in Foochow. The younger of these boys is very bright and seems to us to be thoroughly consecrated to Christ's service. He has the "stuff" in him that Paul and Luther and Finney and Neesima were made of. While they were in the University at Tientsin they were bound to remain in the service of the Government for about 7 years to come. Now that they are dismissed by the Viceroy of that Province it looks as if they be given power to preach so as to convert 1000s. They have begun well. The younger went with me yesterday and spoke in one of the chapels near here. Above all other temporal things we need now workers.

9.00 p.m. I made the longest speech in my life this p.m. - - in Chinese.

Tues. a.m. Dec. 22nd. Here goes for a finish to this document. The boys of the Theological School have been planning for some time to make a tour of the field of our Mission, and hold services in each place for a few days. Last Fri. the examinations were over and this a.m. at 8 o'clock they called to say good bye and ask our prayers. It is a bright cold morning- just the right time for a walk of 6 miles. They are to take care of themselves, as far as money goes, on the trip. It did me good to see them start off this morning with happy and expectant faces. I hope that they will have the courage to carry out their whole plan. It will mean for them a good deal of hardship. There will be much walking and they will shiver with the cold more than once. They will have to endure the hardships of a Missionary touring in the country in the winter season.

The papers announcing the Presidential Election, arrived last evening. You remember we heard the news of the election as soon as you did. Knowing the result, it has seemed rather queer to receive the letters from home discussing the preelection features of the campaign and the probable outcome. It is a good thing for us that the gold standard triumphed. - unless a silver bases would so increase the amount of money they are now sending. This I consider an impossibility. I am glad to note the hopeful tone of the papers relating to the financial situation in America. I hope it may be on a solid foundation, even if we do have to pay $3.00 instead of $2.50 a bag for our flour.

The shoes you sent me in the last shipment are just right. I hope you will be able to duplicate them for next Spring's shipment. We are enjoying Pettijohn's Breakfast food very much. Cereals form the major part of breakfast and supper for us. I have bought 50 lbs. of rice and 300 lbs. of sweet potatoes and 200 lbs. of Irish potatoes. I have a hen yard and 9 fowls. By this means we are able to know a little better what we are eating.

Ellen has been busy this week selecting the picture cards for the women and children of the churches and day schools, to be given at the Christmas festivities. It has taken about 400. I said something about this yesterday at the services at Ha Puo, and then told the great increase this number was over that of last year. I also said I was glad of the increase and hoped next year there might be an increase over this year of I stopped for a moment, and an old Church member shouted "Sioh chieng" i.e. 1000. I asked where the cards would come from to supply so many. He said he hoped God would help the good people in American to "Chok lik" i.e. put forth strength, and help a little.

I am glad if the typewriter is a source of pleasure to grandfather and grandmother. I should not be surprised to hear the same from many others who have grown weary trying to decipher my hen tracks.

Well I am waiting for a letter from Stanley. It has been a long time since he has written. We have had the Heir to the throne snapped. Today the proofs come. If they will answer we shall have some printed. He was 5 weeks and one day old. Phebe is all right again. Today her nose is as red as it would beat home on a cold Dec. a.m.

Will.

Dear Father:-

I have been very negligent this year about sending the money for my life insurance policy. I think however there is time. The premium is due Feb. 27th, so if you will kindly send the money as soon as you receive this I think all will be well. The premium is $27.86, the address is Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. 752 Broad St. Newark NJ

The mails are delayed again for some reason or for no reason. It has been a month or more since we have heard from Putnam and about two weeks since a letter has come from Shelton. We are also waiting for the letter from Boston which will tell us how much money we can use in the work next year.

This is our Week of Prayer,- one meeting each P.M. New Years day our Mission met for the "Jubilee Dinner." Sat. P.M. we met for our Jubilee celebration. It was just 50 yrs. ago Jan. 2 that Mr. Johnson landed in Foochow- The first Missionary to take up work here. He was of the A.B.C.F.M.

Ellen and the children are well. We took Phebe to church with us Sunday. She was as good as could be. Yesterday I had to let up. I got up this morning at 11:00 and am on the right road again.

The weather had been quite warm for a week. We have had no fire in the study- and nor fire at all except to bathe the babies by.

Love to all

Foochow, China, Jan. 3rd. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Since I last wrote the 7 Christmas celebrations have all passed off nicely. Three of the largest churches held their exercises on Christmas day this year so the crowds were not as great. Then too the Christians had the experience of last year and had taken the necessary precautions against any disturbance from crowds. I made a speech at each gathering and ate a Chinese feast at three. There is a saying here that if a man can eat the food of a place he can learn to speak the language. I found this daily practice in speaking a great help. Then too during those days I was with the natives almost constantly, and heard the Chinese all the time and had to speak in the Chinese if I would convey my thoughts. I am more than ever convinced that if a person would get the language quickly he should go away from foreigners and live with the natives where he would hear only their talk and where he would be compelled to speak in their language.

I went up to the mountain the last day of the old year to see our cottage. The roof is on the floors laid. The partitions are up and the plastering going on. We shall have a nice cosy little place to go to in the hot weather if all goes well. Dwight and Mrs. Goddard go up to their cottage about once in five weeks and spend parts of three days. Mrs. Goddard has an unusual amount of work this year, and she finds it necessary to take frequent rests.

The annual report of the Mission is at last printed and ready for mailing. I am planning to send 40 copies to various friends at home.

In the last mail I sent a photo of Gould [see photo below]. He was five weeks and one day old. It was impossible for us to have the picture taken in the house so we had to go out in the open air. The light of course was very bright for such little eyes, but we told him to try and open them as wide as possible and he obeyed. The result as you will observe is a scowl. He has been known to look like this once or twice since his arrival, so it is not entirely unnatural. With the exceptions of the scowl the likeness is a very good one. Ellen's picture here is perfect. It is the first one she ever had taken when she was unconscious of her self. I wish her head was elevated then we should have a perfect likeness of all her features. Gould weighed 16 lbs. in his clothes Jan. 1st. Ellen weighed 161 lbs. and Phebe 27 lbs. I was not weighed. Both the children are quite well now. Phebe makes rapid progress in talking. She goes into her crib at 7 p.m. with her dolly and her "doggy" and after singing a little she is fast asleep, and she has reached that state all alone in the dark. Gould is a funny fellow. For the past day or two he has slept very little. But today he has slept all the time scarcely waking to eat. The week of prayer begins today. Mr. Hartwell preached an historical sermon in view of the 50th anniversary of the Lord's work in Foochow. Both Ellen and I wished to attend. One amah had gone home. One amah could not take care of two babies alone in this place. So we took Phebe with us. She was a good girl all thro the meeting. A few people who sat nearest us knew she was there but the majority of the audience knew nothing of her presence. How is this for an 18 months old girl?

The first Missionary came to Foochow 50 years ago yesterday, (Jan. 2nd 1847). The first Christian was baptized in 1856. I will not now say more of the work of the earlier day because it will all be printed in the course of time and sent to you. In commemoration of the beginning of the work here (this was done by Missionaries of the A.B.C.F.M.) we met as a Mission yesterday and listened to letters from the absent members, many of whom were here in the pioneer days. One of these letters came from a Mrs. McGowan now in England. She came to Foochow in 1847 with her parents when she was 3 years old. Dr. Baldwin who returned a few months after we arrived, first reached Foochow in '51. The American Board was first in the field, baptized the first Christian, established the first Hospital, sent the first Missionary into the country away from Foochow to live, and had done the greater part of the literary work in the Foochow dialect – the printing of the Bible and hymns and text books, and especially the Dictionary.

Today I held a Communion service at the chapel in the big fish market, that I wrote about last April or May. I was a little discouraged over the work and prospects there during the Summer and early Autumn, but today the results justify the opening of the work there. We received six men on confession. These are the first members of this church and we have tried to be very careful in admitting them. One of them was examined last June. The others last Oct. We have asked them to wait till now that they might prove their faith. As many more have been examined and asked to wait till another Communion season before joining because they did not seem to be thoroughly acquainted with the Truths of the Gospel.

Mr. Hubbard and his family are up in Foochow to attend the Jubilee and the week of prayer. Dr. Whitney and family also. They are all in our compound. We are quite a little city now in comparison to what we were before they came - - only three adults.

The Theological School closed two weeks ago and the boys have been out in evangelistic work since. They are enjoying the work. They have arranged to meet their own expenses without asking the Mission or the missionaries for any money. This is the most encouraging feature to me. The Chinese do so enjoy getting money out of the Missionaries.

We are waiting anxiously for the letter to come from Boston announcing the amount of our appropriation for next year's work. The wonderful results of the efforts of the native church toward self-support this year have made it possible to meet all our obligations as a Mission to our helpers and we have enlarged the work and the force. Next year - - this year foreign reckoning - - I at least must have more day-schools and more preachers.

I must close this now for there are other letters that must be written and if I leave this in the machine over night I shall have more to write in the morning. This will delay the next letter.

Love to all the friends

From Grandchildren and children

Will.

[This letter dated Jan. 31, 1897 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. Willard and Ming Uong traveled six hours to a country village to perform a Christian wedding ceremony. He tells more about this five day trip to Chong Ha and Nang Seu. They have received the appropriations amount from the board and it is not as much as needed. Daughter, Phebe, is speaking a combination of Chinese and English words. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, Jan. 31st. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your last letter bore the date of Dec. 7th. 1896. I wrote last about the middle of Jan. After this I shall keep a record of the letters received and sent. Then we shall know if any are lost and which. I will begin each letter as this is begun.

Jan. 21st I started for a stay of 5 days in the country. One of our nice young men who has been teaching a day school but who is to act as preacher in a newly opened chapel next year, had invited me to perform the marriage ceremony for him. His home is about 6 hours journey from here. I had been very busy planning for the work of the new year and thought I would take this opportunity to get away for a few days. Ming Uong and another young man who speaks English - - one of those who recently came from Tientsin - - accompanied me. We went about 8 miles by chair then as much farther by boat and then walked a mile and found a country village of about 500 inhabitants situated on a large plain on the other side of the Min river from Foochow. There are many other villages scattered all over the plain at short distances from each other. At this village, Chong Ha, we have a chapel fitted up for the use of our Missionaries when they are visiting the part of the field which lies up the river. After a lunch I was notified that the bride had arrived. I then read the ceremony for the second time in the Chinese character. There were two ordained pastors of our Mission present and several other helpers and Christians. It was a Christian wedding. The bride is a recent graduate of Miss Newtons school and a very earnest Christian. They will begin their work together in one of the newly opened suburbs of Foochow about ten minutes walk from our house. He will act as preacher and she will teach a day school in connection with the chapel and work among the women.

The wedding was on Thurs. Fri. I went over to a place called Nang Seu. Here the Mission has had work at intervals for 30 years, with no fruits. Last year Mr. Hartwell again opened a chapel, and a nice rather quiet man and his family have been staying there and doing what they could for the Master. Two men are now hopeful enquirers there. We went out on the street and had a good opportunity to talk with some 20 men who gathered as they saw us. Two of these appeared interested, and before we left the place one of them came to the chapel to talk more. While we were at the chapel two different men came in and were glad to talk about the all important theme of Redemption. At this chapel I for the first time sat at the table with a native family and partook of the ordinary meal of an ordinary citizen. Always before it had been something special - a feast or a meal specially prepared for foreigners. Ming Uong and I went back to Chong Ha for the night. The other friend stopped with one of his relatives in Nang Seu. Sat. morning Dwight came in just as I was eating breakfast. He had been visiting the stations in his field which lies on the river above Chong Ha for a distance of 80 miles or more. That day we all took a walk among some of the villages, stopping at the house of a rich young man whose father has recently died leaving a large property to the son. The father on his death bed advised the son to become Christian. The son has given up his idols and has attended church some. He refused to pay the idolatrous money and has thereby incurred the enmity of the rest of the village who are now doing all in their power to harass him. We took a little lunch and went up on a high hill to eat it. Sun. was a quiet day in a country church that made me think of some of the New England churches - - all the members with a very few exceptions old men, and very few of the young men ready to take their places in the church. The boys are all in the city of Foochow at school or learning trades or in stores. The rush for the city is just the same here as in America. Monday morning we walked over to Nang Seu where Dwight had gone on Sun. and from there we took a boat for home. After leaving the boat a walk of 2 hours and a half brought us home to the dear ones. Ellen and the children had been alone during the day. Mrs. Goddard had come out from the city each night to keep them company. I went for the change and rest. I have not enjoyed such a quiet time in months. It did me a world of good. It was just like getting out of the busy whirl of the city at home into the quiet of the country. I was away from all responsibility, where I had simply to follow my own inclination, and go and come when I chose and where I chose.

The appropriations for 1897 have come. The money has been divided. I have carefully counted the cost of carrying on the work of my station this year and it will amount to nearly $300 in silver more than the sum allotted to me. Ellen and I have counted the cost and we can hold ourselves responsible for this extra amount. We have a little in the bank here and by careful living we can make the ends meet. Our hope is in God and we know He will not allow His work to suffer. I have faith that the churches in America will see the need and so increase their contributions to the Board that more money will be sent us. Or that God will lead private individuals to give to special objects. The planning to make $1.00 do the work of $1.25 when the sum total is $2000 is extremely wearing on the vital energy of the Missionary. It sometimes seems to me that the churches are using up human lives very fast by these scanty contributions. We have had word that the Prudential Committee are ready to send Mr. Solandt to us as soon as the money is at hand to pay his passage and salary. Meanwhile he waits and we work. This is no complaint, only the situation as I see it. When I made up my mind to go to the foreign field I gave up all thought of an easy time in life or of making money. So if I am spent it is in line with my purpose.

Ellen and the children are well. Phebe is developing very fast. She says almost everything. Her speech is a jumble of Chinese and English. For instance she says "shoe" but for hat she says "mo". She says "boy siah" for "the boy eats". She loves the boy as much as ever. She often wants to take him. He is getting to be an intelligent being. It was very gratifying to a father's pride to come from an absence of 5 days and have the little man smile and coo to me. I think you must have received his picture before this.

Father's letter was extremely interesting. We are already counting the years before we can go home. The changes are so great even now that I am afraid we should hardly find our way about unescorted.

The Seminary will open Feb. 18th. (father's birthday) The boys, 19 in all will be very much pleased with the organ. And they will use it to good purpose. I shall have to teach two hours a day during Ming Uong's absence. It will do me good in learning the language as I shall have to depend entirely on the Chinese tongue to express my thoughts.

The Sentinel is a welcome guest. Ellen's home paper keeps her informed of the changes in Putnam. The White Hill's paper is a credit to the enterprise of the people there. Give them my hearty congratulations. I must close now and go to the land of nod. This is the paper that the Chinese use to write their best letters on. In other words it is stylish.

The rainy season is here- Love to all- Yesterday was another birthday. Feb. will make many of us one year older. Will.

[This letter dated Feb. 14, 1897 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. He talks about the cold weather they have been having. The young Chinese Christians held their first union meeting of all the Y.M.C.A.s in Foochow. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China Feb. 14th 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter I dated Jan. 31st, I believe. The last arrival was Feb. 9th dated Century Farm Dec. 20th 1896. It contained a good letter from Phebe, who enjoys kindergarten and is growing fat. The misses Woodhull [Hanna and Kate], who are now at home on Long Island someplace are looking for a kindergarten teacher to come back with them next Fall. Phebe will scarcely be ready by that time.

With regard to the present from Aunt Louise. I think it a good idea to put in the Bank at home. I think it will insure less complication if it is in my name.

This last letter brought good news concerning everybody. Grandfather and grandmother comfortable. Grace better. Mr. Kenneston able to be with his people again. The Father has been very gracious to us all since two years ago. I suppose we are more impressed with this fact because we are at a distance where we get a landscape view of all the friends in America and because the conditions as they existed when we left are so clear in our minds.

We have almost forgotten how it seems to wade in a foot of snow; to ride in a sleigh or go in a carriage. The past four days have been pleasant and cold. Fri. morning the ther. went down to 33 degrees. This is about as low as it goes here. But the day was clear and the cold was not felt as much as when the ther. is higher and the atmosphere damp. Feb. 5th I was 32 years old. I celebrated the day by going to Kuliang. The morning was cloudy but I thought it would not rain, so sent word into the city to Dwight to go with me. The note had not reached him when the rain was falling heavily. But in 15 minutes the sun was shining. We take different roads to the foot of the mountain, and we ride in chairs to the foot and walk up. We were fortunate to arrive at our destination in the chairs at the same time. It takes me about 1 hr. 40 min. and Dwight 1 hr. 30 min. to go from our house to the mountain foot. We reached our new cottage about 11:30 A.M. The ground in many places was frozen and there was no lack of ice in little holes and on sticks and on the trees, tho none in the ponds. The people were all in their houses. I went to see one old man and found him with his house shut up tight, and a bonfire in the center of the room, over which he was tending trying to keep warm. The people in the country do almost nothing in the cold weather. They put on all the clothes in their possession and double themselves up and sit around or for diversion gather a few sticks and build a little fire on the dirt floor. In the larger villages and in the cities business goes on about the same in Winter and Summer. I found our cottage shut up- all the workmen gone home for Chinese New Years, and they had taken the key with them. I burst in one of the doors and found the house nearly finished. The walls need a little more whitewash, and one or two door latches are not on. I bargained to have the wood which is exposed to the weather painted. This is not yet done. The wind wall is not completed and the grading needs a little more attention, then the house is ready for occupancy. The rain fell steadily, the wind blew strongly from the North, the veranda floor was all ice. We walked over to Dwight's house- a 15 minute walk. My hands became numb and my ears ached with the cold. This is the first experience of this kind in China. The cold is generally of that damp chilly nature that goes all thro you, but does not make your hands and ears feel like freezing. In Dwight's house we found a stove and soon had some water warming and our bread toasting and ourselves thawing out. I left my overshoes at the foot of the Mt. and wore the shoes that came from home in the last box. I found in the Mt. house an old pair of shoes that I had discarded last Summer. I put these on to walk down the Mt. as I knew it would nearly ruin the new ones to walk down thro the wet. Of course my feet were well soaked but I had two over coats and when I got into my chair I wrapped my feet in one and put on the other and went home warm and comfortable.

Last Fri. Feb. 12th the Y.M.C.A.s of Foochow held their first union meeting. I was surprised on Tues. while at Dwight's on business to have 5 of the leading Chinese Christians young men come in to consult us about the meeting. They had been to our house at Ponasang and learning that I had gone into the city walked straight in to consult. They had the plan all fixed up themselves, but they came to us as if they wanted us to help in the planning. However we little by little drew them out and finally found that they wanted 3 Missionaries and three Chinese to speak. The object of the meeting was 2 fold. (1) to inspire Christians with greater zeal in Christ's service (2nd) to explain the Plan of Salvation to those who did not know it. Geu Cio Dong was full- I estimate 308 present. These were picked people. Many students and teachers, and many from the well-to-do home of Foochow- many also from a Chinese Transport or training ship now lying at Pagoda. The meeting began at 2:45 and closed at 5:30. After the speaking by those who had been asked to speak and singing- an opportunity was given for testimony. I wish you could have heard those young men talk. I wish you could merely have been there to see their faces as they spoke and to have seen their earnestness. You would never again doubt whether a Chinaman-could be dead in earnest over Christianity. One young man denounced, in as bold language, as Mr. B. Fay Mills used in Washington, the Arsenal at Pagoda Anchorage under the control of the Chinese Government. He has been there a short time as a student, and he said to the audience "It is a very wicked place, full of temptations. Do not go there." It is very seldom that one hears such words as these in China. The Chinaman is altogether too polite generally to denounce evil in very forceful language, - even evil in the abstract, to say nothing of a concrete case. The young men of the six associations have decided to hold a Union meeting once a month. One of the most encouraging features of this gathering was the fact that not until nearly at the close of the meeting was mention made of the three Missions being gathered in one place. The young men came together as Christians and they forgot other names that suggested divisions. Another sign for laying aside doubts was this: - the meeting was planned by young Chinese Christians and all the speaking was (practically) done by them. The audience was composed of young people- most of them Christian young men. These young men were on fire. In these young men there is strength. They are the second generation of Christians. They have put their shoulder to the wheel, and Christ's cause here is sure to advance. I write in the face of the fact that appropriations from America are so meager. I am trusting that from some source these appropriations will be increased.

Only half a page left to write about the Girl and the Boy. Well they are both flourishing. They have the best of care, during the day and at night they still continue to sleep like bricks. This morning the boy awoke and cleared out his throat, then lay looking about till we were ready to go out to breakfast. He is the very best boy that we ever had, and I have some misgivings as to there ever having been many better. Phebe is daily learning the language, from the ease with which she picks up the Chinese I am more and more inclined to think that this is a child's language. The boy is just now cooing and laughing with his mother. I sit more than four feet away and speak, and he looks and begins to talk to me. He is a very happy little boy, always ready to smile when we speak to him, and he almost never cries without a good reason. We had their pictures taken the other day. The Boy was sitting in a chair and Phebe standing beside him. The Photographer came late in the P.M. and I am afraid it was too dark. He has not bro't the proofs and it was five days ago, so I am afraid we must try again.

The post office regulations now allow us to send letters to the states with only a Japanese 5 cents stamp, and papers with a 1 cent Jap. stamp. To send anywhere in China we must pay 2 cents per ¼ oz. Love to all
Will

*[This letter dated March 7, 1897 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. He talks about the Chinese men and facial hair. Mr. Ding Ming Uong will be leaving for the U.S. in early April and will visit Shelton sometime during his stay. Willard hopes the U.S. will endorse the Arbitration Treaty. He visited a Chinese Christian who was being persecuted for not paying money toward idol worship. He and Ellen have reluctantly decided to call their son, Gould, "Myron" instead as it appears that neither side of the family back home likes the name "Gould". Foochow, March, 7th. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

According to my records the last letter sent to Shelton was dated Feb. 14th. The last received bore the date Jan. 10th.

We are glad to hear that the box we sent has at last reached you. I have heard something about that shipment lying in the custom house at New York for a few months. This was due to error in marking I think. I do not wonder that it puzzled you to know the use of some of the things. Ben must have been right tho about the mustache comb for there was such an article in the box. The Chinese carry them about and use them. A Chinaman is very proud of his whiskers. They are a scarce article, and when they can be induced to show themselves, the man feels greatly honored. I have not seen a man (with whiskers) (under 40 years of age). At that age he begins his mustache- if he can. Later on he longs for a little down on his under lip. And when in his 50's and 60's he stops shaving his face. I have often been told that I must be at least 40, and when I say 33 (in Chinese reckoning) they say "only 33 and has a Mustache! Why people in your country have whiskers when they are very young." The articles which you call drawings are evidently sheets of writing paper. As in America, so here there are many styles of this. If I remember rightly that which Ellen sent was the paper on which friends would write to each other. The size is uniform. The color and quality vary. When I write to an official, I must have a palish red with lines of a different shade of red from the paper.

This is the first warm day this year. The mercury registers 76 in the house. We dare not take off any of our Winter clothing, for the air is very damp and then tomorrow may be cold again. There has been much less rain this year than last.

Today is the 5th of the Chinese moon- and the year's work is not all running smoothly yet. We have been making preparations for enlarged activities, both in chapels and schools, and it takes lots of time to adjust all the several parts so that they will run smoothly, and not interfere with one another. This year there will be 2 chapels, 2 woman's schools, 3 day schools, 8 Theological students, 1 place at which services are held each Sunday except Communion Sunday, in addition to the work of last year. i.e. a year ago. One year ago there were 2 church organizations, now there are 4.

Mr. Ding (for such you will call him) started last Wed. for Tientsin where he will be with Mr. D. Willard Lyon for a short time to learn about the Y.M.C.A. before sailing for the U.S. on the "Doric" with Mr. Peet and family April 5th from Shanghai. As to the time when he will come to Shelton I can not say now. You can probably choose the time most convenient for you. I should think during August would be his most convenient time. His address in the U.S. will be care of Rev. H.P. Beach D.D. Springfield, Mass. I will ask him to write you as soon as he reaches Springfield. Then there will be no difficulty in making arrangements. You will find him in every way a true gentleman. Don't let his clothes prejudice you against him. Find the man within.

March 14th. A whole week has slipped away since I began this. A mail has arrived from the States but nothing from either home. The papers are very jubilant over the Arbitration Treaty. By the time this is read by you the treaty will have met its fate at the hands of the Law Makers and will be history I suppose, unless Congress refuses to touch it or to endorse it. We look upon the Treaty as the greatest achievement of the Nineteenth Century Christianity. From the accounts in the papers Great Britain will not refuse to ratify it. God grant that the nation that takes the lead in Christian Freedom of all the nations on the globe may not block the passage of this advance measure.

My diary of the past week would read about as follows: - Mon. Taught three hours in the Sem'ry in a.m., in p.m. walked two and half miles to see the Christians in a part of the city where Christianity and Missionaries are not in high repute. Went to the shop of one man who is being persecuted for his refusal to contribute to the idolatrous ceremonies of his district. He has a small shop in which he makes cakes. He has one small oven, and used only charcoal. He refused of course to pay money toward idol worship. This he did repeatedly, until the collectors became angered and wrote the official that he had recently opened this shop and was using a stove which was very dangerous. They were afraid that the stove would set fire to the shop and the surrounding shops and houses. I went myself to see. On the opposite side of the street is a large shop of the same kind, using wood and having several stoves and furnaces. On two sides of his shop are two more shops both larger than his and both using wood which is far more dangerous than charcoal, of course the letter to the official was a lie of whole cloth. After the man had himself written to the official stating the truth, I also sent him a note telling the reason of the lie, and asking the official to stop the persecution. After eating dinner with 10 of the Christians in the place, and after talking money matters with them and receiving their promise to give $33 toward the support of the Gospel this year, I returned to Ponasang just in time to sit down to the table with Ellen and Phebe. But what can a man eat after having taken a Chinese feast?

Tues. a.m. taught three hours and reckoned with school teachers and masons and carpenters and preachers etc. In p.m. studied and prepared goods to be sent to Shaowu.

Wed. a.m. taught three hours and studied a little. p.m. attended Mission prayer meeting.

Thurs. a.m. taught three hours, studied and planned with helpers about the work. P.M. went to see two chapels that are in process of being repaired. Worked on Shaowu order.

Fri. a.m. taught one hour and one half. Went over the river to buy things for Shaowu, and to do business at the Bank. P.M. went with Pastor Ling and one of the church members to visit some men who are interested in the Gospel. We went to a part of the Suburbs where the wealthier business men live. There are not many shops here but mainly residences. Four men had united and invited us to come over and eat and talk about the Gospel. The front of the house was all open and I should think not less than 30 men came in and listened for a longer or shorter time while we were there talking. After talking for an hour the feast was ready and we sat down to eat. While we ate the neighbors left, there were five men tho who ate with us or helped entertain who asked questions or listened all the time for an hour and one half. After the rest we sat down again to talk and the neighbors and passers-by came in and listened. All said the "Ta Su Gau" i.e. Jesus Doctrine was "Ceng ho" i.e. very good. I think an impression was made on some of the men who invited us to come. One of them was already subscribed $5 for the work this year. They all say they like to go to church.

Sat. was spent in planning for the work in the new chapels, in reckoning with workmen who have been fitting up these chapels etc. I called on one church member in whose house a chapel was last year. Miss Newton and I together furnished $100 for rent and repairs on this place for last year. The men who were interested there furnished the rest of the money needed to purchase furniture and pay the preacher. This year the man wants the whole of his shop to carry on his business. I called on him yesterday and he gave me in money $20. This was to reimburse me for the money used in permanent repairs. If you knew how a Chinaman hates to part with a single cash, you would be able to rejoice with me to see the willingness of this man to help the church. He has subscribed $20 toward the preacher's salary this year.

Today I have been to church and to Y.P.S.C.E. This p.m. I actually went to sleep, and slept nearly two hours. I am planning for some special meetings to be held next week in the Ha Puo church, (Mr. Ding is a member here) and if these are profitable I want to do the same thing in other churches. The two young men of whom I wrote some time since as having returned from Tientsin, and as being very earnest Christian workers are going to help in these meetings.

The children are both as well as they can be. Both homes seem to have rejected or refused to own our son, because we call him by a name that does not suit their fancy. Well I said at first that we could continue to call him by that horrid (to them) name and not take him to see them when we went home. Then I repented and thought that would be revengeful, so we are talking now of calling the young gentlemen "Myron." Now you may just as well tell us that you think this name is "perfectly lovely" as to find fault with it because some one of Adam's descendents by that name once borrowed a pin and forgot to return it. He is not named after that man whoever he may be but he is named for his grandsires. His name is Myron Gould Beard. We shall call him Myron.

The clock has struck ten, so with love to all from us four.

I am you Loving Son and Brother

Will.

Foochow, China, March 28th. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter arrived Mar. 24th. With it came one from Aunt Louise and one from Grandmother. How we prized this! Mr. Kenneston also sent a note. My last letter was sent Mar. 15th.

We are very glad to know that the friends at home do not forget us. Please tell them all that we cannot forget them. Remember us especially to Cousin Elizabeth.

We can hardly think of our "little" sister Ruth as leading the singing in a public school. But time moves on and we must try to adjust our minds to the changes that are constantly occurring at home. Of course the picture as we saw it last two and a half years ago has very distinct outlines and it is difficult to change there when our only resource is a little ink on a piece of paper. Ben's photo is good. Ellen thinks he is not as fleshy as when we left, but I do not see much difference. I wish we had Flora here to take some photos for us. We have had very poor success with the Chinese artist.

Spring is here. I went to Kuliang yesterday. All the way across the plain the farmers were at work on the rice fields. Some were ploughing, some harrowing, some fertilizing and some had their fields ready for the rice and had flooded them and were waiting for the ground to - - I hardly know how to express the action, get ready. That is, the field waits a short time before the rice is planted. You would be amused at the process of harrowing. The harrow is of iron. The principle is that of the old mankilling hay rakes. It is 3 feet long, has about 8 teeth 10 in. long. Two pieces of iron run straight up from the head of the harrow and a rod connects these. This is the handle which the man holds and by which he works the instrument up and down, backward and forward and sidewise. A single ox or cow is attached to the harrow and is guided by a small rope- which is tied to a ring in his nose. There is water enough on the field so that all the field is under water except a few of the highest lumps. The farmer takes off all his apparel except one pair of trousers. These he fastens about the waist and then rolls up the legs so that there is practically nothing to get muddy and then he begins to shout at his ox and jerk to rope. This shouting and jerking continues till the man gets hungry. One of his household then comes to the field with a large bowl of rice which the man proceeds to devour while he squats on the edge of the field which is raised to keep the water in. His rice swallowed - - it would be more genteel to say eaten but it would not be true - - he goes to work again. During planting and harvest the farmers work hard. Their oxen also work hard. At other times both men and oxen do not work as hard altho the men are seldom idle. I have not seen the oxen at any work except plowing, harrowing and grinding. They have much leisure.

The flowers were beautiful on the mountain. The little blue violet was everywhere. The other varieties are not seen at home. On the mountain the farmers were just beginning to plow. When I started at the foot to walk up, I took off coat and vest and loosened the front of my tennis shirt. I was uncomfortable even then. Before I reached the top of the mountain I had to put on my clothes and keep moving to be comfortable.

Who can find words to express the joy that parents take in their little charges who God in his providence entrusts to their care? Both Phebe and Myron seem to be in perfect health. Since the rains have ceased they are in the open air all the time. This gives them good appetites and makes them sleep like bricks at night. I know of nothing that ever brought as much cheer into my life as does the smile of recognition from the little boy and the shout of "Papa" from the little girl as I come into the compound after a half day spent in these dirty nasty streets and among a people of strange habits and tongue. Phebe is developing very rapidly. At 21 and a half months we send her into another room after different articles of clothing and other things, her mother is teaching her to sing and she tries to make the tones. She tries to comfort little brother when he is alone and is worrying. Myron cries after his father when he leaves him and the other day he cried to go to me from his mother, - - which of course made his father proud. It is his chief delight to sit at the table with us and play with the spoons. It is fortunate that Ellen is not writing for if she was she would be telling what an indulgent father I am, and of her fears that I will spoil the children with indulgence. She has one good joke on me which you will never know until she writes.

Mon. evening: - One week ago this evening thieves broke into Miss Newton's house and took off several articles- - lamps, a clock, magnifying glass and other smaller things. Part of the articles have been found in a pawn shop. Miss Newton will have to give money to recover them. The man who is on the lookout for the thieves is himself a thief. This is on the principle that it takes a thief to catch a thief. This occurrence has had the effect to make us engage a night watchman. So now we are guarded as well as men can guard us both night and day. The watchman is Mr. Ding's uncle. - his father's brother who has recently joined the church. You may tell him when you see him, for I shall likely forget it. By the way, Mr. Ding is expected to sail for America on the same steamer that takes this letter. A telegram came last Thurs. from Lyon stating that the "Doric" was full. If this is the case and it is impossible for him to go on this steamer he will have to wait for the "China" which starts 10 days later.

Some time since Mother asked about the burial of infants in Foochow. I saw the article to which you referred. I have never seen or heard of any such thing in Foochow. Scarcely a week passes when I do not see at least one body of a man lying by the side of the street, or perhaps in the middle of the street so that every one has to turn aside to pass. But I have never seen the body of an infant. The "baby tower" is for the interment of infants whose parents are poor or who do not care to go to the expense of a funeral. The tower is about 5 ft. in diameter and 6 ft. high. When it is full it is considered a work of great merit to clean it out, and there is generally some one ready to do it. When the tower is too old for further use it is torn down and the place is marked by a little mound which is covered over with mortar and lime to remain for an indefinite time. This operation has been done in the cemetery near us since we came to Foochow.

This morning another mail came from home. There were letters from Putnam and Shelton, from a boy in N.Y. State asking me to send him some silk worms, and offering to send me some Botanical specimens in return. For a wonder he put sufficient postage on his letter. We have come to expect to pay 20 cents on such letters. Your letters are all right as to postage.

Mon. a.m. I left this last evening and Phebe sat down here in her mother's lap. The two lines above are the result.

I have kept the order for June shipment. N.M.N.B.

[This is a photo of a "Baby Tower" in Foochow. Very small dead babies of poor parents who cannot afford a burial are wrapped in straw or cloth and put in. Every 2 or 3 days, when full, someone gains great honor by cleaning it and providing a decent burial. The arches in the left rear are memorials to virtuous widows, i.e. widows who have not married again. No. 1.

Foochow, China, April, 11th. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started Mar. 29th. It contained our order for the June shipment. Your last letter arrived the 28th. of Mar.

Fri. night letters came from Ming Uong in Shanghai stating that there was no room on the "Doric" for him and he is left in Shanghai. Mr. and Mrs. Peet, Henry and Mary Whitney have sailed. They will reach San Francisco about May 1st. I think they intend to stop at a few points in the States, and arrive in West Haven about June 1st.

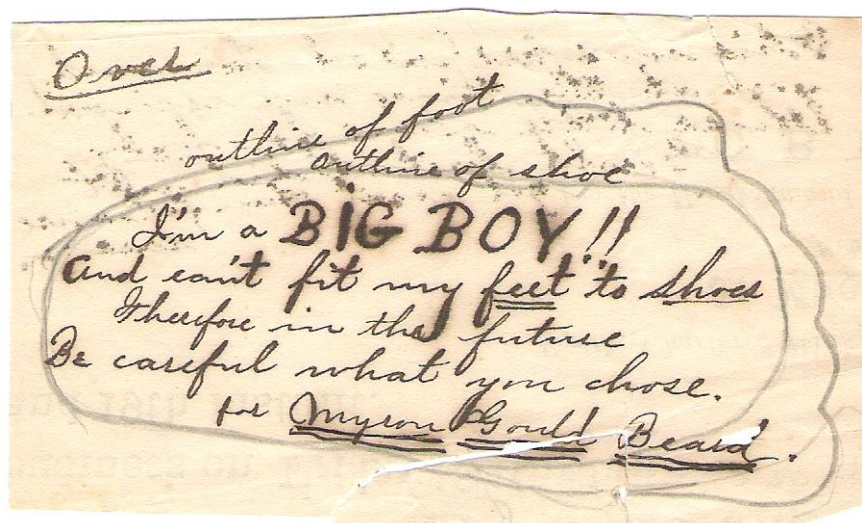

I have conducted a whole service myself for the first time. While Ming Uong was here I could call on him at any time to preach for his father and that left his father free to go with me to conduct the communion at the chapels. But it is not so easy now to find substitutes, so today I found myself alone with the preacher at Au Iong Die. I asked him to read the Scripture. The rest I did alone. O yes I asked him to read the longest part of the creed. I received two persons into the church. One man and one woman. I believe this was the time I have performed the ordinance of baptism at all. There were from 60 to 70 present. The majority were church members. Two weeks from today I expect to form a new church organization in the part of the suburb known as Au Ciu. This will make 5 churches in my care. One year ago there were two.

I have just finished my annual report for 1896-7. The number of additions to the churches in my care is 110. The amount of money paid by the natives is $759.75. Last year the amount was less than half as much. Of this amount $209.13 was paid by the scholars in the day schools for their tuition. About $200 was paid for repairs on two new chapels and the furniture for these chapels.

The boxes from Boston arrived this last week. Phebe and Myron are rejoicing in the new shade for the baby carriage. They can ride out now if the sun does shine. A box came from Putnam with lots of things in it. Dress goods and hats and shoes and other things that Ellen could tell in a jiff. I should have to go to the Dictionary to find how to spell them, after I had learned the names. So you will have to wait till Ellen tells you all about them. I do remember one article. It was a pair of shoes. We could not determine who they were meant for. At first we thought it possible that some one intended to send them for Myron. But he could scarcely get his big toe in one of them. His bare foot is fully a quarter of an inch longer than the soles of these shoes. And his foot is half an inch wider than the shoes. I have drawn a line around his bare foot and then another line around the sole of the shoe. I shall send it to Etta. We think of returning the shoes, in case she may find some use for them.

The children are troubled with eczema. Otherwise they are well and happy. Myron is the best boy that we ever had. The little fellow wakes up in the morning and lies on his back and kicks and crows just like a jolly healthy boy. He is five months old day after tomorrow. He is beginning to put out his hands and take things. Today he pulled a rose, which I had in my button hole in pieces- I have to be careful of papers when they are in his reach. I must close this now hoping to be able to write more next time.

Foochow, China, May 2nd. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My last letter was dated April 11th. No. 1. The last one received was on Mar. 24th. The last American mail was received here April 3rd. We do not know the reason but there must be some cause for the delay.

Three weeks ago today I conducted the communion service for the first time alone. Last Sunday I did it the second time. In all I received 7 into the church. The first person I ever baptized was a man who joined at Au Long Die three weeks ago today. Last Sunday I spoke for about 20 minutes with pleasure. The people listened attentively and they understood a portion at least of what I said. Today I have been into the city to a chapel which was opened last year under the auspices of Geu Cio Dong. The chapel was full and men stood in the doorway filling it and some stood in the street. There are no women in this church yet and none come to the services. The preacher took for his subject the passage in Mark which tells of Jesus meeting Mary Magdalene after his resurrection, and then urged the people to bring their wives and mothers and sisters to church and to teach them at home. The attention was remarkably good. After the service we asked the people to remain a few minutes and talk over church matters. $36 were subscribed and it was decided to give the Theological Student who goes over each Sunday to preach $12. The man who is this year teaching a school and holding meetings in the evening, and keeping a parsonage where the people may come and drink tea and talk about the Gospel, is to receive $12, and the mother church Geu Cio Dong is to receive $6. This is all native funds. I shall have to help this place in all about $50 this year. That is in gold about $25 for a day school and chapel. This would make a nice work for some Sunday School or Endeavor Society to support.

A letter from Ming Uong written in Kobe states that he expects to start from Japan for the States about April 20th. If he got off at that time he is approaching Tacoma by this time and will be in Springfield about the time this reaches us if not before. His address while in America will be Mr. M.U. Ding, 40 East 23rd. St., New York. From here letters will be forwarded to him.

The weather is reminding us that we must begin to prepare for Summer. The trees are all leaved out and our lemon tree is in bloom. It stands just in front of the house as you will see by looking at the photo. The fragrance is very pleasant in this place where there are so many odors of a different nature. Our cottage at Kuliang is not yet ready for occupancy, but now that the weather has settled down the men can work and we hope in the course of three weeks to get it into livable shape. We plan now to let the children and Ellen go up as soon as the hot weather comes and I shall have to stand it two or three weeks longer till the Seminary closes. This will be about the last week in June.

Miss Newton expects to sail for the States the first of June. Her eyes for some time been giving her trouble and she can get no help here and her correspondence with her oculist in American is of no avail. She expects to reach San Francisco in time for the Endeavor Convention, and to return in time to take up her work again in the Fall. This will leave our mission so small that we can hardly find ourselves among the 30 single ladies and 6 or 7 married missionaries in the English missions, and the 30 or so persons in the M.E. mission. Our number will be 12 this summer. It seems as if the Lord must send us reinforcements before the year closes. Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear have their appointments to join us again in the Fall. This will take a burden off me as he will be likely to take the care of the shipments to Shaowu. I also have charge of the evangelistic work in the hospital. He will of course take that.

Ellen had a very interesting experience the other day. Some of the girls in Miss Newton's school had been out doing Christian work in the homes near Ponasang here and a young widow had become interested in the Gospel. Her husband died about a year ago, and only a short time ago her little girl about four years old died. This caused her to loose faith in her idols and just about this time the girls met her and told her of the Heavenly Father's love. They had visited her only two or three times when she said she wished to throw away her idols and become a Christian. The girls appointed a day and asked Miss Newton to go with them to help in the destruction of idol worship in this house. Miss Newton invited Ellen to accompany them. They found the house full of idols and idol furniture. The woman knew very little about the Truth but she knew that she wanted to destroy her idols and that she wanted to learn about the true God. One room after another in the house was stripped of its idols and idol furniture and the paper and other material that was of no value at all was put in the kitchen stove and a fire was made of it. But it was seen that the quantity was too great to burn quickly and the woman brought her rice out and put it on to boil. So even the idol paper was turned to account. The principle idol was taken from his shrine and given to Ellen. He will probably be introduced to you in the process of time. Phebe takes a great liking to him. She calls him her "doggie". I hardly think however that she is in danger of becoming an idol worshipper. Before the idol was taken from the house an old man, a neighbor of the woman, tried as hard as he dared to get it to worship himself. This would be a cheap god for him. Before leaving the house Miss Newton had a prayer with the woman and told her that she must go to church. She said that would be impossible. But it was at last arranged that one of the girls would stop for her to day and she would go with her. Today she went to church for the first time in her life. She said she had never walked so far before since she was a little girl. The church was about as far from her home as from the end of our lane to the school house. This will give you an idea of how much the poor bound footed women here go about. The girl who took the lead in urging Miss Newton to visit this woman and who took the initiative in the destruction of the idolatry was the woman's next door neighbor. Her parents are both heathen and are to day worshipping idols. Her mother was there when her daughter was tearing down the idols. She was displeased too but the girl did not hesitate for a moment. She did what she believed to be her duty. At least 50 of the villagers gathered to witness this wonderful performance. They had a good object lesson in Christianity. The work was done in a kind and loving spirit. The next day we looked for trouble but every thing was as quiet as could be desired. So we hope that another soul is won for Christ.

Mon. May 3rd.

A mail arrived today. It brot a letter from Phebe and one from mother. Ellen got one from her cousin in India, Rev. Harvey Lawson [Harvey Lawson's mother was Sara Ellen Corbin, sister to Ellen's mother, Mary Jane Corbin. Harvey was also a member of the A.B.C.F.M.]. He has been on the field three years last fall. His wife is not well and they are on their way home for a rest. They passed Foochow this week but that was all the good it did us. They hope to return in the fall. A letter also came from a cousin of Ellen's in Springfield, Mass. Another came from the ladies of a Sunday School class in Putnam. This brought a postal note for $6. to be used in the work.

Phebe remarks that the boy looks like her in that he has a scowl. She says that grandfather said when he saw the photo that the boy looked like him. He was exactly right. I have often remarked to Ellen that Myron made me think of his great grandfather. His head is almost the same shape. He has a broad nose and often an expression that reminds me of grandfather.

The churches in my care have given this past year over $750 toward the work. This is more than double the amount they gave last year. 124 members have joined during the year. In the whole mission's field about 550 have united with the church. The year before the number was 251. From all reports I think the present year promises to be even more fruitful than last.

Mother writes confidentially to Ellen to know why I remain in bed so much. Well the truth is that I am not proof against the malaria that infests this region. I am all right if I do not overwork. This year I knew that all the work in this station depended on me. I used to think that it was my duty to walk a good deal. But I have for three months ridden nearly all the time. I have been the better for it. I spoke the truth when I said that I was resting. I have very little pain. It is simply a tired feeling with a little fever and no appetite till I have rested. Then I am as well as ever. I should say that last fall my liver was not right and I did have some severe pain. But since I took the vacation of a few days in the country I have not felt anything of this trouble.

I was very much interested in the account of the lively times you are having in the town meetings in old Huntington. The grand list proves that some one has not been paying more taxes than he should have paid. Does the revision effect your list and does the 7 mill tax lessen your taxes?

Miss Newton received a letter from Miss Child Sec'y of the Woman's Board that we were to have a new building her at Ponasang for the girl's school. This means that we are to have a new house to live in. - If the proposition really matures.

We are all well and all send Love. Will.

Foochow, China, May. 9th 1897

Dear Folks at Home:-

Another mail arrived yesterday. This makes your last letter arrive May 8th. I sent letter No. 2 (the last) May 3rd. You are surprised to receive another so soon. Well in the solitude of bachelorhood I am passing the time in this way. Ellen and the boy went to the mountain Fri. starting about 2 P.M. and arriving there about 6 P.M. Mrs. Goddard went up in the morning. Dwight went on Saturday. All will return tomorrow. Phebe and I have kept house. I was very tired today and took the advice given in mothers letter and remained at home this morning. In the afternoon I just went down and stood around and then dealt out the cards at the hospital S.S. in Ellen's absence. Then I stepped across the street to attend a union meeting of the Y.M.C.A. When I came home you should have seen Phebe. She fairly screamed with delight as she saw me from the veranda. This touched a tender spot in her father's heart. The little girl misses her mama and little brother but she is no trouble at all, and makes a big lot of sunshine here for me. A package of cards arrived with the mail yesterday. I do not know who to thank, so leave the word with you to pass along. I used 157 this afternoon at the S.S.

I am afraid that I am getting negligent about my correspondence. My time is so full with teaching and doing the necessary overseeing and planning for the work and in writing business notes that I actually shrink from taking up a pen or opening the typewriter to write about the work for I know it means hard work- the letters which I have written during the last four or five months have either been done when I should have been in bed or they have been in the machine for a week and I have written snatches as I found opportunity. I use about 100 envelopes a month. This will give a little idea of the writing I am doing. Of course this is not large for a business man, but for a man who has most of his time occupied in other lines of work it is not bad.

Fri. afternoon I finished examining day schools. Ellen has examined two for me. She has examined 2, I 10.

Strawberries are in their prime. I wish I could send you some. I wish Ben would write a good long letter again telling me where the different crops are planted this Spring, how many cows, what oxen and horses, wagons, dogs, etc. he has. Flora's photos give a very good idea of the "new place".

This is all for this time. Lovingly Will.

The enclosed order ($10) is for the purchase of the goods we sent for last month. I shall ask Mrs. Smith to send the $25 to you. Keep it. I shall wish to use it at home. W.

Tues. A letter from a Mrs. Smith an aunt of Mr. Kenneston arrived in this mail. She promises to support a Theol. Student.

Sunday – Foochow, June 6th '97

My Dear Wife – and Little Ones:-

I wonder how the day has gone with you on the mountain top! It has been a very quiet restful day here. I went down the mountain yesterday P.M. quite easily. The little rest that I took after dinner did me good. The shower met us about half way between the foot of the mountain and the first village Au Seu. How it did rain! My umbrella acted as a sieve. The drops of rain were very large and came with a good deal of force. They went right thro the umbrella and settled on one in a fine mist. I had enough on about my shoulders so that I was not wet there but my pants were pretty damp, -also my feet. I took a hot bath after reaching home and was all right. At 8:30 I retired. Of course I was tired, and of course it was hot. I had nothing over me- put on only upper pajama, wheeled the bed into the middle of the room and went to sleep immediately. It was 5:30 this morning when I awoke. I went to sleep again about 10 o'clock and the bell for church awoke me. 4 were received at Geu Cio Dong and 10 at Ha Puo this afternoon. I have had another good nap. So you see I am resting with a vengeance. I wish I knew if you had rested as well. It has been quite cool today. This P.M. I have worn a woolen coat all the time. Dwight called and talked for an hour or so. The Am. mail came last evening. Only one letter (for Dr. Smith) for us. I shall send Miss Newton's letters to you to open as she requested. I judge 2 of them are from Dr. Baldwin. If so and they refer only to common matters- that is if there is nothing in them which Miss N. should see at once I should send them around for the friends to read.

I shall send I No up tomorrow morning. I cannot tell now just what I shall send with him. Perhaps you had better send back one of the baskets. The smallest one. The coolie Lliong Ging used it to take up the native bowls etc. in. He will get it for you. Let me know what eatables etc. you want. If we have a messenger and can just as well as not we had better save the 5% charges by the stores for carrying things up.

[The rest of the letter is missing. Page trimmed short.]

[This letter dated June 6, 1897 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. He talks about the difficulty in working with the coolies at times. Because appropriations from the Board were low this year, Willard and Ellen are giving more of their own to help make up for the deficit. It appears that they have gone back to calling their son "Gould". Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China. June 6th 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

According to my register the last letter that started from here for Shelton was written May 9th (No. 3) Your last arrived May 24th. It is humiliating to me to think that almost a month has slipped away and I have not written – yes, I wrote to Grandmother. But such is the case. If I remember correctly it was getting warm the last time I wrote. Well it has been hot since. Both Phebe and Gould have felt the heat a good deal. I wanted the little fellow's picture taken as he is seen about each day but I could not have my want supplied- he has on just two articles of clothing- the little sleeveless vest is of the thinnest gauze. Arms, feet, legs, head all bare. The amah has a peculiar way of holding him. She lets him sit on her left hip with her right hand under him for a seat and holds him up by passing her left arm about him just under his breast. This leaves his legs freer to kick and his hands free to fly about or take things to his mouth. He is the happiest little boy that every lived.

Our house at the mountain is not quite ready to move into. But we had furniture in Dwight's house and he is not going up just yet so we arranged to go in there for a few days till ours is ready. Yesterday we were up long before light and ate breakfast at 5 o'clock hoping to start soon after but things do move slowly in Foochow. The coolies were asleep when I sent for them at 4:30 altho I charged them particularly to be here ready to start at the first ray of light. Then when they did come some of the loads were heavy and other complaints were made till I asked the head man if he would like me to complain to the Consul. He looked at me a moment and then did as I said. We started at 6:45. Fifteen men were carrying goods or sedan chairs. So you see it is not the easiest thing in the world to move a family from the plain to the top of the mountain here in China. If the coolies were only angles [angels] or even had angelic natures it would be different. If only you could use horses or oxen the problem would be simpler.

One could feed them well and be reasonably sure they would do the work. But it makes no matter what the bargain is or how kindly you treat these coolies. If anything occurs that makes his task a little difficult or if a circumstance occurs that puts you at his mercy, then look out- Be ready to sit down calmly and wait, - unless you have some means to compel him to behave. For instance, Ellen was in her chair yesterday morning. I was in mine with Gould, the amah was in hers with Phebe. Ellen has started. My chair was ready to start when the coolies refused to lift the Amah's chair. I simply ordered my coolies to wait and sat still while the head man labored with the refractory heathen. In about 10 minutes they had talked enough and then took up the chair and we started. Again at the foot of the mountain they made another fuss. But the times heal many kinds of sickness and it healed this. 12:30 found us and our goods all safely at the mountain top. The day was terribly hot on the plain, but on the mountain it was beautiful. I hardly expect to know the children when I see them again. They were so broken out with heat that they did not look like themselves. This will all pass away in a few days on the mountain. Miss Newton started for Shanghai May 24th. I think she sailed from Shanghai for Tacoma the 29th. She will attend the Y.P.S.C.E. Convention at San Francisco. I am the only foreigner at Ponasang now and expect to keep bachelor's hall for three weeks. The teaching in the Seminary is quite confining. I have taken Sunday as a rest day for a few weeks. But the next three Sundays I shall have to conduct Communion service and during the week I shall have to attend the examination for candidates for church membership in three places. Today at Geu Cio Dong 4 joined and at Ha Puo 10 joined. During the past two years I have not known a communion in any church of this station when there were less than one to be received. At one communion there was only one man to join.

Last night I was asleep at 8:30. I awoke this morning at 5:30 and have had 2 good naps today. I have been perfectly well for the past month able to do a full day's work every day and some extras. I sent a letter to Grandmother May 16th and one to Mr. Kenneston May 20th. So my delay in writing you may be compensated. Please tell Mr. Kenneston or any of the Shelton people that their gift came a few days ago. We are receiving a number of special gifts this year. They must be in answer to our prayers for the work. At the beginning of the year the appropriations were cut down badly as you know. Ellen and I pledged to the work here in order that it might not suffer, all the money we could call our own telling God that if it was His will we would use it. If He would send us money from other sources we could save it for future needs. He is sending money from other sources.

Ellen is well but the heat has worn on her somewhat. Then she has had two tailors for three weeks doing the Summer sewing. So she is tired. I am so glad she is at the mountain this early. She can rest there and other families are there so she will not be alone. With love to all – hoping that the ailing ones are better. Will.

Ponasang, June 10th. 1897.

Dearest Ellen:-

I have just finished a very difficult task- that of telling Si tu he could not study in the Sem'y anymore now because his scholarship was too poor. He will go to Goddard this P.M. to talk about working in Ing Hok. The coolie who came up to the mountain on Mon. has been sick since. Diong Ging washed yesterday and is ironing your clothes to-day. Diong King and Lieng Die have entered into partnership to do the washing and carrying of clothes for us the Summer. Diong Kong will carry the clothes up and back and Lieng Die will wash and iron. I could not make them come up twice a week, so have told them to come up each Mon. morning. I wonder how you will like this. I think the washing and ironing will be done well. If the house is ready to move into by Tues. I will come up Mon. afternoon and help move on Tues. returning Wed. morning. If you can do this tell Ga U that you want his friend to come Sat. if possible to dong noh. He wishes us to hire some of his friends to do this and I shall be happy to do so. If the man can not come Sat. he must be on hand Mon. morning early. If the house is ready I will send up a lot of things Sat. anyway. I shall first send up 2 hasps and padlocks for the kitchen doors. I think the cook can get some one to put them on the doors. I think they had better go on the doors on the East side under the little shed. After these are on, the things that belong in the kitchen can be put in and locked up. After breakfast Sat. have the cook go over and receive the things and see to them. You can go if you like too. (Am I not good to allow it?)

How I should have enjoyed seeing you after that toad! Behold what a big matter a little toad kindleth- in a woman's sanctum! I was very glad to hear that your finger was eased. I hope that you and the babies will soon be able to enjoy the mountain air. You have no idea how lonely it is here. Of course my time is full, but when I do have a moment there is no wife to speak to – and no little girl and boy ready to frolic. But I am taking much pleasure in anticipation.

If you have any soiled clothes send them down by bearer and they can be washed Sat.

With lots of love to you I am

Your Own
Will.

The Hubbards will be in Peets house- Hartwells go to the Peak.

The coolie asked for starch this afternoon. I could find none. Perhaps you had better send some down each time the clothes came. I have been over to Rethods[?] and Hong Sings but cannot find padlocks except $2.00 ones. These are too dear. So I shall send up the store-room padlock and the big native I can put another one on the store room. Be sure that this man waits and takes the baskets. I must have them to send things up in next time.

This afternoon I saw the Ha Puo school's picture taken. I had some of the boys sitting at their tables studying- some standing and one with his back to the teacher reciting. I am thinking of you nearly all the time. It seems a month since I have seen you- kiss the babies.

Lovingly Will.

Sat. P.M. 4 O'clock

My Dearest Ellen:-

Your Loving long letter came this morning. It was good. I must stay now tho to write only necessary business. A man has just come from Ga U's home saying that his wife is very sick and they want him to come home immediately. We ought to let him go at once. So I sent Diong Ging up to care for you. Ga U can reach home tomorrow. The time will be so short that of course Ga U will not return to the mountain. I'll board with Miss Newton- Say nothing to Frazer- let him come. You must let me know when you want to come down. You can fix up a coolie load of chairs, books, extra clothes, some of the kitchen utensils a day or so before you want to start and in that way I shall know- unless you can fix the date early enough so the milk man will get the word to me.

My idea about the window in the new room was to have it high enough so people could not look in. If we want the two windows of equal height I had rather have the other raised. This can be done quite easily.

A letter came from home this A.M. which I read.

I must close now for D. Ging wants to get up before dark. All Love to you All.

10 A.M. Sunday

Dear Ellen:-

Ga U is just here and starts directly for his home. This and the house makes lots of Sunday business. My contract with the workmen was, that the outside door should be 3 ft. wide in the clear. I did not mention height. The inner door was simply to be hung on hinges. The outside door was to open out. This will effectually shut out the weather. It was to be a door of the same kind as the inner door- not foreign style. If the place over the fireplace still leaks ask the workmen to fix it. Of course it was impossible before any work was done to tell just what the finished job would be. If anything more needs to be done I will "gau dai" you to see to it. When I come up to go down with you I will bring up a check for the workmen.

I am boarding with Miss Newton now. Frazer and I will have to take our meals there. Ga U may be gone till the latter part of the week.

This morning I went to Ha Puo to church. It was good to see so many of those one knew before and had watched for months, at church. I think there ought to be a Woman's class started at Ha Puo this quarter if possible. There are several women near the Geu Cio Dong who wish to study and they ask that Mrs. Long Bang Ho may teach then. Perhaps it will do no harm to try her. In this way you will get the Pastor's influence in the school which will be valuable.

Gould is getting able to take care of the house fast. I impressed it on him the day before I left that he would have to see that no care came to his mother and sister and that he would have to help in seeing that the amah's and cook did their duty. I suppose he was afraid the flour was getting musty. I have watched Phebe with a great deal of interest all Summer and at times there has been an impression which I have never voiced that she was a child that we should rather restrain, hold back then push forward. Her perceptive faculty works very rapidly, her mind is like her body, rather ahead of children of her age and I have been afraid sometimes that we were too proud of her achievements and in danger of pushing her too fast. The result of this in ten years will be a sluggish brain if nothing more serious.

The weather today is quite warm tho not hot. This afternoon a nice breeze makes it pleasant. I see you have some sun shine.

The Boston order has come, but the box from Shelton is among those that have stopped on the way for a rest and will not get here for a week or so. There are some of the Shaowu boxes delayed. This is too bad for their boatman is here now to start in a day or so. Tell Phebe papa misses her as much as he does him. Tell Gould to take his responsibilities easy. Hug and kiss them both. Yours entirely Will.

Tues. Evening.

My Dearest Wife:-

Your good letter with the most excellent one to Grandmother arrived this morning for me to read before b-fast. You do not know how much pleasure this letter will afford Grandmother Nichols. It will be next better to her, to seeing us all. It was very thoughtful of you to write it.

Mr. Frazer came last evening just as Miss Newton and I were sitting down to supper. It was pretty hot last night. Frazer did not sleep very good. I managed to do pretty well. This morning we went over to the Seminary and I stayed an hour, then we went thro the Hospital, then to the city and did up the Woman's School, Hospital, Kindergarten, Church, Institute- called on all the foreigners, then went over the hill thro the temple, on over the wall and home. This afternoon we went thro Miss Newton's school, then over to Cui Buo to help a household destroy idolatry. The man is a brother (elder) of the little fat, short Bible woman. He brought out the idol and all the paraphernalia and we held a very nice service with the heap lying on the table. Neighbors to the number of 50 that I counted and how many more I do not know gathered and paid very respectable attention. After the service they asked me to take the idol and all the books and other material away. So one of the men put them in the sedan. When we arrived at Ponasang I wanted the coolies to go on over the river with Mr. Frazer. The coolie asked if he was to take the same chair. At the same time saying that I must take the idol out. He did not want that to be carried over the river. A photo of, I suppose Annie came this A.M. In the last letter some photos of the Long Hill home and Stanley came I am sending all of to you. You refer to locks of the children's hair in Grandmother's letter but I did not find the hair so I will wait till you send it. I am also sending a Palinot and Babyhood. Dr. Whitney has a little mail locked up in his part. When it came the coolie was washing his room. I thought he would be down in a few days so-- ----- Diong Kong has just returned from S. side, has bought bananas, yellow bullets and persimmons. He says Dr. Whitney's bags are with him so I can send the mail. Mr. Frazer goes to Mr. Smyth to b-fast tomorrow morning.

It is going to be a hot night. How glad I am that you and the babies are at Kuliang! I must close now with lots of love for you all.

Ponasang, Sat. evening 9 P.M.

My Dear Wife-

Your note concerning the painting came by the men this afternoon. I finally made up my mind to pay him all and get rid of him. It is hot to night- has been all day. The shower about 4 o'clock cooled the air for a little but the atmosphere is dead now.

Diong Kong brought down some bread and cake yesterday to my surprise. Now don't let any more eatables come down- I am afraid some of the bread and cake will spoil. I expect to send this by a dang dang man. He will stop at Goddard's house perhaps but the things he brings, [I] want to be taken to our house. If the oil is dry, it will be all right now to put the furniture in. Unless you send word to the contrary. I shall send up the things now right along until they are all up. Then you can tell what are lacking. Diong Kong will not come up on Mon. If you have clothes to send down let me know and I will send him up for them Tues. or any time you say.

To day I have been quite free from interruptions - I have put in some tall studying. I shall preach and administer the sacrament at Au long Die to morrow. There will be none to join the church because the preacher and members decided that none of the learners were ming lik enough. There was no examination of candidates for this reason.

I am lonely and homesick to night- with no one to cheer me. I should have to school myself for some time before I could be happy to live all alone in this way. I shall not come up next week, unless you are very urgent to move Tues. I am afraid it will be rushing things to do it then. And I think with Ga U to oversee the moving it will not be a difficult task for you. It will make no difference if you wait till Mrs. Goddard comes up before moving. I should however send such things as you are not using over to our house now, - such as the diang and tables and book shelves etc. If the ground about our house is leveled to suit you, you and the cook can have the sodding done if you like. The ground should be level 17 ft. from the veranda in front and of course more at the W. end. It will be pretty expensive to sod all the ground W. of the house. I thought about 17 ft on W. and W. sides and back yard if you want would do for this year. Next year we can eai pah saung. I think the work ought to be done for 35 cents a daung i.e. 10 ft. square. You many have to give 40 cents. The well ought not to be f?? now. The ground is too wet and I fear it will go dry in Aug. The paper calls a halt so good night. With hugs and kissed for yourself and P. and G. Lovingly Papa

Ponasang Sunday Evening June 20 '97.

My Dear Daughter:-

Your very interesting letter arrived by the milkman this morning. I remembered your birthday last Fri. and celebrated it by helping to finish up the business of the Annual Business Meeting of the Mission. You and your mother must have had great times celebrating, - ending up with a grand chorus and finale. I am glad to see that your cold has so much improved that mama allowed you to hold your head under the eaves. Is not this the greatest weather you ever saw? I think it goes ahead of all my experience heretofore. The moon changes next Tues. I hope the weather may take the hint and change also. I do not know whether to wish you were down here instead of on the mountain or not. Unless you suffer from the cold- which I have no reason to believe- I think you are better off up on the mountain. It has not been unbearably hot here but there is a steaminess in the atmosphere night and day that would be delightful if it were absent.

Yesterday I sent a coolie to the mountain with the dishes and two kitchen utensils and letters and papers. I hoped he would go up himself and so bring an answer back, but I was disappointed. I shall try to send more things up tomorrow. I want Diong Kong to wait till Tues. because the ironing is not all done yet. I shall send up by the first man who goes 1 box of flour, 1 of sugar and one of ground wheat. I have washed and partially dried about half the whole wheat. The sunshine has been so bashful that it was difficult to catch it to dry the wheat after it was washed. I hope you will be able to move all right Tues. We have 2 stools for your bed, 2 for the rattan bed bottom and 4 for the springs, and 2 for amah's bed. This makes 10 in all. These are at Mr. Goddards house. I shall send up this week two long ones for the Springs and two shorter ones for Gould's bed, with bamboo for beds for you and Gould. Our table is larger than either of Mr. Goddards. The varnish is off the top in some places. If you are in doubt about anything as to whether it is ours or not let it remain till Mr. Goddard comes up.

Yesterday I sent mama's letters to me to Putnam, wrote a letter to Miss Newton and did a lot of writing on mission business. In the afternoon I went over to Au Cio to the examination of candidates for church membership. We examined four and admitted three. This morning I preached there and administered the sacrament, baptized and received the three new members this week. We have an examination at Sang Tung Gio. I expect a hard afternoon work there. We shall probably have in the teens to examine.

The Consul's reception is to Wed. P.M. from 3-6.- unless there is another flood- which would not be an unmitigable evil- I wonder what women would do if there were no men to help make receptions by making speeches etc.? Fortunately the quartet has gone by the board and I do not have that spectre to haunt me any longer. Some one told me that the women folks was a calculating to give the outgoing Consul a picture with a silver frame and the incoming Consul a lacker [lacquer] box. I shan't say nothing agin them goin on 'em these things but they must give 'em, not ask me to. I have better investments for my $4.00. Now you talk to mama real nice so she won't scold me for not subscribing.

I must also solicit your services in appeasing mama's wrath for my negligence yesterday morning in not sending more writing paper. She said that if I wanted any more letters I must send more paper. I did not send more paper. You see the natural inference. Just tell her I did not do it intentionally. It was due to negligence. I would not do without the letters from her for anything- I am just living on them.

It seems over a month since I saw you all. I expect you have grown almost out of my remembrance, and when I see you next week, you will walk out and shake hands with all the dignity of a full grown lady. Well take good care of that young man, and don't let his mother torture him by leaving him on the bed on his stomach with heels and head in air crying. You remember her propensity to indulge in this pastime last Spring. Give the boy all he wants to eat- if you can find enough, - never mind what it is- put something into his mouth. I do not think he will be over particular as to quality. He will think of quantity. Only be a little careful in feeding him hot water that it is not too hot, and do not push the spoon too far down his throat. If it is thrust well into the aperture between his lips he will get the food all right. I give these cautions because I remember the way in which you used to feed him before you left Ponasang.

Mr. Gardner writes that the thermometer registers 100 degrees in Shaowu. They will have a tough time up there this Summer. Mr. Goddard has given the contract for his house at Ing Hok to be done next Fall so that they can move in by China New Years. I am going to try having a picture taken of the pastors and preachers in this station- with their wives. It will make a group of ten. I want the men and their wives to sit side by side. I think they will be willing to do so. I had only one sitting of Day School taken. This shows the whole thing nicely.

I close this now perhaps adding a few words in the morning. You must read it to mama- give her my love with a good hug and kiss. I would also ask you to hug and kiss the boy but your caresses do not seem generally to be received by him with any great show of delight. Perhaps you can ask mama to hug and kiss him for me.

Most Lovingly Papa

Mon. Evening June 21st '97

My Dearest Wife-

I have heard from you this afternoon altho no letter has arrived. As I was about half thro dinner a knock was heard and I rang the bell and told the boy to go to the door. I heard a feminine voice ask if Bi Sing Sang was diok. I finally recognized the voice as belonging to Mrs. Whitney. The only real news that she brought was that Phebe had the hives. I am sorry that she is thus afflicted. I do not know whether it is reasonable to hope that she may outgrow them or not. Mrs. W. said Gould was not thriving but Dr. disagreed with her and said he was. I preferred the Dr.'s word.

If the weather or the mountain has been anything like the weather here you have not done much moving today. I kept the sedan down here because I would like it. I thought you would not use it on the mountain. If I have made a big mistake, and you were planning to use it in moving, I shall be very sorry.

Tues. morning 6- A.M.

Diong Kong is coming up to day, the large wardrobe and the stools for our bed and those for Gould's bed are also coming. If the long stools arrive in time I would have them put under the bed to day. This will save changing. I can see Kuliang this morning. It looks as if you were going to move. Miss Peters will probably be up some day this week for the day. She may take dinner with you. I am afraid she has disappointment in store for her when she finds the house not yet done.

This evening there will be crowds on the South Side. At a late hour there are to be very extensive fireworks- if the weather permits. Pastor Bang Ho is interested in it as Stanley would be if he were here.

I wish I were there to help in moving. But then you will get along all right- perhaps better, without me.

Hug and kiss the babies and tell them papa thinks of them very very often. Take good care of yourself and them. I shall be up in a week from now if nothing unforeseen happens.

Most Lovingly

Will.

Ponasang. Tues. Evening June 22 97.

My Dear "Mountaineers"-

I have received two letters from you today. I sent- or rather prepared for tomorrow's mail 20 cents worth of manuscript for the Putnam mail. As I was stuffing the letters in the envelope I thought - when they see these they will not lack of occupation for a long time- Father and Elbert had better be looking out for a housekeeper, for until those letters are read there'll be no baking, washing, ironing, cooking, sweeping, bed making or any thing else done. I do not know but we ought to have saved them up and sent them one at a time all along thro the Summer.

The examinations passed off finely this morning. I was proud of the boys. They did credit to the Seminary and to their teachers and to themselves. They were examined in the Life of Christ and the O.T. lessons and O.T. Geography. Tomorrow morning there are four subjects- Reciting in class and coll.-Ch. Hist- MK. Comm'y-and Geog. Mr. Hartwell and Dwight were present. Dr. took dinner with me.

Dr. and Mrs. Whitney have spent the day on the South Side. They came home at dark. Mrs. was as wild as a little girl. She nearly put her arms around me in her enthusiasm to make me promise to go back with them at night. She has told me a lot of things to remember if I do not go. I think I'll remember them- to tell the truth I have not one spark of enthusiasm over going. It would be pleasant to be there for a little while. But to purchase this pleasure I must ride 4 miles thro a jammed street and then be in a jam all the time I am there- get back some time tomorrow morning, - arise at 6 o'clock spend 3 ½ hours in the Seminary in the hardest kind of work, - go to look at the house South of Miss Newton's at 12 o'clock- then get ready for that bothersome reception at 3 o'clock. I think my duty is very clear to go to bed. The weather has favored the Jubilee to-day, and this evening bids fair to witness a good display of fireworks. Perhaps I shall see some of them.

I bethought myself of the (OUR) rifle this afternoon. I expected to find it all eaten up with rust, for I have not seen it since I brought it down from the mountain last Sept. But it is in fine condition. I put a bullet in it and fired it off once. It is in first class order for you to shoot tigers.

Now I think I have sent up almost everything we need this Summer. But of course I must have overlooked many articles. If you will as soon as possible take an account of stock and let me know what you want I'll send it up. I have the lantern, fly screens and a wash bowl ready to send up. Further than these I have not planned. I see from the letters sent down I must be careful about endings. So I simply say Lovingly with kisses for babies Will

Is it not nice that we can have a letter running back and forth all the time. But I suppose it is about at an end now. I was very much surprised to see the coolie this P.M. I do not know how you will get supper and b-fast. I will send only eatables tomorrow morning. The new coolie is sick today. Diang Ging will have to wash tomorrow. I am glad you are in foreign company as the presence of Dr. Cross's little girl indicates.

Dr. Whitney is here for the night- goes in the morning- sends 3 dang loads of goods up to Mt. tomorrow- hopes to go up himself Fri. I hope the mountain air will be the means of cleaning up the blood of you all. I do not think this cold weather will last long. Hug and kiss the children for me and mind Phebe every time she tells you to write me.

My Dearest Ellen:-

Your letters have just arrived. How good it was to receive them. But about the mosquito curtain. I do not understand. I put one in the basket that had the pillows in. The other I put on the outside of the leather trunk wrapping the burlaps about it. If it is lost I must go for the coolies. Let me know as soon as possible when you have looked everywhere, and if it is gone I can investigate.

Ne Sau and Ga U and Diong Kong have just returned. I shall send them up tomorrow morning. They will take this. Diong Ging will return in the P.M. and can bring the answer.

Miss Hartwell is getting up a reception for consul. I will enclose her missive to me then you will know as much about it as I do.

I shall send up a curtain for Phebe. But still hope that you will find the missing one.

Loving with kisses for all Will.

Sun. evening.

My Dear Ellen

I have just finished a letter to Etta. This morning I conducted Communion at An Long Die. It was rather warm. After singing I offered a short prayer. I stood by the table on which lay my Chinese testament open. I knew that I was perspiring freely but I was surprised to find that the perspiration had dropped from my chin on the book and completely soaked a quarter of a page.

I have not yet found Gould's little shirt that you wrote about.

I can see the house in which you are every day- But I can't see you. Take good care of the babies. Phebe must be developing fast in talking. Diong Kong says she no longer says Sa So for amah but calls each by her own name. I am glad she does not forget her papy. I think her mama will see to it that she does not.

It is nearly 10 o'clock. I have been walking on the walk and sitting in the moon light since 7 o'clock- waiting in vain for my fair one to come. It is a perfect evening far too fine to be all alone.

Most Lovingly Yours

Will.

6:30 A.M. June 23 [1897]

My Dearest Wife-

The milkman has not arrived and I will add a few words. I went to bed and had a good sleep last night. The people who dissipated are now sleeping off their debacle. The servants all went over last night but returned a little after 10 o'clock. They said there were more than 10000 Chinese over to see the sights. I can not find that there was much to see-except lanterns. I saw a few rockets and candles. The milk woman came just as I began this so I shall have to find another way and time to send it.

Last evening I did not say any more about "Rags"- those pants were worn out. The last time I put them on I mended them twice in one day and after they burst open in another place. If I must tell the whole truth, I put my finger in the largest hole before I sent them to you, just to try it to see if the cloth was strong. It tore some more. In fact so much that I thought you would not think of mending it.

I am glad of the prospect of a pleasant day for your final departure to the new house. I hope the sun will shine enough to dry things off.

8 P.M. The milkman was too late for Dwight this morning so the letter came back to me. I will try again to morrow morning thro Dr. Whitney.

Well I attended the reception this afternoon. I dressed up enough to "stun". I wore my wedding shoes- blacked them before I started- my newest suit of clothes- vest and all-the cream colored tie that you have worn some. The one that you envy so. And my brand new straw hat just from Hong Kong- I took it off when I went in the house. There were lots of lies told- not by me tho'- several people who have said just the opposite told us how mightily glad they were to have Dr. Gracey come back- and do tell on the evidence of his reappointment as a proof of the high esteem in which the government held his services, etc. The little "Dr." himself did so love the dear brethren in Foochow. All the time was at home he was continually called on by various Missionary Boards to tell about the work here. And speaking in an official capacity – not as a missionary he had no doubt his words were the more acceptable etc. He is here with wife, son and son's wife and a second son- how many more I do not know. They are evidently all very glad to get back to good pasturage again. The only enjoyable feature of the program was a song by the elder son whose wife accompanied him on the piano. The young man has a fairly good voice and it is trained somewhat.

I do not know what you and Phebe can be living on- five dollars has lasted you over two weeks and it seems as if I had sent up but very little. I am asking Dr. to take up $5.00 to you.

The exercises in the Sem'y close tomorrow. I shall have to leave the last exam,-reciting the Romanized, for Ging Ung- and go to Sang Tung Gio to the examination of candidates. Most affectionately Papa and Husband.

[This letter dated June 25, 1897 was written from Ponasang, Foochow, China by Willard to his Dearest Wife. He is sending a few things by coolie to Ellen on the mountain, including oatmeal and flour. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Ponasang June 25th '97

My Dearest Wife-

I am sending a man with various things this morning. I am going to tell him he must wait for an answer to this. In the large tin in the smaller basket is oatmeal on top and some flour in the bottom. If you are careful about taking the oatmeal out the two will not mix. There are papers between. I tho't the large tin would be used to keep flour in. The other things are evident so I need not write.

I can hardly wait for Mon. to come- it is very nice that the rain has ceased so that you could have a good time in the new house. I think these days must dry it nicely. I must not stop to write more now, as the coolie is waiting. I was too tired to do anything last night, retired a little after 8. The little basket is for a little 2 year old girl I know. Kiss the children and tell them papa will see them in three days if all goes well.

Most Lovingly Your Husband

P.S. I want to get some matting of bamboo to hang in front of the back door so the cook will not get wet when it rains as he goes back and forth from the kitchen. Will you get him to measure with a string which I sent with this the distance from the eaves to the ground. I want to know the length. Will.

[This letter dated June 20, 1897 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. There has been a lot of rain in Foochow which has caused flooding. Willard tells of getting to the Annual Business meeting through the floods. He tells of the challenges of the trip and the prices the Chinese tried to charge. It was decided at the meetings to request a new building to be built for the Theological Seminary. Although Ellen would be happy to stay in China, the Board seems to feel that 7 years at a time is best. Ming Uong should be arriving in the U.S. soon. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China, June, 20th. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It is time to start for slumber land but I am afraid that if I leave this till another day before at least beginning it that it will be more than one day and then another mail will have started and this letter will wait. So I will put this in the works and then to make room for something else this will have to be finished. Your last letter arrived June 14th. I sent my last June 7th. No. 4.

The last mail brought a long and interesting letter from Oliver and Grace. Elsie also wrote. I have not seen Ellen and the children since I wrote last i.e. since they went to the mountain. We have been fortunate in having a pretty regular messenger, so we have heard from each other nearly every day. I expect to go up to the mountain one week from tomorrow, June 28th. The Seminary closes Thurs. June 24th. Then I have one communion service with the examination of candidates for church membership. The communion will come next Sunday if nothing prevents. Then the work will do to leave for a season.

It has rained every day since Ellen went to the mountain. This evening there is a steady down pour. I went to the city every day last week except Saturday. Monday the streets were free from water. Tues. at the south gate the water was about two feet deep. Wed. as I went in at 3:00 p.m. the water in many places between here and the city was two feet deep and at the south gate I took a boat going in and came over the wall on the way out. The depth was about four feet. I was in the city about an hour and a half. During this time the water raised at least one foot. Coming out I had to be carried on a coolie's back for about four rods. The water was about two feet deep. The coolie would not weigh over 130 pounds, my weight is not far from 160. It was necessary for him to descend two steps with me on his back and in running water. Well I thought of the prospects and made up my mind to be calm. If I went down the prospect of a wetting was the gravest result but we accomplished the feat successfully. Coming the next mile and a half the coolies had to wade in water from one to two and a half feet deep. Some of the distance the current was so strong that they could not walk in a straight line, but fortunately these places were not more than a rod long and were quickly passed. It was pitiful to see the women and girls in the lofts or on boxes and benches looking about them on all sides at the waters. The lower stories of the houses were all cleared of every thing that the water could injure or carry away. The poor dogs seemed to take the circumstance as hard as any one. They looked as if the last friend had forsaken them. Thurs. morning the street was impassable. The current was too strong for boats. This was the day set for our Annual Business Meeting to be held in the city. I was the Secretary and wanted very much to be there. I knew that all the other members were in the city except Dr. Whitney. I made inquiries in the morning as to any possible way to enter the city and found that boats were crossing the rice fields and landing passengers at the south gate. Ladders were placed so that the wall could be climbed. So I started with a servant. We found a boat that wanted us as passengers. The man said he would take us to the gate for 15 cents. 3 cents would have been a good price for a native to pay. We finally offered him 32 cash (a little less than 3 cents). My servant had not cash enough with him and had to ask the boatman to change a ten cent piece. In this way the man got 40 cash out of us. But he did not take us to the gate or even to the wall. He landed us within about 30 rods of the wall on a piece of land 3 feet wide and 40 feet long. Here other boats were waiting for passengers to take to the wall. They wanted 20 cents to take us this 40 rods. You see the scheme. Passengers were landed here with water on both sides so that they could go neither way. The price was not fixed and the boatmen got all they could. I told the servant, who kept as cool as a cucumber, that I was in no rush. If necessary I could wait half an hour. Fortunately there were a number of boats and after a little waiting we agreed for 2 cents. Then we came to the wall. Here was a ladder about 15 feet long. It was made of two pieces spliced. Two soldiers stood here to prevent disturbances. The man who had been so public spirited as to put this convenience for travelers, said we could go after paying him ten cents. I said that I understood the rules of the institution and that the price was fixed. Here were several ladders in different places and only the day before I had descended one and paid the regular price 2 cash. But the man declared if I went up I must pay him 10 cents. Well I simply pushed my way past him and went up the ladder. When half way up I stopped and waited for the servant who did the paying. I said nothing more. The soldiers said "Yes we know the price is 2 cash but you are a Foreign Teacher and you had better add a little". I sat on the ladder and let the servant do the bickering. He finally gave the man 4 cash for each of us and he was happy. In travelling on any new route I expect to pay more than a native but the difference between 4 cash and 106 cash is most too much. (106 cash is just 10 cents.) Once on the city wall we walked dry shod to the city compound. Thurs. night I spend at Mr. Goddard's. Fri. afternoon the water had subsided so that I rode in a chair all the way to Ponasang.

At the business meeting we voted to ask for a new building for the Theological Seminary as the most urgent need of the mission at the present time. China must be brought to Christ thro Chinamen. These Chinamen for a time must be helped in their study of the Bible and methods of Christian work by the foreigner. Without a trained native agency the work of the missionary is of little value. He must work thro a picked band of men whom he has taught. It is just as impossible to do this teaching in China without a building as it would be in America. We are asking for $1500 in gold for the purchasing of land and the erection of a suitable building to be used as a Theological Seminary. This will supply the need for years to come. Think of the money required to erect a Theological Seminary at home. This $1500 building will supply the needs of about the same number of men as one of the Seminaries at home. And these men in the progress of the Kingdom of God will have just as large a part as the majority of those men who year by year leave our Seminaries in the home land. Humanly speaking, $1500 spent in Foochow in this work will do more to advance the Kingdom than $15,000 spend in a similar way in America. The question that now interests us is, where is the money coming from. Dr. Smith writes that the Board is corresponding with a young man whom they hope will be able to come to Foochow in the Fall.

I am sending Ellen's letters that she has written at the mountain to me, to her home. She says that she is going to send my letters to her, also, and that these letters must all go to Shelton. This correspondence will give you the very best glimpse of our life here that it is possible for you to get. I wrote mother Kinney that they were for the fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, and NO ONE ELSE. If others want their contents you may digest them and give them out but we don't want others reading the letters. I think perhaps Ellen would be pleased if you after reading send the letters to Putnam to be kept.

I return the blank from the Derby's Saving's Bank.

When the Kuliang correspondence arrives you will hear all about the children and all about life on Kuliang in the clouds and all about tigers etc. etc. Phebe is learning to talk very rapidly. Her mother forgot to ask the blessing the other day. Phebe sat back in her chair and after a moment said "Mama b'essing". She says "Papa way down Ponasang". She was two years old the 18th. last Fri.

I suppose you are thinking now which meadow to mow first, and selling strawberries and peas by the bushel, and you are all just home from school with the vacation before you. The last letter made me feel almost as if you wished I would come home instead of staying out here. But that wish was only on the surface and transitory I know. In your hearts you would not allow me to return if I wanted to. Ellen has her heart set on a stay of ten years. But I tell her we must wait and see what God's will is. It will depend almost entirely on our health. I see that the delegates at the FIFTH CONFERENCE OF MISSIONARY BOARDS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA in Conference in New York in January of this year thought that the first term should be shorter than the subsequent terms. The feeling seemed to be that 7 years for the first term was about right. With so many brothers and sisters on both sides of our house we may be surprised sometime to see some of them taking a wedding or a pleasure trip to Foochow. If you come any time in Oct. Nov. or Dec. we can assure you a happy visit.

The last mail brought a letter from Ming Uong. He was not on land yet but expected to land the next day. This letter was mailed at Victoria. His passport was made out for San Francisco. I hope he is safely in Springfield before this time. Doubtless ere this you have written Dr. L.P. Peet at West Haven, and received a reply.

A reception is planned for the outgoing Consul and the incoming Consul at the same time. The event is to take place day after tomorrow. The new Consul is an ex- M.E. minister. He could not find a charge that would have him, and then tried Insurance and failed, then came as Consul. He was in Foochow as Consul 4 years ago. And every one says he is happy to return, - happier than the people are to have him I judge. I am to toast the ladies, at the reception- the ladies of the Consulate - I mean.

Love to All Will.

[This letter dated July 5, 1897 was written from Kuliang, Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. He has read in the papers that McKinley is going to work on annexing Hawaii. Willard went to Kuliang and he and the coolies faced deep water over the road on the way. They had a typhoon and the new house withstood it. There is a wide view of Foochow and the Min River from the house. Willard tells about the tiger sightings and the hunt for them. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Kuliang, Foochow, China, July, 5th. 1eia[?]

Dear Folks at Home:-

My record tells me that the last letter was No. 5 and started June 21st. Your last arrived the 14th. of June. The mails are for some reason delayed. I heard yesterday that a mail was expected today. We are getting hungry for both letters and papers. Three weeks is a long time not to have any news from the home land. I am taking a Shanghai weekly which gives the most important world's events. These are in the form of telegrams and occupy about one column. I saw by the last paper that when McKinley got the tariff out of the way he was expected to set about the annexation of Haiwaii [Hawaii]. Spain is withdrawing slowly from Cube [Cuba], and the Greeks calling on the "Powers" to help them from being devoured by the greedy Turk.

The students in the Seminary wish to send $3 to Ming Uong. This in gold will be $1.50. Will you send him this amount and charge to my account. If you do not have his address it is 40 East 23rd. Street, New York City.

Last Monday June 28th. I planned to start for Kuliang early in the morning. But there was a little business to finish before I could get off and then when I was ready the water was over the road so that the coolies did not want to start. We waited till after dinner and the water only increased in depth. I told the coolies I would not insist on going but that I very much wished to go. They were afraid the water would be so deep in places that it would be impossible to reach the mountain. I said I would take any risks. They at last started. For about 2 miles the water was from one to two feet deep nearly all the way. Some of the time it was rushing across the stone road like a mill race. We had just passed one very deep and bad place, when one of the men stopped and said to me "You see teacher it is like this all the way. You can see now for yourself." I said all right and we went on. Fortunately the last half of the road was entirely free from water and the journey was on the whole a pleasant one. The day was cool and the sun did not shine. I arrived at our cottage at 4:15 p.m. How the children had changed! When they left Ponasang over three weeks ago the heat had wilted them so that they made one think of flowers that had been in the sun for a few hours. The change to the mountain had cleared up their faces and the wind had browned them so that they looked the picture of health. Gould came to me with a smile. But Phebe was like a bashful maiden. She hardly knew whether to smile or not. Gould had a cold so that he breathed like a rattle snake but he looked and acted as if he did not care if he did have a cold, it did not bother him at all. He is all over it now.

Last week we had five pleasant days. Sat. it rained a little. Yesterday it rained hard. Last night the wind blew violently and in gusts. This is the order of typhoons. A short time after we had retired something rattled about on the veranda. We could not tell what it was, whether a part of the veranda had given away or what. Ellen kept watch after that until midnight, getting up when the wind was specially boisterous and calming it down. She was afraid the stone walls of the cottage would collapse and cover us up. About midnight she fell asleep and the wind then had its own way. The house is all right this morning. So are we all. But when is this rainy weather to cease? During the last 37 days we have had 8 days when it did not rain. On 5 of these the sun has shone.

The new cottage is thus far very satisfactory. If only it will stand against the storms and keep out the rain, we shall be perfectly satisfied. We overlook nearly the whole foreign settlement on the mountain. Only one house is higher. That is a few rods back of us and about 10 feet higher. We see all of the city of Foochow and a large portion of the plain. About 25 miles of the Min river above Foochow is visible, and the mountains are on all sides of us. Beyond the river and the city the mountains form the horizon- indeed they are the horizon on every side. We sent you a picture or rather a plan of the cottage last Fall so it will not be necessary to send another now. We are expecting to have a photo taken as soon as the house and walls are finished.

This may be the view that Willard is talking about from his Kuliang cottage.

Last night the strength of the house was well tested. Today the rain has fallen in torrents, and the house still stands and we are as dry as the atmosphere will allow.

Since I last wrote I have conducted another Communion service and admitted 3 to the church. There were 6 or 7 more who wished to join but it was thought best to ask them to wait till next time. The Seminary examinations passed off very satisfactorily. Three days were taken for the work. Perhaps I can give you no better idea of what I am trying to do in this branch of the work than by sending a program of the examinations. I am preparing some of the written papers which the students have handed me to send to different persons who they may interest. I will send you some if I think they will be of interest to you. I have not yet translated them and do not know just what they will be like. The examinations program was as follows:-

I suppose it will scarcely answer to close this without at least the subject of "Tigers". There is very little to say on the subject tho, for Ellen has written all that there was to write. I had just finished breakfast Tuesday morning when a man announced that the tiger had just been seen over back of the hill on which our house stands. I took my rifle with six bullets in it and followed with grand visions of a nice tiger skin for the parlor floor. But after I had descended about 2000 feet on the other side of the mountain and seen nothing that resembled a tiger, and then climbed up that 2000 feet the vision disappeared. This climb on top of walking up the mountain the afternoon before materially lessened the attractiveness of tiger hunting at least till my muscles attained their normal condition. While we were watching for the game on one spur of the mountain, the natives began to shout across to other natives on the opposite spur that two tigers were coming up the path right in front of them. The natives were nearly wild. But they again gained their equilibrium when it was discovered that the two tigers were two yellow dogs that belonged to some of the natives. Afterwards one of the men who was so sure that he saw the tiger in the morning said it might have been a deer. I have not been hunting since. There are several trips set with goats as bait. If the tiger comes around he can take up with these. The stories about the tigers as they descend to the plain and get out among the missionaries and community people are increased in size and attractiveness as a snow ball grows larger as it is rolled down the hill in the light sticky snow. Last Sat. one missionary and two community men who have been afraid to allow their families to come to Kuliang because of the tigers, came up with their rifle to dispatch the beasts in short order. They had a deal to say about the remissness of the natives not going out and shooting the animals. And they thought the foreigners here might be a little more alert. These men thumped all day Saturday and at the close of the day one of the [men] wrote to a friend that he was perfectly willing to let his wife and children come up. He had seen only one man who had seen the tiger. However we are careful about sitting out after dusk and do not go calling at night.

The celebrations of the 60th. year of the reign of Queen Victoria was the scene of the biggest time Foochow has ever seen. 50000 Chinese attended. A reception was given the retiring Consul and the incoming Consul. I enclose a program.

The messenger is waiting so I must say Love to All.

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

What is the matter with the mails. We have not heard from you for over 1 month now. June 14th the last letter arrived. I wrote July 6th no. 6. So there is nothing for me to answer. I must find my whole material this side of the water. I have been so busy during this interval of 1 month since your last letters came that I have not had time to worry. The Seminary Examinations came soon after June 14th and then the Annual Business Meeting of the mission came and this have given me a lot of extra work both as Recording Secretary and as the one appointed to write up four of the principle needs of the Mission at the present time. Dwight was in yesterday and said Mrs. Goddard, who has during the past year been carrying the work of both Dr. Kate Woodhull and her sister Hannah Woodhull while they were in America on a furlough in addition to her own work, had just received a letter from these sisters stating that they were not coming back this year. This falls heavily on Mrs. Goddard for two or three reasons. The Mission is just opening a new station at Ing Hok 40 miles S.W. from Foochow. Mr. Goddard and Mrs. Goddard M.D. were appointed to go to this new station. The residence is now well under way and they hoped to move up next January. I cannot tell now what effect this decision of the Woodhull sisters will have on the Goddard's plan. But suppose they remain in Foochow another year and Mrs. Goddard has to carry the work of three persons for another year, with an infant to care for in addition to this year's duties. This is presuming on God's care. It is sacrificing human strength in such a way as is not called for in this last decade of the nineteenth century.

You are in the midst of haying at home. All the children except the two eldest are under the parental roof. What good times you are having. Flora's bicycle stands still during the night. At all other times, Phebe, Elizabeth, Ruth, Mary and Mother are endeavoring to balance it. What a saving of horse flesh it must be. I wonder if it reduces avoirdupois [a system of weights] at all? None of you have ever written about the lots East of the house that father has cleared of stones and smoothed off. What do you do with them? Use them for pasture or do you mow them? And what are the results of the labor suspended on them?

We are enjoying our cottage here every day. The children and Ellen are just as well as they can be. Gould has just cut his first tooth. He was eight months old last Tuesday. Night before last the children kicked and threw their arms about so that they got the misquito curtain part way off. The misquitos got at the young man and he looks like a freckled Irishman now, with about 50 bites all scattered over his countenance. They do not seem to trouble him at all. They do not swell, only make a little deep red spot about the size of a pin head. Both the children - in fact all of us are eating like wild beasts. I have eaten a little too much fruit and am resting to-day, - from eating. Phebe is in the same fix. But Ellen and Gould are as ravenous as ever. He is too big a boy to need two meals at night, but he has demanded them right along and till last night he has had them. We are going to give him water and break him of these nightly banquetings. I was up with him at 2:00 this morning. He asked in plain baby language for food but I put a glass of water to his lips. He said it was poor substitute. After discussing the matter for half an hour he drank some and went to sleep. He is a great boy for play. He pulls the handkerchief off his own or another's head and when in his mama's or papa's arms and his amah comes after him he snugs down to our necks and hugs us and then looks around as much as to say to amah "play some more". Then repeats the hugging. He is just beginning to navigate. He works himself along a little. He is so strong that when he finds out the manner of creeping, he will be all over the house and in to every thing. Phebe continues to develop in the line of talking, both in the English and in the Chinese. At morning prayers which are in Chinese, she always joins in the singing and kneels with us and remains quiet till we come to the Lord's Prayer. Then she joins in repeating the phrases after us. She is very much amused these days with a set of blocks with pictures pasted on them which her Putnam Aunties gave her. Every time I come around the pert little miss puts her head on one side and says, "Papa make a pitcher" pronouncing syllable as if it were the syllable chum= "chu", with the "m" dropped. She thoroughly enjoys the freedom here on the mountain. She can go out and walk here. The other day we went off for a little picnic with Mr. and Mrs. Goddard. We went about half a mile. Phebe walked all the way. She enjoys hugging Gould as much as ever and he dislikes it as much as ever.

The tiger scare is abating. One came within about 30 rods of our house ten days ago, and while investigating a cage in which a goat had been fastened ran into a string that was tied to the trigger of a gun, the gun went off. So did the tiger. I saw the tracks he made as he ran down the hill. I judge he was more scared than hurt. Some blood was found 40 rods or so from the gun. The natives thought he had been shot and would die. Sixteen men searched all day for him but did not find him. Last week a tiger was shot about 3 miles from here. I have not heard of any coming near Kuliang since the one that got too near the gun came. Yet we are careful to be in the house at dark.

I had my turn at preaching in English a week ago to day. I must lead a prayer meeting the first Thurs. in Aug. The Mission is so hard up that they had to put me on as chairman of the Comm. to arrange for the Annual religious meeting of the Mission next Nov. This occupies seven days. To think out topics and select speakers for 14 sessions is no small task. But then I shall not do it all. Others will have suggestions.

Our house is finished except a few unimportant little things like the painting of two or three posts and the fixing of a fire hole in the furnace etc. These little things are sure to be left by a Chinese workman until he has worked for foreigners long enough to find that it is better to do all in accordance with the agreement.

A sad accident has cast its gloom over the Foochow Missionaries. It is the English Missionary Society again. In April one of their older missionaries Mr. Collins had just returned from a furlough in England. He had been up in the country at his station and was coming down the Min river to another station when in one of the rapids the rudder of the boat broke. The boat was dashed in pieces and Mr. Collins with some of his native Christian helpers were drowned. Mrs. Collins and two small children at once started for England. With her went two young ladies of the English Mission- Misses Lloyd and Weller. We knew both of the young ladies well. Mrs. Collins we had never met. They took passage on the P. and O. steamer "Aden". When off the island Socotra on the coast of Africa, the steamer met the storm known as "Monsoon" and was wrecked. Misses Lloyd and Weller were washed overboard and drowned. Mrs. Collins and her children got into a boat with several others and had not been heard from since. They had no provisions, and the sea was so raging that no one entertains any hope of their safety. It was less than two years ago that the Hwa Sang or KuCheng massacre occurred which took away 8 grown persons, and now 4 more are called to their reward, all suddenly. In his prayer one of the Missionaries of that Mission the other day said that the families of the lost ones were all Christians and thanked God that they all had a source whence to draw comfort and consolation. The holes made in the ranks two years ago are already more than filled up by new recruits.

We heard from Ming Uong the other day. He was in Chicago enjoying himself. By this time he has finished the Northfield Students Summer Conference and is with the delegates of the World's Student Christian Federation at Williamstown. Before this reaches you he will have been in Shelton. I hope his visit will be a very pleasant one both for you and him.

We have not received Stanley's photo yet and it seems a long time that I have not heard from him. I wonder if he is riding Flora's bicycle.

I must close now with love from us all to you all.

With Love
Will.

Foochow, China, July, 25th. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The mail last Tues. morning brot a deluge of letters from America which was very pleasing to us thirsting as we were for news from home. Two letters came from Shelton bearing the dates of June 11th. and 5th. One came from Putnam, two from Ming Uong and one from the Rooms at Boston. Beside these we had several for Miss Newton which she asked Ellen to read for her. This mail also brot word that Miss Garretson, who was associated with Miss Newton till '94, was to return this fall. She has been in very poor health and was not able to return before. She is not entirely well now, but is to come back to try the work. I fear for her in this rush of work. She may think she can be careful, but it is impossible to be careful here and at the present time. Since I came to the mountain I have done little else than write letters on the needs of the mission. We have sent very urgent calls home to the Board for one ordained Missionary and his wife and for five young ladies for the Foochow field to be sent out immediately. These are our most pressing needs. Then we ask for $1500 for a new Seminary and for $5000 for a new church. I scarcely know what to say to Uncle James' action with regard to the cereals. But we shall have to say "Thank you" and be happy. But hereafter in such a case you must say that we wish to pay for what we order. You can see that if this course should be followed to any extent that it would destroy our freedom in ordering. Will you please burn this letter when you have read it. I would not send it but the mail starts tomorrow and I cannot rewrite it. Ellen says this is a poorly written letter. I confess to the truth of the statement. I have not said what I meant regarding Uncle James' gift. We are very thankful to him for this proof of his interest in us, and regard for us. But I suppose so much has been said about Missionaries and Ministers living off other folks, that I am sensitive. I made up my mind when I decided to be a minister that I should be careful not to give offence in this way.

Love Will.

We took Phebe to church with us this afternoon. She did not utter a sound except when we were singing. Then she joined with the rest. I tell you what tho, we have the boy for you! He is a chap to make any father proud. He got so mad a day or so ago because he could not pull off one of the long iron hooks that are used to fasten the blinds open, that he yelled for nearly half an hour. I remember when I was a youngster that father and I were after hay one day. A stone lay on the meadow near where I was walking and I tried three times with my hay fork to throw it over the fence. I did not succeed. Father reproved me for want of persistency. If this young man keeps on in the way he has begun whatever he sets his hand to will be done. He is just beginning to creep. One tooth is nicely thro and another is almost here. He is almost eight and a half months old.

I start for the lower regions tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock. I shall have to take two days to do all my business. I shall return if all goes well Tues. after noon.

We like our cottage in almost every particular. It is one of the coolest on the mountain. I have dressed so far just as I would at home. It is so cool that we do not sit out evenings much. There is a breeze most of the time. I am bothered with the mason to get him to finish up the work. The typhoon wall is not yet up. If a typhoon should come along and it should be a full grown one, I am afraid we should look dilapidated after it had played with the house for two days.

Foochow, China. Aug. 1 '97.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letters received were two July 21st and the last sent was one July 25th No. 8. I have been so lazy to day that I want to redeem the time in some way. This will make four usefull things that I have accomplished thus far today. 1st ate breakfast, 2nd attended professionally a poor man with a sore foot- a big boil on it, 3rd ate dinner. I did not go to the Chinese service this morning.

Last Monday I went to Ponasang, and returned Tues. P.M. It was a little warm but I had no time to think of the heat except at night. I got thoroughly baked Mon. right before I could go to sleep. Our house here on the Mt. is very cool. Not a night yet when we have not slept under a blanket. The tiger scare seems to have abated, with one tiger scared and another killed. The community here is representative of a large part of China this year. One of our nearest neighbors is from Central China. Others are from Amoy and one is from Hong Kong. For the past three weeks we have had pleasant weather with only one or two showers. Our life has been quite uneventful. Ellen bathes the babies and studies a little and has put up 10 or 12 quart cans of peaches, plumbs and pineapple. I have tried to a little studying and have written some letters. In the afternoon we take a run around some hill or make a few calls, eat and then go to bed. It seems an empty life. But I suppose it is necessary in order to keep up during the other ten months of the year. In Foochow this Summer there is a great deal of sickness. One of the coolies told me last Monday that 4 out of 10 had died in the city and suburbs. I am afraid however that he would find it difficult to verify his statement. One Physician reports that he has seen one authentic case of the Beubonic Plague.

Ming Uong writes from Kingsville, O. that he is with nearly all the Foochow Mission there. I hope they will give him a little rest. He has not (June 17th) heard from China since he left here in April.

I am clear run dry for anything to write about. When I come to this stage there is always one more subject i.e. the babies. Gould has four teeth, and can make his way in the world to the distance of the length of the bed. He is as fond of noise as James used to be. He found this afternoon that by catching hold of the back of a chair and tilting it back a little then letting go, the chair would fall forward and make a big noise as it struck the floor. He looked as proud as a boy with a new pair of boots and kept up the tilting of the chair for a long time. He woke the other morning and was very hungry. His mother was sleepy and did not hurry much. He kept crying till at last he said as plainly as anyone and in a tone of despair "Mama". The expression that is his and which he always recognizes as his and which we shall remember as his first work is "a da", the "a" is pronounced like the article "a" when spoken quickly. He only just touches this in speaking. But the "da" comes out with a very strong initial stress, with the "a" like "a" in "bad". He always uses a low base voice in speaking this syllable. This morning before light he was awake and I spoke these two words. He at once answered me with the same word. Two young ladies in the next house here have formed a great attachment for him. And his amah says he reciprocates. Phebe was ill Fri. night Sat. morning at 3 o'clock she began to lose her supper and did not eat any breakfast. About 11 o'clock she drank a little warm milk and about an hour later said, "I am hungry". She seems as well as ever this afternoon. She is a great business woman. She writes letters and cleans house, and dresses up in Gould's clothes, and goes out on the hill sides and chases the goats, and drives off the dogs, and (tries) to dress Gould's feet, etc. etc. When Gould wakes she runs and calls Ne Sau, and when she starts off on a new piece of business she has a business swing of the arm and a setting of the heel on the floor that means business. Lovingly Will.

Kuliang, Foochow, China, Aug. 16th. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My last letter started for the States Aug. 1st. Your last one came yesterday, Aug. 15th. The number on my last was 9.

The last two weeks we have been well supplied with meetings. From Aug. 1st. to Aug. 8th. inclusive there were two each day conducted in the English language. There was also one at 7 in the morning. This last week the same subjects have been repeated in the Chinese. The English meetings were more interesting than last year, I think. But the Chinese meetings were not as interesting. This is partly because the best of the teachers and other Christians are absent. The teachers are many of them First Degree men and are in the city taking their examinations for the Second Degree. This examination is held once in three years.

Week before last another tiger went the way good tigers that get in the way of guns with poisoned arrows in them go. She was carried along the path just as service was closing one morning. We all had a good look at her. The arrow is about four inches long, of iron, hollow at the end that does not hit the tiger, and is prepared with some kind of poison that when it gets into the blood very speedily ends life. This arrow hit the tiger in the fore leg about three inches from the body. This shows how deadly the poison is. Only one family in this province knows the secret of making the poison. The hunters here on Kuliang and hunters from other parts have tried to get the tiger and have tried to learn the secret of poisoning the arrows but have failed in both.

I am sorry to hear of Mr. Peet's action with regard to Ming Uong. But instead of indulging in a polemic against a fellow missionary now I will wait and see what the months of Aug. and Sept. bring in the way of visits. Thurs. Aug. 19th. The people here are getting a little rested and now picnics are all the rage. These are very pleasant affairs, for the company is so varied. It is composed of Americans, Canadians, English, Australians, Irish and Scotch. O yes and Dutch. Mon. p.m. we walked about two miles away from our house to a beautiful grove of pines for a picnic. Tues. p.m. there was a tennis tournament. I was badly done up. Some laid the blame on my partner. As he was a man I think he is able to bear it. I must have had some good exercise for I have been so lame since that I could not walk naturally. Yesterday there was a meeting at which the missionaries from different parts of the Empire gave short accounts of their work. We listened to accounts from the southern part of this province, from Nanking a few miles up the Yangtse from Shanghai, from Chefoo up near Weihaiwei and from the northern part of this province. This meeting is to be continued for three weeks on Wed. p.m.s. Today we go to a place called Bellevue about 15 minutes from our house for a picnic.

The boy lies on the floor in the middle of the room on a blanket happy as a lark. He has numerous blocks and a string of buttons, and my bicycle padlock and a lid to a tin box and an old iron hinge, some pieces of thin board and his fingers to amuse him. He navigates quite a deal. When he gets almost off his blanket I throw a block or something over to the other side of the blanket and he creeps after it and in this way he stays on the blanket. He is a very happy little fellow.

Phebe is too mischievous to live. She writes letters on any paper that happens to come in her way, stones the goats as they feed on the hills near the house, calls the cook in when we do not want him, dresses up in Gould's clothes, etc. Yesterday she came to us with a hat on, an umbrella under her arm and a book under the other arm and very sedately said "Good bye". Then she started out the door as if she was going to make a call or on an errand. A few days ago she turned the camphor bottle bottom upwards on her nose. She found it a rather stiff dose. It would please you to hear her count in Chinese. She goes up to ten all right then she flounders about in the teens like a fish on dry land. Ellen has just put a picture of Pres. McKinley and Vice Pres. Hobart on the wall. Gould noticed it as soon as he was brought into the room and has scarcely taken his eyes off it since.

I enjoyed father's letter about the farm exceedingly. The description of the strawberries made my mouth water. It would do me an immense amount of good to be able to have a summer on the farm now. It is absolutely impossible to get anything off the dirt, but this is not like working on the New England farm. This morning I got up at 5:30 and worked an hour at raking off the yard. The sun was so hot at 6:30 that I had to leave. Then at about four one can go out again. In the house it is quite comfortable in the hottest part of the day. The last few days the heat has been greater than at any time this year before.

We have had pictures of the house and of the views from our veranda taken. The day was hot and the plates were taken down to Foochow to be developed. The photos did not come out very distinct. So we are to have another trial. At the same time the boy was snapped with the amah holding him just as she does in the hottest weather. He has a perfect picture. Perhaps not from an artistic standpoint, but it looks exactly like him. He is never quiet and the picture shows him in motion. He generally has something in his mouth and the picture shows this characteristic. Phebe's picture was good. She stood perfectly still. But the plate was cloudy and we must try again. We are to have a few of Gould and of Phebe struck off in case anything should happen that other picture should fail. We also had one of the family taken. This plate was so mottled that the photographer would not make a proof. He did however bring the plate up to us. We told him to make one picture.

So Stanley is boss of the farm! Well his photo has not arrived yet. I am waiting for it.

10,000 First Degree men are now gathering in the city of Foochow to take the examination for the Second Degree. Goddard and I have bought about $100 worth of books to be sold at this time. These books are Scientific and Christian. My teacher who is a First Degree man and who is to take the examination has been down to hand in his name and make other preliminary arrangements and says that the higher priced books are selling very fast. The cheaper books are scorned because they are cheap. The Emperor has ordered that these books on Western Science shall be read by the Literati. The rules of the Examination are as follows: - About ten days before the examination each man must appear in person to give in his name. Then he must make arrangements to rent a room near the examination hall and go to cramming. This consists mainly in memorizing nice phrases from the books of Confucius or Mencius. When the examination day arrives each man must be in his place in the examination hall. This is built like a New York Horse Car Stable. Only the stalls for the horses would be all box stalls. One man is in each stall. When all is in readiness all the officials in the city except the Viceroy make a grand rush in their chairs for the examination hall. The streets are lined with the populace and at the entrance to the exam hall there is a perfect jam. When the officials are inside the gates are shut and locked. This will be on the 8th. of the 8th. Chinese moon i.e. Sept. 4th. Each candidate must make provision for two days and two nights during which time he cannot go out of his row of stalls. He may leave his own little room but must not go out of his section. On the morning of the 9th. at daylight the subjects are distributed. The candidate studies all that day and all that night. At daylight on the 10th. he begins to write. At about 5 o'clock he must have finished. During this time if he has slept at all it has been on the table on which he has written. He has boiled his rice over a fire in a little clay stove which he has taken in to the room with him. This routine is repeated three times and the examination is over. Of the 10,000 men who enter, 100 will receive the title of Second Degree. The other 9,900 will go home to earn money to try it again three years hence. The cost will be perhaps $25 more in many cases.

Will you please put in the bank for me $25. I enclose an order on the Treasurer of the Boards for the balance of this amount i.e. $7.21. The balance due me after the shipment was paid for was $17.79.

We are pained to hear what you write of Elsie. When Ellen and I heard that she had a bicycle we both said that we hoped that would be the means of building her up physically. In view of the news we can only wait and hope for the best. This God knows and will do. Remember us very tenderly to Uncle Charlie and Aunt Hannah [Hannah is a sister of Willard's mother, Nancie Maria Nichols Beard].

Good Night for we are off for bed.

Lovingly

Will and Ellen.

Hereafter our mail comes by way of Shanghai instead of Hong Kong. No mail with insufficient postage will leave the States for Foochow. This will save up about $4.00 a year apiece in our Mission. W.

In another cover I am sending some photos. I have indicated on the back of each how they are to be distributed. There are more to follow not yet ready. W.

Ponasang Sept 15th 1897
7 P.M.

My Dearest Ellen:-

Sieu Deng is to start about 6 in the morning so I must scratch a few words this evening.

The weather is very cool. I have worn my drab or gray suit all day with collar and cuffs and it has been cold some of the time. If I were sure that this is to be the weather for the rest of this month I would vote to have you come down next Monday. But you can judge of that better than I. If you should happen to want to come let me know by milkman.

We had the first prayer meeting this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Hartwell, Miss Newton and I at our home. Mr. and Mrs. H. stopped on their way home from Sharp Peak. Miss Newton brought your watch to day. I am not going to send it up because the time is so short, and I do not know where the chain is.

Miss N and H went into the house just South of here this P.M. to look at it. The man is coming this evening at 8 to talk money. If we can buy reasonable it will be a good thing. Mr. Walker will not return this Fall. The boys are all back now but two. These are ill, but on the mend.

Tomorrow I read the marriage service twice. Miss Newton will take Diong Huong's wife into the school to teach this Fall in place of Pastor Ding's daughter. The mail came yesterday, but it bro't only an Advance and a Golden Rule for me. I wonder if you received any.

A Shaowu boatman came today with an order from Dr. Bliss. He does not even mention the Gardners so I think Mr. Gardner must be better. The boatman said Dr. was in the city at the Hospital and Mr. Gardner's family at the hill.

Will you please look for the August number of the Recorder. I do not find it among the numbers I brought down.

Tell Dr. Whitney I have translated the Annual Meeting program and shall wait now till it is criticized, and torn to pieces. Miss Newton brought over a fine big Cal. orange this P.M. The four at prayer meeting were just enough to eat it.

How are the babies? Does Gould creep correctly yet? I must close now to see the man who is to talk buy land. Kiss and hug each little cherub for me. Take a good lot of each for yourself.

Most Lovingly Your Own

Foochow, China Sept. 19th 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your last letter arrived Sept. 18th. I wrote last Aug. 23rd No. 10. This is a long interval is it not? Well during the last three weeks at the mountain I was too lazy to be of any use. I just ate, exercised by walking and playing tennis, slept and played with the babies, and flirted with Ellen. The month of July bore very little fruit for me in the shape of rest. I was getting ready to rest tho and when the work that came in that month was out of the way and I had got used to it I could spend the whole day and actually accomplish nothing. I came down to Ponasang last Monday, Sept. 13th (The day Gould was 10 months old). I had ordered coolies from our old stand at Ponasang to meet me at the foot of the mountain. But when I arrived at the foot there were no coolies, so I started on a foot and reached home at 5:59- starting at 3:07. How is that for a 10 mile walk? I had a grand sleep that night, got up the next morning at 6 o'clock and did a good day's work. At 8:30 the Seminary opened as advertised, altho the full quota of students had not arrived. On Wed. morning the regular recitation began. This is doing as well as most of the Seminaries at Colleges at home do. They are often a week in getting into running order. Miss Newton had not arrived Tues. noon. Girls from a distance began to come to enter the school. The rooms were not ready, and I sent them away to stay where they could find a place for a time- until Thurs. when the school had been advertised to open. Tues. about 5 P.M. she came. I had planned to go ahead with the assistant teachers and start things if she should be delayed beyond Thurs. and I could see no means for her to get down from Shanghai for several days. The regular steamer arrived Mon. Sept. 13. The next could be in about Sat. the 18th. But fortunately what we call a "Tramp Steamer" happened to be starting from Shanghai the evening of the day in which Miss N. arrived and she came straight down arriving just in time. Ellen and the children will remain at the mountain till near the first of Oct. The past week from Tues. evening till yesterday afternoon has been quite cool. I have slept under two thicknesses of blanket till last night when I threw all off. Today has been hot. After the first of Oct. hot weather is very unusual, and we think it safe to bring the children down. Yesterday's mail brought the Putnam paper with an account of Ming Uong's Sun. evening talks at the Cong'l church. I shall look in the next mail for an account of his visit at the Century Farm and other places near. I shall be surprised to hear that he spent two weeks with you but hope he may.

What is the matter with the well? I remember the last few years I was at home the water often had a bad taste. You will have to resort to our method of boiling all your water. After one gets used to it this is not so bad. At first the boiled water seemed rather insipid but, we do not mind it at all now. You have not written how James came out on his Yale examinations. Did he take the whole entrance examination or only the preliminary. Has he graduated from the High School yet?

I was glad to receive the photos- I suppose it is a sample of the Amateurs work. Well some adepts would have done better with Stanley and the wheel barrow but the house was good. Please receive congratulations. The church also was good. A Chinaman seeing Elizabeth standing near the buggy in front of the church asked if that was the way they used carriages. He could not see how that position could help her in getting over the road.

We have received word that Mr. Walker will not return to the Mission this Fall. This leaves the Shaowu station in a pretty bad fix. There is a field as far from Foochow, in point of travel, as Foochow is from the United States. The field is about 200 miles long and 100 broad. The work is very prosperous. Village after village asking for Christian teachers, promising to pay part of the expenses and often themselves furnishing a place in which to worship. Nearly every mail that comes down brings news of a new station opened or of a new village calling for a preacher and announcing that they have raised $300 more and less for a church. There is one man in that field now to take care of Evangelistic work in about 20 places, and all the educational work. Of course he can't begin to oversee it all and now Mr. Walker's return is put off a year. Not a recruit for the Foochow Mission in view. As I feel this great need and then read the account in the home papers of man after man who has a reputation of being wealthy and of keeping large sums of money in his house, and who lives chiefly to exult over his achievements in acquiring property,- as I read the accounts of these men being robbed and even murdered for their money, and having to part with that which they have held so dear, I cannot help wondering if they would not have been happier if they had given a reasonable or even an unreasonable portion of their ready cash to help make the world better.

Who is the Miss Beard that teaches the Long Hill School this year? If you have time I should very much like the dates of the birth of all the brothers and sister. I cannot keep track of the exact ages of all of them.

Phebe went to the head of my bed the morning after I left Kuliang and said "Where la Papa". Ellen said Thurs. P.M. was so foggy and damp the children could not go out doors to play. After playing in the house till she had grown tired Phebe went up to Ellen and laying her head on her lap said "Want la Papa." One morning as they sat down to b-fast Phebe saw the syrup jug, which I had bought only two weeks ago and which we had used only twice and on the table she pointed to it and said "Mama hot cakes". Her perceptive faculties are very quick and her memory is extremely good. She almost always remembers where she leaves things and when asked where she left a certain article stops a moment then marches straight to the place and brings it.

Gould creeps all about. Ellen wrote that he went into the dining room the other day and crept up to the tin in which we keep flour. It is about 16 in. high and 1 ft. sq. He got on his feet alone, then after standing a little while, he made up his mind to pull the tin over or to shake up its contents. This resulted in his manship's down fall. I should not be surprised if he walked at the age of one year. He is getting big enough so that he and Phebe have great times playing together. Nothing seems to please him quite so much as the antics of his sister.

The boxes from home have arrived. But as often happens, some of them got lost in some freight depot- probably at Hong Kong. Among those delayed is the box from you. It will probably be here next week. The soap came- with two bars gone. Oh, I forgot this was ordered from Boston. The box got broken a little and I suppose two bars walked out to see the sights and the train started too soon for them.

9:50 P.M. I must say good night. With love to you all and to all the friends from all of us. Will.

[This letter dated Oct. 3, 1897 was written from Ponasang, Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. The family has moved down from the mountain with the help of six Chinese carriers. The Chinese are still holding onto the idea of church self support. Willard and Ellen received a box from home which included "lively" oatmeal. Ellen's sister, Etta, enjoyed Ming Uong's visit to America. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Ponasang, Foochow. Oct. 3rd '97

Dear Folks at Home:-

Sept. 20th I wrote letter no. 11. Sept. 18th I received the last one from Shelton. I am afraid that vacation is not the best time for prolific letter writing. I shall have to confess tho that I wrote a great many this vacation but they went to other places.

Sept. 25th. Sat. I went to Kuliang and spend the Sabbath. Starting for Ponasang at 6:00 A.M. Mon. morning. Thurs. P.M. I went up again and brought Ellen and the children down to Ponasang. We did some of the packing and fixing to leave the house over Winter Thurs. evening. Fri. morning we arose at 6:00 o'clock. At 8:30 we were on the way down the mountain. At 11:45 we were at Ponasang all safe and sound. We had 16 mountaineers to bring us and our baggage. They were pleasant all the way. This was quite a change from all other experiences which we have had doing and coming from Kuliang. The children are both quite well. Ellen has a bad sore throat and a little fever. She is about and eats three meals a day but that is about all. There seems to be an epidemic about here this Fall. Both natives and foreigners have been subject to it. There is fever with affectation of some part of the body, what part depends upon the person. With Ellen it is the throat. She is better tonight than she was last night and I trust another day will find her over the worst. Gould has been put off with Mellins food and milk today. He says it is a shame. He has got along very well for over a week on one meal a day of Mellin's food, but a whole day is rather tough he thinks- You should have seen the little fellow this evening when his accustomed fare was again presented. He took it as he was given a new lease of life.

Ellen and the children had been away from Ponasang for 4 months. Gould had entirely forgotten his old birth place. I took him into the house and upstairs and put him on the floor. He looked all around and at last riveted his eyes of the clock that came from Oliver and Grace. It was ticking merrily and he heard it. This was a new sound to him. But he seems quite pleased with the change and evidently thinks the new home a good place. Phebe spends much of her time going up and down stairs. Yesterday morning she cried at the table and I turned her chair away till she stopped. At noon the first thing she said after the blessing was "Baby cwy cwy. Papa turn her 'way table." She was careful not to cry.

To day I have administered the Sacrament at Au Long Die. 4 men joined the church. The preacher there has the prevalent epidemic and I took the whole service except the reading of the O.T. scripture. After the service, just before the benediction one of the deacons arose and said that the church was contemplating opening a chapel about two miles distant in another part of the suburb. He said the church wished to do the whole of it and all would have to help. He asked if they were happy to subscribe then and bring the money this evening. Then at a suggestion of the preacher's he said if any were ready it would be better to pray now. For the first time since I have been in China I heard silver rattle in the contribution box. Ten and twenty cent pieces jingled till there must have been $6 or $8. Every instance of this kind is another proof that the people are getting hold of the self-support idea. They are beginning to see that as long as the native church depends upon contributions from America, its growth and development will be uncertain and slow. When the Chinese themselves take hold of the matter, and give of their own means and plan themselves for the enlargement of the work, the church is sure to grow.

The box came this last week. The cereal was rather lively, especially the oatmeal. Some of the packages were all right. The corn and rye is in perfect condition. The dry goods etc. came all O.K. The box of candy is nearly the best we have tasted for three years. We have not given Phebe her doll yet. Did you father pay the freight of the whole box to Foochow?

Yesterday an interesting letter came from Etta in which she speaks in the highest terms of Ming Uong and wants him either to remain in America or be sure to come again. May God keep him from letting this trip and the attentions showed him in America sport him. We are waiting for a full account of his Shelton visit.

Trusting that those of you who were indisposed when you wrote last are better before this. We are very lovingly yours

All of us
Will.

Foochow China
Oct. 8th '97.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter arrived Oct. 6th from Grace. I sent on the 3rd No. 12. The mail closes tomorrow and I am going to send just a word. Ellen began to improve night before last. To day she has been quite comfortable. Her throat has let up and she has nothing to complain of except weakness. This week she has eaten nothing but milk and thin beef soup. These Asiatic fevers take away one's appetite and indeed one does better not to eat while the fever is on. Her throat was so bad that the Dr. said the children must not be with her. So she has not touched one of them and has scarcely seen them at a distance since Tues. morning. I moved our beds into the study and have taken the whole care of both during the night and supervise their baths and eating during the day. I dropped my classes in the Seminary and just did what could not be left undone. The servants have been very good indeed. The little boy has stood his weaning like a hero. He has wakened each night at 11:30, 2:30 and 4:30. The first two times he takes a drink of water, goes to sleep without a word. But at 4:30 he says water is too thin. I give him a cup of Mellin's food and milk prepared over an alcohol lamp with him in my arms saying in his own language "hurry up" and after drinking it he goes to sleep again til 6 o'clock. During the day he eats at 9, 1 and 5. I have tried to feed him again at 7:30 this evening but he politely declined and has gone to sleep. While in my teens at home I well remember how tough it used to seem to have to stay in and "tend baby" while an interesting game of croquet or something else was going on, but the grievous tasks of those days were not an immitigable evil. I do not know what I should do now if I did not understand "Babyistics" (my patent)

Mrs. Goddard and young Dorrance Dwight are doing well.

I have just succeeded in renting a Society Guild or you might call it a Club House in which to hold our Annual Meeting Nov. 15-22. This is in reality a big temple owned by men from another part of the province and used by the members of the Guild who go back and forth between their homes and Foochow on business etc. While here this is their home. In back are kitchen and bedrooms. In front on the street is a big temple fitted up especially with an eye to accommodate the native theaters. The idol has a fine stone pedestal but fortunately he himself has not yet been made. The Guild Hall is not yet completed. The hall itself will seat bout 1500 people. The stage for the actors will make a fine speaker stand. There are no seats so we must provide them. The Hall stands just opposite Geu Cio Dong Church. It is a grand arrangement if all works as it promises to. Slowly the temples of the idols are contributing to the worship of the true God.

I think Grace gave us a truer idea of Ruth's real condition than we have had before. But we must not worry or be anxious. God knows best and will do best. This thought is very precious these days. There is sickness on all sides among preachers, students, teachers and church members. The Chinese are childlike in their anxieties, and perhaps God saw that my words of comfort and sympathy would be empty if I had not experienced their condition of those in the home land.

We suppose Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear are in Japan now. How I am counting on their return! It will relieve me of Recording Sec'y and Shaowu shipping agent and general care of the Men's Hospital and 1000+ little details.

Ellen has just gotten up and put her head out of the door to see if she can catch a peep of the children. I must close now. Tell Grace an answer to her good letter will come in time. Please send this to Putnam as soon as you read it. Lovingly Will.

Foochow, China, Nov. 21st. 1897.

Dear Folks at Home:-

If my records are correct the last letter to you was written Oct. 8th. No. 13. Your last was received No. 9th. A postal I know has gone since this last letter.

Ellen had had quite a siege with an abscess. She has written about it in full to her home in Putnam, so I will only say here that it is much better. The Dr. says he will dress it only once more. She is feeling better than at any time since she came down from the mountain. The pain from the abscess has been slight. But she has been and is troubled with her teeth. We are afraid some will have to come out. The children are both perfectly well. They sleep from 10 to 11 hours every night and Phebe has one and Gould two naps every day.

Ming Uong arrived safely Oct. 30th. He stayed with us till Nov. 15th when he started for a trip among the colleges of China to report his work in the States. He will return about the middle or latter part of Dec. His first business after reaching home will be to take a wife. Then he will be ready to begin work with the new year. I can not see that he has lost any of his consecration or devotion to the work here in the Seminary, saying that many had laughed at him for spending his time in such a small Institution when he could take a position of almost any importance he chose with three or four times the salary he now receives. (He did not say this as plainly as I have put it but it was all implied and is all very true). But he said this work was only in its infancy and that in the reconstruction of China the men who are now being trained for Christian work are to be the men who will mould the nation. Mon. P.M. just before he took the steamer for Shanghai, he held an audience of over 600 people perfectly still for half an hour as they listened to his description of American life.

The, hh (This is Phebe's)

The Annual Meeting was a grand success from beginning to end. The crowds even surpassed those of last year, altho that was our Jubilee and special interest was centered in the meetings on that account. The most important advance was the establishment of a Men's Missionary Society. I think this was put on a sure basis. It is native throu [throughout]. There is not a foreigner in office. But I will not take time to say more now. I have an account of the whole meeting nearly written which I will send in the next mail.

A letter came from Miss Wooster Thurs. stating that she had given you money to be sent to me. The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank here cash drafts on New York banks for me without charge. But this money you had better keep to pay my life insurance. I will tell you the address in another letter.

Will you tell me again about the time in the bill for the last box for freight to Foochow. I am charged in the bill from Boston for the steamer freight. The item for freight in your bill is larger than this bill for ocean freight. It looks a little as if I had paid freight twice. But I await your reply before paying anything. Have you Swett's receipt for the freight?

Love to all

Will.

We are enjoying our variety of cereals immensely.

American Board Mission.

Foochow, China, Dec. 12 1897

Dear Folks at Home:-

My register says the last letter started for Shelton Nov. 22. It was No. 14. I have already acknowledged the last from you Nov. 9th.

I have just returned from the funeral of Mrs. Gracey wife of the American Consul. She has been ill for nearly a month. But we did not consider her in any great danger till Tuesday. Yesterday Ellen and I went over the river to make some calls and heard that she was very low and would not live long. This morning I was just starting for church as the notice of the funeral came. So the end was sudden as is so often the case. This is a sad occurrence for the family has been scattered for some years still this year. Mr. Gracey was reappointed to the Consulship here. He occupied this position during Pres. Harrison's administration. While here one son engaged in business and one daughter, the only one, was married to a young man whose business is in Foochow. It was with a great deal of pleasure that they were able to return here this year. The family now are together. But just as they had the home nicely fitted up the mother is called to her new home. The Consul is a Methodist minister. He is a brother of Dr. Gracey of Clifton Springs fame.

This morning I administered the Sacrament at Au Ciu. Two were received. Last Sunday I administered at Au long Die. Five were received. Next Sunday the service will be at Sang Tung Gio. This will be the last for this year. Twenty three have thus far been received during this month in my station. And at all the churches there are learners ready to enter the church at the next Communion season.

Dec. 13th. Another mail arrived this morning. It brought the Adirondack letters and one from Phebe to Gould and from Etta. It said almost nothing about the visit of father and mother Kinney. But we shall get this in other letters. Ruth is home before this time. Her increase in avoirdupois is most gratifying. I wish we had more encouraging news of her cough. The mail today brought the sad news of the death of Mr. Peet's oldest daughter, of diphtheria. The first item of interest to us in the monthly home mail is the Treasurer's report in the Miss'y Herald. The report this month is the most gratifying of any in a long time. May God grant that it may be followed by many more of the same strain. This will make the work very much lighter, if we do not have to worry over the lack of funds to carry on the work. Mr. Ding's sister is not as reported to him. She is not well but is able to be about and does much work. I cannot find the source of the report of her death. It was so reported her. Mr. Smyth chanced to be writing him at that time and before corroborating the report put it down and sent it.

I enclose in this envelope a translation by Miss Newton of some rules which the recently organized Anti-Footbinding Society in Foochow have framed. This Society is purely Chinese. It is in no wise connected with the church. I do not know that any of its members are even occasional church goers. But of course they got the idea from the agitation that has been kept up for years all over China against this barbarous practice, by the missionaries. This Society means much for the future of this Empire. Men of influence and power are at its head. It also has the sanction of the Foochow Prefect. Of these rules he says in his proclamation on the subject, - "Although these rules come from the literary men to me, yet now they are my rules, and you must not disobey them." His proclamation consists mainly in bidding the people to simplify their marriage customs. Footbinding and marriage are closely connected because it is not fashionable for a young man to marry a large footed girl. A bound footed girl will bring $150 or more. A large footed girl about half this amount. So when these literary men came to take up this matter their greatest obstacle was fashion. To overcome this they asked the Prefect to issue the Proclamation on a simpler code of rules regulating the marriage customs.

I send this to you hoping that the Sentinel will be pleased to publish it. I have had my Chinese teacher copy it on one side of paper with that end in view.

Ellen and the children are quite well. Both Phebe and Gould are developing very rapidly both physically and mentally. This evening Gould was sleeping in bed. Phebe had not retired. Gould cried. She ran in to the bed and began to hush him and rock the springs. When I arrived he was sleeping again all right and has not made a sound since. They both continue to sleep like bricks all night. Gould walks if some one will only take one of his hands. He has not yet ventured alone. His great delight now is to pull the hair pins out of his mother's hair, or to play with the stove. The weather is not cold enough yet to necessitate a continual fire, so he is not yet become afraid of the stove. He always approaches it cautiously tho. If he finds it warm it is as good as a circus to see him touch it and draw back his hand and look, then try it again. He is going to make a much more cautious person than Phebe. He gets a book or paper or letter and reads with no uncertain tone. He and Phebe have church service nearly every day. Phebe can distinguish a Testament from other books. She takes a Testament and reads with a scowl and a dignity worthy of a Curate. He looks on as if he was a little in the dark as to the exact import of the proceeding but as if he realized that it was important. Then after the reading comes the prayer. She kneels down over an old flower pot and mumbles over something. Well when I get to running on this subject there is no legitimate stopping place so I might as well break off now.

With Love to all

Will.

Foochow, China,
Dec. 26th, '97.

Dear friends at the Derby home,

We have just received a nice big letter from you yesterday. It was a welcome Christmas visit from Mother, Flora, Mary and Stanly. You see the babies and I were all alone this Christmas day and the echos from America cheered us very much; for dear Papa was far away in the country with Mr. Goddard on a trip through the Ing Hok field. We wished so much that it could have been at some other time than Christmas. But Mr. Goddard wanted very much to have Will go with him and said that his work required him to go at that particular time. Will was tired from the term's work and needed a little change and the rest which he could get by going away from the Chinese who are under his supervision and depend so much upon him. It is constant strain of listening to the troubles and wants of the Chinese who come to him for help in their plans and help out of difficulties, that wears on him fully as much as the teaching. He could have a little rest from this by going away where he was not known, and he could have his work now better than he could later. He asked our oldest pastor (Ming Uong's father) how the other pastors, preachers and christians would feel if he left them to have their Christmas service without him. "They have nothing to say; you must go", he answered. They were not a little disappointed however for they do enjoy so much having Will attend their feasts, celebrations and all "nan ick" times. He has such a lively pleasant way of meeting them and expressing his interest in them that they highly esteem his presence; - and he can eat their feasts and enjoy them, generally, and this touches a warm place in their hearts. Just here, while he is not around to hear it, is a good chance to tell you confidently something they said about him a long time ago. When we had been here less than a year, the Chinese told one of our ladies that "Mr. Beard is getting along finely with the language; he speaks better and learns the spoken language faster than any other missionary we ever had." (This means of our mission). Now, if he does not get home in time to read this letter, he will never know I told that.

Well, we are going to have all the Christmas festivities at New Years, for we expect Will home next Tuesday. But mama and babies kept wondering all day just where papa was and how he was spending Christmas. Mrs. Goddard invited us to spend the day with her as she also was to be alone. But a pleasant surprise awaited us for on Christmas eve. Miss Garretson and the Misses Woodhull arrived from America. They reached our compound at 10:30 P.M. which was too late for them to get in through the city gate so we kept them at Ponasang. Miss Newton came over to stay with me and gave her bed up to them. I had retired and did not meet them that night and the Woodhull sisters were off early for the city so the pleasure of meeting them was reserved for our visit at Mrs. Goddard's. I had never met Miss Garretson before as she was in America when we reached here. It seems to us that none of the three are looking very strong but their return will greatly relieve those who have had charge of their work during their absence. Mr. Goddard's people expect to move to Ing Hok soon now, - within a few weeks. I shall miss them so much for we have been very close friends ever since we came here.

Our babies are still objects of great interest to us and are always a good subject to write about and one about which we never tire of writing, I suppose you think. I have been especially interested of late in watching the development of imagination in the little two-years-old girl. She has reached that age where dolls are so attractive and I believe there is no portable inanimate object in the world which she could not imagine to be a "dollay." You would laugh if you could read over the list of things which I have seen her play with as a doll. It includes a stick of stove-wood, an Indian club, papa's slipper and a skein of embroidery-cotton among others equally as amusing. A few days ago a spoonful of rice was suddenly stopped on its way to her mouth and after looking at it intently a few seconds she said thoughtfully and with mingled surprise and delight, "T'ere la dollay! Tse? (There's a dolly! See?) But our imaginations failed to follow her. She has "by-o-by"-ed William Penn (his picture in an advertisement on the back page of the "Advance") walking up and down the room singing and softly patting it until it seemed that that worthy man's bones ought to rest in peace even if his newspaper-picture did not in her motherly but uncertain arms. In the Shanghai merchant's shop recently, she saw a little doll that could close its eyes. It amused her very much to see the doll go to sleep when laid down. A few days later she was playing with the Indian-club as a doll when I asked her "Can your dolly go to sleep as the little doll did"? "No." "Why not?" I asked. "No eye!" - a very good reason. I am making and dressing the doll whose head some of you sent to her over a year ago, for her New Year's present. We did not think it wise to give to her then as she had already broken one in a single day's play. I try to keep the clothes I am making out of her sight as that it may be a real surprise but at a mere glance as they are being whisked out of sight, she recognizes them as "dollay's eeo's" (her l's are always e's and make another syllable) and cries for them.

With regard to Sir Gould I am able to announce that he walks- can walk alone and quite a distance. He will surprise his papa when he gets home, he has improved so rapidly in a week.

He fell the entire length of the veranda stairs a few days ago receiving no injuries but a three-quarter of an inch long on his scalp. Phebe is a little more than a match for him yet but he bears her impositions good-naturedly unless she tries to ride on his back when he is creeping, or snatches from him and runs away with his favorite toy, or strikes him over the head with papa's cane. But when he is able to locomote a little more rapidly he will fight his own battles.

This year at Christmas we gave out over five hundred cards as gifts to women church members and day school scholars in this station, besides those used regularly in the schools.

The Chinese like to give the missionaries some little present too; and this year after the eight churches and preaching places had had their Christmas entertainments, we found ourselves well supplied with pomelos, oranges and cakes.

Jan. 7".

Well, this letter has remained in the desk for a while, and time and events have been moving. Will has returned and written a letter home which will reach you before this does. We had our Christmas tree on New Year's eve which entertained our children, the servants and ourselves. Little Phebe did so want to take down that "pretty dollay that hung high on the tree; and little brother could not wait his elders pleasure to unload the tree so had his toy and went to sleep.

This week we have been busy attending school examinations, and week-of-prayer meetings in which the three missions unite. I examine one Woman's Station Class tomorrow morning; Will's work in the Seminary closed Wednesday. He preaches the sermon at the close of the week of prayer on Sunday next in the British Church.

Phebe often speaks of writing "a paper" to gran'ma and gran'pa 'way o'er 'n Merika" (America) and would like to finish out this sheet for me if she were awake.

With ever so much love to you all from babies, Will and myself,

Sincerely Yours,

Ellen.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter sent was Dec. 15th. We received one the 31st. from Ruth. She speaks of snow storms and sleigh rides. These are only visions to us Orientals. I think I have spoken to you of Miss Wooster's letter and the $28.50. Will you kindly send $28.88 to Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., 752 Broad St., Newark, New Jersey, for my life insurance premium, No. 166224.

Ruth's letter spoke of Flora's illness, but it was good to read in the same letter of her convalescence. You know how to sympathize with many of the foreigners in Foochow. The liver seems to be the organ most frequently affected. Dr. Shelton will feel the loss of his wife very sorely indeed. The same letter also mentions the death of uncle Ezra. How the situation will have changed by the time we come home!

I returned from the Ing Hok trip with Mr. Goddard Tues. Dec. 28th. It was one week of uninterrupted pleasure. We started from Ponasang Tues. Dec. 21st. It was about 9 o'clock when we reached the boat that was to take us to Gak Liang. This place we reached about 5:30 p.m. that day. In the evening after supper we had a meeting with the church members and consulted about next year's work. Mr. Goddard has just finished a nice church and parsonage and "Prophet's chamber" in this place. The new buildings are all white washed on the outside and present a strong contrast to the dirty buildings of the village. The pastor and members are justly proud of the new premises. We had a good sleep here, and after a good breakfast Wed. A.M. we started for Puai Sioh, a village about 12 miles away and about 2500 feet above Gak Liang. The first three miles of the path was level. But then we began to climb and kept it up till we reached Puai Sioh. It was about 1:30 p.m. We had three coolie loads of bedding and food. This climb was rather tough for them. But at two o'clock we sat down and did justice to a dinner of rice, meat, and potatoes. After dinner we went all over the mountain to see the church members and other villagers. How I wish some of the people in New England who talk about rocks could see the farms that these people have to work. The side hill is so steep in places that one cannot find a footing and yet these very side hills are all used for growing sweet potatoes, peanuts, rice etc. I saw one little patch and measured it. It was three cornered. Each side was 18 inches. On the three sides were stones and there was no other field on the same level. The other fields were either higher or lower. In this field were two hills of sweet potato. The land is all in terraces. The fields are of all sizes, but one may say that on an average they are 4 feet wide, and one terrace is about 4 feet above the next. After supper we held an interesting service with the members and a few of their friends who came in. This is a new field. The oldest Christians joined the church only a little over one year ago. But the Christian atmosphere was fresh and enlivening. You would have enjoyed seeing these men and women listen to the story of Christ's birth as told in imperfect language by the foreigners. Then after the meeting they planned for the work of next year. There are about 15 church members here and as many more who are interested in the Truth. The room in which we met has been furnished by one of the members free of rent for two years. It was on the second floor. Beneath was a stable. The walls were of mud with no plaster. In one corner was a fanning mill. In one end was a loft on which were various farming implements, ploughs, harrows, hoes etc. These people sat in this room and planned how to beautify this place for the glory of God with just as much enthusiasm and earnestness as do men in America when they are planning to build a church that will cost tens of thousands. These people were planning how to most wisely spend $6. We were ready for a good sound sleep that night. It was cold, but fire for warmth is an unheard of luxury here. It was good to get into the blankets that night and feel warm.

Thurs. morning at 8:30 we had eaten breakfast and had prayers with a few of the Christians who came in and were ready to start for U Ngiang, a place still farther up in the mountains and farther back from the river. Two of the Puai Sioh Christians went with us for the purpose of taking us to houses of several other Christians on the road. These men were over 50 years of age and our walk was not fast. We first ascended 500 feet, then descended 1000, then went up 1000. I enjoyed this walk very much. The two men with whom we were going were earnest Christians. One in particular seemed to have gotten filled with the belief that God was over and in all things. When we spoke of any danger his response was that if we trusted in God there was nothing to fear. On one of the high peaks was a large boulder. I should say it was 100 feet in diameter. It looked as if its fastenings were not very secure. I asked him if it could fall down. He replied "What God has made cannot fall down. I thought he ought to be commended for his faith at least. This day we were fed with fresh roasted peanuts twice on the journey. I did not have such a definite and well defined longing for dinner as on the day before. At U Ngiang there are only two houses. The population numbers about 100. The church is one of the largest rooms in one of the houses. Here as in Puai Sioh the room is given without rent and in it are various farming implements. This room is on the ground floor and has no floor. We took dinner and started for a place, Ding Sang Tau, 1000 feet or more above U Ngiang. There is no work here but some of the Christians at U Ngiang have relatives up here and wished us to go up and see the place with a view to starting a work in the future. The path is straight up the mountain. When we got to the top we found a large plateau with a population of 6000. Among them not one had heard the gospel. Many had never before seen a foreigner. I realized here the diversity in the dialects in China. At Puai sioh the people spoke fairly pure Foochow. At U Ngiang they spoke and understood the Foochow but in conversing among themselves they used another dialect which was Dutch to us and which the people from Puai Sioh only 6 miles distant could not understand. At Ding Sang Tau we could not make ourselves understood without an interpreter, and the people could not understand the Foochow dialect. Ding Sang Tau is 40 miles from Foochow. We were a little late in starting from Ding Sang Tau and I took the lead coming down the mountain. The distance is a little over 3 miles. We were one hour in dropping down. I felt this rush the next morning in one of my ankles, and in one knee. That evening at U Ngiang the people from the two houses and others from the mountains so far that they had to stay over night came in to worship. We had a good time. After talking with them a short time, for we held no long meetings. I asked each Christian to offer a short prayer. All but two prayed. These were a boy 18 yrs. and a man from a lone house way up on the side of the mountain. I urged a little then the other Christians urged and before we sat down both had broken the ice and had prayed before their relatives and neighbors. At Puai Sioh for a bed we had two wooden horses and some rough boards laid across them. At U Ngiang we had some horses and some boards of varying thicknesses. We slept here in the room used for the church, and there was no floor, except the earth. We did not worry over ventilation even after we had closed every door and barred it. While we were getting ready for bed there was lively scuffling outside to see who could get the best crack to peek thro. But how we slept!

At 8:30 the next morning Fri. we had taken breakfast and had a short service and were on our way to Ing Hok city. We walked steadily from 8:30 till 2 in the p.m. First we climbed 500 ft. then went down 1500, then up 1500, then down 3000 plus. This was a tough walk. The whole distance is about 18 miles. The first 14 miles has very little level road. The last 4 miles follows the river and is level. When we reached the level road we were ready to stop. But this was not in the question. To make the walk all the harder our coolies were mountain men and just gloried in running up and down these paths. They were in a hurry also for they wished to go back to U Ngiang that afternoon. We had to run some of [the] way to keep up. Sat. we did not go far or do very much. Dwight has the new house at this station ready for occupancy, and is just beginning a building for a hospital. He and Mrs. Goddard with their son Dorrance will move up about the first of Feb. Sun. we went up in the mountains again to two chapels and held two communion services. This was a short walk, of only two hours up to the farthest place. We had the service here and then came down to the other place and took dinner then returned to Ing Hok city in time for supper. I conducted both services. This made 6 communions for me in 5 weeks. Sun. evening we held an evangelistic service at Ing Hok city.

Monday at day light we were on a boat ready to start for Foochow. That night we slept on the boat and woke up Tues. morning at day light to find ourselves at the landing within 7 miles of home, this distance we walked in about two hours and found wives and babies all well and happy.

I never enjoyed a weeks outing more. There was absolutely no responsibilities for me on the trip. I was in the open air day and night. The air was pure. There was no rush of business. All the mountain solitude. Every day I had walking enough to make me good and tired and to make even a bed of boards with a blanket throw over them feel refreshing. I came back feeling that I had been made over into a new being.

Miss Garretson, Dr. and Miss Woodhull arrived the night before Christmas. The appropriations came Fri. The missionaries wear long faces. Last year we thought the cuts were pretty bad. This year the cuts are about 8 per cent in salaries over last year's cut which was 10 per cent of what we asked. This makes 18 per cent less than when we came here three years ago. But we can live on this all right. The cut in the money for mission purposes is what reaches the heart strings. This last year was 35 per cent off what we asked. This year there is an additional cut of 40 per cent over last year's cut. This gives us less than half of what we asked for to carry on the work of the mission which has trebled in the past three years. Well as the Rabbi said "God is good and all is for the best". The friends at home who are specially interested in us and the work in which we are engaged here enables us to keep from cutting down the work last year. We have not planned definitely yet for next year but I have hopes that we can do as we did last year. And trust the friends at home to keep up their interest.

We heard of the death of Mary Peet by the last mail. I think I have explained that Ming Uong's sister did not die. That the report was a false one.

I must stop now and say good night.
Most lovingly, and remember us to all the friends especially Grandpa and Grandma.
Will, Ellen and Babies.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter wh. arrived from Shelton I acknowledged in my last to you. I wrote last Jan. 2nd. and Ellen sent a letter on the 7th. Since then we have been living along much as usual, eating three meals a day and enjoying the children and each other. I have not been tied to the Seminary as previously, but the demands on time and strength have decreased but little. The money granted me for use in my field this year is not enough to meet the expenses of the Seminary alone to say nothing of the work among the churches. I called the pastors and preachers and other helpers together the other evening and told them the plain facts and said that the work among the churches in my field would have to be supported entirely by native contributions. I promised them to help them on the rents of the chapels. Every thing else, preachers salary, janitors salary, incidentals and repairs they would have to look to the church members to supply. I then asked them to express their opinion as to the possibility of carrying this thro. No one suggested a backward step. They treated the matter with all the gravity that it demanded. They understood what it meant to them as the leaders of these church members. They are in the delicate position of being obliged to urge the people to support them. They must face an immense amount of discouragement. And this sentence does not convey to you what it means in this land. A discouraged Chinaman reminds me of a dead tennis ball more than anything else. It requires a supernatural power to put hope into one and elasticity into the other. These pastors and other helpers must meet this discouragement and overcome it so that the people will be willing to undertake the cause of self-support at one bound. Then they will have to be on their guard every day this year to keep the members up to their promises. I think it can be done and I think it will be done, and I have faith that the work will not suffer any retrenchment during the coming year. This will take an immense amount of prayer, and immense amount of faith, not only in God but in ones fellow men, and it will take an immense amount of mental and physical strength, and what patience! But I am committed, and the business must go on on this basis, i.e. I will guarantee the rents on the chapels. All else must come from the natives or they must shut up the churches.

Now you will be interested to hear how we have done this. I needed for the whole of my work this year $936. gold. I have $468. It will take to meet the expenses of the Seminary, which cannot be reduced except by turning the students away, and this would be suicidal to the work of the whole mission, $500. The rents on the chapels which I have promised to be responsible for will amount to about $100. I must find somewhere about $200 to keep the work in my care from going down. We are going to pursue the same course that we did last year. That is lay the whole matter before God and ask Him to send the needed funds from the friends at home. Money has be entrusted to us to expend this year so that the work has not suffered and we believe when the friends hear of the condition that the work is in now they will be only too happy to meet the small amount that is necessary to make up the deficiency in the native contribution.

I have not heard from Mr. Ding for nearly two weeks. He was then about to start from Shanghai for points up the Yangtse, going as far as Hankow. I expected to see him yesterday, but the steamer came and he did not. His mother is half wild. She has been spending all her strength for over a month now getting ready for his wedding. She is a genuine Chinese about this matter. He is old enough to take a wife, he is thro school and she will not rest easy till she has some more grandchildren. But I am very much afraid that the wedding will not come off till after Chinese new years which occurs next Sat. Jan 23rd. If Ming Uong himself was in a hurry or if there was any reason for the hurry I should sympathize with the old lady, but he acts as if the whole matter was a bore to him. And he would gladly wait till his course in the Seminary was completed.

Mon. Jan. 17 The children were weighed this morning. Phebe weighed 32 lbs. 8 oz., Gould 28 lbs. He walks like a fat miller. He always stands very straight and sometimes too straight so that he goes over backward. He is determined to move from one place to another on his feet not on his knees. He is getting so that he understands much that is said to him. He knows some of the parts of himself, as mouth, head, hand, ear, etc. He hears a dog bark and imitates it. In short he is the most advanced boy that we ever had. It takes him about five seconds to look his mother out of countenance, and when his amah crosses him he goes for her with his mouth open and bites the first place that he can get a hold on.

The last Sentinel reported that Ruth had returned home. I wonder if this is true. I wanted to write one letter direct to her if she was to remain in the Adorondacks all Winter. The last letter from home was written before Thanksgiving and we did not hear whether she was home for that occasion or not.

Since the Seminary closed and the rest of the schools we have had what is called vacation. It is much quieter than at ordinary times, but there is enough to keep us all out of mischief. I have to write my yearly report for the Board and want to write a report of this station for the past year and have it printed to send to all the friends at home.

Germany has evidently got her foot on Chinese soil and expects to make a protracted stay. There is some talk of a division of the Empire, but with the recent loan in the hands of England, I rather think China will remain intact for a time to come. The whole Empire is yielding very fast to the influence of Western teaching.

Schools of Western Learning are being opened in all parts of the Empire. In these schools the English language is taught as one of the fundamentals. Mathematics is the most important of the branches. In the eyes of the native Mathematics is the avenue that leads him to the construction of Gun-boats, and other engines of war by which he may conquer his enemies as the Japanese conquered him. He is beginning to realize that the mountains of his native land are rich in untold wealth of nearly every kind of mineral. He sees also a willingness on the part of the crafty officials to allow this treasure to be utilized. He knows that the road to the mine is found by the application of the principles of Mathematics. History also interests him, and it is this perhaps that leads him to study Geography to some extent. The more he sees of Western products the more he sees their superiority to the products of his country. Change is very apparent as one passes along the streets. There has been an increase of foreign articles for sale in the shops of Foochow that is noticeable since we arrived. Such articles as elastic garters, wristers, jack-knives, white-enamel ware, tin-ware, condensed milk, soap, and wholesale houses where kerosene is sold, and other wholesale stores where lamps are the only or chief article for sale, also umbrellas and such like articles. These are mostly of German or Japanese make and of an inferior quality. But here they pass for good articles. They are mostly made in flashing colors and a store which sells foreign articles is at a distance not at all unattractive in appearance. Condensed milk and foreign medicines of many kinds may be bought at places far in the interior. When we were in the Ing Hok region two weeks ago we heard the praises of Quinine at every place we visited.

Tues. 18th. This evening another case of persecution came to me, not that it has been a rare thing (I am getting a little callous with so many) but this is one of the rare kind that calls for immediate action and one which shows a Chinese custom so clearly that I am going to run the risk of tiring you with its details. Near the city gate are several church members who are hotel keepers, this afternoon the runners from one of the official yamens came to his hotel and said that he had kept a thief over night a short time ago. He said he had not. These runners are simply the servants of the officers. They have no authority except as the official commissions them. They are looked down upon by the people and there is an unwritten law that says they can never become officials themselves. These men this afternoon seized this church member without any warrant or any proof other than their words and the story of a thief which they brought with them, and put him into prison. Why? Because it is near the end of the Chinese year and as we have written before there is a general winding up of all business at that time. All debts must be paid. The people make the season a time for feasting gambling, visiting drinking and for having a good in general. These runners wanted some money. To get it they thought to imprison this Christian and pocket the money paid for his release. I shall go to the Yamen in the morning and see about it. Lovingly Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your last letter arrived Jan. 28th. and our last started Jan. 28th No. 2. That last mail brought just a letter from father and one from mother. Ellen enjoyed her's from mother very much, as much as I did the one from father. It seems that the receipt for the freight had been received by the Treasurer but he had neglected to notify me. So it was all right. I wrote Miss Wooster about the money she sent some time since. It is to bear the entire expenses of a new chapel and day school at a place called Hung Sang Gio, or in English, the Upper Bridge. Last year I had a day school there, but it was in an out of the way place and at first did not amount to much. But toward the end of the year the people were so pleased with the teacher that they offered him a house in the middle of the village free of rent for the rest of the year. This year there will be a day school and regular preaching there.

As to cereals, I think I wrote about the whole truth. We have lost very little. Perhaps 3 or 4 lbs. out of the whole. The cerealine was the worst. We have sent for a few things with some of the other missionaries to San Francisco. This is an experiment. I think it will be too expensive, and I have in mind trying putting each kind of cereal in a separate tin and sealing it. But I will write more explicitly when the time comes. The regulations of the Chinese Imperial Post are too much for me. During the past year they have changed so many times that I could not even get word to the people in Shaowu in time for them to affix the proper stamps, and we at last gave it up and they sent the letters down, and I put on the stamps and charged them. At present the regulations say affix one ten cent stamp for each one half ounce. A ten cent stamp in China is equivalent to a five cent stamp in America. I obeyed the instructions of the Post Master here in sending the postal but he told me some time after that he was wrong. I think that postals are good for use in China, but the letter is better for foreign work. What say you? I have been very much interested in the fight over good roads and rejoiced with you over each victory as it was reported in the papers. We hope you will have them all fixed up when we come home so that we can use bicycles, and not be to the expense of keeping a horse.

Mr. Ding was married last Wed. The whole family had their pictures taken yesterday. There are four generations, eighteen persons in all. I will try to send you one. Yes I have no doubt he can do almost everything that is useful. I think if he were at the farm in corn picking time he would manage to do some of that. I think you were correct in surmising that he was a little homesick on leaving.

Keep the paper until you send the next box. If in the future any small bundle of that sort is ready and you are not sending a box, there is always one box in the shipment called the general box in which odds and ends for all are packed by Mr. Swett. This goes with each shipment. If the package is sent too early it is all the same.

Mon. 12:30. The mail goes this p.m. so I must hurry. I want to tell you just the condition of the work here in my care this year and you may repeat it as much as you like, that all interested in it may know what we are planning. I asked $1900. to help the natives carry on the work in the churches and chapels and to keep the Seminary running. $1072 of this was for the Seminary. This left $828 to help the work in the churches and chapels. The amount granted me is $974. What was I to do? Well this is what I did. Ellen and I talked the matter over and decided that we would keep the Seminary up anyway. Then we prayed over the matter and decided to consult first with the two ordained pastors in this station, telling them the exact state of the finances, and ask them if it would be wise to call all the preachers and other workers whom the mission was helping together and tell them the whole truth, and lay the burden on them, of keeping the churches open or shutting them up. That is laying the burden on them of going before their respective congregations and telling these church members that the work this year must depend on their gifts instead of on foreign money. The pastors recommended this talk with the other workers. Before this meeting took place, Ellen and I talked over the matter again and it seemed to us that our faith was not strong enough to place the rents of chapels beside the salaries of all helpers and all incidental expenses on these church members. Two years ago about half of them were worshipping idols, and they are not wealthy. Most of them are common day laborers, or men with little shops. So after counting our own resources we found that we could guarantee the rents on the chapels. In doing this we did not go beyond our own resources, but we did think of the special gifts that had come to us this year and we thought it only reasonable to hope that more would be forthcoming this year.

These rents are as follows:-

Au Iong Die chapel	$30 gold.
Sang Tung Gio “	$20 “
Au Haeng “	$20 “
Au Ciu “	$20 “
Sang Bo “	$10 “

Of these amounts I am going to ask the Sunday School of Shelton to allow me to change their gift of $12.50 which came some time ago and which I had promised should go toward the support of the work at a place called Ak Mo Ciu. That work is now wholly supported by Chinese funds. I think they will be willing that this amount should go toward the support of a student in the Seminary. Well we had a room full of men and I told them the circumstances. Not a man was willing to acknowledge that he was discouraged. Each said of course they could not promise what the people would do but they were willing to trust God and to trust the people. I wish you could have heard the prayers of those twelve men. One began by thanking God for bringing this distress upon them and prayed that it might prove a blessing, asking that God would enable him to see the blessing. The prayers were all full of trust in God as the One who knows all and who does all things for the best. They were the men who must bear the heaviest load in this new work of self-support. One of them Pastor Ding, Ming Uong's father must trust his people to raise the subscription $75 above what they gave last year. The preacher at Au long Die must receive $60 more, the one at Au Ciu $48, the one at Sang Tung Gio $40 or more. Beside these amounts the people must at each place raise $30 for the janitor. At Au long Die they must raise $60 for the janitor, and $40 or more for rents and repairs above what I have promised. In all the church members in this station must increase their subscription about $400 above last year's. I am glad for their sakes and for the spread of the Gospel here that they must do this. It will do them more good than any one thing that could happen to them. It will be hard for them this year and the pastors and preachers will have to bear some things that will not be pleasant. They may not receive as much as they would like. But they will be cared for. Now will you pray first and with the most emphasis that the church members here may have that love in their hearts that will enable them to think and plan for the church, and be willing to give more than a tenth if necessary to keep the church in this station in a growing state. Then pray that some friends in the U.S. may be led during the year to send gifts that can be used to make up this deficiency. There are now only two objects which need the money i.e. chapel rents and Theological Students. One Theol. Stu. needs $20 gold per year.

We are all well except the colds of the children which do not improve much.

Lovingly

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started from here Feb. 7th., No. 3 unless I forgot to record one, and the last received was Feb. 28th. and Mar. 3rd. The first from Ruth and the second from Mother.

So since I wrote the Seminary has entered on another year of work. There are now the full number of classes in the school. The whole number is 22. The way in which they are stowed in reminds me some of the way that we used to plan to put all the cattle under cover on an especially stormy cold night in winter. But the rooms have no ceiling so above the rooms is a large air space that makes the ventilation perfect. I have each day three hours in the class room. Since the term began both Ming Uong and Gong Sieu Dieng have been ill. These two men are my main stays. With them gone the boys are having a picnic. I have had to prepare for the chapel exercise- a brief talk on some passage of Scripture nearly every morning. I have not taken many of their classes simply because I did not have the time and strength. I am teaching Theology and the O.T. Prophets at present. I find the vocabulary in Theology very different from what I have been accustomed to use. Theology is so close to Phylosphy that the instruction is in abstract ideas instead of in concrete substances. This makes teaching more difficult in ones native language, and in a foreign language doubly so.

Fri. Mar. 11th. 10:00 a.m., I am waiting for Dr. Smith and Pres. and Mrs. Eaton of Beloit, to arrive from Pagoda Anchorage. The party reached Pagoda Tues. morning. They will visit the City Station from today till next Monday afternoon, then they come to Ponasang and Tues. morning I start with them for Ing Hok. We expect to be gone four days. On the return to Ponasang Fri. Mar. 18th. the Deputation will remain here till they start for Shanghai. This will be about Mar. 24th.

Will left this letter here when he started for Ing Hok. Gould put in a short paragraph and I will finish it and send it along. Pres. and Mrs. Eaton left on a steamer for the North the next morning after Will and Dr. Smith left. They are having unexpectedly good weather for it has been warm and there has been no rain. ::aa

Sat. Mar. 19th. Ellen evidently did not have an uninterrupted week while I was in Ing Hok. I asked her to finish this and send it on by the mail that left here last Tues. But - - - - . Well Dr. Smith and I had a very pleasant time all thro. The weather was superb. The boatmen and the coolies were good natured and we made connections all right except on the first evening we were a little late into Gak Liang our first stopping place. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard and the boy are nicely situated in their new home and the natives are glad they are among them. The work in the Ing Hok field is so scattered and so much in the mountains that we could not see many chapels. This gave an excellent opportunity to talk over the various questions that are before the mission to be decided. Dr. Smith was a delightful companion to travel with. He ate every thing that the cook gave him and was interested in all the new sights and customs except when the man wanted to examine the gold in his teeth. That was a little too intimate.

The boxes from Putnam have just arrived and I have opened them. The tie from Ruth arrived O.K. Thank you. Father Kinney sent a lot of honey which we are preparing to eat with an anticipation that can not be described. Gould received a little horse that delights his boyhood much. One of Ellen's old dolls came and we immediately put it away lest she (Ellen) break it [see photo following]. I must not stop to tell all the articles now. Ellen can do that better by and by.

We are all well and all send love. I will finish now so as to be sure that this goes on the next steamer.
Will.

Dear Grandfather and Grandmother [probably Nathan Bennett Nichols and Phebe Ann Drew]:-

A letter from mother the other day stated that you were as comfortable as usual. I have not heard of your taking any sleigh rides this winter so I suppose you prefer the fireside to the cold out of doors. How we long for a good snow storm here. We have not seen an inch of snow since we left the States over three years ago. Phebe and Gould would not know what to say to a foot of snow. Gould would probably wade out into it and make snow balls and his hands would get as cold as ice. He will not allow mittens to stay on his hands two minutes. Ellen puts them on and his hand goes at once into his mouth and when it comes out the mitten is in his mouth not on his hand. Phebe rather enjoys wearing them.

Ellen has taught Phebe two Bible verses. One, “God is Love”, and one, “Watch and pray”. Each Sunday she repeats them. The first is easy for her but the second she has never been able to repeat without help. This morning Ellen asked her to repeat them and the first went all right. Then the second was asked for Phebe began,

"Clock" then Ellen asked her for the rest of it. She began again, "Clock and pray". And she thought she has said it correctly. Both the children continue to be as healthy as little pigs. They eat five times a day and sleep from 7 in the evening till 6:30 in the morning. As to mischief there never were two such rouses [rogues] in the world. Gould went into the bedroom the other day and reached up on to the wash stand and pulled the only wash bowl we have off from the stand and broke it into a thousand pieces. The eggs are kept in the dish closet and supposed to be locked. The other day Gould came in from the dining room slyly and when he came in sight of me stopped and looked as if he wondered what I was going to do. I did not notice at once what was up, but his face made me suspect something and on a second look I saw that he had in one had two eggs and in the other one. I arose and went toward him and he turned and ran. When I caught him he just clenched those eggs and you may imagine the result. I had to call his mother and get her help to separate boy and egg. The other day Phebe poured sand on his head which he enjoyed as much as she did. But when he had walked about a little the sand began to get down his back and cut a little, then he began to think it was not so much fun. Ellen had to change every stitch of clothing on him. Phebe feeds him sand and he eats it as if he thought it was the staff of life. We bought a goose a while ago and kept it a week to fatten it. Both the children were completely crazy over it. They would stand on the veranda and watch it by the hour. And when the door was opened Gould would run straight for that goose. He would take a stick and drive it around the yard, but Phebe would pick it up in her arms and carry it about. It was not full grown so there was no danger of its hurting them. Phebe sings "Little Boy Blue" and "Jesus loves me" without any help. Gould looks at her and then turns to us as much as to say "Can't my sister sing though!!" The children have meetings several times every week. Phebe is the minister and choir and Gould is the audience. She can tell a Testament from other books and selects one then reads something and then she sings and then tells Gould to shut his eyes and then she prays. It is needless to add that the audience does not always observe the utmost reverence. She is just now having meetings all alone. I asked her what I should tell you for her. She said tell them "I like them to sing for me". So you will have to practice a duet and sing it for your little great grand daughter.

The weather is getting like Spring. Yesterday we had to take off some of our winter clothing. To day is not as warm. The farmers are beginning to plow and prepare the ground for rice. This year there has been very little rain, last year from Jan. 1 to July 1 there were only about a dozen clear days. This year there have not been as many rainy days thus far. The ground is very dry and rain is needed.

Dr. Judson Smith sailed this morning for the north where he is to visit the North China missions. He was here in Foochow for 19 days. I went to Ing Hok with him and was gone 4 days. He enjoyed the trip as a child would. We go half way up on the river in a common boat. Then we took a chair the rest of the way because the boats are very slow pulling up the rapids. But coming down we took a boat. The first half of the way down the rapids are so steep that the boatmen have to use two steering oars, one in the stern and one in the bow. The last half of the way the rapids are less strong and only the stern oar is used. When Dr. Smith saw the steersman begin to take in the steering oar from the bow he said "What is he going to do?" I said that he was about to take in the oar. He asked, "Are there no more rapids?" with as much disappointment as a child shows when some great pleasure is about to cease.

Well shall I come home to help get the hay this summer. What horses do you have now? Is uncle Dan still peddling milk? How are Cousin Cary and George? And John and Annie and uncle Alonzo and Aunt Elizabeth and Lonnie and all the rest? I sent a Jubilee Report to Lonnie some time ago. Of course you will remember me to the folks at Long Hill and Nichols. The Sentinel has some pretty bad news about matters at the Center. I hope that before this reaches you all will be at peace again.

With lots of love from all of us. Will.

Dear Aunt Louise:-

I am going to add just a word to you in my own hand. It is a long time since you have written. We miss such letters. So you must let the sweeping go some day and write a sheet or so just to tell us how you are and what the news is. Remember us to Aunt Ella.

Lovingly, Will and Ellen.

Foochow, China April, 4 '98.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Yesterday letters arrived bringing good news from Putnam, Shelton, New Britain, and Nichols. March 21st I sent No. 4 to Shelton Mar. 27. I wrote to White Hills.

To day I enclose an order for June shipment which is self explanatory.

The latest telegrams are smothered in war clouds. But before this reaches you I presume the U.S. and Spain will agree or disagree. It does not seem to me probably that in her present plight, Spain will dare to enter another conquest and with such a country as the U.S. Unless she thinks by doing it she can in some way so turn affairs that she can back out of the situation in Cuba with a better face.

Since his marriage Mr. Ding has been at his classes about two weeks in all. I do not know what is the matter with him, pretty tired I guess, with some malaria. I hope nothing worse. This makes my work much heavier. I cannot take his classes, but I must take responsibilities that he would take and I must prepare four mornings in a week for lead prayers at the Seminary and also keep him in good spirits. To make things all the more lively, it seems as if the Devil was exerting himself to his utmost to bring troubles persecutions on the Christians. I do not help in all these cases, but I must listen to each one and sympathize and advise, and urge the Christians to be patient. But we must expect that special activity on the part of Christ's forces will arouse the forces of the enemy. Last Sunday at Au long Die 6 joined. The week before at Ha Puo 12. The week before at Geu Cio Dong 14. Next Sunday at Cui Cio 4 or 5 will unite and Sunday after next at Sang Tung Ga 4 or 5. This will make 60 admissions for the first two communions of this year in my field.

Your account of the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Peet's family was very interesting. I am glad you could have met them in this way. Of course we were glad to hear that the ladies of the W.C.T.U. of Huntington were planning to send more money this year to the work entrusted to our care.

O yes an addition to the order. Please send me 1 Lincoln fountain pen. I think you can put it into a package of newspapers carefully and it will come safely. I do not want to wait for the shipment if I can't ??

The dinner bell!!! Ellen and babies well and as dear as ever. Gould 2 more teeth. Phebe says "Uncle Willits".

Love to all
Will.

Foochow, China, April 16th '98

Dear Folks at Home:-

It seems only yesterday that I addressed the last letter to you, but my register tells me that letter No. 5 went April 5th. Since that date we have received nothing from you. Ellen and the babies started for Ing Hok Fri. April 8th. I had a nice letter from Ellen written this Monday evening. It reached me Thurs. afternoon. I think it should be sent home on account of the excellent description of the trip up the river over the rapids. So I just say here that they arrived safely and are enjoying the visit with Mrs. Goddard. I expect them home next Tues. This will make twelve days away from home. I am very glad Ellen could make this trip for she is shut up here in a little compound 100 ft. sq. and when she does go out it is only thro the crowded, noisy, nasty streets for two miles to the city or over S. Side and back again in an hour or two.

To day I have been to Kuliang, just for the fun. The plain between Ponasang and the foot of the mountain, about 7 mi. was fairly alive with people in the rice fields. The work was in all stages. A few laggards were just plowing the fields, more were harrowing and a few enterprising ones were setting out the rice. That is transplanting it. There were acres of beds from which the little plants are taken. These are scattered conveniently over the plain, and when the ground is prepared, the plants are pulled up, tied in little bundles about as large around as a man's wrist, and packed in a basket and taken to the field where they are to be set out. In the beds the plants stand even thicker than they can. These beds are made as follows: - the soil is made very fine like a garden. Then it is flooded with about half an inch of water, which really makes a padding. Then the rice is sown broadcast, and so thick that the kernels lie one top of the other. I think nothing is done to cover it. It just sprouts and grows. With acres sown in this way you can gain a little conception of the amount of rice that is raised on this plan.

Sunday morning 9:50. What a sleep I had last night! I was awake a little while in the night, but I made it up this morning. The watch said 7:45 when I awoke. It does a man untold good to get away from the crowded city to the quiet mountain, and to do enough physically to get good and tired. I must start in a few minutes for Sang Tung Gio where I administer the sacrament to today. Five will unite with the church. 8 united last Sunday at Au Ciu, 6 the Sunday before at Au Iong Die, 12 the Sunday before at Ha Puo and 14 the Sunday before at Geu Cio Dong. I have baptized all except the 12 at Ha Puo and 1 at Ciu Cin and in addition to the adults I have baptized 8 children. So this makes for me during the five weeks 40 baptisms. The whole number uniting with the five churches in this station during this year thus far is 66. During the whole of last year 110 united. The 66 were received at only two Communion seasons and there are four more Communion Seasons to be counted in this year. I think tho that this second Communion which ends today will be the most fruitful in numbers of any of the year. I can but wonder at the preference of a young minister to remain at home, where the need is not to be compared with the need here, and where he rejoices if the results of this labors are 1/50 of the results he would see if he came to the foreign field. The present time sees a crisis in Missionary work in China and especially in Fookien Province and especially in the Foochow district. What is done must be done now. Christianity and heathenism are at war. Catholicism is straining every muscle. But the Truth must prevail. It is a great blessing to have a part however small in this saving of a people.

2:30 P.M. Well another service over. Five more names on the Church roll. I hope they are also on God's roll as members of the Kingdom of Heaven.

Mrs. Kinnear was good to ask me down to dinner. My coolie does pretty well but variety is the spice of food as well as of life.

In the shade the thermometer registers 83. How is that for April 17th. Strawberries have been in market for two weeks.

Ming Uong is a little better. He has been able to sit up some for three or four days.

Telegrams from America give us much apprehension. The last up to date said that the resolutions from the Foreign Office advising that Spain be given an ultimatum had passed the House. But is difficult to see how Spain can now endure war with the U.S. unless other powers back her.

Dr. and Mrs. Whitney took the steamer last Fri. for Shanghai to sail from there for America April 23rd thus the force of the Mission is continually depleted. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and family and Dr. Bliss started Apr. 6th. There is a plague in Hong Kong and the steamer before their's left all its Hong Kong passengers, refusing to take any on account of the plague. So we are in doubt as to whether our associates are not still in Hong Kong stranded for we do not know how long.

This day has all thro seemed like a day at home in June. It has been one of those days when ones inmost soul is at peace; when duty seems the easiest thing to do; when questions of right and wrong are easily settled; when one gets hopeful and correct views of life; when it is easier to see the good than the bad in others. It has been one of the days which the All-Wise, All-Loving Father graciously gives us as the ideal after which we should strive to pattern all our days. I want to keep this and read it to Ellen if possible. Then too you can hear of her return to Ponasang. Lovingly Will April 19th. Ellen and babies arrived at 2:00 P.M. All safe and looking fresh and happy. Ther. at 88 degrees. Will.

A Call from Foochow.

Mr. Goddard, of Foochow, contrasts the growth of the work in the Foochow Mission with the decrease of the missionary force. Two years ago there were 926 converts, thirty-five preaching places, eighty-one native agents, while the native contributions amounted to $1,390. Within the past two years the converts have increased to 1,440, the preaching places to sixty-two, the native agents to 117, and the contributions of the year amounted to $5,531. But while there has been this wonderful increase in the directions named, the missionary force on the field has decreased within two years, so that in place of twenty-seven missionaries in 1895 there were in 1897 only sixteen. Thus the work is doubling and trebling while the foreign missionary force is steadily decreasing. The plea for reinforcements is therefore most urgent. Our brethren cannot understand why in the stress of the work upon them they are left without support. Do the churches in America know why it is?

Foochow, China, May 1st 1898

Dear Father and Mother:-

According to my register the last letter started from here to you April 17. No. 6. The last one received was on April 4th. One came from Ruth, and one from Oliver Apr. 23. I wrote Oliver a week ago.

Telegrams concerning the war reach us almost daily. Of course these are very brief and give us only the results of legislative action or of battles. Last night's telegram stated that the Americans had destroyed the partly built battlements at Manatanzas and that a battle had been fought between a U.S. torpedo boat destroyer and a Sp. Man of War, the U.S. retiring after eleven shots. All of this does not tell us of the excitement at home, or of the anxiety with which you are watching events. The 100,000 volunteers for which Pres McKinley calls are doubtless received ere this. It does not seem to one that much fighting can be done on land. The strife must be mainly on water. May God watch over and protect the right, and may the righteous cause prevail. We can only leave you all in His care praying for you daily.

Good news came in Ruth's last letter to the effect that the Dr. had told her that she might go home. God has been very good. I suppose she is home before this. Mr. Ding is very ill. I have written that he has not been able to do any work in the Seminary since the year began. He gets a little better for a few days and then falls back again. The Dr. does not seem to be able to tell what is the matter. Dr. Kinnear is attending him now. His bride is a physician educated in the Woman's Hospital of the M.E. Mission, and his elder brother is practicing after a little experience under Doctors in our Mission. So Ming Uong does not lack for medical care. The family has always been ill a great deal. I think six children have gone to Heaven and six still remain. The daughter who was so ill last Summer is better now and is teaching the Station class of women at Ha Puo.

This is the first day of May. You are just about rising now, and will celebrate the Lord's death and resurrection at the different churches today. It will not rain as hard and incessantly there as it has here all day. I was going to visit a chapel about one hours walk from Ponasang. But it rained so hard I knew I should be wet up above my knees and no umbrella can stop the water as it falls from the eaves on the street as one walks along so ones shoulders have to be padded to keep them dry. I just went over to Geu Cio Dong and came home after service and took a nap. Another chapel was to have been opened for the first time today. This has been rented and repaired entirely by the native Christians. I have not yet seen it, nor have I ever been to the part of the suburb where it is. This rain is a great blessing to us. We have had almost no rain all winter. Wells were drying up and in some places the rice planting was delayed for want of water. But this will make it all right.

During the past two weeks I have been examining the Day Schools ten in all. This has made from two to five hours a day extra work. The schools are much like schools at home- some good, some medium and some poor. There is much illness in some parts of the suburbs and the schools in those localities are feeling it, both in numbers and in quality of work done. Tomorrow I shall begin to add one hour a day to my teaching in the Seminary. This will be with the class that entered this year and in a subject which I have taught before, so the added work will not be great.

Ellen and the babies and myself are quite well. The babies are getting big enough so that they amuse each other a great deal. The mischief that they cannot find is not to be found. Phebe curls (?) her hair most every day, and trims it with the scissors- when she has a chance. A few days ago we bought a 60 lb. bag of white sugar. I put some of it into a large tin because in damp weather it does not keep in the bag. The tin with its cover on stood innocently in the dining room on the floor. After dinner I have about half an hour before my class at the Seminary. Ellen and I were in the study reading. The children were playing about, and unnoticed by us they opened the door and went out into the dining room. Presently we heard a very happy laugh from both. Ellen went to see the fun. They had taken the cover off that tin of sugar and were throwing the sugar over one another. Phebe would take a handful and throw it over Gould's head- right into his face. Then both would laugh as if they would burst. Then Gould could take his turn. The result was two exceedingly happy children and about two lbs. of sugar on the floor. It did not yet occur to them that sugar was good to eat. Of course we had to stop their fun. But then they discovered that their hands were covered with the damp sugar and that it tasted good. It amused Ellen exceedingly to see Gould go about licking his hands of the sugar. Phebe is most pleased when her sleeves are rolled up and a big towel tied about her and she is allowed to wash. Washing seems to have been born as a part of her being. I do not know but it is so with all girls. Perhaps that is one reason why boys do not like soap and water.- I mean this may be the reason for the reputation which boys have for an antipathy to soap and water.- They do not show well when compared with their sisters. For about two weeks Gould has carried about any hammer nearly one half of his waking hours. He brings it to the table with him and takes it to bed with him. The only damage he has thus far done is to break a 6X6 glass in one of the doors. He is a boy with a great appetite- takes after his mother. He is never happy in the morning till he has had a cup of gruel and milk. He hears the dinner bell from almost any part of the house and he makes a straight line for the table. Nothing diverts his attention while on the march. He enters the dining room on the run with mouth wide open and gasping as if he was almost gone. He reminds me of a flock of geese with mouths open and wings extended running for their food. And eat! Why he will ruin me unless the Board increases the allowance next year. But he is healthy and happy, goes to bed at 7 P.M. and sleeps all night without a sound if the bed clothes are not too heavy.

Trusting that God will protect you all and prosper you all.

Most Lovingly Will

Foochow, China, May 15th - 98

Dear Folks at Home:-

We received your last letters May 2nd. The same mail brought word that Etta's wedding was postponed. The last letter started from here May 1st. No. 7.

I am having a unique experience to day. Gould and I are taking care of the house. All the others have gone to church. I expected to go into the city to visit the Ciu Haing chapel to day, but I asked a man something about the streets and he said they could not go. There was too much water. Then I proposed to go the other way to Ciu Cin but the street there was flooded. This meant that Geu Cio Dong was the only church accessible, so I decided to rest one Sunday. Gould is asleep and the house is as still as it is at home when all but one or two are at church. It is a beautiful day much like a Sunday in June in Connecticut.

Mr. Hartwell has received letters from Mr. Peet saying that they are to start for Foochow about this time to arrive the last of June. This is very early for them to return.

The last war news was to the effect that the American fleet has demolished the Spanish fleet at Manila and was awaiting orders to bombard the town. We have had no news from the other side of the world for several days- this bad writing is due to the fact that Gould called to me as I was writing the last sentence.

I went into the kitchen while Gould was asleep and noticed the kettles and skillets on the fire boiling nicely, and heard a sizzling noise. The skillet in which the chicken was boiling was too full and the broth was feeding the fire. I took a larger skillet and turned the whole into it. Among the other pieces out rolled the head and neck of the bird intact. This is one of the delicacies that are incident to a Chinese cook. The Chinese eat every part of the fowl except the contents of the crop, gizzard etc. We have found the feet and claws cooking in with the other parts. Of course they are not brought on to our table, and we are not supposed to know that they are boiled in with the rest. These are only "tricks of the trade."

To morrow I expect to go down to Pagoda Anchorage with the theologs and some of the Pastors and preachers to see the English Gun Boat "Daphne". This will be a great day for them. I well remember the first time I went to Bridgeport. Aunt Mary had been at our house on a visit and she was leaving. Father took her to B-port and we first called on Cousin Henry Clark(?). Well when we began to enter the streets of East B-port where the cartridge factory is and where the sewing machine factory is. How my heart went pat-ty-pat. I was excited and a little scared I guess too. But that was a great day in my life as great as will be tomorrow in the loves of these boys if all goes well.

Yesterday I attended the dedication of the first church built by native money in the Foochow Mission. Other churches or chapels have been rented and repaired and furnished by native money but this was newly built by the native Christians. The money expended by them was $314. The church is 14 X 60 ft. There are an audience room, and rooms for the preachers family in this space. About 150 persons can sit at worship. One week ago yesterday I attended the opening of a chapel in one of the remote parts of the suburb. This chapel was also rented and repaired by the natives without help from the foreigners. In another part of the suburb another chapel is already rented and repairs are going on. It is hoped that it will be ready for occupancy this week and the opening may take place next Sat. I want the Christians to open one more place then the suburbs will have churches and chapels enough. Any one in any part of the suburbs can go to church by walking 15 minutes. I am a little afraid that the people will want to go on renting these little places instead of settling down to work in the places already occupied and making these large strong and influential. This is the thing that ought to be done.

Mr. Ding seems to fluctuate with the weather. When it is pleasant he is better. When it is cold and rainy he is worse.

The hot days that came a week and over ago were rather hard on the little ones. Phebe feels the heat this year less than she did last. But Gould looked wilted. Boils have not yet made their appearance, altho Gould has signs that make us anxious lest they are about to trouble him. They are a great deal of company for each other. Of course they fight at times, but it is soon over and they are as sorry as older folks and much more ready to make up. It is pathetic to see Gould. He gets angry and strikes occasionally. (I am glad to say less frequently than formerly) but a reproachful look from either mama or papa and only a word brings the little fellow to repentance at once. He drops his head and runs straight to us and wants to be kissed. Then he kisses sister and all is well. Day before yesterday when he got out of bed he took his hammer the first thing and in trying to improve the lamp knocked the handle off. It is glass and pretty hard to mend. Only two panes of glass thus far are the worse for his investigations with the hammer. He has the best wash bowl, a small pitcher and a few other minor quantities to settle for, but he would not be a boy if he committed no depredations. He has not yet greased the cats- but he has put a silk worm in his mouth- and taken it out again. He was 18 mos. old day before yesterday.

This sheet shows the extent of my work today except a little reading, so it should be valuable- I fear tho it is less interesting than many a letter I have just scrubbed off in haste. Where is Flora? Ben's letter was a veritable treat. Good for you! But don't wait till next year to write again.

Love to all Will.

Foochow, China, May 29'

Dear Folks at Home:-

May 15th I sent a letter addressed to Ben. The last received from you was on May 2nd, we are still waiting.

At 9:30 A.M. I am writing in the coolest spot I can find with the mercury at 84 degrees. A little breeze makes the heat endurable. Friday, day before yesterday I went to the mountain with Ellen and the babies. The heat was beginning to effect the children. Each had one little boil such as heat produces and our experience last year made us dread a recurrence of these comforters on the little one so we packed off where a cooler atmosphere prevails tho nights too were getting so hot that Ellen did not get the rest she needed. I have seldom been more thankful for a blessing than I am for this cottage at the mountain. The thought that the dear ones are comfortable up there takes away half the discomfort of the heat for me here. We started a few minutes before 7 o'clock Fri. morning. At 11:20 we were all at the cottage safe and happy. The whole journey was a very pleasant one. Our baggage had mostly gone up the day before. On Wed. we sent the coolie up to clean up the cottage and open the doors and windows so as to have it aired out nicely. Every year before we have taken most of our baggage with us as we went. This made 15 or more coolies to manage and with grumbling and strikes etc. the journey was tedious. This year we had only 9 to go to the foot of the mountain and 6 up the mountain. The amah carried Phebe across the plain and I carried Gould. This left Ellen free. Then to go up the mountain amah and I walked and put Phebe and Gould into one chair. They got along very well most of the time. On the way up there are three resting places. When these were not too far apart the little ones were quite happy. But after about so long Gould began to think he needed some exercise and he would flop over on his stomach and begin to slide out of the chair shouting "Ba, Ba, Ba", which freely translated is "I want to get out and walk". Phebe also thought it fine sport to walk up the stone steps. So at each rest place we let them get out and exercise. The morning was little cloudy so the sun did not trouble us at all. Just ahead of us all the way up was Mr. Worley and his family- wife and six children. They were just far enough ahead so that they could rest, and move on just as we approached a resting place. I spent Fri. night on the mountain and came down yesterday afternoon. And now I am looking forward to 4 or 5 weeks undisturbed by family cares, - unless I find an opportunity to run up once during the time and spend a day.

I am afraid that the work this year will need me until July 10th. The next communion season begins June 19th. On that day Geu Cio Dong and Ha Puo hold communion services. June 26th the Au Iong Die church, July 3rd Au Ciu, July 10th Sang Tung Gio. From all reports there will be from 60 to 70 persons to examine for admission to these five churches. With these large numbers I feel that I ought to be present at all the examinations. This is a time of unprecedented growth in the church here and the danger is great. The name of the church is getting popular, so that as I walk on the street men speak with me and ask about Christianity, and tell me of their own accord that they are going to "obey the doctrine". This means that many will wish to join just for the name, thus the greatest care is needed at this time in admitting members. The Seminary will close June 21st. With this off my hands the other work will be much lighter, and I think I shall plan to spend about 4 days of the week at the mountain and three down here.

War news from the other side is very scarce. The most important engagement thus far of which we have heard was at Manila. Judging from what I have heard the Spanish and American fleets are either in search of one another or they are trying to evade one another.

I wrote that on May 7th I attended the opening of a chapel at a part of the suburbs called Dong Ciu, and that on the 14th I attended the opening of another at Sang Bo. On the 21st I attended the opening of another on an island a few rods from the shore, in the Min river, a little above the big bridge. The name of the island is Sang Gaing. This last chapel was planned by the Ha Puo people, the other two by the Au Iong Die church. In all three native money above was used. Except in the purchasing of land at Sang Bo, the other two at San Gaing and Dong Ciu are rented places. There is one large temple, near the Au Iong Die church. The adherent of which have embraced Christianity in such numbers that the head men are getting alarmed lest the temple will go down for want of care, and for want of worshippers. This is one of the strongest proofs of the triumph of Christianity.

Mr. Ding is improving slowly. I hope he may be able to go to the mountain before many days. The chief advantage in this move will be to keep him quiet. In these days a church in Foochow is anything but quiet. The incessant callers and their incessant talking and planning keeps him all the time tired.

Mrs. Hartwell is 70 years old June 30th. The missionaries of the three missions are planning to give her a surprise and present her with a silver tea set. As June 30th is rather late the surprise is to be next Wed.

I think of you as just thro with corn planting. The young cattle are turned out to grass. The cows are getting a good living from the pastures now. The horses and oxen are still on hay. I wonder where your crops are this year. When you see Aunt Louise you must tell her that it is a long time since one of her letters has arrived here. Remember us to all the uncles, aunts and cousins.

Lovingly,
Will.

Foochow, China, June 12th 1898.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started from here for Shelton May 29th. No. 9. The last received from you was June 6th.

The last time I wrote Ellen and the children had just gone to the mountain. It has been very hot since they went. We have had no rain for about a month until last Thursday. Last year at this time the people were afraid the rice and other crops would be drowned. This year the rice in some places is dried up and potatoes not planted for want of water. Of course being so dry the weather has been hotter. Thursday I went up to Kuliang and was surprised to find so many houses occupied. There were six houses with people in them and as I came down Friday I met Mr. Pitcher from Amoy going up. His family were coming up the next morning. The number of people on the mountain in June is a good thermometer for the plain. Beside those at the mountain there are others at Sharp Peak. Dr. Kinnear went up with me on Thursday and took out three teeth for Ellen. This makes five that she has had out within about six weeks. We hope now that she will be all right till Fall. Then it looks as if most of the others would have to come, and false teeth take their places. Phebe was looking rosy, tanned, happy and well. Gould was not feeling well. He had a severe attack of diarrhea the day and night before and he could not see much pleasure in living. He seemed much better Friday and as I have not heard anything I hope he is all right. I walked up the mountain Thurs. A.M. and in the afternoon I walked about some with Dr. K. Fri. morning I did some more walking and fixed up some things about the house and in the afternoon walked down the mountain. I rested all day yesterday. I came down hoping to finish copying a lot of work with the typewriter. I copied just one page. Last night I slept nine hours straight and feel much better this morning. Until a week ago I was pitying myself because I was working hard. But when I was at the customs office the other day I stepped on the scales and in the thinnest clothes possible tipped the weight at 168 pounds. I stopped complaining, and pitied the coolies that had to carry me.

The people in Foochow and also in other parts of China-especially in and near the ports are in much distress on account of the high price of rice. 100 pounds ordinarily cost from $3 to $4. It now costs from $5 to $6. This with no corresponding rise in wages makes it pretty tough for some of the poor people. A week ago the alarm over the drought was so wide spread and we had had two or three cloudy days and there had been showers in the distance that gave some hope of rain, so the officials put out a proclamation that no pigs should be killed. This would appease and please the rain god and bring rain. Some of the people began to ask what they could get to eat. Pork is as universally eaten here as beef is at home. But in spite of the officers proclamation a few pigs squealed in secret. Last Thurs. we had a delightful shower. Fri. another, and yesterday another- each day it rained a little harder than on the day previous. So the anxiety about drought is quelled for this time.

An original speech of Phebe's comes to me just now and I must put it down. Ellen was sitting by her bed while she was going to sleep the other night. Gould and she sleep together at the mountain. He was already asleep and Ellen was singing for Phebe's benefit. When Phebe said in a low tone "Mama sing a little downer". Ellen said it was a long time before she could understand. Finally Phebe said "Sing a little downer, not wake little brother."

To morrow I go to examine and close one of Ellen's station classes for women. Tues. and Wed. Mr. Hartwell and I invite all the workers in our two fields to meet at Geu Cio Dong for a quarterly meeting. Thurs., Fri., Sat. and Mon. are held the examinations in the Seminary. Thurs afternoon comes the examination for candidates to church membership at Geu Cio Dong and Fri. afternoon at Ha Puo Ga. The communion in these two places will be held next Sunday. The last communion will be held at Sang Tung Gio about the time this reaches you July 10th.

This last week I received from Shelton C.C. $43.60 and from S.S. $12.50. Your last letter brought the news of a gift of $15.00 from the W.C.T.U. of Huntington. This places us beyond any anxiety for this year. We have a little over $200 in silver in the bank here and did not know but we should have to take it out for the work this year but it will not be necessary. God always cares for his children when they trust him. If you should see either some of the ladies from Huntington or some of the Shelton people you might tell them that the money is received all right. I will write as soon as possible which will be in about two weeks I hope. Just now beside the duties I have mentioned for the coming week I have a lot of writing to do in connection with our estimates for next year's work to be sent to the Board at Boston. Beside all the minutes of the Annual Meeting held June 2nd and 3rd to be copied and forwarded, and also the report of last year's work to be put into shape and forwarded and I am also reading the last proof of the printed report of the mission for last year. All this work is well under way and I hope to get it out of the way within two weeks. Then I will remember the friends who have so kindly remembered us. By the way please keep the $15.00 and credit it to me on account. I think financially we were all square up to the bill for the box that is starting about now when that bill comes I'll square again.

Mr. Ding improves very slowly. Dr. said the other day that he was not yet strong enough to leave Foochow for the mountain, and he could not say when he would be strong enough.

The only news of the war since I last wrote is that several thousand troops have sailed from America for the Philipines- that the Governor of the Philipines is in despair- that the American fleet has the Spanish fleet cornered near Cuba,- that a large number of troops had left Tampa for Key West thence for parts unknown.

I think to day must be Children's Day at home- The 2nd Sunday in June. How delightful it would be to see a field of pure white and yellow daisies! "A pretty field" is almost an unknown phrase here. If the children could only get into one of grandpa's meadows, how they would roll the grass down. There is one little corner of our yard here at Ponasang where the grass grows a foot and over tall. The children were out there the other day, - a few days before they went to the mountain. How they enjoyed it- the place was 10 ft. sq.

Remember us to all friends. Lots of Love to all

Will.

A pleasant vacation to all the school ma'ams and students.

W.

American Board Mission.

Foochow, China, July, 14th 1898.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter already acknowledged came July 1st. The last sent started July 4th No. 11. It is time for another mail. There may be one waiting at the office for us.

Since I wrote you last I have been to the mountain each Monday morning and returned to Ponasang each Friday morning. Each Friday afternoon I have attended an examination for admission to the church and each Sunday administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. July 3rd 6 united at Au Ciu and July 10th 7 united at Sang Tung Gio. This makes 67 in the five churches in the suburbs station at this communion and 133 since Jan. 22nd.

Last Monday morning at 4:35 o'clock I started from Ponasang as the people here say "for good". That is to remain at Kuliang a few weeks. The Monday morning before July 4th I was off at 3:15 A.M. It was just 2:50 P.M. when I first opened my eyes. I got up here before the table cloth was spread for breakfast- just 4 hours on the road. It has been pretty hot on the plain. The coolest place I could find last Sat. morning the mercury registered 93 degrees. This was in the second story from the ground, with a good breeze. Imagine so hot it was in the afternoon in a close dark chapel where the only breeze is produced by your fan, and where 30 or 40 men are sitting in a room 12 X 30. It has about "done me up" every Sunday morning to preach in one of the places and then administer the Sacrament.

We had quite a glorious fourth here on the mountain. Some fireworks-Chinese-were procured, and there are boys and girls enough to give zest to the fire cracker fun, and girls enough to scream at the pin wheels and snakes etc. and ladies enough to make indigestible eatables and a Consul and one or two others who can make a speech, and this year there was the news of the victories of our fleets.

Kuliang is more thickly populated this year than every before. Six houses are just completed and the occupants were in before the workman had left in 4 of them. The chapel is not large enough for all the foreigners to crowd into but as they will not all come at one time we shall get along this year. Land is purchased for a new chapel, which is likely to be erected in a year or two. What a blessing this mountain is! The missionaries could not live now without it. It was a great menace to their health- especially to the children in earlier years to be compelled to live in the city during the Summer. But then the work did not crowd them at all. They were complete masters of their time. Now it is all changed and with the rush of work a man could not live thro the heat. The merchants stand it, but they have punbabs= large fans 10 ft. long hung from the ceiling and so fixed that a Chinaman sits in the hall and pulls a rope and creates a breeze. This must be kept up 24 hrs. a day. This expense we can hardly afford.

Ellen and the children are quite well. The photographer is coming up in a few days and we are going to have their photos taken again. I am writing this with the "Lincoln".

Ellen says "send my love with yours to all of them".

Lovingly
Will.

American Board Mission

Kuliang, Foochow, China, July 31st 1898.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started from here July 14th No. 12. We received one from you July 19th and one yesterday July 30th. It was very cheering to hear of Ruth's good health and we most hopefully trust that we shall hear only confirmations of this good news.

We send congratulations to Phebe on being offered the position in New Britain. It is a flatter offer, especially for one who has only just graduated. [According to her 1957 obituary, Phebe Maria Beard was a 1898 graduate of the kindergarten training school department of the State Normal School of New Britain, CT. She was appointed assistant in that school and served one year.] I should be pleased if she would give some other excuse for not want to come to Foochow, than the language. That's a snow man, and melts very rapidly in this climate. Her little name's sake talks like a "house a fire" as Stanley used to say. And even Gould the other day taught me a Chinese word. I was out in the yard with him and he was throwing stones. As he threw he said dai. This I found means to throw away, - all of which is of course very interesting to you.

Well we have had more photos of the children taken. When the photographer came the first time, Gould bore the marks of a collision with the stone steps on his cheek bone and Ellen wanted him to wait. While she was dressing Phebe I was playing with Gould on the veranda. The camera was all set up and the man waiting. Gould came in a ragged dress and shoes out at the toes and all perspiration and dirt from his play, and dropped into my lap as I sat on the veranda floor directly before the camera. I motioned the photographer to shoot and he shot. He hit the little fellow square. I gave him my "tick tick" to make sure.

Ellen says he is a little sober but he is so naturally. I wanted to vignette myself out but Ellen would have some with me in. The photo is so good of Gould that Ellen has about half forgiven me for allowing the dirt and rags to appear. Both children are as well as ever, plump and ruddy and growing like weeds. They practically live out of doors and the air on our hill comes direct from the sea over about 8 miles of mountains and valleys. So it is of the very best. Gould is a born "clod-hopper". He is determined to go out on the hill every day and watch the cows graze for an hour or more. As we stand on our veranda we see a large area of hillside. Gould is the first one to spy a cow and he gives a jump and a whoop "Oh! Cow!" I never saw him show signs of fear at a cow but once. I was out on the hill with him one evening just at dark as a cow came along led by a man. She came within a few feet of us. When within about 8 feet she bellowed low. Gould said nothing, but he hugged very close to me, till the danger passed then ran after the cow shouting with glee. I asked Phebe what I should say to Grandma Beard for her. She said "They way ov'r America". This evening she did not seem very hungry at supper and was playing with a cup of milk for the first time she put her hands into it. We told her that was like the pigs. She thought a moment and said, "Gramma Beard got some white pigs." All the pigs in this part of China are black. But this is all babies so far, so to change the subject. -

Kuliang seems to be booming. Every year finds more and more people here. Six new houses are occupied this year for the first time. Seven pieces of land have just been bought and five houses are now being contracted for there will undoubtedly be more before next winter. The building is used for a chapel is too small for either foreign or Chinese meetings and we are preparing to build a new chapel. The chairmanship of the committee to arrange for all meetings and care for the chapel and to build a new chapel falls to my lot this year. The "new chapel" bids fair to be a serious problem. Some want one plan and some another and some want one site and some want another, but it will be settled in some way all right. This is the week of our Kuliang convention. It really began this afternoon with the service at 5 P.M. Each day we have two services at 9:30 A.M. and one at 5 P.M. closing with the communion next Sunday.

The telegram Fri. morning stated that Spain was suing for peace. Pres. McKinley replied that Cuba must be given independence. Porto Rico and one other island ceded and a coaling station be granted in the Phillipines. We hope to hear that peace is declared very soon. This of course will disappoint many of those at Tampa and others who have started for the war but who have not had the opportunity of fighting. This war bids fair to be very far reaching in its results. Our country can no longer remain shut up within itself. We are one of the nations of the earth now. Last year the condition of things in China was nothing to the U.S. We have hitherto left the policing of the seas to England and have considered questions that concerned countries out of the Western Hemisphere as out of our jurisdiction. But now we must help in solving the "Easter question" and we, as one of the two distinctively Christian nations of the world, must do our share in bringing order out of the world's chaos. It was probably best that we should have remained until now, quiet in our obscurity. We have been growing and have just awakened to the fact that we have attained to the full grown stature. Now we must use the power that we find we possess. May God direct us to use it for His glory.

Ellen is quite well and sends love. She is just now engaged largely in looking up names for boys. Gould says he would like a brother.

Give our love to Grandpa and Grandma, Aunt Louise and all the rest.

Lovingly Will.

Foochow, China.
Aug., 15th, 1898.

My dear Mr. O.G. Beard:-

You will perhaps be surprised, for the lapse of so long a time, to receive a letter from me. But believe me that a letter to you have been in my mind for a long time. I do very often think of you, your family, the "Century Farm" and the friends I met there. Therefore first of all allow me to thank you for your hospitality and kindness and assure you that the pleasant hours you caused me to spend in Shelton and its neighborhood I shall ever remember as one of the happiest weeks in my life. I can recall very pleasantly the visits of the paper mill and Shelton Park with you, the riding to Bridgeport up the river road with Mr. Ben Beard using his span of horses, the Sunday School at Long Hill school with Miss Beard, the visit of Derby Silver Co. with Mr. James Beard, the picnic with Misses Beard, the berrying with Miss May and Mr. Standly Beard, the party on the Tuesday afternoon Aug. 17th and other pleasant occasions.

Although I am now on this side of the globe thousand miles from you and separated by a mighty ocean yet often my thought goes back to you and my prayers ascend that God will bless you richly and give all of you good health and long happy life.

Indeed I am glad that I have met you and knowing you so well. I have told Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Beard that I have not only known him but I can say now that I have seen and know theirs.

It is no doubt that it has caused us to throw ourselves together more closely. I was sorry that I could not write you sooner my silence had arisen from two reasons. Immediately after setting my feet upon my home land I was called by our National Committee and General Secretary to proceed to the north and after seeing the Secretary I made a hasty tour among the Chinese colleges and traveled many thousand miles in the empire. As it was near our Chinese New Year therefore almost all the schools were closing. Thus I had to fix the dates of my visits and hurry from place to place and many times I had to travel at night and through rain and snow. And as we did not have many rails like America I had to travel by donkey riding mule-cart and other modes of traveling which were very tiresome and not accustom to me at all. At the close of this journey I was very tired and then became ill. I got home on the afternoon of the very last day of our Chinese Year.

It was my hope that after settling down at home I might have little time to write letters and to clear off piles of business which I have filed up since I went to America. But the ill-health dragged on day after day I became weaker. The fever gradually became higher and higher and the shooting pain from joint to joint [joint] indeed could hardly be described here and then I was confined in bed as stiff as a rod. During those days I was obliged to give up both reading and writing. I am now pretty well and hope that I shall be able to go to my work in the Seminary this coming term. I did not go to Kuliang this summer for Dr. Kinnear thought best for me not to go. So I am here at Foochow and it is quite hot in this city. I think during those hotish days the thermometer went to about 100 degrees. I hope that the weather is cooling off now.

Allow me to congratulate you upon having another granddaughter here in China. It seems to me it is very gratifying for one to think that he or she has children on both sides of the earth and thus far and near day and night there are some one calling him or her father, mother, grand-father and grand-mother. It is said that Mrs. W.L. Beard and the baby are very well and probably they will be at the mountain till the weather gets cool.

China is now waking up both the Emperor and the people are seeing their own faults and they changing as fast as they can so it affords much for us to do here. We do pray that God will give us more wisdom and good health and supply us with means so that the work can be carried out more widely.

Please pray for us for we need your prayers much.

My father, mother and Mrs. M.U. Ding join me in sending our kindest regards and best thanks to all of you. Please remember me kindly to friends I met at your place.

I am.

Very Sincerely Yours,
M.U. Ding.

Many are living on the mountain now and more are planning on building cottages. Because of the increase in population a new church must be built on Kuliang. American Board Mission.

Foochow, China, Aug. 21st 1898.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started from here July 31st No. 13. The last came from you July 30th. Our life has been running along smoothly since last we wrote. The most exciting experience was a typhoon two weeks ago. It had been raining some each day for over a week. The wind had not been very hard until Mon. morning Aug. 8th. We had arisen and were standing in the back door looking at the rain as the wind drove it thro the big stone typhoon wall. Suddenly about 4 ft. of the top of the wall for a length of 15 ft. gracefully bent over to the ground before the wind. We went to breakfast just after. Before the meal was finished there was a knock on our front door and I opened it to find Mrs. Main with her little 9 months boy in her arms. She had been staying in the house just above us. Mr. Main had gone into the country and in the house were only Mrs. Main, a single lady and the baby. Mrs. Main saw the top of the typhoon wall of the house in which she was staying fall off, and saw and heard the tiles fly off the roof, and became frightened and ran for safety. She had just sat down and was telling how the tiles were flying from the other house, as there came a terrific gust and a crash and the ridge of our house lay on the ground. This left plenty of room for the rain to come in. The fiercest of the storm was over by 11 o'clock. The middle room was pretty wet. But we found a dry place to eat and sleep in and all in all the experience was not a bad one. Two or three houses were so badly used by the wind and rain that the inhabitants could hardly live in them. The weather did not become settled till Wed.

July 31st – Aug. 7th. was held the Kuliang Convention as usual with a prayer meeting at 7 A.M. a meeting at 9:30 and one at 5 P.M. The meetings this year were very helpful. This Chinese Convention was to have followed during the next week but on account of the typhoon it was postponed and ends today with the communion union service.

There is one fine tennis court on the mountain air the East side of a hill so that it is in the shade by about 4:30 P.M. from that hour till it is too dark to play the crowds on the mountain are to be found there. There are more people here this year than ever before, and more houses are being contracted for to be built this Fall and Winter to be ready for use next Summer than ever before. Thus far ten families are thinking of building with more in prospect. The increase in population overcrowds the little building used for a chapel so we are planning to build a church. I had the misfortune at the beginning of the season to become the chairman and treasurer of the chapel committee. It devolved on the committee to start the matter of the new chapel. We recommended a board of Trustees of six men to take charge of building and caring for the new chapel. I got my share of the work again by being elected as secretary and treasurer of the Board of Trustees. During the past week I have collected in checks, cash and pledges over $1200. The church will cost something over $1500.

The seventh moon communion begins today in my field with communion at Geu Cio Dong and Ha Puo Ga. 16 were to have united at Geu Cio Dong. I have not heard from Ha Puo. I shall go down next Fri. to the examination of candidates at Au Iong Die if Ellen allows me to. But I shall delegate one of the pastors to administer the communion on Sunday. I had a letter a few days ago from one of the preachers- the one at Au Ciu saying that a man owed one of the members there $30. The member could not collect the debt. He told his trouble to the preacher. The preacher chanced to know the debtor and went to him succeeding in inducing him to pay the debt. The member as a thank offering gave $15 of it to the church. Tell this to any one who says the Chinese show no proofs of sincerity in their religion. Mr. Ding I think from reports is improving some but is yet far from his old self. He expects now to take up work in the Theological School the middle of Sept. I expect one of the oldest Pastors to help in the teaching this next term. This will relieve me greatly and allow me to do better work in the subjects I teach. A letter from Mr. Walker to Miss Newton spoke not at all assuredly about his return to Foochow this Fall. If he does not come there is no one for the Shaowu field this year. And that field has only one ordained pastor. (There are 3000 people in this district who have asked to be taught the Gospel.)

The statement of the goods from Boston came this past week. You have sent an "old whopper" of a box. 26 1/10 cubit feet 625 lbs. We shall look for a "stock" of picture cards etc. In the last mail I sent you a lot of photos. Some were marked. Will you kindly distribute these. Those unmarked will you send half to Putnam and give the rest to whomever you think will care the most for them.

Phebe has been perfectly well all Summer. She runs all over the mountain as sturdy as a little goat. The rainy days are rather hard on both children. They do so love to be out on the hills in the open air. The house gets to be a prison for them when they are shut up too long. Phebe goes to church every Sunday. Ellen has not been for three Sundays but Phebe goes with me and is the admiration of all for her good behaviour. Gould is now having a very bad cold and is getting the two teeth below his eye teeth. This makes him about sick, but he gets out on the hill and tends cows every day and sings "All power is given unto me", unless his cold stops him then he says "ma, ma"- like ma in man= cannot and begs either Phebe or Mama or Papa to sing it for him. He carries the tune to this chorus all alone and approximates the sounds. Of course we think this phenomenal.

One of the recent mails brought an invitation to the wedding of Annie Tomlinson to Daniel Sammis Sanford. The Sentinel spoke of the wedding of a Mary Blakeman whom I understood to be Ard's sister. Is Ard still a bachelor?

Remember us to the folks at White Hills and all other places. If my reckoning is correct grandfather was 89 the 12th of this month.

The news that Spain had sued for peace and that the conditions imposed by the U.S. were such that in the main they were accepted was very good news to us. I hope there will be some way of retaining a controlling influence in the Philippines. It will be a sad thing to let Spain get hold of them again. The problems before the country at this time which the war has precipitated are broader and perhaps more difficult of settlement than was the problem of reconstruction thirty years ago, but we are able to grapple it and to settle it. McKinley is loved by all the Americans in Foochow. The papers printed in China by Englishmen speak in the warmest terms of America and Americans. They have no epithets good enough for the common sense and good character and ability of Admiral Dewey, and General Merritt they say is as good as Dewey. May God guide this young nation in the right, to take her part in the government of the world in righting the wrongs of oppressed weak nations and in protecting such nations as China against the greed of Russia and France and Germany may be the enlargement that our beloved country needs to be able to save herself from destruction due to evils that are rampant among her own people.

Love to all from all
Will.

Kuliang. August 25th 1898.

Dear Folks at Home:-

A letter arrived from Ruth day before yesterday. I sent No. 14 to you on Monday of this week. I am writing this just to say that a little daughter arrived this morning at 4:50. She is a lively little miss- and pretty. Her lungs and throat are all right. Ellen is doing nicely. Both she and the baby have been asleep since 7 o'clock now at 9:00.

I must not keep the man waiting longer. Will

You send the news to Putnam,

Lovingly

Will.

Phebe and Gould are getting the better of their colds.

People are beginning to move down from the mountain. Willard is embarrassed when people ask what the new baby's name is because it is 10 days old and they haven't yet named her. The war between the U.S. and Spain seems to have gradually stopped. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Kuliang, Sept. 4th 1898

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started from here Aug. 25th, the day of the arrival of the newest missionary. Every thing has gone as nicely as we could ask from the first up to the present time. Ellen sat up in bed yesterday some, and today she has been hopping all over the bed like a frog in a frying pan. Baby was ten days old this morning. She has had the colic once bad and once or twice lightly, otherwise she has eaten and slept like a jewel. Last Thursday when baby was just one week old I went to Ponasang. Dr. Goddard came over and spent the day with Ellen. Ellen talked so much that she has been a little hoarse since otherwise I found everything in perfect order when I returned about 7 o'clock in the evening. A week ago to night another typhoon set in and it was pretty lively here for 48 hours. Fortunately we had just had the house roof thoroughly fixed after the first typhoon, and this one did no damage at all. You cannot imagine tho how one of these storms tries a roof. The wind first blew from the South, then it gradually moved around with the sun, until it reached the N. West, then the rain came. The velocity of the wind increased constantly from the first. When the wind reached the north it was blowing hard and the rain was falling in torrents. Then it moved on to the N.E. and blew from a little after noon Monday until toward morning Tuesday. Then it gradually subsided and left us with a South breeze and clear sky. The wind blowing hard from about W.N. West to E.N. East and the rain falling heavily all the time finds any weak place in a roof to a certainty.

The first of Sept. sees a marked decrease in the numbers at Kuliang. Every day loads and chairs are going down the mountain. In two weeks from to day this will be a deserted place. And the various centers of Christian activity in the different parts of the province will assume their usual activities. I have gotten a good rest this Summer and do not dread to go back into the work. (Last year I felt like a boy just whipped and sent back to school as I went down from the mountain in Sept.) But I am glad to get back this year. I think the work should be a little more satisfactory and therefore some easier this Fall than last Spring. Ming Uong will be able to teach some in the Seminary and his presence there and general oversight will be of great advantage to the school and a great relief to me. Then I have arranged for another teacher- one of the oldest Pastors to assist in the class room work. The churches are becoming more and more independent. That is they are learning better to do their own planning and to settle for themselves the various questions that are constantly arising. They are also learning that a live church must be a growing church and they are themselves planning new work and putting their plans into execution. One church, the one at Au long Die has just rented an adjoining shop and refitted the church so as to increase its seating capacity from 70 to about 150. I have not been to the place since this work was begun. The 7th moon communion is now in progress. At Geu Cio Dong 16 united, at Ha Puo Ga 8, at Au long Die 24. At Au Ciu today there will be 7 or eight. The communion at Sang Tung Gio next Sunday will complete this communion season. Not counting those who join today at Au Ciu 181 have united with the churches in my field since the beginning of the year.

Sunday evening: - Ellen sat up on one corner of the bed this afternoon and watched the people come out from the church. The audience was about half the usual number. The same is true of the Chinese audiences. My worst trials these days are to be asked what the baby's name is and when I say I do not know- well you know how the people look and talk. One little boy about five years old had a little sister born in July. I was talking with him a few weeks ago and offered to buy her. He said if I would give him one bright new dollar he would sell her to me. Then afterward he became sick of his bargain and backed out. The next day after our little girl arrived I was passing this little boy's house. He came running out to the path shouting "Now you don't want to buy her. Now you don't want to buy her. You got one of your own."

Well the impression that the telegrams give one is that the war stopped rather gradually just at a most opportune time to save our soldiers from the ravages of fever in Cuba. The negotiations for peace will not in all probability be completed in a hurry. In the mean time and perhaps permanently the East is the residence of more U.S. citizens than ever before. It was a very happy and Christian step taken by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions to write the different denominations to first consult about the occupancy of the Phillipines before any of them had sent Missionaries there. One of the last telegrams says that Russia pleads with the powers to stop this race for arming. One nation adds to its forts and its army and its navy and then another must outstrip her in armament and so the competition goes on to the injury of all, to the benefit of none. All the powers except France answer favorably.

Well "God is in the onward march of the nations", and all things are as they should be. We are all working out His will. Trusting that you are all well. We are waiting to see what the beginning of a new school year will do with you. Love to all Will

[This letter dated Sept. 25, 1898 was written from Kuliang, Foochow, China by Willard to the Ones at Home. They are getting ready to move off the mountain. The Theology School has opened and Mr. Ding is well enough to be teaching again. Baby Geraldine is doing well. Since coming back to Foochow from Kuliang, Phebe and Gould have had fevers. A strong typhoon hit recently and they were glad there were not still on Kuliang. Rumors say that the Emperor is dead and Li Hung Chang and Russia are responsible for it. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Dear Ones at Home:-

I am writing from Kuliang for the last time this year. The records have all been transferred to Ponasang so I cannot say when the last letter went or when the last one came. I have been down for one, two or more days for the last four weeks. Last week I went Tues. morning and returned Fri. evening. We are all going down to Ponasang day after tomorrow, Tues. morning. The mountain is almost perfect now. The atmosphere is all that one could wish. It is only slightly cooler than in July and August. Nearly all the missionaries have gone back to their work and the mountaineers are waiting for their sweet potatoes and rice to ripen- in the mean time they are off gathering fire brush- and there is an air of quietness and rest that makes one feel while here as if he were growing fat. There is nothing to do and after having been at work in the hotter regions for four days I feel when I get back here for two or three days something as Tennyson pictures the "Lotos Eaters."

The Theological School opened Sept. 22nd. Nearly all the boys are back and they are all seemingly happy. Ming Uong is back as my assistant and he has the deportment of the school under his care. This will be a great help to me and it will be a great advantage to the boys. We have two teachers and two students more this term than last. The building is thus crammed full. The mission's greatest need is for a new building for this school. It will require about $1400 or $2000 to supply the needs Dr. Smith said when here last Spring that this was our first need and I think if the Board had the money we would get the building now. As it is...

Well this has had a good long rest. In the mean time we have not been idle- if we have not written letters. The last day at the mountain was of course occupied with preparing to go down. We sent every thing possible down Monday, so that we had only a load for one man to pack Tues. morning i.e. the bed clothes etc. We were off at 7:45, and arrived at Ponasang at 11:00. The journey was rather hot but we all stood it well. Geraldine was an angel. She slept all the time till Ellen got into her chair and was as good as she could be all the way down. To get Phebe and Gould down the mountain we put them into one chair and had the coolies carry the chair back and forth so they could not fall out. They fitted in tight. We came down from a temperature of about 70 degrees where the atmosphere was bracing and just about perfect with a temperature of 90 degrees where the air was thick and hot, and anything but bracing. Phebe and Gould have taken it pretty hard. The poor little things are the ghosts of the children that were romping on Kuliang only 5 days ago. They have both had high fevers every day and have had chills some days. Tues., Weds., Thurs., and Fri. continued hot Fri. afternoon a typhoon- the third this year- set in and has continued till this morning. Fri. night a gust woke up both Ellen and me. We did not know but the old house was going to succumb but it still stands. Miss Newton said she was up ready to run. It was the hardest she had ever seen. Our cook who is not far from 30 says he never experienced one as hard before. If the storm was as violent on Kuliang, - that is if Kuliang was in the path of the storm as was Ponasang- the houses have suffered severely, because of the higher altitude and of its openness to the sea. We look right out to sea from the back of our house so we count it a kind Providence that led us to come down before the storm even if we did find it so hot. If Ellen had remained, I should have been down all week intending to go up on Fri. afternoon late. The storm was so violent this would have been impossible and I should have been down here worrying for fear the house would blow down on the dear ones on the mountain, but they were all safe here with me. The typhoon has made it cooler, and we have the doctor after the children and hope the little ones will soon be all right again. They slept all night last night soundly and they gap well. Gould is cross enough at times, and today he has been playing out on the walk and seems better. Phebe prefers to keep quiet most of the time. She rocks her dolly to sleep each day and plays a little. She is just like her Uncle

Stanley when she is sick- as quiet as can be, not a word of complaint; her requests always have a "please" and there is always a "thank you" for any favor. All medicine-even castor oil goes down without a word. Gould? Well he is different. Now for Geraldine. Well to begin she is the best baby that was ever born. She eats and sleeps and grows. When she is full and otherwise all right, there is not a peep. Since she was two weeks old she has scarcely waken Ellen more than twice between 9 P.M. and 6 A.M. next day, sometimes only once. She takes as much pleasure in being bathed as her mother does in bathing her, which is beyond the power of language to express. She has hair enough to curl, blue eyes, big fat cheeks, a back broad enough for a farmer. She is plump all over and perfectly well so far as we can see. She is now 5 weeks and 4 days old. She notices people and follows them with her eyes, holds her head up and looks about, rolls off the pillow for exercise and tries to stand on her feet. We heard about two hours ago that Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard have another daughter born the night of the typhoon.

The box from home arrived last week. It came thro all right. Only one breakage. One bottle of flavoring – lemon had a little hole in one corner. All the liquid of course ran out and was absorbed. Nothing was hurt and the loss was not worth mentioning. The cereal is in perfect condition- mostly. The tin of oatmeal got jambed and burst and the bugs got in a little. But we are so used to picking bugs out of our cereal that it is the natural thing. The shoes are just right. The paper and envelope came just at the right time. The hickory nuts and pop corn will be great treats. When Phebe first saw her doll she looked at it a second then uttered a Chinese exclamation "Ai a" ai like ai in "aisle" a like a in bar. The mark above indicates that "the tone begins with the key note of the voice uses to the pitch of a second with strong emphasis, and descends with through stress to about a fifth below". Ai is a smooth level tone a third above the key note of the voice. Then she took it and looked it all over and remarked that it had eyes and hair and stocking and shoes, and a necktie. Then she lay down and put dolly beside her and went to sleep. Gould took his old man up and looked him over and gave him to Phebe as if it was entirely outside a boy's province to have anything to do with dolls. He has never cared for Phebe's dolls. He kisses them but Phebe can take all the care of them. The ball struck him as very nice. Ruth has a great eye for ties. I never had two prettier ones than the one she sent in the last box and the one that came in this. We have not yet given the tea set to Phebe. The picture cards are Ellen's delight. The scrolls are so beautiful that I am afraid we shall appropriate some of them for our own wall. Tell the people at Shelton that the large Bible pictures are just the thing. I was in great need of just what they sent. I think Uncle James is to be thanked for the smaller scrolls.

The Emperor is dead. Li Hung Chang and the Russians are at the bottom of his death. All the reforms recently started by him are revoked and China put back in her old shut up condition. All the powers except England, Germany, U.S. and Japan are happy at the new turn of affairs. This is the latest and is believed to be authentic.

We want to hear from Bridgeport. It has been a long time since your letters have reached us. July 21st was the date of the last you wrote.

With lots of Love from all. Will.

Dear Folks at Home,-

I have just returned from breakfast and will spend the time before going to church in writing to you. This week has been full of activities. Friday was Mountain Day and we had no recitations. The day is set apart for the students to ramble off over the mountains and get acquainted with the surrounding country. The Sophomore dedication of "Phi Delta Theta" took the Freshman delegation of their fraternity for a trip over to Mt. Tom across the Connecticut river and very kindly invited me to go with them, so I accepted on being pressed by them. Furthermore they went so far as to supply a substitute for me at Hitchcock Hall, consequently there was nothing for me to do but go and I believe I never spent a pleasanter and more profitable day. (I have just returned from church where I hear Josiah Strong L. D. preach on the passage in Revelations, "Behold I make all things new." I wish I could give you an account of his sermon; but it would take too much space and time. He made everything so plain and impressive, that I think I could follow his whole discussion through.) I will now continue with the account of my trip. We started in a four-horse carry-all at about 9.15 A.M. We drove through Hadley, South Hadley and cheered the Holyoke girls, then on to Holyoke going clear around Mount Holyoke. Here we took the electric cars up

Mt. Tom till we reached the base of the cliff and there we transferred and went up in the cable car. Some of the grades on this line I should think were 25 ft. to ?? hundred. (You probably remember seeing a description of these cars in the Century Magazine) It made me feel as if he wondered where he would go to, if anything gave way; but there really was little danger; as the conductor told me that there were five ways of stopping the car if the cable did not work. This road is also run or rather regulated by electricity. The cars are attached one to each end of the cable and the one coming down helps pull the other up. They leave the depots every half hour that is it takes about that time to make the ascent and descent; and they run, I should say at the rate of about 10 miles an hour. I never found myself so at a loss for language to express my feelings as now when I wish to describe the view from Mt. Tom. We were about 1300 ft straight up in the air and the side of the mountain opposite from the one we came up is almost perpendicular it being formed of rock. On the top of the mountain is an observatory with eight large glasses in it which are at the disposal of the guests. Two or three of these glasses are on tripods and may be moved about the floor at will; the other are stationary and may only be swung around and tilted. In the centre of the floor there is a circular map showing the layout of the surrounding country for 40 miles in all directions. From this you may find your place and then take the glass and look it up on the landscape. There is a tape attached to a screw in the centre of the table and with this you may ascertain the distance of the place from Mt. Tom. This is the table.

We could see the impressions in a yard a number of miles away and could distinguish children eating and even tell their color. We threw stones over the precipice, but could not follow them till they struck at the bottom; as they disappeared from sight. Railroad trains winding along through the valley looked like little serpents; in short, the whole thing was like a dream, being realized. After luncheon on Mt. Tom we descended into Holyoke and again took the team and went clear around Mt. Tom; so that we got a full view of that precipice. The rock reminds one of the palisades, as there are numerous creases running up and down through it. The solid rock is, at a rough estimate, 75 ft. or 100 ft. high, then for as many feet below this, the side of the mountain looks as though it were made of crooked stone; and only a very few trees have succeeded in forcing their way up through this rocky mass. Below this the thick underbrush begins to accumulate and as the mountain slopes off more gradually as its base a heavy forest flourishes. I shall leave this description here with the hope that some of you can come up sometime and let me take you over there. After passing the mountain we drove over through North Hampton and gave our college yell for Smith, thence to East Hampton and back to Amherst at about 7.00 P.M. having covered a distance of between 40 and 50 mi. as one of the fellows estimated; and having ridden continually with the exception of the half hours spent on the summit of Mt. Tom. The view which we got of the mountains as we road through the valleys was exquisite; and one can appreciate it only when he has the right before him and feels "the ripple" caused by such a scene, run up his back.

From your last letter, Mother, I inferred that you understood that I had promised to join the fraternity. I distinctly told you my pledge viz.- that I would join their fraternity if I joined any. They understood it so; and I have lived up to any pledge. However, I have decided and told them my decision that I would not join them this year at any rate. When I pledged to them in this conditional manner, I told them how I was situated and also told them that if I did not come in with them, I did not wish any rupture of feeling to exist between us. They accepted my request and said that they were glad I felt that way about it. When I came to give them my decision, they were disappointed but very courteous, and told me that, whereas they could not count me as after one of their number and allow me the privileges belonging to a member, they should be glad to have me call at the Frat. House whenever I could or desired, to see them. It was with the foregoing relations existing between us that they invited me to go with them; and I would not have missed the day for anything. They bore all expenses which could not have been less than $.50 or $.75 I think. I feel somewhat under obligations to them for all that they have done for me and am at a loss to know how to show them my feelings in a proper manner.

Mother, do you think I can wash my own flannels in cold water without injuring them? My roommate does without hurting his.

I wrote a letter to Mrs. Betts last Wednesday; for your reports were rather disturbing and I do not wish to be recalled from college. I also received a letter from Helen and Bessie telling about their experiences at Wellesley.

I received the letter from home all right with the check from Ben and I handed this check after indorsing it, to the assistant registrar. This saved me the trouble of identification at the bank; but I thought afterward perhaps you would like to have had it cashed immediately.

I was mistaken about my scholarship. That $47.50 was for my whole three term's room rent. I will not know whether I got anymore or not till I do not know when. The trustees or some other committee will decide that later. I went down to see Mr. Word about it the other day and was told that I would have to wait with the real before I knew for certain whether I was to receive anything further. I got a receipt for the whole $47.50 whereas on the paper they said that I should receive only half of it now. Your promptness in sending me the check was a pleasant surprise to me; and I was among the first to pay my installment. I inferred from Mr. Fay. My promptness pleased him.

I have no more time to write now. If the news accumulates too fast I will try to write you during the week. Wednesday I deliver my oration before the class of 1902. Tuesday I have my last rehearsal.

With Love,

James.

P.S. No, mother, I find no great change in the weather here, but a great one in the environment.

Ruth, I have had one good square meal of grapes and we have an apple orchard on the college commons which bears lovely hard Baldwin apples. We get quite a good deal of fruit at our boarding place.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter was of the date Oct. 2nd. No. 16. Oct. 4th. we received two from Shelton. One week ago I wrote uncle Will's folks. I was so pressed that I did not write you but asked them to tell you that the children were better. They are now all right. Phebe has got most of her color back and is tripping about again as happy as ever. Gould gets tired easier than he did before he was ill, but the malaria has all left him and he is treated just as he was before he was sick. This year the children have not had the heat boils as they did last year. Possible this accounts for the fever internally. Geraldine is perfectly well as she has been since she arrived. She just eats and sleeps and kicks and grows fat. She already coos and smiles when she is noticed. When bed time comes she has her supper and is put in the bed and she kicks herself to sleep. She likes a midnight lunch and then she is all right until daylight. Ellen is well and began last week to teach the young men in the Seminary music. They enjoy it immensely. It will be of great advantage to them in their work. If they are able to sing the tunes correctly it will make one more part to each tune, for each man and woman in the country districts, and often in Foochow, makes up his part as he goes along. And it is rarely that his individual part ever coincides with the part as written in the hymn book.

Every thing in the work has moved along at a rapid pace. I think perhaps I have already written about the repairs that have been made on the church at Au long Die. The members have spent about $300 on the building, and have a pretty little church now. The members at Au Ciu are now repairing their chapel. They have rented an adjoining house at their own expense and are to spend about $100 in repairs. The members at Ha Puo Ga are considering the question of buying the house adjoining the church and holding it for the time when the church can be enlarged. It will take $1000 to purchase. How they will ever raise the money I do not know, but where there is a will there is a way in China as well as in America. The 9th moon communion season began today. At Geu Cio Dong there were received 14. At Ha Puo 5. I am very much pleased thus far with the way the Seminary is moving this term. I have written you that with the returning health of Mr. Ding he is back in his place and that one new teacher has been added to the faculty which really make as addition of two to the teaching force. This makes four native teachers and myself. We are able to give the young men all they want to do. I should have mentioned also Mrs. Beard as a member of the faculty.

The political situation in China just at present is most engrossing. The theory in China is that the people are the servants of the Emperor and the land is his personal property. Whatever then touches the person of his majesty is of interest to the people. Mr. Goddard has just returned from a trip to our North China mission and has visited Tientsin and Peking, and was in that region when the events at Peking took place. He has therefore the latest and most reliable facts. I asked him to give the boys in the Seminary a talk on the situation. He did so last Sat. The substance of what he said was: - A little over 3 years ago the second degree men from all the provinces of China were gathered at Peking for the examinations. China was talking of making peace with Japan. The literary men were not in favor. They were about to prepare memorials to the throne and present them urging that China instead of concluding peace with her enemy, should send proclamations throughout the empire urging the people to rise and save the country. At that time among the literati discussing the matter was a man by the name of Kong Iu Ui. He gathered the literati and told them it would be better to have one memorial drawn up and signed by each of the literati than to have so many different ones sent to the throne. His reasons were so patient and sensible that his suggestion was accepted and he was chosen to draw up a memorial. This he did and the document was signed by his associates, but before it was presented peace had been made. This circumstance however had served to bring Kong (You will probably see this in the papers Kang) prominently before the greatest minds of the whole Empire as a man of great ability coupled with good sense. Associated with Kong was a man named Liong. Liong was or orator of great power. He was the speaker. Kong was the thinker. These two men after the Examinations went to Shanghai. Liong was soon called to Hunan to assist the Governor there. As a result of his work Hunan is today the leading province in adopting foreign methods. Kong spent his time in Shanghai in translating books and in editing a news paper called the Chinese Progress. This paper had an immense circulation in all parts of the Empire. It urged progress and reform with no uncertain note. Among the books translated was a life of Peter the Great of Russia. This book found its way into the Emperor's hands and was read by him. He asked for the author and praised him highly acknowledging his powers.

Last year at the triennial examinations again Kong and Liong were present. There had joined them a man named Tang. Timothy Richards and Gilbert Reid were also there. The literati gathered each day to discuss progress and reform measures. These gatherings were broken up by a decree from high authority. But the seeds of reform had been sown broadcast in all parts of the Empire for three years and over. The brightest young minds of the Empire had been inoculated. Among these were several who had been educated in mission schools. They had studied history, they knew what the country needed, they loved their country and more important than all they believed in God. Add to this that the press had been used continually for more than three years and that books translated and books written by able Chinese and books written by the most able Christian foreigners in China had been circulated by the thousand copies in all parts and ready by many of the officials and by nearly all the literary graduates in this class would be included young men fitting for official positions. - - Remember also that Kong, Liong and Tang were leaders of reform clubs which had been organized in some of the most important cities of China and you have some idea of the strength of the reform movement. The young Emperor himself became thoroughly aroused on the subject of reform and set about learning the best methods. Early in this year he was in daily consultation with one or more of these men - Kong, Liong, Tang. Soon Imperial Edict after edict came from the Emperor each one ordering the most radical reforms. The literary examinations were to be changed; any body was free to memorialize the throne on the subject of reform; Institutions of Western learning were to be established in all important centers of the Empire; temples not dedicated by the throne were to be turned into schools; fat offices of no value to the country were to be abolished and the officials turned out. Etc. etc. Lastly Li Hung Chang thro the influence of England was retired. In all these reforms the Emperor stood alone. The Empress Dowager did all in her power to nullify each one, for example when the Emperor appointed Kong as imperial printer and made the Chinese "Progress" an official organ and Peking the head quarters. The Dowager relegated the whole thing to Shanghai, and it was then a mere private business enterprise. Li Hung Chang was told by her that he need not leave the palace but that he might stay and keep his position acting as advisor, etc.

By this time it became very evident that either the Emperor or the Dowager must get out. As to which it depended on who had the most power over the under officials of the palace and who could play the faster. The Emperor realizing the situation sent word to Kong and Liong to escape. These two are saved. Kong is in Hong Kong and Liong is in Japan. The Emperor then ordered the only powerful man who was on his side to take 5000 soldiers and go to Tientsin and arrest and decapitate the Viceroy for disobeying imperial orders. Then to return to Peking arrest the Dowager and shut her up in a palace where she could have no power and hinder his reforms. This general instead of proving true dare not carry out the order but went to the Viceroy and showed him his orders from the Emperor and waited. Of course the Viceroy telegraphed immediately to the Dowager. The Dowager sent a pressing message to the Emperor requesting an immediate audience. The Emperor went to her palace and has not been seen since. That is all that is known now. The Dowager has selected a boy not in the direct royal line to be trained for Emperor. He is 10 years old. All reforms have been abolished and China stands now where she stood ten years ago. That is she thinks she does. But these things are only for a moment. When the Dowager had silenced the Emperor she began to deal with his advisors. Many were sent to their homes with threats hanging over them. Some were banished. Six were beheaded. One of these was a younger brother of Kong, one was Tang, one was a Mr. Ling from Foochow. These young men were from 26 to 38 years of age. They understood fully the danger of urging and working for reform. But they loved their country just as the brave boys who laid down their lives at Santiago did their country. While they were discussing the plans for reform with Timothy Richards one day he stopped them and told them the dangers of their position, and said plainly that it might cost them their lives, and then he asked who was willing to die for his country. Kong rose first and many others followed. Several months ago some of Tang's friends warned him of the dangers he was incurring in this trying to advance his country and urged him to escape while the way was open. He said "I am willing to die for my country if I can thus help to save her". When the sentence was pronounced condemning these young men one of them said to his accusers, "You may cut off our heads, but for every one that falls a thousand will rise up!" Pray for China. Lovingly Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter from here was dated Oct. 17th. The last received was on the 2nd. We looked for a home mail by the last steamer, but it did not come, so the next one must bring the looked-for letters.

To day I have conducted the communion service at Au Ciu. Three men united with the church. The People here have rented a house adjoining the church and have taken out the partition and thrown the two houses together and thus made a nice large church. They will now be able to accommodate about 250 persons. Last Jan. the preacher and some of the church committee sat in my study for a whole half day teasing me to help them pay the preacher's salary. They received no help however and a few days ago the preacher told me that his salary was paid up to date and the remainder of the year was sure. In addition to this they are now spending over $100 on the church. I think I wrote you in the last letter of the repairs the people at Au Long Die had made on their church. One very noticeable feature of these new chapels repaired by the people themselves is that they are done in much better style than the mission ever did such work. These chapels now stand out on the streets on which they are situated in a conspicuous way and they are the first thing that the eye catches when you enter a street.

One week ago I went to Kuliang and arranged to have the typhoon wall rebuilt so that the wind could not blow it down. The wall will be 100 feet long. At one end it is 9 ft. and at the other 15 ft. high. The first 30 ft. of the lower end will be of stone only. The rest will have a stone face next to the house 15 ft. high. The back face will be only 8 ft. high and the space between filled with earth. This style of wall can not be blown down unless the workmanship is very deficient. The man guarantees the wall for three years. I am to give him $100 silver for building it. Next Spring I shall have to lay out $40 or $50 more on the roof. By the way we told Dwight to write Dr. Ashmore of North China that we would take $1000 for the house if he wanted it, just as it was with all the furniture in it. I have just said to Ellen I hope he will not take us up. After I have done so much on the house it will seem like an old friend and I shall want to live in it longer. But there is another piece of land only a short distance away that we shall like better, for our site is a little too cool and breezy much of the time. Dwight you know has been in North China this Fall and while there learned that some of the missionaries were planning to go up the Yangste two days sail from Shanghai and buy sites for a summer residence. He mentioned Kuliang and Dr. Ashmore at once asked him to purchase two sites for houses. So we offered ours all built and furnished. We will have spent in all about $900, and we have had the use of it for two years. $100 will cover the trouble of building and caring for it and furnishing it.

A brother of our Kuliang landlord has had an interesting experience this year with his wife which may serve to give you an insight into Chinese customs and character which nothing that we have ever before written had done. When the wife was a little babe before it was weaned the mother of the man bought her, a large sum of money at one time for a wife. In due time they were married. All went fairly well until a year and a half ago when the wife was sent into the fields to hoe potatoes. The foreign houses had become somewhat numerous and the girl thought the shade of a house with the servants to gossip with was more fascinating than hoeing potatoes out in the hot sun. For this her husband was advised by his brothers to "beat her a little" which he did. The punishment did not have the desired effect and he repeated it. Some time after the wife was missing and after a long search was found at her own mother's house and taken back to her husband's house and again beaten and tied and watched for some time. But again in the Spring she slipped away and it was only after a long search that she was found. They knew that she had gone to her mother's but her mother had this time helped her to hide away from her persecutors. When at last she was again caught she was fettered with wooden fetters and kept in confinement just as an unruly cow would be fettered at home. She however got hold of a piece of iron and sawed her fetters off and again ran away to her mother's. This time her husband and his brothers looked for several weeks before finding her. They came to me and wanted me to go to the officials and demand that she be given up to them. But at last by bribing some of the villagers where her mother lived they found the lost wife and took her home and so tied her that she could not get away. I asked them of what use she was to them in that condition and was told "Her husband can sell her and thus she will not be a dead loss to him and then he can have some money with which to buy another wife."

Woman's lot in this country is not an enviable one. The Gospel is a blessing not to be estimated to these poor ill treated creatures. It does ones heart good to see a happy Christian wife enjoying her liberty. The face of one of these has been in my mind all the afternoon. I passed her on the way to church this morning. The first thing that attracted me was her neat appearance. Then I noted the happy look on her face. By that time I recognized the wife of one of the Christian men at Au Ciu. She is also a Member of the church.

Ellen and the children are as well as usual. The children are not entirely free from ague yet. There is very much of it all about us. But Phebe has got back her color and her dancing run. Gould is getting back to where he was when he returned from Kuliang but he is yet paler than we like to see him. Geraldine is still the best baby yet and as fat as ever.

Love to all especially to Miss Olive
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The mail yesterday brought your letter. The last one started from here No. 18. Oct. 31. You speak of my not having written to the W.C.T.U. at Huntington, so I looked at my diary and found that a letter started for Miss Wooster Sept. 5. Will you see her - - no I will take the time to write her again within a few days.

We have just finished supper and Ellen, Phebe and I are sitting about the table in the dining room. Yes the most interesting one I left out. Geraldine is also here. She is developing very fast these days. She is outstripping both the other children in everything. She was three months old yesterday. She has been laughing out loud for three weeks. Ellen has just been talking and coughing with her and she burst out in such a hard ringing laugh that Ellen was almost frightened. Yesterday afternoon I was at home late in the afternoon and while at my desk heard her as she lay on the bed in the next room, talking to herself and making noise enough for a child six months old. For about a week now she has a long talking spell each evening. She is as good as ever, well as ever and fat as ever. Both the other children are now perfectly well as far as we can see. The fresh color had returned to their cheeks and they are eating like young bears and running all over the compound when the weather permits. The other day Phebe was minus. She was found in Miss Newton's parlor rocking a doll. Miss Newton said she came over knocked at the door and entered as any young lady would and when inside asked for the doll. Miss N. gave it to her and she proceeded to have a good time.

The Annual Meeting of the mission has just closed. It was the best one yet. Every advance made last year was held and there has been progress in all lines during the year. One of the most enjoyable and profitable features of the meeting was the presence of the pastor and one delegate from our Shaowu field. The reports that they gave of the work were simply astounding. Village after village is calling for preachers. The house is all ready and the preacher's salary promised; there are from one to five hundred learners who wish to know the truth and to join the church. This was the report from many places. Perhaps ten different villages are in this condition. Then there are as many more that have a chapel already opened and the work has been started, but they have no resident preacher. There are twice as many places ready to provide the necessary expenses of preaching in this field. At present there is no missionary to take charge. All the Shaowu missionaries are at home. The last mail brought the news that one married man and two young ladies had been appointed for this field and that they were to sail about Dec. 10th. One lady is also coming for the Pagoda Anchorage station.

Another special feature of this year's meeting was the session given to the Men's Missionary Society. This session was planned and lead entirely by the Chinese. It was one of the most interesting sessions of the whole meeting. This society was organized one year ago. The work of this year has been completing the organization and in beginning the subscription. The organization is now complete but there were $110 reported. There are still nearly three months in this Chinese year and the whole amount will exceed these figures by a good deal. The society expects to begin work with the new year. The great advance made in self-support this year has made the starting of the missionary society very uphill work. There has been an advance of at least $2000 in the native contributions toward the evangelistic work during the year. But in spite of this the missionary society has made a beginning. The women conducted one session of the Annual Meeting as last year.

We had a difficult task to find a suitable place in which to hold the meetings, but just at the last moment the keeper of an old Idol temple offered us the use of the temple and after washing it and fixing it up with screens and covering up the idols and tearing four or five holes in the roof we had a very nice place. At the evangelistic service held Sunday afternoon in this temple 20 persons rose for prayers and waited after the meeting and put down their names as learners of the Gospel.

The last letter brought the receipt from the Insurance company. We were very pleased to hear of the good health of grandfather and grandmother. Thank all who wish to be remembered to us and tell them we think of them often. One of the choicest gifts that have come to us from America was one that arrived in the last mail but one; - a birthday calendar the contents of which you already know more of than we do. This will brush the dust off a great many names that would otherwise have become almost obscure in our minds.

You have doubtless heard before this that the Emperor has been nomanally reinstated. Otherwise the politics of China remain much as they have been for a month. The Empress Dowager seems determined to kill all the reforms the young Emperor had tried to inaugurate, but she finds foreign pressure and the start already made in the line of progress in her dominion too strong to enable her to abolish everything. From this side of the world it looks as if there would be another war in which our country would play a leading part. May God guide her. And may she stand before Him in such an attitude that He can use her to advance the cause of Righteousness in the whole world. To this end may He purify the lives of the high and low legislators and executives. And may He make the heart of the people to serve Him.

Most lovingly yours,
Will.

Foochow, China, Dec. 25th. 1898.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter came Dec. 6th. The last sent was on Nov. 28th. No. 19. A Merry Christmas to you all. This is just right here but it will be rather old by the time it has gone half round the world. It has not been for lack of news that such a long interval has elapsed since the last letter started. News has been accumulating at a very rapid pace, so rapid that I have not had the time or the strength to put it on paper. The typewriter has had a good long rest and it ought to do good work now. Most of the work has been in the ordinary line of teaching and work with the churches and day schools. The end of the year is approaching and as you know the churches are all working on the self-supporting basis this year in this station. You will also recall the Chinese custom of settling all accounts at the end of year. As the time approaches some of the churches find it rather tough to see just how the end of this year is to fit on to the beginning of next without a gap in the financial fence. But at the present writing I am not at all disturbed about the condition of things. One of the churches will probably carry over a debt of perhaps $200 silver. This is however lent by the church members and was spent with the full consent of the members who lent the money so they cannot complain. Furthermore this church has been a little headstrong and has not been exceedingly careful in the expenditure of many. I trust this may be a lesson to them and that they will count the cost more carefully in the future. The other churches I think will come out all right. I am preparing to have printed a report of the work under out care in this station this year. I am preparing four representative photos, one of the pastors, preachers and their wives, one of the Theological School, one of the best woman's class and one of a day school.

Could these be photos of a women's class and a men's class?

Dec. 15 to 18 we held here a Y.M.C.A. conference. Two of the Secretaries who came out from American this year were with us. Mr. Brockman and Mr. Lewis. The conference was well attended from first to last. Messrs. Brockman and Lewis did all the speaking except an address by Ming Uong and one by myself. Each of the gentlemen spent a night and a day at our home. You cannot imagine how I enjoyed this. I think Ellen also had a good time. You see since Dwight went into the country to live there had been no young man in the mission. The others are all out on their second term, and there is really no companion in the mission for us, and we were hungry for young life, in these young men fresh from America we found it. After learning the mandarin language, in the north of China Mr. Brockman hopes to make his home in Foochow as Secretary for Southern China.

Today if the expectations of all are realized five new missionaries will start from San Francisco for the Foochow mission. This sounds very nice, and on the face of it looks as if we were to have a large reinforcement. But in reality these five persons will not help the real Foochow mission at all. Four of them will go 250 miles up the river to Shaowu, and it will take additional work on our part to send up their mail and supplies. So you see the one who is to stay in Foochow will only a little more than offset the extra burden of those who go into the country. But we are exceedingly thankful for this addition to the Shaowu field. This whole region, as large as the state of Conn., and with 4000 men who have put away their idols and declared their intention to learn the Gospel, has no foreigner to supervise the work this year. We can do very little to help them because the dialects are entirely different. We hope in the course of time to have recruits for this part of the mission also. Just now in addition to the regular work I am watching the enlargement of our compound here. For about 8 years the mission has owned a piece of land adjoining the compound but because a narrow path ran between this land and the compound and because the people who owned the house at the end of the lane wanted to squeeze the mission the walls have never been changed so as to include the land in the compound. I got the consent of the mission to undertake this job a year ago and have been working away at it all the year. At last I have the written consent of the parties interested to change the walls. All the neighbors are very happy over the change and they say it will be much better for them to have it so. The Chinese neighbors I mean. When you remember that $400 was the price set at which the users of the lane would be willing to allow the lane to be changed and that it has been done without the payment of a cent and with the full consent of all interested parties and the praise of all the neighbors, it is not a bad piece of work. Beside this I have been negotiating for a piece of land on a hill opposite our compound. We hope to buy here and erect in the course of time a residence for ourselves, and the Theological Seminary. My hope is to buy enough land now to erect another residence for a missionary and perhaps also one for young ladies to be sent out in the near future.

The "Birthday messages from the home land" are an increasing source of enjoyment to us. Every day we meet an old friend. Sometimes we have to scrape away a lot of rubbish in our brains before the lost one can be found, but we have given up in only one instance. That was yesterday. The names Elizabeth Lewis Nichols, Dec. 24, 1819 I cannot place. I am pretty sure she is mine, not Ellen's to place but who she is I can only guess. Some one in Bridgeport I think.

The children are quite well now a days. We are preparing to celebrate Christmas tomorrow. I am going to Kuliang and hope to get a real Christmas tree. I have a present for Ellen but she does not know what it is so I must not tell you now. Ellen says "you didn't say I had one for you, but I can't say what it is." When did you hear from Aunt Mary in Milwaukee last?

I must close now with Love to all. Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

We all wish you a Happy New Year. A week ago this evening I was sending the Christmas greetings to you. (letter No. 20) With this exception the letters received and sent remain the same as then. We have just read the name Mary A. Paige in the Birthday Day book. Is it Edgar Booths sister that taught school one term on Long Hill – a widow at the time and after ward married- Mr. Paige? These folks who change their names- especially the girls whose maiden names we were familiar with- cause us much thinking to place them. We have the wedding cards of many, but a strange name read only once does not always stick fast.

I conducted a communion service at Au Ciu this morning and received six into the church. One little girl was baptized. For the first time since I have been in Foochow I had the pleasure of seeing the father and mother stand together while the child was baptized and together promise to try to teach the little one to love Jesus. The customs in China are all against a man and his wife appearing together anywhere. So one generally brings the child forward and the other sits in his seat while the child is baptized.

The Week of Prayer commenced to-day with a preaching service conducted by one of the Methodists. I will enclose a program of the week. I thought I should be fortunate enough to have a rest this year from leading one of the meetings but not so. I am getting good and tired as the end of the year approaches. The Chinese year does not close till Feb. 9th. The Seminary closes Jan. 26th, the week beginning Jan. 23rd until Thurs. will be occupied with examinations and Commencement. During this week the commencements of the Boy's College and the Girl's College will also be held. So this week will be full. From this time on to the end of the Chinese year the Chinese will be very busy. The churches will have lots of business and it will not be easy to accomplish it all, because the church members are busy men and their own business will require much of their time, and the preacher can hardly go all around looking up the delinquent subscribers. Then the churches that have to make changes in their preachers or have to rent other places for churches will have a double burden. Land buying has gone very easily during the past week. One of the sellers is sick and the other wants a week to consider the matter, so I have had quite a rest. Have I ever told you how land is bought here: I want to purchase, I tell some native whom I know well. He looks about in the locality where I wish to buy, and probably finds another man. Man No. 2 looks up the owners of the land or houses, ascertains if they are willing to sell, and then if they are willing gets into communication with still another man No. 3. No. 1 may himself do all that I have attributed to No. 2. If he does then we have only four parties, i.e. buyer, his middle man, = No. 2. Seller, his middle man= No. 3. No. 2 goes to No. 3 who goes to seller and gets the price at which he will sell. This information passes thro No. 3. No. 2 back to buyer. In the case before me now, the price was $2800. I offered $1500. This information passed from me to No. 2. Then to No. 3, then to seller. In a few days my middle man said the other side would take 2500. I raised to 1600. After a time the other party dropped to 2100. I went up to 1700. It took about two weeks to do all this business and here the matter has rested for about two weeks. The man of whom I am buying nothing but a name=Uong= King. I am not supposed to see him at all until thru the middle men we have agreed upon a price and the deed has been written and the money is ready to be paid and he comes to my house to receive the money and sign the deed. When he comes, "he" may be six brothers or relatives and they may demand $1.00 a piece for putting their names on the deed. - and they may not get it. After the money is paid to the seller my middleman comes around for .03% of the price paid for the property as compensation for his service-which I think I could have done without better than with- if the custom of the land only allowed it.

Last Monday I went to Kuliang with Miss Newton. Just as we reached the foot of the mountain Mrs. Smyth- a M.E. lady put in an appearance. So we here had a very pleasant Christmas together on the mountain top. I took an extra coolie along and cut a real Christmas tree and had it brought down. Was it foolish to ask a man to carry a tree almost 10 miles just for an hour's amusement? Well it cost 25 cents and we all had a very pleasant evening. Ellen bought some little candles to light the tree, and we had oranges and Ellen made popcorn balls and these with the other presents made a fine tree- as fine as you would see in America. Miss Newton and Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear and their children and our servants made the party. All seemed to enjoy it immensely. Gould ate popcorn till he was full. It did him no more harm than the watermelon did James. Ellen put Geraldine to bed as usual at 7 o'clock. But she rebelled and her amah had to take her up. The little thing came into the parlor in amah's arms as wide awake as a lark and just as if she understood the whole business. She opened her mouth and gave a crow as much as to say, "You thought I was not on to this, did you?" Oranges and pumeloos have come in during the week till we are surfeited with them. As most of them have come from people able to give them we can receive them and feel grateful. We gave each of the preachers and pastors a hen for Christmas.

We think of you as together at the old homestead at this season. Give our love to Grandfather and Grandmother and Aunt Louise. Tell her to write.

Love to all in which Ellen joins.

Will.

They describe some of the new missionaries. Willard took a trip to Ing Hok with some of the new missionaries and had Ellen finish this letter. Foochow, China, Jan. 22nd 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Two weeks ago – Jan. 9th - I sent the letter for the 17th Anniversary. We have received nothing from you this year. A steamer is expected to start from Shanghai to day bearing both the Am. mail and the five new missionaries for – 1 for Foochow and 4 for Shaowu,- then we should have a feast of good letters from Conn.

This week will occur the Commencements of the different schools. The Girls College in charge of Miss Newton will hold forth on Tues. P.M. The Boy's College in charge of Mr. Peet will hold forth on Wed. A.M. The Theological Seminary on Thurs. A.M. and the Hospitals, and Woman's School will be tucked in somewhere, beside examinations in the Seminary and class days, receptions etc. Well to prepare for the week I have been in bed all or nearly all of the past week. Ellen had just got to feeling a little like herself again after an attack of Tonsilitis, when last Sunday, I came home from church with a fever, tired and in the evening a sore throat. I went to bed till Thurs. about 11 A.M. The soreness is all gone from the throat but I feel, as I told Ellen to day, like a wooden man, and worth about as much. I shall try to hang round here till Fri. morning. The Seminary will then be formerly closed and I will skip out. First I'll go to Ing Hok and see Goddard, staying till I get ready to start away. Then I may go to Ming Chiang where the Methodists have a station and two ladies. Then I'll go to Ku Cheng where the other two Missions have work and where I am not sure but a Cong'l church will soon be organized, - started entirely by the natives. This order of march is as yet only on paper.

We had a perfect day. I got a good rest of a day. The new comers of course thought it a lark. Now as to the personalities of these new ones. The Missionary Herald which came yesterday has the photographs of Mr. and Mrs. Hinman [George W. and Kate F.] in it. I knew him while I was at Oberlin. Mrs. Hinman is a niece of Mrs. Walker. One of the Bement sisters is an M.D [Dr. Lucy P. Bement and her sister is Frances K. Bement]. She is rather small and slight. Her sister is rather stout and wears glasses. Lieutenant Hobson came over on the steamer with them and Miss Bement likes to talk about him and tell that she was his private secretary, i.e. that she answered some of his letters for him while on the steamer.

Jan. 29th. It is never safe for me to stop writing hoping to finish "to-morrow." That "to-morrow" is sure to be a long way off.

The new missionaries arrived on Fri. With them came a letter from Shelton and one from Abington. I am still in Foochow, have got thro the week pretty well. The exercises at the Seminary Commencement passed off nicely and nine good young men are to be added to the preaching force of the mission this year. One has been called by the members of the Au Long Die church here in this station on a salary of $7.00 per month. The established salary heretofore when the mission has paid the preacher has been $4.00 per month. At the Commencement exercises the most prominent feature was the singing by the boys. Ellen has had the graduating class from two to five hours a week this term and the other two classes less time. They, by their singing, called forth praise from all. If any thinks the Chinaman stolid and incapable of emotion they should have been present as I spoke a few last words and gave them their diplomas nearly every one of the young men was in tears. I never witnessed a like scene in China. It is proof that a tender chord has been reached in their hearts by some one during the past three years.

I am planning now to start next Wed. morning on the trip proposed on the first page of this. I went to Kuliang yesterday with Miss Newton, Mr. Peet, Miss Chittenden, Mr. and Mrs. Hinman and Misses Bement. The last four are the new arrivals for the Shaowu station.

[The following is in Ellen's handwriting:]

To continue the description, - Miss Bortz is a rather tall, pretty young lady, somewhat reserved; but as I am not yet acquainted with her can tell very little else about her. She is appointed to Pagoda Anchorage where Mr. Hubbard's people are and we have seen her only once. These are the first new missionaries we have had the pleasure of welcoming to our Mission at Foochow and we are very happy to receive them but it makes us wish for more as these all go to outstations and as many more are needed in the city and suburbs. The Shaowu recruits are stopping in Foochow for a few months till some of the missionaries belonging there who are at home on furlough, return to go with them to their field. We are daily expecting their teachers down from Shaowu when they will begin studying the dialect of the field.

Well, Will started on his vacation trip Wednesday morning Feb. 1st at 7 o'clock, and told me to finish his letter and send it. There was quite a party of them, - Will, Mr. Hinman, Miss Newton, Dr. Bement, one of the native teachers in Miss N's school and several of the girls, - besides the coolies who carried the chairs and loads and the servants who went with them. They first took a chair ride of 2 ½ hours then took a boat for Ing Hok. The rest of the day and night was spent on the boat and the next morning they started by chair to complete the journey to Mr. Goddard's home that day. Mr. Beard and Mr. Hinman making the distance on foot. Will wrote me from Ing Hok saying he was enjoying his trip greatly, - that he stayed at Mr. Goddard's the next Monday then proceeded with Mr. Hinman to Ming Chiang a station of the M.E. mission and that he would go from there overland to KuCheng where both the English and M.E. missions have work and from there home. Ku Cheng, you will remember is the scene of the massacre of '95. I heard from Will again at Ming Chiang when he was well and getting rested and enjoying every moment. I am very glad he could have this change for he needed the rest so much. I think he will return much refreshed or as Phebe put it "A new, new papa." (She has heard her papa tell about feeling like a new man). He had had especially fine weather; we might reasonably have expected rain at this season but it is holding off well. Miss Bement is staying with me while Will is away otherwise I should be in the compound alone as Dr. Kinnear's people are at Sharp Peak through the New Year's vacation. The last night of the old year I was alone as Miss Bement went to the city to stay with Mrs. Hinman over night. Mr. and Mrs. Hinman are stopping at Mr. Peet's and the Misses Bement at Miss Newton's. On China New Year's day took the children all into the city to dine with Mrs. Hartwell. Phebe and Gould rode in my chair and I rolled baby in the carriage through the street. I have no doubt it was the first baby carriage that ever wheeled along that street and was of course a great curiosity. A troop of men and children ran along beside us all the way more followed close behind and still others nearly blocked the road in front. I did not realize how uneven the stone pavement in the street is till I rolled the carriage over it but baby had a good shaking up I fancy. It was really a hot day and I was nearly melted when we reached the city; and this was Feb. 10th. The baby took a chair home and the carriage was left for the coolie to bring home next day. If Miss Geraldine had realized what a picnic she had made for so many hundreds of people she would never forget her famous ride in the baby-carriage through the streets of Foochow.

The feast of lanterns is near at hand and last evening Phebe was presented with a lantern in the form of a steamship and Gould with one in the form of a horse. The steamer looks very pretty when lighted up and is a great delight to the children. Gould is afraid to face his horse on account of his wide open mouth which is a little hideous, in truth; but he carries it about with him, back toward him and is greatly attached to it. He calls it his "cow" for he has never seen a horse to get acquainted with its appearance.

The children are both well and growing rapidly. I have just shingled Gould's hair since his papa went away, and he looks like a real boy now. He talks in Chinese equal to Puddefoot himself, but is not as eloquent in English yet. Papa was never away from his darlings so long before and I suppose he will note some changes when he sees them again. We are expecting him soon now.

And now my tardy thanks to the donors of those lovely slippers they are just right and are a real comfort. Phebe never sees them without begging to be allowed to put on "those pretty red shoes" just a little while and she is occasionally allowed the privilege much to her delight. Many, many thanks for them. And to Flora for that beautiful centrepiece, so many thanks. It's just a beauty. You are so kind to send us these pretty and useful things-luxuries-and we appreciate them. I assure you, Will likes to wear his tie that Ruth sent the best of any he has. It is needless to say Phebe was quite elated with her doll and she plays with Gould's as much as he does. She is very fond of dolls. The children never tire of looking at the picture books. Phebe opens to a favorite picture and comes to me frequently with the request, "Now mama, talk about it."

Phebe often writes letters to Grandma Beard but some how they never are sent.
When Will returns he will write you all about his trip.
With much love to all,

Very Sincerely Yours,
Ellen.

Foochow, China, Feb. 19th 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter for Shelton started sometime about Feb. 1st. One Jan. 25th one arrived from Shelton. The main topic of this letter will be the trip into the country from which I have just returned.

Feb. 1st Wed. morning at 7:30 Miss Newton, Dr. Bement (Miss), Mr. Hinman and myself with three Chinese girls from Miss Newton's School started for Ing Hok. We first have a chair ride of 8 miles. Then take a boat for 20 miles to the foot of the rapids. At this place we have a chapel and often spend the night in it, and go on to Ing Hok the next day. We arrived at the foot of the rapids just at dark Feb. 1st and spent the night on the boats. We could not engage the boatmen to take us farther so on Thursday morning the two foreign ladies and three Chinese girls called chairs and Hinman and I walked, started for Ing Hok at 9:30 A.M. It was a beautiful day. The sun shone all the time. The birds, altho few- were rejoicing in the balmy atmosphere, the little blue violets peeped at us from many a cosy nook and the apricot blossoms in many an orchard filled the air with a delicate fragrance for a long distance. We had been tied closely to our work for several months and were out for recreation, and felt like colts just out of the stable from the long Winter's confinement. The distance is 12 miles. We were in no hurry and took the whole day, arriving at 5:30 P.M. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard had seen no foreigner for several months. Mrs. Goddard and Dorrance had not seen any but Mr. G. since Oct. 1st 1898. It is needless to add that they gave us a hearty welcome. We had hoped to be able to hire a boat to take us all the way to Ing Hok, and were not a little disappointed when we found it impossible. But it was just God's way of heading us off from going in the wrong path and making us take the right one. If we had taken a boat all the way we would [have] missed a delightful walk and healthful invigorating exercise. Then this was specially providential for Hinman and me. We had engaged two coolies to go with us from Foochow and stay with us for the whole journey agreeing to pay them 30 cents a day whether they worked or were idle. The two men were opium smokers and were unable to carry our loads even for the 12 miles between Gak Liang and Ing Hok. They gave out after walking about 7 miles and themselves got other men to carry their loads and returned to Foochow from Ing Hok. If we had got the boats to take us all the way to Ing Hok these two men would have simply sat in the boat and then rested three days and started with us the next Mon. morning for a tramp of 24 miles and given out after a few miles and left as in the country with no means of going on or turning back.

Arriving at Ing Hok Thursday Feb. 2nd Hinman and I stayed until the next Monday. Friday afternoon two ladies from Australia who are working in the English mission here arrived and swelled the numbers of our party to eight beside Dorrance. We had a most pleasant time during Sat. and Sunday. Hinman and I managed to get a walk of from 6 to 12 miles each day to harden up the muscles for a good tramp the next week. One of the Australian ladies was a good musician and we had some fine singing with all the rest of the good times. Mrs. Goddard put up a large quantity of jams last summer and she was afraid they would spoil. This fact, with my natural propensity to help people in trouble, materially increased my labors while at Ing Hok, and when we were started on the next journey we found our jam was still present. We did our duty bravely. Monday, Feb. 6th at 8:30 Hinman and I started for Kucheng on foot with our coolie and three burden bearers. That day we walked about 24 miles and put up in a native inn in the mountains. It was a very nasty place but it was this or nothing. At 7:20 Tues. morning we were on the road again. There was a heavy frost that night and in the morning the air in the mountains- we were about 2000 ft. above the sea- was crisp and sharp and we thoroughly enjoyed the walk. At 11:30 we were at Ming Chiang at the home of Miss Mary Peters of the M.E. Mission took dinner with her and went on about 9 miles and stopped over night at a Meth. Chapel. The next day we were at the Min river again at Ming Chiang city. Here we hired a boat for Cui Kau the part of Kucheng.

We reached Cui Kau at 9 A.M. Feb. 9th. On the night of the eighth we slept in the little boat. Eight of us in a space about 3 ½ X 16 ft. At 11:00 Feb. 9th we were off on the last stretch for Kucheng. This is a distance of 30 miles. That day we covered about 17 miles and slept in a native inn- a good one this time and reached Kucheng Feb. 10th at 12:45. The distance was not less than 130 miles. The distance on the boat was about 20 miles, so we walked fully 110 miles in 4 ½ days. The farther we walked the easier it was, on the last day of the walk we made about 15 miles. In the afternoon we played 3 sets of tennis for exercise.

At Kucheng the English and Methodists each have work. We were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. (also Dr.) Skinner of the Meth. All the people with the exception of one lady in both these missions at Kucheng have arrived in Foochow since I came. So you see we were a young set. Mr. and Mrs. Simester and Dr. Skinner were going to Foochow on Feb. 16th and asked us to remain in Kucheng and go with them, so we had a jolly party all the way down- 120 miles. We arrived at Ponasang Fri. evening Feb. 17th at 7:30 o'clock.

Ellen and the babies were well and had not had any misfortune while I was away. I had not heard from them since I left home 17 days before. Miss Frances Bement had very kindly stayed with Ellen. All the others in the compound had gone off. Gould had grown in stature and in talking perceptibly and has developed a great like for Miss Bement which is mutual. Geraldine is fatter than ever and just as good. Phebe has grown fat. Feb. 22nd congratulations to Mother and Father on birthdays and before this reaches you to Flora also. Yesterdays mail bro't a letter with draft $18. Lovingly Will.

[In an email on April 18, 2008, Stanley (Stan) Owen Forbes, grandson of Willard's brother, Stanley Drew Beard, Stan wrote: "I think Oliver (Oliver Gould Beard, Sr) is the one who used to do a "head stand" on a big flat rock in the front yard at Long Hill, every year on his birthday. He did this every year until his 90th birthday. He is also the one who shot at a deer (about 50 yards away) in the field in front of their house, and when the gun went off, it not only knocked the deer down, but also Oliver. I was very young, but still remember him doing the head stands on the rock". Winn Valentine (grandson of Willard's brother, Bennett Nichols Beard) verified this in a telephone conversation on October 18, 2008.]

[This letter dated March 5, 1899 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. An added note at the end of the letter was written by Willard's mother, Nancie M.N. Beard prior to forwarding it on to one of her other sisters. The Seminary in Foochow has opened again. Willard is glad for new missionaries for he had written Dr. Smith of the Board and almost threatened to quit if they did not send more help. In July or August of 1899 Nancie M.N. Beard writes about her father's death, Nathan Bennett Nichols. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter No. 2 started Feb. 22nd. The last received was Feb. 20th. On the 25th a letter came from Putnam and also one from Miss Wooster.

Last Thurs. the Seminary opened. This is the first time that the new year begins with graduates in the field. One of the graduates has accepted a call to the Au Long Die church at a salary of $7.00 per month. $4.00 per month is the most the Mission has ever helped a young preacher. The Men's Missionary Society offered another $7.00 per month, but he declines fearing he could not do as much walking as would be required. He is teaching in the Seminary. The highest that I can give him will be $5.00. I am sorry for the Missionary Society, but their loss is my gain. The boy's spirit is needed in the Seminary. He will be a great help in many other ways beside the class-room work. The new class brings eight men. The class which graduated contained nine. The building however is more crowded than it was last year. Now all are in the building. I am very much pleased with the Seminary faculty this year with the exception of myself. I am doing very poor work, which I am afraid will have to continue till another man is sent to this station. This year I have begun to have regular faculty meetings. It is the first time that I have had a faculty that I felt I could consult with mutual benefit. The boys have only one complaint i.e. they have too much work to do. While a student at home I always noticed that it pleased a teacher to find that his scholar made this complaint.

We used to think the New England weather was a very fickle commodity, but Foochow weather goes leagues ahead of it. We read in the Encyclopedia before coming here that there were two seasons- the wet and the dry. The rain was said to commence about January and continues till June. But since last Christmas we have not had a week of rainy weather all together. This must be the exception to the rule. Every year thus far has been like no other in its weather. A year ago this Winter we had a fire every day from Dec. 1st 1897 to Apr. 1st 1898. This Winter we had burned less than half the wood and for days together had no fire in the house. This warm and pleasant weather is most opportune for those who are building at Kuliang. Other Winters the masons could not work for about three months in the coolest time. This Winter they have worked nearly every day. Trees are blossoming already and are beginning to look green with the new foliage. The rooks- a large hawk-are building their nests and now and then a day makes us think of Kuliang. By the way I went up yesterday (March 11th) and found two or three kinds of flowers in bloom, near the foot of the mountain. The pine trees are just now very beautiful with their new Spring tassels. As I climbed [climbed] the mountain and looked down on the plain from time to time, it was a very picturesque scene that lay before me; the broad flat plain divided up into what looked like little garden patches, no two of the same size or shape; some yellow, with a plant like mustard in full bloom (Oil is extracted from the seed of this plant); some dark green with wheat just beginning to head; some flooded in preparation for sowing rice; and some black, not yet ploughed.

I left this sheet on my desk this morning while I went to church. Gould wrote a little-well spread out-to grandma. The children are perfectly well these days, and as full of mischief as two children ever were. Phebe puts her head on one side and in most winning accents says, -"Papa could you let me have this?" Gould is a boy. He sees a hole in his apron and the next minute there is a rent a foot long. He has found a little patch of peas which Miss Newton is proud of. He slips out there picks and eats the green peas. Just before we sat down to dinner to-day, he got on his winter cloak and mittens. Phebe had hers on also. They were told to take them off in preparation for dinner. Phebe obeyed, but Gould would not. So we made him wait dinner till he would obey. You know something of the appetite of a vigorous growing boy of two and a half years. It was pretty tough to stand by and see the rest of us eat, but he stood it bravely refusing repeatedly to take off his coat. Several times he slyly sidled up to his chair hoping the amah would put him up but her orders were to let him alone, - it was as hard to make her obey as it to make the boy- He stood it with scarcely a whimper till we were thro and were leaving the dining room. Then he voluntarily asked to have his coat off, and ate a hearty dinner. The two amahs that were with us last year have both left and we have two green women. This morning I found one of them trying to cram Gould's feet into his combination under garment after she had put his arms in.

Five more missionaries have been promised for our mission. A man and his wife to take Mr. Hartwell's work, a young lady physician to assist Dr. Woodhull, a young lady for Kindergarten work in the city and one for teaching in the Boy's College. I have written Dr. Smith almost threatening to leave if there is no help sent for this station within a year. To remain under the present pressure means to invite a collapse. And I am not ready now to destroy myself in this way.

I often think of Aunt Hannah [Hannah E. Nichols, born about 1848, sister of Willard's mother, Nancy Maria Nichols Beard.]. She is having a lot of trouble. How hard it must be for Uncle Charles and Edith. I will write them as soon as possible. In the mean time please give them our warmest sympathy and tell them we hope they may be well 'ere long. Remember us to Grandfather and Grandmother and Aunt Louise. Remind Aunt Louise that she has not written in a long time.

I will put a few things that we would like to have you send for the June shipment from Boston if convenient. We are trying Smith's Cash Store in San Francisco and like its goods and prices very much this far. The great advantage is in the nearness to us.

Most Lovingly Will.

My Dear Sister:

I hope you will pardon my keeping these letters so long, but I have been so busy. I did not feel like writing when I had a few moments. Last Thursday we laid Father's remains away [Nathan Bennett Nichols, born August 12, 1810, died May 30, 1899 of old age and cerebral apoplexy according to the death certificate]. He was sick about a week. We thought he would get up again until Sunday before he passed away Tuesday morning. Louise telephoned to us about 5 in the morning we got there about nine he was unconscious and breathed his last breath about 11:30. Mother is about as she has been through the winter. Our pastor Mr. Park has resigned but preaches for us next Sunday, after which I do not know what will be done.

It is getting so dark I am troubled to see.

Remember me to all of the family.

Affectionately yours.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter came March 23rd. One also March 17th. The one which arrived the 23rd brought the receipt for life insurance. My last No. 3 started March 13th.

We are very much pained to hear the news about Aunt Hannah's illness. You will take to them our deepest sympathy in this hour of sore trial.

The last mail brought a nice long letter from Phebe and one from James. I am sorry Phebe finds her work so hard. I am afraid it is harder than learning the Chinese language would be. James is contented and happy at Amherst. He is doing good work as his standing in class shows, and he has taken his place at the outset as a Christian man. The beginning is well made. He does not speak of Physical exercise. If he finds time and takes time for this he is all right for these years. He does not need to bother his brain over much about what he is to be- as to profession, - just keep the pace he has already set himself in his books and in his college life. When the senior year begins he can begin to think in earnest about life work- unless before that time circumstances shall point decidedly to his future vocation. Lucy sent a good long letter in the last mail also. It was specially newsy. You must remember us very warmly to her and to Uncle Will and Hattie [William Thomas Beard, brother of Oliver Gould Beard, and William's daughters, Harriet Shelton Beard and Lucy Maria Beard].

The exceptional weather continues. Very little rain has fallen yet. The Misses Bement who at first came to Miss Newton's and boarded with her, are now keeping house in the rooms in the other end of our house- where we first lived. They are very much interested in the children, and have been trying for some time to get Ellen to allow them to care for the children while she went to church. This morning she yielded and they had a fine time. The children also had a good time. Ellen and I went to church together for the first time in a long, long time. We went to Au Ciu and I sat in the audience for the first time in a long, long time.

I went to Kuliang yesterday, - had a very pleasant time. I got half way to the foot of the mountain, and overtook Rev. L.I. Lloyd of the Ch. Miss'y Society who was also going up the mountain. When I go alone the 2000 ft. climb is a long one but with a pleasant companion one reaches the top before he knows it. Just as we arrived at the houses the rain began to fall. There was never a more beautiful morning than yesterday when we started from home, but the weather was "rushing" April. I had on a pair of white canvass shoes that I had worn all last Summer, so when I reached the foot of the mountain again my feet were damp, but a good hot bath after getting home put them all right. We are having a good roof put on the mountain cottage. The typhoon wall cost $100. The roof and other repairs will cost about $60. silver. Then we will have a good strong cottage. Ellen wants to go to Sharp Peak for the month of June. She will enjoy the bathing and she wants to see how much of the duck nature there is in her little brood. When they are on the mountain I can look up and see where they are and can get to them in 4 hours if necessary. At Sharp Peak they will be a day's journey away, but they will enjoy a month there and it will be a change from the mountain.

The work in all branches starts out very encouragingly for the new year. I have already referred to the work in the Seminary, with the full corps of teachers. We have added two day schools to the number of last year with a few dollars less appropriation. I have placed one of the Seminary graduates at Upper Bridge where the Huntington ladies are supplying the funds, and have arranged for the fitting up of a nice chapel there. The whole expense will be about thus, - day school 20, preacher, 60, rent 23, repairs 40, making a total of $143. silver or $71 gold. I do not know whether the ladies will furnish the whole of this or not. But the outlook is such as, in my opinion, to warrant this expenditure. If the money does not come from home we shall have to find it here. It is not certain yet whether we are to repair the house in which we were last year, or rent the house in which the Catholics were last year and which they are about to give up because of the bad name they have gotten in the place. As soon as this is decided and the work begins in earnest I will write Miss Wooster. The money she sent last year will be applied at this place instead of for the Theological student as I said last year. If you see Miss Wooster you might tell her these two items. This chapel represents the only pioneer work in my care. All the other work is either wholly or partly self-supporting and every other chapel is directly under the care of some church with an ordained pastor or experienced preacher, and has several church members who are interested in the work. At Upper Bridge one man united with the church- coming down to Geu Cio Dong at the last communion. There are one or two others interested in the truth so as to come regularly for instruction. Then there are something over ten who show some interest.

The churches have all started the year assuming as a matter of course that self-support is to be the rule. I have not yet had my yearly conference with the preachers and pastors, but I expect them all to prefer the self-support plan rather than the mission-help plan. I think I wrote of the increase in contributions at the Song Tung Gio church a few weeks ago. At Ha Puo the increase was also wonderful. The largest contribution last year was $15. This year the largest was $22. The next $20 and many $7 or $8. My hope is that by giving the Upper Bridge a good start we may have there in a few years a self-supporting church. As yet I have not asked the churches to do any more than they did last year- i.e. meet all their expenses except rent. Such a tremendous burden was taken up and carried by them last year, that I want to be sure there is to be no reaction this year, before I press them to take up additional financial burdens. Then the price of living has increased frightfully since one year ago. Rice the food of the people has advanced about 2.5 in price. Wood is the same. These two commodities comprise 4/5 of a Chinaman's living, and the advance in price of these two makes an increase in pay necessary, so in reality the churches must make some advance in their contributions.

According to my best calculations at the present time, I must in order to keep up the work here give from my salary about $260 in gold. This does not count the work at the Upper Bridge which would make the shortage in appropriations for the work of the year, about $330. gold. Of this sum God has already sent $53.00. He took care of us last year and He will do it again this year.

The children continue perfectly well. When I reached home yesterday from Kuliang I found Phebe and Gould on the back veranda washing clothes. Mama had pinned a towel about their waists and given them a tub and water, and those children were soaked from head to toe. But they had their baths immediately and were all right.

Ellen got some more photos of the children the other day. I send all to you and ask you to distribute.

Love to all
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

March 26th letter No. 4 was started toward Shelton. The last one received has been acknowledged i.e. Mar. 23rd.

The past week we have been living on the water. I was afraid that if I remained steadily at the work I could not stand it till the Summer vacation. So we planned an excursion for the whole family. We ate supper last Monday evening and then all started for a house-boat that had been previously engaged. The boat is furnished with lamp, beds i.e. couches, table chairs, and mirror. We took bedding, dishes and food. After going on board we went right to bed and after a good nights rest found ourselves in the river near Mr. Hubbard's house at Pagoda Anchorage. The motive power is sail and six oarsmen. We spent about one and one half hours with Mrs. Hubbard then started up the Ing Hok river. Nine o'clock that evening found us near the first rapids on the river- about 18 miles below Mr. Goddard's home. We had another good night's sleep and in the morning took the children out on a gravel beach and let them throw stones into the water for a time, then dropped down the river to a point opposite a waterfall. We took Phebe and Gould and started with the head boat-man to see the waterfall. It was a walk of about 2 miles, - fairly level. The water falls thro an opening not over 4 ft. wide. In the top of the fall the water was not over 6 in. deep. The water falls without obstruction fully 100 ft. when it strikes the lower level it is practically spray. Gould called it rain. As you follow the brook up to the falls it is not over 50 ft. wide, with banks over 100 ft. high on three sides, so the water falls into a deep basin. At the foot of the falls is a pool of water perhaps 30 ft. in diameter. When we reached this place and sat down on the rocks opposite the falls Gould was perfectly silent but looking. Phebe said "I don't like this." There is the most beautiful scenery here in the Fukien province if one can only find it. The Chinese think nothing of it, and wonder that foreigners put themselves out of the way so much to get to these places. Phebe and Gould walked the four miles, with a lunch at the falls, without minding it at all. Back on the boat again we went down the river a few miles and stopped to go ashore again to see some hot springs. Ellen and Phebe went to see them. Gould, Geraldine and I did not go. Hot Springs are quite numerous in this region. I know of 4 different places within less than 100 miles of Foochow. The Chinese use them almost constantly for bathing. That night we got down to the island opposite Foochow- about 8 miles from home. We waited next morning (Thurs.) for a fresh supply of milk, which we had ordered brought to this place then sailed up the river about 20 miles and anchored for the night. Fri. we dropped down the river to Foochow stopping on the way at Upper Bridge to visit the work there, arriving at Ponasang about 3 P.M. The trip was a delightful one. We went for rest primarily and we got it. Not a bit of business relating to any of the work for four whole days! We did not however lack for employment. The children had to be amused and we had the reports of our work for last year to write. Ellen does not allow me to copy the minutes of the business meetings of the mission into the record book because she is so ashamed of my writing. She had the minutes of several meetings to copy, we accomplished nearly all of this work on the boat. The children enjoyed the trip immensely. It was the best place to sleep we have found since leaving Kuliang last year. The boats crew were all that we could wish. The sailing was superb. Tues. we sailed at least 40 miles after 11:30 A.M. Coming down river we had to tack; an exercise which Phebe decidedly did not enjoy and Ellen preferred to do by daylight. Phebe was so afraid Wed. evening that we closed all the windows and shutters and she went to sleep and then did not know fear.

Just before leaving I had gotten deeds for a piece of land on a hill five minutes walk from Ponasang. I put them into the Consul's hands to be sent to the Chinese Official for his stamp. The land is an old burial ground. It is hard to get this kind of property. But we were going to try for this piece. On Wed. the people got pretty excited and the pastor of Geu Cio Dong who is helping us get the land came to tell Miss Newton- who was the only foreigner at tibly[?] in the compound that day,-that trouble was brewing. She went to the Consul, they were just returning home as the magistrate sent for the man who was selling the land and all the middle men to appear before him. The Consul said he would go with them and see that no harm befell any of them. They were at the officer's yamen from 12 till 4 o'clock and had a lively time I judge. The magistrate has not yet decided whether he will let us have the land or not. We are waiting anxiously.

I have just made out the statistics for the station for last year. The number of admissions I have already written 251. The amount contributed by the people for all objects was $2065.31. When the work of the station came under my care just four years ago the total amount of the native contribution was less than $100. It was only a few days ago that I was thinking about the outlook for the year, and I was quite certain in my own mind that the native contribution for 1899 would be less than for 1898, because there had been so much building and repairing in 1898. But yesterday one of the preachers called on me to say that a part of the Au Ciu church had already paid the bargain money on a piece of land to cost over $100, and that they were to create a building on it for a church. The whole to cost about $400. They were not even to ask a private subscription from a single foreigner. To day I attended service at a chapel opened by the Ha Puo Ga church last May. The chapel is rented. The owner is in a light place financially and must sell to get money. The people cannot bear to think of giving up the chapel so they propose to buy at a cost of a little over $200, so giving for building has not stopped yet.

Mr. Ding is not at all well. He will probably have to take a vacation of at least a week beginning this week some time.

I shall look for the account of the 175th anniversary in the next mail. I wonder if the extreme cold, blizzards, mud, etc. allowed you to have a good time. I shall look too with a little interest to see if anybody prayed for a new Seminary building for Foochow.

We have been eating strawberries for over a week. Cucumbers came on this noon for the first time. Silk worms have been eating for two weeks.

Phebe and Gould are perfectly well. Geraldine is trying to cut two lower front teeth. She is having a hard time of it. It tells on her surplus fat, and gets the better of her good nature occasionally. On the house boat Gould got the bottle of peppermint and drank a good dose. He looked anything but happy, but there was no crying, - much mouth wiping but no complaining. In the afternoon he tried a dose of camphor and sweet oil, but no complaining. It was hard for him to see the same fun in these escapades that his parents did.

I do not know how to write about Aunt Hannah. Remember us very tenderly to them.

Most Lovingly Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Yesterday mail brought a letter from you. The mail a few days ago brought one from Etta. The last letter started from here Apr. 10th.

The news of Aunt Hannah's return home was not unexpected after your letter a few weeks ago. Another from the circle of friends to whom we bade farewell four and a half years ago has gone on before to await us. How little of prophecy is possible for us in this life. When we left home these two dear ones in Nichols we fully expected to see again in a few years, others we said good by to as we thought for the last time. God's doings are different from our forecasts. Each one of the friends at home stands out very distinctly from this distance. I think the distance only serves to render the individuality of each the more marked. Every vacancy is the more clear. You know as one stands near a long line of trees and looks up and down the individuality of each tree is less distinct than when one stands off and views them from a distance. The vacancies are also more distinct when one looks from a distance. This makes the third vacant place among my immediate relatives and there is one among Ellen's. But it is very precious to think that they are all waiting for us in a better land. A week ago today I held a communion service at Sang Bo. The day before the church had services fitting for Easter. I was present but was called away before I had spoken, so on Sunday I preached on the Resurrection. Among the Chinese there is a terrible fear of death. Steeped in centuries of superstition, even the most enlightened of the Christians find it hard to thoroughly believe and trust in the "abundant entrance" into eternal life. (This is equally true of many of Christ's followers in Christian lands). So I spoke specially of death as an unfolding of the present life into the perfect life. It seemed to me when we fully understood it, death would be a source of joy, - the temporary parting causes tears of sorrow, but underneath there is the assurance deep seated and abiding, that the dear one is infinitely better off and that in a short time there will be a joyous meeting that will be everlasting. When we left for China the tears shed were not those of sorrow. All the tears were shed by those who wished us to go.

The account of the 175th Anniversary came yesterday. I wish Mr. Kenniston were rich. The Seminary building would be assured then. The piece of land on the hill opposite us cannot be bought at present. The young men of the Seminary are praying very earnestly for a new building and that God will help us to buy land in order to put the building up. They are also uniting with the Christians here in praying that God will in some way give us a large church at Geu Cio Dong. It was too bad that the numbers present at the exercises were so small. The kind words sent by so many from far and near were so many proofs of warm sympathy. I was specially interested in the letters from my own former pastors Rev's Higgins and Seymour.

When you see Oliver please remind him that he owes me a letter. Give our love to him, Grace, Annie and Olive. What has become of Ard Blakeman? Has he every married? Are you doing all your work with horses this year? What are you doing with the Inkley farm and the Wooster land? The whole of the home farm will be a garden with immense strips of stones or rows of stones and rocks dividing it into patches when we come home. Have you got to the Spring lot yet? How are "Kloffer" (strawberries per M.G.B. [Myron Gould Beard]) this year? We have been eating them for some time. They are at their best now. If Gould were at home he would pick them for you. He puts them in his mouth about as fast as one can count. He has changed his pronunciation during the last few days. They are now "Klofferies". I have to depend on Ellen for the spelling. She is an adept at it. Ellen has about 500+ silk worms again this year. When they first hatched out she was mourning for fear there were not enough. But it does not take many of the little things 1/16 of an inch long and not as large as a pin to make 500. When they get to be 2 in. long and as large as a lead pencil a very few make 500!!! when you have to feed them. Yesterday's steamer from Shanghai brought us a shipment from San Francisco. We have among other things a set of dishes. - (We have kept house for 4 years with only one set that cost a little over $11.00 gold. How is that? This with Chinese servants. They are not by any means used up. But proud people want whole, un-nicked dishes for company.) We have also an oil stove, which we intend to use chiefly for baking. Quite an interesting fact has come to light in reckoning the freight on this shipment. It is the third time goods have come to me from S.F. The first time they came billed to Shanghai and were reshipped there by Mr. Edward Evans whose business is in this line. The second time the goods came direct to Foochow. This time they came care of Mr. Evans. After adding his commission for reshipment, storage and cartage in Shanghai the freight is about $2.00 less than it would have been if shipped direct to Foochow. We are waiting most impatiently for the Boston shipment. Neither of the children have any shoes. Phebe has had to stay at home for nearly two months for want of respectable shoes. She is now wearing rubber overshoes as shoes. (Gould has been putting some of his Chinese on this sheet). Phebe just before retiring wrote a letter and put it into an envelope and sealed it. She would use envelopes most as fast as I if we did not restrain her. All the children are well and growing like weeds. Gould is growing very fast. At the present rate of growth, he will be taller and heavier than Phebe in another year. Geraldine has decided that it will not be best to use all her energies in making fat, so she is now developing muscle and stretching out. She is - to us a very interesting child.

Ming Uong has not been able to attend to his duties for two weeks. I do not know what to make of him- nor does Dr. Kinneer. If he knows Dr. will not tell what is the trouble. Ming Uong is now sending in with Miss Chittenden's goods a small box of curios of something to Dr. Richardson. He has been watching for an opportunity to send this ever since he returned from America. This is the first time he could do so. Please tell Dr. Richardson Ming Uong has worried for fear he would think the articles had been forgotten. I trust the Doctor will pardon the delay.

The Misses Bement staid at home with the children and Ellen and I attended the Communion at Au long Die together this morning. One man was received.

Rev. Chas. Inwood delegate from the Keswick Convention arrived in Foochow Sat. Apr. 15th and spoke to foreigners that evening and each successive evening till Apr. 19th. In the morning of Sun., Mon., Tues. and Wed. he spoke in the Meth. church to Chinese and in the afternoon Mon., Tues. and Wed. to Chinese in the Geu Cio Dong church. I have never in Foochow seen better and more attentive audiences. The Chinese audiences increase each day. The last evening for foreigners nearly every person who could attend came. His themes were Sin – Sanctification. The Holy Spirit- I think some of the Chinese Christians now have better realization of the awfulness of sin than they every had before.

I am working on a report of the progress of self-support in this station and a brief report of the work in the Seminary and Day Schools for last year. I hope it may be printed and ready to send out by July 1st. I shall print 500 copies. It will cost me about $75.00 mexicans. But it will pay.

Ellen and I are well. The house boat trip did wonders for us.

Love to all

Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter to you was written April 22nd. The last received arrived on the same date. One came from Putnam with the same mail. I wrote Uncle Charlie [Charles, husband of Hannah Nichols] a week ago. How lonely he and Edith [daughter of Hannah and Charles] will be! How wonderful are the providences of God! But they are all right.

I conducted a communion service at Sang Tung Gio and received five men this morning. At Au Ciu last Sunday none were received. The church there is just now in a very bad way. There is an old man who was the moving spirit in organizing the church there and in renting and repairing the church building. He has been "boss" ever since till last year. The church was self-supporting last year and toward the end of the year the old man was afraid the preacher, who is a young man, was receiving too much salary. He succeeded in making the paid subscriptions less than the preacher's salary should have been by about $9.00. When the people came to subscribe this year, he told the members they must give only 10 cents per month a piece. One man subscribed $5.00 for the year. The old man reproved him. This action of the old man produced a division among the church members which however was not very serious. But about a month ago, one of the other side wanted to rent an empty room in the chapel to live in for a short time. He asked me about it and I said if the church members were willing I had no objection. Most of the church members were asked and were willing. The matter was spoken of twice after service on Sunday. But this old man was not at church on those days. He heard of the proposed renting just as the other man was about to move. He ordered him not to move but under the circumstances the renter had a perfect right to move and as it happened he was obliged to move that day because the house he lived in was sold on that day. Well the old man made a big fuss and we finally compromised by allowing the young man to live in the church for three months until he could find a house. This matter was the means of drawing the division lines in the church. The other party could not stand the old man's domination and at once planned to purchase property and build a new church for themselves. While I was off on the house-boat those four days property was bargained for, and now a new chapel is nearly ready to be opened. The preacher was, by common consent of the old man, his followers and all the pastors and preachers of the station, to remain at the old church, but last week I received a communication from the old man and his followers that they did not want him. So now he will go to the new place, and the old church will have no preacher. Well, Christ's church in the world is a very imperfect church. Every paper from home has the account of some church not at peace. The last mail brought the news of a church in N.Y. with closed doors and locked, and the pastor standing on the church steps and preaching to the part of the congregation which sided with him. The other party had locked him out. Among Christ's chosen twelve one was the son of Perdition. But out of the whole church in the world God chooses enough that is good, to save the world. I am very much grieved that this early in the history of this Foochow church there has come this, -what now looks like calamity-But God knows how to use it for a blessing. It certainly has opened the eyes of the other churches here to this danger, and they will be more careful. It also emphasizes the evil of a one-man power church.

Ellen and I went over to see Ming Uong to day. He has been in bed for two weeks or more. He is looking much better now than a week ago. But he is still far from well.

Last Monday afternoon I went to Kuliang and stayed till Wed. afternoon. It is well nigh impossible to do any writing here. I wanted to finish the report that we are about to publish so took two days up there to work on it. The weather was superb. Just about like May days at home. Misquitoes had not hatched out up there, and there was nothing to detract from making the stay in every way enjoyable. Kuliang is a very busy place just now. Twelve new buildings are being rushed to allow the owners to live in them by the first of July. This work is of course all done by Chinese, so I saw no foreigner while I was there.

Ellen and the babies are all well. They are now planning to get away from Foochow about May 28th - perhaps first go to Sharp Peak for three weeks, then come back and go to the mountain for the Summer. Gould's affection for Miss Bement continues. This afternoon he had a nap and on waking his first question was, "Where's Mi' Bement?" Her sister the Dr. is at the Anchorage for a few days, and Miss Bement is taking her meals with us. The Boston shipment is in Foochow but not yet at our house- it will come tomorrow-Phebe is talking about "lots of big dolls." One box is reported "lost." Ellen is in a query- is it the one in which the children's shoes are? If so they will have to wear English shoes for six months. Geraldine is creeping backward a little. She is a most interesting little chick. She sees me the moment I come into the gate from a distance of 50 or 60 rods, and springs and shouts. If I go by her without taking her there is a vigorous protest. How is Annie? and how is Olive? We have heard very little recently from these little folks and their papa and mama. Phebe has written a letter to "Grandpa" this evening. I persuaded her to allow me to enclose in my envelope- for the sake of saving one envelope- but she is asleep and I do not know where the letter is.

Mon. P.M. We are having a good rain today. The first time we have thought of the "rainy season" this year. We have not had a flood yet. The Boston boxes are in the bottom of the cargo boat with a whole lot of Chinese stuff on top of them. We must wait till Wed. to get them.

Most Lovingly Yours
Will.

Foochow, China, May 21st 1899.

My Dear Mother:-

The last letter from home arrived May 11th. My last started for Shelton May 8th No. 7.

This morning I went again over to the church of which I wrote last time where the division is. There were only a few at the service but we had a good time. I spoke especially of overcoming one's enemies by love. I chanced just this morning to read of a Chinese Emperor who when he was told of a rebellion in one of his provinces promised to lead his soldiers himself against the rebels and destroy his enemies. He captured the enemy and then forgave them and let them go free. The soldiers complained that he had not fulfilled his promise to destroy his enemies. He asked where his enemies were, stating that those who were formerly enemies had thro his treatment become friends. In a quarrel among the Chinese the worst fear is lest the other side shall get the best of you. This so outweighs all other considerations that even among Christians it is difficult to get men to be reasonable.

Fri. the Triennial Convention of the National Y.M.C.A. of China convened at Shanghai. How I should have enjoyed being there. Beside attending the sessions of the convention, I should have enjoyed exceedingly meeting the young men- Lyon-Lewis Brockman, Gailey who are the secretaries in China and also the many missionaries from other parts of China. Some from our North China Mission were to be there.

I took dinner yesterday with the Dings. Ming Uong was not able to eat with us. But he came out after dinner and talked a little while. Poor fellow! It is hard for him to be unable to attend his work.

The rain has come at last. Every day for a week has been rainy. No flood as yet altho the river is pretty high.

By the time this reaches you those in school and college and those who have been teaching will be home or coming home. During the year I have had a good letter from James, two or three from Phebe, but Flora I can not think of clearly. She has been somewhere down toward Washington D.C. teaching in some kind of a school. Flora you must write a good long letter at the beginning of vacation and give an account of yourself and your work during the year. I want specially to hear of your visit at Mr. and Mrs. Seymour's. I expect that I shall be much interested in Washington D.C. because some of the churches there have taken it upon themselves to raise the money for any support. I wonder if James will try to attend the summer school at Northfield for students conducted by Mr. Moody. If I were to have the privilege of taking my college course over again I would make a great sacrifice in order to attend at least one of the summer schools. The one other regret that I have is that I did not learn to play on some musical instrument that I could easily carry from place to place. Whatever vocation James may decide upon, the influences that he will meet at Northfield in the two weeks of association with Christian young men from all the world, and with men whose reputation is world wide for influencing young men to take the right course in life and to make the most of life, will be of greater value to him in solving life's problems than a term at college. I shall look for another good long letter from James at the close of the first year in college. Phebe's letters are very interesting. I am very happy that she so thoroughly enjoys the work. Oliver has not written in a long time. I am glad to get a glimpse of his home and of him occasionally in your letters. You would enjoy watching your China grandchildren just now. Gould is sitting in a swing with Geraldine in his lap and Phebe is pushing them. The swing is a novel one that I never see in America. It affords the children endless amusement- they cannot fall out and it can be put up in the house or on the veranda. It is made with a board about 1 ft. wide and 1 1/2 ft. long, a hole in each corner, there are four hollow posts. We use bamboos,- these are about 8 in. long. On top of these are four pieces of wood to form a fence like the ropes pass thro holes in the ends of these sticks, which are made of boards sawed into strips 2 in. wide, then thro the hollow bamboos. Then thro the holes in the boards and are fastened with knots on the under side. The bamboos and the strips are all loose so the whole affair is flexible, safe and inexpensive.

I had the pleasure this week of examining a self-supporting day school. The scholars did better than in many of the schools that received mission help because the preacher and ch. members all took an interest in the advancement of the scholars. The questions answered by some of these boys on the first four chapters of Mark and Matthew would have puzzled many boys of the same age (13 or 14 years) in America.

In the last shipment from San Francisco we had an oil stove with baker come. You do not know how much we enjoy it. It is a little thing that stands in the dining room as an ornament rather than otherwise. All the baking for the family is done with it. We use it for little else except in emergencies. It does the baking so much better than the native baker that we enjoy eating. The expense is about the same as charcoal, the satisfaction twice as much.

Yesterday Ellen took off the children's shoes and stockings and put on some old clothes and sent them out into the rain. What a time they had! Then they came in were bathed and properly clothed. In the afternoon she left them with Geraldine in the care of our amah for a few minutes. She looked out of door from another room at the sound of voices from the walk below, and there were Phebe and Gould with bare feet but with clean dresses and aprons on out in the rain slashing in the puddles standing under the eaves and having a fine time.

I have been thinking of my blessings this afternoon, and among others these stand out very prominently,- a good loving wife, three bright, active, healthy children, Christian parents whose prayers and counsels have followed me even to the other side of the world and four brothers and five sisters to pray for and all of whom are praying for me. Over all that the knowledge of God's Love, a desire to abide in that love. Then comes the feeling that God is using me. It seems to me that one can have no higher ambition than to wish to be useful to God. This is my daily prayer for you all as well as for myself.

Your Loving Son

Willard

Foochow, China, June 4th 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started for Shelton May 21st No. 8. The last received was on May 11th already acknowledged. We looked for a letter in the mail last week but none came either from Shelton or Putnam. One came from Dr. Judson Smith in answer to the letter which I wrote, and which was reinforced by vote of the mission, for another man to help in the work of which I have charge in this station. Dr. Smith writes,—"The case seemed plain and urgent, and the Secretaries are authorized to seek for a suitable man to aid you in this work, in the hope that when he is found the means will be available to send him to the field. This means of course that the question of finances will have to be considered after the man is found. If we are fortunate enough to find a man who will bring his own support, that will help the matter. If we can find a man whose friends are willing to add to their regular gifts to the Board enough to send him out this also will help the case. But if no such resources are at hand, so far as I can see we should be obliged to wait until the general resources of the Board are increased."

There is hope in this. The Board at least will not hinder a man from coming if he can find his own budget. The way, I feel, is now open for God to work and I can trust Him to do as he sees best. If He wants another man in this place he will point him out and introduce the Secretaries to him, and the means will be found to enable him to come. I know that you will all pray often that this man may be found.

Last Wednesday I took to the Press the manuscript for the Report of the work of the station during the time we have been here- specially the work in the line of self-support. It will make a good sized pamphlet of thirty or more pages. I trust it will do some good to the cause of missions.

To-day the water has steadily risen over the rice fields until it is about 8 feet deep on an average. The roads are all covered and people have been moving about in boats all day. To look out on the plain it seems as if we were surrounded by the ocean. One of our amah's lives only five minutes walk from our house. She wanted to go home this afternoon. After a short time she returned. The boatmen wanted 40 cents for ferrying her over to her home. Ordinarily a boat for three times the distance would cost 1 cent. This is one of the terrible effects of heathendom- the people are on the watch for and ready to take the utmost advantage of a fellow citizen in distress. It is to be hoped most earnestly that the water will subside speedily for the price of rice will jump to the sky if this flood continues. Rice is now double the price of two years ago. And this depth of water will smother the young plants in a few days. A day or two does not materially injure them. We are for the present practically prisoners on an island.

It was just three weeks ago that it began to rain, and there has not been a pleasant day since. The Bement sisters and Mrs. Hinman have been eagerly watching for a pleasant day to move to Kuliang. We have been trying to persuade them to stay here till the rain ceased for it is so damp and cold and cheerless on the mountain in the rain. They waited till yesterday. The Bement sisters started about 9 A.M. It rained more or less all the morning and in the afternoon the gates of heaven seemed to open and the torrents fell steadily. This continued far into the night. I am much afraid the mountaineers slept in damp beds. But the sun has shone most of the time today and it bids fair to be pleasant now.

Ellen gave up the Sharp Peak trip yesterday. The rain has kept her from putting away all the woollen garments and articles and leaving the house in good condition for the Summer until it is too late. She would have to leave the Sanitarium about June 25th for those who are to Summer there, and this would make her stay only a little more than two weeks. And as the cost of the trip and the inconveniences were so great she thought it would not pay. If the clear sky continues she and the babies will be on Kuliang before next Sunday. The excessive heat has held off later than in any other year since we have been in China.

Mr. Ding continues to improve slowly. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard and Dorrance came down from Ing Hok Friday and went into the city to stop with Dr. and Miss Woodhull a day or so until Dr. G. goes to Kuliang. Dwight will return to Ing Hok to oversee the completion of the Woodin Memorial Church before coming down for the Summer. Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear and family are waiting for suitable weather to go to Sharp Peak where they have a cottage.

For the first time this year I believe I did not go to church to day. I could get to only one church i.e. Geu Cio Dong. They did not need me there. There are other foreigners who attend regularly at this church. So I played nurse and Ellen went. It is most as rare an occurrence for her to go as for me to remain at home.

The Birthday Calendar is a continual daily source of pleasure to us. On May 16 we read a message from Lulu Baird Holmes. Who is she?

Where did Mr. Park go? Who is to take his place? I am afraid I shall miss his letters. He was faithful in writing frequently.

Give our kindest regards to him and all friends when you see them

Love to all from all.

Will

Foochow, China, June, 25th. 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter from here started June, 4th. No. 9. June, 19th one came from Shelton and one from Flora. I see that one came from Shelton on the 9th of June also and one from Phebe on the same date.

A longer time has elapsed than I intended since the letter started, but as always there were other things to take our time and strength. Two weeks ago Ellen was taken with an attack of Dysentery. It was fortunately a light attack but it kept her in bed a week. This tied me pretty closely to the house and to the duties of nurse and baby feeding. Geraldine stood the change to Mellin's food well, but she looked as sober over it as a deaconess. And the one natural meal a day that she was allowed made of her the happiest baby alive. She would sit up and laugh and crow at me after nursing as much as to say "You don't know a little bit about feeding babies". Ellen and the children had planned to go to the mountain that week (the Sharp Peak trip having been given up) but this illness made that out of the question. We feared for the heat on the children, but the Lord very mercifully took care of that and kept the weather cool all the time Ellen was in bed. A week ago today the hot weather began and it has been quite comfortably warm since – 90 degrees. But a breeze every day has kept the children from suffering and we have been surprised to see how happy they have kept. Tues. and Wed. the prickly heat was pretty thick on Gould and Geraldine but Phebe seemed to experience almost no discomfort. Ellen got up with no drawbacks and Thurs. afternoon at four o'clock we started for Kuliang. We had sent all our things up before so there was no big caravan and the journey was a pleasure trip. The coolies at Ponasang are reaping a rich harvest and thus enables the coolies to get all the work carrying men that they can do at their own prices. So we had mountain men come down for us. These men are at home climbing mountains and they thought it only fun to take us up. We arrived at our cottage at eight o'clock, ate supper and went right to bed. I came down Fri. afternoon, leaving them all happy. This is the first time that Ellen has ever spent the first week of June at Ponasang.

Last week the workers of the station held their quarterly meeting, and the examination of the Seminary followed. All occupied the first four days of the week. Each day was full from 9 a.m. till 4 or 5 p.m. Fri. evening there was a meeting of the Kuliang Chapel Comm. of which I am chairman, and yesterday afternoon the dedication of a new chapel at Dung Song in this station. Today I have had communion at Au Ciu. Two more communions and I am free to go to the mountain to stay. Last Sunday at Au Long Die no one united with the church. To-day the same. At Sang Tung Gio the same and the Sun. after at Dung Song the same. This is something that I have never known in this station since I have been in Foochow. But it is a cause for rejoicing. The Congregational Association of the station decided shortly ago that a man or woman must first be known as a learner for six months before he could attend the examination for church admission. This stops the inrush for a time and I am enjoying it for two reasons. First from a selfish cause, for it lightens my own work immensely not to have from five to thirty to be examined every week. One year ago last Sunday I baptized thirty five and received to the church thirty six. It took one day and a half of hard work to examine them. The second reason for rejoicing is that the pastors and preachers and the most advance members see that it is not right to admit men to church membership before they have proved their fitness. There is a great change in the workers in this respect and it means much to the native church here.

The new church at Dung Song mentioned above is the result of the church quarrel of which I wrote sometime since. Half of the Au Ciu church went over to Dung Song and bought a double house and repaired it very nicely and already have a nice work started. The preacher went with them from Au Ciu and they seem to be trying to do the right thing. Every cash that has been expended in this new place so far as I know has come from the Chinese. They are about $20 in debt thus far with $30 of subscriptions yet to come in.

The sickness near here is most alarming to the natives. Within five minutes walk of our compound there are two or three deaths every day. It is worse right here than in other localities but bad enough everywhere. The undertakers have their hands full to do all that is required of them. I do not know the cause of it. I do know however that the street cleaning which was begun two years ago was stopped about two months ago. The rains began soon after the cleaning stopped and for five weeks we did not have one wholly pleasant day. Then as the rains ceased it was hot and muggy and the sickness began. The amount of filth that collected during the few weeks of rain when the streets were not swept was fearful and enough to furnish poison to keep off all the people.

Flora's letter was very interesting. It however did not tell as much of her work as we wanted to know. She is teaching a class in some kind of a school. But in what kind of a school, and what kind of a class, and does she have only one hour a day? I was of course interested in her visit and to hear of the interest the people both Mr. and Mrs. Seymour and the cousins Baird took in the work here. I think perhaps I have already written that some of the Y.P.S.C.E.'s of Washington are to take up our support. Your letters from home stating that Mr. Kenneston was starting a movement to raise the money for a Theological Seminary gives us hope that this building will come in time.

I was much pleased to hear that grandmother was able to ride down to church. You will of course give her our love. It is very pleasant to us to be remembered as we are by cousin Elizabeth Turney. You will tell her that we think of her often and that it is a great comfort to us to know that she remembers us and the work in which we are engaged. Give our love to all the friends. Oliver still does not write. I know he is very busy and away from home so much that when he does get a few hours with those two rollocking girls he finds little time for letter writing. Father's article in the Sentinel on roadmaking was very interesting. I was glad to see the Editorial reference to it. Tell Aunt Louise that there is a mail route now established between Huntington and Foochow. Remember us very tenderly to Uncle Charlie and Edith.

I have been kept happy today by the words in Phil. 4:7. How great our blessings are! The Book is full of the most precious promises that are worth their face value every day. We have direct access to the Throne of the Father at any time. On every side are loving friends whose sympathy and prayers are ours. If it were not for these promises, for the privilege of prayer, for the cheer of a dear wife and the company of the children and for the assurance that you are praying for us I am afraid the strain would be too great at times. But with all thee I have tried to take the best care of myself and the consequence is that I end the year in good condition. So feel no concern for me as far as health goes.

Most lovingly yours,
Will.

Foochow, China, July 9th 1899.

Dear Mother:-

The records are all at Guliang so I cannot tell when the last letters were exchanged. I think tho that I wrote you two weeks ago and as we have had but one mail since then and as that bro't no letters from Conn. you have the news of the arrival here of your last letters.

The last American mail brought very welcome news in three letters from N. York State. One was from Mrs. S.L. Baldwin. Dr. S.L. Baldwin is Recording Sec'y of the For. Mission Board of the Meth. Epis. Church. He and Mrs. Baldwin spent seventeen (I think) years in Foochow as missionaries returning about twenty years ago [not to be confused with Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Baldwin who left Foochow in 1895]. They were here two years ago again to attend the Jubilee of the Meth. mission in Foochow. While here they attended our Annual Meeting held in a heathen temple. This was too much for Mrs. Baldwin. She told us at the time that she should go home and raise the money for a proper new church building. She began her efforts in this direction last March in Dr. Meredith's church, Brooklyn. A collection was taken then which amounted to $55. But undaunted she kept on telling the story in our N.Y. and Brooklyn churches and at last was asked to attend the N.Y. State Congregational Association Meeting at Corning. Here she again told of our dire need. As she finished Dr. Meredith jumped up and – as it was the day given to the Women's For. Mission Auxiliary- asked if a man would be allowed to speak. Of course his desire was gratified. He said he had heard this story from Mrs. Baldwin twice and could not stand it. He then offered to raise $500 of the $5000 if the whole were raised. Dr. and Mrs. Lyman Abbott then pledged $100. The women then appointed committees who promised the whole sum.

This news is most gratifying to us. It is especially gratifying to me, upon whom the extra work of renting and cleaning and seating a place in wh. to hold the Annual Meeting always falls, to think of the time in the not far distant future when a place will be ready for such meetings. The same mail bro't letters from Dr. Whitney of our mission, now on furlough, who with Mrs. Whitney were present when Mrs. Baldwin spoke and from Will Ireland who was also present at Corning. Will is now in Syracuse over a church. He is married and has two children and is happy. He says that as long as there are so many young men applying to be sent to the foreign field, and being refused appointments because of the depleted treasury he feels it his duty to stay in America and let those just fresh from the Seminary go.

A week ago yesterday I came down from the mountain expecting to conduct the communion service at Au Ciu and return to the mountain on Monday. Sunday noon the cook appeared from Guliang with a letter from Ellen saying that she was not well and the Doctor thought I had better come up at once. Ellen had taken a hard cold and it had settled in her bronchial tubes and made it very difficult for her to breath. So after dinner I did half a day's absolutely necessary business in about two hours, and started for what is now "home". It was never hotter altho I did not start till 3:30 o'clock. The first twenty minutes of the walk up the mountain was fearful. But as one climbed higher the temperature got better. I found Ellen much better. She had been out to all meals but the Dr. was afraid that the care of the children would be too much for her. It was most fortunate that I went up when I did for during the first part of the night I was up with Phebe 6 or 8 times. She had a cold and Ellen had given her a little Hive Syrup. The bottle was not locked up and Miss Phebe developed into a doser. She took a liberal quantity of the syrup and this helped to cause nausea. The next day she slept rather late, but when she did rise she was all right and has been every since. Ellen gained steadily all the week-slept all night every night and ate three meals a day so that she was perfectly happy to have me come down yesterday morning to stay till tomorrow. I hope to go up tomorrow afternoon and remain till September, and I trust that both E. and I will be able to get a good rest for preparation for the work of next Fall. And oh, if that other man would only come for this station in the Fall. This and a new building for Seminary I do hope God will grant this year. You must pray with us for them.

I do not know what reports you have gotten regarding the troubles in the northern part of this province. In a word the truth is, the people in Kien Ming where the Ch. Miss'y Soc'y have a Hospital and churches got mad at the church and all its work. At last the storm broke upon the Hospital first. Dr. Rigg staid till he saw the gatekeeper killed then he escaped. Mr. and Mrs. Philips at one time reported killed escaped to the official's yamen where they were protected, taken care of to the officials best ability and sent to Foochow under an escort of soldiers. Two churches, a parsonage, and a native house in wh. a missionary lived were burnt. The Hospital and foreign house occupied by young ladies were looted. The house in wh. Dr. Riggs lived was locked and not entered. So all foreigners are safe. Three natives killed, - a leper, a blind man and a heathen. The native officials both in Foochow and in the disturbed district have done their duty. At least this is the verdict of the Consuls. Five hundred soldiers have left Foochow for Kien Ming to subdue the people who declare that Christianity must be entirely stamped out of the district.

Dr. Rigg at one time felt sure that Mr. and Mrs. Philips were dead. He so telegraphed to Foochow and the news went around the world. He also wrote the missionaries in Kucheng only 2 or 3 days journey from Kien Ming to this effect and told them the mob were coming toward Kucheng and bade them flee at once, which they did. The Consuls at once called all foreigners into port, so Kuliang will be lively this Summer. Fri. night we hear thro a native that there was a rebellion in Foochow. Ellen was a little anxious as I was planning to come down next morning. But before we went to bed a native who had just come up from Foochow that evening said he had heard nothing of the kind and we were easy about it. Last Sat. evening just at dusk a note came to Miss Newton, still at Ponasang, saying that the city was placarded with threats to kill all foreigners. Well this sounds very horrifying to you as you read it. But I do not think that either Miss Newton or I lost a wink of sleep because of it that night. Under the present conditions it is next to impossible for anything of this sort to assume very serious proportions in Foochow.

To day I conducted the last communion of the month at the last new church at Dung Song. We had a very delightful service.

How I should enjoy the next two weeks at home on the Century Farm!! The smell of new mown hay is a remembrance only. Raspberries and blackberries I have seen and tasted only in the home land.

"My peace I give with you,"

Your Loving Son

Will.

[Kuliang] Foochow, July 23rd 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter arrived almost a month ago: - June 19th already acknowledged, the last from here started two weeks ago July 9th, this one had no number.

July 10th I came to Guliang as I thought for good. But Tuesday night about midnight we were aroused and told that Mr. Plumb the senior member of the Meth. Mission here died at Sharp Peak that day- July 11th and the funeral was to be held in Foochow early July 12th. I had some doubts about our mission being represented at the funeral and so thought it my duty to go down. This meant arising at 3 A.M. and made a hard day's trip, but the weather was quite comfortable and we all came back safely. Eighteen went down, and some were compelled to remain on the mountain because they could not get coolies. Nearly every man on Guliang who could carry a chair was busy that day. Mr. Plumb's death was occasioned by the sun. The week before he went from Guliang to the Peak with Mrs. Plumb who is troubled with asthma. He was in the sun a good deal during the day getting Mrs. P. and the baggage from the boat to the Sanitarium and then came back to Foochow that night on the house-boat and attended an estimate meeting of his mission. He complained of his head all day and it was necessary to keep wet clothes on it some of the time. Still he attended to the business as usual. He had intended to return to the Peak that night, and remarked that he would rather pay $100 than go back down then. His companion tried to dissuade him from going and he did promise to wait till he felt better but later he started and was on the house boat another night, and on reaching Sharp Peak was a sick man. The end came very quickly. Every one on Guliang was taken by surprise. He was 56 yrs. old and had spent about half his life in Foochow. He had a very warm place in my heart because for the last few years he has had charge of the Theol. School of the Meth. Mission. When the Theol. Sch. of our mission was established and I put in charge, Mr. Plumb showed more sympathy with me and more interest in the work of the school than some of the members of our own mission. He has been a great help to me a number of times, and has from his experience given me light in more than one dark place.

Last Monday morning our Amah got word that her second son was dead. He died of the Bubonic plague, of which about 400 have died near our compound in Foochow, and we told her if she went to her home she must not come to us for at least two weeks. This left us with no one to do anything for the children and as the coolie was away two days we have had things quite our own way this week. If there were no work to do I should enjoy it hugely. The children are infinitely better off with their parents than with the Chinese woman. But when I realize the work in the form of letters and reports is piling up I get a little uneasy. Geraldine is just weaned. She is eleven months old day after tomorrow, - I have had to sleep with her to wean her at night. But she is a dear little darling. Sleeps all night. Wants to get up about midnight and have a drink of water and without waking goes right back to bed and sleeps on till morning. It is rather warm on Guliang this year than formerly and we have nothing over us at night. Geraldine flops around like a fish on land. I wake and find her in very strange localities on the bed. One night I found her between my knees. She was sleeping peacefully. We have all been out for a walk each afternoon. Geraldine thinks her father pretty fine if he will carry her all over the mountain. She watches Phebe and Gould and mama and shouts at them. Yesterday afternoon she made so much noise shouting that we were half ashamed of her. Ellen is getting strong with three meals a day a good walk and a good night's sleep. I believe Phebe and Gould will walk farther than Ellen and I, and when they get home and have supper they want a run before going to bed. They are both the picture of health, and a terror to goats. We have some hens here. Gould caught one the other day and his mother found him holding her by the head swinging her as a boy does his dinner pail. She told him to let the hen go. He gave her one more swing and threw her out into the yard. The hen was dazed but recovered. Both of the children attend church this year. Gould refused to go in two weeks ago today with his mother and Phebe. He said he was afraid of the "ladies and the big boys." But last Sunday I took him in to the Chinese service in the morning (in my arms and under vehement protest from him) and in the afternoon he went in with the family and behaved well. I am not on the Chapel Comm. this year but still remain treas. and Sec'y of the Board of Trustees of the Guliang chapel. We dedicate the chapel next Sunday.

[This letter dated Aug. 27, 1899 was written from Kuliang, Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. News from the U.S. tells that Willard's grandfather Nathan Bennett Nichols has died. Mr. Walker and Dr. Bliss are coming back to go to Shaowu. They have had a typhoon recently but Willard offers few details. (In 1909 Ellen will refer back to the destruction of the 1899 hurricane.) Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Dear Folks at Home:-

Letter No. 11 started from here July 23rd. I am sorry that none has started since that. Aug 1st and 12th letters arrived from you. The letter of Aug. 1st brought the news that grandfather [Nathan Bennett Nichols, father of Willard's mother] had gone on before. How different this translation seems to us from that of the others who in the prime of life or in the morn of life were called to a better home. We did not at all expect he would be there to see us when we came back and were ready for this news at any time. He had finished all he could do on earth and was waiting for the change. For the explanation of why one is left even after they become a burden to others while another is taken just as they seem to be giving promise of great usefulness to others, we must wait till we are called to where all things are made clear by the One who is the author of all things. It is best that we do not know now. We must simply accept things of this kind and strive with God's help to perform our whole duty. Your account of his illness and funeral was very brief. I shall look for more particulars. How are grandmother and Aunt Louise? They will feel lonely but care will be greatly lessened.

A week after the day on which I last wrote you we dedicated the new chapel at Guliang. The exercises were very interesting and passed off to our entire satisfaction. You will see that I was chosen to represent the A.B.C.F.M. on the program, Mr. Walsh the English Mission, Mr. Lacy, chairman of the meeting Meth., Mr. Brown (preacher) the Amoy missions, during the week that followed the dedication which has been a continual bother. I have been down to Foochow twice about it- once yesterday and must go again tomorrow. The Consul is doing good work in the case and says we must get it. He was at the Mandarin's with me yesterday. To morrow I go alone. All this- both typhoon and land purchase is harder on Ellen than on me. She was not in the best condition to endure extra strain on account of the attack of dysentery which she had in June. Since the typhoon Gould has had a fever of which he is better but has not got back to his former self. Geraldine has had a bowel trouble which makes her look not so rosy and the perfect picture of health as before.

Good news came by the last mail to the effect that a young lady for the Kindergarten had been appointed by the Board to come to Foochow. Another lady for evangelistic or Educational work is in correspondence with the Secretaries. The people who are raising the money for Geu Cio Dong are authorized to cable me "Build at Once" as soon as the money is raised. This looks like business. Mr. Walker and Dr. Bliss are coming back to go to Shaowu in Sept. Mr. Gardner cannot come this year owing to his health.

About three weeks ago I sent you 30 copies of our report "Self Support Attained". Most of them were marked with the names of those to whom we wished to give them. The copies unmarked. You may give where you think they will do the most good or be most appreciated. We have sent direct to many of the friends in Huntington so do not be surprised to be told "I have one already". On p. 35 under "Statistics", "The total cost of the work" etc "Theological Seminary" should not be included.

When you have the telephone sufficiently perfected we can have a chat with you once a week and save all this letter writing. Telephones- street cars- next will be free delivery into the country. It has been a long time since we have heard much about Oliver. I know he is in Bridgeport but just what his business is I could not tell-whether is in business for himself or doing commission business- whether or not he has a store. The papers say Travelling salesmen are thrown out of employment by the thousands thro the combination of big houses.

"God is our refuge". He has been very gracious to us this year, while others have suffered severely from the storms we are practically unharmed. Our mountain home was damaged perhaps $4.00 silver. $20.00 silver will easily repair the damages to the property in our care at Ponasang including Seminary and churches. One rented chapel was carried off by a pile of logs that came down the river, -otherwise very little damage to even rented chapels.

With Love to All
Will.

[This letter dated Sept. 10, 1899 was written by Willard to the Folks at Home. Because of the typhoon they had "typhoon company" staying with them. Since some of the C.M.S. Missionaries are not allowed back to Kien Ming Because of the hatred of foreigners. A committee has been formed on Kuliang to care for the church, securing preachers for the church and for Public Improvements. Mr. Ding is still battling an illness. American Board Mission.

Foochow, China, Sept. 10th 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter arrived Aug. 28th. One came from Putnam the same day. The last from here No. 12 started Aug. 27th.

Our vacation time is about over. I go down to open the Seminary next week. I went down last Wed. to see about the land I am trying to buy and had to stay over night, returning Thurs. afternoon. I got out the only remaining kink that the magistrate wanted before stamping the deeds. The Consul sent the communication to the magistrate asking him to keep his promise by stamping the deeds and sending back to me, whether he will do it remains to be seen.

We have had two weeks of rest since our typhoon "company" left us, and both the children and Ellen are improving. It was only last evening that Ellen was saying her dresses were getting tight. She shows it in her face also. The children are quite well or would be but for Phebe's visit to Mrs. Peets yesterday where she got too many cakes and today she is paying for it. And yesterday the amah allowed Geraldine to eat a whole banana and she was ill last night but all right today. She gets up all alone and stands alone but she does not take a step yet unless she has something to hold on to. When she stands up alone she feels as big as a boy in his first boots.

The Guliang community is getting very thin. This next week will see nearly every one at their work, or trying to get there. Quite a number of the missionaries of the C.M.S. who work in the North West in Kien Ming of the province are not allowed to go back because of the hatred and threats of the Chinese there to every thing foreign and especially to the foreigner himself. Three thousand of the leading men have pledged themselves not to allow a foreigner in the district. The treaty says foreigners may reside anywhere in the Empire. The English Consul has taken up the case in a vigorous manner but as yet he has accomplished nothing.

I got into office again last evening. Guliang has to have three committees to care for its interests now. (1) The Trustees of the church, who have in charge the care of the building and of course all finances relating to the maintainance of worship. (2) The Committee on Public Worship, who have in charge the securing of leaders and preachers etc. (3) The Committee on Public Improvements who have in charge the roads, fixing of coolie rates, mails and any thing else designed to make the few weeks spent here more restful and profitable for the missionaries. As soon as the church is built the work of the Trustees should not be burdensome. I hoped our talk was nearly over when the building was dedicated but the typhoon will necessitate the expending of $1500 or more this year on the building, - not in repairs, but in additional strengthening of the building to avoid further damage. A week ago I was put on the Comm. of Pub. Improvement from our Mission and last evening at the first meeting of the Comm. was elected Sec'y and Treas'r of the Comm. This makes only three different Bank accounts for me and only three different Secretary's Books to write up. But until the Board sends more missionaries I do not see how it is to be avoided. This work is not without compensation however. The other members of this comm. and of the Board of Trustees are older than myself. The best men of their respective missions and representatives of not only the other two missions in Foochow, but of three missions in Amoy. It is a privilege not to be lightly esteemed to be associated with such men.

Mr. Ding was quite like himself when I saw him about three weeks ago but last week he was taken again with a very bad fever and his physician wrote me that he was not allowed even to read a note from me. His illness is my hardest trial, because he is my most important man.

Among the churches in the Ponasang station this is a very trying year. Geu Cio Dong and Ha Puo Ga the two oldest churches are all right so far as I have heard. There has been more or less difficulty in all the other churches due entirely to: - first the ignorance of the church members in self-government and second to the fact the preachers in these places are young men and "old men for wisdom" every time in China. Sang Bo and Au Iong Die are doing fairly well. I think salaries will be raised but the number of admissions will be very small compared with last year. This is right and is one of the most encouraging features of the situation. It shows the people are aroused to the danger of admitting members before they are fit for membership.

The addenda are Phebe's as well as the few characters at the head of this letter. She did it while I was rocking Geraldine to sleep.

[This letter dated Sept. 12, 1899 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. Willard feels positive about the purchase of land going through for their new residence. The Woodin Memorial church of Ing Hok will be dedicated Oct. 15. Miss Bortz (future wife of Dr. Bliss) is planning on building a house near Willard and Ellen on Kuliang. Foochow, China, Sept. 24th 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The register of correspondence will just as it was in my letter of two weeks ago, except that that letter was written. All home mail has been very dear this Summer owing to its scarcity [scarcity]. We notice that vacations in the home land are not conducive to productive letter writing. We expect a dearth of letters about this time every year.

One week ago last Fri. = Sept. 15th I was down again to see about purchasing the land. The Magistrate asked me not to build the house too high and not to make new roads over the hill. So I knew that he had made up his mind to stamp the deeds and let us have the land. The matter I trust is settled altho we cannot be sure till the deeds are stamped and again in our possession. As soon as this is done we shall begin to build a residence.

The latest accounts are that Dr. Bliss, Mr. Walker and Miss Brown [Jean H.], the new Kindergarten teacher were to reach Yokohama to-day. They will be here in about ten days more.

The new Woodin Memorial Church which Mr. Goddard has just completed in Ing Hok is to [be] dedicated Oct. 15th. Ellen and I are planning to take the whole family up, starting Fri. morning the 13th and starting for home Mon. A.M. the 16th. This will take me away from the Seminary only three days. Ellen and the children continue to gain every day. No children could be healthier and happier than Gould and Geraldine. Phebe is well, but her health is not so effervescent as that of the others. Ellen is quite well, and enjoying to the full this bracing atmosphere on the mountain. The weather is perfect now, - just like Oct. 1 at home when the days and nights are clear. At Ponasang it was quite comfortable last week. I went down Tues. morning. The Sem'y opened Thurs. at 8:30 A.M. but I wanted to get down a day or two earlier so as to do some of the business relating to the churches and Women's classes and Day Schools that is always sure to come in. Tues. and Wed. were full. The Sem'y opened auspiciously with nearly all the students back. One will not return because he prefers to gamble. Mr. Ding is much better of his last illness and says he is coming back to the Sem'y in a few days, but I have made up my mind not to plan for his doing any work this term. I wish he could be around tho. His influence is worth more than can be estimated, - not to speak of his teaching.

Dwight has bought tickets to sail about Nov. 8th. They will go by Suez Canal, visiting Rome and arriving at New York about Christmas. They will spend the Winter at Mr. Goddard's home in Worcester, then go to Mrs. Goddard's home in Ohio, where Mrs. G. and Dorrance will stay while Dwight decides what to do for a living.

The shipment which started from Boston last June is here. We have not seen the invoice so do not know what there is in it for us- a letter from Putnam told us there was a box for us from there.

Miss Borts [Bortz] the young lady who came last January for the Pagoda station has rented a piece of land on Guliang near our house and is to build this Fall. I have been doing the business for her, and have promised to oversee the building of the house. The severe typhoon has worked very marked changes in the minds of many people about the situation and way to build cottages here. I have already written that out of about 60 houses here only 5 or 6 were dry during the typhoon. Two people are already tearing their houses down and moving them to more sheltered places. Nearly all are putting on better roofs, and I am surprised to see the quantity of 10 lb. brick that are going on the ridges of houses. Before there was only mud with tiles laid in it and then a very thin coat of mortar over this. Last year as we were selecting a site for the new church here several spurned the site the Trustees chose because it was too hidden and when they were reminded that we must look out for typhoons they rather laughed at us. They have stopped laughing now tho!

The children have a little goat. Just now Gould saw two big goats tied near the house and at once he started for them. After he had stood watching them some time, his old amah ran out and led one of the goats into the yard and was about to tie it. Gould would not allow any such thing but had the goat brought in on the veranda where he held the rope and led the goat about. Pretty soon Mrs. Gould saw the veranda gate and making a dash pulled the rope thro Gould's hand and away she went. Leiter did not feel worse over his lost millions than Gould did to see that goat run away. But his old woman ran and caught it and bro't it back to him. I asked him if the little goat were not better. He said "Well, that's a bit o' tiny goat, can't ride on her". He is passionately fond of animals. When we are out walking he will leave the whole company for every goat or cow he sees, - in total oblivion of human relatives. And he is satisfied only when he gets his hand on the animal. How he will enjoy the cows when he gets home to America!!

You would have been amused this afternoon. Gould was lying on the veranda floor, on his back. Geraldine was playing near him. Suddenly she crept up to him and leaned over and kissed him as sweetly as possible. He put his arms gently about her neck and they formed a beautiful sweet picture.

I must be off for Ponasang tomorrow at 5 A.M. to get there in time for Sem'y prayers at 8:30.

You must write us all about what the different ones are doing and where they are this year.

Love to all

Will.

Foochow, China, Oct. 8th 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter arrived a few days ago. We found it here Mon. afternoon when we arrived from Guliang. I wrote last Sept. 25th.

A week ago Fri. afternoon, I went to Guliang again to spend the Sabbath. The weather was glorious. Nothing could be added to make it nearer perfect. I found Ellen had put the three children into the sedan and gone for a long walk. On Saturday afternoon the Bement sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Hinman and the Beard family all went to the farthest inhabited point of Guliang three miles from our home. Ellen walked there and back with the exception of a few rods. Sunday morning we spent out on the hills and went to church with about 25 others in the afternoon. Monday morning we packed up and sent eight coolie loads down. Two more loads went with us in the afternoon. The trip down was a very pleasant one. The afternoon was not hot, and there was a nice breeze. We arrived just in time for supper. The children did not mind the change and we have all been quite well all the week. The weather has been cool and the nights so that we could sleep. So we are all doing well- unless Ellen and I should complain of too much to do. It has been - or seemed to us to be - impossible for us to get to bed until 10 o'clock and after every night. This is a little later than we can stand continuously and keep in the best working condition. But I find that every term of school i.e. twice a year, the first two or three weeks are very trying. This Fall however we are favored with an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. Goddard to attend the dedication of the Woodin Memorial Church which Mr. Goddard has just completed at Ing Hok. The dedication service will take place one week from to day. We plan now to start Friday morning arriving Sat. afternoon, spend Sunday there, starting for home Mon. morning arriving Tues. afternoon. We plan to go- the whole family. Take a house boat and go down to Pagoda and up to the foot of the rapids, then by a shallow boat to Ing Hok. Dr. Woodhull will go with us on the boat. This will make a pleasure trip and will be a rest. I hope it will also give me a chance to do a little writing that has been awaiting several weeks. The Goddard's leave Ing Hok Oct. 20th. They will be in Foochow about two weeks before taking one of the German Lloyd line of steamers by way of London for the U.S.

Mr. Walker arrived at Ponasang yesterday about noon. Dr. Bliss and the Kindergartner teacher did not come. Miss Brown will come later. Dr. Bliss' return this year is uncertain. Mr. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, Dr. and Miss Bement expect to start for Shaowu a week from Wed. Oct. 18th. Mr. Walker looks quite well- better than I have ever seen him.

The land that I have been trying to buy all Summer is at last bought. If all goes well we shall be on it in a new house one year from now. Then we want the new Seminary on a piece adjoining, which is for sale, and can be bought without trouble.

The box from you was opened last Thursday. Everything came in perfect condition. How my eyes opened and my mouth watered as I saw that dried pumpkin! Ellen thought the cloth for Gould's kilts "lovely". The Shelton people are very kind to the Foochow people in sending them cards. Those large Bible pictures from the Shelton Meth. Church are invaluable. They are the stained glass windows of the Foochow churches. My shoes, and the others are good fits. Ellen says the handkerchiefs are "very fine". I trust her judgement on these. The table cover was the best thing of all. It was just what I have been longing for a long time. It strikes Ellen's taste all right too. Johnny cake and milk is as good as ever and the corn came just in time to take the place of that that came a year ago and is not now tangible. You spent the money all right. Small gifts that are meant for us personally to be used in "getting something" I think would be most appreciated if used to buy some of the things indicated in our letters. If none of these seem to fit the bill, children's shoes and stockings, and cloth for dresses and aprons will always come handy. Gould does not outgrow shoes, nor stockings. He is just now half crazy over kites. Every hill top is covered with boys and men each afternoon flying them and nearly every day the young lad steals the march on his overseers and gets out among the Chinese. He is just now disturbing the equilibrium of the atmosphere in a large area because his old woman beat him in a sprint for the open gate for which he was making. Oh, how we long to get to America where he can have room to run and grow and pull the cows tails.

Mr. Ding seems to be getting stronger gradually. I am afraid however he can do no work this term.

Geraldine still does not walk. She goes about on her hands and feet like a baby elephant much to the amusement of all who behold. Gould is much impressed with the idea that he is a "big man". Ellen said as he was in the bath last evening he was romancing "And I saw great big pond, an' Miss Bement fall in an' she cried. I go pick her up. I am a big man". How you would enjoy hearing the children sing the blessing at table "God is great and God is good, and we thank Him for this food. By His hand must all be fed. Give us Lord our daily bread". Phebe and G. at times entirely drown Mama and Papa. And now the little bit of a girl tries to sing.

Well now that vacation is over we shall look for more letters. Grandpa Kinney sent Gould a hammer, saw and square. He ran to me with the hammer, "Papa see my hammer". I said "That's a dandy" he replied "No that is a hammer". He is not up in American slang. His mother thinks I had better call things by their proper names.

Love to All
Will.

Foochow, China, Oct. 22nd 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Oct. 2nd the last letter arrived from you already acknowledged. From here the last started for Shelton two weeks ago, Oct. 8th, No. 14.

The chief topic of interest during the last two weeks is our trip to Ing Hok. The occasion was the dedication of the Woodin Memorial Church which Mr. Goddard has just finished. The money was given by Mrs. Woodin, her children and friends. It is a beautiful church, - will accommodate about 200 persons. It is built much after the style of our Huntington church. The tower is in the same relative position and the entrance thro the tower. The floor of course is level and of red tiles not boards. Just to one side and opening off the church is the parsonage large enough for two families, - if they are not too large. There is a large well arranged and well built plant at Ing Hok now for carrying on the work. The buildings are in one row. The Missionary's residence highest up on the hill side, just below the Woman's Hospital and School. Then the parsonage then the church. Beside this there is land for a Girl's and a Boy's School.

We had a delightful trip. Started Thurs. evening Oct. 12th at 7:45. We were on the house boat by 8:00 o'clock and moving down the river. It was a beautiful moonlight evening. Gould had gone to sleep before we started and I carried him in the sedan and got on board without his waking but the new atmosphere and commotion on board were too much for him, and he was on deck soon with his mother and sisters and father watching the "big water" and the "big boats". But the little ones were all asleep at 9:00. At 11:00 P.M. we dropped anchor near Mr. Hubbard's at Pagoda Anchorage to wait for the tide until 1:00 A.M. We then started under sail most of the time and arrived at the head of houseboat navigation about noon Fri. Our companions on the boat were Dr's Woodhull of our Mission and Lyon of the Meth. Mission. They are diametrically opposed in all their ideas and habits. Dr. Woodhull must have everything just as she wants it but she is willing to grant the same privilege to others also. Dr. Lyon takes what comes and says nothing about it. But they were very enjoyable companions. They put up with the noise and bother of three small children with excellent grace. When we reached the rapids we had to change the large houseboat in which we enjoyed regular beds and a real dining table with regulation chairs, for a small flat bottomed boat. For our use in this boat we all - 7 foreigners and a Chinese woman- had a space high enough to stand in and 6 ft. wide and 10 ft. long. We took this boat at 3 P.M. Fri. That evening the Dr.'s slept on the boat. We Beard's went to one of our chapels and spent the night. The Dr's came up and ate breakfast with us Sat. A.M. and we were off again at 8:30 A.M. The wind was dead ahead and the boat load was rather heavy. I pulled the boat up the worst rapids and we arrived at Ing Hok at 6 P.M. - 12 miles in 9 ½ hours. We found all the Goddards well. Beside our party Messer's Walker, Hubbard, Peet and Dr. Kinnear went up. There were also three Chinese Pastors from Foochow and near places. The services were most interesting. The memory of Mr. Woodin is still fresh and Mr. and Mrs. Goddard seem to have won the affection of all the Ing Hok people. There were many touching references made to the work they had done for Ing Hok, and many a tear dropped as reference was made to their departure.

We left Ing Hok at 9:45 Mon. morning and arrived home about 5 Tues. afternoon. The trip would have been a perfect one if the sadness of the departure of Dwight and Mrs. Goddard could have been eliminated.

In the business meeting of the Mission held last Wed. the whole of the Ing Hok work except the medical part was put in my care. On the face of it, it would seem that this would increase my work greatly. But in the first place I am doing now as much as possible. In the next place this work is 40 miles from Foochow. I must leave the work here when I go there and the occasional trip into the country will be a change and I trust a rest. It will be the work in this station that will suffer if any thing suffers.

I have conducted communion at Au long Die and at Au Ciu today. There were no additions in either place. The preachers said there were only one or two ready to unite and I urged them to wait till next communion. They acceded willingly, which I count a good sign. At Au Ciu I saw a foreign sedan in the Chapel and was told that the Christians had bought it because last year one day I was at this chapel when a hard shower came up and I had to call a native chair to get home. This chair is for the next time I am caught in the rain at this chapel. - This is what the people say.

We had some pumpkin pie the other day that was pumpkin pie. Ellen was so fond of it I had to eat fast to get my share. When a pie comes on the table the first time with one piece gone and the man knows nothing about it, woman must stop talking about pie eating propensities of man.

I wrote you in the last letter that the land which I had been trying to purchase all Summer was now ours. The deeds have been stamped by the Chinese official, registered at the Consulate and returned to me. We are now planning for our new house. If all goes well we shall be in it a year from now.

Miss Newton is feeling the strain of the work too much and we have joined with her in asking for a furlough to begin next Feb. While she is [in] America I hope a new school building will be erected, on the site of our present house.

I have two very pleasant references to "Self Support Attained". One from Geo. Wilder in N. China and one from Arthur Smith D.D. of N. China. The "Chinese Recorder" the Missionary Journal for China spoke very nicely about it in an Editorial also. We have over 50 copies left if you can use more to profit.

Phebe told me this afternoon to tell you she was going to learn to read and write then she would write to you.

Your letters are very scarce recently. You must not forget us. We want to hear from all of you. You are getting so widely scattered that we can hardly keep track of you all unless a letter comes from each.

Most Lovingly

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

No. 15

Two weeks ago Oct 22nd the last letter started for Shelton. Oct. 30th one came from Phebe and one from Mother. Phebe is to be congratulated on obtaining a good position. I am glad that she enjoys the outlook, and trust that her highest hopes may be realized.

Dwight and Dr. were to take the steamer this morning. It is what we call a "tramp", i.e. does not stop regularly at Foochow. She plies between England and the East, stopping where she can find freight or passengers. Points like Shanghai and Hong Kong she is sure to call at. But Foochow is a small place and uncertain. Their goods went by another "Tramp" direct to New York so they will find them there perhaps as soon as they arrive themselves. You may not fully understand the "Tramp" phrase. There are regular steamers plying between here and Shanghai and between here and Hong Kong. Nearly all others that stop are after tea and are steamers that ply between Europe and the East. If there is freight enough for them to make it pay they stop. An Express is sent around to this effect about three weeks or a month before. If the freight is not enough, it must either be sent to Hong Kong or wait. This stamp of steamer is the "Tramp."

The phrase in the Foochow dialect for "look out", (I take the meaning to be "Clear the way I am coming".) would be Bai Duai. This is what the boatman calls out if a boat is in his path ahead of him. The Chinese characters are Bai Duai. Pronounce Duai in this way. Bai is pronounced “buy” - as to buy at the store. When a person makes a surprising statement you say “why”. If his circumflex is not pronounced enough you hug him and squeeze his diaphragm, he then says it right. I should be interested to hear you pronounce it.

To day we hear Miss Brown the new Kindergarten teacher has arrived. She came down from Shanghai on the steamer that takes the Goddards. Miss Woodhull went over twice yesterday to meet her but the steamer was delayed. Our coolie said he saw Miss Woodhull go by and a strange young lady in a chair ahead of her. Miss Brown has an enviable opening in the city, - a nice large building, and a nice class already in working order with which she can begin as soon as she can say one or two words.

Yesterday we took Phebe and Gould over to Mr. and Mrs. Blands to Tiffin [lunch]. How the children did enjoy it!! Geraldine we left at home with the amah. We have made another change in this department, and now have one elderly woman a Christian for a long time. One of her sons who died in June was first assistant in the Ponasang Hospital and her main stay. We took her on trial in July. She is neat and honest and can be trusted if she is a little slow. The other woman is from Ing Hok and has been with Mrs. Goddard for about six months. She is younger, pleasant, and quicker. During the past four and a half years we have had eleven different women as amahs. While at Mr. Bland’s we met Mr. Rigg of the Ch. Miss’y Soc. who had just come down the Min river from Yeng Ping, 150 or more up. He said he met our Shaowu missionaries about forty miles this side of Yeng Ping. But his boat was coming down the rapids so fast he could not stop.

I have conducted communion at Dung Song today. This is the last time for this season of communion. They commence again Dec. 3rd and last just thro the month. But I want very much to get away for two weeks in Dec. to make a tour of the Ing Hok field. I cannot go in Nov. on account of the Meeting of Missionaries and Pastors and preachers which takes the place of our Annual Mission Meeting this year. This comes Nov. 15th and with the Y.P.S.C.E. Convention will last till Nov. 21st. By the way Dr. F.E. Clark is expected here the latter part of next Fall.

The children are perfectly well these days, and the mischief they cannot find is not worth mentioning. Gould can get along if he has about three outfits a day. His shoes go like hay in March, and he eats as only a boy can. He was sitting in Mama’s lap just before going to the bed this evening and putting his face up against hers he said “I do love my Mama”. Until a few days ago Ellen has declared to me that she did not snore. But Phebe took my side a few days since all unconsciously and since then Ellen has nothing to say on the snoring habit. Phebe walked up to Mama one day making a snorting noise with fearful grimaces. “Mama what makes you do that when you are asleep?”

Mama = “What makes you think Mama does that when she is asleep?”

Phebe = “Because I heard you go that way one night and I sat right up in bed. I was scared. I didn’t know what it was. Then I lay down and went to sleep again.”

Mama = (violent laughter)

Phebe = “Well, what do you snuff for when you are asleep?”

M. (Convulsed with laughter)

P “Well, what do you snuff for?”

Father Kinney must see this. And I want a photo of him when he reads it.

I wonder what is the matter with Aunt Louise. I have not heard from her in a long time. But [I] have written to both her and grandmother since hearing from them. You must remember us to them when you see them. I was glad to hear grandmother was able to go about so much.

Oliver still does not write. (Business must be driving. I hope he is all right. It is good to hear such fine things of his wife and children – How you do enjoy those girls!! What pleasure we shall have when God permits these little ones to meet. It is over five years since we saw the shores of our native land fade away in the distance. The Heavenly Father has been good to us all, “My Grace is sufficient for Thee”.

Love to all

Will.

No. 17

Foochow, Nov. 19th 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

This last news from home arrived Oct. 30th. A letter from Phebe came on the same date. Both acknowledged previously i.e. Nov. 5th letter No. 16. The mails are not loaded with letters these days. We hope the rush of business at home will ease up a little, and then with Dewey received we shall look for a letter now and then from our friends.

As to news from the Phillipines we get most of ours from the home papers. I am now taking with Dwight the weekly North China Herald, published in Shanghai. This is under English supervision and news of England's affairs of course is paramount, altho since this U.S. stepped up to the rank of a first class naval power there is a marked difference in the regard paid to the affairs of our Republic by Englishmen here in the East. There is one strain that we are sure of finding in all the newspapers published by Englishmen in China i.e. a severe criticism of English leniency with China. Englishmen of course want China's trade. To control this they must in a large degree control China's foreign policy. But Russia wants to do something at the same business, and she has been doing it to the detriment of England's business or trade in China and England has not been very stiff. Her influence at Peking is not what it was ten years ago. Just now the war in the Transvaal is the all absorbing topic in news circles. The little affair in the Phillipines is hardly worth noticing. The papers are also beginning to open their eyes at the influence which little Japan is exerting at Peking. Here is a sentence from the last paper "Japanese influence in Court and mandarin circle is getting stronger and stronger every day- that influence which should by all right belong to Great Britain." I will mail to you the last copy of the N. C. Herald. Will you please by sure to remail it within a few days to Rev. D. Goddard, 4 Homestead Ave., Worcester, Mass.

Things are running along much as usual. This week a little diversion occasioned by our Annual Meeting and a business meeting of the mission. Our Annual Meeting this year is a very quiet affair compared with the past few years. We distinctly asked all except Pastors and preachers to stay away. So we have had no crowds as formerly. The small numbers may not however lessen the permanent results of the gathering. We have had two long sessions comprised of only missionaries and Pastors (seven). Steps were taken for the permanent organization of the mission, for the transaction of business. I mean of the Chinese constituency. Previously there has been no organization. At a meeting a motion was put and anyone who chanced to be present voted on it. The Secretary pro tem wrote it down and the report of the Secretary was perhaps given to some missionary who kept it in his pigeon hole for a year and then threw it away. The organization affected this year I trust will stop this. The Men's Missionary Society had a quiet but very interesting and business like session Fri. morning. The report given by their agent who has made a circuit of the entire Foochow speaking portion of our field was most interesting and instructive. The Chinese are taking up this matter in a business like manner. They close the year with over $50 in the treasury. To morrow and next day will be held the C.E. Convention. Then we shall settle down to work again in the ordinary routine.

Ellen is just well of a Tonselitis quinary[?] sore throat. Dr. thinks possibly the effects of the two teeth she had out two weeks ago may have started the trouble. The teeth were very well put in and they came out hard, lacerating the jaws badly. Of course it was a shock to the nervous system to have these out. Then the sore throat had a better chance. Ellen was in bed two days. She is well again now. The children all as well as you can find children. Geraldine walks three or four feet. But she is so heavy that it will be some weeks before she runs with Gould.

The sky for a month has been cloudy,- scarcely a bright day,- very little rain, colder than usual at this season.

Mr. Ding is much better, he is now working on a map of Fukien Province showing the places where there is started preaching. I want it for the Ecumenical conference in N.Y. next Spring. I have had made two models of Chinese houses- one Christian and one heathen that are very cute. The furniture is all there in miniature pieces with the idols etc.

Well you must do less and write more. Where is Oliver's pen? and Aunt Louise's? Remember us to them. Remember us to Cousin Elizabeth.

Lovingly yours

Will.

My motto this morning Lu. 21/19 "In your patience ye shall win your souls."

[This letter dated Dec. 3, 1899 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. Mr. Ding (Ming Uong) is better and working at the Seminary again. Willard constructed small models of a Chinese heathen house and a Chinese Christian house to be sent to New York for the Ecumenical Conference. He and Ellen are drawing up plans for their new residence. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China, Dec. 3rd 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter arrived from you Nov. 28th. I wrote last Nov. 19th, No. 17. Since then every thing here has moved along as usual. The blessings are as always too numerous to mention. Ming Uong is around again and working one hour a day in the Seminary. It is a great pleasure for us to see him about and his influence over the young men in the Seminary is all that we can desire. Mr. Davis- you remember him as a classmate of mine in Hartford- now in Springfield, Vt. wrote me by the last mail that his church would take his support next year. Two gifts have just come for the work in Ing Hok, one for $50. and one for $5. The news of $25. from the ladies in Huntington was very welcome. When the money reaches me I will write Miss Wooster for the ladies.

Ellen and the children are as well as well can be. All of them growing fat. Geraldine is as broad as she is long. She has just begun to walk this last week and every door in the house must be kept open for her benefit. She goes down every 10 or 12 feet but it is not far to rise and on she goes. She thinks she is as large as the other children. They are romping about the house shouting and laughing and the little cherub toddles after them shouting with all the force of her lungs and looking as she was doing as much as any of them. We have a goose that is much enjoyed by Phebe and Gould. They pull him around by the neck and feed him and make a real pet of him. Last night after Gould had said his prayers he got up on his feet and just before starting for bed said - -"O! we forgot to pray for the goose." I told his mother of it. I found that he has of his own accord been praying for nearly a week "God bless the goose." We had a pie this week that really reminded me of the Century Farm pumpkins. IT WAS GOOD.

Three of the churches in the Suburbs Station have held communion services to day. At Geu Cio Dong 8 united. At Ha Puo Ga 3. At Sang Bo I conducted the service. No one united. There were a few men who wished to join but the preacher and deacons said it would be just as well for them to wait till next time.

I have made all arrangements to start for Ing Hok next Fri. to be gone two weeks and two days. I hope in that time to see each chapel and hold a service in nearly every one. On this trip I must decide as to the location of the preachers, the opening of Day School, and the opening of new chapels for next year. It rains to day quite hard. Such weather during the next two weeks will make it very interesting for me- the trip if carried out will be as follows. 1st day, walk 8 miles, by boat 20 miles; 2nd day walk 12 miles. 3rd Sunday, communion at Ing Hok city. 4th day walk 20 miles. 5th day spend day and conduct communion at Mu Deng Mui. 6th day walk 20 miles communion in evening. 7th day walk 6 miles communion. 8th day walk 20 miles. 9th day walk 20 miles back to Ing Hok city. 10th day Sunday walk 10 miles conduct communion at two chapels. 11th day walk 18 miles. 12th day walk 8 miles. 13th day walk 14 miles. The other three days I shall be in new territory to look over the ground for new openings next year.

There was a fire this morning at 3 o'clock that gave us something of a start. It was only 5 minutes walk from our house and in such a place as this with a continuous line of wooden buildings between us and the blaze. It was interesting for a few moments till we found there were fire walls between us and the fire so there was no danger. This morning we found it was only a part of a big pawn shop.

We are just about starting off some goods for the Ecumenical Conference held in N.Y. April and May 1900. I have had made two models of Chinese houses- one to represent a heathen home- one to represent a Christian home. If they are not kept for a permanent exhibit I will have them sent to you after the conference is thro with them.

Some time ago you spoke of sending some photos in papers. We have never received any such and so far as I have known the papers have come regularly. We sat for the family picture yesterday, - had the children as still as mice for several seconds, but the artist (?) did not know enough to snap the machine. Afterward we got two shots but have not yet seen the proofs.

Where is Ben and what is he doing? Your last letter mentions him as being away from home but that is all. Is Elizabeth teaching on Long Hill this year? Have Stanley, James and Ben got so engrossed in their business that they have not time for even a word to a fellow?

We have been planning a house during the past two weeks, and I sent the results thus far to you. Ellen wishes to have on the S.E. corner of her study a round or octagonal window. We have not yet got this in to our satisfaction. This window is her hobby and the little private study is my hobby. I can with this arrangement meet companies of Chinese in the large study, and my desk and work is just off this study. Ellen's study we shall likely use as the family sitting room. Don't you think it will be cosy?

You must all write and oftener
Love to all Will.

[This letter dated Dec. 24, 1899 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. He describes his 16 day trip to Ing Hok beginning December 8th. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China
Dec. 24th 1899.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter rec'd arrived Dec. 20th the last written started Dec. 3rd No. 18.

According to the plans spoken of in the last letter I started on Dec. 8th for Ing Hok. I returned yesterday about 12:45, making a trip of 16 days. It has been in every way a most successful trip. The weather has been perfect; not too warm or too cold, no rain, clear days and moonlight nights. Coolies were good, we were able to arrive each afternoon in good season at the place where we were to spend the night. My health was never better, not an ache during the whole trip- except a little soreness in the calves after a 20 mile walk much of it up a 45 degree mountain pass. I was surprised at my own ability to walk and to keep it up day after day for so long. I have covered 200 miles in the journey on foot. A great deal of this has been over very steep mountain paths both up and down. On the whole trip I have walked twice over less than 15 miles and 8 of these were on the road from Ponasang to the boat.

If you want to follow me on the trip take the last mission report "Happy Valley", and look at the map opposite p. 44. I went first from Ponasang to Gak Liong (5), next day to Ing Hok City (10). There I administered the communion and received one woman to church membership. Mon. walked 20 miles to Ngu Deng Muoi. (14) Held a service for heathen in evening. Tues. walked 3 miles and back in A.M. to call on some ch. members. In P.M. held communion. Wed. walked 18 miles to Sung Kau (16), held communion in evening. Thurs. walked 6 miles to Diong Keng (17) held communion in afternoon and evangelistic service in evening. Had to send the people away just before 10 P.M. in order to go to bed. Fri. 6:15 A.M. on road to Sa Sang (15) 20 miles and 2500 feet up. No work here, two learners both away. Chapel retired so we went to bed early. Sat. 6:20 A.M. on road to Ing Hok City 20 miles. Arrived at 1:00 P.M. In afternoon the messenger came from Ponasang with letters from Ellen and clean wardrobe and fresh provisions. I ate the last of nearly everything for lunch on the road Sat. morning and had a dinner of Chinese food after getting to Ing Hok.

The second Sun. walked 3 miles to Uo Cia (12) held communion, ate a lunch, walked 1 ½ miles to Gak Tau (11) preached walked 1 ½ miles to Dai Uong (9) and preached in evening. This was a hard day's work. Mon. at 6:20 on road to U Ngiang (8) 3000 feet above Dai Uong and 15 miles distant, arrived at 1:00 P.M. Preached in evening, slept that night with Ling Nik Huak the young man who accompanied me on the whole trip. Tues. at 6:10 ready to start but not yet light. Waited till 6:20 off for Puai Sioh (7) 6 miles distant. Down, up, down, up. Stopped 1 hour with the Christians at Puai Sioh. Then walked down to Dai Kau 8 miles at the junction of the branch of the river, running down near (7) and (8), with the main stream. Took dinner here then went on 6 miles to Uong Kang about half way between (6) and (12) in a straight line- and near the sky. The last mile was as bad a path as I ever walked, and at the end of a long day's walk. I was afraid the burden bearers with about 75 lbs. apiece on their shoulders would not make it before dark so rushed ahead up the steep and sent two men back to meet them, but their strength and good nature was better than I credited them with. They came about a quarter of an hour after me all right and happy. Here I held the communion for 4 Christians in the evening. Nik Huak and I were both pretty sleepy- and the bed felt good that night. Wed. A.M. at 6:20 off for Lik Iong about the end of the river on which © is placed. This was a terrible road all the way, 9 miles. Much like our East and West roads. It runs across the mountain ranges, is not a main road. In one place we could scarcely find the path. It is in one place nearly perpendicular. None of us knew the path and we had to depend on information gathered on the way. Pedestrians were few, houses fewer, but we did not once get off the path. At a house outside of nowhere we stopped for tea and the inmates all declared no foreigner had ever been that road before. At another house our very presence scared a year's growth out of a flock of hens. We ate dinner at Lik Iong, accepted a pound of venison and started down the mountain for Lung Chong (6) 3 miles distant. Here we stopped only a few minutes and then went on down down down to Gak Liang, 6 miles. We were tired that night. I knew before leaving Uong Kang that our day's work was to be tough so I packed most of our goods in two baskets making a heavy load and sent one coolie direct to Gak Liang only about 9 miles. The other coolie had a very light load and followed us. Thurs. 5:05 A.M. we were on a boat going down the river. Stopped at Bo Hung opposite and a little above (3) then went on down to Chong Ha (3), arriving for dinner. In the evening held a service. Fri. morning walked over to Nang Seu 3 1/2 miles examined and recommended for admission one man, took dinner with the preacher and family, walked back and went across the river to Deng Chio

(4). Held a service in the evening and examined two persons and recommended them for church membership to be admitted by the Pastor next week. Sat. at 7:30 we started for Ponasang arriving at 1:00 P.M. If God had arranged everything with a view to our comfort alone I do not see that he would have done differently. One of the burden bearers had the shakes the first week. But the days that he was sick we did not travel or made only 6 miles. The second week we had two new men and they were well and strong. When we got on board a boat the wind was in our favor altho it turned square about as soon as we landed.

The general impression that I get of the field is that the work is in a prosperous condition. The station at Sa Sang will be given up and we are considering the opening of three or more new places. I have slept like a brick every night, eaten three square meals and a lunch every day and Ellen says I have grown fat. The hard part of the work is to come tho. Here are about 19 different centers of work to plan for for next year. Which man to place where is the question. In the Ponasang Station this question settles itself because of self support. But in the Ing Hok field some of the churches have only two members and I must do the planning largely. Pray for me that God's will may be done thro me.

Ellen and the babies have been kept well and happy. Geraldine has grown fat. She is too cute for anything-girl idiom- as she waddles about. We had a photo of the family taken just before I started for Ing Hok. I send you 5. Please give to Putnam and White Hills. They are poor photos but perhaps better than none. Please thank Miss Wooster for the $20.00 from W.C.T.U. 5.00 fr. Grandma 3.10 fr. children. I will write sometime to them. I hope Cousin Erastus [probably Erastus Bennett, Willard's first cousin once removed] is all right by this time.

Yesterday we had a gift of a bouncing big gobbler for Xmas and 10 big oranges from our Christmas shop, and a big piece of bacon and 60 oranges from another and a goose and an embroidered cap for W. from Ming Uong who by the way seems well.

Love to all
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter was written Jan. 3rd. The last received came last year already acknowledged. This week's mail disappointed us in bringing no letters at all. We have not yet heard about your Thanksgiving. I wonder what you would all do. Grandfather is not there to make the center. I have been very much pleased with the good accounts of Grandmother's health. We used the $5.00 she sent to buy a baby carriage. If we can ever get the time we are going to put the three babies into it and have their picture taken and send one to Grandmother. The carriage is a good strong one and large enough to allow the three children to sit in at once.

Since last writing we have had added to our numbers in the compound Miss Wainwright of the A.B.C.F.M. in Japan. She is tired out and is to stay here till April. At present she is staying with Miss Newton. She is very pleasant and is running in and out of our house making herself quite at home among us.

Jan. 7-15 we observed the Week of Prayer as usual. I had one of the meetings and on the 15th I preached the Bachalaurate sermon in Chinese before the students of the Anglo Chinese College of the Meth. Mission here. This is as good a proof of my power to use the Chinese language in the estimation of others as I have ever had. But with the preparation for these two meetings and attending the Week of Prayer meeting each afternoon, with the regular reaching in the Seminary each morning made a good full week. One of our amah's had four children sick with small pox in her house and we sent her home just before Jan. 1st. One woman can not manage our three cherubs alone, so we took Phebe and Gould to meeting every day except Thurs. when we both did not go. The children behave all right. We have never been troubled with their disturbing the meeting. Gould often improves the time by taking a nap.

This last week has been more than full with the graduating exercises of the various schools. The exercises of the Seminary came last week on Thurs. morning. Seven young men go out. This makes sixteen graduated. And with these there are present in the Ing Hok field two or three places calling for preachers, which must go without for another year at least. One place has been calling for three years and promising to furnish the house and help toward the pay of the Christian teacher. They promise this year to furnish the chapel and room for a school, and $19.00 and 100 lbs. of rice. This will be not quite half of the preacher's expenses. But for the very beginning of the work it is exceedingly encouraging. I have a man for the place, and am planning to open work in this place with the beginning of the new Chinese year Jan. 31st. One of the graduates of last year's class of the Seminary will go there. Another place in the Suburbs station will take one of the graduates of this year's class, meeting about half their own expenses. This is Sang Gaing "8" on the map in "Self-Support Attained." The people have a house already owned by the church.

I am just now making the final arrangements for the work in the Ing Hok field for next year. It is no small addition to one's duties to make plans for twenty persons or more in eighteen different places. I have dictated a Chinese letter to each worker and one to the members of each church.

The appropriations for 1900 have come. We have exactly the same amount as last year, which is less than one half of what we asked for and must spend, in order to keep the work up.

Jan. 26th. Letters from Mother and Phebe arrived Jan. 23rd dated Dec. 15th.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Jan. 21st letter No. 2 started for Shelton. Jan. 30th on Mother's birthday a letter started for Framingham [According to her 1957 obituary, Phebe Maria Beard was named principal of the kindergarten training department of the State Normal School at Framingham, Mass. in 1899 and served there until 1912.], Mass. - I should have written in both cases that these letters were written on these dates. - On Jan. 23rd letters came from Shelton, and from Phebe. The last few mails have been very destitute of letters for us. You see it has been nearly a month since we have heard from you. I am afraid also that a long interval is now elapsing in which you are to wait for our letters, because I hear that no mail has left Foochow for Shanghai since Feb. 1st. I hope however this is not so.

Miss Newton started for America Feb. 3rd on furlough. She will spend the cold weather in Cala. coming East in the Spring or early Summer. Her home is some where near Boston. I hope you will have the pleasure of meeting her before she returns to Foochow. I know you will enjoy her and that she will do you good. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard must be home before this. I am looking with much anticipation for a letter from them after their return.

Feb. 6th. Dr. Woodhull, Miss Brown and I started for Ing Hok. Dr. Woodhull went to start the Hospital and leave a recent graduate of the Foochow Woman's Hospital in charge. Miss Brown went for company and for fun. I went to be generally useful and to settle a few details of the work in that station for the year. We were late arriving at Gak Liang the first night. The boatmen stopped three miles below, just at the foot of the rapids and refused to go farther. I told them to stay there meant only $1.00 for the trip, instead of $2.00 as agreed. After burning a lot of idol paper and shooting off three canon crackers on they went half way up the rapids to Gak Liang. It was dark, about 6:30 o'clock and they again refused to stir. But the thought of $1.00 for only one mile and a half started them on and we arrived a little after 8 P.M. The next day we took the road to Ing Hok. The ladies had chairs and I walked. Thus I helped Dr. Woodhull open and look over the Hospital, and consulted with several of the workers near there regarding the work for this year. Friday Miss Brown and I walked up to Gah Tan and Uo Cia- about 3 miles. On Sat. I was busy all day with different men and women planning for the work of the year. Just at night I found a few minutes to pull about three pecks of soft turnips which Mrs. Goddard had left growing, and a few carrots. We just grew fat on these turnips while at Ing Hok and brought the three pecks down with us to divide with the people down here. On Sunday I held communion at the Ing Hok church. Mon. morning we came down the river to Gak Liang. In the afternoon we visited the Monastery near Gak Liang. This is about 1 ½ hours walk from our chapel there. But as many times as I have been near it I have never before felt like taking the time to visit it. It is about 1000 feet above the river, with a good stone road in good condition all the way up. When we arrive we find a great cave in the rock, only with an immense mouth. The Monastery is built in this cave. The opening is perhaps 100 ft long and 50 ft deep in the deepest part. It is semi circular thus  The buildings need no roofs for the solid rock overhangs so as to form a roof that never needs repairing and that never leaks. In recent years the monastery has been visited frequently by foreigners, both missionaries and business men and officers from Gun boats, Consuls etc. Every party has left a few dimes or larger change, this added to the good deal of money on the place. It is full of little – you would call them Summer houses. These are fitted up for accommodating people who come to the Monastery to worship from a distance and have to stay several days. There is now only one Priest in attendance. He has all fees that come from visitors and worshippers, and the income from quite an area of gardens and rice fields. There are three or four servants to attend and help him in caring for the buildings and the gardens. His “water works” are very interesting. From the top of the overhanging rock at point X on the other page a little stream of water falls over the precipice to the ground about 100 ft. below. The stream would hardly fill an inch pipe, but it is never failing. The Priest has climbed to the top and attached an 1 ½ inch rope, letting it hang down so the water will follow it. The water falls about 15 feet from the kitchen so the lower end of the rope is pulled into the kitchen and tied. The water follows the bend of the rope for a few feet and then drips down a bamboo trough is run out from the kitchen under the rope and catches enough of water as it drips to supply the water needed by the Priest and his attendants. This saves all drawing of water. The place is very cool in Summer and delightful at any time.

We spent the night at the Gak Liang chapel and got up at 4 A.M. Tues. and were gliding down the river at 5, taking our breakfast on the boat. I stopped at one station on the way down, and we reached the landing at 3:30 P.M. still 8 miles from home. This I walked in 2 ½ hours and found the dear ones all well and happy. Geraldine was standing on the front veranda. The work in the Ing Hok station is now all planned. If it stays planned all's well, but if it gets out of plan it will require more work from me. I expect to be in the field again about the time you are reading this- in March 9th -20th.

Dr. and Mrs. F.E. Clarke are expected here for the national Chinese Y.P.S.C.E. Convention Apr. 4-7. There will probably be few from other parts but this province is likely to be well represented.

This is father's birthday. If I have counted correctly he is 58 yrs. old. Mother was 57 Jan. 30th. Flora will be 31 a week from today. The sum of our ages grows apace as time flies. How gracious has been the blessing of the Father to us during the past 5 years.

Ellen and the children are quite well. I think thus far we have never known a Winter in China when we have been so free from colds and other ailments. The trip to Ing Hok in Dec. was worth every thing to me physically. This last trip was rather lazy. I grew fat. Your letters that must be somewhere on the way, and near Foochow will likely tell us of the vacations at home. I have conducted two communion services today, both in the forenoon, received four men to the church. In one place some of the members I knew had been wicked and had not confessed. It was hard for me. As I walked into the next place, the members stood with bowed heads and two led in prayer after I had gone into the door. They did not know I was there. How my heart filled with praise to God as I felt the reverence and heard the prayers- asking god to cleanse their hearts and make them fit to receive the communion. Necessarily the service was short. But it was a very quiet, orderly, reverent service. Four babies were baptized. I tried to get the promise of the parents to bring up these children to love and serve Jesus but one of the babies had just woke up, and my voice was no match for his.

I am interested to know how the Huntington church is getting on. The reports are not at all reassuring that harmony has as yet been restored.

I'll not close this now hoping to receive letters from you before another steamer leaves for Shanghai to take the mail on to the U.S.

Feb. 20th

Yesterday letters came from Shelton to Putnam. We were glad to hear that all were well. The same mail brought $60 for the work and the promise of $100 more. As we must receive about $400 in these special gifts this year, this is very encouraging.

Love to all from us all
Will.

My Dear Flora:-

Your good letter came in the last mail, containing the request for a letter direct to you. I have been wanting to do this very thing for you and Oliver but I did not have your addresses. Phebe has her letter before this, and now your address is here.

It is very opportune to write you today. If I count straight you round out thirty one years with this day. I cannot realize that my thirty fifth birthday will never come again. The last letters brought a mine of home glimpses. You cannot realize how hungry I am for the detailed descriptions of each one of the family. I am still at a loss to answer the questions that come to me- as to what kind of a school you are teaching in- public or private- in what grade- on what salary- how many pupils etc. In spending your money to help the younger children get an education you are doing exactly according to my ideal. We have not wanted for anything necessary, altho we have to encroach upon the allowances for the children more than we liked in order to keep the work up. But we are astonished at the way in which God has remembered us this year thus far. In special gifts for all the work in our care we have received over $350 gold since Jan. 1st. Last week one gift came from the parish of Mr. Davis.- my sem. [seminary] classmate- of $116.06 for Ming Uong's salary and another of $50 for the support of a preacher in the Ing Hok field. Then Sat. Mr. Hartwell at his own request took over the work of one chapel in the city which was started by me in '97 and of which I have had charge and which was to have cost me $43. When Miss Newton started for America on furlough Feb. 3rd she handed me a check for $100 silver= $50 gold to be used as I liked.

Dr. Lyman Abbott will doubtless remember the promise of the N.Y. State Branch of the Woman's Board to build at Gen Cu Dong a $5000 church in memory Mrs. Dudley a former President of the Branch. Mrs. S.L. Baldwin at Dr. Abbott's request wrote a brief account of our need for "Outlook" and the Editor added a note to the effect that as soon as the money was raised a cablegram should be sent to "build at once", so that we might not have to wait longer than necessary. This was last June. The cablegram has not come yet and we [are] "up a tree" for a building in which to hold the coming Y.P.S.C.E. Convention Apr. 4-7. Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Clarke are to be here. This is the National Convention for China and our largest central audience room will accommodate 500 when packed into the windows and aisles and doors and all over the platform- except room for the speaker to stand. The M.E. Church 2 miles from the center is large enough and some of the mass meetings will be held in it.

Last summer I sent one of the pamphlets "Self-Support Attained" to Mr. Seymour in Washington. I did not have his address and never heard whether he received it. I did the same for Cousin George Baird in Washington. There was talk of the C.E. Societies in Washington and Baltimore taking my support, and I have had some very pleasant correspondence with them. I wonder if Mr. Seymour ever said anything to you about it.

The Theol. Sem'y [Seminary] opened Fri last. I shall teach two hours daily. For one hour I shall endeavor to write notes and translate and dictate to the class on the Life of Christ, taking up also the more difficult passages in the Gospels.

Ming Uong has a little daughter a few days old. The Chinese say a girl is =$1000 gold, a boy =$10000 gold. Ming Uong's mother said when first informed that she had a grand daughter, "Well if it God's will that we should have a girl, then it is a girl that we want." She is a very earnest, active old lady in Christian work, and a woman of great faith. But a boy is still of greater value to her than a girl. None of us realize the immense blessing of a Christian ancestry.

Ellen and the babies are all quite well. They all join me in sending love and a most urgent request for another letter.

Lovingly,
Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter that my register gives started for Shelton Feb. 19th, but it seems as if I had written since then. Perhaps tho the letters which I wrote to Phebe and Flora have confused my mind, this is the forty third letter written for the foreign mail since Jan. 1st 1900, so I dare not trust anything to memory. Letters from you arrived Feb. 19th and 23rd. This must be a short note. I expect to start for Ing Hok again next Fri. March 9th to be gone over two Sundays, and if I do not get this letter off to morrow it will not go for two weeks.

Miss Wiley I suppose arrived yesterday for teaching in the City College. The mail yesterday bro't a letter from Mrs. S.L. Baldwin the Meth. lady in Brooklyn who is interested in our new church at Geu Cio Dong. She writes that $3000 of the $5000 is already collected, this means a new church for us this year. I have already made a move toward enlargement. The plans for our new house are just finished and I hope to talk with one contractor tomorrow.

U.S. Consul Gracey arrived yesterday with his bride. He came to the Consulate in '97 with his wife, his two sons and the wife of one son. In the Autumn his wife died. In '98 his wife's sister came out to keep house for him but she did not like it here and last Autumn he took her to America and now returns with another lady as wife. The new wife is a close friend and parishioner of one of Ellen's neighbors in Union, Conn, also one of my college class mates. Her maiden name was Elsie Curtiss, now Mrs. (Rev.) A. Job of Kent, Conn. She has written Ellen introducing her to Mrs. Gracey.

Ming Uong is the happy father of a little daughter about two weeks old. He seems to be quite well this Spring. The Sem'y is open again with 2 classes instead of three to lighten my load a little. I consider it a very good testimony to the work the school is doing, that beside the regular students there are four men who are taking whole or partial courses this year. These men have been preachers for several years but without having taken a Sem'y course. One of them is walking over two miles to attend the classes. Two others come from places over six miles away and return for Sunday services.

Will you send me Oliver's address. I keep hoping he will write but the letter does not come, so I must write him. Your references to Annie and Olive are always most interesting to us. Annie would like our back yard now with the chickens and turkey. We are almost despairing of getting the turkey fat. It does not eat well. I think we will try it on unhulled rice and if that fails we will give the thing away.

Ellen and the children are quite well. Geraldine is a little waddler she is so fat. She does not talk yet, but understands nearly everything. She thinks Gould is about the best boy on earth. She hugs him and takes all his playthings away, pulls off his hat, pulls his hair and teases him in ways that only a girl could think of. All of which he takes as a matter of course and returning the hugging and kissing- never resisting her impositions. Phebe is quite mature in form and bearing for her age. Gould has a boy's way of crying when it is difficult to give a good reason frequently to his mother's inquiring he responds "I want you." Often he runs up to his mother and hugs her and kisses her with "My dear Mama." Phebe is getting so she nearly dresses herself- each morning. Ellen is using the Kindergarten method with them so woe is me if I teach any letters.

Give out love to Grandmother and Aunt Louise.

Take lots for yourselves

Yours

Will.

On a House Boat

Wed. Apr 18th 1900

Dear Folks at Home:-

As the records are not now at hand I shall have to wait till I get home to see when the last letters were rec'd and sent.

There is a lot of news to tell this time- more than I shall be able to spin out at one time. I wrote you I think about my last Ing Hok trip from which I returned March 21st. On the 25th Dr. Willard Lyon Gen'l Sec'y for the National Y.M.C.A. of China arrived and came to our home to stay. He was on business connected with the Y.M.C.A. but made the time get in with C.E. Convention. He finally remained till Sat. April 14th. We enjoyed his stay very much indeed. He is of our generation in the College and Sem'y world and was connected with the Student Volunteer and Y.M.C.A. movement in our College days and knows some of our College friends and then he [is] about the same age in China as we are so we had good times together.

On March 29th I decided to take a little rest and remained in bed from that day till April 8th when I sat up a few hours. On the next day Mon. I sat up a little more and on the next day Tues. took a chair and went to Kuliang with Lyon and Miss Borts [Bortz]. The journey kept one out of doors all day but I took four chair bearers, and altho I got some tired the trip did me good and I slept like a brick that night. I was in bed during the whole of the Convention so I did not hear a single address. But from the reports it was a successful Convention. The delegates from other parts of China were few. But the audiences of the people in and near Foochow tested the capacity of the churches- about 1200 or 1500 in the audiences. Dr. and Mrs. L.E. Clarke of course formed the chief attraction and

Dr. Clarke spoke nearly every session beside addressing the foreigners three times in English. The Convention closed on Mon. Apr. 9th. On Wed. Apr. 11th a reception was given Dr. and Mrs. Clarke at the home of Miss Garretson in our compound. I was able to attend this.

On April 13th Fri. I started for Ing Hok with Dr. and Mrs. Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. Hinman who had come down from Shaowu to attend the Convention. We arrived at Gak Liang that night before dark with a fine wind all day. The Dr. had a cold just coming on and Sat. morning at Gak Liang he felt pretty badly with some fever and his bones all aching. We waited till 10:00 o'clock and then started in chairs for Ing Hok City. Dr. C. felt pretty badly and was afraid he was in for a siege with Influenza. These country chairs are not as easy as our sedans in Foochow and Dr. Clarke thought we were using him pretty roughly. (At Home 4/19) The last 3 miles of the journey I left my chair and put 3 men on each Dr. and Mrs. Clarke's chairs and we rushed arriving about 3:45 P.M. That night a Chinese woman physician educated under Dr. Woodhull came in to see Dr. C. and Mrs. C, gave him a hot bath and a good sweat and he felt some better in the morning but did not leave the house on Sun. This was a great disappointment to the Ing Hok Christians. We left Mon. morning at 10:00 o'clock, - and had a delightful trip down the river to the foot of the rapids where I had ordered a House Boat to meet us. Dr. Kinnear came on here and we began at once (3:30 P.M.) to tack down stream. That night we six slept on board and arrived at Mr. Hubbard's about 3:30 Tues. P.M. Dr. and Mrs. Clarke went there for the rest of the stay in Foochow. (yesterday Wed.) We all went to Diong Loh in the Pagoda Anchorage field to look at a site for opening Woman's work. There were 13 in the party. The breeze was fine last evening and we came up against the tide in the starlight- a beautiful sail, arriving at Ponasang at 8 P.M. Ellen and the children have been well all the time.

I found a letter from Father and one from Mother waiting me. My last started Mar. 24, No. 5. Ben's marriage was rather sprung on us. [March 28, 1900 Bennett Nichols Beard married Abbie Jane Hubbell] We have had no time to give them a present. Where are they living etc. etc. Our hearted congratulations and kisses for the bride our new sister.

The first $1000 has come for the new ch. The rest is sure. This mail bro't a letter from the Pres. of the N.Y. State Branch. Another young lady has been appointed for work in the Pagoda Station with Miss Borts. Her name [is] Miss Vance.

Father's letter was exceedingly interesting. How it makes me long for a nice farm and a rest from all this turmoil. Dwight and Dr. Goddard have bought a little farm and are looking forward with much anticipation to a quiet rest.

We have had strawberries for a week. The weather is getting warm. We are now dressed just as we do on Guliang.

Give our love to all

Yours Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter that we have seen of yours arrived April 6th. almost, I mean over one month ago. I wrote you April 19th. no. 5. The mail came yesterday. I was out when it arrived. When I came in I saw lying aside from the other letters one that had a five cent stamp on it and the Shelton Post mark. It was a good fat one. So I opened and read the others reserving the home letter until last to top off on. When I opened it I found- Ben's wedding announcement. Well I knew that before. Perhaps this came to remind me that I had not yet written him our congratulations.

Since last writing you life has been even, very full of work. I have handed over one of the Seminary classes to the Second Assistant, so that I have now only one hour a day, except on Tues. when I am busy in the class room three hours. The contract for our new house was awarded last Tues. The plan is practically as I sent you some time ago. We pay for all including well and cistern $3300. silver. The house is to be finished Oct. 15". Beside this we have already begun to prepare for the enlargement of Geu Cio Dong. This business of itself is enough to keep one man busy, so I have to sandwich it in with the other work as best I can.

I start for Ing Hok again next Monday to be gone during the week only. This is for the Annual Meeting of the Ing Hok field. I shall simply go to the city and stay for a two days meeting and return. This will end my country work for the present. Perhaps by next Fall there will be another man to take it. Last Sunday I spent at Deng Chio the nearest chapel in the Ing Hok field. It took me four hours to go and the same time to return. I found a very flourishing work. One church organization and three day schools. All these seem to be doing good work. Sunday afternoon we went out into the country from the chapel to see a man possessed with the Devil. He was at one of the services and his father with him. Both entreated us to come to the house and pray with them. There were five Chinese Christians and myself. We read an account of Christ's casting out a Devil. Then I spoke very plainly telling them there was no other remedy but for the whole house to throw away their idols and depend upon prayer to the true God to stop their trouble. Telling them that there was no help from idols. They said they believed and were willing to destroy the idols. But at this juncture the Devil came and took possession of the boy. He began to spit blood. Seeing this his mother was frightened and called us to see. We however sat still, and after talking as much as I thought best, I suggested that we all pray. While we were standing praying the boy was trying to knock the partition down between us and him. I confess to wondering what would be the result if he should injure himself or should hurt others. This was my first experience with a case of this kind. But inspite of the entreaties of the mother and at last of the father to come and look we stood in our places until the prayers were over. I am afraid that my prayer was a little confused. I know my knees were. After saying that I would see him if it could do any good, but that I thought it might make him only the worse, we went out. As I passed the door of his room it was open. I saw him in a demonical position on the bed. The sight made me feel as if a good raw hide applied with vigor for about three minutes would drive the evil spirit away. I am more and more convinced that much of what the Chinese call devil possession is of the kind mentioned in Acts 8. I could not find as this man had ever injured himself. In the New Test. all the demoniacs injured their own bodies.

We are all as well as usual. The weather continues cool and the children are happy. [He blacked out the following sentence: Ellen is happy with 1,000,000 silk worms at work.] I am going to breakfast now.

Love to all
Will.

[handwritten]

I address a letter to Ben in this mail to Shelton. - The book that James rec'd is one that we gave Dwight to read on the steamer. He was to send it to James. Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The mail came yesterday bringing letters from you and Phebe, telling about Ben's and Abbie's wedding and trip. I wrote Ben and Abbie ten days ago and sent a letter No. 6 to Shelton the same day. Since Apr. 18th we had no word from you till yesterday.

The influenza seems to have followed Americans across the sea. Many of the missionaries and the children have had it this Spring. I suppose that was the cause of my staying in bed in April. Gould had it before I did, and the girls have both had it since. They are not well yet altho much better. Ellen seems thus far to have escaped the real disease. I hope she will not make its acquaintance.

A week ago to morrow I started for Ing Hok to hold the Quarterly Meeting with the preachers and other workers. One Pastor, two preachers and a church member went with me from Ponasang. The church member's name is Ciong Go. He is the proprietor of a large and prosperous restaurant here in the Suburbs and went with us to see the country and have a good time. For several days previous to our starting there had been heavy rains both in Foochow and up in the country. The water in the rivers was very high. But we found a boat and started. On the way up the river we took on preachers and teachers until there were on the boat twelve of us. I have made ten trips to Ing Hok during the five years and a half that we have been in Foochow. Never before have I failed to reach Gak Liang in a day. Nor did I fail this time. The water was very strong against us and there was no wind. We reached the foot of the rapids four miles from Gak Liang at 7:30 p.m. - dark and raining. There is an Inn here, and they could put us up if we would sleep four in a bed. The men said the food was abominable, fleas numerous and hungry. A little after 8 p.m. all decided it would be better to walk on to Gak Liang than to spend the night here. The boat could not go up the rapids in the night. So we started after a little lunch. It took us three and a half hours to make the four miles. About half the path was stone steps, the other half was thro fields and over brooks and muddy. The mud was very slippery and one man, Ciong Go, said he fell nine times. Eight of the men lost the path and arrived fifteen minutes behind the other four of us who walked slower. Ciong Go said when he came into the pastors house at Gak Liang: "Preacher Ming Puong told us when we started that as he remembered the road was stone- paved all the way. I found one stone in one place, two in another place, and two in another place. That makes five doesn't it?" And then they laughed. The Gak Liang pastor had given us up and we had to wake him up. But within ten minutes of the time we arrived he had a big tub in the middle of his parlor floor with hot water in it and a number of pair of feet in it. Soon after all had washed and been fitted with the pastor's pants and shoes, a good meal was served and all were off to bed. The next morning it rained. The water was so high and swift that no boat would start up the rapids. Ing Hok was still up the river twelve miles. After much consultation, and after many expressions of sore feet and muscles we at last decided to call four chairs and take turns riding, and start to walk. The rain ceased and we had a good time going up arriving at 4:30 p.m. finding all the other workers there except one. Some of these men had always lived and stayed here in Foochow, and had previously not been afraid to walk five miles. It did them good to find out what the workers in Ing Hok have to go thro. During all the hardships I heard no word of complaint. Ciong Go whom I feared would be the first to complain was the jolliest of all, and by his good nature and jolly remarks did not a little to make the whole trip enjoyable.

We had an enjoyable and profitable meeting. Preacher Ming Puong of Sang Bo in the Ponasang station preached the opening sermon on "Faithfulness in the performance of duty." He spoke very plainly and straight to the preachers. But his message was given in love and listened to with rapt attention. He said plainly that the Holy Spirit gave him the message. The faithful performance of duty was the key note for the succeeding meetings. I spoke Wed. p.m. for half an hour to the preachers on feeding the souls of the ch. members. I enjoyed speaking and saw no one asleep. The communion was administered Thurs. p.m. and two joined the ch. Thurs. evening the farewell meeting took the form of rehearsing the benefits received during the sessions. It was nearly 10 p.m. before the meeting broke up. Many were the references to the work that Mr. Goddard had done in Ing Hok. Preacher Ming Puong held him up as an example of one who had been faithful in the performance of duty, and had left as monument of the farm of the land and buildings at Ing Hok that would never be forgotten.

We started for home Fri. a.m. at 7:30 on a boat from Ing Hok, stopping at Gak Liang to go up to the Monastery about 2 ½ miles up in the mountains. It rained all the way up and back. We all went bare foot coming down. Well I thoroughly enjoyed the whole trip. There were about four hours of suspense at Gak Liang Tues. morning while we were debating how to get up to Ing Hok. But aside from this I had a good time. It is quite possible to go off with a company of Christian Chinese and have just as good a time as with a company of one's own countrymen. Repeated too often one might get tired of it. But we joked and laughed just as if the company had been Americans. I try as far as possible to be one of them and get the restraint removed. Then the wheels run smoothly.

The mission is just now in a muss with the Consul. Two members of the mission have recently written letters to the Chinese officials. The Consul had expressed himself as not liking us to do this without his approval or rather without first consulting him. It however has been done for thirty years, by all missionaries who had occasion to communicate with the officials. The officials moreover desire us to write them direct instead of thro the Consul. Well last week two of the missionaries received documents from the Consul saying that if they persisted in this course he would withdraw their passports and the protection of the government. We are trying to make him believe that we have the right to address the officials direct. The others are doing the fighting. I am a silent partner thus far. I am going to see the Consul tomorrow on other business. There is no reason why if he is a reasonable man this fight might not be settled amiably.

Gould and Geraldine are just being prepared for bed. They are having their nightly air bath. How they do enjoy running entirely unrestricted. Gould is a wiry little fellow and twists himself into all shapes like a snake. Geraldine is perfect picture of a little cupid. Gould is much troubled with fleas and has to be covered with salve every night. The fleas do not bother the girls or me.

Ellen is talking of taking the children down to Sharp Peak next Fri. for a month before going to the mountain. I shall go down with them if they go and return immediately. The Seminary will close June 13th this year.

I see by the papers that Huntington ch. has a new minister and one of your letters I think spoke of repairing the parsonage. I hope you will write me all about the arrangements. What is his salary? Can the ch. raise it without too much trouble? Etc. etc.

Give our love to all Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started for Shelton May 20th. The last one received arrived May 28th. The May 20th. letter was Nov. 7.

The last letter from mother was very interesting to me because it told so much about the different members of the family. You have no idea how we loose sight of you way over here on the other side of the earth. You move away from us and grow away from us, and marry away from us and we have hard work often to follow all of your movements and keep each one of you in place.

Week before last the mission held its Annual Business meeting. This meant an immense amount of writing for me. But I had it all out of the way before the end of the week. My annual report is also finished so I feel comparatively free just now. Altho I am not stagnating for want of work.

The Seminary has been badly neglected for three weeks now. One week it was the Ing Hok Quarterly Meeting, the next week the Business Meeting, and last week I went to the Peak with Ellen and the children. We started Tues. afternoon at 4:30 and arrived at Mr. Hubbard's at 6:30 p.m. After spending the night and the next morning with the Anchorage friends, we started again at 1:30 for Sharp Peak, arriving at 5:00 p.m. We all walked up to the Sanitarium. Geraldine allowed me to carry her only a fraction of the distance. It is fully one and a half miles. She walked fully one mile. And when she had eaten her supper she buzzed around like some wound-up toy. And even after she was in bed she had a great frolic. All the children and Ellen are quite well. They are a little pale from the heat but this will soon change to a pink under cooler sky's. Ellen wanted to go to the Peak last year for the bathing for a short time before going to the mountain but her illness interfered. This year there seemed no good reason why she could not go. The last week in June they will go to the mountain. I arrived at the Peak at 6:30 Wed. evening and started away at 6:30 Thurs. morning. Wed. evening after super Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, who are now at the Peak went down to the sea with us and we all had a good wetting. I wanted very much to see the children when they first went in, but duty called me to Foochow and Ellen will have to enjoy that all alone.

I should like to be a fly on the window when you read the next sentence. Yesterday I ate four dishes of ice cream. Ate them one after the other, all full dishes. Then I slept like a brick all night. And I have enjoyed good health all day today. There is an ice machine in Foochow and when the hot weather gets pretty tedious we take this way of cooling off about once a year. Mrs. Kinnear has a freezer and the ingredients are furnished by the different ones so that the cost is less than we would have to pay at home.

This morning I preached and conducted the communion at Sang Bo. There were none to unite with the church here. The preacher and the members are extremely careful about receiving new members. This has been the point that I have thought it necessary to speak of most frequently during the past two years. Some of the churches have learned the lesson and are in danger of swinging too far the other way. This it ever is in life. We find it very difficult to maintain an even balance. Ming Uong helped me in the service this morning because the preacher had gone to his old home, Chong Ha in the Ing Hok field, with Mr. Walker, who used to be much interested in Chong Ha. Ming Uong was much pleased when I told him of mother's congratulations over the advent of his daughter, and his own recovery of health.

The Seminary closes June 13th. This is rather early, but we must go according to the Chinese moons in closing and beginning schools. There are thirteen moons in the present Chinese year. This will make the Fall term very long, so we close early this Spring.

The foundations for our new house are beginning to assume form and to look like something. We shall try to begin in earnest on the church very soon. It is important that a little more land be bought to insure the new church against fire. As soon as this is purchased we are ready to tear down, and begin building.

It is very lonely without any one in the house after being accustomed to hearing the life of three robust children. One can endure it for a little time but I have a profound sympathy for those on the mission filed without wife and children to make a place of rest – a home.

The country at home is beautiful now. The meadows are fresh in their new green, the trees are dressed in various tinted robes, the cows never have such distended udders as when feeding on June's grass, the crow is eagerly watching for the first sprout of corn, you are just thinking of "turning the oxen out to grass", and how they devour the tufts after eating dry hay for so many months, the barns are hollow and empty. It is the time between planting and hoeing when we must fix fence and work roads. I wonder if we will be a part of all this two years from now. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard are to return in the Spring of 1901. Naturally we should go the next year.

I am sending under another cover two photos of the party to Ing Hok with Dr. and Mrs. Clark. You will readily know the different ones. Dr. and Mrs. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Hinman. The pumpkin pie needs no introduction. Please give one of the photos to the Putnam home.

Most lovingly Yours, with kind remembrance to all the friends
Will.

I have been all day today by Matt. 10/42

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote last on June, 3rd. No. 8. I received a letter from Miss Wooster, and on the 16th. one from you.

I have been lonely for two weeks now and over, except that Mr. Walker has taken his meals with me. Tomorrow I expect to be off for the Peak at daylight. I shall stay till Thurs., coming back in time for an examination for church membership on Fri. afternoon. Ellen writes that they have all been well and the children are getting to enjoy the bathing immensely. I was on the mountain day before yesterday. I think there have never been so many foreigners on the mountain at this season of the year since we have been in China, and certainly not previous to that time.

The Seminary closed last Wed. The examinations were held on Mon. and Tues. Six hours each day. I never was so glad of a vacation. After the boys had vacated the building I moved all the furniture out and over to this house, in preparation for the tearing down of the Seminary building to make room for the new Church, The Dudley Memorial. This will leave us without a home for the Seminary. Unless the Board grants us the $2500 asked for which to erect a new Seminary I do not know what we are to do. But I do know this that I am to walk only one step at a time, and God will light the way as he wishes me to advance.

The mail yesterday brought a postal from the Treasurer of the Woman's Board stating that she had received and paid over to the Treasurer of the American Board the sum of Two hundred dollars ($200) for the Ing Hok work. If this comes all right I am relieved of all anxiety over the financial side of the Ing Hok work for this year. This money came from Mrs. Emily Seymour of Washington. It is just the sum that the mission asked for in addition to the appropriations. I wonder if she could have heard of this request.

Last week at the examination for entrance to the church at Au long Die one of the members asked a candidate as follows: - (I shall have to translate literally in order to bring out the force of the answer.) "After having embraced the doctrine, suppose you should meet with trouble and should come and ask the church members to help and they should refuse to do so, would you because of that renounce the doctrine?" "I do not embrace you church members, I embrace the doctrine, and the treatment that I receive from you would not effect my relation to the doctrine". This is the most "pat" answer that I ever heard at one of the examinations. It brought forth a peal of approving laughter from all present. I received three into the church at Au Long Die last Sunday and one at the Au Ciu church today.

Affairs in the North are very serious. The last accounts told us that the "Boxers" had killed two English missionaries and from four to seven German (?) engineers, beside badly injuring several others both men and women. British, American, French, Russian, Japanese, German, and Italian soldiers to the number of about 1000 have been landed and are on their way to Peking. This news is old enough so that the troops must have reached the Capital before this [In reality, the foreign troops did not arrive in Peking until August 14 or 15, 1900.]. An engagement took place between foreign troops and the "Boxers" on June 12 in which 50 of the latter were killed. The Chinese troops seem to side with the boxers. It is the general belief that the Empress Dowager is in sympathy with the rioters and secretly sending them orders to proceed with the extermination of the foreigners. It looks very much as if she has got herself into a box now tho. Russia is on hand with a large force and while acting in harmony with the other powers at Peking she is ready for any emergency. The Russian cassocks have been fired upon and wounded. It will be perfectly natural for Russia to demand reparation. But all this is rather political, practically China is at war with all the countries mentioned above. She has not as much courage as a barking dog. At the same time the power at Peking evidently thinks that a few tens of thousands of toughs with spears and tridents can drive the foreigners out of the empire. Thus does the desire for personal gain blind the eyes of the officials even to their own good. God may be taking this method to cleanse the official pot.

The people who need our sympathy most are not the foreigners who have strong military force to protect them but the poor defenseless Christians among the Chinese who have no where to go and no one to protect them. From all accounts one hundred must have been killed up to this time. China needs your prayers as never before.

The reports of the Ecumenical Conference are most interesting. How I should have enjoyed being present! I am glad that some of you could attend. I have not yet heard whether the models of the Chinese houses that I sent arrived in time or not. What an unanswerable argument this Conference was to the Globe Trotters who would have the world believe that missions have not accomplished anything! What an argument also for those who declare that Christianity has lost its force and is already dying out!

Please remember us to all the friends. It is very pleasant to hear how well grandmother is keeping. You must take a special lot of love to her and Aunt Louise.

Yours with love
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started a week ago today or rather I wrote it then, i.e. June, 17th. Your last I acknowledged in that. A mail came yesterday but it brought no letter.

Last Monday I went down to Sharp Peak as I wrote a week ago. I returned on Thurs. to attend an examination for entrance to the church at Sang Tung Gio. We admitted two men who were received today at the communion. Next Sunday is the last communion for this season. I expect to start for the Peak again tomorrow morning and which we wish to attend on Thurs. evening. Then Fri. morning we are off for the mountain to stay all Summer I hope. It is a hard trip down to the Peak, an all day's sit in a boat. Last week I was on the boat and going down stream at 4:30 a.m. I reached the Peak at 6:30 p.m.

There is plenty of excitement here just now. Affairs in the North are becoming more serious each day. But you doubtless get the telegrams as soon as we do here. The news that churches have been torn down and Christians murdered in several places is of most importance to us. The Church members, especially the newer ones and the weaker ones, are very much afraid. They are not afraid of the Boxers, but there is a large mass of people in and about all these eastern cities that expect to live off plunder. At such a time as this they hope for an opportunity to work. They make all sorts of threats and these are magnified by an excited populace and it requires good sense and nerve to tell the truth and at the same time quiet the fearful.

The custom here in Foochow is for each church to write the names of the members and the church officers on a board and hang it in a conspicuous place in the church. One church has taken these down and put them out of sight, on account of a rumor that spies were about making lists of the names of church members, ready for trouble. Another pastor came to me to ask if it would be all right to omit the evening preaching service for a time. I told him I thought it would be well to omit it. This service is intended entirely for strangers and it might serve only to excite. Pastor Bang Ho of Geu Cio Dong said in regard to fears of the members, "This anxiety may prove a great blessing to us. During the China-Japan war we were very much excited, but as a result of the troubles of that time the churches were full and very many received to membership.

At five o'clock the mercury stands at 91 degrees in the coolest place in the house.

I have a note from the Consul written at 5 p.m. stating that there is no news for the past few days. The Viceroy of all provinces and other high officials have been notified that foreign soldiers have been sent to Peking to put down the Boxers and to protect the foreigners. The missionaries from Kucheng will be down this week. The latest news in the papers left the foreigners in Peking in a very anxious state. This was last Tues. As no news has come from them I have hopes that the foreign troops have reached there and they are safe. There was a report yesterday to the effect that the Emperor Guang Seu [or Guangxu] had been killed by order of the Empress Dowager while he was trying to escape from the palace. I hope this is also only a rumor.

Last Monday was Phebe's fifth birthday. Ellen gave her a little party which however came off on Tues. because Mr. Peet's children were to arrive at the Peak on that day. There were Hubbards, five; Peets, three; Kinnears, five and Beards three at the party. It would have done you good to see those children eat. Everything passed off very pleasantly without a cry from the little ones, and all expressed themselves as having had a very pleasant time. A large wax doll which arrived from Putnam two weeks ago was the present that caused looks of envy from the eyes of the other little folks, but Phebe is very generous with it and does not object to another person holding the doll for a time. Gould however thinks that he should be entitled to a doll and to a "girl doll". He has not cried for ribbons yet.

Wed. afternoon we were all down for a bath in the sea. Gould goes in like a duck. It makes no difference to him whether any one else is with him or not. He fairly enjoys the waves. He sits down in the water or gets on his knees where it is a foot deep and waits for the waves to strike him. The waves dash over his whole body sometimes wetting his head but he counts it only fun. The other day he had his mouth open as one struck him. His mouth was filled with salt water but it was all the same- only fun. Geraldine likes her bathing suit on but she wants the water a long distance away.

Remember us to all the friends, With much love, Will.

Foochow, China, July, 1st. 1900.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote a letter last Sunday, just before going to Sharp Peak. No mail has come this week. It has been a week full of excitement. The trip down to the Peak was a quick and pleasant one, a good wind in my favor all the way. I made the forty miles in five hours, found the wife and children all right. But I also found the other people so wrought up over the news that came from the North, that they were unwilling to have us start for Foochow as we intended to do on Wed. morning. I had written the Consul that last thing Sunday afternoon and received his reply that in Foochow everything seemed to be quiet, that officials were taking all possible steps to suppress any disturbance that might appear, in its earliest stage. But rumors were thick and of all kinds. They had reached the Peak. There is a Telegraph station at the Peak and of course the operators are not allowed to tell any news that comes over the wires. All sorts of interpretations were put on the "reticence" of the operators when news was talked of in their presence and some of the people had worked themselves into a state far from quiescent. To pacify them I promised to write the Consul again and ask him if he thought it wise to move to Guliang. Mr. Peet, Mrs. Hubbard and Miss Hartwell were going to Foochow to get their valuables and lay in a supply of food for the Summer. They took the boat that we intended to go up in on Wed. They started Tues. The boat got back to the Peak on Wed. afternoon, bringing a note from the Consul to the effect that Foochow was as quiet as usual, and no alarm felt by Consuls and merchants. So we were on the boat Thurs. morning at 7:30 starting for Foochow. The wind was very high and right in our faces. It was necessary to tack. The waves were ten feet high and our boat was a mere top on their crests and in their troughs. At times they broke over the whole bow and drenching everything. We were able to keep dry however, but the river soon demanded our breakfast. Every one of us succumbed. We stood it til about 9:30 o'clock, when Ellen thought it was better to stop and wait for smoother water. We anchored till 8:00 p.m. and started again with a gentle breeze that lasted for tacking till midnight, when we were at the Anchorage (Pagoda). Then the river turns and brings the wind in our favor. It was raining some all the time and was quite dark. The children slept fairly well. But we preferred to keep our eyes open. We had a good breeze and seemed to be fairly spinning thro the water. But looking at the shore we moved very slowly. Then the boat seemed to strike an obstruction, which proved to be drift wood. It was then that we perceived that there was a big flood in the river, and it was necessary to keep the sharpest lookout to avoid a catastrophe. At five o'clock we were within a mile of our house, but all was water. The wind had died down and it was impossible to get the boat up to the usual landing, so we went up a creek which flows into the river about a mile below Foochow, and which winds about and goes within half a mile of our compound. The rain now began to fall in torrents. We could find no place to land. At last we found a small boat that engaged to take us to a place where we could wade and get to the house. We dared not think of taking any of our things except what could be put into my little hand bag. Ellen took off her dress skirt and her shoes and her hat. I was also minus shoes and hat. The children in the same condition. We were on this small shell of a boat for nearly an hour trying one way and another to get to a path on which we could walk to the house. We fully expected to have to wade for some distance in water knee deep. But fortunately we hit upon a way that took us to within three minutes walk of the house and there was no water on the stone road. We reached the house at 9:30. This was nine hours and a half from the Anchorage, a trip that ordinarily is made in three hours. But we were safe in the old home again and were profoundly thankful that God had kept us from harm.

When we started we fully expected to arrive in time to attend a wedding in the Meth. mission on Thurs. evening. We found Mr. and Mrs. Hinman at Ponasang. They had come down from Guliang the day before and attended the wedding. Fri. morning the water was so deep on the road to Guliang that after two attempts to cross the plain they had given it up. We were prisoners on the little hill, now an island, of Ponasang. Our boy knew we were coming and bought provisions for a day or two. The Hinmans had almost no food. We have been living tho thus far quite comfortably. A shipment of goods from San Francisco had just arrived and with this to help we are all right.

The rain continued to fall all day Fri. and Sat. and today it still falls lightly. The water rose to heights that the oldest inhabitants never knew. People who lived on the lower ground moved into the lofts of their houses, only to be driven to the roofs, then to be carried off by the water if they were not fortunate enough to find a boat to save them. All sorts of furniture goes down the current right over the rice fields. Many houses have fallen and have been washed away. In one ward out of sixty houses twelve are now standing. From what I hear I should judge that the number of the drowned would reach into the hundreds just here in the Suburbs. Many high mud walls have fallen and killed persons who were near them. In some places where two mud walls twenty feet high stood on either side of a narrow street, they have fallen and nearly to get about some. Three spans of "The Bridge of a Thousand Ages" have gone down before the mighty force of the water. The rice crop is nearly destroyed.

We prayed yesterday morning that we might find some way to help the poor sufferers. Mr. and Mrs. Hinman wanted to get to the mountain very badly. So I sent a man out to find a boat to take them over the rice fields. He said the boats were all engaged in rescuing people from the tops of houses. He chanced to mention that a great number of poor people all drenched had taken shelter in a temple on a hill near us. These people had nothing to eat. I at once called the pastor of Geu Cio Dong and consulted with him about a feeding them. So we are feeding about 500 people yesterday and today. I hope by tomorrow they will be able to care for themselves.

This morning a man came over from Ha Puo to say that one of the fire walls there on our property had begun to go over. Fortunately it was coming over on to our own property. It will cost me $60 or over to put it up. I had a mason go over and pull it down immediately so it should do no harm to any one.

News from the North is scarce. The last we hear Seymour had tried with a few hundred soldiers to go to Peking and relieve the Foreigners. He had not been able to reach the city and was obliged to turn about and fight his way all the way back with the loss of fifty or more of his men. This is very bad. All the ministers and the merchants and the missionaries and their families, beside the missionaries from Cheefoo are in Peking. We have not heard from them for three weeks. All communication by rail or telegraph is cut off. We know that large numbers of the Church members there have been murdered, together with many of the servants of the foreigners. George Wilder and his wife are there. Lyon and his wife I think are in Tientsin, which is safe.

A colporteur [colporteur] told me yesterday that the other day as he was selling books he was told to put those Christian books out of sight. They were of no more use. The church was about to be destroyed. If he did not keep still about his Christian doctrine they would throw him into the river. But he talked calmly to the men and the crowd subsided. The flood has diverted attention for the present.

[handwritten]

Mon Evening. Letters from Phebe and mother came today. We expect to start for Guliang tomorrow morning. Flood did much more damage then I knew of yesterday.

Love to all
Will

[This typewritten letter dated July 8, 1900 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. The flood in Foochow and the Boxer problems in the North have made church audiences small. The flood caused more damage than Willard previously thought and thousands may have been killed. News from Peking is that the foreigners are in the British Legation and are under heavy artillery fire. Some in Foochow are leaving for Japan out of fear. Others, including Willard's family, are going to Kuliang for the summer. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China, July, 8th. 1900.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote you one week ago today, I think. No letters have arrived since then. We were surrounded with water at that time waiting for a chance to go to the mountain. The water subsided on Monday and we got off for the mountain on Tues. morning. I came down yesterday to hold communion at Dung Song. One man was received. The troubles in the North and the rumors that result from them in Foochow made the audience small. The disasters from the flood perhaps were as great a cause as the other two.

After the water went down I learned that the flood had done more damage than we knew of at the time of writing last week. There is one place between here and the city where the houses on both sides of the road are swept away as clean as if a fire had burnt them. About one hundred houses were thus carried away. Between Ponasang and the foot of the mountain Ellen counted 36 places where walls had fallen. In some of these places a dozen houses had been crushed. Coming down yesterday I took a different road to go to the city. In one place the idol temple had fallen. The idols lay staring into sky, about a dozen of them, perfectly helpless. The preacher from Upper Bridge was down yesterday and said that a temple there had been washed away. The people said there was no good in worshipping such idols as those, that could neither care for themselves nor their houses.

It is very difficult to estimate the loss of life. I think I wrote of hundreds last week. It must be in the thousands. Thousands beside are left homeless and with nothing to eat. The friends of many of those who lost their lives could not procure coffins for burial. A subscription of 3500 has been raised among the merchants and other foreigners for the relief of the sufferers.

News from the North is still scarce. We have heard from Peking this week. Sir Robert Hart sent a courier from there with the news that the foreigners were in the British Legation [embassy], under heavy artillery fire. He thought they could hold out for 24 hours. Later all the legations were ordered out of Peking. This looks a little as if China was preparing to go to war with the powers. Of course you know the German Minister has been killed and that the Germans retaliated by burning the Tsung Li Yamen. The report is that Germany is sending a large fleet out here to see about matters. It looks very much as if this time matters would not be "patched up." My worst fears are that the powers will get to quarrelling among themselves over the trouble and then the latter state will be worse than the former. [The book, The Boxer Rebellion, by Diana Preston, gives a thorough account of the events taking place in Peking.]

Thus far in Foochow there is outward quiet. Every one feels the gravity of the situation tho, and some are going to Japan. Rumors continue, altho the flood has dampened the ardor of those who were fostering them. God has given them something else to do and something else to talk about in the distress from the flood.

Owing to the flood and the serious news from the North the celebrations on the Fourth were very meager. Gould teased for a bunch of firecrackers. We bought a bunch. Then he wanted them fired off immediately. I lit some of them. As soon as the noise began he ran to his mother and hid his face in her dress. We do not know what has made him so afraid of firecrackers, unless it be that Phebe has always been afraid of them and he has caught her fear. Two years he just shouted when he heard them. He would nearly climbed over the veranda railing to get to them. I think however that he begins to realize that it is not manly to be so afraid. And I think another year will see him all right again.

While Ellen was at the Peak Mr. Walker went to our mountain cottage. We expected he would go to the Peak soon after we came to the mountain. But when we arrived at our house on the mountain and he found how many were in the sanitarium at the Peak he wanted to stay at the mountain. So we told him to stay as long as [he] wished to. This makes it a little crowded for us. But this is compensated by his being there for company for Ellen while I am away, as at this time.

Owing to the situation the people from Amoy have not yet come to Guliang. Most of the Foochow contingent is there, and the mountain begins to appear lively. Our chapel is in good condition and experts say it will stand the typhoons. Our new house is progressing slowly. The foundation is nearly finished. The money for the Dudley Memorial Church is slow in coming and the present troubles are not conducive to rushing things of that sort. So we are only planning as yet.

I know you are remembering us and this poor old wreck of a country in every prayer. May God have mercy on China. And may he control in the deliberations of the powers in regard to this country.

Very affectionately Yours

Will.

Shanghai, July 29th 1900

Dear Bro Beard-

I was not at all satisfied with my own failure to communicate with you at the mountain a week ago- but the rush of getting off used all of the time and I write now to send on the next down steamer- by this time you have probably heard of all the reasons pro and con that led us to get our families away, and of the time we had at Pagoda- and will know how many of the reasons for our going apply to you- It seems to me that everything that influences us should have about the same weight with you- with the additional one that you have staid closely at Foochow- a long time and need the change of a summer away- It is a long way from a picnic to go off this way and I doubt if there is a man in the crowd that would not prefer to go back if the reasons for leaving the port did not still hold good, but we are all fully convinced that we have done the wisest thing.

I am writing all this to say that in view of the fact that the end of the business is not in sight, - that it is summer when we ought to be resting in quiet- that the nerve strain of hearing rumors of trouble one day and of safety the next- is bound to unfit you for work in the autumn- that in case of trouble it is difficult to move a family quickly- that you are in a condition demanding nerve rest- which cannot be had on Chinese soil this summer,- I urgently advise that you move your family to Japan as soon as you can come. This is my advice as physician- and I have no hesitation in saying that the mission will uphold you in acting upon it. There may be no trouble in Foochow- but there will be anxiety until matters are settled.

I think we get no new or important light upon the subject here, but the magnitude of the trouble grows upon one and it all seems more real and more terrible than it did at Foochow. The steamer that we came up on, the "Hsin Fung"- was at Taku- at the time of the bombardment- and some of the officers went on shore in the morning and brought away some relics (?)- a new Mannlicher rifle- a Nordenfelt taken from the hands of a dead Chinese- an officers sword- a shoot sword- piece of an exploded shell and the feeling that seeing the things and talking with people here gives me - is that a war is on that means a great deal- rather than a local uprising that will soon be over. Of course such impressions must be taken for what they are worth only. The most significant thing I have heard here was told me by Mr. Lyman. He says that Chan Chi Tsing[?] has notified the foreigners in his province that he fears he cannot control his troops more than a week longer and requested them to leave as rapidly as possible- and three hundred missionaries are expected in S. during the next few days as a result. My motion is that if he cannot control his well-disciplined troops- no viceroy can, and that the Hunan hatred of foreigners may be pretty certainly depended upon to show itself if an opportunity is given. If this is true, there is no reason for assurance that there will be no trouble in Foochow which did not hold at Peking and Tientsin- before trouble commenced.

Here at Shanghai there is no undue anxiety felt- trouble is not expected and yet there is a serious appreciation of the seriousness of the situation, and no one makes light of the possibilities. There are 5000 well drilled troops, and at the arsenal beyond the city are a lot of arms and ammunition. There is an enormous amount of loot here, and of course, the full allowance of bad Chinese, good forts protect the entrance of the river which is easily stopped- and the few gun boats here at any one time, would find it difficult to take care of the large community of foreigners here- so even here it is not all one sided- in favor of the foreigners. The volunteers have been increased until there is quite a company- but there is a limit to the number of bullets they can fire.

We have had a hard week getting here. Monday P.M. took house boat for Pagoda- arriving in the evening, settled at Hubbard house for the night- early in the morning Tuesday- we saw the Lacy party (Misses Glenck, Longstreet, Mrs. Bosworth, Mrs. Plumb-Simesters and Lacy's coming up the walk. They had one servant- but our men had not been paid and staid by- so we got bread etc from Manni[?] and managed to live. We expected to sail Wed. morn'g but were told sailing was delayed, so made beds at the woman's school and Borts house for the crowd, leaving Hubbard house for the Peets who came Tues. ev'g. We did not live like princes but got along as well as any crowd would under the circumstances. We commenced getting to ??- moving baggage over Wednesday morning and kept three sampans busy during the P.M. The cap't gave different hours of sailing to different persons, but we supposed he would really start Thursday but finally he hoisted one anchor at 5 P.M. Wednesday while I was at customs jetty waiting for sampan to come back for us. However we got on board- an officer gave up his cabin with one berth and lounge to Mrs. Plumb and our family- but we found it too hot to sleep in and with most of the party slept in saloon or on deck- leaving Chinese girl and two of children in cabin. Had trouble finding anyplace to stay but Dr. Wilcox has had rooms reserved for the M.E. party at the Astor house, and by doubling up they let us in. I never expected to put up here by [but?] am forced to do so now. We have a room with a ¾ bed and lounge. By putting bed and lounge together Mrs. K and the three youngest can sleep under the large netting the rest of us sleep on the floor on steamer rugs etc. If you come and get in late in P.M. pay your board on steamer for night- then go to union church to reception Com who are looking out for missionaries. If a man comes on steamer with yellow badge, he is the member of Com sent to meet you. They are finding great difficulty in finding places for people and it will be useless for you to try to find a place in any other way.

Yesterday morning Peet and I went out to get passage and the best we could do was a French mail sailing Wed. on Thom. If you can get the big liners a second class passage wh. we got is good enough- for any body. Later in the day Lacy tried to get tickets for his party at the place and they refused to sell saying that they had had forty five applicants already and were only sure of having seventeen berths to sell.

Thus far we find Shan. cooler than Foochow- but the steamer was terrific- we brought our party here in rickshas and Buo-ing nearly put her jaw out of joint grimacing at the novelty of riding that way. She is proving an invaluable help to us on the journey and seems to be taking in a good deal.

Hoping you will get away soon. I remain

Yours truly

H.N. Kinnear [Hardman N. Kinnear]

I will send you a letter from Kobe fr. Mr. Evans- advising you as to where to go in Japan- providing I can get an information of use to you. In the absence of such a letter buy S.S. ticket to Kobe and go to the girls college.

Monday Mng.

Dear Beard- Things are said to be more serious here this mng. Massacres reported from just south of Fukien- in Che Kiang by our old friends the vegetarians- and from We an Hung chan. It is said that cannons are being put on the wall of the native city here and people are expecting trouble before long. In view of this and of the fact that it will be almost impossible to get passage from here hereafter- you better go to Hong Kong I fancy and take steamer from there. It will be more expensive but safer I think.

Yours in hast-

H.N. Kinnear

Dear Folks at Home:-

This letter written a year ago may be of interest to you. It will at least give you another glimpse of the factors in the problem that we had before us at that time.

I am writing this July 3rd at 10:30 a.m. I expected to be at Guliang by this time. But a flood makes me prisoner. I enclose Ellen's last note written Monday (July 1st) evening. The flood will injure rice crops seriously but it will help stop the plague.

Lovingly,

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

July 20th I wrote last. It seems ages since we have heard from you. The last letter arrived July 2nd.

These have been anxious days for the whole community. Many have decided to leave for safer places. I wrote you of the anxiety felt on July 17 and 18, and how near some of the people came to deciding to leave then. Mr. and Mrs. Main and Dr. and Mrs. Skinner of the Meth. Mission left on Sat. July 21st. Mr. and Mrs. Main and two children for Japan. Dr. and Mrs. Skinner and two children for the U.S. owing to Mrs. Skinner's health. On that day some of the people were in Foochow and the next day, one week ago today they asked for a meeting of American citizens to discuss the situation. It seems that many of the pastors and preachers of the Meth. mission strongly advised the departure of the missionaries on the ground that it would lessen the danger of the Chinese Christians if we were out of the way. The Consul also advised our going. In view of these two considerations I advised leaving Foochow, but said I would not take the first steamer. I wanted first to get some of our more important property at Ponasang, then go with Ellen and the children to Pagoda Anchorage and unless the situation changed take a later steamer for somewhere- perhaps Japan, perhaps America. With this plan in our minds, I went down to Foochow Mon. July 25th, and arranged money and other matters for leaving the port and sent for a lot of things to be taken to Pagoda Anchorage expecting that about half of our Am. Board people would go to the Anchorage that afternoon, and I returning to the mountain that afternoon would go the next morning to the Anchorage with the rest. Well, I was sorry, after I had been in Foochow and had talked with Chinese both Christian and heathen, that we had decided to go. So I was prepared to rejoice when I got back to Guliang and found not one of our mission had left. They had heard better news from other sources than the news of Sunday and decided to wait till I returned before moving. I strongly advised remaining quietly here as long as present conditions existed. So here we are still. Dr. Kinnear and Mr. Peet have gone with their families to Japan. Mrs. Hubbard on Fri. wrote asking us to go with her and their children leaving Mr. Hubbard at Pagoda for a time, but we declined. About 40 ladies of the Zenama Society, England are ordered home without option by the home society. Some of them refuse to obey and will remain. A cablegram came arrived from Boston on Fri, "Hartwell, Foochow Mission leave if best." This is equivalent to authorizing us to use our own judgment. The Consuls all say there is no danger. The French Consul has not called the French Priests in from the country. The business men feel safe. Not one has even moved his family from the port. The families of most of them are here on the mountain with us. The wife and daughter of our U.S. Consul are here with us. This however is not saying that there is no danger. There is a large amount of very threatening talk in Foochow, and the villages near. We are told openly that we are to be killed. The Chinese Christians are continually told this. July 8th was set for the day. Then July 14th. Then the City and Suburbs were placarded notifying and calling on the people to rise and destroy Christians and foreigners and all churches and foreign buildings on July 26th. These dates have all passed and there has been no damage done. The rabble are kept down by the officials. It is due to the vigilance of the officers and to this alone that there had been no outbreak. The higher officials dressed in citizens clothes go about the streets with soldiers also in common apparel, and if any one is heard talking in threats he is beaten on the spot and perhaps imprisoned. A threat was made on our house at Ponasang, but the official on hearing it immediately went himself and put a special guard there. A week ago today services were held as usual in the churches with good audiences. I learned yesterday that at Geu Cio Dong one man will join the church today. This was a rebuke to my weak faith. I had said to my self that at this communion there would be no additions surely. Think what it means. Streets placarded with notices that all church members are to be killed. These ch. members told every day that they are about to die. A large element of the population crazy for plunder and rapine, kept from acts of violence only by fear of the officials! In the midst of this a man voluntarily casting in his lot with these despised ones.

It may be a mystery to you why we do not leave. There are three reasons for our staying as long as we think it not absolutely necessary to leave. 1. It will take a lot of money to go away and money is not any too plenty now. It will also involve the loss of more or less personal property to leave. 2. It is the worst time in the year to take children away. The steamers are all crowded, the hotels in all the ports are jammed. Japan is full of refugees from China already. It would be a hard pull on our own physical strength to take the family away. 3. And chief. It will be a great injury to the Chinese Church. I have not yet explained to my own satisfaction why the Chinese pastors and other helpers advised some of the missionaries to leave. I know only that these advisers had received three months pay in advance and that, altho they promised to stay and work on as usual, they were all gone two days after they had received their pay. One incident will suffice to show how our action influences the Chinese. I told Ming Uong last Monday that we expected to go to Pagoda and possibly farther. He immediately said he was going to take his wife and sisters off into the country. He moved his wife to his fathers home that evening. The next morning he heard we were not going. He wrote me he had decided not to move his wife and sisters. Mr. Lacy and Mr. Simester and families with several single ladies sailed with Dr. Kinnear and Mr. Peet. Following the departure of these was a great exodus of Chinese Christians from the city to the country. Our coolie refused to stay at the house at Ponasang, but when he found we were not going he went back all right. I earnestly hope God will allow us to remain.

Of news from Peking there is none. It is futile to write our fears. The last heard from them direct was on June 24th. They were then calling piteously for help. One can hardly call on God to have mercy on the perpetrators of the crimes committed in this Empire during the past month. It must be as Christ prayed on the cross- "for they know not what they do." The weather has been perfect on Guliang this month. We have had no rain since July 3rd. Rain is badly needed now to save the potatoe crop all thro this part of the country. My right hand man was down from Ing Hok yesterday. He said the disturbed condition of the country was second in importance to the high price and scarcity of food. In one place about fifty miles beyond Ing Hok people are reported to be starving. In Foochow rice is $7. per load when it was $5. a few months ago. This of course agravates the other trouble.

We have all been quite well this Summer. Mr. Walker is still with us. It has been very much to my peace of mind, and to Ellen's also, that he has been here for company for her in this troublous time while I have had to be away.

The Guliang Convention began this P.M. with the preaching service at 5 o'clock. I have a meeting Wed. afternoon. The audience will be small this year compared with the past few years.

The children are in their night gowns and are making noise enough for you to hear if your ears were keen enough. Geraldine is not a whit behind when it comes to making a noise. She has to stop periodically and run to me with "Papa, ba" whatever that means. We have not yet taken her to church. She is now trying to drink from a tall quart bottle that we keep water in. It's too much for her.

You are all at home now on vacations. Haying is almost over. Picnics and visiting are about to begin. I hope you will find time for a word now and then to us.

God is very near and real these days. It is a great comfort to know that you are all praying for us.

With Love to all

Will.

Damage was done to the houses and churches and some of the missionaries belongings were burned. More than 1/2 the members of 2 of the churches have turned away from the church. Willard and Ellen are keeping calm in the midst of the troubles in China. Since the flood they are now having a drought and crops are drying up. News sounds more hopeful from Peking. However, nine foreigners were killed in Shansi. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last week has brought a letter from you and two from Putnam. I wrote a week ago today. The important event of the week has been the news of the looting of the churches, Christian's houses and foreign houses at Shaowu. No persons were injured. The raid was made Tues. July 24th beginning in the afternoon and continuing thro the night. The walls and roofs of the buildings are left. Doors, windows, partitions and floors were taken away or destroyed. All the winter clothing of our missionaries was burned together with their books and any other things the looters did not care for. The looters were Shaowu men, gamblers and others who hated the right and who wanted to plunder. The first news reached us last Monday morning at breakfast time by special messenger. The next day but one other letter came telling more details and saying that everything had been quiet till the letter from the Consul to the Foochow officials telling them that missionaries could not communicate directly with the Chinese officials, arrived. Then the rabble began to say this letter allowed of the looting of churches and houses, and the talk was put into action. The Shaowu pastor, evangelist and a Chinese Christian, a druggist, arrived yesterday. During the raid they had recognized twenty men whose names they gave the Shaowu magistrate. He himself told these three men that because of the information given their lives were in danger, and requested that they leave for a time. This magistrate at the time of the raid did all in his power to avert the raid and had his chair broken in pieces by the raiders and was obliged to walk back to his yamen. The other local officials did not help him in his good efforts. I do not know what you may have heard concerning this matter. Mr. Walker cabled the Board of the destruction of the property. Many of the Chinese Christians lost everything, but no one was injured. The Catholic mission fared the same as ours. At the time there were three French Priests in Shaowu. They escaped and are in Foochow. These are the facts of this case and I think all the important facts.

Now as to the bearing of this raid on the situation in Foochow. Probably it will not affect the situation here at all. The raiders were Shaowu men- not even a secret society. They are known and are already alarmed at what they have done. The Viceroy promises immediate punishment and we have proofs of the carrying out of his good promises.

This morning the Pastor and evangelist conducted the Chinese service here on Guliang. They were themselves living examples of the power of God's Holy Spirit to keep in the hour of peril. Their earthly goods are all gone. They are in personal danger of life. Yet the pastor's prayer was only of praise and Thanksgiving to God for his wonderful grace that sustains. The only petition was that God would in mercy forgive sins. Preacher Diong's testimony to the comforting and sustaining power of God was beautiful. He said that most of the church members were standing true. Some had rejected Christ- torn down the Sabbath calendar and put up the ancestral tablets.

I received word on Thursday that a raid had been made of the Deng Chio chapel- the one nearest Foochow in the Ing Hok field- four seats had been taken away. This also is only local. With this exception all places in and about Foochow are quiet so far as I can learn.

I went down to Ponasang day before yesterday. Miss Garretson went with me. Everything was perfectly quiet and natural all the way. We took dinner at Ponasang. I went in the streets as usual and with the exception of a soldier once every few doors, I should have noticed nothing to make me think of anything unusual. One man joined the church at Geu Cio Dong last Sunday. At Ha Puo Ga where Ming Uong's father is, the morning audience numbered 135. Ninety attended the Christian Endeavor in the evening. The members of two churches, Au Ciu and Sang Tung Gio, are much alarmed. More than half are turning away from the faith. The other churches have fair audiences. This is a terrible testing time for our churches. We know now who are the true and who the fake. There is a clear line of demarcation. I hope in all your prayer for us you will not forget the Chinese Christians, both those who are strong in the faith and those who are weak.

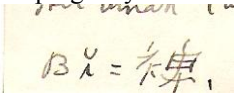

I wrote you last week of the departure of Messrs. Peet, Kinnear, Lacy, Simester, Wilcox, Miner and Ohlinger with their families, beside a number of young ladies. Dr. Kinnear writes practically ordering us to leave, lest the fear and worry of remaining here will be too hard for us. Mr. Lacy also writes to some of the Methodists remaining, to leave. But we feel it our duty to remain as long as conditions do not change. Of worry or anxiety we have very little. It is certainly true that God gives peace of mind to those who put their trust in him. There is no can't about this. It is based on hard cold fact and real experience. I have always called myself cowardly in this realm. And I must confess that I did not months ago dare hope for such a calm mind- not an hour's sleep has been lost this Summer over fear or anxiety. Ellen testifies to the same keeping power.

Today our Convention closes with a sermon and the communion conducted by Mr. Walker. The numbers this year have been few but we have had good meetings. One year ago today- just at the close of the Convention week, we had in our house 24 typhoon refugees. Today is a beautiful calm- not very hot day. We have had no rain here since the flood. The potatoes are drying up and on the plain many of the rice fields are dry and hard. They are too far from the river or too high for water to be pumped into them. What a year this is for China! Flood, insurrection, drought! But it is all working together for good, thro God's wise guidance, and the Kingdom of God in this Empire will come, and his church will be the purer and the stronger for these trials. Thus far the Chinese converts in this place and the surrounding country have been exceptionally free from persecution. There have been individual cases, but even these have seldom been severe. In the history of the church, it has always and everywhere had to pass thro trial to gain success that was lasting.

Thus far self supporting churches are caring for themselves with one exception. I am helping the Au Ciu preacher.

The children and Ellen continue well. Phebe and Gould want to go to church regularly. Ellen took Geraldine once this past week. She did credit to her bringing up. She is developing very fast. Her amah takes great pride in her accomplishments. The other day she told me her name was Bi . When she cannot express her thoughts in words she resorts to pantomime. She tried to tell her mama, Phebe was asleep. She could say "Pebe" but "sleep" was beyond her depth, so she dropped her head and closed her eyes. She wants me to take her on the veranda each night and rock her to sleep in the cool breeze. Ellen is very careful to have a blanket thrown over her. One evening this had not been done. So she said "Papa" and rubbed her chest with her hand saying "No, No" and shaking her head.

Mr. Walker is still with us and puts up with the three bairns quite graciously. During the past week about 25 of the Zenana ladies have left for home or for Japan. This quite thins the ranks on the mountain. These ladies were compelled to leave at the arbitrary cablegram from England. The tea merchants and some of the Consuls (Russian and French) are on the mountain with their families. They are comparatively little concerned about the situation. One of them told me the other day that all the Chinese compradores=the foreigner's Chinese agent= were perfectly confident that there would be no trouble. All these men are moneyed men and they would not risk in business ventures if they thought trouble would come.

The telegram of yesterday stated that the Legation in Peking were safe 7/27. That Boxers were fighting each other and Imperial troops fighting them- about 55,000 allied troops started for Peking from Tientsin three days ago. The N. China Herald came this morning and altho it was Sunday we felt justified in learning all we could of the situation. Its tone is very hopeful. The most serious item of news for us is the reported massacre of nine foreigners [Author/Missionary, Donald MacInnis wrote in green ink here "Che Kiang and Shansi."] in the province just north of us. It looks also as if our missionaries in Shansi were called to receive their crowns.

Trusting God for daily protection and guidance With love to all Will.

[This letter dated Aug. 12, 1900 was written from Guliang (Kuliang), Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. The main concern in Foochow is the drought. The 55,000 allied troops won a battle against the Boxers. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Guliang, Foochow, Aug. 12th 1900.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote last Sunday. No letters have arrived since then. Thursday I went from here down the mountain to Pagoda Anchorage to Miss Borts house where our "valuables" were taken three weeks ago when so many left Foochow and when we came so near leaving Guliang and going to Pagoda. I had not see the things since they left Ponasang and I wanted to know their condition. Three other gentlemen went with me. They wanted to see the road down to Pagoda directly from Guliang in case a hurried exit from Guliang should be necessary. We started at 5:30 A.M. arriving at Pagoda at 10:00 A.M. The last half hour we were in a boat crossing the river. I worked every moment while there rearranging things. At 12:30 we were on our way back. We could take the boat to a point a little nearer the port of the mountain than we took it coming down. The tide was against us and it was 2:50 P.M. before we left the boat. 5:30 found us up the mountain about 1 ½ miles from home in the company of nearly all the Americans on the mountain who had come out to meet us - with coffee, water and a lunch. My feeling at the sight of those coffee and water bottles made me think of the way a car load of cattle rushes for drink after they have been on the car twenty four hours. The day was frightfully hot and one quart bottle of water for four pedestrians did not go far. We drank some of the brook water by the way, but even this did not quench thirst. I have not been worth much since. I think tho it was the sitting in a cool breeze at the lunch rather than the walk, for Ellen and Mr. Walker have both had trouble with their bowels since then. Mr. Walker and E. are nearly well and I am on the mend. Geraldine has been troubled in the same way for over a week - a little better now. Phebe and Gould are well. We have another boarder- a young man who only takes his meals here.

Foochow has remained quiet during the week. The greatest source of anxiety here now is drought. There has been almost no rain since the flood July 1st. Potatoes and rice are feeling it very much. Some of the rice is already dead, and the leaves of the potatoe vines are curling up. Friday there was a fire on the island between the bridges in Foochow suburbs. But I hear only a native custom house and five boats anchored near were destroyed.

The pastor, evangelist, and druggist who were down from Shaowu last week have returned with letters from the Consul and the Viceroy. It is hoped they may be able to begin repairs on some of the buildings before long.

One battle between the Boxers and the 55,000 allied forces was reported as having taken place last Sunday. The losses among the allies were heavy but they won the victory. The safety of other parts of China depends upon the victories of this army.

How we do long for letters from you, and it seems as if there never was such a dearth of them. Picnics are in vogue in the home land now. But we know that altho not many letters come from you, you remember this poor battered, sinking Empire and that you are praying for her and specially for us. We are now praying that God will not allow this crisis to pass without opening the way for the progress of His Gospel thro out the Empire. There must be a terrible upheaval before the existing order of things can allow the Truth to enter and control all circles. May it be at this time is our prayer.

With Love to all.

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote a week ago today. August 14th a letter came from you. Every thing has gone as usual during the week here in Foochow- too much as usual. No rain has fallen yet, except one or two little showers that did not wet down an inch. Some rice is ruined, much is injured. The same is true of potatoes. To day about 200 mountaineers have gone about ten miles away from Guliang to the temple of a rain god to ask for rain. One man goes from a house. Each carried a bamboo on which a few leaves had been left and to which had been fastened a piece of cloth, color and size did not seem to be matters of deep moment. They had drums and some wore peculiar hats. They presented quite a spectacle as they marched along single file. From our house we had a good view of their assembling place and could see the different detachments as they came for the various little villages scattered all about among the mountains. When rain comes, will it be in answer to their petitions or in answer to the prayers of God's people that have gone up to him daily for more than two weeks?

Thursday Dr. Woodhull, Miss Brown, Dr. and Miss Bement, Miss Borts, Mr. Walker, Mrs. White (Eng.), Mr. Bucknall (Eng.), Ellen, the children and I went to Kushan Monastery. We started at 8:25 a.m. arriving at 10:50 a.m. The day was cool and clear the road is just a mountain path in some places so steep and crooked that one cannot ride in a chair. The Monastery covers about an acre. There are about 300 priests connected with it- not over half at home at any one time. These have about 70 servants to do their work. The work consists in caring for the buildings, in caring for the ducks, chickens, pigs, goats and cattle that are given to the monastery as deeds of merit. These are never killed- as you can easily believe by the appearance of some of the pigs. Then there are large tracks of forest, potatoe fields, and rice fields that belong to the institution. There are also very fine gardens. I was there once in the time Chrysanthemums. They were very beautiful. We saw them growing the other day in pots. In two months they will grace the courts of the buildings with blossoms six inches in diameter. The care of all these keeps 70 men busy. The kettles in which they boil their rice are 5 feet in diameter at the top and about 4 feet deep with round bottoms. One of the great amusements for the children is feeding a pond full of carp.

The children thoroughly enjoyed the whole day. Phebe and Gould walked fully a mile on way over and all three were not quiet 5 minutes while there. A new building is nearly completed. The second floor of which is palatial. It was delightfully cool and made a very pleasant place to rest and lunch.

Yesterday Mr. Hinman and I went to Foochow. The day was not oppressively hot- to day is- Every thing was quiet and natural. The new residence has walls about 10 feet high, window and door frames of the first story are in place.

The telegram last evening announced that on the 15th the allied forces entered Peking by the Straight East Gate. All diplomats safe. Empress Dowager and Emperor fled. As soon as I can hear of a peace agreement I shall feel much more settled about the future. More chapels were looted in the Amoy field only 4 or 5 days from Foochow this last week. There is very bad talk in the Ing Hok district but no outbreak yet. I want very much to go up there but the heat is great as yet.

We are all quite well. Ellen says of Geraldine "She's a piece". Gould is working harder than anyone else here flying kites. He got one up and flew it a long time yesterday all alone. His patience and persistence are great.

With much love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote a week ago today. No letters have come from you this week. In Foochow there is no change in the condition of things. Last Sunday at one of the Church Missionary Society's churches in the city a man was talking rather boastingly of the goodness of church members and comparing them with heathen. There was a large idol procession at the time passing the church and there were some very loud words that threatened trouble. The officials were on the scene immediately and all trouble quelled.

The program of the week is as follows:-

Monday – went calling with Ellen and Mr. Walker in the afternoon.

Tuesday- went to a picnic at Ox Head Fort. Took Phebe and Gould

Wednesday- Prayer meeting and tennis afterward

Thursday- Went to top of Kushan with a party. Took Phebe and Gould.

Friday. – Ellen and I went to Ponasang. Ellen went specially to see the new house. It is going up nicely, altho we shall not be able to get into it till late in the Fall. In the afternoon at 2:30 had a nice shower. At 3:45 we started for the mountain arriving at 7:00. I got wet thro purposely. Ellen kept pretty dry. Misses Brown, Borts, Bement and Dr. Bement took care of the children.

Saturday- Played tennis 5 sets.

All the time not occupied in correspondence and daily routine has been put on the Report for the Ing Hok work of 1899 which I hope to take to the press this next week.

There has been very little from the North this week. It is a little hard to wait patiently, but this is the only thing to do. We cannot feel secure and settled here in Foochow till there is a settlement of the whole question at Peking. I had a letter from Mr. D. Willard Lyon this week. He with his wife and 2 children fled from Peking to Tientsin, the day before the Rail Road was torn up. They then went to Peitai Ho seaside resort. In two weeks they had to flee with 33 other Americans and as many other nationalities to Chefoo on a hospital ship. From there the Americans were taken on the "Nashville" to Seoul, Corea. There they are now. They lost everything except what they chanced to have with them at the time of flight. George Wilder's family went to Japan at the beginning of the trouble. He remained for a time. Lyon says he is alive, but whether in Tientsin or Japan now does not know.

Details of the disaster all over the Empire are difficult [to] get hold of. But as the truth comes- a little here and a little there, it is much better than the reports received during July. Another fact seems to be coming out. The trouble is not due to foreigners and to Christians entirely- perhaps not primarily. There seems to be abroad in the land a spirit of rapine and plunder. For some time there have been two parties in China- one representing the Empress Dowager, the other representing the emperor. The first party opposed progress or change and stood up for the Manchus, the second party championed progress and the cause of the Chinese. Add to this poor crops, high prices and hard times thro out the Empire and the spirit of lawlessness found the way open, and the most conspicuous and convenient mark was the foreigner and the institutions he had brought with him. But now in the north west of this province a band of outlaws numbering 4000 are surrounding a walled city in which there is not a Christian or any sign of a foreigner. Plunder and murder is the only motive.

In the midst of it all God's kingdom stands. And this test will be a great blessing to the church.

We are all quite well. Mr. Walker is still with us and Mr. Bucknall who has taken his meals with us for three weeks leaves tomorrow.

With Love to all

Will.

Gould still prefers to fly kites to eating or sleeping.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Last Sunday I wrote you. Your last letter arrived so long ago I need not refer to it.

I have finished the Ing Hok Report and put it in the printer's hands. I went down to Foochow Fri. largely for that purpose. Shortly after I arrived at Ponasang, Nik Huak the Ing Hok travelling evangelist arrived with the news of trouble at Sung Kau. Last Sunday night thieves broke into the chapel there in the absence of the preacher and stole everything that they could take away. Nik Huak had left his travelling kit at this chapel that night and had gone with the preacher over to Diong Keng to rejoice with the preacher there over the arrival of a new son. On hearing of the theft they returned early Monday morning, notified the official who at once went in person to see the chapel, and then sent his runners to arrest three persons as witnesses. Two of these were in the chapel Sunday evening asking strange questions. The other was a ferryman. The official began to question the ferryman and found that he had that morning ferried over a man with some of the stolen goods. The testimony was getting valuable when about one hundred men rushed in and took away the three witnesses forbidding the official to investigate further, and threatening the Christians if they followed up the case. The official then wrote the magistrate at Ing Hok city that the case was too large for him to manage asking for soldiers to bring the case to a settlement. The Magistrate sent up eight runners who are no good.

I am planning to go up to Ing Hok this week Wed. That is start from Guliang Wed. afternoon, spend the night at Ponasang, start Thurs. morning for Ing Hok arrive Fri. afternoon, do my business Sat., administer the communion Sunday, start for home Monday reaching Guliang Tues. afternoon.

The Shaowu Preachers are down again. You remember that these men had their lives threatened at Shaowu and came to Foochow, then returned with letters from the Consul to Shaowu officials for their protection. Well the condition of things was such that their friends would not allow them to return but stopped them about 50 miles this side of Shaowu. A secret society is sending around a document purporting to come from the Shaowu Prefect, to him from the Foochow Viceroy saying all manner of bad things about Christians and calling on all members of the society to rise and drive out all Christians. This will take Mr. Walker and Mr. Hinman down to see the Consul tomorrow. If this document is a true one really from the Shaowu Prefect in accordance with the instructions of the Viceroy at Foochow then the Viceroy here is fake.

The latest from Peking is that the Emperor is in the Japanese Legation- not confirmed. 5000 American Troops are to Winter in Peking. Russia and America are willing to reinstate the Empress Dowager. I hope this is not true. She should be put on an island by herself and the Emperor reinstated. England does not agree to this proposition.

We are all quite well and are having a good time. Gould finds it hard lines to give up kite flying on Sunday. I heard from the church at Dung Song last Sunday. Pastor Ling Bang Ho conducted communion there then. Out of 15 communicants 10 were present. One absent is in Hong Kong and are away from home and one sick.

Love to all from all of us

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your letter of July 16 is just at hand. I have time for only a few words now. Yesterday I preached at the union service here on Guliang and did not have my usual chat with you. One of our sources of comfort has been the calmness and freedom from anxiety that your letters showed. In our daily morning prayermeeting held in the chapel here a frequent petition is that God will keep from anxiety the friends at home. I have little fear of your being over anxious (today's letters fr. you are a little anxious) because you know in Whose care we are and you also trust in Him, and because if your mail has gone regularly you have had letters every week during the time of trouble. The "Alarmist" has certainly done much to make people feel badly this Summer. No news has been taken for bad news. We do not yet know the truth about the missionaries and Chinese Christians in many parts. There is enough that is terribly bad on the truth without augmenting it out of one's imagination. I have often said I had no opinion to express. I thought it better to say "I do not know" and simply watch. By this time you know much of the truth. We have been wonderfully kept this Summer. I suppose your anxiety for us has been many times what we have felt for ourselves.

Last Wed. was the sixth anniversary of our wedding. We had Mr. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, Dr. and Miss Woodhull, Dr. and Miss Bement, Misses Brown, and Borts and Garretson at dinner- a very pleasant time. Mr. Walker presented us with an original poem for the occasion.

I went to Ponasang on Thursday. The new residence is going up nicely, - a little slowly, but this is all the better.

Gould is still flying kites. Before he gets up he discusses the prospects. The other day (morning) he was just rubbing his eyes open and said "Mama the wind is too gusty to fly kites today." He has the whole household except Phebe and Geraldine at it. Even his mother goes out and flies kites with him and his proxy father does not refuse. The servants are all at it. For several days we have had a typhoon wind and to day Phebe and Gould are all taken with goose quill pop guns.-potatoes are ammunition. The floor is covered. Geraldine has had a hard cold for two days. She is much better today. Otherwise we are all quite well.

I expect to open work in the Seminary Sept. 27. The City College will open the same date if all goes well. Miss Garretson wishes to wait two weeks.

In and about Foochow the condition of things is much as it has been for a month. I had planned to go to Ing Hok last Wed. and start back today but the Consul put in a strong protest. I think he is a little nervous and scared. I have however acquiesced to his protest and will wait a little.

With Love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote you last Monday No. 18th. The mail this week Monday brought letters from Shelton and fr. Putnam already acknowledged.

The week has passed without unusual events. I went down to Ponasang on Wednesday. There was a little disturbance connected with one of the churches. An incense shop was having a big time one evening and for a special attraction they arranged a shadow picture of a Boxer killing a foreigner. It was so drawing that some of the church members and one of the pastors were drawn to it. They told the shop keeper that it would not do, but he refused to take the apparatus down. A soldier who has been a church member for five years in good standing, had this street as a part of his beat as street police at this time. He also used all his powers of persuasion with the shop keepers, but he still refused to take the thing down. A church member then took it down with the approval of the soldier, who had authority to do it. Then after a time, and after an agreement had been made not to put the picture up again, the apparatus was given back and the rumpus quieted down but the shadow picture was put up again and kept up. But the Consul got hold of it and has taken the matter to the Chinese officials. This soldier has been degraded. I do not know what the outcome will be. This for the soldier is persecution.

The Methodist College and schools opened Friday. Mr. Simester came home from Japan this last week and telegraphed immediately for the other Methodists to return. They are expected sometime this week. Mr. Simester spent today on Guliang coming up yesterday morning. He has been with us. Last evening we were to have had Miss Wiley and Mr. and Mrs. Hinman to dinner. But all day the wind blew hard- a young typhoon- and in the afternoon the rain fell in large quantities. This broke up the dinner party. Mr. Simester's house is about ten minutes walk from our house. He came up to dinner in the evening and staid all night- sleeping in the dining room on the couch. This mountain cottage of ours is certainly an elastic affair. It was quite laughable this evening to hear Mr. Walker ask in surprise, after some remark- "What, did Mr. Simester stay here last night?"

This rain will fill up wells and brooks and rice fields. Saturday I noticed some rice fields with no water. The people and officials may not stop imploring the idols for rain.

Some time ago- about a month- I sent a photo of the three children in the carriage that great grandma Nichols bought for them to her. It was the only one we had so I registered it to make sure. We shall be interested to hear of its safe arrival and how you all like it.

We hear that the Woman's Board of the Interior does not wish its missionaries now in America to return until there is a settlement of the political trouble. I am sorry for this because I hoped all would return as expected. If we look only at the situation in Foochow, nothing will do so much to insure peace as a steady and firm perusal of the ordinary business of the missions. The people are watching us to see what is to be done. If every thing goes on as usual it will be a sign to them of our confidence in the situation, and will be the surest way to insure their quietness.

We are all quite well, have not decided when to go to Ponasang.

With love to all Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The usual weekly letter was written one week ago. Nothing has been heard from you during the week. Everything has gone on here as usual. The mountain is getting very quiet. Ten houses of missionaries are now occupied. This next week will see two more closed. The remaining eight may be occupied very late. No missionaries are allowed to go into the country except to go to Hing Hua. The consuls protest against going there but acquiesce, telling those who go that they go at their own risk. So many of the Ch. Miss'y Society's people being unable to go back into the country makes their houses crowded in Foochow, so some will remain here in their mountain cottages. The thermometer is getting down into 50's.

I go down to Ponasang day after tomorrow to open the Seminary on Thurs. Mr. Walker goes at the same time to the city to help in the College. Dr. and Miss Woodhull go down to morrow. Miss Borts goes Tues. Miss Wiley was up to spend last Sunday on the mountain. Tues. she and Miss Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Hinman went to the Peak. All the people at the Peak expect to return to their work tomorrow. I shall be the only foreigner at Ponasang for the next two weeks. Miss Garretson has delayed the opening of the Girl's College until Oct. 11th. All the Shaowu missionaries except the Bement sisters go to the city to work in the College there. The Peets and Kinnears are still in Japan and are likely to stay there till December or January.

We are all quite well. During the past week Gould has had a great time flying kites. Twice we have put one up in the evening, then hung a Chinese lantern on a string and let the wind blow it up to the kite,- a very pretty sight that all enjoyed.

There has been no news from Peking during the week. Even speculation as to the probable progress of future events is almost impossible. England and Germany may save the Empire. Russia and France make the situation awkward. Russia sits herself down in the Imperial Palace at Peking as if she was at home and wished every one else was also. The U.S. is trying to play a difficult role, - to keep out of the trouble, while she is in it. Every one here is praying for the restoration of the rightful ruler, - The Emperor. The Dowager ought not to live. Much is being said and written about the causes of the present outbreak. Those of a certain temperament find here an opportunity to make the cause of missions the scapegoat. The truth is probably that the missionary should come in for his share of the cause with the merchant, engineer and consul. Of all classes the engineer with his railroad destroying the coolie and boat trade and with his mind contrary to all the Chinese superstitions, has done almost to cause the Chinese to commit violence against the foreigner. Then frequently the merchant and Consul have acquired land in treaty ports by methods closely related to land-grabbing. The missionary teaches a doctrine opposed to the religious and superstitious teachings of the Chinese sages. Every Chinese who embraces Christianity is one less to contribute to idolatrous worship. In many places this has made a severe drain on temple receipts and on receipts for idol processions. It has done much to anger the officials and people. The missionary goes about over the country as no other class does. He is of course a constant reminder to Chinese of all that they hate in the foreigner of whatever class. But the charge that the missionary goes about the country and thus incenses the people against him and against foreigners is false as far as my observation goes. The people in all places where I have been are friendly. The rabble has been instigated by officials in every place. Even here in Foochow, officials and their runners early in the trouble showed plainly what was in their heads by an expressed desire to see Christians and foreigners killed and foreign property and churches destroyed. Fear alone restrained them and then after the rabble had been excited it was with the utmost difficulty that this rabble was restrained. The officials are at the bottom of and are responsible for all that has been done in and about Foochow, - not the people.

When we look for the causes of this feeling on the part of the officials, we must remember- the opium war when England forced opium- into China at the point of the bayonet, we must remember the French war in '84, when a whole fleet was destroyed here at Foochow over a trivial matter, and since that time the demand by France that some twelve or more Frenchmen be employed at the Arsenal here on fabulous salaries with little to do; we must remember the Germans at Kaiu Chow, the English at Wei Hai Wei, the Russians at Lew Chuang, and then the general fear that the Powers were only waiting the proper (?) time for dividing the Empire.

The work of the Reform Party is also an important factor in the present crisis. That party is of course against the Manchu government. Two years ago its measures were nearly carried out. The last blow- to make way with the Empress Dowager- was discovered thro the treachery of Prince Yuan who instead of using his army to seize the old woman, told the whole plot of the reformers, and the result- six beheaded, many imprisoned, Kang Yu Wei the leader in hiding ever since. This opened the eyes of the ruling Manchus and all the officials who hold office under the Manchus. The Reformers altho Chinese, got their ideas from the foreigner, and were in constant communication with the foreigner. The very existence of the Manchu Dynasty is threatened by the Reform Party, which understands full well that no reforms in China can take place as long as the Empress Dowager and her posse are in authority, and when you strike at the Empress Dowagers you strike at a large army of officials all over the country who have received and who hold their offices under her appointment. It is no wonder then that she hates the foreigner. It is no wonder that all the officials who live off her appointments hate the foreigner. In so far as the missionary has taught the people to long for a better government- for a better condition of things he is responsible for the hatred toward these reformers and for the troubles of the present time.

The foregoing will explain the attitude of those who are insistent that the Empress Dowager must not get into power again. If she does it will be only to renew the fight against the foreigner after a few years of preparation in drilling soldiers, and purchasing arms and ammunition.

With Love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote a week ago, No. 20 I think. Two letters from Mother came yesterday. I went down to Ponasang last Tues. and opened the Seminary on Thursday. All the boys are back. Two may be asked to leave. The week has been an exceedingly busy one. The City College opened Thurs. also. This brought a lot of fathers and others down from Ing Hok, all of whom had to come in to say "how do you do" to me. This is very pleasant, but when the clock says 7:30 P.M. and I have just sat down to write a lecture for 9 A.M. the next day and two gentlemen call and stay till 9:30 P.M. it means 11 P.M. before I can get to bed. The only remedy for this is that the Board send out more help- a man for the Ing Hok field as soon as possible.

The Consul gives me permission to go to Ing Hok- I am planning to start Tues. day after tomorrow. I go to see the Ing Hok official to try and have the Sung Kau troubled settled. I shall have to go and return as soon as possible. There are some items of business connected with the station that I must attend to, but I cannot stay over Sunday.

I came up to the mountain on Fri. again, and go down to be at the Sem'y at 8:30 A.M. tomorrow and then off for Ing Hok on Tues. As soon as I am back from Ing Hok the Boston shipment consisting of 79 cases will be in to be attended to. This is Dr. Kinnears business, but he is in Japan and some one must do it for him. Eunice is still ill with typhoid fever according to the letter of yesterday. That letter also announced the death of Edward Peet the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Peet who was at Long Hill with you. He had some kind of croup.

The roof is on the new house, and it is going on nicely. Since the flood the weather has been superb for building.

I have preached again today here on Guliang- or rather read a sermon, so I am going to say good night to you. We are all quite well. Another missionary to arrive about Feb. 25th is promised us. He will stay with us and help (?) in the Ponasang station if all goes well. No news from Peking. I suppose we must wait till after election before either Eng. or America will do anything radical. Meantime we go about our work quietly. God will order all things right.

Lovingly
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote a week ago. No letters from home have arrived since then. I must say that thro forgetfulness on my part the letter written last Sunday was not mailed till day before yesterday.

I ate breakfast last Monday morning by lamp light and got down to the Seminary for prayers at 8:30 o'clock. I went to see the Consul about going to see the Ing Hok magistrate. The Taotai at Foochow, who is over this Magistrate, had just replied to the Consul's request that he would notify the Magistrate that I was coming, to the effect that he did not want me to go into the country now, that the Ing Hok district was now in a disturbed state and it would be better to send a Chinaman. The Consul read this dispatch and said to me "Well, you can go if you want to for all that." I took his card and at 6:00 A.M. Tues. morning was on the road. I took only a man to carry my load and do my cooking. We found a boat to take us to Gak Liang and with fair wind and clear sky reached that place at 4:30 P.M. The next morning the pastor of the Gak Liang Church who knew all the trouble at Sung Kau,- whose brother and his wife were both working at Sung Kau and lost most of their effects- and I were off for Ing Hok shortly after 6 A.M. arriving at 11:00 after a pleasant walk of 12 miles. I was busy all that afternoon looking after various items in connection with the work of the station. The buildings are all in good condition. The white ant is the great enemy of woodwork in unused houses during the hot weather, but I saw none at Ing Hok. The Hospital work seems in a good condition under the care of the Chinese woman a graduate of Dr. Woodhull's Hospital in Foochow City.

All the Sung Kau workers are at Ing Hok now. They left Sung Kau at the local official's request. One of the church members and his wife is also down so there is quite a party of Chinese there at present.

Wed. Evening the Sung Kau church member gave the other workers and myself a feast.

On Thurs. morning the pastor, the preacher at Sung Kau and I called on the Ing Hok Magistrate. He had only taken over the seals of office the Saturday before. He received me with as much gusto as if I had been the Consul himself. He listened very attentively while the pastor told him the main facts in the case, then asked a few intelligent and important questions, and promised to put the case thro immediately to the best of his ability. Just as I was leaving at 11:00 A.M. Thurs. after the call on him, he sent word that he would like to return my call the next day but I answered that I could not avail. I took the boat at noon Thurs. at Ing Hok and arrived at the landing 6 miles from Foochow at 7 A.M. Fri. morning. A two hour walk brought me to Ponasang where I found business enough to keep me going till 2:30 yesterday P.M. with 7 hours in bed Fri. night. Then I came to Guliang. We all plan to move down tomorrow.

The new residence at Ponasang is roofed in and the floors are nearly complete. The windows and doors are nearly ready to hang. The first of November will see it nearly completed. But we shall not move into it at once. It does not adjoin the old compound. We shall be in a compound by ourselves. Until Dr. Kinnear returns, there will be in our compound only Miss Garretson in charge of the Girl's College and our family with perhaps the Misses Bement. These last are still on the mountain and are enjoying themselves here.

Tues. Oct. 9th We got down from the mountain yesterday without any hitch. It is pretty warm but this late in the season the days are so short that the nights are cool and the hot spell cannot last long.

You have heard that the Emperor has chosen several of the leaders in the troubles last Summer for punishment. Prince Tuan's name heads the list. This is good. I hope our missionaries who are waiting in America will soon start for China.

Lovingly
Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote a week ago No. 21. A letter arrived from Shelton last Monday just after we reached Ponasang from Guliang.

I think I added a few sentences to the last letter to the effect that we had moved down- had a pleasant trip and no hitch. It seems as if we had been here a month. Ellen has gotten the house in order except the pictures on the walls. These were all taken out of the frames in July when we thought of leaving and it will be no light task to put them in order again. Wed. afternoon we both went into the city to mission prayermeeting and on Friday we took the children in and took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, and attended a business meeting of the mission in the afternoon. These two half days with the regular work and the putting of the house in order have made a very busy week for us both. Ellen felt very tired last evening. But she had a good rest last night and is resting all day to day. While at Mr. and Mrs. Hinman's on Fri. we were all weighed. Geraldine 31, Gould 38.5, Phebe 40.5, Ellen 161, I 172.5!!! So the family weighs in their Summer clothing 443 ½ lbs.

Ming Uong's older brother died last week. His sister died in May. His father and mother feel very badly indeed. The death of the brother leaves a large family on the hands of Pastor Ding and Ming Uong to support. I was at the pastor's home yesterday afternoon and while speaking with them of their affliction Mrs. Ding, with tears in her eyes said, "I do not know what great sin I have committed that God should afflict me thus." "For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, contains a very deep doctrine, and one difficult for the human mind, when in affliction, to grasp. From a Christian standpoint the children of no parents in Foochow are a greater honor to them than are the children of Pastor and Mrs. Ding.

The political situation changes very slowly. Germany and Russia are evidently dark horses as yet. Most of the powers have prepared to winter soldiers in Peking. The decree of the Emperor to degrade several of the instigators of the crimes of the past months is good, but we must ask what punishment is to follow? Unless the heads of many of the officials, high in officialdom too, are taken off, and the whole nation made to realize that there is to be no more broken treaties and no more double dealing with foreign powers, there is sure to be a worse upheaval in the future than we have seen this year. The trouble lies in the attitude of the officials entirely, the papers may land McKinley for having made no mistake thus far in his management of the China affair. But he made an exceeding foolish, to put it mildly, reply to Minister Conger's statement that the trouble were instigated by the officials, when he McKinley said that Conger was biased by his treatment during those fifty four days while shut up in Peking. You see much in the papers against the officials of China. There are a few good men in this class, but most I am strongly convinced that you may believe the worst you can find in the papers and then be sure you have not heard the whole truth. China has played with England and America so long that she cannot learn to be honest until capital punishment has been given to those who deserve it. This will be the best course not only for the foreign nations, but for China herself this is the only course by which she can be saved. There is no such thing as foreigners leaving China. There is too much natural wealth here for one thing. The greed of man will compel him to remain.

Then it is God's will that this people shall learn of Him. After they have learned of Him. They may become the rulers of the world, but a knowledge of God must come first.

We discussed the advisability of cabling for the missionaries in the U.S. to come at once. But there was strong opposition on the part of one or two and we decided to leave it for each missionary to decide for himself. We are all at work as usual in Foochow. We cannot say there is no danger. But we believe it is our duty to remain and work. This is different from telling another to come. Personally I feel they ought to come (1) for the good of the work (2) to relieve us who are carrying work too heavy for us.

Give our love to all

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote one week ago. A letter came from you last Monday. The week has passed with nothing of note taking place. The situation remains the same. For diplomacy the Chinaman beat the nations. Time is not a factor in any of his problems. He does however understand its use as a weapon in overcoming his enemies- especially has he learned that it is a powerful weapon when he is dealing with Western peoples, with whom time in all problems is an important factor. So far as we can learn the powers in Peking are doing nothing. If they are whistling for the return to Peking of the Dowager and her nephew the Emperor, their lips will need wetting many times before they are thro whistling. The imperial palace has been desecrated by the entrance of the polluted foreigner. It is unreasonable for one who knows anything about the Chinese to suppose that the Palace or even Peking will ever again be used as the seat of the present rulers of China. Their nest has been defiled and they will want to establish a new one.

There are rumors of rebellion in the province south of us- Kuang Tung- this rebellion is said to be only against the present Manchu dynasty. The leaders have written the Hong Kong "Daily Press" urging that the U.S., England, and Japan remain neutral. If it becomes necessary they ?? that these three nations advise and assist the rebellion. All this may be nothing to us.

The Methodist families- Lacys and Mrs. Simester and her children and one single lady returned from Japan last Monday. Dr. Kinnear writes that Eunice put her feet on the floor Oct. 4th for the first time this Summer. Ruth Peet is ill. One of the Meth. ladies in defiance of the Consul's orders has gone to Kucheng. Another lady was unwilling to let her go alone so has gone with her. This is bad.

Gould is as eager to fly kites as ever. He works away by the hour trying [to] get his kite up, very seldom getting discouraged. He sweats as if he were in the hay-field. Last Wed. Mr. Hinman rode out from the city on a Chinese pony. The man who goes with the pony led it into our compound while waiting for Mr. Hinman. Gould saw it. With eyes distended he ran shouting to Phebe "Here's a horse, here's a horse." I put him in the saddle much to his delight and the man led the pony about the yard. How he will enjoy the horses when he gets home!!

To day the little fellow got a fearful bump. He was running on the stone walk with a bamboo stool in his hand. He tripped and struck on his forehead just to the right of the middle. He got over it soon and is all right now altho he will look bad for two weeks. Geraldine also got hit by the swing to day- right in the middle of her forehead. It knocked her over and she will look rather tough for some time.

The new residence is fast approaching completion. We had two photos taken of it yesterday- one from our house here- one from a corner of the yard near the house.

Miss Brown and Miss Wiley came out from the city yesterday and ate goose with us. The Misses Bement came down from the mountain last Wed. They were here also to help eat the goose.

Our Boston shipment was stopped in Hong Kong by Mr. Swett. I have written for the boxes belonging to those who are here to be sent up to Foochow at once. Storage bills in Hong Kong will eat up the price of the goods in the boxes in a short time. I hope the steamship Co.'s agents in Hong Kong will honor my order.

Praying that God will keep you from anxiety for us and that He will preserve Southern China from outbreaks.

Lovingly Yours

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

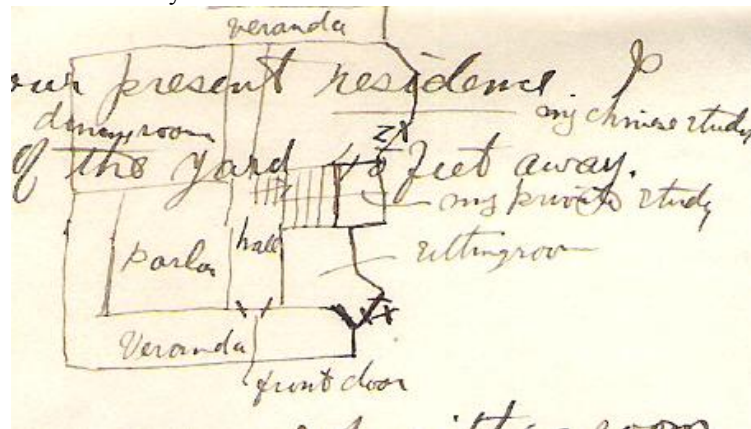

I sent the usual letter a week ago No. 23. No letter has arrived from Shelton. The week has passed with no unusual events. Mr. Walker stopped yesterday on his way to the city from Pagoda Anchorage where he had been for a day or two. He wanted to see what we thought of his cabling his daughter to come out immediately to help in the work at Pagoda. Of course we hoped he would cable at once. The Consul had approved of this course. Two Meth. missionaries have gone to Kucheng- Messrs. Main and Caldwell. They go for a visit only and the Consul told them to bring back the recalcitrant young woman who went up ten days ago against the Consul's orders.

To day the communion has been held in three of the churches of this station. At Geu Cio Dong five united with the church. Three were women and two were girls in the College who are engaged to preachers. At Ha Pua Ga four desired to unite but the church thought it better for them to wait till December. I conducted the service at Sang Bo. None united there. Coming home from this service I pass the shops of two church members, which are on opposite sides of the street. Both shops are always closed on Sunday. To day I was attracted by seeing all gathered in one shop and one of the clerks reading the New Testament. This kind of Christian is too rare anywhere. But it is a great encouragement to know that there are such Christians among the converts here.

The weather has been very warm for a week. To day the thermometer rose to 82 degrees. Three little cherubs have just been to my desk for the usual good night kiss. How you all would enjoy these little folks now. Geraldine says her prayers every night after Phebe and Gould have finished. Of course her pronunciation is inimicable[inimitable]. But she knows what she is about and she knows the different stages of the prayer. When Mama says "For Jesus sake" she always comes out with a very pronounced "A men". The amah says in her play with the other children she never gets left.

The new residence is ready for the painters to begin on. One photograph of it is ready and the other will be ready in a few days. I shall send them both as soon as the second comes. The picture of the house taken in the distance was taken from our present residence. I should say 500 ft. away as the bird flies. The other is taken in the corner of the yard 40 feet away.

You will easily make out the contour of these two sides of the house.

The open window in the middle of the photo is indicated by X on this diagram, and is in the sq. bay window of the sitting room. The little sq. window is also in the sitting room. The next two windows are in my private study 6 X 8 ft. The next window (closed) is indicated by Z in the diagram and is in the Chinese study. The second floor is divided as the first floor except that the front half of the hall is put into the room over the sitting room, making a nice large bed room. I think it will be a handy house, and adapted to the working needs of this station.

A paragraph in the Advance Editorials seems to me to present the attitude of the U.S. in general, toward the China question. "Mr. Rockhill's hasty conclusion that the Empress Dowager was in collusion with the Boxers was very startling and proved his unfitness for his mission. What ever he may have learned about China he failed to appreciate the situation at home. We do not want war with China, and therefore do not want any American over there to make out a case for war." If this is a satire on the position of the U.S. and on the instructions it gave Mr. Rockhill, it is right to the point. But in its connection it is hard to read it otherwise than in earnest. In other words if Mr. Rockhill was instructed before leaving the U.S. not to find a Casus belli, he, by reporting the true state of affairs made himself liable to criticism from his instructors. If on the other had he was sent to investigate and report the true condition why had he proved his “unfitness for his mission”? The man who wrote this criticism thinks he knows more about the situation in China during the past few months than those who were on the ground or than Mr. Rockhill who has been here since and made investigations on the ground. Those nations that say they are not at war with China only add a factor to make the situation more unique and more complex. One might almost say that the uniqueness of the situation and its complexity lay in this fact: - that all the conditions of war have existed and exist except the written declaration. The armies of the nations have fought against the armies of China, who resisted with all their strength. When China was defeated her chief rules deserted her capitol and are still in hiding. The situation is something like a big mature bull dog and a Newfoundland pup of a few months old. The pup has pitched into the bull dog which has shaken him up and thrown him down and now stands considering what to do himself and wondering what the pup will do. Well, what will he do? - What will the powers do? The rebellion in Kwang Tung continues. Foochow continues quiet and the English both missionaries and merchants are confident. I was at the drug store of Watson and Co. the other day. They are thoroughly overhauling the store and refitting it. The English Mission is building two residences recently contracted for.

God will guide in all our affairs. His methods and His times are best. May we all have grace to know and do His will each hour.

Lovingly Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote a week ago, No. 24. A letter arrived from Oliver in the middle of the week. It was good to hear from him. From his letter I judge that he is fairly successful in business and that he and Grace have a happy home. No word has come from Shelton since Oct. 15th. Perhaps the mails are partly to blame. The mail this last week came via Vancouver, by the English Post Office. Letters of Oct. 4th arrived here Nov. 1st. The last mail before this brought us the papers of Sept. 13th. This mail brought the papers of Oct. 4th, so there are two week's papers somewhere on the road. This mail however brought the Sentinels so I had a little home news.

The annual kite festival came last Wednesday. The hill tops in Foochow were crowded with men and women and boys flying kites or watching those who were flying the kites. The city has one large hill that makes a fine resort and the Suburbs has another hill well adapted to the sport. The young people in the city, Mr. and Mrs. Hinman and the Misses Brown and Wiley wanted to see the sport. The prayer meeting of the Mission was at our house that P.M. so the young folks came out early to go up on the Suburbs hill. We could not go and they, knowing Gould's weakness in this line, asked if they might take the children. Ellen asked Phebe if she would go. She said rather dubiously, "No." Then Ellen asked her to go and ask Gould if he wanted to go. She at once said "Well if Gould goes I want to go." There is no need to tell what Gould's answer was, or in what tone he replied. Well they went out for the first time without one of us going with them, and they had a glorious time. They did not have a chance to tell us of all their experiences till at the supper table. I cannot quote Phebe's language, but an actor could not compete with in pantomime and real earnestness. She completely overcame her mother who laughed till the tears came. But Phebe kept on, occasionally looking as if she wondered why her mother should laugh so. Gould was all animation but he could not get in a word edgewise. At last Phebe turned to Gould and said in a perfectly composed matter-of-fact tone and manner "Now you've talked a long time about the crowd. Now let's wait a while and let mama rest a little". Of course her mother nearly burst at this.

[“Then in the fall on the ninth day of the ninth month, comes the kite-flying. Because Fukien has such fine breezy hills great delight is taken in this sport. Kites of all sizes are seen taking from the city all misfortunes, an easy and pleasant way of getting rid of one's troubles. The boys have fights between their kites too.” Steinbeck, Grace, and Armstrong Susan. Fukien, A Study of a Province in China. Shanghai, China: Presbyterian Mission Press, 1925. Book in the collection of Mark and Jana Jackson.]

Yesterday was the birthday of the Emperor of Japan. The Foochow officials all called on the Japanese Consul and a salute was fired in his honor which caused the people to wonder if the Japs were opening fire on Foochow. The cook said that the street talk yesterday morning was that the Japs were to attack the Arsenal at Pagoda Anchorage with their Gun Boats which is lying there. Well there have been months of rumors. I always tell the Chinese that I think it well enough to listen to all rumors, but never believe one till it is proven true. The situation in North China remains the same for all that we know, so does the situation in the Southern provinces.

I attended communion at Au Long Die this morning and assisted the pastor in conducting the communion. There was an audience of about 50, over 30 were church members. We had a good service. But these self-supporting churches are having hard times. Unless the situation changes and lets loose the money that is now bound up tight and allows business to start again, and also guarantees something like stability in business circles, I am afraid self-support will have to rest for a time. I have already assisted a little in five places. Geu Cio Dong and Ha Pua Ga have not yet asked.

The painters began on the new house last Thursday. The masons are on the last two rooms down stairs. Dr. Kinnear says nothing as yet about coming back. We shall not think of moving into the new house till he returns.

A letter from Miss Newton this week makes it appear that there is a strong feeling on the part of many that no more missionaries should come to China at present, and some think that all now in China should return. These people forget the immense financial interests at stake. Here, the buildings in our Foochow Mission could not be replaced for $40,000 gold. Then think of the injury to the work. If we all leave for six months even, it would take at least two years under most favorable conditions to regain what would be lost. If the business men whose only motive is to make money, scoff at the idea of leaving, what should a man who professed to be here for higher interests do? But this is preaching. God will guide if we are only pliant in His hands.

Lots of love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The time for writing has again come. The last letter was written Nov. 4. No. 25. Last Tuesday was a day of great rejoicing for letters from Shelton, South Orange, and Framingham arrived and we knew you were all well. The accounts of the Summer and of the old home from different views are not merely interesting. They give us a much fuller and more perfect picture of the conditions and the changes at home. I cannot promise when each of these will have its individual answer, but I hope it will come sometime.

Monday evening about 8 o'clock while Ellen was lying down with Geraldine to have her go to sleep and as I was taking leave of a helper who had been with me for an hour there was a loud knock on the compound gate and I heard the sound of foreign boots on the walk. Mr. and Mrs. Lacy and Mr. and Mrs. Simester had walked over from the South Side to call. Fortunately the cook had that afternoon made a cocoanut cake and I had not touched it at supper. Fortunately also we had on hand a lot of green oranges that make fine orangeade. On Friday we all went to dinner at Miss Woodhulls to celebrate the first anniversary of Miss Brown's arrival in Foochow.

The Boston shipment arrived at the jetty in Foochow Fri. It is ready for delivery tomorrow. The whole shipment consisted of 79 cases. We are not sending for Mr. Gardner's or for Dr. Bliss cases. Dr. Kinnear and Mr. Peet are having their boxes go to Japan. So it makes a mixed business. In my efforts to suit all parties, I omitted to send for our box, so it is still in Hong Kong. But the order is now written to have it sent up.

The stir over the movements of the Foochow officials and the Japanese Consul seems to have subsided. Of political news we know none. From the papers I have hopes that the Emperor will return to Peking. I still fail to see how anything can be done toward restoring order and ensuring safety in the Empire till the powers can communicate with the head of the nation. I have more faith now than I had a few weeks ago that the problem will be settled aright. It is a big question, involving all the world powers. There is no precedent to guide. It is not at all strange that it takes a long time. It should take a long time. I cannot work up much fever over the talk of restricting missionaries to treaty ports etc. "The Gospel is not bound." - was not in Paul's day and has not been since. Man cannot find it now. Christianity has taken root in China and it is bound to grow here. It will do this on the authority of Him who gives orders to Kings and Emperors and Presidents.

I see McKinley is again President of the U.S. and telegram also states that there were riots and bloodshed in many places. One can but ask whether with fire, flood, tempest, strikes and election riots, life is entirely safe in America.

Ellen is feeling rather tired today, other wise we are well [Ellen is pregnant again.]. The weather has been very trying for two weeks past for two months we have had no rain and have had very warm weather - thermometer 80 degrees +. Thurs. it began to rain. Today it has rained very hard. There was a change in the temperature this afternoon it is much cooler.

I conducted communion at Au Ciu today - a good audience.

With Love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote as usual last Sunday, No. 26. Last Tuesday a letter came from mother. This letter was written the last of Sept. i.e. before the letter that came the mail before. We wonder if the letter that came from us in such quick time did not have a German instead of a French stamp on it. The Germans have established a Post Office here. But the French have none.

The chief news of the week was from Paotingfu to the effect that seven officials had been beheaded for their implication in the murdering of foreigners at that place this Summer. Three of these officials were high officials. The other four were also important men. It is with no spirit of revenge that I most heartily approve of this as a good beginning of a good work that I hope to see go on until the officials realize that they cannot plot or connive at the death of those who are living in China in perfect agreement with treaties made between China and other powers. For half a century the nations have simply asked a few thousands of dollars or a little territory as compensation for massacred humans. The mandarins care nothing for either. Such a weak-kneed policy only spurs them to hate the foreigner and to exert themselves the more strenuously to expel him from the land. But each massacre could be traced to the officials. These men at least knew of the project and did nothing to avert it. As long as they could make the powers believe that it was the work of a fanatical mob and as long as the powers were satisfied with the heads of a few unknown vagabonds and a money indemnity the officials only laughed at the matter. But when their own heads must pay for their own sins the matter must assume a different character. As I have said before unless drastic measures are employed now, there will be a repetition of the scenes of the past Summer all over the Empire in a few years. It is infinitely better that the heads of a few conscienceless, heartless, diabolical officials should drop now, than that thousands of innocent subjects should be cruelly murdered and thousands more rendered homeless and penniless a few years hence. Prince Tuan and Yu Hsien (Governor of Shansi at whose order the missionaries in that Province were massacred) should follow the Paoting fu officials. It will perhaps be impossible to carry out the execution of Tuan but the other if he can be caught could be executed. It is difficult to know what is going on in the conferences between the powers, but it seems to me they are making progress in deciding what demands shall be made upon China. These are included under three heads. Punishment of chief offenders; future safety of foreigners in the empire; indemnity for losses sustained.

Last Tues. was Gould's fourth birth day. His mother celebrated the occasion by putting pants on him for an hour and then cutting out another dress for him. The other day Gould did not want his clothes changed for warmer ones. Ellen had just told him that he must have more clothes on. Phebe seconded her mother's injunction by saying, "Gould, if you don't hurry and have those clothes on, you'll catch cold and be sick and die and go to Heaven before the rest of us do." For the past three days the mercury has been between 45 degrees and 50 degrees. We had a fire last evening for the first time this Fall.

Rev. and Mrs. Wilcox and family and Miss Bosworth of the M.E. Mission came back from Japan last Wed. We hear nothing about when Dr. Kinnear and Mr. Peet expect to come with their families.

There is much illness among the Chinese due I presume to the rain and the sudden fall in temperature last week. To day three churches in this station had to be supplied by Seminary boys because the preachers were ill. Our coolie is also in bed to day. I conducted communion at Sang Tung Gio today. Twenty five in all partook of the communion. There was the best of attention by the members, and 4 or 5 strangers came in and sat thro the services and about 20 strangers stood in the rear of the room.

Some one is dreaming of dinner hours in their sleep in the other room, so I think it must be bed time. We are all well and happy. God is very good to us.

With Love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote one week ago yesterday, Nov. 13th was the last we have received from you. A letter from Putnam arrived yesterday. A letter came from Dr. Kinnear in the same mail. They are still in Japan and from his letter have no idea when they will return, except that they intend to wait till all is settled here in China. In the mean time many of his duties devolve on me. But he should get a good rest and be in good condition for work when he comes back-unless the illness in his family tires him out. Eunice has been in bed all Summer, just well now. This letter tells of Mrs. Kinnear telegraphing him to come from Kioto to Okayama on account of the illness of the baby Gerald. Mrs. Peet gave birth to a daughter Nov. 1st. It died when four days old. They write as if they might return as soon as Mrs. Peet's health made it safe.

By the way Abe's home is in Okayama. But he has gone to the bad theologically, and nearly killed his flourishing church of about 700 members. He has left the place and has left the ministry.

Last week was just a common place week. This week will bring Thanksgiving. The Consulate has invited all Americans to dinner at 7 P.M. We have declined, on account of leaving the children in the compound alone. But Mrs. Gracey is laboring with Ellen to find some way to go. The outcome is uncertain.

Yesterday the M.E. Bishop preached in the M.E. College Chapel and we went to hear him. To day Mr. Walker, Misses Brown and Bements have gone about 12 miles up in the country to marry Misses Bement's cook. Mr. Walker and Miss Brown had to come out of the city and stay over night to start together this morning. They were at our house. The Bishop's sermon took my afternoon and Mr. Walker and Miss Brown the evening. So this is just a word this morning to let you know we are all well and all hungry for dinner.

Lovingly yours

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

A letter came from you and one from Putnam yesterday. No. 28 went from here Nov. 26th. The Americans had a good time at the Consulate on Thurs. evening. We did not go for lots of reasons. On Sunday I preached in English on the South Side at an afternoon service.

To day our Annual Meeting begins. This morning we have had reports from all the work in the two stations of which I have charge i.e. Foochow Suburbs and Ing Hok. There is in all the reports a note of sadness, but the note of praise is loudest and will not [let] down. Yesterday's mail brought the first reports of the Annual Meeting of the Board at St. Louis. We are glad that no backward step is thought of for China.

A good letter from Dwight yesterday said he had accepted the call to the church at Lancaster, Mass. for a year.

I must not write more now. We are all quite well. Gould last Monday night kicked himself over back in his high chair and cut a gash in the back of his head ½ in. long. But it was not serious. We plastered it up. The plaster was taken off yesterday.

Political affairs are stuck. God is over and in all.

Lovingly

Dear Grandma,

I send you some of my first knitting because I wanted to make you a Christmas present. I could have bought some thing for you that would be pretty but I wanted to make something myself so as I was learning to knit just now I wanted to knit a present. It isn't anything only just to look at you see because I had not learned to knit mittens or stockings yet. Next time I'll make something better, I pinned a little card with "Merry Merry Christmas" on it but I am afraid you cannot read it.

Gould and Geraldine and I want to thank you and Grandpa and Aunt Louise ever so much for those shoes, plaid dresses and Aunt Mary for that lovely flag and wish you all a Very Merry Christmas. Your Loving Phebe.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Last Tues. a fine mail arrived from America bringing letters from Shelton, Putnam, Dwight, Sec'y Baer, and two persons who are interested in and are supporting work in the Ing Hok field. These special contributions cause extra labor in correspondence but they bring many encouraging letters from Christian brothers and sisters. The value of which cannot be estimated in gold. I answered your letter that arrived last Tues. on Wed. No. 29. Phebe at that time was thoughtful enough to send a Merry Christmas. I hope it will reach you in season. Mine I send now with good wishes for the New Year. Mine will reach you after all others and will be a reminder of all the others.

We have had a good Annual Meeting this past week. The Pastors and preachers have seemed to enjoy it more than in former years. The political disturbances; the dangers which the church in Foochow has met this year; the destroying flood and the terrible hard times; and especially the thought that thousands of their brothers and sisters in the North had borne witness to Christ by their death all combines to impart to this meeting solemnity that is new to the church in Foochow. The meeting closed with Communion in various central churches this morning. Consul and Mrs. Gracey attended the communion at Geu Cio Dong and took dinner with us before going back over the river.

Just as we were finishing dinner our attention was attracted by several people standing in the tops of their houses and looking in one direction. On investigation we found a fire raging about 10 minutes walk from our house. It burnt very near one of our chapels - Dung Song- If the wind had been the other way this Chapel must have gone. The chapel at Au Ciu was in danger also. But God mercifully preserved both.

I intend to start for Ing Hok next Fri. for a week's trip. The character of the one pastor of this field is now in question. Several severe charges have been brought against him by the preachers in the field. The other 7 pastors and Missionaries are investigating the charges. I think some of them will be sustained and he will be removed to another field.

[Following is written by Ellen]

Willard has gone to the mountain with Dr. Bement today to look after our house into which thieves broke a few weeks ago and to assist Dr. in purchasing land for their prospective cottage; and to get a little needed recreation. So he wishes me to send this letter he began two days ago. He speaks of the "Merry Christmas" Phebe sent, - the little piece of knitting, - not of any use, but "just to show Grandma how I can knit. By next year she will be able to send something useful I hope. She put a great deal of zest and interest into the making of this first Christmas present to Grandma. This piece is almost the first stitches she took in learning. She felt quite happy that while doing this she herself taught her amah to knit. Please accept my "Merry Christmas" with this doily as a little gift to mother. It was made by a Chinese woman. The M.E. Mission teaches this industry to aid widows in their own support. With a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all, Lovingly Yours,

Ellen.

We are all perfectly well at this writing, altho Phebe explained her feelings a few days ago in terms not common to medical practice, thus: - "My stomach has gone bad."

Ing Hok

Sunday, Dec 16th 1900.

Dear Folks at Home:-

A letter started from Foochow for Shelton last Mon. or Tues. I shall have to wait until I can consult my correspondence register to tell whom the last came from home.

Monday Dec. 10th The missionaries and pastors spent the whole day investigating the character of the pastor of the Ing Hok field. He has been accused of making money out of the lawsuits that the ch. members ask him to take up. Thus far nothing very criminal has been proved against him. But it is evidently best that we find another field of labor for him. He has more power in this field than one man can endure- unless he be very consecrated and humble.

Tuesday I was pretty tired in the head after a week of Annual Meeting and the trial of the pastor. So I ran away from all work and went to Guliang. Dr. Bement went with me and we staked out a building lot for her and her sister.

Friday morning Mr. Walker, Dr. Woodhull and I started for Ing Hok. The wind was not good and the boatmen were of like quality with the wind. The result was that we progressed slowly. We reached the foot of the rapids, three miles below our destination= Gak Liang- at 6 P.M. It was already dark. The boatmen declared they could go no further. But it was hardly convenient for us to sleep on the boat, and I kindly told the boatmen that I had hired them to go to Gak Liang. They had been reserving their strength all day and I was ready to pay them when we reached Gak Liang and not before. If they refused to go on what they had done would be of no profit to them. They grumbled and kept on up the rapids. We reached Gak Liang a little after 8 p.m. all safe and happy. I gave the boatmen an extra 20 cents and I thought they were all going to hug me at once. If it had been light I expect you could have seen me blush at the compliments they heaped on me.

We had a good sleep that night at Gak Liang and yesterday we came by land up to Ing Hok. Mr. Walker and Dr. in chairs and I on foot. It was, as it always is, a very pleasant day's work. One of the pastor's from Shaowu is with us, and he adds much to the pleasure of the trip.

This morning Mr. Walker went up to Uo Cia and Gak Tau to preach. The Shaowu pastor and I preached and conducted communion at the Woodin Memorial Church here. This afternoon we have had a nice C.E. meeting.

The weather continues fair and mild. I have not yet put on Winter underwear. We are having a little fire here to eat by. But it is quite comfortable in my room now writing with no fire and no overcoat.

Mr. Walker and I expect to go down to Gak Liang on Tues. He will go right on to Foochow to attend Mr. Hartwell's 75th birthday celebration. I must go up in the mountains from Gak Liang three miles to Tung Chang to meet the Christians for a little service on Wed. morning. Dr. Woodhull will come down to Gak Liang on Wed. and she and I will go from there to Foochow on Tues.

I think I have not yet written that the home box has arrived all right and we have had a fine Indian meal pudding with raisins in it. The Consul and Mrs. Gracey praised it highly. It was good. The pumpkin you sent last year is not quite gone. The best of wives made a pie for me to bring on this trip. I have tried to enjoy sharing it with Mr. Walker and Dr. Woodhull. It is all gone!!

I shall ask Mr. Walker to take this to Ponasang for me so it may be mailed on Wed. Ellen will fill up the empty space.

With Lots of Love.

Will.

[The following is written by Ellen]

But the letter did not reach me until after the messenger had gone on Wednesday, and being in attendance upon a birthday celebration followed by a prayer meeting I have found no opportunity to "fill up the empty space: until now, Thurs.

All our present Mission force including children, with the exception of 6, were present at the Birthday Dinner. It is seldom we all meet in this way and this was a very pleasant occasion.

The Mission presented Mr. Hartwell with a silver-headed bamboo cane and a croquet-set, the latter being the almost only form of physical recreation and exercise that a man of his age could participate in, and he does enjoy that.

We are busy now preparing for the Christmas exercises in the churches, and for the graduating exercises that come a month later. My particular part of this work is to select music and drill the singers, distribute the cards and attend as many of the dozen or more services in various places, as I can. This together with attending to the details of finishing the new house keeps us both from being idle. But we are glad to make Christmas a happy time for the Christians for they give up a number of festivities when they give up idolatry. Just now they are having one of their idol feasts and music and drumming and firecrackers are common sounds. Whenever Gould hears it he says "The Chinese are worshipping "dirty dolls"", as he calls the idols. We are all well as we hope this finds you.

Very lovingly yours Ellen.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote last on Dec. 11th - no it was Dec. 16th while at Ing Hok and I have not recorded it. This letter was delayed in going to the office and was not numbered. Your last arrived Dec. 21st just in time for Christmas.

Yesterday I wrote Mr. Hartwell- acting treasurer in Dr. Kinnear's absence- for an order on the A.B.C.F.M. Treasurer at Boston for you- amount $50.00. But her replies that Dr. Kinnear had left no Boston orders with him. We suppose Dr. Kinnear is now in Shanghai and will be here on the next steamer. I am afraid if I wait for him it will be too late to pay my life insurance so I am going to ask you to advance the money. I will send the order as soon as I can. If you chance to have any money on hand for me, keep it, only let me know of its receipt and the amount. The last mail brought $3.00 in Dominion of Canada paper currency. I shall send this with the order in registered letter, hoping you may be able to use it. The number of my life insurance policy is 166224, Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co.

752 Broad Street
Newark
N.J.

The amount of the premium is ($27.86) twenty seven and eighty six hundred dollars. The premium is due Feb. 27th.

It seems to me it would be well for you to make a note of the address of this company, and the amount of insurance on my life = $1000. Last year the amount of additional insurance purchased by the premiums was $137, so the whole amount of insurance at the present time is $1137. When the receipt comes to you this amount will be increased by about $15.00.

The past week has been filled with Christmas exercises. They began last Sunday at Ha Puo Ga. If I describe the decorations here it will suffice for every place. The pulpit is covered with tables in tiers. These are first covered with white table cloths or with bright embroidery. Then on the tables are arranged clocks of every description. There are sure to be one or two with some kind of visible motion. One stands high and beneath the clock is an image sitting in a swing. This is suspended by a spring and the machinery of the clock keeps the image going up and down. Then they had one piece of machinery this year that made the foreigners bite their lips to keep from smiling. It was a cigarette advertisement. A fat German's head is seen above an ad't board. His elbows rest on the top edge of the board and his hands point to the ad't. He has a broad grin on his fat round face and a cigar in one corner of his mouth. The figure the size of a 12 year old boy. The machinery makes the head move from side to side. The eyes also move from side to side and the first finger moves up and down on the board. Beside the clocks are lamps and handsome flowers or other articles in glass cases. Then there are always potted plants and cut flowers in vases and greens tied much as we tie them at home and festooned about the room. Add to these Chinese lanterns of various shapes and colors and you have the picture completed. Oh, no. On the walk are many of the large Bible pictures mounted as scrolls and generally foreign photos in frames. This year photos of the Czar and Czarina of Russia and Prince and Princess of Greece. We in America do not beat them very much for quantity of Christmas decorations.

The exercises on the whole have been better than in former years. Perhaps in one or two places the exercises have been better in former years, but this year they have been uniformly good. The day school scholars both boys and girls and the women also have taken part in the exercises. The teachers and literary men have written original accounts (that is the language and idiom were original) of the birth of Christ and original poems have been written and recited or sung by Sunday School Children. At each church there have been from four to ten addresses. These have been short and every one of them excellent. On Wed. and on Sat. I was absent from home all day. Eating a feast after the morning exercises at one chapel and also after the exercises in the afternoon at another chapel. The church members have very generally given up their business for the occasion and helped in the decorating and also attended the exercises-especially the feasts. In some places where the head of a shop or factory was a Christian he has celebrated the occasion in his shop or factory- giving his clerks or workmen a part holiday and holding appropriate exercises hoping to influence his employees for good. This is a very hopeful sign.

On Tues. evening we had a little celebration all to ourselves with others in the compound. Miss Garretson, Dr. and Miss Bement and all their servants with our servants. We had a little tree with some candles on it and pretty well loaded with presents- there were 20 persons in all and a little candy and the pop-corn you sent made excellent balls that just suited the Chinese tooth. This is the land of oranges and we had two bushels and over. This made the fourth celebration I had attended that day.

To day I helped at the communion at Au Iong Die. None united with the church. Three wished to do so, but it was thought they could wait till next year.

The new house is nearly all painted. I have spent three half days there painting veranda floors. A half day for me means two or three hours, - or less. I bought some floor paint from San Francisco and want to put it on myself, -then I am sure it gets on. We want to simply oil the dining room and the halls. The other rooms are mostly white or a suggestion of green with colored trimmings. Ellen has had her hands full with overseeing the painters for the past two weeks. We want very much to get into the new house to receive the new missionary in Feb. but things must move more rapidly then for three weeks past to allow it. Our room over there will be very much pleasanter for Ellen than our room in the old house.

We think of you as all at home again. Enjoying the holidays together. How quickly the term has passed. It seems but yesterday that we came down from the mountain. You have all had one term of work in school and college. But this year we in China have a very long term. There was an intercalary [intercalary-Inserted in the calendar to make the calendar year correspond to the solar year] eight moon and the last day of our year will be Feb. 18th 1901. Our school term will close Jan. 30th. I must spend Jan. 16, 17th at least in Ing Hok. If the trouble at Sung Kau in the upper part of the field is settled I shall arrange to go up there. I ought to hold communion at Ngu Deng Muoi, Sung Kau and Diong Keng.

We are all quite well. The children growing fast and eating like little pigs. You would stare to see them eat fruit. Our breakfast consists only of fruit and oatmeal. The fruits are two kinds of oranges, dates, peanuts, bananas, pear, pumelo.

We hope you are enjoying the Christmas tide. With Love to all. Will.

Today there is a room downstairs called the Beard Room. It was dedicated in memory of Ruth and Theodore W. Beard in 1976. Theodore was Zina Chatfield Beard's son and Willard's first cousin, once removed.

According to church history, the church was founded in 1892 and Willard was slated to be the first minister of the church, but he decided to become a missionary instead.

Puritans seeking a more local autonomy and a simpler church service founded the first Congregational churches in New England in the 1600's. Over the next two centuries, Congregationalism was the most popular form of worship in New England, particularly in Connecticut.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The right hand figure of the date changes again. The twentieth century has dawned. The old year went out and the new year came in without any fuss here. We went to bed as usual last Monday evening, and on Tues. morning awoke as usual in a new year and in a new century, and went about our customary duties. We were reminded however, while at breakfast, by the appearance of the teachers and students of the Sem'y, that New Year's greetings were in order. During the day a great many Chinese called to leave best wishes for the new year.

The last letter from Shelton arrived Dec. 21. I wrote Dec. 30 one week ago. The last mail brought a letter from G. A. Lawrence, my old room mate in Oberlin during the last term of our junior year and during the whole of the senior year. It was a refreshing breeze. The sheets were not filled with pious epithets. He did not dwell on the things we had given up. He assumed that we were still in the world of wicked humans- not all of whom are on this side [of] the globe, and not all of whom are Chinamen or even heathen. He is preaching in a Presb'n church in Monroeville, Ohio, near his old home. The Advance gave notice that Fred Sumner had accepted a son from his wife a short time ago.

The Mission met with a great loss this noon. Rev. Ling Nik Sing, pastor of the church in the city, connected with the college, was in his pulpit as usual for the Sunday morning service. During the opening exercises, he had just read the commandments and given out a hymn, when he called on the senior teacher in the College to preach for him. He went into his home, adjoining the church and asked for some tea. When it was brought he could not drink it. Dr. Woodhull tried to give him medicine but he could take nothing. He passed away within half an hour. Pastor Ling was the most conservative of the ordained men in our Foochow Mission. A man of unimpeachable character, thoroughly consecrated to his work. He has not been well since we have been in Foochow. One of the first matters that came up in business meeting after we arrived in Foochow was his health. I cannot think who will take his place. Ming Uong is the only man whose education and consecration fit him for the place. But I am afraid he would not last long in the position and then his present position could not be filled by any one now in sight.

God will take care of the whole matter and will find some one to fill the vacancy. How often we see in print "No one will be found to fill his place." Perhaps God does not want the place of any of us filled. Our work is done when He calls us home, and He wants another man- not to take up our work but to do another work, and have you ever thought, He always provides the man.

The Week of Prayer began to day with a sermon by Mr. Boyd of the Ch. Miss'y Soc'y. There will be meetings as usual each day at 3 P.M. at different residences.

I expect to start for Ing Hok again one week from tomorrow, Jan. 14th.

A letter has arrived stating that the missionaries on furlough in the U.S. started for Foochow Dec. 22nd. Mr. and Mrs. Peet, and Mrs. Hartwell are expected tomorrow. Dr. Kinnear and family we think are to come later.

We are all in excellent health. Gould said to his mother a few days ago "I would like to be married, mama. I would like to have a wife." He is urging his mother just now to take a picture of a pretty little baby up to God and ask him to send down a little sister for him. The plans that he makes for his little baby are beyond describing. Geraldine thinks it great fun to be "Dak Prost" (Jack Frost) and run about biting folks. Phebe is bathing Geraldine. Ellen says it is a circus to see the operation. It is as much fun for Geraldine as for Phebe. If Geraldine does not obey, Phebe shouts, "Mama you'll have to come with the spat stick" and Geraldine comes to terms at once.

Give our love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My Correspondence Register tells a surprising tale this evening as I look at [it] to see when I sent the last letter. If it speaks truly I wrote last Jan. 6th, three weeks ago. I am afraid this is the truth, for the next week Jan. 13th I was just on the eve of starting for Ing Hok and the next week, Jan. 20th one week ago I was one hundred miles from Foochow at the farthest point in the Ing Hok field where we have work.

On the morning of Jan. 14th Mr. Walker and I and two of the Theological students started for Ing Hok. We arrived at Gak Liang that evening at 6 o'clock and found some 40 of the Christians assembled to eat the Christmas feast. We ate with them. The next day we walked up to Ing Hok. That evening we held the first session of the Ing Hok quarterly meeting. On Wed. we held three sessions and on Thurs. three sessions. Mr. Walker was very helpful. I was much pleased on Fri. morning to hear Mr. Walker say "A very successful quarterly meeting."

On Fri. morning Mr. Walker and the students started for Foochow. I, with three of the helpers and two load carriers started for the stations up the river. That night we spent on Sa Sang- a level mountain top, at the house of the only man in that large tract of country, who professes to be a Christian. He is not free from the opium habit, and has not joined the church. We held a delightful and touching service with him and his family. He prayed very earnestly for the foreigners of sins and for the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. A man who prays like that and who reads his Bible as I know this man does must have God's ear.

Sat. morning we were off for Diong Keng where we have a chapel, arriving at 4:45 P.M. On the road everywhere there were the best of opportunities for speaking of Christ. The three young men with me said I was as good as an accordion to attract a crowd. That Sat. at dinner in a native inn, we preached for an hour and a half to about twenty men. They listened most attentively and asked honest questions about the Gospel. The crowds everywhere were most attentive and polite. That evening- Wed. morning almost dinner time- we had a very interesting service at Diong Keng with four men who are Christians but have not the courage to stand up before their relatives and friends and confess Christ. They are afraid of being laughed at. But they will gain courage.

Sunday I conducted communion at Diong Keng in the A.M. and at Sung Kau in the P.M. Sung Kau is where the theft occurred in August. The thief and the man into whose house the goods were put are now in custody at Ing Hok and they have confessed. On the road from Diong Keng to Sung Kau we pass thro the village where these two men live. This village has for a long time borne a bad reputation. Just as we reached the village we hear a terrific shout and angry words. Looking in the direction of the sound, we saw about 15 rods away some 60 or 70 men collected with spears and tridents as if for no peaceable amusement. It was not exactly a pleasant sight in just that place and at just that time. Nik Huak the evangelist of the Ing Hok field was walking just behind me. He stopped and exclaimed "What is the matter?" One of the load carriers also stopped. The other kept on and I followed him. Someway I did not feel much disturbed. I thought of my sprinting days in college and made up my mind I could run as fast as the other fellow. But I felt all the time that this trouble did not at all concern us. This proved to be the case. These 60 or 70 men had been taking a feast over ancestral grave worship and had gotten drunk and then a fight ensued. We chanced to come along just at this time. We spent Sunday night at Sung Kau and Monday morning at 6:30 were going down rapids in a boat (ferry) with twenty other men. We made 12 miles in 3 hours, walked another 4 miles and took dinner at Ngu deng muoi. That afternoon I took the first rest I had had since leaving Foochow. In the evening conducted communion with one church member.

Tues. morning at 7 o'clock we were off for Ing Hok- arriving at 3:30 P.M. walking 24 miles. The next morning I started for Foochow arriving on Thursday at 10:30 A.M. finding all the dear ones well and happy.

Examinations in the Seminary were in progress, they were finished Fri.

Sunday morning I preached a baccalaureate sermon before the 7 Theol. students and the 10 girls who graduate this year.

Sat. we welcomed Dr. Bliss and Miss Walker. Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear came but they stopped on the South Side in a Meth. house.

Monday afternoon the graduation of the Seminary passed off nicely. Tues. P.M. the Girls College graduated ten girls with honor. Seven graduated from the Theol. Sem'y.

I have now had my dinner and am going into the city to attend the graduation exercises of the Boy's College this afternoon. Ellen goes with me.

We are all well and happy. God is always very good to us. We rec'd last Sat. a letter from Shelton and a beautiful picture of two little girls whom we have named Annie and Olive.

Love to all
Will.

My dear Mr. Goddard:-

When in Foochow last year I became greatly interested in Rev. W.L. Beard and the students of his theological seminary in that place. There are few nobler men or more successful workers in the mission field than Mr. Beard. And few schools that if properly equipped can accomplish so much for the cause of Christ throughout China.

I am glad that you are assisting the American Board in securing funds for its much needed building and I am most happy to testify to my appreciation of the work of the school and to wish for you the best of success in placing it upon a firm foundation.

Faithfully yours.

Francis E. Clark.

Dear Miss Beard:-

Isn't this great? I feel like throwing up my hat. In another letter he says. "I believe with all my heart in Mr. Beard and his work." Will you send this to your home. You need not return it to me.

Yours sincerely,

Dwight Goddard

Dear Folks at Home:-

I started the last letter about Feb. 1st. Your last arrived Jan. 21. But the mail last week brought a good long letter from Miss Newton, - all about her visit at both Shelton and Putnam, so we heard from you only a few days since. Feb. 1st the temperature took a sudden fall- going down to 30 degrees above. This is very unusual here. The cold has continued longer than we have known it to before in the seven winters we have spent here. Coming so suddenly after warm weather, it was very trying to mankind and there are many calls of the doctors. Gould is nearly over his cold, Geraldine is getting the better of hers, I have kept close to the house yesterday and to day and feel much better this evening. I have not gone to bed only held up and done as little as possible. Ellen and Phebe have thus far escaped and I trust they will not have to take a course. Last Tues. I attended the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Anglo Chinese College (Meth.) and Wed. A.M. the Commencement of the same college, and in the P.M. the Monthly Concert of Prayer at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Muller of the Ch. Missionary Soc'y. Fri. A.M. I went into the city to play "Basket Ball." This is a new game born since I left the states. "Hockey" is another game that I heard little of before leaving home. [Hockey came to the U.S. from Canada in 1893.] The missionaries and community men play together. The troubles and the dangers of the past few years have brought the missionaries and the merchants much nearer to each other than they were when we first came to Foochow. The athletic sports are now helping to bridge the chasm. Yesterday it rained. We have had very little rain since the big flood last July, so it seems good to have some occasionally. We cannot move over to the new house until (?) possibly not before next Sept. Dr. Kinnear and Mrs. Kinnear are staying on the South Side in a Meth. house and I must not leave the compound here until a man can be here. The prospects now are that the Shaowu missionaries can go back to their station about Mar. 1. Both the Chinese officials and the Consuls have given their permission. Miss Newton enclosed the money from the W.C.T.U. in her letter. This is all I'll write this time. Jan 20th I was 100 miles from Foochow at Sung Kau. Jan 30th we remembered. Feb. 5th has passed. The 18th and 25th are coming. [birthdays] Love to all from Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

Feb. 10th I sent letter No. 3. Feb. 14th one arrived from you. The past week has slipped away very fast and it seems as if very little had been accomplished. Next Tuesday is Chinese New Years. The last week or two of the year are always full of business. Then the arrangements for the work of next year are not yet completed, so the days have been quite full. Yesterday I painted the upper half floor and part of the back veranda floor of the new residence. The mission has appointed us to occupy it. But the time when we can go is as yet an indefinite quantity. We may not move till next Summer. Ellen had a hard struggle to make up her mind to stay in the old house in bed for three weeks, but now that her mind is made up it will be less hard to do it. Our bed room here is a very cheerless room, and the arrangement of the house makes it impossible to change rooms. Our bed room in the new house is a very pleasant room, with one of the finest views in Foochow.

Ellen and the children are quite well. Gould has entirely recovered from his cold and Geraldine is nearly from hers. Phebe and Gould have thrived in the cold weather. The thermometer dropped to 28 ½ one night last week. This is the coldest weather we have experienced in Foochow. Fri. and Sat. mornings there was a very heavy frost that has killed all the grass, and some of the flowers- The heliotrope is all black, and the callas look worse for the ordeal.

Miss Chittenden arrived Fri. morning. Dr. and Mrs. Whitney stop in Shanghai. He meets with the committee on Medical Nomenclature for China, in that city and will come down later. Mr. Walker and his daughter moved into Dr. Kinnear's house last Tues. so we are quite lively at Ponasang now. Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Hartwell moved down to Pagoda Anchorage yesterday. You know Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard's family are to sail for American Feb. 22, next Friday and Mr. Hartwell takes his work in that station.

I am sending you two photos. One should have had attached the tissue paper that I inclose here. The other I think you will recognize. We think both photos specially good. The one of the three cherubs is my own fixing. I promised Ellen I would take all the ones. The children are just as they chanced to dressed or undressed clean or otherwise at the time- about 10:30 A.M. Phebe was looking at the photo with Mr. Walker's Botany glass and remarked "How bushy my hair looks!" Gould was coerced into having his photo taken and this is hardly up to par in his looks. But the girls are good. Geraldine will never have a better one taken. It is perfect of her.

Give our love to Grandmother, and Aunt Louise and all the rest.

Lovingly Yours

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote last Feb. 18th No. 4. Your last letter arrived yesterday- the one addressed to Ellen. I wrote last Wed. to Putnam telling the latest and most important news concerning China- i.e. the arrival of a young lady at our house at 4:40 a.m. Feb. 26th. She thought it would not be well for some reason to have the same birthday as her Aunt Flora (Feb. 25th) or as her grandfather Kinney (Feb. 24th) so she chose the 26th. She had a swift and easy voyage, and is getting acclimated nicely. Her hair is black, she weighed 8 ¾ lbs. At five days old she is eating every time she gets a chance and anything that comes within reach of her beak from her actions one is led to fear she has been nearly starved for a long time. I did not tell the folks at Putnam her name for the best of reasons. We have decided to call her Dorothy. Will you either send this to Putnam or write and tell them of our decision. She has steadily improved in her behaviour since she arrived. She had evidently been used to American time, for the first three nights she waited to turn into day, only however for two or three hours. But the last two nights she asked only for two lunches during the night and slept perfectly. Ellen is getting on as well as we can ask. She even this early wants to get up. Gould says she is the little sister he asked his Mama to get from God. He found a nice picture of a little girl and asked his Mama to get one like from God for him.

This is in haste because many are the demands on my time these days.

With Much Love

Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

Letter No. 5 announcing Dorothy's arrival started Mar. 4th. That letter acknowledged the last one received from your i.e. Mar. 1st.

Looking back from this date we have got along nicely. Briefly our history is – March 6th I helped the Shaowu friends put their things on the boats preparatory to starting up river. In the evening they all- Mr. and Miss Walker, Dr. and Miss Bement and Dr. Bliss- took dinner with the children and me and went on board the boats about 8 P.M. It was a hard day's work and even Ellen was somewhat wearied by the confusion all about. The next day we remarked that it seemed the day after a typhoon- all was so quiet. The Seminary opened that day. The next day Friday I stopped work at noon and just lay around. Sat. and Sunday I remained in bed. The children had fine times those days. There was no one to restrain them. But they seemed to keep very happy. At table they had three or four servants to do their bidding and we judged from the happy sounds that reached us that servants and children had nothing to complain of. We have one amah that is as good as she can be and at such times is worth her weight in gold. Monday morning I dressed and went to breakfast but did not get to the Seminary. I washed the baby both Sat. and Sunday, so you see I was not a complete invalid.

We have all had hard colds with fever. I expect in America it would have been called Grippe. We are all nearly well now. Dorothy had to come in for her share last. Her hardest time was last Sunday. She has troubled us very little tho. One or two nights we were up with her two or three hours. The first week she gained 1 ½ lbs. The next week- when she had the Grippe- she just held her own. The past few days we can see she has grown. Ellen has been sitting up in her room for nearly a week now, and she goes about in her room as she likes. Fri. she cut my hair. She is spending her odd moments copying the minutes of Mission business meetings into the Secretary's book. This task is happily at an end now, for Mr. Peet has the work.

On last Tues. the mission had another business meeting- an all day session. On Wed. I took my class in the Sem'y and have met it each day since. For the present I have only one class a day.

We are enjoying beautiful April weather these days. To day is clear and mild. The buds are swelling- almost bursting on many trees. Peach blossoms are out. The grass was killed by frost this Winter and the new fresh green grass is just appearing.

In the churches the work is starting slowly this year. I shall have hard work to push self-support. I hope however to carry it thro except in two places- as heretofore. Au Ciu and Dung Song cannot do it, and I shall help them. Geu Cio Dong will ask me to help the janitor. Ha Puo Ga I think will care for itself. I have had an endless amount of trouble over the Pastor in the Ing Hok field, Ciong Ging Beng. At last it is settled that he shall remove from Gak Liang to Chong Ha. This is something like cutting loose the key log in a jamb on the river. It relieves many other pressures and makes the planning of the work quite easy.

It is time to think of the shipment that is to start next June. I think one pair of shoes for me as usual No. 9 wide, about $3.00. You need not send the rubber overshoes this time, 20 or 30 lbs. of rye, a little popping corn and a little dried pumpkin if you have it.

With best love to grandmother and Aunt Louise and all the others.

I am

Your

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Another week has passed and I will write a line or two to let you know our condition. I wrote last one week ago, No. 6. March 20th we received letters from Flora, Phebe and Mother. On the 21st letters came from Putnam and from Dwight. So the week has brought a good lot of good news from different places.

With us all has gone much as usual. Ellen has gained strength steadily. On Tuesday when Dorothy was three weeks old Ellen came out to dinner with us. Two days later, Thursday evening, she took supper with us. These good deeds she has perpetrated daily every since. She still rises late and so still has breakfast in bed. She rises about 10 a.m. and sits up all day- without fatigue. Dorothy is a very proper child. She has learned to distinguish day and night, and seems to understand that night is the time when people sleep. As soon as she had recovered from the cold she began to sleep nicely at night, and to be awake more in the day time. I think during the past week she has gone to bed about 9 P.M. and asked for a lunch about 1 P.M. and breakfasted about 5 A.M. She is a bright eyed little lass, and already notices people or moving objects. She is very strong and would bear her whole weight on her feet now if we would allow it. I have bathed her each evening with Ellen to help. It keeps my attention fixed to prevent her from jumping out of the bowl. One night she nearly kicked the wash bowl off the chair on to the floor.

Phebe is never so happy as when holding Dorothy. She is very handy and holds her for a quarter of an hour at a time, and sometimes rocks her to sleep.

Dwight is hot after money for a new Theol. Seminary. He wrote me that the Board is really corresponding with a man to come to this station. I do not remember if I have written that Mr. Gardner formerly of the Shaowu station has written that he does not think it possible for him to go back to that station, and the mission has promised him work in some part of the Foochow field. He will in all probability take some of my work for I now have all the work of two stations alone, while each of the other two stations have two men in them. (I should have excepted Dr. Kinnear's Hospital). I hope one of the two young men with whom the Board is corresponding relative to coming to the Foochow Mission will be willing to go to Shaowu.

Monday- March 25th. A letter from Dr. Smith today states positively that Mr. Smith has been appointed to the Foochow Mission. Also that the Board is in correspondence with a man a graduate of Hartford Sem'y 1900, now studying in Germany, with reference to coming to this station. From Mr. Goddard we learn that this man's name is Hodous and from the Hartford Sem'y catalog we learn it is Lewis Hodous of Cleveland, Ohio. Well it looks as if there was help ahead.

Love to all from all
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My register says that my last letter was written Mar. 31st, that your last arrived April 8th.

April 7th two weeks ago I attended two services and then had to meet Dr. Stryker [Minnie] = Miss Garretson's niece appointed to be associated with Dr. Woodhull. The next four days were more than full so I am afraid you have gone three weeks with no letter from me. On Wed. April 10th I married one of the Sem'y graduates of '99. On Thurs. I was preparing for the Ing Hok trip. In the evening we took dinner at Miss Garretson's with friends from the other missions in honor of Dr. Stryker's arrival. On Fri. morning I was off for Ing Hok. For the description of that trip I am going to ask Ellen to send you the letter I wrote her from Ing Hok a week ago today.

I intended to start from Ing Hok city Fri. April 18th, walking that day to Sa Sang, and the next day to Diong Keng. Then on Sunday hold communion there and at Sung Kau 6 miles away. Then return to Ing Hok Mon. and Tues. and get home Thurs. But on Fri. morning it rained hard till after noon. The Sa Sang road is a mountain path, much of the way only an earth path. The coolies could not walk and carry a load and I should have had hard work to make the journey. To start later than 10 or 11 o'clock would be too late to allow of our arrival at Diong Keng Sat. night. I thought it essential to be at these places on a Sunday. Then I had been walking mountain paths all the week and was in no good condition, for five days of successive walking of from 6 to 25 miles a day. So I backed down and took a boat for home, planning to try for the remote part of the field again the first of May.

All over the plain the farmers are now busy reaping the wheat. On the plain there is a good crop, but up on the mountain sides the extreme cold days in Jan. and Feb. nearly destroyed the crop. In Ing Hok district the farmers are preparing the fields for rice. Opium is cultivated on a larger scale each year. It's ravages among the men are terrible. I went into one miserable den up on the mountain at Puai Sioh. A house had been divided by a partial partition and two young men, themselves smokers, each had opened a shop to sell opium. One of the young men was above the average in native ability and intelligence. He had been about the province much and understood men, and he knew himself. He fully realized his own condition, and he realized the gravity of it to a greater extent than is usual. He had used so much money in buying the stuff for himself to smoke that he could no longer keep shop for others and he now just exists, in rags and filth and misery. He made a pitiable sight. Usually the smokers are frank to admit that they use the opium, and immediately tell me that it comes from my country. If ever I am glad to be an American is at these times when I can tell those who throw this accusation at me, that the people in my country know little about opium. That it came to China from India. I feel for the English missionaries who are accused of bringing in this poison, for they must blush for their country's sin against China. But the ordinary low class smoker shows little sorrow over his condition. They usually tell me, "There is no help for it. The habit is formed and they cannot break it." - often asking me if I have any medicine that will destroy the appetite. One poor fellow told me the other day, that he would smoke no more when he was dead.

I was very glad yesterday to find Ellen and all the children well. Dorothy had grown quite perceptibly in the nine days. She is a fine, strong, good baby. Smiling at every one and even at seven weeks old tries to coo. Geraldine stretches her arms out as far as possible and says "I lo' Do'ty dat lo'". [I love Dotty that long.] She does not sound the "ve" in love or the "ng" in long. The o's are given the same sound as in speaking correctly. Strawberries three times a day! Phebe wants to know "Does Jesus understand Chinese?" Gould drops an egg on the stair. In a few minutes Mama sees the shell and a wet place on the stair. "But where is the egg?" Gould hangs his head. Phebe:- "He's aten it up."

I have spent all the morning sleeping and all the afternoon resting today.

With Love to all
Will.

Foochow, China,
May 26th 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter No. 9 started from Foochow, April 21st. One went to Oliver a week later. May 13th letters arrived from both Shelton and Putnam. I am surprised at my register for telling such tales and am of half a mind to accuse it of being false for I am loath to believe that I have not written you for over a month. Time however goes on eagle wings and four weeks is only a brief space as one looks back.

If April 21st was my last letter, I left you just after returning from a trip to Ing Hok. Oliver's letter written May 13th must of spoken of the next trip- May 1st to 13th on which I visited the farther part of the field, stopping at Ing Hok City on the way back for a two days meeting with the workers in the field, then spending Sunday May 12th at Gak Liang, returning to Ponasang May 13th. May 5th I thought of you all very often for you were sitting at the Lord's table in Huntington, Shelton, Bridgeport, Framingham, Amherst, South Orange and I do not know where. I thought also of the gathering in Putnam for the same purpose. That day I began service at Diong Keng at 8:45 a.m. This service closed at 11 o'clock. Two women were admitted to the church. At noon our dinner was over and we were off for Sung Kau 6 miles distant. 2:15 p.m. found us here and at 3 o'clock service began closing after 5 o'clock. Two men united with the church. The communion service in these far away places is always long and when candidates are examined and admitted to the church it all has to be done at one session and it makes a long ceremony. I was tired that night- a little. But the next morning I was up soon after 4 o'clock and off for the ferry to go 12 miles down the rapids for 10 cents, and then walk 5 miles to Ngu Deng Muoi Chapel. I had eaten on the ferry 2 bananas, a rice cake and one cruller. Just before we reached Ngu Deng Muoi we came to a house by the road side where a man was boiling sweet potatoes. We washed them, cut them in diagonal slices and steamed rather than boiled them. They cost 8 cash a bowl. One bowl made a meal. On the whole trip I admitted seven to the different churches.

Arriving at Ponasang I found Ellen had been nursing a sore throat most of the time while I had been away. It has been a little better but was again growing worse. It continued to grow worse and gave her much pain and made it impossible for her to take solid food till May 24th- day before yesterday. She has been up every day except two- last Thurs. and Fri. when she did not dress. For just a week now she has been unable to make a sound with her vocal organs. She has to resort to whispering. Fri. the soreness went away, and she ate soft toast for supper. Yesterday she was at the table three times and to day she is eating as usual. Her only trouble now is the inability to speak and a general weakness due to fasting and to feeding Dorothy. That young miss has not realized that her mother was otherwise than perfectly well. Ellen could take liquid food enough to keep up the supply of milk. The little girl has slept perfectly every night and has been as happy as a little canary each day. She is just learning (three months old to day) that she has a voice. And like a young rooster just beginning to crow she is using her vocal powers to the full extent of her ability. She is a very happy little girl with a sweet smile for every one, and she is now adding a coo. The other children are all well. Gould and Geraldine have had symptoms of Ellen's sore throat but frequent gargling and cold water compresses have relieved them.

Last week the ther. stood at 80 degrees – 85 degrees in the coolest places. Fri. Dr. Woodhull, Miss Brown and Dr. Stryker went to Guliang to stay over Sun. and return to morrow. The day they went was very hot, but that night it rained and the mercury dropped 10 degrees. It has since gone 5 degrees lower and has rained almost constantly. We have been able to see the mountain only once or twice since they went up, so we do not envy them their altitude. If the hot weather commences now we shall take the children to the mountain very soon.

Phebe wants me to write "Dorothy is rosy". She is making good progress in reading. Ellen writes a blackboard 3 X 3 ft. full of sentences and Phebe reads them at sight. Of course Ellen selects words that Phebe is familiar with. Yesterday while I was present Ellen wrote "The red bird laid a white egg." Phebe read it without difficulty. She has just come and pointed out the word "egg" above in my wretched scribbling.

Lots of love to all.

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Last week I wrote No. 10 and started it for Shelton. Your last is still May 13th. It seems a long time since we had heard from you, - all the longer because of the condition in which your last letter left Uncle Theodore and Nellie Blakeman.

Ellen has quite recovered from her illness. But her voice still sticks in her throat and she speaks in whispers. Yesterday and today she has once or twice made a loud noise with her vocal organs. The children keep quite well. As to myself, no one will pity me for I tipped the scales at 171 ½ lbs. the other day in Summer attire.

The past ten days have been quite cool. It has rained most of the time. To day is the first nice clear day in much over a week. With the therm at 80 degrees we call it very pleasant. This evening the moon is full, the sky clear and it is delightful. Ellen is out on the walk for exercise. All the babies are fast asleep.

Friday morning at 6:45 o'clock we were pleasantly surprised at the arrival of the Shaowu people, Mr. and Miss Walker, Dr. and Miss Bement and Dr. Bliss. They started from Shaowu the Monday previous at noon, - a quick trip. Dr. Bement went immediately to the mountain. The rest are still here at Ponasang. They will all remain here till after the Annual Business meeting of the Mission which begins next Thursday morning at 9:30. We may finish in one day. But more likely it will take two.

By the time this reaches you, the old house will be full with school ma'ams and students. What an atmosphere of intellectuality there must be about the Century Farm during vacation! The trees will soon be talking in Latin and the cows lowing in Greek. Stanley will never again soil his "widder's" colars by climbing all over his shoulders when he comes to see him. With us strawberries are all gone. With you they are just beginning to ripen and this letter will find them in their prime. How I should like to be the letter about that time. We have not yet thought definitely of going to the mountain. It will depend entirely on the weather. If it should come off very hot it would send Ellen and the children off in two days notice. The Seminary closes June 19th. Then June 25 and 26 I have a Quarterly Meeting with the helpers of this station. Then I am free to go [to] the mountain- unless the money is sent for the Church Enlargement- or some other building commences. Miss Newton is expected back in about a month. I have just secured for her a native house that the mission has been trying to buy for twenty years or more and she will want to commence on the building of the new Girl's College at once I suppose. Then we are praying for success to Dwight in his efforts to raise the money for the property for the new Seminary. Well if one has nothing to do he is not at all happy. With plenty of work he has no time for unhappiness.

Give Our Love to All
Will.

June, 9th 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My register says that I wrote one week ago today, No. 11. I must again write the same date for the arrival of your last i.e. May 13th. We are anxiously waiting to hear about Uncle Theodore and Nellie Blakeman.

The week has passed pleasantly with us. Monday word came from D. Willard Lyon, General Y.M.C.A. Secretary for China, saying that John R. Mott, International Secretary of that movement, who visited China and came to Foochow in 1896, was to visit China again this year in November. But there was some doubt about his stopping at Foochow. So I have spent some time this week in getting invitations for him to be sure to visit Foochow during his stay in China. The pastors and preachers of the three missions here will send him three letters urging him to come. The six Y.M.C.A.'s will send a joint invitation, and the missionaries will sign a strong plea for him to stop.

His visit five years ago proved a great blessing to the Chinese church and they all want him to come again.

Last Thurs. we held the Annual Business Meeting of the Mission, for the first time out of the seven that I have attended we finished the business in one day.

The weather has been very kind to us thus far. The ther. has been in the 90's two or three times, but only for a day or two at a time. To day the sun is shining brightly and yesterday was also a pleasant day. At 2:15 p.m. today the mercury stands at 82 degrees. We call it very pleasant and comfortable. As long as such weather lasts we shall remain here at Ponasang. But it is more than probable that by one week from today Ellen and the children will be on the mountain. Dr. Bliss will be with us on the mountain this Summer. We are having another room built on to our cottage, so he will have the room Mr. Walker occupied last Summer, and we will spread out into two rooms for sleeping. Then one room will be left for dining and general living room. We enjoy Dr. Bliss's company. He is quiet and retired and is not annoyed by the children. We have already had two applications for the rent of our Guliang Cottage while we are at home on furlough. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner have the first chance. But as to whether they can have it next year or will have to wait till 1903 remains to be seen.

This last week news came from Ing Hok that may compel me to make another trip to that place before I go to Guliang for good. The physician whom Dr. Woodhull has placed in charge of the work there quarreled with the woman who taught the Woman's Station School last year. The physician was wrong. This year the school teacher was changed. A relative of the physician was asked to take the school. This school is in the second floor of the Hospital, so it is rather necessary that the two women could be on good terms. All went well this year till two weeks ago, when something- it is difficult to tell just what- upset the harmony and the doctor so far lost control of her self as to strike the young school teacher several times. Dr. Woodhull has about decided to close the Hospital for a time. If this is done it will necessitate my going up to Ing Hok this week or next.

I cannot remember when I have not gone to church Sunday morning, or as slight a pretest as kept me at home today. I was simply tired and sleepy and lay down on the couch at 10 o'clock. At 10:45 Ellen asked me if I was going to church. I did not go. But I must attend the Christian Endeavor this evening, a service I have not attended in over a year.

There is a little improvement in Ellen's voice over last Sunday. She can speak loud, but it requires effort. Wed. she went over South Side to do some shopping, and Thurs. the day of the business meeting, we had eight guests at dinner and Ellen attended part of the meeting. Then Fri. she went into the city to the closing exercises of the Woman's school and Kindergarten. I am afraid she used her voice a little too much and her general strength also a little too much.

The children are pretty well. Phebe and Dorothy seem to be perfectly well. Geraldine has had a little cold that exhibits itself in hoarseness and in cold sores on her face. She eats and sleeps all right and is fat as ever. Gould is playing so hard and growing so fast that he does not look as robust as a few weeks ago. To day he seemed out of sorts until 11:30 when I took him up to rock him a few moments and he went to sleep and woke at 2:30. He is happy now. Ellen has had some bows and arrows made for him and Phebe. He works so hard with his that he gets very tired. Love to all Will.

Foochow, China, June 16th 1901.

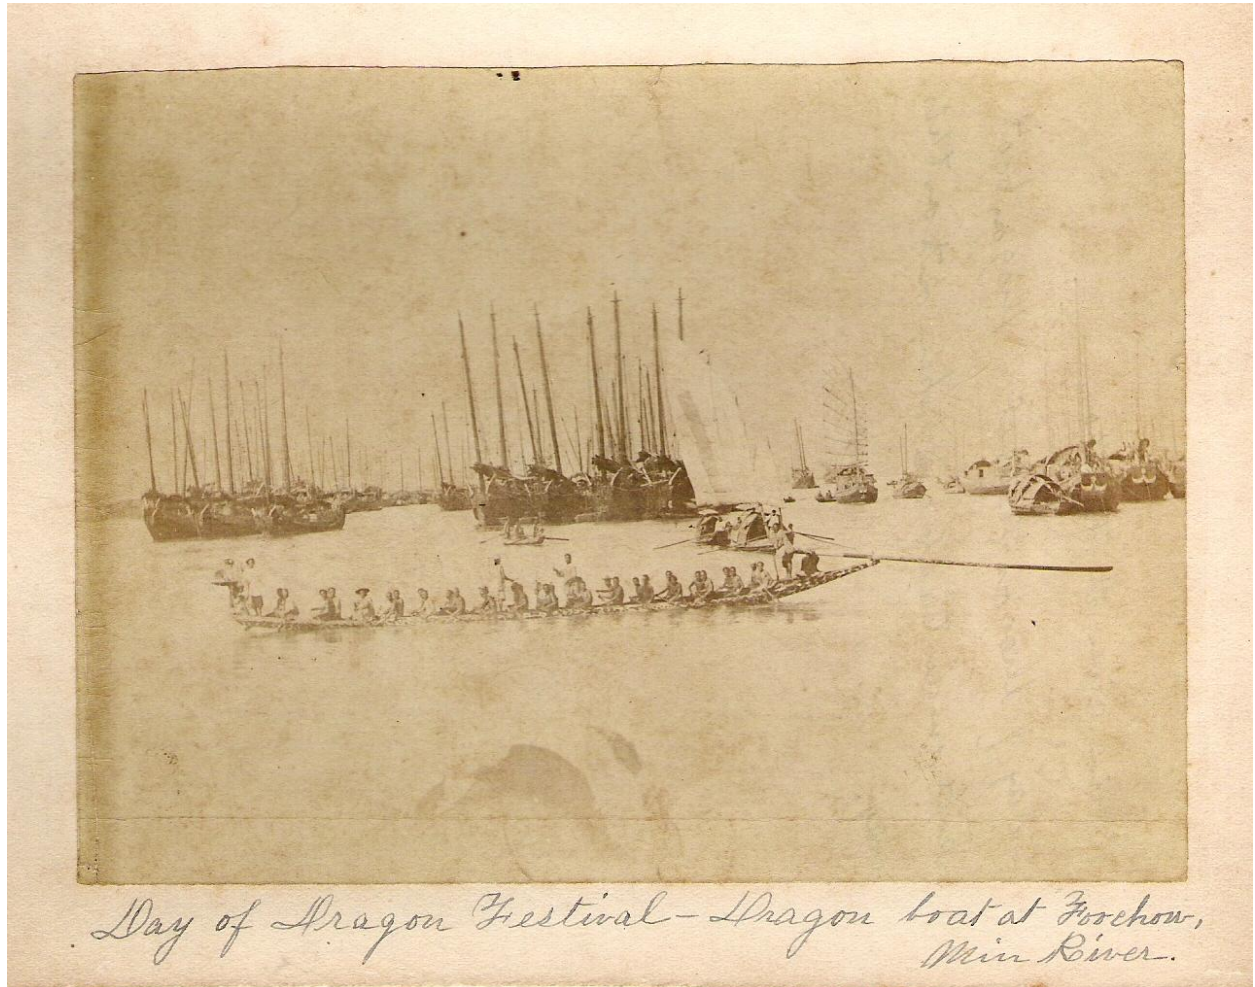

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote you one week ago, No. 12. Another whole week we have waited in vain for your letter. A shanghai steamer is due here to morrow or next day. It must bring word from you.

We are still at Ponasang. The temperature has been quite endurable during the week. There has been some rain and but little sun. The thermometer has ranged from 78 degrees to 85 degrees. But we have had good nights rest each night and the children have got along nicely. Geraldine is showing the heat a little. The others are all right. They have discarded shoes and stockings and wear only about two garments. Dorothy night and day wears only one thin flannel gown. Yesterday and this morning were cooler and we have to dress by the hour, not for the day.

Last Tues. I went to Guliang to see if the cottage was all right for moving into. The Bement sisters were nicely settled in the cottage about ten rods above ours, and it was very nice to have a good dinner. Ellen and the children are now planning to go up on Wed. I will go with them for a day or two. I should like to start for Ing Hok on Thurs. But that is the day of the great Fifth Moon or Dragon Boat Festival, and I am afraid I could not travel. Mr. and Miss Walker and Dr. Bliss went to the mountain yesterday.

["On the fifth day of the fifth month comes the Dragon-boat festival, with its feasting and boat-racing. The numerous waterways of Fukien make it possible to celebrate this festival most elaborately. Every village gets out its sixty-foot canoe or dragon-boat and joyfully races the next village for days amidst the beating of tom-toms and the shouts of small boys." The people in many wards of the Suburbs here are dying off very fast. In the Au Iong Die church, the pastor's little boy and daughter in law, in the shop adjoining the church- kept by an earnest Christian-his, the Christian mother and his little daughter. In the next shop two persons. In another house next to the Ha Puo Ga church, seven people. In another place at a house in which lived twenty people nineteen have died. There was one death of a little boy, whom we were helping to support, in the parsonage at Ha Puo Ga. The second assistant teacher in the Sem'y Kiu Ging Nieng was taken ill last Wed. and I have had to meet his classes since. But Friday he was better and continues to mend. So I hope he will recover. The Classical Teacher Gong Sieu Lieng was taken ill Wed. also. He lives in the Sem'y. On Thursday he was no better and I sent him home. No word has come of his condition. Our best amah's only son died three weeks ago and she feels that she has nothing now to live for. She is in bed most of the time. The other amah is away for two days preparatory to going to Guliang so we are alone. The cook went to the bad a month ago and we turned him off and have been doing with a green boy. Ellen supplements his efforts so the rest of us cannot complain.

Ellen's voice has improved much in past few days. To day she speaks aloud more than half the time.

The fifth moon communion began today. At Geu Cio Dong five joined. At Ha Puo Ga two, at Sang Bo two. I was at Sang Bo. The attendance was good, and the attention excellent.

To-morrow and next day the examinations in the Seminary are held, then the Seminary closes for this term.

Tuesday is Phebe's birthday. She will be six years old. She is as active a little body as ever lived. She often bathes Geraldine- doing all the undressing and the dressing herself. To day she has been a great help in the absence of the amahs. This evening I was fixing the beds while Ellen was getting Dorothy to sleep. Phebe began to help. She could not take off and fold up the spreads, and while I was doing this she turned down the clothes and fixed the pillows. She of course was thro first. She stood watching me fold the first spread and remarked in a matter of fact way, "Men are always very slow, aren't they?"

I wonder who the Mr. Lathrop is that the Shelton church has called for pastor. There was a Lathrop in Hartford in the class below mine. It was very pleasant that Mr. Kenneston could be present at the installation.

Now this will reach you in vacation. Please do not "vacate" so hard that you cannot find time for a word occasionally to us.

Give our love to Grandma and Aunt Louise and all the others.

Lovingly

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote as usual one week ago yesterday. Two letters have just arrived this morning, one from mother, one from Ben.

As I wrote last time we expected to start for the mountain last week Wednesday. But it rained that day and on Thursday the sky was threatening, the coolies did not want to go on account of a big feast that day, and we did not care. So we waited till Friday. The day was a beautiful one. The sun was bright on the way. The coolies were good and everything went as if it was greased. When we arrived we found Dr. Bliss there with the house all aired and dry and the Misses Bement had overseen the washing of the house and placed the furniture all in order so we had simply to go in and sit down to dinner.

Ellen and I were rather tired. We did enjoy the sleeping up there in the pure atmosphere and the QUIET. Phebe and Gould are the picture of health. Gould walked half way up the mountain and would have walked more if I had allowed. Geraldine has lost half her prickly heat already, and is a new girl. Dorothy is the same dear little sweet girl. To see her is to love her. But she is careful on whom she bestows her favors. At four months she is afraid of strangers when they take her. In her mother's or father's arms she laughs and crows at any one. While at the foot of the mountain waiting for the coolies to smoke and drink their tea, last Friday, I was holding her. She was looking over my shoulder and cooing as happily as could be. I looked around and there stood a crowd of little Chinese boys and girls. I told them she was telling them that God loved them.

I came down from the mountain this morning. I want to get the work done so as to go back tomorrow afternoon. The new room is well under way. We shall have a room to let now. Next year perhaps some of you will come out to see us. We have talked very seriously of inviting Mr. and Mrs. Sargent, Ellen's pastor and wife, to come and spend two months with in the Summer time.

The plague is raging fearfully. On one street in the city it is reported that 80 died in one day. The people are in a panic and are fleeing in all directions. In our Au Iong Die church there have been two deaths and in the house adjoining two and in the next house four. On this account there was no communion there yesterday and I had a rest. Mrs. Ding, Ming Uong's mother, was here this morning and said that on the street on which she lived there was only one house where there had been no deaths.

I think I wrote you some time ago about the Men's Missionary Society opening work on West Street in the city. They placed a young man a graduate of the Seminary this last January in charge of the chapel. He was the most promising man who has yet graduated from the Institution. My hopes for his success as a winner of souls was high. The pastors and other workers had great confidence in him. God also saw his fitness for service, for He called him yesterday to the higher service. His wife is ill with the same disease.

Ben's letter this morning was a fresh breeze from a new quarter. Tell him when you see him that I will answer it before long if all goes well. He seems happy and speaks as if Abbie was also happy.

You are in the midst of strawberries now. Haying is soon coming on. How I wish I could help you at it! The wayfarers are just coming home for all directions. The old home will be lively for two months. Don't forget to write us. Give the company pen and paper and tell them to make pen pictures of the home while you are making raspberry short cake for them.

I must close now with lots of love,
Will.

[This letter dated June 30, 1901 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the Folks at Home. Willard and Ellen do not like to use the typewriter on Sundays so letters written on those days are handwritten. The Chinese have been beating gongs, blowing horns and making other noises to scare off the spirit that is causing the plague. Reports are that 4000 have died in Foochow and Willard believes it to be close to the truth. Ellen and the children are on Kuliang and Willard goes up when he can. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, June 30th 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My last letter was written last Monday, June 24th. I neglected to number it. The number would have been 14, so I put that number on this letter. Your last arrived on that day and have been acknowledged. You will know the last week's letter from it's being type written. Ellen and I both feel an aversion to the use of the typewriter on Sunday. Hence as your letters are usually written on that day they are usually done with a pen.

The chief topic of conversation everywhere is the plague. The nights are hideous with the beating of gongs, the blowing of horns, the shooting of fire crackers and the yells of men. The people say that an idol from some other port has been imported on a vessel and he has decided to take a certain number of people from certain villages and cities. So they take the most powerful idol of each place and parade him on the streets with as many hideous noises as they can invent to drive the strange spirit away. As I write there is noise or better, are noises enough emanating from the temple in the corner of our compound to make man wish to be far away. It is strange what power superstition weilds over men everywhere- the moon seen over the left shoulder- the breaking of a mirror- digging potatoes or killing pork on the waning of the moon-thirteen at a table, might be termed the civilized cousins of the various superstitions that continually make life miserable for this poor people. Statistics of the plague victims are of course of doubtful accuracy. It is said that 4,000 have died in Foochow alone. I do not find it difficult to believe this.

And yet with all the fear of death the churches were never better filled than now. To day I conducted communion at Au Ciu, one woman was received. The church was crowded and the best attention was given to the preaching. Reports from other churches are very encouraging.

On Tues. p.m. I went up to the mountain again and remained till Fri. morning. I have been here at Ponasang since. To morrow and next day we have the quarterly meeting at this station. Then I hope to get off for the mountain for a rest. The heat has not been oppressive till this afternoon. I was feeling unusually warm and moist and looking at the thermometer found that it stood at 90 degrees.

Ellen and the children are well. We have a daily mail service, except Sunday. I feel quite composed to leave them on the mountain because Dr. Bliss is with them. The weather thus far up there has not been conducive to Dorothy's being out of doors as much as she would enjoy and the little Miss was not as happy as usual. But it did me good to see the evident pleasure that she experienced when she was taken out. Gould is in pants most of the time. He causes his mama no end of anxiety by climbing all over the half erected walls of the additions that we are putting on the cottage.

All crops are at the present time looking very well. Rice is very promising and if we do not have a flood it should yield well. Potatoes are also nicely started. Peaches and plums are in market of good quality and reasonable price.

We are preparing to celebrate the fourth on the mountain. How the first six months of this year have flown!!

We think of Etta now as Mrs. Willis Hume- dignified mistress of a parsonage.

With love to all

Will.

Foochow, China
Guliang, July 7th 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My correspondence register is at Ponasang. But I wrote one week ago to day and numbered the envelope. No letters have come from you since I wrote last.

Tues. noon the rain began to fall in torrents and by Wed. morning the water was too high to start for the mountain. The water rose steadily all day Wed. and Thurs. morning it was no lower, but it began to subside Thurs. forenoon. Friday morning I started for Guliang at 7 o'clock. Before I was half way across the plain I sent my chair back because the water on the road was so deep the coolies could not carry me. Grip in hand I waded for two hours in water from 6 in. to 16 in. deep before reaching dry land at the foot of the mountain. At 12:45 I reached the home on the mountain just two days later than I had intended. All the dear ones were well and happy.

The flood this year has not done as much damage in any way as the big flood of last year. The water was four feet higher all over the plain last year. The rice crop will be injured about 1/5 according to the Chinese.

The plague had not abated at all the last I heard was before the flood. Some expressed the hope that the flood might wash away the seeds of the disease. It is estimated that from 6,000 to 7,000 have died of the plague.

The mountain is becoming quite populous. About as many families as usual are here but we miss the large contingent of young women connected with the English missions. They were recalled last year and have not returned. We expect Miss Newton in about another week. Miss Garretson and Miss Woodhull are still in Foochow. All the rest of our mission are here on the mountain.

I think Ellen has gotten a little tired during the week I was away. I have kept her on the bed all the morning and she has just had a nice nap this p.m. She does not like to acknowledge that she is tired. But she does admit that she feels very much refreshed by her nap. The children are the picture of health. Dorothy is growing fat on Guliang living. We all went over to Mr. Mains to dinner yesterday. Dorothy was asleep when we started. We left orders for the coolie to bring her over when she awoke. She came. But she sent her voice ahead. And when she arrived she was most cried out. The coolie has never taken her before and she was afraid of him. But a good dinner made to her own order made her forget all her abuses.

Monday- The mail has just come and it brot your letter of May 23rd. We are glad to hear that you are all well. Before this Mary is an alumna.

The three older children have accepted the position of mail carrier. The mail for several of our mission comes up by our messenger from Ponasang. The children distribute it to the several houses. Geraldine finds it rather hard to keep up with the others over the rough roads. They all went to church yesterday afternoon. With Dr. Bliss our family almost fills a pew. At supper Ellen had left the table to attend to Dorothy. I asked Phebe if she could tell what the minister said. She replied it would be better to wait till mama returned so she need tell only once. Then immediately she said, "Mama told me when I was at the table I must attend to eating."

Love to all
Will.

Guliang, Foochow, July 24th 1901

Dear Folks at Home:-

July 7th a letter came from you. I wrote last two weeks ago last Sunday I think. I know I have written one since coming to the mountain. Etta's wedding invitation came this last week.

There is much to write if I tried to tell all that interests us, but it may not all interest you. It seems as if there was more work to do the longer one remains here. I suppose it is true that one who is willing to do and can do will always have his hands full. We have had delightful weather since coming to the mountain. Since the flood there has been little rain. The crops are beginning to feel the dryness a little. The dry weather is very nice for us. The new room is near completion. The plaster has dried very fast. I hear the carpenter tell the painter to come tomorrow or next day, that means finished. We are to have the wood work inside simply oiled over. This will dry almost immediately. They put it on with cloths and do not use an overdose.

Dr. Bliss went to Sharp Peak yesterday morning to be gone two weeks.

Ellen began to have a fever Sunday. Monday she remained in bed and is there yet. The fever is gone, but if she stays in bed, she rests. If she gets up she does not, so Dr. and I agree that it does her good to stay in bed. The children are as well as can be. Our second amah's little girl died of plague a week ago last Sunday and as she went home she cannot come back. So we are again with only one amah. The plague does not abate at all. The past week has been very hot in the city and on the plain. I see that you are having very hot weather in the States and in Europe.

The Convention of Guliang begins next Sunday. There are two meetings a day thro the week. I have the meeting Wed. p.m. Subj. "Fruit Bearing."

A week ago last Sunday a letter arrived from Dr. Judson Smith with the glad news that $2500 had been appropriated for a new Theol. Sem'y building in Foochow. This makes three buildings for which the money is in hand. There will be something for someone to do to oversee this work.

You are in the midst of haying. How I would like to be at home to help you!!

We all send Love to you all
Will

This is probably Dorothy at Kuliang Summer of 1901. Since she was born in February she would be the right age in this photo. This may be the photo Willard refers to in the previous letter.

Foochow, China, Aug. 11th 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote last July 24th. Your last came July 14th. The number of my last was No. 15.

When I wrote last Ellen was in bed, the Doctor kept her there until July 31st, that is she was not allowed to dress. She sat up each day for a time. July 31st she was up and dressed the next day she felt all the better for it. The next day Friday Aug. 2nd I went to Ponasang. Ellen was on the veranda with Dorothy in her arms to meet me when I returned. That night- Friday Aug 2nd a typhoon developed. It was in Mr. Bland's phrase, "a most extraordinary typhoon." Heretofore all typhoons of our acquaintance have come from the North East. This one began in the N. West and backed around to the South West to put in its best blasts. As we were at breakfast Sat. morning Aug. 3rd a hard gust took one section of our front veranda over the house. One rafter fell on the veranda floor with a crash. The houses here are not fortified for typhoons from the South and West. But many of them are well protected by their location. Mr. Bland whose house went to pieces two years ago and whom we housed for three weeks, was all safe this year and seeing our veranda on wings wrote down for us to come up. Ellen and the children decided to go, so I took Phebe wrapped in an old piece of canvas, and Mr. Bland's coolie took Gould and we went up to Mr. Bland's house 40 rods away. Dr. and Miss Bement are living in a house between ours and Mr. Bland's. They were well out of the wind and asked Mrs. Beard and Geraldine and Dorothy to come there. We accepted. So Ellen took off shoes and stockings and hat and with a pair of overshoes only and two woolen blankets around her waded up to Dr. Bements.

As soon as the veranda went I with hammer and nails fastened the rest so it did not blow away. The wind did not increase and the hole in the veranda roof afforded a vent for the wind. The house was not damaged more. Fortunately the veranda roof boards were of two lengths. The length from the ridge of the house extended down over the house wall, and the next began at the outside of the house wall and went to the edge of the veranda. Thus the veranda could go without injuring the house roof and the house did not leak.

In the afternoon of that day Phebe and Gould and Geraldine came back home. Ellen and Dorothy came back Sunday morning none the worse for their outing. Heretofore typhoons of our acquaintance have cleared off in three days at the longest. But altho the rain ceased to be dangerous at noon on Saturday, the rain fell in torrents day and night, with only short rests on three or four afternoons until day before yesterday- just one week. Nearly every house on the mountain leaks because the tiles are soaked thro. The rain has been so heavy that it has caused a flood on the plain. Our messenger did not come for just one week. As we depend on him for fruit and meat and clean clothes, these commodities ran low. But canned goods kept us from want. Not so however in the case of clothes. It was a happy time when we received fresh dry clothes.

Aug 2nd I went down expecting to meet Miss Newton at the steamer office. But she did not come. We could hear nothing of her till Wed. Aug. 7th when we learned she was safely in Foochow. Yesterday I went to Ponasang again and she came up the mountain with me. The Steamer on which she arrived reached the mouth of the river as expected about 9 a.m. Friday Aug. 2nd. They tried twice to come over the bar in the mouth of the river, but the waves were so high and the wind so fierce they dared not do it. So they put out to sea five miles or so and were banged around for two days and nights- no enviable experience. Miss Newton got over to Ponasang about 4 p.m. Sunday Aug. 4th. The water had just begun to rise in the streets, so she was a prisoner till yesterday at Ponasang. Yesterday and today have been fairly pleasant. To night the wind is N.E. and it is raining a little.

The week of meetings came this year July 28th- Aug. 4th. The typhoon spoiled the meetings Sat. Aug. 3rd and it stopped the Chinese meetings last week. These began to day and we expect to hold them this week.

The addition to our cottage was completed and Gould and I slept there Wed. night July 31st. The typhoon did not injure it. Two houses had to be vacated and tiles blew off several. But the damage was only slight here on the mountain. $10 gold will put our cottage in better condition than formerly. At Sharp Peak the storm did more damage. Dr. Kinnear had to move out of his cottage. He wrote me that he was damaged about $100 gold. Yesterday I received from Dwight another copy of a plea for the money for the Theological Sem'y.

Gould is crazy over live stock. The Chinese bring up the cows and goats near the house to graze. The other day a cow and a calf- 2 months or more old- were in the yard. The calf was quite gentle- a slip noose about the neck. He held the rope for a time- as happy as a king. Suddenly he screamed as if hurt all thro and came into the house doubled-up and crying as if his heart were breaking. The man had taken his rope off the calf and driven it away to his home. Another day he saw a goat tied outside the wall and grabbing up my pith hat ($4.50 silver) ran out to watch it. The wind blew the hat off. Did the goat eat it up or did a Chinaman run of with it? Certainly I have not pith hat now.

Monday morning-

It rains again with wind N.E. strong. We are having lots of weather.

Lovingly

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your last letter came July 7th. Has it been too hot since for you to write? I wrote one week ago this evening.
 No. 16.

I think rain was falling when I wrote last. At any rate it fell in torrents Monday and part of Tuesday. Wednesday was better. Thursday was clear but not very drying. Yesterday and today have been about perfect. How quickly we forget the dark, dismal days when the sun comes out and all is bright. Just as in our lives when trials make us gloomy and discouraged and when we seem to have forgotten the experience of pleasure, a good sing, or a good season alone with God and his word, or some circumstance drives away the gloom and in our pleasure we forget the discouragement and the trial.

For the past three days the Guliang houses have put on quite a live appearance. The masons have been on so many of them relaying the tiles. I was down to Ponasang again day before yesterday=Friday to purchase land adjoining Geu Cio Dong church on which to build a parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner I presume are 8 days out from San Francisco to day wishing they were good sailors. We expect to move into the new house now, or begin to move now and finish when we go down in September. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and family will probably go into the old house for the present.

The last mail brought the news that some friend in New England had sent to us $250 to be used as we thought best. This will come in this year very opportunely. I wrote you that the Au long Die church had been burnt.

This money will help to put up a new church or it will help to put up a new Theol. Sem'y. Mr. Goddard has just sent- no he sent it out arrived a week ago and I must have written about it last week- another plea for the balance of $1500 for the Sem'y.

We are sitting by the dining table after supper. The table is cleared off. Geraldine is lying on the table. Phebe wants to tell Grandma that Dorothy is all well, that Mr. Walker is going to send her the funniest doll she ever saw, that she bo't a doll for the sale that had on a pink dress. Gould wants to say that he killed the kitty doll (This was an image with a cat's head dressed in dolls clothes). He wants to say that he can say "The Lord is my Shepherd", that he is in pants. Geraldine says she wants some little slippers. Gould says tell you he is going to have a goat when he goes down from the mountain. Phebe says tell you she has learned the 23rd Ps. and the Beatitudes.

Ellen is getting like herself again. She went to an art lecture yesterday p.m. and today went to church. She still rests more than she did when she was tiring herself out.

Well I must say good bye for this time.

With love to all from all

Will.

Aug. 25 1901

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter, No. 17 was written one week ago today. Your last arrived the day after i.e. Aug. 19th. I had a very nice letter from Dwight yesterday. He is still in Chicago with Graham Taylor. He has been offered the position as head of the University Settlement Department of the Methodist Northwestern University. But he nor Doctor want to live in the West. They both prefer the East and so he refuses this offer which is one with a good salary and waits for something in the East. He seems pleased with the close friendship that exists between the Doctor and the Century Farm girls. I am pleased too.

The past week two engagements have been announced. One in the English Mission and one in the Meth. Mission. The latter is between a young Dr. Charles out only a few months and appointed to Central China. He came to Foochow on the same steamer with Miss Newton three weeks ago. So his was love only two weeks old.

Ellen and the two older girls are asleep. Gould and Dorothy are playing. She sits in amah's lap and kicks and shouts at Gould's antics for her benefit. The children are the picture of health. Dorothy is now taking two meals of Mellin's food a day. Ellen is the recipient of numerous compliments from all sides on her good looks. She is quite well except for an indescribable numbness in her feet and hands. This began in the Spring, but is much better. Dr. Bliss is not at all well for the past two weeks- since the typhoon. He thinks the damp weather at that time caused his trouble. Several on the mountain and at the Peak are similarly affected.

Miss Kauffman has given a few of us three very pleasant hours in the Art Galleries of Florence and Rome. I enclose a programme. Ellen and I attended. She for her interest and pleasure and because she knew something of the subject. I to try to imbibe a little knowledge of the subject.

Sunday evening 9:25-

We are having beautiful moonlight evenings now. Evening before last Mr. and Mrs. Lacy came in just as Dr. and Mrs. Whitney went. Ellen and I have just come in from sitting on Dr. and Miss Bements porch and singing "Refuge", and then going down to Dr. and Mrs. Whitney's and chatting a little while.

Guliangites are already going away. This next week will see quite a decrease in our numbers. The time will soon be here for regular work to begin. We have not had as good a rest this year as last. But we are beginning to feel a little different. I find my time more than taken up everyday. So that I have not yet commenced the Ing Hok Report. I must close this now with love to all from us all

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote two weeks ago Sept. 25th, No. 18- Another letter, Mothers and Ruth's came yesterday. Two letters have come from the Putnam folks since the wedding. All the letters agree in stating that the bride was a perfect beauty. I can easily believe it. Etta has written since she arrived at Meridian. On the upper left hand corner of the envelope was the inscription "Mrs. W.P. Hume, Meridian, N.Y." May God be able to use both Willis and Etta to be a great blessing to Meridian, and may he give them much happiness in their own home. It was very pleasant that so many of the Century Farm girls could attend and Emma writes as if they or she specially greatly appreciated Ruth's company for a few days after the wedding.

The loss of three horses in the midst of haying must have been a serious drawback. Shack is the only one of the three that I knew. - A telegram has just come saying that Pres. McKinley was shot twice thro the stomach, and there are doubts as to his recovery. What are we coming to? Three Presidents assassinated in a little more than one generation- in the memory of a large number of our citizens!! The Czar of Russia or the Emperor of China is in a safer position- perhaps because he takes greater precautions. It is not at all difficult to indulge in very pessimistic trains of thought regarding one's country after reading the newspaper accounts on lynchings, of the growing dissatisfaction in the ranks of the laborers in almost all trades, of the mad race for wealth, of the increasing disregard for the Sabbath, of the difficulty in obtaining justice in law courts, of the power which moneyed interests exert in elections and in legislative bodies, of the scramble for office and the idea that seems to be so prevalent that "to the victor belongs the spoils". But on the other hand the forces for good were never greater and stronger, from this distance it seems to me the danger now is not that the forces on the side of right are not sufficiently powerful, but that they are not united- they do not so work together as to use their strength to advantage. In New York for instance I have little doubt but that there are votes enough of those who earnestly desire good honest rule to carry the day. But they are not consolidated and some do not care to take the bother of voting at all. The forces of the saloon and its accompanying evils are united. What we need is a Christian principle Trust. Before this the Saloon must fall. Sabbaths desecration must cease, the Steel Trust must admit humanity.

A week ago Dorothy took a severe cold that has troubled her much all the week. She is much better now. Last night Geraldine began with the same. It seems like the Grippe. They have a fever of about 102 degrees. Nose is stopped up, cough and are hoarse.

I went to Ponasang Tues. I expected to remain a day or two and begin to move over into the new house. But Dorothy was so poorly that Ellen wanted me to return that evening. On Thursday Ellen invited a few friends to take 4 o'clock tea with us in memory of Sept. 5th 1894. Among those invited were Dr. and Miss Bement. Miss Bement came on time. All the others had arrived. We waited until 4:30 for Dr. Bement and were becoming a little impatient when two coolies came with about 15 chairs. Then appeared another with a load of cake. Then another with cups and saucers. Then came all the Americans on the mountain except 4 or 5. The explanation was this, - Dr. Bement knew it was our wedding anniversary. She also knew that Dr. and Miss Woodhull had invited all the Methodists to 4 o'clock tea that afternoon. So she agreed with Dr. Woodhull to bring all her guests over to our house and then went and invited all the others who were coming neither to our house or to Dr. Woodhull's to meet at her house and all come to our home in a body. It was a very pleasant surprise.

Friday morning I went to Ponasang again. On the way down I met a telegram from Mr. Gardner saying he was coming on a Steamer that started Sat. from Shanghai. This meant some hustling to get the house in readiness for him and get to the Anchorage to meet him. I worked as fast as possible until Sat. morn when another telegram from him said "delayed sail Wednesday" so I changed my plans. I had intended to go down river to the Anchorage to day with a house boat to meet him when the steamer arrived. But I came up to Guliang last night. I expect to go down again Tues. morning and possibly stay till Sat. morning. The Seminary opens Sept. 19th if all goes well.

Ellen's picture is the best she ever had taken. Before Ellen was ready I slipped out with the amah and baby and had one snapped. The expression of Dorothy in the two is somewhat different. Both are perfect likenesses. The picture of the three older children is also laid at my door. They are in their every day garb. Gould's is good. Geraldine is not in focus. Phebe is wretched. She looks sick, whereas she is in perfect health. The light is too bright.

I must tell you how much Ellen has enjoyed those red knitted or crocheted slippers some of you sent her. She has worn them nearly every day this Summer and has taken solid comfort in them. Gould is at kite flying again as enthusiastic as ever. He is crazy for a cow or a goat. Last Sunday on our way home from ch. he pulled up the little peg which a goat was tied and started for the house with the goat. His heart was nearly broken when I took the rope from him. Thursday while the company were at tea on our veranda, he came thro the gate leading a yearling heifer. He had pulled up her peg and led her to the house then he drove the peg into the ground close to the veranda and was happy in the possession of a "calf."

Dear Folks at Home:-

One week ago to day I wrote No. 19. A letter came from Stanley yesterday afternoon. The past week has been quite full of events for me. I left the mountain Tues. morning. That day I spent in various details at Ponasang. Wed. I painted the dining room floor of the new residence. 13 ft. X 12 ft. The back veranda floor 8 ft. X 45 ft. The front upper veranda floor 6 ft. X 30 ft. and the lower hall 6 ft. X 40 ft. Just as I was finishing about 6:30 p.m. I looked over to the Ponasang Compound and saw a foreign lady. The coolie came over saying that Miss Newton had come down from the mountain. She had decided to make a desperate effort to get the new Girl's College at Ponasang started. The building Comm. are Dr. Kinnear, Miss Newton and Miss Garretson and myself. Dr. Kinnear was at Sharp Peak. Miss Newton's intention was to go to the Peak to see him, then the plans could be made and estimates gotten from the contractors. Well I had received another cable from Mr. Gardner to the effect that he was starting Thursday morning from Shanghai. The last cable before placed his starting Wed. morning. I had the house boat engaged to start Thursday. With the change of time one day later I would not need it till Friday, so I agreed to go to the Peak with Miss Newton starting Thurs. We had a good trip down- rather rough arriving a little after midnight Thursday night. As soon as we arrived I went immediately to the telegraph station and found the Steamer would not be in till Sat. morning so we had a full day of it at the Peak and used it all on the College plans, starting from the Peak at 8 p.m. We then came up to the Anchorage arriving about midnight and waited there till 8:30 Sat. morning when the Steamer arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and the six little Gardners were aboard all right. We took bag and baggage on the house boat and arrived at Ponasang bag and baggage at 2:30 p.m. Another hour and I had arranged for them so I could leave for the mountain. I found Ellen and the children all right. The weather has been cold here. The ther. down to 63 degrees in the house. The children are entirely free from colds yet but are otherwise well.

We were very glad to hear that Stanley was going to the Exposition. We shall wait eagerly for his long letter describing his trip. A telegram came yesterday saying "President McKinley is dead"- At the same time we are receiving papers all the time that are totally oblivious to the fact. It will be a month before the papers chronicling the event and the attendant circumstances will arrive.

A letter from E. H. Smith appointed for Ing Hok stated that he and his wife hoped to visit both Putnam and Shelton before sailing.

I must close now with lots of love to you all
Will.

Please send to Phebe

Dear Folks at Home:-

Just a word is all I can send today. No letters home came since I wrote a week ago No. 20. Last week I spent at Ponasang- coming down Tues. morning and going back to the mountain Fri. p.m. Dorothy is much better tho not yet quite her former self. The mountain is just perfect now. Ellen and the three older children are quite well.

The Sem'y opened last Thurs. This with moving kept me busy. Most of our things are now over at the new house and I am writing this at my desk in my new study- a cosy little spot just large enough for desk and chair. I expect to sleep here tonight for the first time. I am still eating with Mr. and Mrs. Gardner. I came fr. the Mt. this a.m. starting at 5:30- expect to return Fri. p.m.- Ellen and the children plan now to come down one week from tomorrow- Tues. Oct. 1st- I am sending you some account of the Memorial services held here last Thurs.- the time of Pres. McKinley's funeral.

Love to all

Will.

A ROSE PETAL

Just trembling in beauty, perfection of grace,
With the daughters of sunshine, it lifts from the vase
That rests on the table, where reading I share
Sweet breaths of the Springtime that float in the air.

Rounded and rosy like the dawn of the day
Which announces the King as He comes on His way,
His kiss brought to life again that which had died,
Fresh proof of his power for this new Easter-tide.

“Ring round a rosy”, in the circles of fives,
These beautiful petals, they bring to our lives
The lesson of being, “To-day do your best!”
And all will announce you a beautiful guest.

Dear Folks at Home:-

According to my register I wrote last Sept. 23rd No. 21. We have not heard from you since Sept. 7th. Stanley was preparing to go to Buffalo then. I see by the Sentinel since that he and Aunt Louise have gone. The last mail brought photos of James, Ruth, and Mary. The likenesses that we have taken here in China now do not compare well with the work done in the States. But they serve to give you an idea of how we look from time to time.

I wish you could sit with me in the little study at this moment and hear Ellen, Phebe, Gould and Geraldine singing. They are now singing “Far, far, away” a favorite with Gould and Geraldine. Each of them can carry the tune, and they make quite a chorus. Geraldine's favorite of all is “Merry, Merry Christmas.” We often sing the Grace at breakfast. But we must not omit a few strains of “Merry, Merry Christmas” unless we are prepared for tears. She always joins in heartily and correctly, then with just as much zest helps sing the blessing. The children carry the soprano to one of the blessings that we sing while Ellen takes the alto and I the bass.

My last letter I wrote in this study two weeks ago tomorrow. That week I spent here, taking meals with Mr. Gardner's people and sleeping and studying in the new house. Dr. Bliss came down from the mountain that Tues. Friday afternoon I went to the mountain. Found all well. Gould had a narrow escape that morning. A French boy about 14 years old was going down by our cottage and Phebe and Gould were out in front of the cottage. The French boy said something to the children which they did not understand. The boy threw a stone at G. hitting him square in the middle of the forehead. Phebe said he “sat down”. She ran to him and he began to rise then and put his hand over his forehead from which the blood was flowing freely. He of course made a noise as soon as he was able and Phebe led him into the house. Ellen said the blood fairly spurted from his forehead. She used adhesive plaster and drew the edges of the cut together after washing it with turpentine and oil and then with alcohol. It was healed without the least inflammation. We cannot tell yet whether there will be a scar but hope not.

On Monday we packed up and were ready to start for Gi Siong Sang (our new home) at 2:00 p.m. We reached here a little before 5 o'clock after a pleasant and safe journey. The only hitch was in the coolie load that contained our food. That did not arrive till 8 o'clock. But we had rice, 3 eggs and a quart of milk which made us a good supper.

We enjoy the new house. It is light and well ventilated- neither of which are attachments of the old house in which we have spent the past seven years. We are very far from being settled yet, but each day finds us a little nearer arranged. After coming down from the mountain, I had to give up Tues. p.m. to a church meeting and to prove the truth of the old adage about raining and pouring it came my turn to lead the Monthly Concert of Prayer of the three missions in Foochow Wed. afternoon. We asked Miss Garretson and Miss Newton to open their home for it as ours was not in order. This made a great difference in Ellen's work as well as in mine, for according to custom here the one who leads the meeting must provide sandwiches, cake and tea and coffee after the meeting. This for a company of 40 or more is not a small task. The weather has been very comfortable except on Thurs. and Fri. It was hot enough then to give Dorothy prickly heat. She is a tough looking little girl now with face and neck all red blotches. But she sleeps well nights and in the day time is happy most of the time. Her father's heart was made to rejoice last week when she began to say "pa-ba-ba-ba." The children have all begged to be allowed to go barefoot since coming down here and they have not begged in vain.

The money for Theological Sem'y comes in nicely. Over $3000 is in hand and the Sem'y is assured. The plans for the Girl's College here are in contractor's hands. The plans for Boy's College in city are also. Plans for Dudley Memorial Church are about ready. Then comes the Sem'y. With all this building, most of which I have been intimately connected with from its inception, in progress I shall be very loath to leave next Spring. Ellen does not want to go home till '03 either. So unless the mission requests otherwise we shall be very likely to ask for a furlough beginning in the Spring of 1903. Smith and Hodous will have a good start in the language by that time also. It seems now as if Mr. Gardner would stay here at Ponasang. Mr. Smith will be able to help materially in the Ing Hok work very soon- while not taking the responsibility of the field. This will make my work very much less and I have no fears of staying another year. Of course the thought of seeing you all next year is very pleasant, but duty first, the good of the work in Foochow must be our first consideration, and the Spring of 1903 seems now to be just the time for us to leave. I have had very pleasant letters from both Smith and Hodous. They expect to reach here about Thanksgiving.

Lots of Love to all from all
Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote last one week ago No. 22. Your last I have acknowledged more than once. The past week has come and gone much like other weeks. We have been busy with the work- Ellen has seen all of the station classes opened- has helped in opening those which Miss Newton has taken and has arranged with Miss Newton to take all the Bible women of the station. I believe Ellen now has 3 station classes. This is 3 more than she should have, - with four little children to look after and the various social duties that must be attended to by those who occupy the central station of the mission, and her music in the Theol. Sem'y. beside the numerous calls that she has in connection with the work normally in my care. We have worked at getting settled as opportunity offered. Thus far the new house meets our highest expectations in every respect. I think I enjoy most the Chinese study and my own little sanctum opening off it. In the old house every caller had to come right into our living room. Here they can come in and do all their business and Ellen and the children know nothing of it.

To day Ellen was teaching Phebe and Gould the ten commandments- As she repeated the Fourth- "For in six days" etc. Phebe sat and listened and exclaimed- "My- wasn't that quickly!" The children are all perfectly well. The heat has been very oppressive all the week. The mercury has been all about the 80's reaching 87 degrees one day. This evening at 8 o'clock as I write it is at 80 degrees. We have had no rain since the typhoon the first two weeks of August. Everything is very dry. Some of the farmers are nearly distracted and are actually fighting over the water rights. Dorothy is clad night and day in her napkins and one little short sleeved gauze shirt. She is troubled some with prickly heat. The other girls go barefooted and in "white pants" all the morning- no dresses. Gould wears the thinnest pants. Ellen is fairly well. She has worked too hard since coming down from the mountain to get the work among women started. But now that is done I hope she will take better care of herself.

Mr. F. S. Brockman Y.M.C.A. Sec'y arrived yesterday. He is here primarily to make arrangements for the National Y.M.C.A. Convention to be held in Nanking the first part of Nov. Mr. Mott is expected to attend this convention. We hope to have a visit from him at Foochow on his way to Hong Kong. I am thinking very strongly of attending the Nanking Convention. Brockman is trying to get Ellen to take the children up and stay with Mrs. Brockman at Nanking for a month or more. But the undertaking is too big- the financial side is also too large to think of.

The shipment from Boston is in but not yet out of the customs, so we have a treat to look forward to in opening the boxes- one from each home this week. A few days ago I sent to you a lot of photos of Ellen and the baby. I wrote on their backs for whom they were intended and am cheeky enough to ask you to distribute them. I shall feel much easier about them when I hear from you that they are received. I intended to register them but forgot it when they went out.

Hoping to receive a letter from you before long
With lots of love from us all
Will.

Ing Hok City
Oct. 20th 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote you one week ago from Foochow. If I remember correctly a letter came from you last Mon. Oct. 25th at Ponasang.

I had written the above when a church member came into my room and took all the time that I had planned to spend with you. I had a good trip to Ing Hok. Friday the wind was strong and at our backs. It blew us up the river in fine style. I stopped an hour at Chong Ha and still reached Gak Liang at 4:30 p.m. The next day I walked to Ing Hok arriving at 1:30 p.m. On Sunday I conducted communion, and Monday at 10 a.m. was on the boat for home. At daylight Tuesday I was at the landing 8 miles from home. I walked into the house just as Ellen and the children were about half thro breakfast. I found all well and happy.

Yesterday a telegram arrived stating definitely that John R. Mott would come to Foochow. He will probably be with us for only two or three days and will spend most of the time speaking to union audiences in the large Meth. Church.

Last week Tues. p.m. and all day Wed. we spent in Mission meeting. Most of the time was spent in discussing the plans for the new building for Girl's College at Ponasang. After a full discussion they were referred back to the Comm. A new plan has been made and we are planning to hold another business meeting next Tues. to discuss it.

Mr. Gardner has been appointed to be associated with me in the work of the Ponasang station. When I went to Ing Hok he took the work in the Sem'y that I had, and he is too keep on with it till I return from Nanking. This eases me very much. I have taken the time to finish the manuscript for the Ing Hok Report, and to catch up on correspondence and bookkeeping a little.

The weather thro October has been exceptionally warm this year. At 2 p.m. today (26th) the thermometer stands at 75 degrees in the house. The children all go barefoot still. A little rain fell a week ago Wed., otherwise we have had no rain since August 1st during the typhoon.

Sunday p.m. Oct 27th 1901

Ellen and the three older children have gone over to the other compound to Mrs. Gardners where the children are holding a Christian Endeavor meeting. Dorothy and I were left together on the bed. She was asleep. After a good long nap she awoke as bright and fresh as a morning glory in the dewy sunshine. I know of few pretties pictures show that of a little child just after a refreshing sleep with the bright eyes and the beautiful pink complexion of perfect health. Dorothy is growing very fast these days. Ellen said this morning is seemed almost as if she would see her grow. She was eight months old yesterday. She is getting very interesting- sits alone and reaches after things, and plays peek-a-boo with a handkerchief etc.

Yesterday a good letter came from Emma, one from you- a very nice letter from Dr. Judson Smith. A letter came from a stamp collector in Chicago wanting to purchase a complete set of Chinese stamps, and offering to buy old ones. Phebe has begun to collect old Chinese stamps and was much elated over the prospect of making a fortune, "I can get lots of money", she said with eyes like big round moons.

The boxes arrived from Shelton and Putnam and were opened a few days ago. My shoes came. I'm going to open a wholesale sole leather store, and trim off the edges of my soles to fill orders- Such Soles!! My arms are of good length, so I manage to shake hands with people over their edges. Gould has a suit of clothes and an overcoat that we are thinking of trying to keep for him to wear when he goes home in 1903. Well so much for nonsense. Geraldine was overjoyed with a doll she found. Phebe is equal to the occasion tho. Geraldine was following Phebe in her propensity to keep pretty tight hold of her own doll. Phebe wanted to hold Geraldine's badly. Finally she said to Geraldine "You must have an amah for your baby." The scheme worked and the baby was given to amah Phebe to hold for a time. The jack knife in the pocket of Gould's pants is a good one.

Love to all
Will.

P.S. Ellen says I have not mentioned all the articles in the boxes-There were lots of articles- I remember there was pumpkin and many other things. Thank you and every one else for all. W.

Foochow, China
Nov. 24th 1901

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote you last from Shanghai Nov. 10th no number. Your last I acknowledged in that letter.

A week ago last night at 10 p.m. I reached home safe and sound, and found Ellen and the little ones all right. Dorothy was having a tough time pulling her teeth thro, but was otherwise all right. We brought Mr. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. Brockman with us hoping to keep them for two days or so and hold a Convention at which Mr. Mott's addresses would be the principle feature. But steamers were very bad. There was only one in at the time, going to Hong Kong and that one had been chartered by the English Government to go to Hong Kong the next morning= Sunday morning. Mr. Mott's dates in Hong Kong, Ceylon and India were fixed, and if he waiting here for another steamer he would be too late to meet these dates so he had to leave the next morning at 7:30. The steamer co. at first promised to hold the launch at their jetty in Foochow till 9:00 for us. But about midnight Sat. night sent word that this would be impossible. On the strength of the promise to wait till 9 a.m. we had arranged a meeting for 6:30 a.m. and there was a good congregation gathered at that hour. But they had to endure the disappointment.

Our Annual Meeting began Tuesday evening. It will close next Tuesday at noon. The reports from all parts of the field are most encouraging. The Men's Missionary Society (Chinese) is in a most flourishing condition. Altho it has met with all kinds of reverses this year, yet its condition was never better and the outlook for the future is very bright. Their treasury had in it at the beginning of the year a little over $150. The preachers whom they employed died of the plague in June, and they had to use his salary for the whole year, to help bury him and care for the chapel etc. Notwithstanding this they have kept up the rent of the chapel and hired it watched. Then as soon as the plague ceased raging, they had the chapel cleaned and repaired and at once arranged to hold services in it. At present the treasurer reports the receipt of over $100. This is within the past month.

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving. I wonder where you will eat turkey and if all the wayfarers will come home.

We are wondering if the Consulate is going to invite us all there this year. It is now pretty late and no invitations have appeared.

I am enclosing an order on Treasurer Wiggin of the A.B.C.F.M. for Sixteen dollars ($16). Please pay whatever I owe you and if there is any left put it into the Bank. If the "left" comes on the other side let me know and I will send more.

I wrote the other day to a man in Chicago= Fred Otto who asked me to find the cost of a set of Chinese stamps and I told him to send $5 to you and I would send him a complete set. So if you receive this money please put it into the Bank and let me know of its receipts as soon as convenient.

Ellen is writing at my elbow and it is time she was [in] bed. So good night.

With lots of love Will.

Home Nov. 27th, 1901

My dear Mary:

I have swept, made mince pie meat, done some reading, brightened the silver, done some mending and now am going to write a few lines to you. Stanley has gone to Shelton to get James and read in the library. The boys are starting a debating society, and he is to write a composition now on Old England staircases which he finds a difficult subject. He was asked to write about his Buffalo trip and chose the other, as some of the others were to write their experience of the trip. E. got home this morning, she took Fred to the trolley. He is on jury in Bridgeport. Ruth went to mill with a grist and brought E. home. It has thawed a little to day, is clear to night, promises to be clear and cold to morrow. Mrs. Arthur Booth is to be buried Friday, P.M. The papers contain an account of Mrs. Seymour's death in Washington, she was buried in Vernon. I suppose Matilda is married. Gustina wanted to know what the minister's name was over to the Centre, so I think they must think of having him to tie the knot. Papa has his pipes laid from the well to the barnyard, has pulled the inside of the work shop out and laid a new floor from the work shop to the old hen house. His wind mill has not come. I think the iron is not at hand to make it. The carpenters have been here and laid a half-inch maple floor on our kitchen. We've oiled it twice, and hope to give it another coat. Were your shoes good thick soled? If you get thick shoes for that price I think they were cheap. A letter just here to night from Will says they are all well. Geraldine was overjoyed with the doll. Phebe wanted to take it. Finally she contrived a way to get it. She told Geraldine she must have an amah for it, so amah Phebe took the doll to care for. Gould found his jack knife and it was a good one. Well it is bed time and I must stop.

Do you like your room better on the third story? With whom are you neighbors? Bess says you have a change of occupation, wiping dishes. Do you want a curtain before you come home? If so you can get it. We can get curtains like mine in the bedroom, for between 30 and 40 cents a pair. I would not give over 50 cents. With lots of love, mother.

This appears to be Geraldine carrying a headless doll. 1901

Deng Chio, 12 miles S.E. from Foochow,
 December 7th 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My register is not with me so I can tell neither when I wrote last or when your last was received. As you see at the head of this sheet I am at Deng Chio. This place has counted as in the Ing Hok Station. If you have a map of that field you will find Deng Chio nearest Foochow.

I started yesterday morning at 10:30 and arrived here at 2 p.m I took dinner on the boat and when I arrived went at one half a mile or more from the chapel to see a day school. The teacher has done good work with the students or pupils as they should be called. This teacher seems to be an earnest humble Christian.

Last evening a dozen or more men met in the church for service. Several of them wanted to be examined for admission to the church. This morning another came. I have received three. One was a literary man and another a well to do farmer. The other a laborer. There are some ten more that seem to be earnest in their profession, but they have been to church only two or three months.

This morning at Service the chapel was literally packed and the steps in front of the chapel were filled with men standing. There were about 70 in all. I have seldom spoken to such in interesting and interested audience. The service lasted over two hours, and during the whole time there was perfect quiet and individual attention in what the speaker was saying, which was the pure Gospel stating the fact of God as above all and ruler of all, instead of idols; the fact of man with his sin undeserving of God's love; the fact of God, notwithstanding man's sin still loving him and caring for him and sending his only son to die for him; the fact that salvation thro Christ is free and that each man is a free agent in accepting this salvation. There were many nods of assent in all parts of the audience.

This afternoon we had held the Sunday School. About 35 were present. Opportunities for preaching the Truth present themselves on all side. People seem to be honest in their desire to know the Truth. Of course the cause is to be found in the political situation. But God is able to use even this to arouse the people and to open the way for the Gospel. A man told me today that whereas two years ago 2400 applicants presented themselves for the First Degree examinations. Only 1000 appeared this year. The cause is in the political situation. It seems to be universally taken for granted that a change has come in China and the old order of things is obsolete. The "Likin" or inland river customs is just now passing under foreign control. This will help to convince the people that the new China is appearing. Probably there is not a greater swindle in the world than the Likin in China. If the country, instead of the petty Likin officials could get all the money collected at these stations, she would have no need to put extra taxes on the people.

Well there are half a dozen boys studying just under me. They are studying hymns. I can hear them think. Their thoughts mount upwards in throat splitting accents. So I will close this now and finish it at a more convenient season.

Dec. 15th at Foochow.

The last letters received were on Nov. 25th and Nov. 28th. I wrote last on Nov. 24th.

This letter has been in good keeping for a whole week. The truth is I forgot it when I arrived home on last Tuesday morning, until the steamer had gone.

The past week since coming home from the country has flown swiftly. We have all been quite well. This morning Gould tried the metal of his head bones again. He was climbing on the veranda rail and went over, turning a somersault and half striking exactly on the middle of his forehead, just where he was hit with the stone on the mountain by the French boy. But this morning's bump was over a larger surface and does not seem to be at all serious.

The churches at Geu Cio Dong, Ha Puo Ga and Sang Bo held communions today. 11 united at Geu Cio Dong and 1 at Sang Bo.

This morning while at breakfast a telegram arrived announcing the starting from Shanghai on this morning of Mr. and Mrs. Hodous [Anna J.], Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Miss Dr. Smith. They may get in to morrow afternoon or perhaps not till Tues. morning. I want very much to make one trip into the Ing Hok field with Mr. Smith before Christmas or the few days after Christmas and another immediately after the Week of Prayer.

The dry weather continues. Our well has been dry for three weeks. The contractor who built it has had to take it up and deepen it about four feet. We are again using the water.

The Girl's College Building is going up nicely. I am putting much time now into arranging to rebuild Geu Cio Dong and in trying to purchase land for a Theological Sem'y.

Foochow, China
Dec. 21st 1901.

Dear Folks at Home:-

In all probability this is the last letter I shall write this year to you, for I expect now to go into the Ing Hok field next Friday to be gone about two weeks.

We received a letter from Flora Dec. 18th. I wrote last Monday, Dec. 16th.

Last Tuesday morning I, with Mr. and Mrs. Hinman and Miss Chittenden started from Foochow for Pagoda Anchorage to meet the five new missionaries i.e. Mr. and Mrs. Hodous. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Miss Emily Smith M.D. They arrived at 9:10 a.m. Wed. The others of the party spent the night at Mrs. Hartwell's. I slept on the house boat. The tide did not favor us and we lay at anchor in the river till almost noon. Then with a good rising tide and a little breeze we came quietly up the river reaching Ponasang at 3:40 p.m. Our Mission prayer meeting was at Ponasang that afternoon so the new friends could meet all the older members of the mission. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are at Mrs. Kinnear's. Mr. and Mrs. Hodous with us and Dr. Smith with Miss Newton.

Dec. 27-

I am enclosing an order on A.B.C.F.M. Treasurer for $30. Please pay my Life Insurance and then if I am not owing you put the rest in the Bank. The number of my Policy 166224.

The address is 752 Broad Street,

Newark,

New Jersey,

I have never received the receipt for my premium for this year = 1901- All the other receipts have come all right.

I am off for Ing Hok with Mr. Smith tomorrow morning. It is now 9:45 and so I say "good night with Love to all

Will.

[The following is written by Ellen.]

Will said I might add anything I wish and send this on. He was off early Saturday morning as he had planned although it promised a rainy day and rained a little when he started. But aside from the first two days they have had fine weather for walking thus far.

I have just returned from a "Musical Tea" given by our Consul's wife this afternoon. The music was furnished mainly by the English and German community ladies and gentlemen. Miss Brown of our mission gave one solo. The piano, violin, and mandolin music was all very finely rendered, - rather better than the vocal selections I thought, tho all were good. While these functions are not uncommon among the community people we missionaries rarely have the opportunity to enjoy them.

Will is introducing Mr. Smith to Ing Hok, his future field of work so they both missed this bit of social enjoyment. They are to be at home for the last half of the week of prayer meetings, in which the three missions join. Monday and Thursday the meetings are at our house. We are greatly enjoying having Mr. and Mrs. Hodous with us; they are fine people. They are working at the language now and doing whatever they can to help in various ways.

We are gradually getting fitted into the new house and getting necessary furniture made for it. It is not quite so easily done as it is in America everything has to be made to order and requires weeks of time for each piece.

Miss Newton has taken over a part of my work since she came back so I have more time to give to the children. The little ones are all well and thriving and keeps me busy and happy. It would be unbearably lonely at these times when Will is away so long, were it not for our little ones. They are so much company.

We have received two letters from you since Will went away and I sent them to him by the messenger who took supplies to him.

With love to all from the children and myself.

Yours Ellen.

Foochow, China, Jan. 19th, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

According to my Correspondence Register I wrote you Dec. 15th, 1901, No. 25. Your letters have come in nicely. One came Dec. 18, and two came Jan. 1- 1902. The same mail brought a good letter from Oliver and one from Dwight. I have not mailed a letter this year thus far.

Dec. 28th, 1901 Mr. Smith and I started for Ing Hok to make a tour of the field. We returned Jan. 8th. It rained a little the day we started, but the sun very soon dispelled all the clouds and we had perfect weather for all the trip. We held communion at Gak Liang, Puai Sioh, Diong Keng and Sung Kau. In all thirteen were admitted [to] the churches on this trip. The Ing Hok people were overjoyed at seeing Mr. Smith. They greeted him everywhere with firecrackers, and feasts, both of which he endured with good grace. In every chapel the people were packed in almost solid and listened perfectly to the preaching.

We returned Jan. 8th to be present at some of the meetings during the Week of Prayer and to get Miss Newton, Mrs. Smith and Dr. Emily D. Smith to take them up to Ing Hok for the Quarterly Meeting of that station held Jan. 14th – 16th. So we were off again last Monday morning Jan. 13th, and returned yesterday, Saturday Jan. 18th. The weather again was perfect, - warm and clear with delightful moon light evenings. The meetings were full in their attendance and a beautiful spirit of brotherly love prevailed throught [throughout]. The new missionaries for that station are very much pleased with their new home and the people and the work. In my opinion they are peculiarly fitted for this work.

A letter from Mr. Goddard yesterday states that he has accepted a position with Wyman and Gordon who make machine forgings in Worcester, Mass. They will keep their home in Lancaster, and Mrs. Goddard will remain there. Dwight will be on the road some of the time.

We received the shoes you sent by mail all right. The children seem to be shod well now. They are all-three- in my little study as I write this. They have just gotten tired of looking at pictures and have found a box of 2 X 4 plates for a camera that Ellen had some five years and which is now useless. They have been quite well, and are growing finely. Ellen and Dorothy are upstairs asleep. Ellen is quite well. Dorothy thinks teething is pretty tough business. I rather think if she alone were consulted she would prefer not to have any teeth and get her living all her life as she did during the first six months. She is learning to navigate, and they say she can stand alone. I am almost a stranger to her. I have been away so much during the past month.

This morning I preached * the Baccalaureate before the Theological students who graduate next Thursday. The service was held at Gen Ci Dong, and the students of the hospital (men's) and of the Girl's College and of the Seminary attended beside the usual membership of the church. I spoke on Jan 15 = fruit bearing. The coming week will be full. Tomorrow I have an engagement with the dentist in a.m. a committee meeting to arrange a song service for Easter in p.m. On Tues. a meeting of the trustees of the Anglo Chinese College of Meth. Mission, Wed. graduation exercises of Foochow College Am. Board. Thursday Graduation exercises Theol. Semy. Fri. go to mountain to look after cottage and several other items of business, Sat. examination of candidates for Theol. Semy.

I am enclosing $5.00 Canadian paper money in this letter. If I am owing you take it to pay yourself. The remainder put in bank.

The weather is surprisingly warm. I have not yet put on winter flannels nor my heaviest clothes. We have no fires in the house and doors and windows are open. Friday on the boat coming down the river we could not wear overcoats. It was too hot.

Have I written about our surprise at learning of the engagement of Miss Newton? Where did the news come from? Apparently she is as far from that point as ever, and as firmly convinced that young women coming to the field should keep from entangling alliances as ever.

[The following written in parenthesis was written by Ellen.]

(A Miss Gluck of the Methodist Mission was engaged to a Dr. Charles who came to Foochow on the same steamer on which Miss Newton came last summer. But that engagement is now broken. Does not this explain the mistake? Ellen.)

To us as a family, scattered all over the United States, and travelling much, and in China, God's blessings have come in big showers during the past years. We must all strive to be very useful to Him, and to be ready to be used by Him in any capacity.

With lots of Love from us all Will

[The following was written by Ellen.]

*I want to add a note about that sermon which Will would be too modest to write. One of our most candid judges among the missionaries of our Board here heard that sermon and told another missionary that it would have been a fine sermon in English but it was especially forceful in Chinese. A man who can preach such sermons as that ought to be released from the drudgery and given the opportunity to preach. Ellen.

[This letter dated Feb. 2, 1902 was written by Willard from Foochow, China. He talks about graduation exercises at the Seminary and denying a student his diploma. Foochow, China, Feb. 2nd, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My register tells me that I mailed just one letter to a foreign country during the month of January. That one was to you on Jan. 19th. We have received none from you since that time.

Since I wrote last the various institutions of learning in Foochow have held their graduation exercises. The Seminary closed with exercises January 23rd. Six young men received diplomas. Another has completed the course, but rumor has it that he was married a year ago last August to a girl who graduated from the Ponasang Girl's College a year ago now and rumor says they were married without the Christian ceremony, and that they now have a child over a month old. They both flatly deny the whole thing. Until the truth comes out he will have to go without his diploma.

Last Tuesday I returned to my old occupation of going to Ing Hok. During the past five weeks I have spent twenty three days in that field. Last Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Dr. Smith and Miss Chittenden moved up. We had four boat loads of freight and passengers. The first day found us at Gak Liang at 10 p.m. It was rather a long journey. But the weather was warm and the next day we had a delightful trip over land from Gak Liang to Ing Hok, arriving at 4:30 p.m. The goods on the boats did not arrive till Thursday about 3 p.m. I was kept very busy Wed. evening and all day Thurs- and until noon Friday helping them make arrangements for staying there, and settling various questions relating to the work of the field next year. The Chinese year closes next Friday. (Chinese New Years is next Saturday.) The friends had perfect weather to begin their new life in the new home. Everything is propitious for a great blessing to be poured out on the Ing Hok people through these new servants of God. There is a great movement toward the church in most of the field; the brotherly feeling that exists between all the workers forms an avenue by which the Holy Spirit can enter and which He can use; the preachers seem to be fully alive to the possibilities and the dangers of the situation; there are not a few church members who can be relied on and who are men of prayer; lastly Mr. Smith seems to me to be a man of God. He has a good level head, and a large stock of common sense which seems to be consecrated to God's service. In Mrs. Smith he has a splendid helpmate. Dr. Emily Smith is a true hearted, natural woman whom everyone likes. These three will win the hearts of the Ing Hok people for Christ.

I started for home Friday at 1 p.m. A strong head wind and very shallow water made our progress very slow, and it was 5:45 yesterday when I reached home Friday night. The weather changed and it began to rain. The wind blew thro the boat terrifically all day yesterday and the Chinese passengers sat and shivered. I rowed and poled the boat to keep warm. We have had very warm weather until this cold snap. When I took the boat Fri. noon I had to take off my coat and unbutton my vest to be comfortable. At night I wanted coat and overcoat on, all buttoned tight. I put on winter woolens last night for the first time.

Florence Kinnear has what Doctor calls Diphtheria. Eunice Kinnear is at the Anchorage, Paul and Morris are at Miss Newton's, and the youngest Gerald is now in the old house in which we used to live. Mr. and Mrs. Hodous are staying there with him. The old house is nearly all torn down. Only two rooms with bath rooms left. The new Girl's College is rising rapidly on the site of the rest of the house and the adjoining land. Part of the roof boards are on already, and rafters are going up on other parts.

Ellen and the children are all quite well. Dorothy is developing fast. She claps her hands when asked to, shakes her hand for good bye, folds both hands and gives the Chinese greeting, says papa and mama. She pulls herself up by a chair or our knees and walks along holding on to things, - creeps all right, - not yet weaned! and she is not anxious to be!!

I am going to purchase a piece of land for a church at An Iong Die. The church there was burned last August. The members have had a pretty hard time for two years. It is one of the important points in this field. It is a large center in itself and we must have a church for the existence of our work there. Rents are very high. We were paying about $40 gold a year on the old church for $325 gold. I can purchase a piece of land on which the church members will erect a church building and parsonage. This will make one very tight fisted all the year unless gifts come from home to help out. If you, any of you, hear of anyone who desires to help in this enterprise, I am praying that you will give him these few facts and introduce him to me. Nearly each year since 1898 we have shouldered all the financial responsibility we took upon ourselves. But God had taken care of us and money has come for all needs. So we will trust Him for this.

With lots of Love to all
Will

The last paper "Sentinel" gave an account of Uncle Theodore's death. [Theodore Edward Beard, b. Dec. 21, 1833, d. Dec. 9, 1901]

Four brothers - L to R: Oliver Gould Beard, James Henry Beard, Theodore Edward Beard, William Thomas Beard
Taken before December 1901. William Thomas Beard and Theodore Edward Beard were listed in the 1870 census as being in the business of Paper Manufacturing. W.T. and T.E. Beard was the name of their company. James Henry Beard ran a store, was a State Representative in 1883 and then went into the insurance business which Bennett N. Beard eventually took over.

Foochow, China, Feb 9th, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Last week – Feb. 2nd the letter was written to you but none have been received. I believe no mail has come from America during the week.

Friday night we passed from the old Chinese year to the new Chinese year. The past week has therefore been a very busy one. I have been away from the station so much during the past month that all the business and plans of the month were crowded into this one 1st week. To add to the rush the bargain for the purchase of a piece of land for the theological seminary was consummated last Tues. evening and the owners came Wed. evening at 8 p.m. to sign the bargain agreement. But they had not fixed it up among themselves completely and it was 11:50 p.m. when they left the house after having signed the paper and received the first payment of $200 out of the $3500 which they were or are to receive for the land and houses on it.

Thursday afternoon we ran away for a few hours and went over to Mr. Marsh's (M.E. Mission). [The following is written in Ellen's handwriting.] The German Consul had sent out a general invitation to the public to visit his gardens and see the orchids which are now in bloom. He has quite a collection mostly imported I think. After taking afternoon tea with Mr. and Mrs. Marsh and Dr. Carleton we all visited the Consul's gardens. The children enjoyed greatly the privilege of running about the grounds and watching the swans, geese, ducks and gold-fishes; and searching for the electric light bulbs set around among the branches of the trees, which they called "blue and yellow and red glass birds." It does the children good to get out for a ride or walk occasionally. They are shut up in the compound in their own little world so much of the time.

Our Consul's wife, Mrs. Gracey sails very soon for a few months visit in America, returning in the fall. I wish you might meet her but think there is little probability that you will have the opportunity as she will spend most of her time in Vermont.

Last week I examined my three station classes and closed them for the New Year's vacation. As the native Bible woman who usually assists me was ill I examined them alone this time. Miss Newton, on her return took charge of all three Bible classes; so I have only these three classes now. [The letter now changes back into Willard's handwriting.] Don't you wish I could write like this?

Friday was the last day of the Chinese year. On the first day of the year, usually about 3 a.m. the officials of Foochow – all the higher ones- meet at the Emperor's Temple to worship his tablet. I have never witnessed the ceremony, so I went this year. Mr. Gardner, Mr. Peet, Hodous and I of our mission, Wilcox and Semester of Meth. Mission and a Mr. Shipway of the Eng. Baptist mission of Shantung were the members of the party. We watched at the Temple from a little after 3 a.m. till 5:30 before the highest official – the Viceroy arrived. Just as he came, Mr. Wilcox fainted dead away. We carried him out into the open air and he soon came to himself, but he did not want to be left alone so I remained with him and did not see the whole performance. I saw one man go thro the ceremony however. It is simply kneeling three times and bumping the head on the hands which are put down to the ground. It requires about three minutes.

Yesterday we had to dinner with us Mr. and Mrs. Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Semester, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh, Messers. Caldwell and Bucknall. On China New Years the streets are almost vacant and these people enjoy walking over.

Ellen attended a musical given at Dr. Ellen Lyon's home last evening. Mr. Shipway of Shantung is a very good organist. I heard him in the city Friday evening. So I returned home and put the children to bed while Ellen and Mrs. Hodous went to hear Mr. Shipway.

This is the season of Beard birthdays. Mothers Jan 20 – Mine Feb. 5, fathers 18th. Flora's 25.- Best wishes to all.

With Love to all of you

Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your last letter arrived Feb. 10th and my last started Feb. 10th, No. 3. The week has sped away and one hardly knows where it has gone or what he has accomplished. Still there has been something each day to demand time and attention. We have attended feasts on two days; Went over to Mrs. Plumb's to dinner one evening; held the mission prayer meeting at our home on Wed. afternoon; Ellen went to Mrs. Gracey's with Mr. and Mrs. Hodous one afternoon, - Mrs. Gracey is going to America for a visit of a few months, - and we went over for a walk on S. Side with the children yesterday afternoon. Last evening the deed for a piece of property adjoining our new house on the west was signed. The property is 140 X 75 feet- purchased for the Theological Semy.

The weather continues very pleasant. Every day the sun rises bright and clear, and so warm that we need little or no fire. Chinese feasts are thick nowadays, one tomorrow, another next Thursday, and now last week.

I think I wrote that the $11.00 for Upper Bridge work from the ladies in Huntington [now known as the city of Shelton] came by your last letter. I will write Miss Wooster sometime. It seems as if duties only increased as the months go by. But the last weeks of the old Chinese year and the first few of the New Year are always very busy. With both educational and evangelistic work I have no vacation except as I run away from everything and then problems only wait till I return. Dr. Kinnear and family have moved over S. Side again and this leaves me the only man here who can talk.

Monday morning.

Another bright warm day. We must pray now that the rainy season will soon come. Wells are very low. Ellen and the children are quite well. Dorothy creeps all over the house and walks by chairs. All send love. Gould walked with me last Saturday a stretch of 2 miles where we rested half an hour. Then we walked back, took afternoon tea with Dr. Lyon half an hour. Then walked 2 ½ miles thro the Chinese streets home. He would not admit that he was tired. How is that for 5 years?

I must close now and go to a feast.

Lots of Love
Will.

Foochow, China, Mar. 2nd, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote last two weeks ago. Your letter came last Thursday – one from mother and one from Phebe in the same mail. My letter of Feb. 17th was No. 4.

The most important news during the past two weeks, to you would be the fact that the children have all had the chicken pox. Some three weeks or more ago Phebe had an eruption, and Ellen asked Dr. Kinnear to look at her. He said little about it and gave her a few doses of salts. Soon Gould had a few pimples. A week ago last Thursday night Geraldine was very restless. I was away over last Sunday, when I returned last Monday Dorothy was quite sick. Ellen became exercised about her Sunday morning and sent for the Doctor. He came again Monday morning and again Tuesday. But Dorothy is all right now as happy as ever- creeping all over the house and as big as a queen when someone will hold her hands and help her to walk. Geraldine has diarrhea today. But she is around all the time much as usual and seems better tonight. Otherwise we are all well.

A week ago last Friday Mr. Hodous and I went to Chong Ha. That day we attended the funeral of a man 83 years, a life long resident of Chong Ha. For about 30 years he has been an earnest and consistent Christian, - the pillar of the Chong Ha church. He was the oldest man in Chong Ha and the most respected. He was a well to do man. One of his two surviving sons is a preacher at Sang Po in the suburbs station. He was my first Chinese teacher. The other son is an agnostic- if there is such a thing in China. His only concern is to get and keep money. You may know that one of the most harped on charges against Chinese Christians is that they do not care for their deceased ancestors. So this preacher decided to make as big a funeral for his father as Chong Ha ever saw and I think he succeeded. I counted 100 persons in the procession dressed in white- mourning – and there were as many more in citizens dress. At the feast while I was eating there were 18 tables with 8 persons= men at a table. This was only about half the company. The expense of such a funeral would cost about $300.

For Sunday we went across the river to Deng Chio. Saturday evening we did not retire until about 11 o'clock. There were 8 or 9 men to be examined for admission to the church, beside an evangelistic service. Sunday the chapel, which could hold about 75- was packed at three services. Five united with the church.

The Theological Seminary opened Thursday Feb. 27th. Tomorrow I expect all the young men in their places and in the harness. Today I conducted communion at Sang Tung Gio, two men united with the church.

I think I have already written that the shoes you sent by mail arrived safely. The cards came all right. Yesterday we received notice that a box of cards was on the way from home.

The drought is becoming serious. Wells everywhere are very low. The wheat is much injured. There is scarcely water enough in the rivers for boats to ply up and down. Not only is there no rain but the weather is very warm. The first of Feb. I put on woolen under drawers, but I had to take them off a week ago, and one day this last week I had to take off my woolen undervest. But March has not gone by yet, and sometimes we have a lot of cold wet weather in this month.

If all goes well we shall be on our way home or about to start by a year from now. How quickly the time will fly! And how much there is to be done before then! I wonder where our home will be while in the states. Ellen has a leaning toward New Britain. It will be central for both our homes and the educational facilities for the children are of the first rank. I think I have not written you that while I was in Nanking last November Mr. Mott asked me to sever my connection with the Am. Board and accept a Secretaryship under the Y.M.C.A. in China. The only reply I made was to give him permission to talk with Dr. Smith and to tell him that I should surely remain here until 1903, and then take a furlough. Now I have not spoken to anyone about this except Dwight. Beside Mr. Mott and some of the Y.M.C.A. secretaries here in China, Dwight and Ellen, no one knows of the proposition, and would prefer you not to mention it. I suppose I ought not to have put it in this letter but you can keep this one to yourselves and merely give the contents to other friends. The Y.M.C.A. work in China has very many attractive features for me, but I am not convinced yet that I can be more useful to God's kingdom in China if I make the change, than I can to keep right on in this work where I am now.

With Lots of Love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your last letter arrived Feb. 28th. One came from Putnam by the last mail March 11th. I wrote last Feb. 17th no, it was March 2nd, No. 5. Dorothy was just recovering from the chicken pox. She is all right now, and developing fast. She tries to imitate sounds both in talking and singing. And of course tries to express her own thoughts by a language which seems to be in a state of transition. She understands much that is said to her. Each morning she comes in to eat oat meal with her papa. This morning she was finished before the amah came for her and so she got down on the floor. She had a napkin ring playing with it and got tired of it and left it lying on the floor near her. I asked her for it, pointing to it and she immediately picked it up and put it into my hand. The others and Ellen are all well. Ellen is pretty tired, for we have had no cook since Feb. 25th and she has had to oversee operations in the kitchen. A new cook came yesterday.

Dr. Torrey from Chicago arrived last Tues. at noon. He spoke at 2:30 p.m. that day to a union Chinese audience. That night he went into the city and spoke to the boys of our college. The Wed. morning at 10:30 and again at 2:30 p.m. he spoke to union audiences of Chinese. At 4:30 he addressed the foreigners on the filling of the Holy Spirit and went straight from this meeting to the steamer.

I began on the auditing of the mission accounts last Monday and must finish tomorrow. On Tuesday morning I plan to start for Ing Hok. The Ing Hok people all came down to see Mr. Torrey. Mr. and Mrs. Smith returned last Friday morning, taking with Mr. and Mrs. Hodous. I plan to take both Smith and Hodous on the tour of the Ing Hok field this time. We plan to be home two weeks from yesterday.

The weather continues to excite the wonderment of all. The ther. now at 8:30 p.m. registers 73 degrees. I have worn my heavy overcoat once only this winter. We purchased less than the usual amount of fuel this season and have not used a tenth of it. A little rain has fallen during the past week, but it has not effected wells. It has increased the water in the rivers so as to help boat traffic some. But the past four days have been clear and warm.

I think we shall need a few more articles from home in the June shipment from Boston

1 pair shoes for myself No. 9 – do not purchase overshoes.

1 peck shelled corn.

4 qts. Rye.

Some dried pumpkin.

1 pair knitted wool gloves for myself – black- about 50 -75 cents.

Lovingly
Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote two weeks ago= March 16th, No. 6. Since then three letters have arrived from you. Two of them came yesterday. When I wrote last I was in the midst of auditing the Mission accounts. These I finished Monday March 17th.

Tuesday morning March 18th I was off for Ing Hok. Miss Chittenden and Dr. Emily Smith who had been in Foochow went up with me. Mr. and Mrs. Hodous had gone up with Mr. and Mrs. Smith four days previous. We reached Ing Hok about four o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Thursday I spent at Ing Hok looking after various matters, and Friday morning Hodous, Smith and I started for a tour of the remote part of the field. Two days of stiff walking found us at Diong Keng the farthest chapel from Foochow. We had the best of opportunities for selling books and speaking to the people all along the way. At Diong Keng we admitted two women. Sunday morning in the afternoon we went over to Sing Kan and held Communion. That night Smith was taken ill. We had fortunately engaged a boat to take us down the river. He ate nothing Monday or Tues. But was all right when we reached Ing Hok Tues. p.m. Thurs. morning Hodous and I started for two other chapels U Nyiong and Puai Siok. Dr. Smith and Mrs. Hodous came down the river in a boat Friday p.m. and took us on a little above Gak Liang. We four reached home a little before noon yesterday.

All the dear ones here were all right. Geraldine had put the sewing machine needle thru her finger but she had already forgotten which finger. Vaccination had run its course and taken its departure. Gould had become enthusiastic over a gun with which he was going to "shoot right straight up" to which proposition Phebe replied that the sky was up there, and would shoot it, upon which Geraldine solemnly asserted that "Doo (= Gould), don't you know God and Jesus are up there."

The insurance receipt came all right. I am afraid a letter was lost a year ago but this receipt makes it all right. I am glad that you have a wind mill and Phebe you will enjoy it fully as much as you anticipate. I can see father's look of satisfaction as he sits by the faucet and watches the trough fill with water. But where is the new well? Where does all the water come from. How I should like to hear from James! What are his plans on graduation?

Tomorrow we are to have a day of song = an Easter Praise Service = all day. The exercises are in Chinese and to be mostly of singing by the students in the schools of the three missions. It is an experiment and if it proves successful is to be a permanent institution for Easter Monday. I reside at the opening session and give an address in the afternoon. Ellen has been teaching the Seminary boys and teaches on Easter another for the evening session.

With lots of love from us all

Will

P.S. I am sending under another cover six photos – on the back of each is indicated it's destination. The plate got cracked but the essentials are all right.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wrote March 30th, No. 7. = two weeks ago. March 29th two letters came from you, - just at this point in my writing the American mail was announced. But there was nothing from any of our relatives in the home-land.

All has moved in usual channels during the past two weeks. We have a new cook. I think Ellen can in some measure sympathize with the housekeepers at home who have so many trials in connection with cooks and other servants. The Chinese money shops cash my checks on the bank, and give me as much as the bank does, so the easiest way for one to get money is to give a check to the cook and tell him to bring the money. But the question of exchange is a deep one here and an ever varying one. Just now I receive from the Chinese money shops for each dollar on the check 10 dimes and 20 cash. The other day the cook cashed a check and brought me only 13 ½ cash premium on each dollar. This was the day after I reached home from Ing Hok, and I had not enquired after the rate of exchange, so I said nothing. But on enquiry I found the rate to be 20 instead 13 ½- I simply told the cook to bring me 6 ½ cash more for each dollar on the face of the check. He looked at me said in a low voice something about the money shop cheating him. But the next day he brought the balance of the money. Ellen purchased some strawberries very early for about 20 cents per quart. The cook knew it and the next time we took accounts with him the price he had paid each day for strawberries was the same as on that first day. On enquiry Ellen found the price to be 9 cents per qt. We simply allowed him the 9 cents per qt. Well this is very disgusting. But there are few cooks in Foochow or in China who do not plan regularly to get about as much from their squeezes as from their wages.

Mr. Ding Ming Uong was presented by his wife with a nice boy a week ago last Wed. It lived only 5 days. This is the second boy they have lost. One little girl more than two years old seems strong.

A week ago a very sad incident occurred in an iron foundry run by a member of the Ha Puo Ga church. He had purchased a quantity of old iron which had been taken from the wreck of a vessel lying off the coast of Fukien in the north of Foochow. He had just started the furnace, when an explosion occurred that killed two men on the spot and so injured another that he died two nights afterward. The reason for the explosion or what exploded is all a mystery. The furnace is uninjured, and so is the house, in fact there is nothing now to indicate that anything out of the ordinary has occurred in the shop. The man was a church member and so the pastor- Mr. Ding's father- and other Christians helped him all that was possible. He had to give the families of each of the men killed $400. This made a total of $1200. All the negotiations were done thro the pastor and Christians. The man also used to be a liberal given to the idolatrous fees. All of this made the head of the temple near by angry, and they filed with the Sub Prefect an accusation against the man to the effect that he had bought official ammunition secretly and while melting it, the explosion occurred. This put a very serious aspect on the matter for if the official could be made to believe the accusation, the man would lose his head. With the Consul's approval I called on the Sub Prefect and he assured me the church member would not be injured.

Rain has been trying very hard to fall for the past two weeks. The top of the ground is fairly wet now but wells and springs are little affected. Our 50 foot well gives us fine water. There must have been heavy rains up river toward Shaowu for the river is quite full. Spring is here and over, if we compare it with New England, for all fruit trees are freed from blossoms and full of green fruit. Our earliest fruit the Bi Ba has been in market for over a week. Strawberries are old. Cucumbers and peas are here. Flowers are in profusion. The farmers are beginning to reap the wheat. The rice fields are being made ready for the crop which is now in beds waiting the time for transplanting.

Ellen and the children are all very well. Dorothy still wants someone to hold one hand while she walks. What would the grandmothers and aunts do with her if she were home? We are nearly ruining her.

All send lots of love

Your

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

A week ago a short letter started for Shelton, No. 9. Day before yesterday a letter came from mother. The same mail brought two letters from Turkey, in one of which was a draft for $8.80 gold, and in the other the announcement that $26.40 was to come for the support of a preacher in the Ing Hok field.

Last Tuesday I gave up other business largely and became a real estate agent. In the morning I received the deeds for a piece of property adjoining the old Gen Cio Dong church for which I gave $900 mexicans. In the afternoon I received the deeds for a piece of property at An Iong Die. You remember that the church there was destroyed by fire last August. To rent has cost me about $100 mexicans every year. It is also unsatisfactory and we could not find a house that was large enough. A piece of land on which the house was burned last year- not far from the old site, and having a large open space on two sides was offered for sale at $500 mex. The mission has no money. The church members promised to build the church if I would buy the land. I bought it. And now I must trust God to send money from some one to meet the expense. The churches here are all doing better this year than last in their contributions, and the number of students in the seminary is less than last year. Mr. Smith promised to meet the deficiency in the Ing Hok field. So I shall be able to pull thro. In the evening of the same day a mortgage deed on the property purchased for the seminary was brought in. The face of this deed called for $435 mex.

As I look from my study window I see Dorothy in a little wagon which we bought for Gould. Geraldine is drawing her with mama very near.

Geraldine pulling Dorothy in a buggy-1902.

Phebe and Gould are playing about, while Ponto is everywhere trying to steal a bite of the bread that the children are eating. The weather for two weeks has been very fitful and hence very trying. One day we take off our flannels and put on summer clothes and use fans. The next day we put on all our flannels and our overcoats and have a fire at meal times. The consequence is we all have some colds. Dorothy is made to feel cross by hers. But she is not willing to give up at all, and is up with the rest, takes only one nap a day and goes to sleep about 6:30 or 7 o'clock in the evening. Ellen was teaching the Catechism to Geraldine today. "Who was the first man?" "I don't know." "Adam." "Oh, yes Adam." "Who was the first woman?" "Madam." This rather broke the teacher up. Mr. Hodous and I were rolling the tennis court last evening just at dark. The children wanted to help and Geraldine is never behind in any thing of that sort. So she put her hands on the roller- a stone one 16 or 18 inches in diam. - and was going to push from behind. Of course she almost immediately found herself going over the roller. Well she landed all right in front of the thing and stopped it. No harm done but one girl scared.

We are glad to hear of grandmother's good health. Phebe often speaks of her and talks about writing her.

The box of cards and magazines arrived all right. You know the Powers demanded an indemnity from China. To pay the indemnity the powers also helped China increase the duty; on imports. At present the customs put a duty of 5% on every item in the invoice. We paid 5% on the value of the contents of that box as it was entered on the invoice, i.e. 5% of 2.00 in Mexicans. Now from whom did it come? There was a book in it that I imagined came from Mr. Kinneston. As soon as I find out the source I will write the sender thanking him.

Spring is opening on the farm. How I should like to help put in the oats and potatoes and fix the ground for corn. This is what you are doing now. The farmers here are just setting out their rice and reaping the wheat. Friday morning we had a little cloud burst for about 15 minutes water simply fell in streams. This has affected well some, and it made the rice planters happy- the river is very full so there must have been nice rains up country.

We all send love to all-

Will.

P.S. I am sending the photos of Geraldine to Putnam, one is for you.

Foochow, China, May 11th, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Your last letter arrived April 22nd. My last was written April 20th, No. 9. The next week on Monday April 28 I was off for Ing Hok to hold the Quarterly Meeting with the preacher, teachers, and all pastors of that station. In Foochow I had not realized the full extent of seriousness of the drought. But when we reached Gak Liang the road was full of men and boys in white carrying idols and flags and beating gongs. These had been to Ing Hok City that day to pray to the idols to send rain. The fields had not been touched this spring. They remained just as they were left after the harvest last fall. Rice was frightfully high and going up all the time. The people were getting desperate. At Ing Hok City the condition was if possible worse. The different villages were sending large deputations to the country seat daily to pray for rain. The magistrate had to come out for each deputation and burn incense to the spirits. Two days previous to my arrival he got tired of the ordeal and first took his morning nap and lunch. When he did at last emerge from his yamen the people who had come a long distance at much expense were so angry that they stoned him. On the day that I arrived April 29th the upper part of the Ing Hok field was visited by a very heavy shower. This somewhat appeased the people, so the magistrate was not again molested.

The meeting with the helpers was a success. The influence of the drought was very manifest in a certain soberness, which gave to the sessions a grave tone. In my life I never realized such a serious condition of affairs. One could imagine some of the horror of the famines in India. The question was many times asked me "If it does not rain what shall we do?" It was usually answered by the asker "Nothing to do but to die."

On Thursday evening- the closing session of the meeting – Ling Lik Huck, preacher at Gak Liang said he had been for some days on the point of sending letters to every church in the field asking them to unite on a particular day in praying for rain. It was then decided to set apart May 4th as a day when every church in the Ing Hok field should be much in very earnest prayer to God for rain. I was at Gak Liang that day and about 30 Christians joined their voices in importunate prayer that God would pity the people and send the rain. The next day about 11 a.m. heavy showers fell in all parts of the field. On the next day May 6th it rained hard. There has been rain every day this week until today, so the prayers of God's people were answered.

Today I conducted communion at Dung Song and received two men. In the audience was a Buddhist priest. I spoke with him after the service and asked him if he considered the Doctrine I was preaching as one at enmity with the religion he stood for. He said "yours is much better." He then asked for Christian books and purchased 25 cents worth – a testament, a hymn book and a book on prayer. This is the first priest that I have ever seen who showed any desire to become a Christian. I shall watch the case with interest.

Ellen has a lot of photos of the children which Mr. Hodous took for her. They are in many attitudes and degrees of gesture. The plates are in the photographer's hands and we will mail them as soon as we can get them. How I should like to see the Grandparents when they first look at them. Some of them are real works of art- good enough for the baby magazine.

We are all well. Dorothy is proud of her accomplishments in the line of walking. She gets up and starts off in the middle of the floor. But long trips are still taken on hands and knees.

With love to all
Will

Foochow, China, May 18th, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I sent a letter one week ago No. 10. Your last arrived April 22. Last Monday I sat in my study from 12 p.m. until 7 p.m. with a lot of men finishing up the purchasing of a piece of property that I bought in Feb. of this year. On the property were six mortgage deeds. These had been bought off= redeemed and what money was left divided among the original owners. In the U.S. all this would be the business of the original owners, and the purchaser would have had nothing to do with the business. But here I have had much to do with the redeeming of these deeds. Monday the climax was reached. I simply lent my study for the last battle ground and sat and listened and looked on. These times afford me the very best opportunities for learning the Chinese character. Patience is the attribute that always impresses me. And yet the word "patience" does not really express the quality. I do not know that we have one word that fully gives the meaning of the characteristic which I refer to. It is the power to hold on till you gain your point, not agitated in the mean time by anything that may transpire.

One day this week I cleaned out some of my old letter tills. The next day Ellen found Geraldine cutting up some of the old letters, and noticed a peculiar sheet among them. She examined it and found the receipt of my Life Insurance Policy for 1901. So it was due to my negligence that I did not find it in its proper place this year.

It was terrible news that must have startled you a week ago, about the destruction of St. Pierre and other towns in the West Indies. I think this is a little more terrible than anything I have ever known in my own memory. Is man becoming so wicked that God allows these forces to destroy him in this way? When one thinks of the loss of life thro flood, fire, famine, war and now fire from the earth, in the past few years, he can but think of the picture in Matt. 24. And then when he thinks of the wickedness in his own heart, he wonders how God has been so long patient with man. [On May 8 1902, Mount Pelee on the island of Martinique erupted killing 30,000 people.]

Foochow and the surrounding country has been blessed by good rains again this week. Not till last Thursday were the fields and irrigation canals all filled with water. I think now the wells are feeling the increase in the supply a little. Our well dug in March is giving us very nice water- coming from 50 feet down in the earth the water ought to be well filtered. We do not however drink and of it until it has been boiled.

The plague is here again – not yet alarming, but just beginning. Rice and all food is very dear- more so than last year or year before, when the people complained of hard times. Owners of houses and rice fields must pay taxes to help meet the indemnity, and all together the people think they are having a hard time.

Tuesday 7 a.m.

I meant to have finished this letter yesterday. But there was not a moment to do anything except talk with people. It was one of those days when two and three parties come at once on all sorts of business and other things. Another mail came Sunday afternoon. We hoped for letters by it, but none came.

Last fall when I was in Shanghai, the old fever to do business got the best of me for a time and I ordered of a son of a former Foochow missionary- Mr. Osgood- now agent for the N.Y. Import and Export Co., 10 boxes of soap and 12 watches. My thought regarding the soap was to help the poor Christians by allowing them to take it at cost price and sell it for an advance. I have had a chance to let one or two shops take a lot of it but I refused them, the poor ones are selling it all right. The watches – four are gone already.

Exchange is causing much concern here. Every day there is a drop in silver. The last I hear $1 in gold brought $2.17 in silver i.e. as we say exchange is 41 1/2, a silver dollar is worth 41.5 cents. Merchants who import from countries whose basis is gold must charge tremendous prices when they sell in silver. If the present rate of exchange continues prices will go up in all lines. We shall have to raise in wages of servants and chair coolies and in all eatables. But in purchasing land and property the low exchange will benefit us.

The weather is getting quite hot, tho as yet the extreme heated periods are very short, only a day or two at a time, so is quite endurable.

Ellen and the children are quite well. Dorothy can walk across the room but she needs a little encouragement. The other day I mailed to Mr. Kinney a lot – 20 – photos- 2 of each kind, of the children. I have not yet written them to divide with you. But will try to do so. If they do not come to you soon after this reaches you just drop them a line.

With lots of love to all
Will.

Foochow, China, June 22nd, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Time has flown rapidly since I wrote last, on May 18th, No. 11 if my register is correct. Letters were received from you on May 27th and June 27th.

It seems hardly credible that over a month has passed in which I have not written you. But if this is so I shall have to go back a month to begin. The most important event during this time, to us, was another visit of Mr. Brockman [Fletcher Sims Brockman] especially to present to the mission the matter of our transfer to the Y.M.C.A. work. He had seen two members of the mission in Shanghai and they told him to come down and talk with the mission, so on Wed., May 28th he told the mission that the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A. wished them to release me. At the Annual Business Meeting of the Mission June 12-14, the mission considered the question and voted to release us if the Board would send another man to take our place. Hence we will wait till the Board gives its decision before we know what is in store for us. I have no anxiety over the matter. There is an abundance of work in the field of the Y.M.C.A. in Foochow and we shall find more than we know how to accomplish if we come back to our place here in this mission. Ellen and I both feel that it is a question for the International Comm. and the Board to decide rather than for us to say the final word. And we feel that God will direct these men alright.

The weather has become hot. Ellen and the children went up to the mountain on Thursday. It was rather a hot trip. I came down Friday afternoon. Ellen wrote last night that they were all right. Dorothy had been troubled seriously with prickly heat and she was not happy- quite fretful. But I trust she will be all right soon in the mountain air. During the past month there has been very much rain with muggy weather. We have had no floods yet. Today the water in the river is very high and some of the lowest streets are flooded. The rice crop is very fine, just in bloom, and I trust God will not allow a flood to come to injure it. The people have had a hard time for the past few years in many ways. This year the drought raised the price of food tremendously, and the plague has caused confusion in many parts of Foochow and in some of the villages on the plain.

In the vicinity of our house and of Ponasang and of Geu Cio Dong the plague has been very bad. I allowed the seminary to disband for the term without examinations on account of the ravages of the plague and because the boys were becoming somewhat alarmed. This was May 16th on Monday. The next Friday the seminary cook died. He began to feel badly the day he went home. The teachers and students are thus far all right. The pastor of Gen Cio Dong lost two children last week but not from plague. They went to see the Dragon Boat races two weeks ago and it is thought they ate something that did not agree with them. Today I conducted communion at Au Ciu. The preacher was taken during the night last night with what they pronounce the plague. Thus far our mission workers have been wondrously spared and the deaths among the Christians have been comparatively few.

On Friday morning while I was at the mountain we saw Dr. and Miss Bement come to the house they have rented. We went over to see them and learned they had arrived at our house at Gek Siong Sang Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Hodous and came to Guliang [Kuliang] in the early morning. Yesterday a little after noon Mr. Walker walked in on us here and his daughter followed immediately. So we are fine here over Sunday; Mr. and Mrs. Hodous, Mr. and Miss Walker and myself. The Hinmans came down from Shaowu with the Bements and are on the mountain. Dr. Bliss will come next week.

It was a quarter of a century ago day after tomorrow when I had the inexpressible joy of finding the first colt. The picture of old Kate and little Daisy as they ran away from one in the pasture east of the house is as fresh to day as ever.

At the business meeting of the mission last week a vote was passed to ask the Prudential Committee to grant us a furlough to begin early in 1903.

This means that we will probably start for the dear home land in February next. And then will come all the questions of where we will live and what we will do. Both these will be much dependent on the decision of the Board regarding our transfer to the Y.M.C.A. secretarial force of China.

We had a good long letter from Mary by the last mail. Only a few days previously Miss Worthley had told me that her sister and Mary had found each other at Mount Holyoke. But what is James going to do? I have not heard direct from him more than once since he entered college.

I sent you some time ago several photographs of the children. In this letter I enclose another. I hope it will retain some of its outlines. It has not yet been toned. I love it. Dorothy is too cute for anything = girls language.

With lots of love to all
Will.

[This typewritten letter dated July 7, 1902 was written by J.R. Mott to Willard discussing the release of Willard from the American Board and upcoming employment with the Y.M.C.A. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

July 7th, 1902.

My dear Mr. Beard,-

Your letter of May 17th reached me last week. I had also a few days before that received a letter from Brockman telling me about your favorable decision and also the willingness of your mission to release you for the Association work. I have already written Brockman that the International Committee will most gladly extend a definite call to you to become one of the foreign staff in China. I have not doubt in my own mind that God is leading you and all of us in this matter and that this plan will open up for you the work for which you are peculiarly qualified and a work of the greatest possible importance with reference to the evangelization of China. To avoid any misunderstanding and friction, it is most desirable that the leaders of the American Board in this country be led to release you for this work with good spirit. I regret that it will not be possible for me to get to Boston to see them before I start for Europe three days hence. I shall be back in the early autumn and can take the matter up with them early in October. I think this will be far better than to attempt to adjust the matter by correspondence. I send you this word at once that you may know what my plan is and also that you may see that nothing is done in Foo Chow to reverse the action already taken or to prejudice the case with the Board prior to my getting the full case before them. I feel confident that this course will comment itself to your best judgment. I feel all the more reconciled to this daily in view of that Brockman reports about your not being able to enter into the new relationship until probably eighteen months later or thereabouts. Let us in the meantime continue in prayer that God may continue to manifest Himself by unlocking the doors for you to get out into this field of great opportunity.

With kindest regards to Mrs. Beard and yourself,

I am,

Very cordially yours,

Guliang [or Kuliang], Foochow, China, July 13th, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started from China June 22nd. July 8th brought one from you. When I wrote the last letter Ellen and the children were here on the mountain. I was at Gek Siong Sang. I came to the mountain the next Tuesday and went down the next Monday and came back the following Thursday. I have been here since.

The mountain is about full i.e. the cottages are. Some want to come but can find no room. The Chinese are glad to come up to get out of the plague, which is still bad, altho report says that there is a little decrease during the past few days. A school teacher at Ing Hok died last week. He was a graduate of the seminary and was appointed to teach a school and oversee a place which we opened this year on the main street in Ing Hok. The work was most encouraging until it was suddenly cut short by the teacher's death. Today word has come from Sharp Peak that the cholera is bad there. It has claimed a valuable woman worker from the Diong Loh field. The preacher who was taken with the plague at Au Ciu June 22nd is improving. Yes, it seems as if nature never was subject to as many disturbances as it has been this year. The presence of the plague all about us intensifies the feeling of the insecurity of this life.

We have all been quite well since coming to the mountain. The children are growing fat. Yesterday Ellen let them put on their old clothes and wade in the rice fields for two hours. Such fun! Phebe and Gould and Geraldine all went. Dorothy would have been just as eager to go if she had known enough. She is crazy to get off the veranda and walk about out of doors on the lawn. She is now learning to talk- just single words. She eats like an American pig. It takes two cups of milk and five heaping tea spoon fulls of oat meal to satisfy her at breakfast. Ellen said yesterday that it seemed as if she did nothing else but prepare food for Dorothy. Our whole family is troubled in the same way. We are eating a prodigious amount of fruit. But as long as we keep well it is all right- cheaper and infinitely more satisfactory than drugs. We have at last found a man to take the place of cook. He is not a cook only a coolie but he seems bright, willing and capable of learning. Ellen can leave him to prepare some meals alone. But we do not- from a selfish standpoint- object to Ellen's cooking. Her bread is fine.

I think I have written you that we received the little shoes for Geraldine and that she was very much pleased with them. One more box from home is all that we shall receive. The other day while at Mrs. Bland's she mentioned that they were going to England next March. We would like to go home that way if it is just as well all around, and it would increase the pleasure of our trip to go with them.

On the fourth we were loyal and had cake and ice cream, a speech and fire works. The children marched and sang "Soldier Boy". Geraldine quite took the prize both in marching and singing. They all wore hats made of stars and stripes. Geraldine's would keep falling off and Gould won the admirations of the company by his gallantry in seeing that it was picked up and put on.

You are all at home now and cherries are nearly gone. The mowing machine is rattling daily and the barns are being filled with hay. How I wish I was in this work with you for the season. Will next year bring me the pleasure?

All send love,
Will.

Guliang [or Kuliang], Foochow, China, July 27th, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

No. 13 started homeward July 14th. The last letter received arrived July 8th. Since coming to Guliang our mail has been very scarce. We are already beginning to feel the effect of vacation days at home.

This year here in Foochow has been all upset weatherwise. From last August until this year in May we had not one rain storm that affected the wells. With July this year the wind began to blow. First we had a week of heavy showers- one each afternoon with heavy winds. Then a week of nice weather. Then a week of strong south wind closely related to a typhoon. Last Thursday the wind changed into the east and Friday typhoon gusts presented themselves. All day yesterday the wind was very high and gusty. Last night it increased in violence and gave us a fair typhoon but with no rain. Today is a repetition of last night, with almost no rain. A typhoon usually expends itself in 48 hours. The wind becomes rain and the storm is over. But there is no evidence of the end of this one yet. So far there is no damage reported.

Tuesday morning – July 29th.

I went to Foochow yesterday with about 15 errands and returned at night. It was rather hot, but before I reached the top of the mountain I had to put on my overcoat. The plague near our house has ceased. But near our city compound and in many other parts of the city it is as bad as ever. One meets coffins everywhere, and corpses are frequently lying on the bridge. Rice is dearer than ever and the officials are importing it and selling it at a discount. They sell to each person only 30 or 40 cents worth so that dealers cannot take advantage of them and purchase in large quantities and then sell at a large profit. Last week one day two church members came up to Guliang to ask me to write the Sub Prefect asking him to give them the privilege of buying 30 bags or so at a time to be sold to the Christians. They said he had already sold them 30 bags, but must have my approval before letting them have more. I doubted their motive somewhat and told them I would think it over. I found out yesterday that they had made a new profit of about $10.00 on the 30 bags which the official had sold them. It is needless to add that I did not write the Sub Prefect. This is one of the failures of the church members. I sometimes wonder if we do not give a false view of the Christians by telling only of the good deeds, or of those only who are true. In this connection I ought also to say that Pastor Bong Ho is was who told me about the profit these men had made on the rice adding "They of course will blame me very severely for telling you of this, but it is my duty."

Well, we are all well. Dorothy is having a hard time cutting her eyeteeth, but is otherwise well. Ellen is still doing the baking and cooking. But we have help promised.

The Guliang Convention began Sunday p.m. with the sermon by Archdeacon Barrister of Hong Kong who is spending the summer at Guliang.

Love to all
Will.

*[This letter dated Aug. 17, 1902 was written in Foochow, China by Willard to the folks at home. The plague as not as prevalent but cholera is bad and he ponders if it is cleanliness or Christianity that keeps the cholera from infecting many foreigners (missionaries) and Chinese Christians. Foochow, China, Aug. 17, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter from you arrived July 8th. I wrote last on July 27th No. 14. just at the beginning of our Convention. The weather favored both the foreign and the Chinese Conventions this year. For several years something- either a typhoon or political disturbance has occurred to partly break up one or both.

The plague has abated quite a good deal in the City and Suburbs. Near our house in the Suburbs where it was so very bad in May and June and part of July it has ceased. But Cholera has come in to take its place in claiming victims so the death rate is nearly the same. Cholera has not been as bad at any time since our first year here. Ming Uong's mother was attacked, but is now well. The report is that it does its work very quickly this year. Many die after 3 or 4 hours of illness. When will people learn that cleanliness is necessary to life? A week ago last night a Chinese teacher died here on the mountain from plague contracted in Foochow only a day or two before. It made something of a stir. But thus far no one else has taken the disease. It is to me wonderful that thousands of Chinese are carried away with these diseases while they do not attack the foreigners. It must be either a direct intervention of God or it must be due entirely to cleanliness and adherence to the laws of health as we have learned them. It is also wonderful to me that so few of the Chinese Christian workers fall victim of these scourges. I can explain this also only by one or both of the above methods.

I was in Foochow again last Wednesday for the day. The Sang Tung Gio people (church) have moved to a cleaner locality where they have a nice large house capable of seating 300 people. The An Long Die church is going up nicely. At Gen Cio Dong walls are coming down and going up and old buildings are being removed, so that the land will be ready for the new church when we go down in about six weeks from now. The buildings on the lot adjoining our residence are being refitted for the Theological Seminary. A week ago today six united with the church at Ha Puo Ga. The Ing Hok travelling Evangelist started with $280- to go thro the Ing Hok field, visiting each chapel, a few days ago. So you see, even altho I am not at Foochow there is work to think and pray about, and have in mind all the time. Then here on the mountain every day is full, and I can scarcely find time for the correspondence that ought to be done.

I received a letter from Mr. Mott the other day, which I forward to you. I have not yet heard what the decision of the Board at Boston is about releasing us for the Y.M.C.A. work.

Last week a tiger was caught in a pit about 4 miles from here. Many of the Kuliangites have been over to visit him. We are preparing to go tomorrow morning [to Kuliang]. We are trying to start at 5 o'clock with the whole household, even Dorothy. She will enjoy the ride.

We are all well. The children are growing like pigs. They especially enjoy wading in the rice fields. A few days ago Phebe and Gould went over across the rice fields in front of our cottage. Geraldine was about to follow them. The path is about 6 in. wide. On the left is the rice field with its water and mud. On the right is the next rice field 6 feet below. The bank between is perpendicular. Geraldine had her "umbuller." The path was a little wet and slippery. I heard a terrific scream "Mama I pall in de wice peald," repeated several times. On going out, I saw a little mud image standing against the bank of the lower rice field. How it was yelling! "Pebe an' Dou'l didn't wait po' me. I knowed I would pall in." Well it took four waters to get the mud off her. Evidently she rolled down off the path on the upper field and stuck in the lower field on her back so as to nearly cover her face with the water. This stuck her head well into the mud. She is all right now.

We helped celebrate the King's Coronation a week ago yesterday. We are all very happy over the engagement of Dr. Bliss and Miss Borts [Bortz]. Miss Borts will now go to Shaowu.

With lots of love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Aug. 17th was the date on which the 1st letter started for Shelton, No. 15. Two days later, Aug. 19th a letter arrived from Shelton. Aug. 20th one came from Etta from Meridian, N.Y. Aug. 24th one came from Emma. Your letter contained a good many accidents. We are hourly expecting another, from the steamer due yesterday, and hope for better news.

We receive from you a letter which related the home coming for vacation of the different members of the family, and as we sit down to answer it the fact dawns upon us that as we write you are preparing to scatter again for another year of work in different places. I suppose some of you are even now back at work. I am reminded also that my own vacation- if this is not a misnomer- is at an end. Mr. Smith and I plan to start next Thursday for Ing

Hok to be gone one week. I have set Sept. 18th as the date for opening the seminary. Other schools do not open till Oct. 2nd on account of the plague and cholera. But we closed a month earlier in the spring than usual on account of the plague, and then there is now no sickness near our house, and we shall have only about ten men in all so I am not going to postpone the opening. Nearly all other schools have lost students during the summer from plague or cholera. We have our full number to begin school this fall. The cook of the seminary died, otherwise our ranks are unbroken. This fall the seminary will be in the house adjoining our own house, which will be much more convenient, and a great saving in time and strength.

I am writing at my desk in the room in which Ellen and our three girls sleep. Ellen and Phebe and Geraldine and Gould are on the beds asleep (?) Ellen and Geraldine are. The other two are hard at work resting judging from the grunts and flopping. Dorothy is with Se So out of doors. We are all well. Dorothy is getting fat. She delights to get out in the grass and in the wind and run. For two days the wind has been very strong. The little girl can scarcely stand against it. But she runs about in high glee with hair flying in the breeze, tumbling down and staggering about, and even sliding down the terrace boy fashion, which would wear out her pants if she wore them. Gould is happy with his kites. He is getting very proficient in flying them. Geraldine was four years old last Mon. Ellen planned a party of little folks for Tues. It rained. Postponed till Friday. Children's meeting previously arranged conflicted. Postponed till yesterday and 21 little folks about the table eating sandwiches made a pretty sight. We remarked that there was hope for America in the group, - and for England too. Phebe is learning to read fast and is making progress in playing hymns and chords on the organ.

The last time I wrote we were about to start to see the tiger. We mailed that letter on our way that Monday morning. We were off at 6:10 a.m. The whole family 8, and one of the amahs. Gould walked all the way over, a distance of about 7 miles. We were there at 8:30. The trip over was delightful. Most of the path was along the top of the mountain, winding in and out, crossing divides at the heads of valleys with the gorges stretching down away from us on either hand. A thunder storm had passed around us two hours before, and the fog and sun were then struggling for preeminence. As the fog lifted now and then we caught glimpses of the Foochow plain lying calmly and hot below. When nearly there we turned sharply to the left and took an old military road 3 ft. wide and went down stone steps for about 1500 feet. We were rewarded by the sight of a huge tigress lying and sitting in the bottom of a pit about 13 feet deep and as large as an ordinary well. The pit was well covered with poles which were weighted with large stones. She seemed quite resigned and did not care to show off at that time of day. I let down a bone of beef to her and she ate it gratefully. A wooden basin of water she shivered with one snap of her jaws, but lapped the water most gratefully when she found what it was. The children- except Dorothy enjoyed seeing the tiger very much. Dorothy preferred a glass of Postum Cereal Coffee. The method of trapping is very simple. A hole is dug, and covered with slight bamboos so as to look like the rest of the ground's surface. The approach is from one direction only. On the side opposite the approach a goat is fastened. The tiger has to pass over the hole to get at the goat and falls in.

We found a nice shady nook for our lunch and reached home at 1:00 p.m.

Some of the foreigners have been over to see if there were more tigers about the place. Caldwell of the M.E. [page ends here and no other page was with it]

[Willard begins to refer to Harry Caldwell who became known not only as a Methodist Missionary but as a famous tiger hunter in Fukien Province. Willard's family attended the Caldwell's wedding. Dear Folks at Home:-

August 31st the last letter started from Kuliang for Shelton No. 16. A letter came from you on Sept. 10th. Since writing, Mr. Smith and I have been to Ing Hok. We started from Kuliang Sept. 4th and arrived at Ing Hok Sept. 6th the next day. Sunday I conducted communion at Ing Hok City Church. On Monday we walked up into the mountains about five miles to see two churches. Tues, we started for home and reached Foochow Wed. for dinner. Mr. Smith went to the mountain that afternoon. I went up Friday morning. Last Tues. afternoon Sept. 16th I came down again to prepare for the opening of the Seminary. On Thursday the boys began to come. Friday all but two came. One of these is ill. Regular work will begin tomorrow. I remained here today to conduct communion at Dung Song. Two were received. It was a pleasure and an inspiration to speak, because the people were so appreciative in their attention and interest. Dr. Kinnear and his family came up from the Peak last Tuesday. They will live over on S. Side in a house belonging to the Ch. Miss'y Society. I suppose all the missionaries at Sharp Peak will be in Foochow or at Kuliang tomorrow. I hope to get up to the mountain tomorrow morning. As you have already heard Dr. Bliss and Miss Borts [Bortz] are to be married tomorrow evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner on Kuliang. The next day Mr. Caldwell is to marry Miss Cope. They are of the Meth. Mission. Miss Cope arrived from America a week ago today. Oct. 1st Dr. Wilkinson and Miss Osley are to be married. They are Ch. Miss'y Society people. So each of the three missions has a wedding. Gould is to be ribbon bearer at Mr. Caldwell's wedding which is to be in the church at Kuliang.

The box from Shelton that you sent to Boston arrived last week I have not opened it for Ellen enjoys nothing so much as opening and taking out the contents of the home boxes. We have received from you no letter giving us the contents. From the rattle I know there is corn in it and the invoice says there are shoes in it.

During the last two weeks two letters have come from Dr. Judson Smith, Boston strongly opposing our leaving the mission to take up the Y.M.C.A. work. Mr. Mott however has not yet seen him so we will still wait for the final decision.

Tues. morning-

I came up the mountain yesterday a.m. We all attended the wedding of Dr. Bliss and Miss Borts [Bortz] last evening,- all except Dorothy. It was a very pleasant wedding. Only our own mission and the Am. Consul were present. Dr. and Miss Bement started for Shaowu two weeks ago, so they were not present. Mrs. Hodous was unable to attend on account of illness. With the exception of these three all the members of the mission were present- all the children except Dorothy.

The weather has been very hot and sultry for a week. There was a change yesterday. This morning a strong north wind is blowing and it is cold.

We are all well- going to another wedding this p.m.

With lots of love to all

Will.

Dear Friends at Home:-

I wrote last Sept. 21st, No. 17. Your last arrived Oct. 2nd. A letter came from Putnam Sept. 29th.

I wrote on the eve of our three weddings. All passed off very pleasantly. Sept. 22nd Dr. Bliss and Miss Borts [Bortz] were married at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner on Kuliang. Mr. Gardner performed the ceremony. I cannot describe the brides costume and such details. I know however that the wedding was a very pleasant affair. The cottage was exquisitely decorated with ferns and flowers and palms. Ray Gardner was ring-bearer and Ruth Peet was flower-girl. The cottage in which Mr. and Mrs. Gardner live this summer has a long veranda. This was enclosed with a cotton cloth attached to the veranda posts, and beautiful Chinese lanterns of different design furnished light to us as we sat at the long table. With the exception of Mrs. Hodous who was ill all the mission were present- except Dorothy,- children and all, 47- no I forgot that Dr. and Miss Bement had started for Shaowu before the wedding. The wedding trip was from the Gardner cottage to the Borts [Bortz]cottage- a ride of 15 minutes in a sedan.

Tues. Sept 23rd Mr. Caldwell was married to Miss Cope. This ceremony was in the Kuliang chapel at 3 p.m. the chapel was beautifully decorated with bamboos and parts of the decorations from the night before. [The Caldwells would have a son, John C. Caldwell, who in 1953 would write a book of his family's adventures, China Coast Family.] At Dr. Bliss' wedding only our mission were invited. At the chapel wedding all were invited, including French and Germans. Gould with Arten Main and two little girls bore the ribbons that fenced in the aisles for the bridal party. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lacy gave a reception at their cottage. After this the bride and groom went to Foochow. An old shoe hung on the bride's chair. The weather for both these weddings was cloudy but it did not rain.

Our mission held a business meeting on Tues. a.m. and all day Wed. Thurs. I came to Foochow and returned Fri. to the mountain. Sat. and Mon. I spent in buying land. One piece for Dr. Emily Smith's cottage, - one for a new road (public) around a nasty village. Sunday I read a sermon at the chapel. Thirty were in attendance. The weddings and the delay in opening schools on account of the cholera accounts for the numbers at the mountain so late.

On Tues. Sept. 30th we moved to Foochow. We had a pleasant cool day and every thing moved smoothly. Mr. and Mrs. Hodous still remain on the mountain. Mrs. Hodous is not able to take any nourishment and has sat up but little for over a month. A doctor said to me the other day, "I wonder if she wishes she had never got married." She is having an unusually hard time. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are very happy anticipating a Christmas gift.

Monday morning:-

I opened the box from home Saturday. Everything was intact. The shoes with soles and all came O.K. We shall enjoy the new corn and rye.

The children are all well, and are talking much of going home. Dorothy is learning to run, and it takes off some of her fat. She is just learning to talk, and is actually beating Geraldine in clearness of enunciation. We have added to the pets for the children a little black goat. So now they have a dog, a cat and a goat. Ellen is well and we are all showered with blessings from the Great Giver of all.

Lovingly
Will.

Foochow, China, Oct. 11th, 1902.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My last was written just a week ago, No. 18. Your last came Oct. 2nd. Another home mail came this morning. Secretary Judson Smith writes that our furlough has been granted by the Prudential Comm. to begin next year at any time the mission here may agree upon. I have offered to take a trip thro the Shaowu field this fall and winter if the mission so desire. As the subject is discussed I do not find that any other member of the mission can go. For this event I shall either go alone or try to get some one from outside our mission to go with me. In either case I expect to be accompanied by Pastor Diong of the Shaowu station who understands the Foochow dialect. I must use the Foochow and he will translate into Mandarin or Shaowu or some other jargon.

Dr. and Miss Walker were with us last week from Monday till Wed. I went with them to the Upper Bridge- where the Huntington ladies are helping in the work- where their boats were waiting. Dr. and Mrs. Bliss had gone up in their boat in the afternoon and were in bed when we arrived at 9 p.m. They have had a fine breeze up river since starting and must be well along on the journey. They need rain to give more water for the boats to get over the rapids. Dr. and Miss Bement [Lucy P. Bement] have been in Shaowu for three weeks already. They are building.

I'm sending by this mail some photos which you may distribute as you like. Send some of them to Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodous expect to come down from the mountain tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Smith plan to come down and start for Ing Hok next Thursday. They have had a nice quiet time for study during the past two weeks.

We have had no rain for nearly or quite a month. Everything is very dry. The farmers must work continually to pump water into their rice fields.

Chinese method of pumping water into fields. People turn a wheel by walking on its paddles and thus bringing the water up on a conveyor type mechanism.

Cholera and plague are still about. This past week our oldest and most valued Bible Woman known as Lau Chio Cia died of cholera. She has been very feeble for four or five years. But she has worked for the salvation of her sisters in Foochow to the very last. Her example will never be lost, faithfulness and patience will shine brighter because of her life. We met at Gen Cio Dong Thursday morning for a memorial service.

The same day there died of plague one of the pillars of the An Long Die church – a young man in the prime of life, earning money and giving it to the church liberally. His father is a church member and his youngest brother is a graduate of the Seminary and now preaching at An Long Die. The new church at An Long Die of red brick is roofed in and fast approaching completion. We are now working on the plans for Gen Cio Dong and I hope operation may be begun before long.

Many are now having what Dr. Woodhill calls grippe. Both foreigners and Chinese are affected.

Mr. Hubbard writes that he will not come back this year.

We are all well. Dorothy is fast learning to talk.

With Love to all

Will.

Foochow, China, Oct. 26th, 1902

Dear Folks at Home:-

Letter no. 19 was started on its journey east Oct. 11th. The last from you arrived Oct. 2nd. One came from Phebe Oct. 23rd.

All moves much as usual here. The sky continues to be clear and the drought is becoming severe. Altho at this time of year it is much less alarming than in the spring time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodous came down from the mountain Oct. 13th. Mrs. Hodous is quite like herself again, is eating to make up for her long fast and is studying again. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Dr. Smith moved from Kuliang to Ing Hok Oct. 15th. The weather on the mountain has been unusually nice all summer. We have no typhoon and no hard storms yet reasonable rains have kept the crops good and the people good natured. The weather continues so warm that those who remained up there late were much favored. Miss Worthley and Miss Osborne are still there. Miss Osborne has not been well for more than a week and we are expecting her home= down to Ponasang soon.

A week ago yesterday Ellen and the four children and myself started on a house boat for the other side of the island. There are three churches over there in my care. We took the boat at 5 p.m. at Foochow. The moon rose at 6 p.m. and found us at Pagoda Anchorage just turning to go up river on the other side of the island. The moon was glorious, the water smooth as glass. The breeze just held us against the last of the outgoing tide. We were alone. All the servants, except the cook who was asleep, we had left at home. The children enjoyed it fully as much as the older ones. We sailed till 2:30 Sunday morning and anchored in the river (Ing Hok) between Ding Chin and Chong Ha. Sunday morning the children were up with the first ray of light. Breakfast was over and we were off for Ding Chin at 9 o'clock. The distance is 2 ½ miles. I carried Dorothy and the others walked. We arrived at 9:45. Twelve persons were asking to be admitted to the church. I had to examine these while Ellen kept the four children – a genuine menagerie for the Chinese – quiet. Eight were deemed worthy to be admitted. And at 11:30 we began the service, which closed at 1 o'clock. Of course the children had lunch which we carried. At 2 p.m. we were again on the boat and eating dinner. I was so tired that I took a little rest, while the boat pushed across thru river. Then we all went in to the Chong Ha church. We were late for the Y.P.C.E. [Young People's Society for Christian Endeavor] but saw the pastor and his family, the school and some of the members. In honor of our coming the pastor's wife cooked a bowl of vermicelli for each of us with an egg on each bowl. It was served with chop sticks. Gould fairly devoured his, and asked for Geraldines. Dorothy also ate all she could get. It was the first time we had seen the children eat with chop sticks. But they must have used them before somewhere for there was not the least difficulty experienced by them in getting the food to their mouths. And they had no remarks to make about the food- especially Gould. This too less than two hours after a hearty dinner.

We reached the house boat again at dark. The third church at Nang Seu we could not visit on this trip. The work there is not flourishing and at present there is no resident preacher. At Deng Chio and at Chong Ha the work seems to be quite flourishing. Both churches are crowded on Sundays and are talking of enlargement.

As we reached the boat the ride was running down stream and we dropped down with it until we met the tide coming in about ten o'clock. The moon was beautiful. We allowed the children to sit up on deck until 9 o'clock which privilege they enjoyed to it's full. The air was warm and the breeze stiff until 8 o'clock when it died down and was quite gentle. Ellen and I enjoyed it until the anchor dropped at 10 p.m. With the next down tide we went down to the Anchorage. After breakfast we all went up to see the friends there, i.e. Mr. , Mrs. and Miss Hartwell, Dr. and Mrs. Whitney and Mr. and Mrs. Hinman who arrived the Saturday before and who had not yet got settled. Dorothy went to sleep and had a nice nap on Mrs. Hartwell's bed which gave us a good opportunity to visit. In fact we had to wait half an hour after we were ready to start for her to wake. We started at 12:45 from the Anchorage with a very strong south wind. In 1 ¾ hrs. we were at the landing in Foochow. This was the swiftest trip that I have ever made between the two places.

Today I have conducted communion at the San Tung Gio church, which has lately moved to Ciu Muoi. Six men were received. I think I can see in the churches a real growth in desire for spiritual knowledge. In examining these men their answers actually surprised me, in the amount of thought that they showed. Last night we had a good C.E. meeting in the same church. Two weeks ago at the election of officers in the C.E. of Gen Cio Dong I was somewhat surprised to hear the leading deacon refuse to act as president. When asked to give his reason he said that it was better for the new members to have their turn and learn how to do it. If the old ones continually filled these offices, the new members would not know how to do the work when the old ones have gone. The society elected new men for the offices.

We are well. Ellen has a little cold and Geraldine a little. The Chinese still have much illness. Cholera is still claiming victims and the German measles are at work. The Dengue fever- if you know what that is, is prevalent.

With lots of love

American Board Mission.

Foochow, China, Nov. 9th, 1902

Dear Folks at Home:-

My last letter was written two weeks ago= Oct. 26th. The last word from Shelton arrived Oct. 2nd. Phebe wrote so that we received her letter Oct. 23rd.

During the past two weeks all has gone smoothly, and there has not been a great variety in our daily tasks. One week ago today I conducted communion at Dung Song and admitted one man and one woman. Today I went to San Gaing- a chapel under the care of Ha Puo Ga. In the afternoon Mr. Hodous and I walked out to Garang Seng Ga a chapel rented and cared for by the Y.M.C.A. of the Seminary. It was opened at the beginning of this year. Already there are several men who have expressed a desire to become Christians. Today the little chapel was crowded. Beside the day school scholars there were men from all ranks of life. Soldiers, shopkeepers, farmers, coolies, and literary men. They all gave good attention.

Mr. Hinman has been asked by Pres. F.E. Clark, to take the Secretaryship of the Y.P.S.C.E. movement for China. This is the result, first; - of the inability of Mr. and Mrs. Hinman to live at Shaowu on account of Mrs. Hinman's health;- and secondly to the suggestion which came from Mr. Hubbard to Dr. Clark that Mr. Hinman be asked to take this new work. He has not yet made known his decision.

The mission will meet day after tomorrow to decide (?) on the plans for the new church at Gen Cio Dong, which will hereafter be called the Dudley Memorial. I trust that we may be able at the same time to award the contract and so get the building started. At the same mission meeting it will be decided whether I go to Shaowu or not, and something as to how I go.

Our Annual Meeting with the Chinese workers begins next Tuesday evening with an address by Dr. Willard Lyon. He is expected to speak each evening during the week.

One week ago yesterday I went to Kuliang. Miss Worthley and Miss Osborne are still there. They plan to come down tomorrow or next day. I found some white ants in our house, and so pulled up a lot of floor boards. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are building a cottage there and I am overseeing it a little for them.

Yesterday we all attended the flower show held on a recreation ground. We took dinner with Dr. Lyon and Miss Wells of the Meth. Mission and then went to the show. Chrysanthemums formed the larger part of the flowers. These were in profusion. Possible 400 pots. There were a few other kinds. A few vegetables were also displayed. But there were very poor. The children thoroughly enjoyed every minute. At Miss Wells they found a nest of little kittens and it is quite superfluous to add anything about their enjoyment of them. Then the recreation ground is a plot of perfectly smooth ground beautifully sodded and kept well mowed with a lawn mower, and quite smooth with a heavy stone roller. It is perhaps as large as a six acre lot. Around the outside is a good wide race course and inside this a mote to drain it. So there are about three acres of beautiful lawn all in one piece. On this the children ran and sat and played from 3-5 p.m. Dorothy was as much pleased with the outing as any of them. To add to the pleasure the Viceroy's band came about 4 p.m. and played. Children in China are as crazy over a band as the American boy.

Dorothy is fast learning the use of her tongue in expressing thought. It is very cute to see her go up to Gould and saying "Du Du" take his hand and lead him off wherever she wished to go. She seems to realize that he is not like Phebe or Geraldine – that in him she has a brother. She is a very active and energetic little miss, and has yet to finish learning that the world and the people in it were not made for her especial benefit.

Since I wrote last we have had rains to wet the earth nicely, and it has cleared off beautifully. The farmers are all engaged in reaping the second crop of rice. It is very poor- only about half a crop, owing to the drought. The plain presents a very busy scene with the reapers at work. The grain is threshed right on the field and after winnowed right there also.

With lots of Love

Will.

Trip to Shaowu

I started from Foochow at 7 p.m. Nov. 21st 1902 and spent the night at the Upper Bridge Chapel. On the morning of Nov. 22nd I took the launch for Ciu Kau, expecting that my Shaowu boat, which started from Foochow, Thursday, Nov. 20th would be waiting at Ciu Kau for me that – Saturday- evening. But at 11:30 a.m. the launch overtook the boat 20 miles above the Upper Bridge.

We have seven boatmen – to be increased to nine for the rapids – not addicted to opium. Five are young men and attractive. They are polite, but in common with boatmen they use vile language both with and without provocation. A magpie cried and they considered it an ill-omen. It was not difficult to get them to admit that their vile language had more power to hurt them than the cry of a bird.

With me on the boat are Pastor Diong of Shaowu who is to accompany me on the tour thro the Shaowu field and who will act as my interpreter, and a theology student from Shaowu, Uong Do Cing. Pastor Diong told the boatmen of his experience two years ago as he came from Foochow with Pastor Ieu and a man who professed to be a learner of the Gospel. The learner was much given to bad language. So the three agreed upon a fine of $10 cash for every bad word used. The first day the learner had to pay over 100 cash, the next day only 20 cash. [55 cash = 5 cents]

Monday, Nov. 24th

Reached Ciu Kau yesterday at 1 p.m. the C.M.S. [Church Mission Society of the United Kingdom] has a chapel here and we went up for a service. Like most important river towns, this is a tough place and altho this chapel has been here for five years there are no church members. More than ten men and boys came in and one man was much interested. We talked with him for nearly an hour and gave him a Testament and Catechism. In the evening pastor Diong and I had a good talk with the boatmen. They are a nice set of men. We have organized a “no-swearing” club, with a fine of 5 cash for every bad sentence uttered. At 10 a.m. one man has 15 cash against his name. When we arrive at Shaowu the money is to be used to have a spread. I have put in 204 and the pastor and Do Cing 104 each. I shall be interested to watch development.

We are going up river very fast. The water is good and the men in good spirits. At this rate we will make Ci Yong for next Sunday. The river becoming narrower and the hills more interesting. But these are not the Ing Hok Mountains. It is cooler this morning, with a stiff breeze from the west, which meets us dead ahead. The sun tries to shine.

At 6:15 p.m. we are at Sang Du Kau, having made 70 li today. The “no-swearing” club has furnished no little amusement. There have been eight fines today. If we had counted yesterday there would have been at least eighty. A new man came aboard late last evening. He is the head man now, - a fine fellow, cool, calm and knows his business.

We passed a wreck at Cheng Gau Tang, - one of the largest boats on the river called Duai Keu Muoi.

Weds. Nov. 26th.

Yesterday we found the rapids steeper and the progress much slower. We made only 5 puo as against 7 the day before, i.e. 15 miles instead of 21. The river is always very swift and the rapids are almost continuous. Rugged crags of rock stick up everywhere and the river must find or make a path down thro them. To pull the boat the men must climb along and over these like Rocky Mountain goats. They do it well. The leaves on the hard wood trees present various hues and make one think of New England in October.

At 1 p.m. we stopped at Hu Lu Gang. The C.M.S. has a chapel and a school here. We are 55 li from Long Bing. Thus far the weather has been perfect.

Thursday, Nov. 27th.

A beautiful Thanksgiving morning, and cool enough to make it seem natural.

Yesterday we put a hole thru the side of the boat- or, more accurately, a rock did it. This let a little water into to lay the dust in the bottom of the boat, and the incident gained for the treasury of the “no-swearing” club 15 or 20 cash.

At 4:30 yesterday I met Mr. Main walking, on his way to Foochow to see his youngest boy who is very ill. At 10 a.m. we are within 2 ½ puo of Yong Ping.

Friday, Nov. 28th.

Yesterday I left the boat at 11 a.m. and walked into long Bing, arriving at Miss Linam's at 1 p.m. - took dinner there, and went across the city to see the property of the M.E. mission. It was purchased last year thro Mr. Main, and is in size about 10 X 20 rods- a large field, on the highest ground within the city wall and lying next to the wall and quite apart from any Chinese houses or shops. Mr. Main's house is of white brick and one and a half stories are already up. The Woman's Board of the M.E. mission owns a large native house across the city from the parent Board property, and a small piece of vacant land adjoining this house. At present Miss Linam and Miss Hartford are living in the native house and Mr. Main has been sleeping in the church- rented land nearby- and boarding with the ladies. The girl's school is in the house with the ladies, - about 20 girls- the woman's sch. In a rented house nearby- 13 women- a boy's sch. - 21 boys- is in the chapel. There is also an English church and Hospital, under a Chinese, a student of Dr. Rigg, in long Bing city.

I took supper with Miss Linam and led the prayer meeting in the evening. One of the ch. members has a son who could open the city gate and let me out after the meeting, so I slept on my boat as usual. Including the scholars and teachers from the schools, about 50 attended the prayer meeting. The M.E. ch. has a good work started here, in wh. the ladies are at least keeping pace with the men, and this is the only kind of a church that can have a healthy growth. A male church is like a wall, only one side of wh. is built. It is sure to fall.

The "no-swearing" club is doing good work. There is a very noticeable decrease in the number of curses.

Yesterday was a cold day. Miss Linam had a brass stove. Today is much warmer. The rapids have been few and not at all bad this morning. The men have rowed much of the morning.

Our plans are: - arrive at Sa Ka Kau this afternoon- start tomorrow morning for Ka Bang 50 li in from the main river to spend Sunday with the Christians there- send the boat on to Uong Dai 25 li above Sa Ka Kau to wait for us. We walk from Ka Bang across the country to Uong Dai on Monday.

Sunday, Nov. 30th at Ka Bang

We arrived at Sa Ka Kau Friday at 5 p.m.- slept on the boat and started for Ka Bang Sat. a.m.- could find no load carrier, and boats going up Sa Gaing branch wanted $1.00 for taking us 5 miles. Diong Muk Su then asked the boatmen to take the load to Ching Chu 5 miles up the Sa Gaing branch, where there were Christians who would carry it the rest of the way. The boatmen demurred. Pastor Diong simply told them that if they did not do it we would carry the load ourselves. One of the boatmen carried the load to Ching Chu. There a Christian got a man to bring it to Ka Bang. We reached here at 3 p.m. yesterday. The road is not steep or bad.

At Ka Bang there are 40 can or about 500 or 600 people. Including the adjacent village there are 200 can or 1000 people. There are now 17 ch. members and 30 learners. The people are very ignorant of books and very few have been away from home. They live one side of a hollow in the mountains, in wh. hollow and the sides of wh. the rice field are the only fields. Farther up are bamboo and other trees. The only industry is paper making. The bamboo is cut at the right time i.e. before it becomes too hard, and split up and put into large vats with lime and water. Here it remains for a year. It is then taken up and worked into pulp, which is mixed with water. A man then takes a sieve and dips into the mixture and brings out what will be a sheet of paper. These sheets he lays in a pile which is taken by another man, who sticks each sheet separately on the sides of a large furnace made of mortar. Here it dries. The paper is then put into bundles ready for market. It must all be carried by men 10 miles to the river and then by boat 150 miles to Foochow. In many places the stunted rice plants stand in the fields uncut. The drought has been severe this year and much of the rice did not head at all. This means very poor living for people this winter.

This is the fifth year the chapel has been in this place. The preacher is a single man- surname Uong. He has every appearance of a very sincere, straight-forward, earnest man. I like him. There is no chapel here. The people meet in the Tiang Dong which is used in common by all the people in this part of the village. Those who worship idols use it in common with those who worship God. As I was speaking this morning a lot of incense fell on me from a stick that was burning above me. A chapel where the people could worship with Christian surrounding would be an inestimable help to them.

At the service this morning over 70 were present. Most of them were from the immediate village. This is good. I spoke in Foochow. Mr. Uong translated. When he couldn't understand the Foochow Pastor Diong translated for him into mandarin and he again put it into the lingo of the people. I cannot talk with this people at all. They have their own peculiar dialect. A few of them understand about half of what is said to them in mandarin. One or two who have been to Foochow understand a little of the Foochow. The audience this morning was very appreciative and responsive and patient.

This afternoon we received 3 men and 3 women. In all 26 partook of the communion. 21 members.

A very touching incident occurred just after service. We walked out a short distance from the church to look at a piece of ground that has been talked of for a church lot. While standing there, one of the men who joined the church today passed and we spoke a few words to him, and as he started on he asked us to pray for him. As he turned the corner near I noticed that he was wiping his eyes. Soon he called the preacher to him and when the preacher came back he bro't two ten cent pieces, saying: - "He says he is poor and had nothing to invite you to eat, so he wants to give you two tens for you to go and buy something." That man would have been a husband fit for the woman who washed the Master's feet. The preacher here seems to be a man without guile and the Christians are like him in this. There seems to be no secondary motive here. The people worship God because they believe it is the right thing. They need a church building, a commandment scroll and a few Bible pictures hung on the wall. They have already subscribed $30- max. toward a building. The need $90.00. There are many men at home who would give this if they knew of the 20 cent incident related above. The 20 cents is to start the fund for a church building.

Monday, 4 p.m., on the boat again at Veng Dai

These people fed our whole party of 4 from Sat. supper to Mon. breakfast and I think they took not a cent for it. They prepared a whole fowl for me. I subscribed 50 cents toward a church building.

In the evening two more women were admitted to the church. One had been away and had just returned that evening. Her husband was killed by the falling of a wall last spring or summer soon after uniting with the church. She was an elderly woman, very earnest and very clear about the Gospel- especially about going to Heaven after death. The other woman has been one of the leaders among the women in talking of the Truth. Her courage needed a little strengthening. In the evening the student spoke in mandarin and the preacher translated. Before closing all the members both men and women led in prayer.

These 2 days spent at Ka Bang will always be a blessed memory to me. We were urged many times to stay longer. And as we started away this morning, after sweet season of prayer with the Christians who lived near, they all wanted us to pray for them. It was good to see the love and respect they all had for pastor Diong.

We started at 7:45 this morning. At 11 we were at Ching Chin. A little lunch by the way gave us strength to reach the boat at Uong Dai at 4 p.m. One of the Ka Bang Christians brought our load down 6 puo + 20 miles. I gave him 70 cents and we had to fairly push him off the boat to keep him from giving the money back.

Tuesday, Dec. 2nd.

We swung into the stream at daylight this morning. The church members at Uong Dai could not be found yesterday afternoon, so we came up the rapids some 7 or 8 li before stopping for the night. At 3 p.m. we are just to stop at A Iong.

The owner of the boat came from Foochow and was on the boat when we arrived yesterday. There is a marked change in the working of the crew. He leads the men as well as commands them. He is a church member but needed to join the "no-swearing" club. I have never before witnessed such a change in the language of a company of men as has come to this body of boatmen in the last 10 days.

Saturday, Dec. 6th – a little above Iong Kau

At A Iong we conducted communion Tues. evening. Some 15 members were present. There is a preacher here- a Foochow speaking man who had an opium shop in the village- became converted and seems now to be an earnest, enthusiastic, practical worker. He is a good friend of hard-work. I was not at all badly impressed to see him carry the dang load a li or so for the learner who went with us up into the country.

The mission owns a large property at A Iong- an old tea hong. There are two large buildings each about 30 X 40 ft. and each with two stories. Beside these there are 4 or 5 smaller buildings and a vacant lot about 60 X 70 ft. the larger building have been recently repaired by the people. The church members furnished most of the money for purchasing and repairing.

Beside the preacher- Mr. Iek, there is a Mr. Lok who lives in the chapel with his family and helps the preacher. The church is not in a flourishing condition i.e. not growing spiritually. The starting of the work and the purchasing of the large property was due in some measure to the help received by some of the people from the former preacher in some trouble. They had to disabuse the people of the idea that this was its business. It seemed to me that under Mr. Iek the church was putting itself in the true light before the people. I could learn of nothing wrong here, and do not see why the church should not take on new life and grow in the future.

Connected with the A Iong church are 7 different places where the Christians or learners meet with more or less regularity for worship. In most of these places there is a room specially for this purpose. In other places a spop or a house is used. We visited three of these centers. Starting Wed. morning we walked 4 puo to Dai Lik Kau. Here a learner gave us all a good dinner. After dinner we preached for $\frac{3}{4}$ of an hour to 70+ people who gathered in the shop and in front of it. Then we walked on 5 li to Sieu Ngu Dong where there is a room set apart for a place of prayer. Here is one time ch. members and 10+ learners. There are 49 families in the village. Of these 24 have renounced idol worship. After a hymn and a prayer with the people here, we went on 2 li to Li Dung. After supper here we held communion. One man joined the church. Seven members were present, and 10+ learners. The service was held in an Ancestral Temple. Nearly half of the people who have an interest in this temple have given up idolatry and allied them selves with the church. There should be a preacher here and a school should be opened. Mr. Iek comes up from A long 5 or 6 times a year to visit these places.

Thursday morning we started for long Kau, - the boat had gone up from A long (3 puo) on Wed. to wait for us at long Kau. We arrived at 2:30 p.m. In the evening the theol student preached and I spoke a few minutes. I spoke in Foochow without an interpreter. Up at Li Dung I did not find one man who could understand the Foochow dialect at all. I could not even ask them how old they were. The preacher Mr. Iek interpreted.

The communion was held at long Kau Friday morning. About 55 members were present. About 100 attended the service. The church members here are strong business men. Old men and young men are there in good proportions. There is an esprit d'corps that was most gratifying to see. The Foochow churches could learn much from this church. Friday evening pastor Diong preached and I spoke a short time. The three services which we held here I shall long remember. They were well attended by the members and learners= 30+ in the village itself. There are some 65 members in the long Kau church. This is a large, and very busy place. The church needs an enterprising pastor. The man who is acting as preacher is an elderly man- a good man- but one who feels his position so much that he does not command the respect of the members. He does not know the rules of the church well, and has not the fine sense of perception that would enable him to lead this church on to large things. The Meth. 's have a small church here also.

The church owns a large piece of land perhaps 150 X 300 feet or even larger, nicely located just up from the main busy st. On this they have erected a nice church that will accommodate 200 people easily, 300 with crowding. They are just erecting a nice two- story building to be used as pastor's residence and school. On the property is a good spring fr. wh. water can be conducted into house. There is sufficient land remaining on wh. to erect a missionary's residence, and it would be of immense advantage to this lower part of the Shaowu field if a missionary were located here. The place is 2 easy days journey from Long Bing and 4 easy day's journey from Shaowu. One man would find more than he could well do to look after the churches that would lie naturally in this district. There ought also to be here both a boy's and a girl's school.

Beside this property on wh. the ch. and sch. stand, the mission owns a house 12 ft. wide and some 50 ft. deep on a side st. some distance i.e. near the other end of the village. This was used as the chapel and preacher's residence before the new ch. was built. The preacher Mr. Knok lives there now. There is also a piece of vacant land about half way between the old and the new churches wh. the mission owns. This is about 40 X 50 ft.

This morning with preacher Knok we started upriver for Sioh Ka Kau 15 li above Iong Kau. Here we found a ch. member's house fitted up to be used as a church. The members and learners have just purchased an opium shop wh. they plan to fit up for a church. We had a nice service here, and were detained to take dinner. We are now on the boat bound for Song Chiong where we plan to spend Sunday. I want exceedingly to go from here inland to Ing Seu and meet the boat 80 li above Song Ch. at Cui Kau Cai. But pastor Diong is afraid the distance is too great for one day's journey in and another out. It rained yesterday and is cloudy and cold today. Our plans for Monday must be determined by God when He sees best to indicate to us His will.

Monday morning, Dec. 8th 1902.

Sat. evening just at dark we arrived at Song Chiong, and went up to the chapel and held a service. We slept and ate on the boat. Yesterday we held three services. The morning and evening services were attended by crowds. The afternoon service was well attended by the learners. There are no members here. About five or six years ago we had a rented chapel here for a little less than two years, when the house was sold and our learners urged to go to the Meth. chapel a few rods distant. For nearly 20 years we have had learners at Song Chiong who connected themselves with the Iong Kau church. We visited the Meth chapel yesterday p.m. The preacher had not returned from the Annual Conference at Foochow. His wife and children were at home- we did not see them- and an old ch. member who seemed to be chapel keeper. A carpenter was at work fixing the altar rail.

This Spring the Song Chiong Magistrate got into bad odor with the business men of the place because he let out the collection of the indemnity tax to men who extorted such sums that the business men could not stand it. They all closed their shops and refused to do business. The magistrate was forced to give in. But in the mean time he had sent to Foochow for soldiers. When these arrived they began to make arrests among others whose names were on the list to be arrested as having had part in closing their shops. Mr. Kuok chanced to be down from Iong Kau for service and to help these 2 men when the runners came with the warrant to arrest these 2 men. When the runners came Mr. Kuok told them that if these 2 men were truly involved they would meet the trial. If the runners found on examination, that they were involved, he Mr. Kuok would be responsible for the appearance in court of these men.

This was sufficient to make some 10+ men who had been learners at our church very enthusiastic for a church. They have with several of their friends, arranged for the purchase of part of a house, which they have furnished as a church. I cannot find that Mr. Kuok or the learners have done any wrong. The official is a hard wine-drinker and does not get along with the people at all,- except with the few whom he allows to extort money from the people.

The Meth. pastor from Yong Bing was here during the trouble but refused to have anything to do with the matter. The preacher Mr. Co also refused to touch the case. This of course put the Meth preacher Co in a pretty bad light before the Christians, and they have refused to come to church unless the preacher is changed. The Meth. have 4 or 5 chapels in this region. The C.M.S. one across the river from A Iong at Gong Gi. Not one of these, as far as I have seen them or can learn about them is in a flourishing condition. The causes in my mind are two. 1. All of their workers are Foochow speaking people and from Foochow or the vicinity. They cannot talk or enter into the life of the people among whom they are sent to labor. One Meth. member at Song Chiong was asked why it was that his church there did not grow. His reply was "Truly preacher lazy." 2. In one place a church was opened by one party to a quarrel in our ch. at A Iong. These drew off and thro Ho Hok Sing opened a chapel. In another place, Chiong Lok some men whom all the other members accused of being bad were practically turned out of our church and themselves threatened to invite the Meth. Our pastor told them all right and the Meth. now have a chapel at Chiong Lok.

I have written this at length about the above matters because the Consul, Mr. Phillips and Mr. Main had said much to against the practices of our churches in this region. My conclusion at this stage is that the other missions will do well to look to their own affairs a little while longer before trying to right the rest of the world. Our missionaries have themselves visited the churches in this region on their way up and down the river and at other times with more or less regularity for years. They can talk with the people. They were the first in the field. All of our workers are native to this region or have been here so long that they understand the language and customs of the people. I do not think that our church here is above reproach. If it were, I should not be here. But what I have of the workers and members gives me confidence in them and of a sincere purpose in them to do Christ's work here, and to become His true disciples. The churches need preachers and this need is greater than we know anything about in the Foochow part of the field. May the Lord of the plentiful harvest send the harvesters.

Tues. a.m. Dec. 9th

We arrived at Dai Gang last evening at 3:45, and walked about 4 miles to Cui Kau Cai. The boat arrived a little after dark. Here we found preacher Huang with a new son 19 hours old, which makes him the father of 5 sons and two daughters. He is a fine man, and his fine spirit shows in his face, in his actions, in his address, in his control of his children, and in his prayer.

There are about 20 members in the church here- most from villages outside Cui Kau Cai. They estimate about 60 learners. Our coming was not announced. At the communion service last evening 6 or 7 members were present.

The mission owns a lot some 40 X 100 ft. on which stands a ch. building about 25 X 50 ft. Between the building and the street is a tier of shops. One of these must be bought before there is a good entrance to the church in a rented house. There is on the church lot sufficient vacant land on wh. to erect a preacher's house. The work of the preacher would be much more successful, if the ch. had a good entrance and if the preacher's house was near the church. There is a nice day school in the church with 18 pupils.

The Ing Seu trip is given up (1) on the advice of pastor Diong. (2) We have already delayed the boat until the owner and the men are a little impatient. (3) The weather is threatening and the country roads are very wet. (4) I think pastor Diong and the Theological student are nearing home and would like to get there.

Wednesday. Dec. 10th p.m.

We did not make Na Kau last evening,- stopped about 10 li below. This morning we stopped on the way up and held a nice service at Na Kau. The preacher is a younger brother of preacher Huang at Cui Kau Cai. Both of these men are reliable, honest men. A little more enthusiasm in both would be beneficial to the growth of the ch.

But infinitely better such men than those who are untrustworthy. At Na Kau there are 4 ch. members and "several tens" of learners. The captain and owner of the boat on wh. we are is a learner at this ch. his home is at Na Kau.

The members of this church purchased the property- a large house about 30 ft. wide X 80 or 90 deep on the one main street of the village. The cost was about $300- all raised by the people.

Sunday Dec. 14th.

We left the boat 45 li below Shaowu and walked up Thursday, Dec. 11th leaving the boat at 9 a.m. and reaching Shaowu at 1:30 p.m. It rained all the time after 11 a.m.- found the friends all well. On Friday I saw the buildings and the land and the plans and foundations for new buildings both at the East Gate outside the city and near the original Shaowu premises, and inside the city walk where Dr. and Miss Bement are.

At the East Gate the new church of brick opens on the main street of the East Suburbs. It will accommodate 600 persons. Back of this separated by a compound wall and a space of about 50 ft. is the residence now occupied by Dr. and Miss Walker and Dr. and Mrs. Bliss still South of this and separated by about 5 minutes walk is the site for a new residence. The servants quarters are built. The foundation of the house is up and the timbers for the first floor are some of them in place. The property here is large enough for the residence and a tennis court with ample space between the house and compound walk on all sides. S. West from this 3 minutes walk is the property for Boy's School, Theological Sem'y and College. There is ample space for three large buildings. The foundation is laid for the Boy's School At present this school is in a building adjoining the church.

On the opposite side of the street from the ch. is the Men's Hospital. This property extends from the street to the river. Only a part is occupied by buildings. A the rear, bordering on the river is a fine large piece of empty land in ready for extension as the work grows.

The Woman's work is all in the city- about 20 minutes walk from the E. Gate property. It nearly takes the breath away from a Foochow man to stand on the city wall and look out over this property. It lies on each side of a street and one piece lies along the city wall. The other side of which is the river. This piece is now occupied by the Girl's School, which is temporarily in an old Chinese house wh. stood on the premises. The girls sleep in a small new building erected for dining room etc. for the new school building the foundation of wh. is up ready for the brick to lay the walk. Across the street the new Dispensary for the Woman's Hospital is approaching completion. Dr. and Miss Bement are now living in this until a new house is built. Each of these pieces of property is larger than the whole Ponasang compound. In round figures each piece is not far from 240 ft. square. They are situated on the highest land in the city and in a section somewhat sparsely settled, so contiguous Chinese do not trouble them.

The Girl's sch. has about 30 pupils, the Boys' sch. at the East rate 26 pupils. 12 Theological students are to go out into the work at the beginning of next year. 3 students help Dr. Bliss in the Mens Hospital and Dr. Bement is teaching one young woman in the Woman's Dispensary.

Saturday morning dawned clear and cold. Pastor Ieu and I started for Guong Dak 80 li farther up the river beyond Shaowu. We walked all day in the teeth of a strong still N. West wind. We arrived here at 4:45 starting at 8:30 with 30 min. for dinner. I was prevailed upon to take a sedan- partly on the pastors account. But he started in advance of me, and it was too cold to ride so I at the end of 35 li I sent the sedan back.

The service this morning was attended by 9 ch. members and nearly 100 learners. Perfect attention was given to a long address thro pastor Ieu as interpreter, after which the communion was administered.

The people here have purchased a building about 40 ft. wide and 140 ft. deep. It makes a good church building.

Last night was cold. I saw the first heavy frost of the season this morning.

Tuesday Dec. 16th evening.

Sunday afternoon pastor Ieu preached to about 50 learners, and members. In the evening all the standing room was occupied at the endeavor meeting. All the members and several of the learners prayed.

There has been no regular preacher here this year. A theology lives 20 li distant and seems to be looking after the church some. An old man- a member lives in the building and acts as church father. In the evening I met several Foochow men. The Salt Commissioner is a member of the church and impressed me as a humble earnest Christian. It was he who gave most of the money for the church building at Guong Dak.

Thursday a.m. Dec. 18th.

Monday morning we started for Tiang Ga Bieng, 55 li farther up the river, and within about 50 li of the Kuang Si (or in Foochow Gong Sa) province. A man who has taken partial course of study with the theological class was sent up here a few months ago as a bookseller. There are more than 100 persons now who express a desire to become Christians.

We held a service Monday evening which was attended by 60 men and 10 women. They gave the strictest attention for an hour to the simple statement of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. At the close one man offered prayer. I cannot help urging with much emphasis in every place the imperative necessity of daily Bible study and prayer if the people would be real Christians. It gives me the deepest joy to find in every place- even where the people have had only small opportunity to learn the Truth- those who can pray. May the Holy Spirit find means to teach the multitude the blessedness of prayer.

Tuesday morning we breakfasted with a learner at 9:30 a.m. and started at 10 a.m. for Guong Dak. At Tiang Ga Bieng. The learners have procured and fitted up a large house to be used as a chapel and they sent by us a very urgent request that the bookseller be allowed to remain with them next year as preacher.

Wednesday morning we started from Guong Dak at 8 o'clock and reached Shaowu at 5:15 p.m. The road from Shaowu to G.D. is good. But from G.D. up to T. Ga Bieng it is paved nearly all the way with small round stones gathered from the river, and is the worst piece of road that I have ever walked on. My feet had many complaints to make after two days on this road, so I resorted to my old time custom in Ing Hok and wore straw sandals from G.D. down yesterday.

A solid stone bridge crosses the river at G.D. The arches are of cut stone, and are some 20 ft. high. The whole structure does credit to the workmanship of the builders. I took a picture of this, but I am afraid it was a failure.

The weather was cold for the whole trip. Rain fell steadily nearly all day last Friday. Sat. dawned with a dark windy sky and a stiff north wind. That night was still and a thick white frost covered all Sunday morning. One side of my room at G.D. was quite open for a space 12 ft. long and 3 ft. high. The people there evidently believe in fresh air= for the foreigner. Shaving with cold water Sunday a.m. was good for the will and I presume also toughened the body.

This morning- Thursday is rains. God's blessings fall in copious showers on one wherever he is. He prepares the way before one and gives strength for the journey and provides friends every where and is willing to use one's feeble efforts to teach the multitudes the Gospel. I was thinking yesterday as I walked on the blistered feet- if after all it paid. And then the picture of scores if not hundreds of men in the U.S. who sit in their studys or recreate six days and on the seventh preach to the same 40 or 50 persons came before my mind. And I know how strange it would seem to these men who rejoice over their "snap" to be able to speak to a room packed with men and women who listen with wrapt attention to every word and show by the expression on their faces their interest and pleasure and by every means possible express their gratitude. I concluded that it did pay. And a little hot water and a good nights rest- which is the reward God gives for a 30 mile walk- do wonders for blistered feet. Blessings untold beyond belief await the men who come to take up this waiting work in Shaowu. Among the blessings, not the least will be the privilege of associating with many of the Chinese workers of this field- especially pastors Ieu and Diong.

The workers are now gathering for the Annual Meeting, wh. begins this evening. I shall remain in Shaowu for this i.e. until next Monday. I may then make one more trip of 5 or 6 days from here and return. Then I start for the Ciong Lok trip and at Ciong Lok my work will end. From there I go direct down the river to Foochow.

As there will be little to report for the next week I send this partly finished sheet, with kindly greetings to all the friends in Foochow. I am praying for you all daily, and I know you do not forget to ask God to make me usable each day.

Thursday, Dec. 25th at Iong Cing Kang

The Annual Meeting at Shaowu began a week ago this evening. The time was much spent on prayer. Then many of the helpers spoke of specific answers to prayer.

Fri. a.m. reports were given of all the out stations in the lower part of the field. In the afternoon the general subject was Bible Study. I spoke thro pastor Ieu as interpreter on Bible Study for Spiritual Growth. In the morning I took b-fast with Dr. and Mrs. Bement and spoke to the Girls in the Girls sch. thru pastor Diong's daughter as interpreter. Friday evening the time was given to various addresses. The head assistant in the Woman's hospital gave a very interesting talk on caring for the body. He is a bright young man and seems thoroughly consecrated. It does one good to witness his earnestness at all times in witnessing for Christ. The other two students also are fine fellows and all three are earnest workers in the church. They make the work of the church and the work of the hospital one. I stated previously that there was one student in the Woman's Hospital. There are three. The daughter of pastor Diong who was in Foochow Girl's College, a girl in the Shaowu Girl's Boarding School and the wife of Dr. Bement's cook.

Sat. a.m. Reports were given of the upper part of the field. I spoke a few minutes of the impressions received at the point which I had visited. Sat. p.m. no session. Sat. evening was given to woman's work with addresses by pastor Diong for Dr. Bement, Mrs. Bement and Mrs. Walker. Mrs. Walker spoke very earnestly for the new building for Boy's School. $1800 has been subscribed by the Chinese, $850 already paid in. The building is going up as fast as the workmen can make it.

Sunday I spoke thro pastor Ieu as interpreter and helped in administering the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. About 400 were present. In the afternoon I spoke at both the South Gate Chapel and at the North Gate Chapel - Girl's School. In the evening the C.E. meeting was a model. The subject: - How to show our gratitude to God was a good one to talk on and the time was up before all had an opportunity. A short talk here made four addresses for me that day, - too many.

Monday and Tuesday were spent with the helpers in consultation about next year's work. These pastors and preachers about 28 are a fine body of men. They have been so free from foreign supervision, that they know how to plan and execute. They need and they earnestly desire and pray for foreign help. I can but pray that God in selecting men for this field will find those will come not to oversee but to help this noble body of men.

Monday afternoon Dec. 22nd Pastor Hackman, of the German Church, Shanghai for the past 9 years arrived at the Shaowu compound. He expects to leave tomorrow- Friday. He is on his way to Tibet, Burmah and India, then to Germany. His business is to learn all he can about Buddhism and Taoism.

Wednesday, yesterday morning I started for Ne Sek Du 60 li from Shaowu and the highest part of the Shaowu field. Dr. Bliss has begun the erection of a summer cottage here. We found several villages in each of which there are a few Christians. There is no church building. The services are held in the houses of the members in the different villages as is convenient. Evening services are necessarily limited to the people of one or two villages. Last evening 10 men, 6 women and 4 children were present at the service. One of the young men who has just graduated from the theological course is my interpreter on this trip. All the people of Zo Du are engaged in paper making. Three years ago a dang load of the papers was worth $3.00. Now the same amount brings $10.00. The houses of the village, the clothes of the people and the people themselves witness to the good times.

This morning we walked 3 li down the mountain to this village of Iong Cing Kang. On the walk yesterday and today the scenery is worthy of Ing Hok. The roads are after the Ing Hok pattern. Only the distances in Ing Hok are greater. The man who measured the li on the Shaowu roads must have broken off a piece from his measuring rod. 80 li here are about the equivalent of 65 li in Ing Hok.

This afternoon I spoke at the Iong Cing Kang church. About 75 were present. This evening the pastor led the prayer meeting, after which I spoke. This is the only church in the field - beside the church in Shaowu City, that supports the pastor. Pastor Gang here has a large field to look after. His parish has a radius of some 5 miles and there are several centers, in one of which the people are just erecting a church building. Next year Pastor Gang will be moved to Na Kan a village on the river 80 li below Shaowu- an important center in itself and more conveniently situated for the working of his present field than is Iong Cing Kang. So altho his residence will be changed, his field of labor will remain partially the same. A recent graduate of the Seminary will reside here next year.

The mission owns a large piece of land here, with a good church building, having pastors house attached and a good school building apart from the church. There is no school in it. The lack of day school in this field is the one deplorable feature of the work that faces me almost everywhere. The work will suffer for it in coming years. There was a school at Zo Du. I tried to visit it this a.m. but at 8:30 the pupils had not come to school and I did not wait. My purpose in taking this trip is not so much to help Dr. Walker in the touring, as to see the work and encourage the people and the workers. It chanced to be market day here today- the first of these days that I have seen. The street here was certainly full of men and of produce.

Friday, Dec. 26th at Tie Lo Haeng

The church and property at Iong Cing Kang cost about $600. The people gave one half. In the rear of the church are two rooms made comfortable for foreigners. A real iron foreign cook stove stands in one of them. The church has a belfry and a bell.

This morning after breakfast with the deacon we walked 35 li up to Tie Lo Haeng. After dinner with the preacher a service was held in the church. Here also the mission owns a nice property. The church stands just outside the village. Contrary to the usual custom, it stands alone. No one lives in it or adjoining it. It is locked when not used and unlocked when service is to be held as if it were in New England. There 40 men 7 women and 7 children at the service. The mission has a day school here, in an idol temple. The idol is covered up in its recess in the "parlor" with a nice piece of red cloth on which is the character "ha", and the idol does not appear to be disturbed by the presence of two Christian families in its domicile, or the numerous Christian calendars and scrolls with Christian sentiments written on them or by the sound of Christian voices in worship of the one Living God.

The church and property here cost over $1000. The people gave all but $300. The preacher was appointed to go to A Iong next year. But the members are trying to raise his whole salary, hoping thereby to keep him here. He is a fine young man 27 years old. He took the first degree this year. He impresses me with his earnestness as a speaker. I have not heard a more enthusiastic speaker in the field. He also impresses as one who thinks, and hence as one who will grow.

Saturday, Dec. 27th

Last evening we had another service at Tie Lo Haeng. Just before the service I was much pleased to hear several of the members who were present at the afternoon session rehearsing the points in the address of the afternoon.

A clear sky and a still night brought a very heavy white frost to greet us this morning. Of course after that the sun shone gloriously. We were off at 9 a.m. after a prayer with the workers. The distance is 40 li- level road- we found several church members along the way and stopped to drink tea with each. Half way between Tie Lo Haeng and Shaowu at Iong Dong is a small chapel 2 houses wide and some 40 ft. deep owned by the mission. There are 4 men and 4 women members here beside 10+ learners. There is a day school here with 16 pupils. At 1:30 we were at Shaowu. All the friends here are well. Pastor Hackman started this morning for Kiong Si, taking Shaowu carriers for 4 days journey.

All my arrangements are made to start Monday Dec. 29th for Ku San 40 li- Tues; Hua Bang 50 li,- Wed. Ciong Sioh Hu 20 li. Thurs., Cio Kan 50 li. Fri., Tai Ming 45 li, Sat. Sing Gio 45 li, Mon. Jan. 5 and Tues. Jan. 6 Giong Ning Gaing 120 li. Wed. here. Thurs. or Fri. down river by boat to Ciong Loh. Spend Sun. Jan. 11th at Ciong Loh. Then home- unless I take 4 days to see Ing Seu.

With kindest regards to all the associates.

W.L.B.

Tuesday, Dec. 30th at Huo Bang 4:45 p.m.

Sunday I spent at Shaowu. In the morning I attended church at the East Gate. Pastor Ieu preached. In the afternoon the foreigners met at the residence of Dr. and Miss Bement for a prayer meeting. This was a very refreshing and helpful hour. In the evening I attended the C.E. meeting at E. Gate.

Monday at 12:15 Pastor Diong and I started for Ku Sang, 40 li. It rained all the way. We arrived at 5 p.m. The rain kept many of the church members at home. There are in all about 15. Only 5 were present. Some 6 or 8 learners came in, and 12 or 15 others. There is a preacher (Ding) with a wife and children here. The chapel is rented. There is a day school also here. Ku Sang is a large village in a large valley. The villages in this valley are many, and the people seem to be prosperous.

This morning the rain has ceased, and the sun tried to shine. We started at 9 a.m. for Huo Bang 45 li. - turned aside 2 li and took dinner with a relative of pastor Diong's, reaching Huo Bang at 4 p.m. The load carriers lost the way and did not arrive till 4:30.

There is a day school here, but no chapel, and no preacher. There are 5 members and 10+ learners. Service is held in the house of one of the members.

Wednesday, Dec. 31st at Ciong Sioh Hu.

Last evening we administered the sacrament to three members at Huo Bang. The room was full of people and they listened well. This morning I saw the day school held in an ancestral hall. This hall can be rented for the chapel next year and is well suited for the purpose.

At 12:30 we were at Ciong Sioh Hu 20 li from H.B. There is only one family of Christians here. Two brothers form the basis of the church here. There are others interested in the Truth.

Friday, Jan 2nd 1903. at Tai Ning.

Wed. evening at Ciong Sioh Hu we held a service in the Tiang Pong of a Christian. About 50 were present. The best attention was given and the people remained long to talk about the Truth. There is good material to work on here. The preacher from Huo Bang should visit C.S. Hu often to hold service with the learners and members.

Breakfast is late in all this region in Winter, and it was after 10 o'clock when all had eaten and we were on the way to Cio Kau, 30 li distant. We arrived about 2 p.m. and found a member and a learner quarrelling about a little piece of ground. Pastor Diong and I spent all the p.m. trying to settle the matter in vain. In the evening we admitted 5 men and conducted the communion. Twenty partook of the Sacrament. The service closed at 9:15. Just then a messenger was announced from Shaowu. At 9:30 I was opening bundles containing Christmas presents from Foochow. These had been sent by the messenger boat [and] was too late this time for me to receive the things before starting from Shaowu last Monday. It was a very unique experience- opening Christmas presents in a little Chinese bed room over 30 miles back in the country from any water way- and over 250 miles away from Foochow at 10 o'clock at night. Well I was asleep before the next day began.

This morning we took breakfast with one of the men here and then succeeded in getting the quarrel settled in time to set out for Tai Ning shortly after 11 o'clock. We arrived at 2:30 p.m. - 30 li. Tai Ning is a district city with a wall around it.

While I have been writing the above there have been at least 7 women 7 men and 10 children watching me. The number has varied and the personages have also.

Sunday, Jan 4th at Sing Gio 12:30

At Tai Ning we conducted communion Fri. evening. 13 members were present. 2 united with the church. About 80 were present. The best of attention was given to the Truth. The people are overjoyed at the news that they are to have a preacher there next year. The church needs and will doubtless have better accommodations. Pastor Diong says the church here is sure to put on new life next year with a resident preacher. Yesterday, Sat. Morning after a good breakfast with a ch. member we started for Sing Gio at 9:35 a.m. and arrived at 4:45- 50 li. At 4 p.m. snow began to fall. It snowed gently for about 20 min. Then the flakes became large and they fell fast. It was a genuine snow storm. The first I had seen for 9 years. I enjoyed it. We were so near our destination that we experienced no inconvenience.

This morning everything was white. The mountains were beautiful. How I wish Mrs. B. and the children could have seen it. I expect however that even Geraldine would have admitted that it was "Told." And I think Dorothy would have been willing to have blankets over her last night. The ice on my wash basin was fully 1/16 in. thick and the water completely frozen over. At 11 o'clock the ice still stuck to the basin after the water was emptied. Where the sun strikes full the snow is melting. But where its rays do not touch the snow will remain all day. I ate an icicle (is it spelled correctly? I have not written the word for 9 years) over 3 in. long this morning. It was so cold at service, that the pastor had to stand on one foot while he toasted the other over his fire basket. 30 were present at the service. Some came from 3 miles distant. Some who wish to unite with the ch. did not arrive, so we are to hold the communion this p.m.

The church here is in a house purchased for the purpose by the mother of the theol. student Uong who came up on the boat fr. Foochow with Pastor Diong and myself. She lives in the house and with a ch. member who lives 10 li distant is the head of the work here. This woman's home - 10 li distant- is the place where Mr. and Mrs. Walker were in such danger 10+ years ago. She seems to be a second Mary now. Her house here is head quarters for the preachers of the Word, and on Sundays she feeds many of the ch. members and learners who come from a distance. Today some 12 have eaten at her table, the food is good too. I know.

4:15 p.m.- We have just closed a delightful communion service. Three men united with the church. One was the husband of the woman who owns the chapel; one was the next door neighbor; one a former coolie or helper of Dr. Bliss in the Hospital. All have been under the influence of a Gospel for years. 50 were present at the service and all gave the closest attention. I wonder if many audiences at home would now sit in church while the snow was on the ground and icicles forming on the eaves, without fires, and listen to the preaching. The work here seems to be the true fruit of the Gospel, and the outlook is most favorable for growth. I hope the Tai Ning or the Cio Kau preacher can visit this place occasionally next year. It will encourage the people.

Giong Ning Gaing, Jan. 6th 1903.

When I wrote the above I forgot that a preacher had been appointed to go to Sing Gio next Chinese year.

Sunday evening another service was held at Sing Gio, fully attended, and led by the member who had acted as head here.

Monday morning the ice was so thick in my basin, I did not attempt to break it. We saw ice $\frac{1}{4}$ in. thick. I took a photo of the chapel and little village with the snow and frost all on it before we set off Mon. morning. I shall always remember this Sunday at Sing Gio with Thanksgiving to God- for what He has wrought this saintly woman- for the earnestness shown by the members, all but one who was away from home were present at the communion- 12 in all, - and for the beauties of nature clad in spotless white- and for that delightful walk Monday a.m. up and down those snow covered gorges, where the bamboos and evergreens were bending under their weight of white.

At 8:30 a.m. Monday we were off for Giong Ming Gaing. Last night we spent at a Chinese inn Ciu Bang. We reached G.M.G. this p.m. at 2:30= 120 li.

I had my mind all made up certain to spend one day here, Sunday next at Ciong Loh and then home. But I must now spend next Sunday here visiting another place 50 li inland on Thursday.

Thursday, Jan. 8th 1903- a.m. at Li Sing.

Tuesday evening at Giong Ming we had an interesting service attended by about 75 persons. The strictest attention was given to the address on "what does it mean to become a Christian?"

Yesterday- Wed. we walked over here 50 li. Li Sing is a large village in a large fertile valley given entirely to rice and tea oil. There are some 2000 families here. The interest in the Gospel began toward the end of 1901 when a man from Gong Sa province who knew a little about the truth came over and told what he knew to an old man here whose heart was ripe for receiving it. This old man went to Giong Ming Gaing early last year 1902 and there heard more of the Truth. He became an earnest student of the Bible, went to Giong Ming G. in the Summer often to hear the Gospel from the Theol. Student was there in the Summer; made his house here at Li Sing a place of prayer, led meetings himself, and now has gathered about 20 persons who seem to be true learners. He refuses all who want to "use" the ch. and those whom I have seen here have the appearance of being sincere.

Yesterday on the road over here fr. G.M.G. we met no less than 1000 men and boys all carrying rice to G.M.G. for sale. This region eats only 1/5 of the yield. The road nearly all the way lay thro rice fields that looked very rich. If this people worked as Americans work they would be as wealthy. We had breakfast specially early this morning. It was just 10 o'clock when we finished.

At the prayermeeting last evening about 30 were present. Ieu led in prayer. All listened most attentively to the address on "prayer". Pastor Diong has not been perfectly well this week. He has been able to translate. When we reached Giong Ming, the Student Mong did the translating. The pastor cannot use this jabber. This gives him a rest however, and I hope he will be himself again.

I sent a letter to Foochow from G. Ming Tuesday evening. The P.O. has been established there about 2 months.

This place is probably farther from the track of what we call civilization than I have ever before stopped at. The people certainly are not very familiar with foreigners. All say no foreigner ever came here before. We found a man last night who said he had never heard the Gospel at all. This is somewhat rare now in the paths that the missionary ordinarily travels in this province.

This afternoon a terrific crowd gathered. To day is market day here and men are assembled from "Dan to Beersheba", and every one came up to see the "Tiger". Among them was a Hiong Sing, only a fraction of a degree below a Second Degree Graduate. He had looked at me, and was examining some books when I gave him the Mandarin Testament and pointed to Jn. III. He read the whole chap. Then pastor Diong came to the rescue and in all that man stood for three hours either reading or listening to the Truth. Then I spoke for nearly an hour to the crowd, and he sat to the end. No less than 150 persons were gathered in the house to (listen) see. The learners here are mostly old men. It seems to me a true work of the Spirit.

Friday, Jan. 9th at Li Sing. 9:30 a.m. waiting for the party to have their breakfast - no call yet.

Last evening the service was attended by about 100. The attention was perfect for fully one hour. The larger part stood- many of them on benches looking over the heads of those in front of them. Some 20 learners were present, about 10 of those offered prayer after the address.

Tuesday: Jan. 13th. 5:30 p.m. on the river about 50 li below Giong Ming Gaing.

Last Friday we walked from Li Sing back to G.M.G. We held a prayer meeting with about a dozen learners in the evening. Saturday I looked at the lot purchased for a church. It is 34 ft. by about 95, with a wall on all sides. It faces the street which runs along the river. It is only about 3 minutes walk from the city gate- outside the city. On one side the lot is an uninhabited house 14 ft. wide and about 65 ft. deep, a good wall all around it- price $50. On the other side is a piece of empty ground 14 ft. wide and about 60+ ft deep. Beyond this is a side street. The price of this empty land- $20. It is proposed to build a church the width of the ch. lot= 34 ft. by extending the side walls up. The size of the ch. 34 X 60 ft. To do this the properties mentioned above must be purchased. I advised them to purchase both pieces but to build only 1/3 of the ch. now.= one 20 ft. section+ the front section. This will make a building 34 X 20 for them- sufficient for their present needs, and it can be added to as they grow and are able to enlarge.

I called on the Magistrate after consulting with the pastor and with the preacher Uong. I told him (1) the church was established here to urge men to worship the true God. (2) Bad men had crept in or were using the name of the church for selfish purposes which was against our rules, practice and desire. I wished him to understand that we had nothing to do with law-cases. (3) According to the treaties Chinese subjects were free to join the Christian ch. and they should be exempt from idolatrous fees.

Sat. evening we had another prayer meeting with a dozen or so learners. Sunday pastor Diong preached in the morning and I spoke in the afternoon and again in the evening.

Yesterday I was about to take the boat which I had trusted the brother in law of Uong to engage to take me to Foochow for $22, when I learned that there were 8 loads of rice on it. I finally got 3 loads taken off and my cook had 3 put on. So we started at noon with one boatman- the pastor, cook and myself. We struck 3 or four rocks before tying up for the night and made about 30 li. This morning we started at 7 o'clock and soon struck two rocks which drove us up shore for repairs. It began to rain Monday a.m. and about 11 a.m. To day the wind became very high and it rained very hard, so we were forced to tie up at 11:30. I looked for my valise wh. contained $8.00 and this diary and my dressing outfit, but it was not on board. I remembered it was put off while the boat was being repaired. The boatman went back for it and returned at 5:30 p.m. So here we are with an old leaky boat with 80 lbs of rice on it, a poor opium smoker for a boatman, and the wind howling furiously- about 60 out of 220 li to Ciong Loh traversed. But God knows what is best, and the sun will shine again sometime- both actually and metaphorically. We are all well and have enough to eat and to wear and can keep dry.

Wednesday, Jan. 14 – p.m.

Last night we all worked to plug up the leaks until 8:30 when we took “refreshment” and retired. This a.m. at 9:30 we were ready to start. I started to walk just before the boat swung into the stream. About 10 rods down stream fr. where we lay over night, another bump was heard, and I could hear pastor Diong shout to the boatman to pull for the shore. He got ashore on the opposite bank from me. I could throw a stone and hit the boat- but I was far away. As I stood watching the three men bail, and meditating -such conditions are favorable to meditation- I saw a “squadron” coming down the rapids, and shouted to the pastor to hail them for a ride. The head boat “bit” at the first call, and soon we left the “poor old stranded wreck” and took passage on a fleet of new boats manned by Ming Chiongites. They are loaded with rice so we are distributed on 6 of the 11 boats. The $10 p'd to the poor man we left will help his family I trust. I pay $22 to go to Foochow on these boats. The sun shines metaphorically – and it does not rain. The rain has raised the water so it is just right to go down river. Good blessings are too numerous to recount. They are indeed new every morning and fresh every evening.

Friday a.m. 10:30- within 20 li of Ciong Loh- all happy.

Ciong Loh- Friday, Jan. 16th 4 p.m.

We are here at last all well and happy. But it took us 5 days instead of 2 as we planned when at Shaowu. From all I can learn one must expect to be from 3 to 4 days en route between Giong Ming Gaing and here. With a flood and all conditions the most favorable 2 days are sufficient. This week Tues. no boats ran, owing to cold, wind and rain.

Saturday, Jan. 17th 10:30 a.m. 50 li below C.L.

This morning we were off at 5:30 hoping to make Iong Kau to night.

Last evening pastor Diong and I took supper with the C.L. preacher. It was good after living on boat fare for a week. We held a service with about 20 learners, - the preacher has no easy task to instruct these men in Christian Truth. Many of them are Canton men- opium dealers. The chapel is in a bad place and is not a good place in which to live. There is a large, clean house only 40 ft. back from the main street, which can be rented for $4 per month. It would be good economy to take it and move the chapel.

The scenery from Giong Ming Gaing for the first 200 li of the 300 li to Ciong Loh is grand, magnificent. Part of the way the river dashes furiously down a gorge only a few rods wide at the bottom and with the mountains high on each side. An uninitiated American would declare that no boat could live to go down. But the men allowed us to ride with the exception of about 5 li. It was a sight never to be forgotten to see the boats dash down this stretch. Many boats go to pieces here and many men are never seen afterward. One of our boats was sent up on the ledge and hung for just an instant. Then came back all right. Another broke the front steering oar and struck but came thro with only a bruise and a little water. It is not to be wondered at that these superstitious people have built a temple on the bank here, and that the crews send one of the men to beg the idols to protect them as they descend.

We owe something to Dr. Sites for our ride down on these. The man who led the others in his willingness to take us is very near the Kingdom of God. He knows much of Dr. Sites from his friends in Ming Chiong, and cannot find words to express his esteem of Dr. Sites. I found a copy of Luke's Gospel on his boat which he had been reading. He is pleased to talk about the Truth, and shows us every respect, as representatives of Christ.

To day the sun shines brightly and the heavy white frost of last night has all disappeared. The men have put away their fire baskets and are laying off their clothes. We are going very peacefully down the river.

Sunday, 1 p.m. Jan. 18th at Iong Kau

We reached here at 6 o'clock last evening. Pastor Diong and I lunched at Delmonico's on Broadway. Our "Squadron" anchored for Tiffin yesterday at noon. Shortly after we met 4 large Dang Sa boats just starting up a rapid. Only the 4 head boats of our "Squadron" got down this rapid ahead of the 4 large boats. The other 7 boats had to wait. This hindered them just enough so they did not make the rapid just above Iong Kau. But on the 4 boats that reach I.K. were the pastor, myself and my bedding and what little food I had left. The cook was caught above the rapid and came this morning. It was only what many people term "chance" that it was so fortunate. I prefer to call it the design of Providence. I am staying at the old chapel.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I have just finished my breakfast. The church member with whom we are staying has just come to call the pastor who is with me, and my cook to breakfast. So while they sat I have the first few minutes of leisure for a long time. I expect you would smile or else simply look disgusted if you were to visit me in any present abode. It makes me think much of our old corn house- the one that used to be over the old wood shed house. Here are the utensils for rice farming and for drying the rice, saw horses, baskets, sieves, a lot of old boards and other lumber, an old book case and a lot of old books. The beams are so low that I have been forcibly reminded of their presence several times. There is fully as much dirt on the floors as was ever on our corn house floor. The windows are of board and slide. This is much the description of my domicile night before last also.

While dressing this morning two boys and two or more men acted as supervisors. The operation of shaving was especially interesting to the supervisors. It is also much fun to watch the foreigner eat. But one gets used to living under eyes here and the people are drawn to one or repelled much by the little things that they see. If you allow [them] to ask the name of all your foods, and to look at and feel of all your clothes and if you politely tell them the prices of everything about you they are then ready to hear you tell them of Jesus and his love.

12:50 at Ciong Sioh Hu 6 miles from Huo Bang.

We make a short trip today. There is no chapel in either of these places, - only 5 members at Huo Bang, and only one family here. We stay with this family.

There is a custom all thro this region that we do not have in Foochow i.e. once in five days in each town of any size there is a "market day" when the farmers and any one from all about bring things of all descriptions to sell. It makes it very lively on that day. I judge the time is arranged that sellers can go from one town to another and find a market on each successive day until their wares or produce are disposed of.

Thus far one trip had been a very pleasant one for me, - every day has been full. I have had to see the schools and hospital and churches and building at Shaowu city as I could put it in a little at a time between the tours out from Shaowu itself.

You will have the reading of my diary from day to day which will give you a fair idea of the way in which my time has been spent.

When you receive this you will not send any more letters to Foochow. We have made no arrangement about the home trip yet, - except that I plan to go to Ing Hok the first week in Feb. and pack off for home as soon after returning from Ing Hok as possible.

A nice letter from Flora reached me at Shaowu a few days before I left.

With Love to all

Will.

My own Dearest Ones,-

Your presents and letters up to Dec. 12 reached me here this evening at 9:30. I shall hardly have a more unique New Years present. - I am sending this back by the man tomorrow hoping he may reach Shaowu tomorrow evening for the mail leaves there Sat. a.m.

It is 10:30 and I must rise in the morning breakfast with a ch. member and walk 15 miles so- both a huge thank you - with many prayers daily for you all- with much thanksgiving to God for keeping you all well.

This photo was probably taken around 1902. It appears to be a group of schoolchildren. I believe that Gould is the boy in the front row, seated, third from the left and Phebe may be the girl who is fifth from the left, also in the front row. This photo may have actually been taken in the U.S. in 1903 while the Beards were on furlough for a year.

THE MISSIONARY HERALD

THE failure and ineffectiveness of the church in her efforts to evangelize Europe or England are to be sought in her forgetfulness of her main function, which is to evangelize the world. The tone and spirit engendered by the great renunciation of the primary object of the church degenerate into an inability to do what seems to be her humblest work. The first work of the church, the indispensable preliminary to all efficiency, is to resume the march, to advance the banners, to get the host in motion, to recover the watchword. If we would have the church effective for her simplest work, she must be true to her foremost work. She must inscribe on her ensigns, and write in her heart, the old word of God, "Speak unto her that she go forward." What is called the missionary enterprise must be frankly and enthusiastically avowed to be her primary concern. And whether by church we mean the whole body of the faithful throughout the world, or the local society of Christians in any given place, the church must be acknowledged to exist in the first instance simply to pass on the message of the redemption to the peoples that have not known.

..has been to dampen the ardor of many of those who professed to be learned cannot however permanently injure the work. It is an interesting fact that three men who were learners here 19 years ago when the mission had work here, are still interested in the Truth and at once on the reopening of the work attached themselves to the chapel.

Only one Quarterly Meeting was held during the year. This was in May. The drought was very severe. The heathen had raged and implored their idols for two weeks to send rain. At the May meeting all the preachers agreed to pray for rain at the different chapels the next Sunday and urge the church members throughout the field to do the same. On the next day- Monday- rain fell in torrents in the lower part of the field, and on the following days rain fell plentifully in all parts.

Owing to the Shaowu trip I did not visit the outlying churches during the fall. I attended the Annual Meeting of the station held the first week of the Chinese New Year, - Feb. 1903. This was purposely thus late that I might present after returning from Shaowu.

The residence of Mr. Smith in the station has been of much advantage to the work of great assistance to me personally during the year.

The Trip through the Shaowu Field.

[some words off the page of copy]

The reasons for the trip were (1) Dr. Walker's physician stated before the mission in Sept. 1902 that Dr. Walker ought not to do more country touring. (2) Dr. Walker is the only evangelistic missionary in the Shaowu station, hence if he could not tour this work would be undone unless someone could go from Foochow. (3) There was no unsurmountable obstacle to keep me from doing this work. (4) After weighing the need for another tour thro the Ing Hok field as compared with this tour in Shaowu, it seemed to me Shaowu's need was more .. because Ing Hok had a man on the ground who could do the work du...part of 1903, while the man to tour in Shaowu was not even promised... Board. Hence I volunteered to make the tour before returning to American on ...and was appointed by the mission to visit the country stations of the Shaowu... with Pastor Diong and a preacher from Shaowu as interpreters.

Starting from Foochow Nov. 22nd 1902, I was able to visit all the more important centers of work in the station except one- 28 in all- and reach home ..1903 just before the close of the Chinese Year. It was necessary to use the ...Dialect everywhere, which was translated into at least five other dialects in...parts of the field, by as many different men. Pastors Ieu and Diong however...of the translating. 55 addresses were made. I was fortunately able to be pre...Shaowu Annual Meeting. With exception of 7 days spent in Shaowu- ..Annual Meeting- all the time 63 days was utilized in touring in the Impressions:-

(1) Shaowu is a field of magnificent distances, practically 200 long and 100 miles wide, but admirable adapted to touring. The Min river and its Shaowu branch flow for nearly 200 navigable miles thro the field. Altho the country is mountainous, the roads wind thro the valleys so that very little hard climbing is necessary.

(2) The field is comparatively well dotted with chapels. While on the tour only one night was spent in a Chinese inn. For as large a field and considering the age of the work in this station, this is a remarkable fact, and still more remarkable because,-

(3) A very large proportion of the chapels are owned by the mission and have been built or purchased by the people themselves. I visited no less than 16 villages in which the chapel was owned by the mission. The advantage of this is two-fold- 1. It gives the impression of permanency to the work. 2. It materially decreases the yearly expenditure of mission and private funds for chapel rents ...

...??shers to congregations already waiting, and often with a chapel furnished ready ..the work. I found a large, attentive and appreciative audience in every chapel...visited- often with notice of only a few hours.

(5) The station has a strong band of Chinese workers. Pastors Ieu and Diong ...easily stand at the head of this band. Pastor Gang is quieter and less forceful but he has the respect and confidence of all, and is pastor of a large and important district. Other preachers have had experience and have proven themselves worthy to be ordained as soon as the congregations are ready to support them. Several of these workers are graduates of the First Degree. This elevates the church in the Chinese mind, and draws to it the better element of the people.

(6) This band of Chinese workers need more foreign assistance. No one realizes this more than do these men themselves. Pastors Ieu and Diong repeatedly said to me "We must have the assistance of foreigners." It is with much pleasure that I learned on my return from the tour that the Prudential Committee had promised one young man. But nothing must deter them from sending two and at the earliest possible date. The work in the country chapels and churches is just now in a critical stage. The numbers of learners is everywhere large. Among them many do not know the true object of the church. They are no looking for material benefits as were the thousands of Christ's followers, yet they have forsaken their idols and are in the way to receive and accept the true Gospel. It is difficult to conceive of a more attractive field of labor for two young men- then this Shaowu station offers now.

(7) The people have done nobly in preparing their own church buildings. They could profitably give more toward the support of their preachers.

(8) There is a serious lack of day schools in most parts of the field. Unless this is soon remedied the work of the station in all its departments will suffer.

These last two paragraphs i.e. (7) and (8) cannot be remedied with the present staff of foreign workers. They must have reinforcements.

I have said nothing of the education and medical work because I was sent specially to visit the churches and chapels. Both these branches of work are in a healthy condition and are rapidly growing.

Foochow, Jan. 9", '03

Dear ones in the Shelton home,

Willard probably wrote you in his last letter that he was about to start on a trip to the Shaowu field 250 miles up the river.

He has written a journal letter which he requested me to let the members of the mission read and then send to you.

It has taken a long time to circulate it; indeed I really ought not to have kept you home friends waiting so long for his letter but have been so busy since he left I hardly realized it had been so long.

Dorothy is just recovering from a light attack of capillary bronchitis and is getting along well. Otherwise we are all well except that we have all had the prevalent "cold". There is a great deal of illness about here just now.

I hope you are all keeping well this winter.

It would be a pleasure to me to write more if my eyes were strong enough to bear the strain but I still have to exercise care in the use of them.

With love to all,

Yours Sincerely

Ellen.

Foochow, Jan 11", '03

Dear ones in the Shelton Home,

I am sending you herewith five leaves of Will's diary and a letter to you which he enclosed in his last letter to me with the request that I mail it. Between these there are about eight more pages of the diary which are still in circulation here among the missionaries. I am sorry they did not return in time for this mail.

We are beginning to look for Will home now. Altho I do not really expect him for three days yet, still I should not be surprised to see him walk in any hour now. We have never been separated so long before since our marriage and it has indeed seemed a long time. It has been such a comfort to receive a letter from him about once in six days during the whole trip. When we first came to China this could not have been, as there were no post-offices under foreign control, so far inland at that time and a native mail went only once in ten days and accommodated fewer towns than the foreign P.O does now.

Dorothy is much better now and all the children are nearly recovered from the colds they had when I wrote you last.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Hodous and I entertain the young men in the Theological Seminary at a dinner given at the close of the year. We have no class to graduate this year and the dinner this evening takes the place of the class dinner we usually give each year.

We are expecting Mr. Hubbard's people will arrive in a few weeks.

We were glad to receive Flora's good letter a few weeks ago; I sent it to Will with one of mine.

With love to all

Yours Very Cordially

Ellen L. K. Beard

Foochow, Jan 23/03

Our dear home friends,

I enclose herewith pages 31-37 of Will's diary of his trip through the Shaowu field. I think I have not sent pages 17-31 but am not certain. I think they (our friends here) have not returned them to me yet. Will forward them as soon as they return.

Will you kindly send the diary to my home after all your friends have seen it.

I am at this writing momentarily expecting Will home. I received a telegram yesterday at 3 o'clock from Cui Kau, at the foot of the rapids, saying "Rapids passed safely Wednesday noon." I was glad to receive this as it had already taken him several days longer than he expected to make the homeward trip and I was a trifle anxious. I began to look for him last Friday; but he is all through with the dangerous part of the journey now and I believe is almost here. Gould and Phebe and Geraldine have their firecrackers all ready to welcome papa.

Yours with love

Ellen.

American Board Mission.

Foochow, China, Jan. 25th 1903.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It has been over two months since I have written you from my desk in this study. You have seen my diary copy I hope regularly, and I have written one letter to you from some country chapel in the Shaowu field. Ellen I think has also written you. I returned from the Shaowu trip this last Thursday afternoon. It was a trip full of interest, such as I may hardly hope to ever repeat. It is by no means often that a missionary in China is privileged to spend two months in consecutive travel in one station visiting a Christian Church nearly every day. From my diary you will see that my work was 1st physical= walking from 6 to 30 miles a day, and 2nd mental and spiritual= preaching from one to four times a day. I have walked 1140 li or about 400 miles. I have ridden in a boat 1500 li or 500 miles. I started from Foochow Nov. 21st and reached home Jan. 22nd, 1903. Fifty one nights were spent in chapels and on boats or in a native inn, - only one night in the inn. This shows how well dotted with chapels the field is. I was quite well during the entire trip. About two thirds of the time I lived on Chinese food. One day only I took three meals at the Chinese table. Many days I ate two meals with the Chinese and the other meal from my basket. Flora will want to know if I got hold of any rats or puppy dogs. I think not, altho I saw many nicely cooked rats and the Chinese relished them. I preferred duck or chicken or pork. A dog in Shaowu died from poison intended for rats. Miss Walker saw the people preparing it for food, reported the case to Dr. Bliss and he tried his best to make the family desist from eating the dog. I did not learn the result.

Did I write you of the unique New Years evening? I was in a city some 30 miles from Shaowu. The Foochow messenger boat had been expected on Sat. Dec. 27th. It did not arrive. I had planned to start from Shaowu Monday Dec. 29th to spend a week and a half visiting the churches South and West from Shaowu, then take a boat on another branch of the river for home. This plan I could not change. The boat did not arrive at Shaowu till Wednesday Dec. 31st. So Dr. Bliss sent a man early Thursday (Jan 1) morning to take 30 miles to me a lot of Christmas presents. All my presents from Foochow came by him and alone in my Chinese bed room I had my own Christmas tree on New Years night. I had to leave one of my cotton mattresses there to make up for the extra weight in the load of the Christmas things.

The weather after Dec. 13th was very cold. Possibly I never suffered more from the cold than Dec. 13-15. I was in the country north of Shaowu without my winter woollens. Ice was found Dec. 14th. My room was ventilated thro an open space 3 X 12 ft. on one side and a smaller space on the other side. Sunday, Jan. 4th we saw snow about 3 in. deep. The country was beautiful. The snow did not all melt till the next Thursday. It took grit to shave with cold water in the Sunday morning Jan. 4th. But the only cold I suffered from on the trip was while I was at Shaowu in a foreign house with a fire. Living without a fire, practically in the open air, seemed to agree with me.

By far the most interesting part of the travelling came at the last of the trip. I took a boat for home about 800 li or 275 miles from Foochow, quite near the Kiong Si province boundary. Monday Jan 12th. This boat proved bad and the boatman worse. After bumping into several rocks as we tried to shoot the rapids, the old boat leaked faster than we could bail and we left her and took passage on a fleet of 11 boats loaded with rice. On these we arrived safely at Iong Kau, where the rice was sold and then on one I came to Foochow. The scenery up near the source of this river is grand mountains, gorges, rocks, boulders, mountain torrents, wild forests, wild ducks, together with danger accompanying to rushing down the rapids in the boats, - just grazing this rock, which it struck would send you to the bottom, leave not a moment to become dull. The rocks on the sides of the river are decorated with boats of all sizes that have struck, and smashed and after their cargo has been removed, have been left as reminders of the danger. Only one rapid was so bad the boatman made us walk around while they took the boats down.

Dorothy had been quite ill the first week in Jan. with a severe cold and sore throat. Ellen did not go to bed for six nights. She was better before I knew of it and all well when I reached home. Otherwise all have been well since I left in Nov.

We want to take passage on a German Mail S.S. leaving Hong Kong Mar. 4th. But I am afraid she is full. We shall go as soon after Mar. 1st as possible. So you will write no more letters after receiving this- if you have not already stopped.

I must close now with lots of love from all

Will.

[This letter dated Feb. 1, 1903 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the folks at home. He tells of the plans for the family to return to begin their trip back home to the U.S. in March of 1903. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow Feb. 1st 1903

Dear Folks at Home:-

We have received and read two letters from you since the middle of Jan. These told us that another member was added to Oliver's family. Whether it was a boy or girl we do not know. They also told us about Uncle Charlie's condition and about Edith's wedding. Also that Flora was talking of meeting us at the steamer if we come to New York. Some one else I believe was talking of meeting us also.

The most important part of this letter is to tell you of our plans. We have engaged passage on the German Lloyd S.S. "Preussen" booked to sail from Hong Kong March 4th. As yet I cannot find anything definite about the Atlantic passage. It will probably be on a S.S. of the same line. And as we buy tickets from Hong Kong to South Hampton, it will probably be a German Lloyd S.S. from Southampton to New York arriving sometime about April 10th in July.

Now my plan is to write you and the Putnam friends the name of S.S. on which we land in N.Y. if time allows and it is possible. The agents have written to Hong Kong for this information. If however we can not obtain definite information- or if there should be a change I will cable to Putnam from Southampton as follows

Preussen= or name of S.S.

This makes four words. Mr. Kinney will let Flora and the others – all know the steamer name. I will also write them to obtain a German Lloyd time table so you can tell the date of arrival in New York.

We plan to go first to the Century Farm for a few days, then to Putnam, and Ellen wants to live near New Britain.

These days are by no means without their duties and demands for all of us. As yet we have done but little packing for home. Last night Ellen and I made a list of the articles we wanted to see and we hope to get this out of the way this next week. Henry Lacy, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy of the M.E. Mission expects to go with us as far as London. Mr. and Mrs. Bland and their children and Miss Bell of the Church Missionary Society are booked for the “Preussen” to go to London. So if all goes well we shall not be lonely.

Tomorrow morning I plan to start for Ing Hok to be gone until Saturday. We will hold a Quarterly Meeting with the workers in that field, and the preacher at Ing Hok City is to be ordained as pastor. It has rained every day this last week, and rains now. There is a flood in the river- not a large one- so I may have fun.

We are all well, and so busy that the thought of going home does not upset us.

With Love to all

Will.

Foochow, China

Feb. 15th 1903.

Dear Folks at Home:-

A week ago I wrote you of our plans for home going. Lest that letter should have gone astray I will just briefly outline them again. We are booked for the German Mail Steam Ship “Preussen” sailing from Hong Kong March 4th. Since writing I have learned that we cannot arrange here for our Atlantic passage. So we will cable from Southampton or London as soon as our arrangements are made as follows:

Kinney

Putnam

Conn.

(Name of Steamer)

The steamer will probably be one of the German Mail Ships which I think start from Hamburg. Mr. Kinney will let you know at once, and you can write Flora- or better send her address to him on receipt of this.

Henry Lacy- second son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy of the M.E. Mission is to go with us and in our care. Mr. and Mrs. Bland, three children and Miss Bell are booked for the same steamer.

The days fly past very rapidly. I am attaining some success in putting the work over into the care of Mr. Smith and Mr. Hodous. I now have no more responsibility for any of the work. But one cannot refuse to be consulted which is after all an honor and a pleasure. Then one must meet innumerable Chinese and tell them over and over again that the date of sailing is not determined, and then tell them the approximate date, and still listen while they tell him that they are preparing a present for him. Then when a feast or a dinner has been all prepared we have not yet refused to go. Tomorrow we are to have the two pastors, their wives and Ming Uong and his wife to dinner. This we agree is the last of our social duties.

I have packed five boxes of goods- nearly all things that we were using here in the house, but which will be curios when we reach home. Most of our more bulky furniture we have sold already. What is not sold we can stack in the loft of this house I think. Two $\frac{3}{4}$ beds with mattresses, and two bureaus and a washstand are about all that are left now. Much time is consumed in receiving presents from Chinese and in saying good bye or planning to say good bye with them.

I must close now,- possibly I may write once more before leaving- I presume a letter addressed Willard L. Beard Passenger German Mail S.S., “Preussen” Southampton, England would find us there

With lots of Love to all

Will

Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]*

Foochow, China,
Feb. 22nd 1903.

Dear folks at home:-

We are counting the time by hours when we shall start for home. If I have said a bai ek a-dau se-deng ngie-huo once in the past week I have said it one hundred times. The meaning of the above is – next Monday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon from Jardine and Matheson's, that is tomorrow at 4 p.m. we expect to take the "Haitan" for Hong Kong.

The past week has been more than full of packing and receiving presents and saying good bye to friends of three nationalities – Chinese, English and Americans. The packing has been seriously interfered with by the presents with which we have been fairly loaded down. Eight large silk or cloth banners have come in. Paper scrolls I cannot now count. Some eight or ten little boxes of tea. Gould has had given to him a priests suit, a common suit and an officials suit, beside hats and shoes and an umbrella and a rain suit. I have a suit except shoes. We have boxes of fruit and cakes sufficient to keep us from starving for some time.

Yesterday the new church at An Long Dei was dedicated. I attended in the afternoon and sat on the platform next to a military official. The people have a nice church now 30 X 40 ft. two stories high. The lower used for an audience room. The upper for residence and day school.

Ellen went to Ha Puo Ga to church this morning, and as Ming Uong's father was not well, he himself preached. After the service Ming Uong spoke a little of Ellen's work and the near departure. To quote Ellen's words "It completely broke me up." I judge tears flowed quite freely throughout the congregation. And the church was full. It will not be an easy matter to say good bye tomorrow, if it should be a pleasant day. The landing at Jardine and Matheson's will see a big crowd. Mr. and Mrs. Bland and Miss Bell will be the center of a large crowd of Chinese as they take the launch and if all go who have spoken of going there will be not less than 200 to see us off. I almost wish it would rain so as to make the confusion less, and the commotion less. One cannot help from having a feeling of aversion for these farewells. My work here in Foochow has been so many sided and has extended over so large a field that I had not realized how attached I had become to the Chinese with who and among whom we have been working.

Well this is the last letter that you will have from us, from Foochow for a long time, and I trust it is the last we shall have occasion to write you before seeing you. We have paid for tickets to Hong Kong $120 mexicans. From Hong Kong to Southampton $1232 mexicans. This makes $1352 for the whole family from Foochow to Southampton. This exchanges for $540.80 gold.

Your last letter brought the news of Uncle Charlie's death. [Husband of Willard's mother's sister, Hannah Nichols.] What changes we shall find in that home! I think more changes there than anywhere else. We are all quite well.

Hoping to see you soon
With Love to all
Will

March. 5th 1903

My dear Mr. Beard:-

Sometime ago you wrote me asking to send pictures of a little group I took of the Pastor's family at Kin Chio Long. I have been a long time finding the film. It was so poor that I was afraid I had destroyed it. I found it the other day, however, and send you two prints, which I wish you would present to the good pastor with my compliments. I am very sorry that the picture was not more of a success. If I find the film I will enclose it.

I hope you and yours are very well. Please give my regards to Mrs. B.
You will doubtless be interested to know that I am moving my business into larger and more commodious quarters at #45 Shiangse Road

Yours very truly,
A J Osgoode

West Central Hotel
Southampton Row W.C.

[About April 8, 1903]

My Dear Mother:-

Your letter to London reached me yesterday just before we left the S.S. "Preussen". I was in a way prepared to hear that grandmother had gone [Phebe Ann Drew Nichols, born May 11, 1819, died March 23, 1903 of "Hypostatic Pneumonia and Bronchitis"], because your last letter to Foochow spoke of her not being well and it came over me then that possibly we should not see her again. I had cherished many fond hopes that she might see the children before she died. But this was not to be.

We were on the "Preussen" just five weeks and 19 hours, - the trip was a very comfortable one. With the exception of 15 hours the sea was smooth all the way- an exceptionally good trip. We were pleased with all of our treatment and in fact with everything. Part of the way- while we were near the equator the weather was hot- and it was Sunday when we stopped at Aden and at Colombo so no curios could be bought- otherwise we could hardly complain with justice.

I have received a note from the Agent of the German Mail here in reply to my enquiry of yesterday that we have two cabins on the S.S. "Kaiser Wilhelm II" sailing next Wed. April 15th for New York. This is the largest steamer the company owns, and this is her maiden trip. She is nearly 700 ft. long 40,000 horse power engines, with a displacement of 20,000 tons. This is about 4 times the size of the "Preussen". On the "Preussen" it was our fortune to get the very best cabins really first class- altho we went as second cl. On the K.W. II again they give us best cabins in consideration of our having traveled by their line from China.

We are all well and happy, - left the "Preussen" yesterday at 7 a.m. at Southampton. Arrived at London about 11 a.m. We found a nice hotel with no trouble and all business thus far has been nicely facilitated. We are here during the Easter season so stores are mostly closed. I was fortunate in getting in just in season to find the Bank not closed- for a Bank holiday locks all money tight in England, and this Bank holiday holds till next Tues. morning.

I cannot tell about the arrival of the steamer in New York. As soon as I have the tickets - tomorrow- I will cable Mr. Kinney as I wrote from Foochow, and anyone can find from the Agents of the North German Lloyd in N.Y. the date and later the hour of arrival of the steamer.

With lots of love to all from all

Will

Foochow, June 10, 1903.

My dear Beard,

Undoubtedly you are convinced that I am an old chump by this time. After receiving so many good letters from you to treat you as I have is shameful, but I am overhead in the work.

The mission decided that you should come back and we want you to come. Of course the final decision of the question is left with you. You are to decide whether you will enter the work or not. The mission cannot decide, nor do I see how the Board at home can settle the matter. From the standpoint of both these bodies, they can only say that you shall do work in which they are interested. Or I should say that they want you to do work in which they are interested. Money compensation from the Y.M.C.A. does not cut any figure whatever. The resolutions passed when Brockman was here simply say all over again in other words what we said last year when the question came up.

Now as to the Seminary- It is to go into the city and the building be located on land below Lonconlin Hall. The site is not bad, but rather removed from the church and on the outskirts of things. The boys are doing fair work. Nieng Yang is doing very well.

There is nothing new about the work- We do the same things in different ways. Next week the preachers will have a quarterly meeting. I trust that they will become interested in the study of Mark. I prepared an outline of the same which I shall give to each of them. Daik Kong's wife died a short time ago, probably cholera. The monthly C.E. union service continues with unabated interest. The Au Ciu church was repainted recently and cleaned up. The members paid 43 of the money.

Dr. Kinnear purchased the row of houses behind your residence for 1530 thousand cash. He is also negotiating for the temple. Probably he will get it. The hospital will probably receive its money soon. Some one died in West Hartford- the heirs of the person are willing to contribute about $5000 to a memorial in honor of the deceased. I am writing this on my lap. Don't mind the crooked lines. As you know in transferring the property to the hospital there was some loss on the exchange. A committee decided that this loss be shared equally by the hospital and seminary.

Yesterday I took Anna and Jerome up the mountain. Jerome does not think much of Chinese scenery. He slept the whole way. I shall stay down until after the quarterly meeting. I shall board with Miss Garretson.

Miss Newton wrote you about Ming Uong. I do not know whether we can keep him in the mission. He does not want to go to the city. Some suggest that we make him Pastor of Geu Cio Dong, but that has its difficulties. I advised Miss Newton to try to get him for her school.

I am rejoicing now at the prospect of mangoes on the mountain. We shall leave plenty of them this year seeing you are not here. Other fruit is late. Strawberries just coming in. Bi-bas just passed their prime. Oranges all gone.

Jerome is doing well. He is a great comfort to us and especially to Anna. She does not mind so much now when I am gone a whole day at a time or longer. But you ought to see Helen. She is a bright girl laughing and playful, a little witch. She made profuse advances to Jerome, but some way he did not appreciate her kindness. Give my love to all. How we enjoyed all your letters. Several must have been lost judging from the pages. Yours truthfully,

My dear Beard,

Enclosed find a letter from Si Du. It is hot here now. A week or so ago it was 94 degrees. Mrs. H. went to the mountain June 9th. Unfortunately it rained for a week after that time. The Seminary exams are over. We marked the boys and handed to each one his report and also posted the names of the highest. They did well. Mr. Peet was over one day and was surprised and pleased. Mr. Gardner came over for a short time. Both pastors attended. The boys did first rate.

Next fall we shall study Romans, Theology, Seu Cu Go, N.T. [New Testament], nineteenth century, Cu Ging church hist., Co Diong, Missionary Pioneers, Mandarin, letter writing, Gu Ung. In preaching U Go and Nieng Gang did very well. They had enough practice being only two of them.

The day schools are all examined. The school at the Upper Bridge is perhaps the best. The boys there pick the classics and have a fair understanding of the N. T. and the Christian books. They also studied arithmetic. Yesterday I examined four candidates at Ciu Mui and admitted none. I told you before that the preacher gave me so much trouble that I decided to have an examination there. The time before we examined six and decided not to admit any. I have hope for the church still. They showed a very good spirit when they were told that none of those examined were fit for church membership. I hope that we can admit somebody the next time, for I do not know how long they can endure the strain.

Did you know that the Mission is going to publish a paper called the Foochow Messenger, Dr. Whitney editor? I'll send you a copy when it appears.

I am going to the mountain tomorrow. We shall occupy Dr. Bliss' cottage.

Ponto is doing very well. The goat is still growing thin on the grass. The cat is a good friend. We are taking care of the pets as well as we can.

I'll write more when I get to the mountain.

My love to all.

L. Hodous

Some of the children may be Ellen's and others may be some of her nieces and nephews. Probably summer of 1904.

[July 2, 1904]

Dear folks at home:-

This is supposed to be July 2nd by the calendar but to us there is no such a thing as time. Each day has been in eventless stretch of blissful nothingness as far as mundane affairs are concerned but filled to the brim with the wonders of the boundless earth and sky. So far we have seen nothing but calmness and beauty in the waves of old ocean. The sunset last night was the most wonderful picture I ever saw. It dropped a great ball of gold into the waves and left its light on the clouds for hours after. So far we have just dreamed the hours away. The heat has been so oppressive that no one has felt like enduring the exertion needed to even think. We actually had a case of sunstroke in the steerage quarters. Today the wind is northeast and people seem more ambitious. The boat is so filled with people that the impression you would receive of us would be that we were an excursion party headed for a day's pleasure. I can't tell you of the pleasure the sea has given me. If it were the whole of my trip I should feel repaid.

There are several people aboard who look quite interesting. There are more than a dozen ministers here and school teachers predominate everywhere. Prof. W.G Frost is on board and I am trying to get up courage to ask him if he was Will's professor in Oberlin. Several Harvard boys are having several larks on board, and we are all having a quiet good time. I have met Mrs. Peck and had a nice long talk with her while her son was away- sleeping, I guess. He seemed very tired the first day or two out but yesterday he came around for a nice long talk with me. His mother told me that they are to return on the same steamer that we do. I shall be glad for it is very pleasant to have a home face here. So far I have not felt a qualm of sea sickness but am not yet ready to brag for we have had nothing but the most auspicious weather. We are just entering the Fogs off New Foundland banks and the horn has begun its intermittent blasts- which I do not thoroughly enjoy. The roll of the boat is so gentle that it is a joy and altogether the voyage will be one I shall always be glad for- even if I get sea sick. Some of the people have looked so forlorn and uncomfortable! [Remainder of the letter missing]

[This letter dated July 5, 1904 was written from the Aurania steamship in the Atlantic Ocean by Flora. She tells more about the trip and gives advice to brother, Stanley on his sore fingernail. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

[July 5, 1904]

Royal Mail Steamship "Aurania"
The Cunard Steamship Company Limited

A week ago today we were leaving New York. It has been a week never to be forgotten! Not a moment of feeling sea sick, and each moment full of pleasure! The weather has been most beautiful and everything so novel that the days of [have] flown as never before. We have just eaten, slept, dreamed, walked, and talked the time away. Mr. Peck and his mother have made the voyage much pleasanter for me. It has been nice to talk with some one whom I have known. The members of our party are proving well worth knowing and I think we shall enjoy our summer together. More than half of us are of New England stock so you see I am with my own neighbors.

We have the Marconi system of telegraphy on board so that we hear occasionally from the business world. Yesterday the news of the Armenian atrocities were published as also the proposed release of Mrs. Maybrick [In 1889, Florence Maybrick was sentenced to hang for the murder of her husband, James Maybrick, who was suspected to be Jack the Ripper. She was released from prison in 1904.]. We have sighted a ship nearly every day we have been out so when we see every one going to the side of the ship we go, too, for it is the event of the day and even Aunt Louise could go to the window to see who is passing without being any more curious than any one else.

Right here, I want to send a piece of advice to Stanley about his fingernail that had something wrong with it. One of our party had the same trouble in the winter, and it attacked one of her toes threatening to keep her home this summer. She went to a physician and he says it is the result of a run down condition. His series of boils has probably used up the strength more than he has been aware of. So please tell him to go to a doctor before he is further afflicted.

I shall be so glad to hear from you again. It seems an age now since I have heard from you. The moving of the baggage in the hold makes us begin to think that we are still in the world with you. Tomorrow we reach Queenstown and then this will go on its homeward way.

With all love to each and every one of you

I am

Yours sincerely-

[About July 10, 1904]

Dear folks at home:-

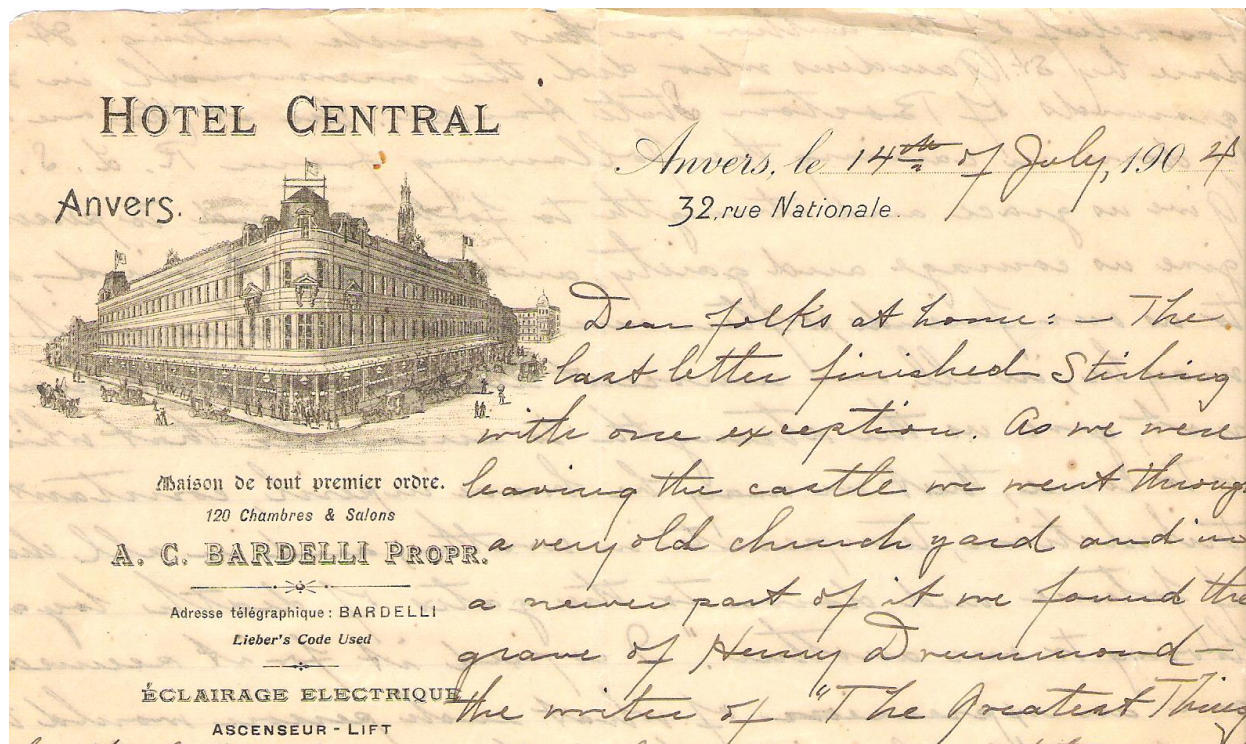

We have been on land three days and a half but it seems weeks. The only thing that makes us realize the brevity of the time is the incessant ringing in my head and the motion of the boat which have not left me yet. We reached Liverpool at the appointed hour in spite of five days of fog. It rose an hour or two before we reached Queenstown and gave us a view of the Emerald Isle that I shall never forget. The sun had not yet set- at 8 P.M. There lay the green landscape with all the shades there are, and back of it the clouds in their cold greys. In front was the ocean- a mass of green and blue. It was a picture in cool colors for over an hour then the sun broke out in the warmest, most glorious orange, and lighted up the scene and left its glow over all until nearly 10 P.M. The next morning we were out of sight of land again, but soon old England began to loom in view- or rather the island of Anglesea. It was not long before we were moving up the Mersey between two pilot boats- and then came the exciting moments of landing. Customs-House examinations was a mere form. Evidently the officer didn't know I was a prohibitionists daughter for the only question he asked me was "Have you any spirits, tobacco, or cigarettes?" We were met by a railway official who had reserved adjoining compartments for us in the train and after lunch in the Railway Station we started for our six hour ride to Glasgow. It was full of interesting things to see. The hedges, the homes, the farmers at work, the tunnels which we dashed through the mountains, the valleys, the flowers, the stations- everything was so new to us that we sat with our eyes glued toward the passing pantry. Everywhere were signs of thought and care and economy. Each little cottage and railway station had its bed of flowers so carefully tended. I have not seen a single garden that could boast of a weed. The houses are as neat as hands can make them in spite of what smoke and dampness has done. We reached Glasgow at 8:30 P.M. and went directly to our hotel- a tag of which I enclose especially for papa- as it was my first night in a hotel. It is named "Temperance Hotel" on the outside of the building. At a little after 9 P.M. we sauntered out for a little walk and when we went in at 10 P.M. it was not yet dark. These long days are most useful for tourists. The next morning we went to see George's Square- where there are 19 monuments- there we took a train to go through the lake region. We rode for an hour then we took a small steamer through Loch Lomond. The scenery was most charming. I wish I could make you to see the long green, unwooded slopes of the mountains covered with heath of heather as they come down so grandly to the water. The clouds were enveloping the tops but ever changing and occasionally leaving a patch of blue to enrich the scene. Then the Scotch mist settled around us and for a time shut us out from our charming view. We went to Inversnaid and there took a coach for Stronachlachar on Loch Katrine. The Scotch mist still followed us but no one minded- it's a part of the trip. The bits of scenery and the larger view of the lake and its surrounding mts. fills one with thoughts such as Scott has told us. Loch Katrine was everything I had imagined. It seemed as if Ellen's Isle might today be the scene of Scott's poem. It is still covered with trees and lonely with it's isolation from any inhabitants. Our little steamer took us all around it and there are a number of places where we could easily have missed seeing Ellen's little boat. Opposite, the hill is wooded and quite precipitous, so that we could see how easily one could descend unseen until he arrived at the water's edge. Oh, it was so charming, so lovely, as full of pactic [?] fancy that one could not help but feel the beauty of the place. At the foot of the lake we took the coach again going as far as the Trosachs [Trossachs] hotel where we stopped for lunch. Then came the famous ride through the Trosachs- a wooded glen- a most beautiful place with the trees arching over our heads and with occasional glimpses of the mts. and the lake. We crossed the "Brig o' Turk" a most picturesque bridge arching over the little stream- then came a long drive over the hills to Callandar. The mists had quite rolled away and we had a wide view of the surrounding landscape. Everything was green but the water and that was as blue as it could be.

Ben Ledi and Ben Venue showed themselves in all their beauty and the Devil's Pudding-stone stood out sharply against the sky. At Callandar we took the train for Stirling, where we visited our first Castle. It is situated quite similarly to Edinburgh castle but seems older and more in ruins. We crossed the drawbridges over the moat- now dry-and then began our sight seeing. We went into a little dark cell when we could easily imagine some one had spent many days in confinement. There was but one way in and out and that was over a trap door which covered a deep hole as black as pitch. We tried in vain to see to the bottom. Then we saw the places where some of the Scotch nobility had lived and perhaps been killed. The views were wonderful in their breadth and distance. At the back of the castle, down a perpendicular rock was a beautiful level valley where games used to be played and tournaments were held. Queen Mary was not allowed to leave the castle so an opening was made through which she could watch proceedings in the plain below. The draft which came through it would have given a modern woman neuralgia. We had lunch at a hotel and then took a train for Edinburgh- reaching here, about 10 P.M. We were ready to retire and sleep soundly.

Please keep my letters, for I shall rely on them largely for my diary of events. To-morrow we go to Abbots pond and spend the night at Melrose. There I hope to tell you about Edinburgh and my day at Scotts home and burial place.

Phebe's and Elizabeth's letters were most welcome last night.
Love to all- F.B. Sunday P.M.

Anvers, le 14th of July, 1904

Dear folks at home:-

The last letter finished Stirling with one exception. As were leaving the castle we went through a very old church yard and in a newer part of it we found the grave of Henry Drummond- the writer of "The Greatest Thing in the World". Then we had lunch and after meandering about a while we took our train for Edinburgh. I have quite fallen in love with Edinburgh. The city of itself is very beautiful and its historical associations are rich in numbers. We went to the castle first thing and it was a perfect delight to us that we could not go out once without seeing it. Its site is most commanding and the castle is full of interesting places. Here is the smallest chapel in the world, and right below it is a small burial ground for the pet dogs of the soldiers. Here I saw the Regalia of Scotland and the strong box in which it was formerly kept. On the way to the castle we passed a most beautiful monument to Scott- taller than any spire we have at home. We went into St. Gile's cathedral and saw the tablet which had just been put into the wall in honor of Robert Louis Stevenson. It is a bas-relief of the author on his couch writing. It is done by St. Gaudens who did the memorial in the grounds of Boston State House. On it (the one here) is done in carving the following from R.L.S. - "Give us grace and strength to forbear and to persevere, give us courage and gaiety, and the quiet mind, spare to us our friends, soften our enemies; bless us if it may be, in all our innocent endeavors, if it may not, give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we may be brave in peril, constant in tribulation, temperate in wrath; and in all changes of fortune and down to the gates of death loyal and loving to one another." I copied it for it secured to me an expression of what each person would like to do. After leaving the Cathedral we walked over the spot where the "Heart of Midlothian" was, and entered the Scottish Parliament. Here we saw forwards and back talking with one another as with their clients. We went down stairs and saw one of Scott's original manuscripts- most legibly written. He used best one side of the page reserving the other for corrections or changes. In the afternoon we went to the John Knox house and saw some interesting things in it which I think I will wait to tell you about. On the way we passed through a most interesting street- narrow and old- with openings called closes or wynds or courts. Here lived in centuries gone by some of the celebrated Scotch writers. The houses and stairways are all of stone so they are probably just as they were in days gone by. We passed on to the castle of Holy road the home of Queen Mary. Here we saw the room where she supped and where her husband Lord Dawley was murdered. The chapel is very much in ruins- the top being nearly all gone. It still shows much of its beauty. The Sunday I went to hear Hugh Black and heard a sermon which I hope I may never forget. We left Monday morning for Melrose. A carriage was waiting for us which took us directly to Abbotsford- Scott's home. On the way I had the delightful pleasure of hearing a skylark sing while it was flying high in the air. Scott's home is a most charming house, rather palace surrounded by gardens most wonderfully arranged. It is so hidden that one does not see it till ready to enter the door. It is full of most rare carvings, tapestries, and relics. They represent a lifetime of collecting and an immense sum of money. It is at present inhabited by his grand niece. We came back to Melrose and after dinner we spent the evening viewing the ruins of the abbey. It is one of the oldest abbeys in Scotland- if not the oldest. The architecture is most wonderful. No two of the large windows are alike, and the variety of carving is astonishing. It is so fine that in some places a straw can barely be put through. The window was made in the form of three crosses- another was the crown of thorns- another was made in hearts- another a rose window and many of designs arranged in threes to signify the trinity. The next morning (July 12.) we left for Durham. Here one had a reminder of home in the posters all about town for "Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show." None of us went for we had only three hours in which to see the cathedral. I am so glad that it was the first one I had even seen for in many respects it is the most wonderful. We had a guide to show us its interesting points who was thoroughly in love with his work and who knew what he was talking about. Here St. Cuthbert was buried also the Venerable Bede the Father of English History. The pillars were one of the wonders. They were arranged in pairs and no two pairs alike. We saw the cells where refractory monks were kept- the inner one was dank enough to suit me for it was totally dark. I climbed to the top of the highest tower and saw for miles in every direction. It is so late that I think I shall have to learn the tale of York and Antwerp for the next time. Ruth's and Phebe's letters were here tonight to quiet me which was most welcome. Very lovingly - Flora.

[This letter dated July 17, 1904 was written from Amsterdam by Flora to the folks at home. She tells about her travels in York and Antwerp. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Amsterdam, July 17, 1904.

Dear folks at home: - It is Sunday morning and as I cannot understand the language and am tired I am going to stay home and write to you. It is very warm this morning and has been for several days. We have been so tired that we have slept well each night in spite of the closeness of these hotels. The lack of the ventilation in the houses and cars here is quite shocking to the American demand for plenty of ventilation. The canals make the Dutch cities most picturesque but one does not enjoy a close view or the odor that comes from them. They seem to be used as sewers as well as a means of navigation, and how the people keep well from the diseases that such conditions would produce in America is more than I can tell. Well to go on from where I left off yesterday at York- We had perhaps the pleasantest place to stay in that we have yet come across. The ladies who keep it are ladies. Their house is well kept and full of pictures well chosen. They had the prettiest yard back of it- they call it a garden. Several years ago they were digging for a drain and unearthed a Roman sarcophagus with a skeleton in it. The skeleton was removed but the sarcophagus is still in the garden. York was once a Roman garrison and Botham was used as a burial place so that that part of the city is full of old Roman relics. We saw lots of them in the museum- among them a Roman lady's hair just as she had coiled it on her head with the pins still in it. It is a lovely brown. We took quite a walk along the walls which surround the city and were once the protection of it. They are now entirely a restoration of the old walls and are broken in several places by gateways. The next morning we attended service at the minster, and heard the English church litany, and the boy choir. Then we were taken around the church and saw some of its wonders. It is very long and the transepts wide. Here we saw some of the oldest and most wonderful stained glass in England. There was a great deal of ruby colored glass in it but it was especially remarkable because the sunlight in passing though it was still white as it touched the floor. In the chapter house was a modern window which through most expensive looked like a cheap thing by the side of those rare and wonderful old ones. In the south transept is the window known as the five sisters consisting of five very tall and narrow windows with most wonderful designs in them. In the east end is a still larger window each sash of which is over a yard square and made of a most intricate design. This window is 78 ft. tall by 33 ft wide so you can see that it is a wonder. I think we could set a dozen churches like Shelton in the minster and then not begin to fill it. The choir alone would hold as many people as Shelton church. The whole cathedral covers more than two acres of land, so you can imagine that it looks huge. On our way from York to Harwich we passed Lincoln and Ely cathedrals. They looked like huge elephants among a flock of sheep- in comparing the size of them with the surrounding buildings. They are all the more wonderful when one stops to think that they were built so long ago, when there were fewer people and when there was much less money. They are full of the most wonderful carvings, pictures and windows- all of which the present day productions are as nothing when compared or placed beside them.

We reached the steamer at 10 P.M. and went straight to our rooms and immediately to sleep. When we awoke next morning we were winding slowly up the Scheldt to Antwerp. The land was very low and level and we could look in most every direction and see sails- apparently moving through the land- but really on canals. We passed by strong fortifications on each side of the river- for Antwerp is said to be the strongest fortified city in the world. (One gets used to hearing such superlative expressions, for each place claims to be the most wonderful in its own specialty.) We saw some of the land fortifications later which helped to verify the assertion for there were double moats and double embankments with swinging bridges over the moats and soldiers pacing back and forth. In Antwerp we went first to the cathedral. Here we saw the first Catholic worship. Service was going on as we entered so that we saw peasants and other people coming and going and worshipping. We heard the organ and choir and the priests intoning the service and everywhere was the odor of burning incense. These cathedrals are so large that only a small portion of them is used for actual church service, so that we could walk about as much as we wished and still disturb no one. Here we saw the celebrated paintings by Rubens- The Elevation of the Cross and The Descent from the Cross. The latter thrills one with its likeness to death. There is another of his pictures over one of the altars- Assumption- which is much more pleasing to contemplate even if it is not so renowned. Later we went to the church of St. Jacques and saw the tomb of Rubens with its altar piece painted by himself, a few years before he died. In the afternoon we went to the palace of Plantin the first printer in Antwerp and here we saw quantities of old Flemish oak done in beautiful panels and carvings, and with some finely designed old hinges. The rooms in which the work was done and the old printing presses were very interesting. Then we went to the art gallery where were some of the finest works of Rubens, Rembrandt, and several others of the Flemish artists. Here we saw some famous paintings by Massys- the artist blacksmith- who painted for the love of a woman. After dinner we walked out to see the old guild houses and while there we heard the chimes in the cathedral. The music is so silvery.

This letter has become so long that the ink in my pen long ago gave out so that I think I will begin with "The Hague" next time.

Am keeping unusually well so that I am enjoying every minute. With all love-

I am

Yours lovingly-

F. Beard.

Dear folks at Home:-

I am taking time to send you just a word to let you know that we are here and are having a good time. The meeting of the Board at Grinnell was fully attended with overflow meetings two evenings. $1000 was raised at the meeting to send a son of Robert Hume to India, and $6000 raised to start a new mission at Bihe' Africa- to be known as the Mrs. Sydney Strong mission, in honor of the wife of Rev. Sydney Strong D.D. of Chicago. He and his wife you will remember went to Africa on the Deputation of the Board over a year ago. Mrs. Strong died just a year ago on the return voyage. The telegram announcing the death came while the Board was in session at Manchester N.H. last year.

At Geneseo, Ill. we stopped at 8:25 p.m. last Sat. and came on to Grinnell by the 2:05 p.m. train Monday, arriving at 3:00 p.m. 700 came from there to Des Moines on the special train.

At the meeting of the National Council two matters of prime importance are up and are now beginning to make themselves felt. (1) The sphere of the work of the Moderator (2) The Federation of the Home Societies.

Last evening we had a meeting of the Hartford Alumni. Some 70 were present. Ellen and I got home at 1:00 a.m. today. We are a little the worse for wear today.

Our Love to you all
Will

I sent you an advance a day or so ago, and I have asked Elbert to send you an account of the Board Meeting.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I was sorry that we missed father and one of the girls at Oliver's last Thursday. But trains as well as time and tide wait for no man- unless he can catch them by the tail as I did the Scranton train that day at Jersey City.

Ellen and I had a delightful time here, as Ellen has already told you. But you must not envy the rich. We do not know what trouble is!

This evening I speak before the 1st Presb. Ch. prayer meeting at 7:45. At 11:10 I plan to take the train for Buffalo. Sat. p.m. go to Cleveland- and spend the Sunday with Goddard. Monday go on to Oberlin and stay till the next Monday, Dec. 19 or so then on to Chicago and Geneseo, Ill. for Christmas.

I am enclosing some of the fragments of the dinner last evening. If any of you are at Oliver's or he is up, or if James can get one to him I should like him to have one.

With lots of love to all,

Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

I am dropping just a line to tell you that all is well. Sleigh bells are jingling merrily all day, all over Buffalo. It is not awful cold but a little biting. I am wondering how the little girls got along while at the Century Farm and how Ellen got along taking them back to Putnam and how she got along packing etc., etc. This evening I spoke to one of Y.W.C.A. here and at the close a Miss Dodge, a classmate of Mary's came up and spoke with me. As I began this young fellow about 20 from Canada came into the room- a fellow away from home in a big city full of temptation- he stopped and talked and prayed with him. I cannot write much for it is time to go bed.

I hope mother is all right again

With Love to all

I go to Cleveland tomorrow. Shall be in Oberlin, Ohio Dec. 15-19.

Dear Folks at Home:-

After leaving Scranton I went to Buffalo on Thursday morning arriving before breakfast. Sleigh bells were jingling merrily then in Buffalo and nearly everything was on runners, while I was there – until Saturday afternoon. They worked me nearly all the time. Saturday afternoon I went over to Cleveland and to Mr. Goddard's. They were well except Mrs. Goddard and the boys had colds. On Sunday I spoke twice. Monday I attended a Bible Class held in a shop at the noon hour. About 50 men were present. Then I spoke to about thirty business men who were at lunch at the Y.M.C.A. I talked while they lunched and then I ate afterward. Monday afternoon I went over to Oberlin.

There I found Daisy, Winnie, George and Norman Hubbard. I arranged for Ellen and the children to stop when they came, and on Tuesday morning I started at 10:30 for a place called East Liverpool, in Ohio near the Penna. Line and just across the river from W. Virginia. There I spoke twice yesterday. This morning I took a 6:50 train and came here by way of Columbus. I had a wait of three hours there and visit the Y.M.C.A. of the Ohio State University.

Arriving here at 6 o'clock I looked up the Lacy boys from Foochow, China. You remember one of them. Henry, came home with us last year, - as far as New York.

I plan to get back to Oberlin Saturday, and meet Ellen and the children there. We plan to be in Geneseo, Ill. for Christmas. Say won't some of you send us just a word there, since I left home and have had one letter from Mary and a postet from Emma, only these. I am lingering for some news. Address Care of Mrs. Ann Paul, Geneseo, Ill. Start the letter Dec. 22nd. [Aunt Ann Paul is Ann Eliza Kinney, sister to Ellen's father, Myron Kinney. Ann married Robert Bruce Paul and had 3 children. Oberlin Ohio 12/20-04

Dear Mother:-

Your letter to Ellen sent to Putnam was forwarded to Oberlin. It reached us here this morning. From what she says you ought to have kept the dollar.

Before I forget it our address until next Monday will be Geneseo, Ill. Care Mrs. Ann Paul. We should reach San Francisco Dec. 30th. Address Care of Y.M.C.A. there.

We have had a very pleasant time here in Oberlin. Miss F. K. Bement came over and has been here all the time we have been here. Mrs. Goddard came at noon yesterday and spent the afternoon. There are several missionaries of the Am. Board here. We have had very pleasant rooms and entertainment here at Tank Missionary Home [named after Mrs. C.L.A. Tank], for very reasonable prices.

This morning we all called on George Widder and his family- you may remember he and his wife were classmates of mine in Oberlin. Then we just stopped at Mrs. Prof. Chamberlain's. We take the 4 p.m. train this afternoon for Toledo. I expect G.A. Lawrence my roommate at Oberlin to meet us there for a visit while we wait for the next train. Then we go on to Chicago on a sleeper. Tomorrow we plan to do some buying there and take the 4:15 p.m. train for Aunt Ann Paul's arriving at 8:25. We plan to start from St. Louis Tuesday, Dec. 27th at 9:00 a.m.

Father asked about the interest on the note. I should like to start another account in the Derby Savings Bank with the interest.

With lots of Love from us all

Will

5 p.m. Dec. 27- 1904.

Somewhere this side of Kansas
City, on the Mo. Pacific R.R.

Dear folks at Home:-

I wrote you while we were at Aunt Ann's in Geneseo. Those were four very profitable days to us as a family, for we were all very tired, and the quiet there was just the thing for tired people. The children drank so much milk that I think the pigs must have noticed it.

They have one steady old horse that the children got acquainted with Sat. and each of the three older ones had a good ride. Then again on Monday.

I spoke in the church there Sunday morning.

Yesterday just as we had got the trunks to the station it began to rain hard. This continued all day. We took the 6:15 p.m. train with the promise of a sleeper when we reached Peoria at 11:30. We changed at Rock Island all right, then the children all went to sleep. But they are brave little travelers and woke up all right at Peoria. But to my dismay I found there that the 11:30 train from Peoria to St. Louis was taken off the hour the gates of the World's Fair closed [1904 World's Fair, A Centennial Celebration of the Louisiana Purchase held in St. Louis, Missouri.]. I told the ticket agent that I must meet the 9:00 train at St. Louis for San Francisco. He said we could go by Chenoa and change again, arriving at St. L at 8:10 a.m. today. So we went to Chenoa, Ill. As we went out to take the train the conductor said every seat was taken and several were already standing. It was 2:30 a.m. I asked him if he had sleepers. He said upper berths, so we went to bed at 3:00 in the morning, and slept like bricks till 7:00. The train pulled into the union Station at St. L. at 8:20. This left 40 min. to present the order and have the tickets made out; to get the sleepers; and to recheck the baggage. But I did it and had just three minutes to spare. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin had the same experience. They are with us.

The weather was foggy and warm last night. About 10 o'clock today it grew colder and there is almost a blizzard on. Very little snow had fallen, but the wind is high and the cold intense. During the last hour there has been less wind and the sun had tried to look out of his window. We are in a parlor car that is booked to go right through to San Francisco. So we plan to make these four seats our home till Friday night or Sat. morning.

The children are taking it as a matter of course- playing 'Lotto', Dominoes, flinch and Hide and Seek.

Wed. a.m.

Last night brot to us all a good sleep and rest. This morning dawned clear and we all saw the sun rise. We are now speeding over the Kansas prairies. Gang plows are rotting in the half plowed fields. Little huts and sheds for farms with a wind mill and a few horses, mules and cattle are scattered over the landscape. If the farmers and others in Conn. would live as do these they would have big bank accounts.

It is a beautiful day.

We are all well- except Ellen does not make much noise with her voice. Lovingly Will

Thus far on our way safely and happily. I have sent a letter to Putnam which will reach you in time and you may keep. Yesterday and last night we had a good Kansas blizzard. It delayed us but no other discomfort. We are so late in here that we must lie over till midnight. This will make us nearly a day late to San Francisco- Saturday instead of Friday.

Today has been a beautiful day. The children enjoy watching the 1000s of cattle and horses and the prairie dogs. We all saw the sun rise this morning. I am writing this in the Yucca room in Pueblo.

Dec 30 - 9:30 a.m.

Dear folks at home:-

This morning we had to pull ourselves and the children out of bed to take a 7:15 breakfast in 20 min. But we "got there". I mailed a postcard at the station 650 miles E. of San Francisco. We started from Ogden at 3:00 this a.m.- so the breakman says, and for a change are on time. Yesterday the trainman tried to make us think we were to arrive at San Francisco at 7:00 Sat. evening. But these men on the Southern Pacific tell us that we will be in by 8:00 a.m. tomorrow- Sat.

The children are standing the journey well. Ellen's voice is still rather silent.

God has been very gracious to us.

With love to all fr. all

My dear grandma,

We have seen so many beautiful things that we do not see where you are. We have seen prairies and the little Prairie Dog's, and cattle and horses that are kept on the prairies all winter. Prairie Dog's are like little whitish gray squirrels and they live in little holes in the ground covered with earth and sometimes you see them siting on the top of their hole. We see cattle and horses grazing on the prairies and in some places they were grazing where the grass is covered with snow. We saw lots of cattle dead for the want of water. They have very little water there but once in a while we see a river or a stream on these graet prairies. After crossing the plains we woke the next morning in the Rocky Mountains. There were large rocks and snow caped mountains and rocks that were red and green and pink and white, brown rocks. We saw a rock that was just red and black. We are going to be in San Fracisco tomorrow morning at eight o'clock. We are now six hundred miles east of San Francisco. There is a man and a lady going to China with us whose name is Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin. We have seen the American Desert that was something like the Arabian Desert. We had to get up at 7:15 this morning for our breakfast. We are all very well, but mamma cannot talk aloud sometimes.

When you have read this please send it to Aunt Phebe.

San Francisco.
Jan. 8, '05

My dear grandpa Beard,
Saturday Mamma took us to the mint, to see Uncle Sam's money made. It was very interesting.

First we went into a room where we saw all the coins that were used a long time ago. Next we saw them rolling long peaces of silver and as we were going to the second room we saw briks of silver piled up by the side of the hall,- several tons of it. It was Spanish silver. In the second room too we saw them melting silver,- old Spanish coins collected in the Phillipines and sent here to be recoined and sent back to the Phillipines. We saw them pouring melted silver into moulds to form it into bars called ingots that were about a foot long 1 ½ inches wide and ½ inch thick and we saw him turn them out red hot. In the third room they were putting these ingots through rolling machines to roll them out long and thin. They had to be rolled through several machines to make them as thin as a coin. These strips were then sent to the cutting room where we saw them run through a machine which cut out the dollar peaces very fast. The tow [two] cutting machines in that room cut 300 peaces a minute. When the strips came out of the machine they were all full of holes where the dollars had been cut out and what was left of the strips was sent back to the melting room and melted over again. These dollar peaces are then sent to the waiing [weighing] room and all waied by hand and all by ladies. Then they are sent to the stamping room and stamped. Then they are all looked over by a good many ladies.

The first machine they went through in the stamping room was to put the rim on the edge.

The fluted edge was put on by die when they were stamped. The Spanish silver is so poor an equal quantity of American silver has to be mixed with it so they can work it at all. Befor they are stamped they are sent to the whitening room and by some process they are whitened. They were not making gold money. We are all well. With love to all Phebe K.

S.S. China

Near Honolulu
3:30 p.m. Jan. 16th 1905.

My dear Mother:-

Thus far we are safely on our way. The Pacific as usual is not pacific. Most of the passengers on board are wondering why this ocean was called "The Pacific." Our party took the steamer last Tuesday. She swung into the Bay at San Francisco at just 1 p.m. There were some fifteen or twenty boys from the University of California, whom Mr. McLachlin and I had met at Pacific Grove, at the dock to see us off. Beside these Mr. and Mrs. Dillon a Y.M.C.A. Secy. and Mrs. Dillon an old Oberlin acquaintance of Ellen's, and Dr. Geo. B. Smyth a Methodist Missionary who was with us in Foochow for several years, but who was obliged to return on account of his health was there also. I can not overstate the pleasure it gave us to have these friends at the steamer to see us start. Dr. Smyth was very helpful. He is one of the M.E. Secretaries now and lives just across the Bay from San Francisco in Berkeley, so he knows all the ropes about San Francisco.

We all took lunch as soon as the steamer swung into the Bay. But the social element did not play an important part in our lives for a long time. I wish Flora had been with us, - Oh, no, not that she might be sea sick, but that she might help us who were- that's all. Well we were miserable, and wondered why we had ever been induced to subject ourselves to the water again, and many other like wonderings. But all these did us no good. Phebe wished we had not come- or that we could change and take the train the rest of the way. But the captain kept right on.

We should make about 350 miles a day. One day our run was 237 miles, - a head wind was the cause. We should have been "Doing Honolulu" today, if it had not been for the head winds. We have had very little rain or cloudy weather- just a stiff gale right in our faces, that retards our progress, - and makes the ship pitch and roll.

Our fellow passengers are pleasant people. There are thirteen missionaries on board, - one Episcopal Bishop- I was told yesterday that I was the oldest missionary on the ship. We held a service last evening and after the Bishop had refused to conduct it, the duty fell to me because of my age and years of service. Doesn't that sound great? The ocean was not millpondish, but I made out to keep on my feet by standing in a good bracing posture and holding on to the table. The congregation wisely sat while they sang. The weather is perceptibly warmer. Today ladies sit on deck with white muslin waists on. At lunch this noon the dining room was furnished with punbahs [large ceiling fans]. Do you know what those are? Yesterday afternoon the wind let up a little and we began to enjoy ourselves. But during the night another gale was on, and it was a days work to get up to breakfast this morning. This afternoon had been pleasanter. Fortunately the children are less troubled with seasickness than old folks. Friends very thoughtfully arranged amusement for them by the way. Each package is marked 1st Day, 2nd Day, 3rd Day, etc. This makes something in the line of a surprise for them each day. Today it chances to be a pint of beads of various sizes and colors for stringing. The "big doll" has just made her debut this afternoon and a beautiful chain of golden yellow glass beads which mama Phebe has strung, graces the doll's neck.

Next Friday will be the 41st anniversary of your wedding. Our heartiest congratulations and best wishes then in ten days comes your birthday, - 62- our best wishes for many happy returns of the day. When I said "good bye" to you that cold morning it seemed so long before I should leave the country that I did not want to talk about it, so I just said good bye in every day fashion.-4:30 p.m. We have just sighted land for the first time since leaving San Francisco. - We cannot enter the harbor at Honolulu till tomorrow morning.

Just before leaving the Hotel for the Steamer I got a pocket full of mail. This with all the friends there to see us off made a very pleasant departure. What a blessed thing friendship is!!- and what a host of friends God gives us in this world!! What must it be in the next [letter was not finished]

S. S. China

Just leaving Yokohama
 10 a.m. Jan 31st 1905.

Dear father:-

Yesterday I mailed a letter to mother at Yokohama. We spent the day on shore in the city of Yokohama, - took lunch at a restaurant kept by a Japanese served in American style. Then in the afternoon we went to Benten Dori. This is the street on which the Japanese shops are located- that is the shops that contain articles which foreigners wish to purchase. We found some pictures and some frames that took our fancy. We found frames for some of the pictures that Flora gave us.

The children greatly enjoyed watching the Japanese and also thought it great fun to ride in the rickshas. Not all the Japanese are yet gone to fight the Russians. We saw a lot of them yesterday. Three or four days ago 3000 left on transports from Yokohama for the front to fight the Russians. As we were in one of the shops we heard the tinkling of a bell and saw a slight commotion. The shopkeeper stepped out and brought in a small piece of paper- 9 in square painted in Japanese. He said it was a war bulletin announcing an unimportant battle near Laioyang in which the Japanese had been victorious. This looked as if the people were kept informed of the doings at the front.

The harbor here is surrounded by a fine breakwater, and within there are steamers from all over the world.

We started from Yokohama at 9 a.m. today, and are due to reach Kobe at 11 or 12 tomorrow. This is a new trip for us because we did not stop here ten years ago- our steamer touched only at Yokohama and at Nagasaki. We feel as if the worst of our journey was over now, for the remainder is cut up into short trips of not over two days in length- one day to Kobe, one to Nagasaki and two to Shanghai. Then two to Foochow.

We are all well and have been so since leaving home- with the exception of colds.

We find the weather here cold- penetrating- not with a low temperature. But we want our heaviest clothing on. Yesterday was mother's birthday. Yours will have passed before this reaches you. We send best wishes to you both for many happy returns of the day.

All send love to you all Will.

S.S. China

Inland Sea
Japan
Feb. 2nd 1905.

Dear Elizabeth:-

Yesterday morning we anchored at Kobe about 10:30. Kobe lies on a plain about one mile wide between the sea and the mountains. The sea is full of small islands and at times the steamer must go very near them, because the channel is so narrow. Back of the city of Kobe the mountains rise quite abruptly to a height of three or four thousand feet.

Ellen and I took lunch with the children a little before eleven o'clock and then we all went ashore. The business portion of Kobe is quite small. The shops that we wanted to visit were all on one street and the Post office was between the Custom's House and this street. First we went to a China shop. Ellen picked out 18 cups, 18 saucers, 18 tea plates. Each of these sets of three- cup, saucer and plate,-match, but no two sets have the same design or the same shape. Then she found tea pot, sugar bowl and milk pitcher, and a bowl, then two larger plates for bread or cake, 61 pieces in all. They cost us 15.70 yen or $7 85/100 U.S. money.

Then the children went shopping. Geraldine first found her hearts desire in a pig puzzle. You have seen it- a round box about 4 in. in diameter, and divided by circular partitions. The five balls = pigs must be rolled into the center enclosure = the pen. Then Dorothy found a nice little tin pail about the size of a large tea cup. Next Gould decided on a boat. The model of a Japanese junk- about eleven inches long, with rudder and sails, and Phebe found a small Japanese doll about eight inches high that would squeak when you pinched it and that had the great toe separated from the others, just as the Japanese stockings are made, so the doll could wear the little Japanese shoes. All these toys cost 24 cents.

At this point I left the rest in a shop where they sell silks and pictures painted on velvet,- both cotton and silk velvet- and I went about a mile away to call on one of the Am. Board missionaries. I chanced to go in just as the whole mission was assembling at this very house for prayer meeting and I met them all- only ten.

Coming back I found them all happily still looking at things. We then purchased one silk velvet and two cotton velvet pictures- spending our last cent- I do not know where I shall find money to tip the stewards when we reach Shanghai,- and then we came back to the steamer on the launch that left the wharf at 5 p.m.

We sailed at 10 p.m. This morning has been well nigh perfect. We are steaming thro the Inland Sea from Kobe to Nagasaki. Little islands are all about us. In the distance the snow capped mountains rise in sunlit beauty. Mrs. McLachlin said "Would'nt it have been lovely if we could have had it like this between Honolulu and Yokohama." I suppose the "Siberia" took a letter home for us as she left Kobe this morning. I plan to mail this at Nagasaki tomorrow. We are to arrive tonight very late.

All are well and all send Love Will Shanghai, China.

Feb. 13th 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

We are still at Shanghai. The China Merchants Steam Navigation Co. said their steamer was to start for Foochow yesterday morning. But Saturday noon they had decided to wait till tomorrow = Tuesday. This afternoon at 2:30 they again changed the date to Wednesday morning. We say this is the third and last call and we really think she will sail day after tomorrow.

Yesterday morning I attended a Chinese service in the Presbyterian Church and Gould went with me. We went with Mr. Lyon and his little boy David who is three months younger than Gould. He and Gould have formed a very close friendship. Ellen and the girls went with Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood to the Union Church where the service is conducted in English. Yesterday afternoon I attended the Chinese Y.M.C.A. and McLachlin and I spoke. All the Chinese young men who attended understood English so we spoke in English. Then at 8:45 p.m. I attended the foreign Y.M.C.A. meeting. How does it strike you to begin a service at a quarter before nine in the evening?

While we were at the morning service snow began to fall and by the time we had finished dinner the ground was well covered. The poor ricksha coolies looked forlorn as they waded about barefoot in the snow. This morning there was about four inches of snow on the level. I took a photo of some trees covered with snow and also one of the children standing in the snow and holding snowballs. [See photo below] Gould made a snow man. The snow was just right to pack nicely. It was a unique scene last evening to see four Chinese snow balling.

This afternoon we have been about five miles out to visit an Episcopal (American) College- St. John's. It is now vacation time, so we saw only the buildings and grounds. Dr. F.H. Hawks- Pott, the President, an American was at home. His Chinese wife met us very pleasantly and after having afternoon tea with them we went thro the buildings. We also met Mr. Mann, a son of Dr. Mann who attended Pres. McKinley in his last hours. I had met Dr. Mann in Buffalo as I came thru, and he wanted me to see the son here in Shanghai.

The children have twice been out to dinner and supper without us. Saturday they were out to dinner with the Lacy children and this evening out to supper with the Lyon children.

Shanghai has changed greatly since I was here three years ago. First I notice many large dwellings, business houses and public buildings on sites that three years ago were vacant. Then I see in all parts of the city new buildings of large dimensions in process of construction. Again rents are very scarce and very high. Mr. Lacy pays 85 taels (1 tael = about 75 cents U.S. money) a month, and 10 per cent of that for taxes in addition to the rent for his house which has no lawn and is one section of a large tenement. A movement has been on foot for about five years to put in electrics. But this would open up the country for a number of miles around as that residents could go farther out to build, and a few of the large property owners have thus far blocked the opening of the street rail ways so as to keep up the price of rent.

Tuesday, a.m.- We are still here, but plan to go on board the steamer this evening and start tomorrow morning at daylight for Foochow.

With love to all from us all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

We have been in Foochow for more than a week now, and nothing but a postal has gone to you from us. I have always found it very difficult to keep my correspondence up while visiting. We reached Pagoda Anchorage Thursday Feb 16th at 6:30 p.m. (One little girl has been furnished with paper and pencil- another with a pencil and Elsie Simester has been in and the children have promised to go up to Mrs. Simester's for Sunday School. In the midst of this and other distractions I had gotten ahead of my story and thought I was up to Foochow.) We reached Foochow Friday morning at half past twelve. One of the Meth. Missionaries - Mr. Bissonnette- met us at the steamer with a house boat. While we were putting the baggage on the house boat Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard and Mr. Peet came on board the steamer to meet us. We learned afterward that Mr. Hodous and Mr. Newell, a new man in our mission, came on the steamer from one side while we were getting off the other side.

A fine breeze and swift tide took us up the river about half way to Foochow. The breeze gave out then and the men rowed. Soon the tide turned against us and we made very slow progress. The three girls were asleep on the bed in the house boat about 9:30. Gould was wide awake and all about till after 11:00. When we reached Foochow all four were sound asleep. So we refused a very kind invitation from Mrs. Simester to come to her house, and Ellen and I remained on the house boat for the rest of the night. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin went home with Mr. Bissonnette where they have been since. We all went over to Ponasang to Miss Newton's for breakfast. It was a pleasant coincidence that we went back to the very same spot to which we went first over ten years ago, but into a new house this time.

We remained with Miss Newton until last Thursday morning, except as we went here and there to dinner or to supper with the different members of the mission at Ponasang and in the city. Thursday morning we came over to the Meth. Mission and took three meals with Mrs. Simester, we ate at our own table Friday noon for the first time since last Oct.

We are now in one of the houses that belong to the Meth. Mission. We have the promise of it for only two months. At present there is no house in the business community for rent.

Last Tuesday Mrs. Simester very thoughtfully gave a reception to the new Y.M.C.A. Secretaries. Sixty adults and twelve children were present. It was a very pleasant occasion. Dorothy has just come to me and leaned on my knee. I asked her what I should write to Grandma Beard for her. She replied, "I witted her a letter and put it in a envelop." She has gone to look for it now. You may receive it if she finds it.

Yesterday was the first real pleasant day we have had since arriving. The day of the reception there was no rain and the sun shone long enough to encourage the people to come out.

We now have our beds in such condition that we are all able to lie down, and we have a rug on the parlor floor and a few chairs there to sit in. In the dining room we are eating on two Chinese dining tables put end to end and sitting in borrowed chairs. Our boxes that started Nov. 30th last from Putnam we hope to see in about three weeks. Then we shall be surfeited with furniture.

A day or two after we arrived I began to feel that the filling in one of my upper back teeth was getting loose. It dropped out while I was at breakfast last week one morning. A Chinese dentist put it in last Friday afternoon. He said it would never come out again.

We think of putting the children in school tomorrow. Altho school is in session only in the morning = half a day.

Dorothy is four years old today. James and Flora have just passed another year stone in their lives.

All send love and hope you are all well.

Will.

Foochow, China

March 3rd 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I began this and got thus far while waiting for the others yesterday afternoon to go to Mrs. Consul Gracey's for afternoon tea. The others were ready just as I had written the salutation. We had a very pleasant time, found several other friends there.

I am spending all my working time now on the language. You know I did very little in the written language during my first term here and I am trying now to make up a little. I feel like a boy in short pants just starting to school.

The mail yesterday brought a letter from Stanley. I had heard from you also that he now has only one condition. I am glad. A letter has also come from Phebe. We are glad she has got over the grippe.

Since reaching Foochow rain has been the order of nearly every day. This morning is a beautiful clear morning and we are enjoying it immensely.

We are just making out an order for Montgomery Ward and Co. of groceries, shoes and stockings, a little furniture etc. Our household goods from Putnam have not yet arrived, and we have a house equipped in modern style, this is the style is not like any style that has preceded it.

Mr. Peet and family are planning to start for America sometime this month.

Phebe, Gould and Geraldine began school last Monday. They go only in the morning for 3 hours. The tuition is $50.00 gold for each child.

I preach before a few missionaries tomorrow.

Well I must close this now.

We are well and all send love. We pray for you all every day.

Will.

March 12th 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I wonder what kind of a day the 12th of March has brought to you. It dawned cloudy, but this afternoon is bright and cheery. I went over to Ha Puo Ga to church this morning. Mr. Ding's father is pastor there. He preached this morning. Mr. Ding's mother also was there, just the same as they were when we left them, now more than two years ago. The church members have enlarged the audience room since I was there, so they now have seats for two hundred persons comfortably. As I stood in the pulpit and looked about nearly or quite half the audience were familiar. The others were new comers or children who had grown and changed so much in two years that I did not recognize them.

Last Monday I played a game of football. As it always used to when I was in college it made me very lame. But Tuesday I played three sets of tennis and won two of them. Wed. afternoon I went into the city and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Hodous. They are in Foochow City now. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin went with me. Thursday morning was the time set for Spring Sacrifice to Confucius and we were in to see it. The alarm clock awoke us at 2:00 a.m. Thursday. After a little lunch five of us men walked down to the temple. The highest official in Foochow leads in the ceremonies. The other officials assist. But as clocks do not yet run all things in China it is never possible to predict when anything of this sort is to take place. We were at the temple two hours before the ceremonies began. But this gave us a good opportunity to see the preparations and learn something of the meaning and manner of the ceremonies. We were met very kindly by two of three of the Masters of Ceremonies who showed us great respect and one who had less exacting duties took us all thro the temple. The form in which the ceremony is conducted seemed the all important thing in the mind of every man with whom we talked. To insure against mistakes in the manner of conducting the ceremonies, the Master of Ceremonies stood in a commanding position and gave all the directions in a loud voice. Opposite him in an equally commanding position stood the censor, with his eye on all the officials. If a mistake was made by any the censor has the right to send the officials name direct to the Emperor, and the official is likely to be degraded.

We missionaries were courteously given a good position so near the path of the officials as they went from their position in the open court of the temple, into the temple proper, that their robes touched us as they passed.

To us the ceremonies would seem very childlike. First the officials at the command of the Master of Ceremonies bowed, after kneeling, three times. Then at the command, the highest official rose and went into the temple and knelt between the table on which the fruits were placed, and the tables on which the pig, bullock and goat were placed. Then attendants placed in his hands the dishes on which were the fruits. He uttered a sentence or two over each and the attendant replaced the dish. After all this part was over the head official left the temple worshipping in different places. Only the highest official was allowed to cross the temple and go out thro the left door. The others had to return the way they came in. Then after the temple service was over, the officials had much more kneeling and prostrating to do. During the ceremony there was music, both social and instrumental, - Chinese of course. Some of the instruments were large stringed ones, but our guide told us all the men who had ever known how to play on them were dead and the younger generation had never learned.

This was called a sacrifice. But the sacrificial part consists entirely in the official taking the dish in the hand and repeating a formula. After the ceremony a large company have a fine feast. The aspect in the temple was most ghastly. The pigs and goats were dressed- all the hair being taken off and then the animal was placed over a small horse (wooden) and its head propped up so as to be in the same posture as when alive. The bullock was placed on its stomach on the table with the fore legs over one end and the hind legs over the other end of the table. The head hung down between the fore feet. The throat was cut and blood still ran from the opening. From the backbone about half way down each side of the body the hair had been removed by the same process as is used in taking bristles off hogs. The rest of the hair was still on.

Now what is the significance of it all? That was what we tried to learn while there, and I have talked with several Chinese since. All that I can get from them is, that this ceremony is gone thro with purely and simply in remembrance of Confucius. Some would have it that no idolatry is practiced. But I am satisfied that it is idolatrous. The spirit of Confucius is worshipped.

We asked Mr. Ding, who was with us at the ceremony, what the consensus of opinion was among the Christian Chinese – could a man participate in this ceremony and at the same time be a true Christian. He said most Christians said they could not.

There is much to be done yet before China becomes Christ's.

We returned to Mr. Hodous' house about 6:30 a.m. Thursday. I got a nap of half an hour. Then we ate another breakfast and Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin and I started for Kuliang. The day was just right for mountain climbing = no sun- no rain- not hot- not cold. I found some charcoal in our cottage and built a fire in the native furnace and we had some condensed milk which with hot water and sugar made a fine drink.

Friday afternoon we all went to one of the English ladies, Miss Stevens – an old friend of ours, to 4 o'clock tea. Then at 6:30 a reception was given to us by the students in the Meth Anglo Chinese College and after this was over we had to go to meet two ladies who have just come from the interior- up the Yangste river five weeks travel by boat to Hankow.

We are all well. Dorothy is getting fat every day. The others are in school in the morning, and hard at play in the afternoon. Ellen was never in better health, and I am getting fat. Thus far I have stuck close to the study of the character. Next week Tuesday I plan to go to Ing Hok for a two weeks trip. Possibly Mr. and Mrs. Mac may go with me.

Mr. Peet and family plan to sail for San Francisco Apr. 12 from Shanghai.

With lots of love from us all to you all at home, in B-port, South Orange, Framingham, South Hadley, Shelton, etc.

Will.

Dear Phebe:-

Gould and I were in the city from Friday evening till yesterday, and as I came to my desk last evening I found letters addressed to lots of people in China and in the U.S.- one to you in a large blue envelope, the most imposing one of the lot. Opening it I found Miss Dorothy's name at the end of the epistle. She is getting to be a big expense in this line. But I'm glad to do it, for it is a good education for the children and then I have a faint hope that it will in some small measure atone for the remissness of their parents in the line of letter writing. I am sorry that it is so difficult to find time to write, and during the past three years I keep thinking "this is only a temporary rush, when this line of work is on its feet I'll have more time" but the rushes keep coming. Now that the Y.M.C.A. day and evening classes are begun and the building is getting nearly repaired things begin to assume shape and chaos is disappearing.

Mar 21st

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wade Hicks, Assistant Sec'y of the Am. Board reached here yesterday and took dinner with us.

All are well. Gould is in the city with Vernon Peet over Sunday.

All send Love

Will.

Foochow, China

March, 19th 1905.

Dear folks at Home:-

Sunday has come again. Thus far it has been a real rest day for me. The only work that I have had to do on Sunday since reaching Foochow, was to preach in English on Sunday afternoon. In fact when I compare my work since arriving this time with what I was doing two years ago when we left Foochow, it seems very insignificant. Each day is much like every other. At 9:00 a.m. I sit down with my Chinese teacher and "The Four Books," and try to read one of them. Yesterday I finished one of them entitled "The Great Learning." It is hardly the truth however to say that I have finished it. For I can only read the Chinese, that is I can give the sounds of the characters = read it. These are all classical sounds and convey no meaning. I have read whole pages without getting a single idea of the meaning of it all. The character  is read wak. It is never used in the spoken language, but it means "to speak" so when I translate I must say; "gong" instead of 'wak'. Then to make the reading sound well a great many characters are inserted at the beginning and end of some of the sentences, which have no meaning and in translating these are simply passed over.

Then in addition to the translating I must learn to recognize all the characters when they stand alone. I find it is one thing to know the sound of a character when reading as I see it in its connection with other characters and quite another to recognize it when all alone by itself on a little piece of paste board.

For three hours in the morning I study with the teacher, and then in the afternoon I put in about two hours more with the teacher and another hour by myself. I have purposely kept pretty much to myself. This next week I am to begin some work. Next Tuesday evening I have been asked to translate an address for Mr. McLachlin, and on Thursday evening I speak in Chinese myself. These addresses are a part of a series of revival meetings held this next week in the Anglo Chinese College. Then on Friday morning I plan to start for Ing Hok, to be gone for about two weeks.

Last week I wrote that spring seemed to be coming. I must have scared it I think for the past week has been a cold rainy one, with almost no sunshine. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin are quite disgusted with Foochow weather. But with the first of April so near at hand we must have warmer weather very soon.

The diversion this last week was a fine game of football Monday afternoon- at which we had two men from the battleship "Columbia" English- these fellows thought they were a little above Foochowites and when the game began to go against the side on which one of them was playing he got rather rough. I had the pleasure of bumping into him once and of seeing him roll in fine style on the ground. You know I used to play center rush in Oberlin.

Then on Thursday evening there was a big fire just across the river, that caused quite a commotion. On Friday afternoon the band from a German Gun Boat came up to Foochow and played at the German Consulate. All the foreigners in port were invited. The Fete was to have been on the lawn, but it rained so hard that all had to be held in the Consulate. This was a very pleasant and enjoyable occasion. As I sat or stood in different parts of the Consulate I heard English, French, German and Chinese spoken. Gould and Geraldine went with us and enjoyed it immensely.

We sent the family picture to Mr. Ding a few days ago, and I enclose the note he sent in acknowledgement.

We are getting anxious for another American mail. The last one brought us no letters. We are all well, and still waiting for our furniture and other things in the boxes that we started from Putnam more than a month before we started from San Francisco.

I wish you could see some of the flowers that beautify many of the lawns of the foreigners here in Foochow. Callas, prim roses, English violets, geraniums, freesias etc. are now in bloom.

I think I did not tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Peet, Ruth and Vernon plan to sail for the U.S. on the "Siberia" April 19th. They will spend only a part of their time in West Haven.

7:30 p.m.

The children have kissed me good night and have gone to bed. As Dorothy was about to leave I asked her what I should say to Grandma Beard for her. She said "We have a play house, and Phebe has a big doll." I think you saw the large doll that Mrs. Boies of Scranton, Pa. gave to Phebe. It has been the admiration of all three girls. Dorothy's greatest grief these days, comes when Phebe takes that doll out and does not allow her to hold it. Tell Flora Dorothy is developing very fast. I wonder if you are planning to send a box to us in the Am. Board, June shipment. Mr. John G. Hosmer promised or rather offered to forward any cases for us in the regular mission shipment. If you have any little things only to send, it might be well for you to correspond with the people in Putnam and combine. The charges would be less in that way.

This will reach you about Easter time. I wonder if all the "peoples" will be home at that time.

We all send love to all.

Will

April, 8th, 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

A letter came from Phebe last evening. Enclosed was a letter from Mother to Phebe, also the receipt for the payment of my Life Insurance. I had forgotten that I had spoken to Father about it, so I sent the Company a private check on mine from Yokohama. The check was returned and came to me yesterday. So it is all straight.

I am enclosing a check to Father for the amount $27.86 on the First National Bank of Putnam.

The last two weeks I have spent in the Ing Hok field with Mr. Smith. We have had a good time. The weather has not been pleasant but we have escaped rain. One or two days the roads were very muddy and we had wet feet all day but with a tub of hot water when we arrived at the chapels late in the afternoon and then dry foot gear all round we were quite comfortable. The weather is still cold and we did not suffer from the heat as we feared.

I suppose I should first tell you of the fine girl into which Helen Huntington Smith has grown, and of the fine big two months old boy, Huntington Thomas Smith that I found there at the central station of the Ing Hok field. I spent three different nights in three places where there were no Christians two years ago. The first night was in a Christian's home. He was most glad to have us stay with him, and he preached to the neighbors who came in that evening the best sermon of any of us. This man and his brother must take turns in going to church. They walk twelve miles to church and one of them is there every Sunday. How is that for some people who

Sunday April 9th:-

(I was called away yesterday just as I had finished the line) think if they live fifteen minutes from the church and it is cloudy, that they are justified in staying at home? The second night we spent in the chapel at Ngu Deng Muoi. The preacher here is of my old students in the Seminary. I was much rejoiced to find him in a growing work and every where spoken well of. We slept at Ngu Deng Muoi that night and had a good time with the Christians. Friday we walked on to Sung Kau. Another Seminary graduate is here. Then Saturday we went on to Diong Keng. Sunday we held Communion at Diong Keng in the morning and at Sung Kau in the afternoon. These places are seven miles apart.

Monday we started from Sung Kau to go up into the mountains. While we were taking our lunch in an inn the rain fell in torrents. It ceased just as we were ready to start on. But you should have seen the roads we walked over- rather thro. The mud was ankle deep in many places. I wore a pair of cloth tennis shoes and it is unnecessary to add that my feet were wet. We climbed about 3000 feet up the mountain and found a nice new church built by a Christian man in a region called Sa Sang where two years ago a big feast was held and the people all bound themselves not to accept Christianity. This very house was surrounded by a howling mob less than a year ago and the Christian was threatened by his neighbors. Now those very neighbors are attending church and learning the Truth. One of the graduates of the Seminary is living in this place as the preacher, with his wife, his wife's mother and his little daughter.

The next morning we walked on seven miles to another chapel also established since I left the field and found some ten church members. We administered the communion to them that evening. Two of the young men walked seven miles to the service and then walked home again after nine o'clock. I wish it were possible to get a picture of that service. We gathered in a small upper room about 10 X 20 feet. There were about twenty of us. For lights we had one foreign lantern and three bottles (glass) with cotton wicks held upright by little pieces of tin, and without chimneys. For seats we had what at home we would call "horses." The ceiling- rather the sleepers to floor of the room above us were about six inches above my head. But such eager faces one seldom sees. Every word was listened to with the most intense interest. The leader in all the work at this center is a man whom I have known for five years and over. He used to smoke 40 cents of opium a day. In talking with him this time he told me that his opium now cost him about $1.00 a month, and that many days he used none at all. He has a son 19 yrs. old, - a fine young fellow. The father has brought him up a Christian. He is a church member, altho the father cannot join, owing to his opium. The opium smoker reads his Bible and prays earnestly and intelligently.

Wednesday we started for Ing Hok city arriving about 4:30 p.m. Thursday p.m. I started for Foochow arriving Friday a.m. about 10:45.

I had been well on the whole trip. I found the folks at home well- except the three girls had a kind of cold sore on their faces. I had expected to find some quite warm days before getting back but the weather continues cold, and the rain continues to fall. Someone said that for 70 days we have had five pleasant days.

Friday afternoon McLachlin and I were invited to play hockey. We did. Mc got a rap on one ankle that kept him in bed yesterday. He is about today.

The boxes that contained our goods that I shipped from Putnam the last day of last Nov. arrived while I was in Ing Hok. As far as we have opened them they are in fairly good condition. The boxes you know were made of oak boards, many of them with the quarter oak marks. I am planning to start a cabinet maker on a desk for me tomorrow.

Phebe writes that she has engaged passage for Europe to sail next June. I hope she will have as fine a trip as Flora had last year. When the school marms have "done up" Europe I see no reason why they should not leave the worn out paths of tourists and come over this way. We can show them something worth while and something that few people have seen. They will thus be adding to the store of knowledge already possessed by the many at home. And think of the pleasure it would give us!!! [The ship's passenger list for the S.S. Columbia shows Miss Helen Willard Beard (29)-Phebe and Willard's cousin. She is the daughter of James Henry Beard. Also on the ship's list is Miss Phoebe M. Beard (32), Miss H. Wakelee (29) and Miss May Palmer (25) leaving from Glasgow, Scotland and arriving in New York City on September 3, 1905. All were listed as being from Shelton, CT. May Palmer may be a sister to Myra Palmer, future wife of Willard's brother, Stanley Beard. Phebe's application for a passport on May 16th, 1905 describes her as follows: Age- 31 years, Stature- 5 feet 3 inches, Forehead- Medium, Eyes- Dark Brown, Nose- Sharp, Mouth- Medium, Chin- Medium, Hair- Dark, Complexion- Dark, Face- Oval.]

Well this is long enough to make up for the long time during which I have not written- while I was in Ing Hok. - A good letter from Oliver tells me that all are well at home and everywhere else, - practically-

With love to all in which we all join

Will.

If you see Oliver- tell him to send those collars by mail to Mr. J.G. Hosmer, 14 Beacon St. Boston for W.L. Beard, Foochow, China. I will write him tomorrow if possible. But I have several important letters to go on tomorrows mail and I am afraid I'll not get to his. W.

Foochow China

April 16th 1905

Dear Folks at Home:-

Sunday evening has come again and with it an opportunity to write a few lines to you. The thing that impresses us all just now is that the sun has been shining today and that it is very hot this evening. The children have been complaining for about two hours of the heat. The moon is shining brightly this evening for the first time since our arrival two months ago.

This last week has been a little more full of business than any previous week. Our boxes containing dining table, chairs, desk etc. had to be opened and the different articles of furniture set up. We found them all in good condition. I did all the work of setting up, myself. On Wed. afternoon another German gun boat sent its band up to the German Consulate to play and all foreigners in Foochow were invited to attend. We all went. Then Wed. evening Ellen and I attended the Meth. Mission prayer meeting. I should have said that a prayer meeting for all foreigners in Foochow has recently been started and held on Monday evening of each week. The object is to pray specially for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on Fukien Province. We attended this last Monday evening.

On Thursday evening Ellen invited some friends in for dinner. In the afternoon Mac and I went over to Ponasang to attend the prayer meeting of the Am. Board. That morning we called on the Consul to see if he could tell us where we could find a house to rent. Every house seems to be full up here in Foochow. We also called on some people to see about holding a Summer Conference for Students,- something like the Northfield Summer Student Conference held each year about July 1st.

Friday afternoon the Student Y.M.C.A. in Foochow held a joint meeting in the city. Mac, Ellen and I attended. I spoke. After the meeting we held a committee meeting to discuss the holding of a Summer Conference. The city is about three and one half miles from our present house. When the committee meeting finished it was raining hard. We three had walked in and had planned to walk home. But to walk home meant wading thro six inches of water some of the way, so Ellen and I found street chairs for about three miles of the distance. We did not leave the city till 5:35 p.m. After getting home we had to change wet duds and go to Mrs. Plumb's to dinner. It rained hard all Friday night and part of yesterday morning. Some people remarked that they could not believe the sky could hold so much water.

Last evening again Ellen and I were out to dinner, - three evenings in succession. This great raid on dinner parties was due partly to the fact the Mr. Lacy has been down from Shanghai and returns tomorrow. You remember that we brought home one of his sons- Henry: when we went on furlough. Mr. Lacy was and still is a member of the M.E. mission here, and still has part in the work of the Press, so the missionaries delight to do him honor when he comes. He lives in Shanghai and has half charge of the M.E. Press there.

Today I preached in the first Meth. Church here.

The mail this last week did not bring anything from any of our home friends. It did bring our first home papers. It was interesting to read about Mr. Dawson's work in and about Boston. I wonder if the revival in Wales is as interesting to you in the U.S. as to us out here. The Congregationalist that came day before yesterday is full of Dawson.

I think of father as beginning the spring work about now. Probably the oat ground is already plowed. A year ago last Thursday night I spent with you at home- only father, mother and Stanley were there if I remember correctly. I arrived late and went early on my way to New York.

Monday morning:- Just as I was ready for bed last night, it began to rain or water began to fall from the sky again, and it came right thru the roof and down into the outside room adjoining our bedroom. I had to cover a wardrobe with my rain coat and some oiled paper. About 1 p.m. the wind blew furiously and this morning the atmosphere is delightful. The sun shines brightly and there is hope that we may get dried out.

The girls have had an eruption on their faces. Phebe and Dorothy are all right. Geraldine is not yet over hers. Otherwise we are all well.

All send love

Will.

Dear folks at Home:-

It has been two weeks since I have written you and a whole month since a letter has come from any of you. We are trusting that this is good news.

This last week has been more full of work for me than most of the weeks since I have been in Foochow. Tuesday evening I went into the city to the Foochow College to lead the prayer meeting for the students. About one hundred attended. I spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Hodous, and led chapel prayers at the College on Wednesday morning. Wednesday afternoon the three missions met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hodous for the Monthly Concert of Prayer. Mr. Newell led the meeting and took for the subject the work of the Y.M.C.A., among students. In the evening I spoke to 250 girls in the Church Missionary Society's Girl's Boarding School. On Thursday Ellen and I went into the city again to attend the opening of a Hospital built by the C.M.S. This was a journey of about five miles. We are on the southern edge of what is called Foochow, and the Hospital is on the very northern edge.

The weather is very conspicuous for a few days. Last night with no clothes on we were fairly comfortable. Today is hot- say 97 in the shade.

Our house boy is home with the itch. The amah left a few days ago for sundry reasons. The washerman has been unwell for two days. We have one servant who is supposed to simply buy and prepare our food.

We are taking the Outlook this year. In the number for Saturday, March 25, 1905 is an article which I wish Stanley would read. It is by Henry Thomas Colestock, "Losing One's Religion" "A Student Experience."

One year ago to day I was in Syracuse N.Y. It almost makes me tired now to think how tired I was that Sunday night. And Monday morning after a "cold bite". I was off early to catch a train. Mr. J.K. Brown was in Syracuse with me and he was at the station Monday morning with not even a "cold bite."

All of our home boxes have come. We unpacked the last two a week ago yesterday. The things came in good condition. I have given some of the quartered oak boards to a cabinet maker to make me a desk. He growls every time I see him of the hardness of the boards. They have no wood as hard as our good oak.

The missionary educators of China meet this next week for a three days conference in Shanghai. About fifteen are going up from Foochow, beside several Chinese. The National Y.P.S.C.E. Convention is held at Ning Po- a little south of Shanghai just before the Educational Conference. The two coming so near in place and time make a big attraction.

We are all well and all send love

Will.

Foochow, China,
May 16th. 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter to you I wrote one week ago last Sunday. Last Sunday I was in the city. I told you I was to go in each day for a time to take some of Mr. Hodous' work with the Theological students while he was away. And last Sunday hold the communion service. At Mrs. Hodous' urgent invitation Ellen and the children went also and we all were in the city from Saturday afternoon till Monday afternoon. Ellen and the children greatly enjoyed visiting the Kindergarten under the care of Miss Jean Brown. She had some carrier pigeons and sent one out by the children to return with a letter. The children are greatly anticipating the letting go of the bird. Miss Brown starts for home on furlough in a few weeks now. She will probably reach Fair Haven about August 1st. I tell her she must surely go out to Century Farm and see you. Then she must also see the Putnam people. She is so near you that it will not be difficult for you to see her. Tell Stanley that she will be with her brother, The Rev. Mr. Brown pastor of the Congregational church at Fair Haven. If she does not get out before next term, Stanley must look her up some time.

I have been to the mountain today. Walked up the 2500 feet and quite a distance on the top of the mountain, then down again. It was beautiful up there. I was as wet as a rat when I reached the top, it was hot going up but while there I had nothing to complain of. I went up to plan for a few repairs that had to be made before we can move into the house.

Two or three different times since I have returned have Chinese spoken to me of the noticable decrease in idol worship during the last decade in Foochow. Yesterday while at a feast one of the Chinese said that ten years ago every year over one thousand men went on a long journey South from Foochow to worship a certain idol whose influence was supposed to be very great. Now he said not one goes. A few weeks ago I walked from here nearly into the city thro the main street. I noticed a few men with yellow or purple garments on and with boards or swords or chains about their necks and with little stools on which they knelt at stated places. I asked what the significance was, and was told that, the Chinese on that day worshipped Tai Sang (the name of an idol). But that the number of worshippers now compared with ten years ago was very small. Then I remembered that some eight years ago I saw this same thing and there were twenty men then where there was one now.

A letter came from Emma yesterday. She spoke of receiving letters from Shelton so I suppose you must all be comfortable.

We are all well, and all send love.

Will

A photo came yesterday. Ellen showed it to Dorothy and asked her who it was, she answered "Aunt Leolyn" "What dress has she on." "Bride" [Willard's brother, James Daniel Beard, married Leolyn Seaver Smith on November 24, 1904.]

Dear Mother:-

Dorothy has very faithfully written two letters- one to you and one to Aunt Leolyn. She brought them to me, and I laid them on the desk telling her I would put them with another envelope and send them. But this did not satisfy her. She waited till she saw them in the right one- then she was satisfied.

Gould and I [are] nearly ready to go to the mountain today to see about repairing the cottage. As it is Decoration Day there is no school.

Last Sunday I went about 10 miles from Foochow to preach and conduct the communion for Mr. Hodous. He came from Shanghai on Sunday- I must go now- we are all well and all send love.

Foochow, China,

June, 5th. 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It was a week ago that I wrote a few words to mother. I do not remember when you last wrote but it was a long time ago.

I think it was on the morning of the day that I went to the mountain that I wrote to mother. Gould went up with me. We had a fine party. Beside Gould and myself there were Mr. McLachlin, Mr. Jones and Mr. Newell. The day was beautiful until shortly after we started down the mountain. Then rain began to fall and it came harder and harder until half an hour before we reached home when all restrictions were taken off and instead of raining the water just fell out of the sky. Umbrellas did little good. We had heavy coats so our shoulders were dry but below we were all soaked. The weather has been very trying for over a week. Dorothy is well covered with prickly heat. You would scarcely know her now, her face is so broken out with the heat which gives it a swollen appearance.

Word has reached China that our Government is making or has made (The Chinese do not seem to know which) a new exclusion law or treaty with China. Two weeks ago the Chinese in Shanghai were much agitated over the affair. The merchant's guild of that city met week before last and decided to boycott everything American. The articles agreed upon were practically these, - 1. Give the U.S. two months to make a treaty agreeable to the Chinese. 2. If by the 1st. of the 7th moon, about Aug. 1st. things are still not satisfactory, no Chinese will use any goods of American manufacture 3. No Chinese will ship any goods on American ships. 4 Chinese will not send their children to schools established by Americans. 5. No Chinese will join any American firm in any capacity whatever. 6. Cooks, coolies and other servants in American families shall resign and refuse to work for American citizens.

In Shanghai this decision of the Merchants Guild had the immediate effect of influencing about 40 boys in one school and 15 in another to leave and go home. The parents of some of them whipped them and sent them back. The fever struck Foochow last Wednesday. The students in the Anglo Chinese College of the Meth. Mission became very uneasy, but they had the good sense to ask for a conference with the Principal. He talked for nearly two hours with them, and the next day asked Consul Gracey to talk with them. So far as I know the air is much clearer in this school now. But to day it broke out in the Am. Board College in Foochow City. There were rumors yesterday. This morning at Chapel prayers Mr. Hodous was speaking and the boys began to shuffle their feet. Then when Mr. Hodous said something with which they could not agree the noise became greater and the seniors rose in a body and were about to leave the room. Mr. Hodous rose and tapped on the table and told them to be seated, at the same time ordering three of the seniors who he thought were the leaders to leave. He was obeyed. Then he asked some five or six young men whom he did not recognize to present their cards, saying that they always liked to keep the cards of visiting friends. These friends however did not care to give their cards and thought to leave. But they reached the gate to find that their exit had cut off. They then had to give their names. They were students from other places who have posed as Reformers. The boys who seem to want to go home do not know what it is that they wish to complain of, only they have a vague idea that in some way the U.S. is trying to injure China, and they think that if they boycott the College they are patriotic.

Well I do not know what will be the outcome but we do not anticipate any great trouble.

I have been putting much time and thought on a Summer Conference for students to be held in Foochow next Sept. 3-10. If all goes well there will be some thirty or forty students to attend. This evening I received a letter asking me to go to Hing Hua this week to visit the Association there for three or four days. The weather is very hot but I shall try to go down.

We are keeping well and shall be glad to get out of the heat up on the mountain as soon as possible. The foreign school has closed, and the children have all day to play in now.

We all send love, to all, and shall watch the mails for letters. Phebe will be off for Europe before this reaches you. I hope you will send us her address or rather her itinerary so we can drop her one or two lines direct from China.

Lovingly, Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

Another week has passed with no letter from you. I wrote June 7th. My numbering of the letters this year has been defective. I am putting on this one "No. 5" and will try to do better in the future.

I am writing this letter on my new desk made of quartered oak boards, used in the boxes that our goods came in. I want to take a photo of the desk one of these days. Elbert thought the boards were a poor lot. I wish he could see the desk itself.

The weather has been very hot during the past week. The children are very desirous to go to the mountain. But it rains every day, and the choice between the excessive dampness of the mountain and the excessive heat here is difficult to make. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin are going up tomorrow if it does not rain. I am planning to go also to see if the = our house is getting ready to live in. The Macs are going to keep house by themselves. This will relieve Ellen of much work- for boarders add to the duties of the housekeeper. It will seem queer to be in a house by ourselves. The last three summers we were on the mountain, we had boarders and the last year we were in Foochow Mr. and Mrs. Hodous were with us and while we were at home we [were] boarders, visitors or in the same house with father Kinney all the time. And the Macs have been with us since we came back. The children are standing the heat well. Dorothy has some prickly heat but it is not making her thin. Mr. and Mrs. Ned Smith arrived from Ing Hok yesterday. They will be in Foochow a few days before going to the mountain.

Yesterday I sat nearly all day with the Committee on the Student Summer Conference that we are planning to hold here next Sept. The plans and arrangements- program etc. are well under way. So far the Chinese have taken hold of it well and the missionaries are very sympathetic.

One day last week Ellen and I accepted an invitation to visit one of the tea exporter's hong = store. We found thousands of tins of tea standing on racks. About one hundred tins- each holding about one qt.- stood on the table. These he said had come that morning, and it was part of his days work to test and record these samples. Each Chinese dealer prepares his samples in these tin cans and sends the cans with the number chests he had for sale of each kind to each foreign exporter. The foreign exporter puts into a cup a certain amount of tea- the amount is carefully weighed. The cups are of uniform size and an hour glass is used to gauge the time the tea is in the hot water. The tea is then poured off and as soon as it is a little cool it is tasted and at once ejected. The man will taste five or six or more samples in a minute, then he examines the color of the liquid, and the color of the tea both before and after it is steeped. For this examination a light from a North window is essential because it is more constant and has no glare. Then he feels of the steeped tea leaves and smells them. He keeps a careful record of each point and from all makes up his mind what the tea will be worth in New York or London,- wires his friends and if a favorable reply wire comes buys the whole lot from the Chinese dealer. As we saw them the lots ran from 200 to 1000 chests of 50 or so pounds each. The prices range from 10 cents to 50 cents per lb. here (gold.) We have bought two half chests of very fine "chop" = pigeon English for "brand of tea" and they are to be shipped to Oliver. Each half chest will contain about 50 lbs. +. One is for you folks and one for the Putnam folks. If you do not like it just say so, and we won't do so some more.

We were also much interested in the camphor business. Here they have produced the gum for only 4 or 5 years. The whole tree is destroyed. The wood is cut up and boiled and the juice is the camphor. The pure gum here is worth about 60 cents gold a lb. We were in the room with $400 worth. It made our eyes smart altho the gum was in thick wooden boxes.

We are all well

All send love

Will.

Kuliang, Foochow, July 2nd 1905

Dear Folks at Home:-

My register tells me that a letter was received from Mother June 11th. I think Phebe has written to Phebe since. I wrote No. 5 to Shelton on June 11th.

We came to the mountain last Thursday. A week ago today it began to be very hot in Foochow. Mon., Tues. and Wed. were sweltering. Dorothy was well covered with prickly heat. It is all gone now, and the skin is peeling just as when she had scarlet fever. On Thursday morning we were up at 4 o'clock and off at 8 o'clock, reaching our home here at 1 p.m. We had sent one servant ahead to open and clean the house and receive the things that we sent up. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin had been in the house next to ours for two weeks. They were at our house when we came to tell us that dinner would be ready at their house in 20 min, so you see all was very pleasantly arranged for us. How we did sleep that afternoon and again that night!! We are now pretty well settled, - the air is very cool here. We sleep under blankets. Last night a typhoon tried to develop but it did not make out much. The rain however fell in torrents. This morning the sun came out and we had a beautiful time for the Chinese service at 10 a.m. Then it began to rain and held up again for the Union service in English at 5 p.m. The wind is howling in blustering gusts again. It is only getting ready for a characteristic fourth of July on Kuliang. Ned Smith has an American Flag on a 20 foot staff on the highest part of the mountain. It looks great. But I can't help wondering what we would say if the Chinese in some part of the U.S. should strap up the yellow flag with it's dragon on Am. soil.

The latest papers from home have much to say about the Am. born Chinese name Ju Toy. You may have forgotten the incident by the time this reaches you, but he was deported. [Ju Toy was a Chinese man born in America. He traveled to China and when returning to the U.S. he was deported.] Well every instance of this kind helps to incense the Chinese against us. A young Chinese- a Christian and an English speaking man called on me the other day to look over and correct a letter that he and some 330 students and teachers of one of the colleges here was sending to Pres. Roosevelt. This letter praised the U.S. for fighting for Independence, and for preserving the Union. Then asked why they dared not treat China fairly. It threatened to retaliate by boycotting all Am. imports, and suggested that innocent missionaries might be called on to pay the penalty of unjust exclusion laws, by their lives. We would call the general tone of the production rather sarcastic and in some places rude. The young men cut it and changed it quite maturely at my suggestions. I hope however the U.S. will be humane in this matter [remainder of the letter is missing]

This photo appears to have been taken in front of one of the stone buildings on Kuliang in about 1905. I believe Gould is the boy standing in front of the pole in the middle of the photo. The girl who is sitting next to him is probably Phebe and Geraldine is probably the girl with the long, dark hair just two to the right (Phebe's left) of Phebe. Dorothy may be the little girl on the right end in the front row with the scarf around her neck.

Foochow, China
July 30th 1905.

Dear folks at Home:-

A long time has slipped since I have written. My last letter was to Oliver July 10th. I see my register says July 2- No. 6 to Shelton. I am a little afraid to trust my register as implicitly as I used to do before the furlough. So I hope something has gone from here since July 2nd directly to Shelton. On July 10 a letter came from Mother and yesterday one from Mother and one from Phebe on the eve of her departure for Europe. I have had it in mind for two months to send one letter to Phebe so she would get it direct from us while on her trip. But the address came only yesterday. If I send it to the address she gave me it will not reach there till after Sept. 1st and I think it will go fully as quick via Shelton, Conn. as via Suez. So I am sending this to you. If there is time you will send it right on to her if not she will find it when she comes home.

We think of you all at home this summer- except Phebe, Ruth, Mary and James. How many does that leave? Father, Mother, Flora, Elizabeth, Stanley. The dishes will have a rest this summer, and how fast the days and weeks are flying up here on the mountain. And just as fast with you I expect. The children were much interested in Grandpa's two calves. Stanley has no big brothers about to hitch up horses and wash carriages for this summer. I have been more homesick since returning from furlough than I was after coming out the first time. And as the summer days come on, I can't keep out of my mind the haying and the hammocks under the trees, and table full of folks, and the beach parties, and the family reunions, etc. etc. I cannot at all sympathize with the missionaries who are glad to get back to the mission field because they really find the conditions of life all-round more congenial there. I think we must have had too good a time at home.

Thus far we have had a very pleasant summer here on the mt. This last week Thursday a nice heavy rain began gently and ended with a down pour that makes the farmers happy. This rain very kindly waited till the first crop of rice on the plain was harvested so it did not interfere with harvesting. The populace in Foochow city seem to be enjoying a peaceful summer- the most peaceful in some ten or more years- for each year since we came to Foochow either the Cholera or The Plague has made havoc with thousands. But up in the country-especially in the Ing Hok district the Plague is very bad- so bad that in some places the shops are not open for business.

The American boycott seems to have quieted down in general. The students in the schools have found in the framing of the petition to Pres. Roosevelt an outlet for their energies and their patriotism. But I am afraid that American imports will be decreased to some extent. The affair in Boston came very opportunely to help the cause of the Chinese.

I am trying to do a little studying these days, and it proves to be a little too often. The Kuliang Conventions are coming on now and I have most of the responsibility for the Chinese Convention week. Then the Student Conference planned for Sept. 3-10 demands constant attention.

Today has been hot. The air is quiet tonight and the mosquitoes, attracted by my lamp will hardly let me write.

Miss Newton took dinner with us yesterday. She is very well now. I wonder if you have seen Mr. and Mrs. Peet yet.

Phebe's report of the good health of the folks at Putnam was most welcome news to us. Etta wrote not long ago of the visit she had made to Putnam earlier in the season.

I have not yet answered Flora's offer to come to Foochow as teacher for the Foreign children if we would guarantee her 20 pymts. at $50 gold per year. We have talked a little about it. But the pupils do not materialize. I am afraid we should have to do a little bargaining before we could think of making any definite promise. We have not given the matter up however.

The children are in bed- and the evening air is very enticing. Ellen is enjoying it in the hammock on the veranda. I am going to enjoy it with her.

We all send lots of love to all- Will.

[This letter dated Aug. 26, 1905 was written from Kuliang, Foochow, China by Ellen to the dear ones in Shelton. She has found many new families have come to the mission field that they have not yet met and many families from all around have come to Kuliang for the summer. Various conferences, conventions and meetings have kept those on Kuliang busy. Half of the family has suffered bowel trouble with Willard taking it the worst. Kuliang, Foochow, China,
Aug. 26th, '05.

Our dear ones in Shelton,

I have received so many letters addressed to me from the Shelton home that it is about time for me to send one that way in my own hand.

Willard has written you several letters since we came to the mountain and I suppose he has told you what a pleasant summer we have had as regards weather, - unprecedented in our previous ten years experience of summers in China for the absence of typhoons, fog and long rain-storms have given the needed moisture. It has been a summer of unusual heat down on the plain yet there has been, in Foochow, no plague nor cholera that we have heard of altho neighboring cities have been seriously afflicted with plague.

We find coming back after two summer's absence a great many new comers to the mission field whom we do not know, and circumstances are such this summer that there are still a number to whom we have not been introduced. Probably there has never been a summer before when so many missionaries and other foreigners have come to Kuliang for the summer's rest. They are even coming from Hong Kong now, a house having been built during our stay in America for the missionaries of that section; two came from Japan; and the local missionary force has been increased by new recruits to all three missions.

We have had the regular week of "Keswick" meetings (religious) which were very good this year. There have been several conferences on educational and evangelistic topics. Extended reports have also been given of the triennial educational convention held in Shanghai this spring; also of the national C.E. convention held in Ning Po this spring which many of the Foochow missionaries attended. Need was found for the organization of a new society called the Sunday School Union of Fukien Province, which organization was effected here at Kuliang this season. All these together with business meetings, medical meetings, religious meetings for the Chinese and committee meeting have kept most of the people on Kuliang busy attending meetings as well as resting and recuperating. But it is all a necessary part of missionary enterprise to unify the work of the six protestant denominations represented in this province. Next week will see many leaving the mountain and returning to the work and the following week more.

Just at this time there seems to be a number of cases of bowel trouble, especially down at Foochow. Half our family are just now coping with it. Geraldine and Dorothy have been ill three or four days and under the Dr's care but are dressed every day and about the house much of the time. Willard is not taking it quite as easily. Two weeks and a half ago he had a little diarrhea came on. He had not thought of calling a Dr. for it but as she happened to call in socially I suggested that she prescribe for him. She did so, and has been in twice a day nearly every day since. The first week he dressed and lay in the hammock or on the couch or was about the house but Dr. thought he would recover faster if he kept quiet in bed. So he has followed her advice. I think Dr. Woodhull personally preferred to have a gentleman M.D. associated in the care of the case so she called in Dr. Skinner of the M.E. mission. Both are very happy acquaintances of ours and they are going their best for us. They did not think best to give Will solid food and he has no appetite for liquids except water and Citrate of Magnesia (an effervescent drink) so he has lost some flesh and strength over it. At first they called it simply diarrhea; then congestion of the liver and spleen, and now intermittent fever. This morning Dr. Skinner examined his liver and pronounced it normal, -the congestion all gone. So they think from now on we will see daily improvement. Will has never been subject to that trouble out here in China and he has a good strong constitution to meet such an attack. He thinks he never took so much medicine in all his life put together. His countenance looks almost as bright as before he was ill, - is very little thinner in the face. His callers are surprised that he looks so well, having been in bed so many days. I think with the Dr.'s that he will gain strength and flesh rapidly when he gets fairly started in that direction. He will not be able to attend the Y.M.C.A. conference next week for which he has been planning and working all summer.

The children received the souvenir postals from Ruth this week and were pleased to hear from her. We have received two letters from you I think since Will wrote last. I will write again in a few days of improvement I trust.

Please excuse my hasty writing as the hour is late and Saturday evening at that. Trusting you are all well. I am. Yours with love,

Ellen.

Kuliang, Foochow,
Sept. 5", '05

My dear ones in Shelton,

This is an important day in our calendar [Willard and Ellen's 11th wedding anniversary] and a good one on which to write a letter home as we can celebrate little in any other way this year.

I am glad however that the letter can bring good news to you. Five days ago we guessed we noted a little improvement in our patient; and the Dr. said he was ready to try a little nourishment. So she allowed him three grapes once in two hours but he was not to swallow anything but the juice. Next day the improvement continuing and the food agreeing with him and being much relished he was allowed six grapes and a little corn-starch pudding without eggs and with little sugar. As the days have advance there have been added gradually to his diet arrow-root gruel, beef steak to chew and swallow juice only, steamed apples. His strength has not perceptibly increased till this morning he says he feels a little stronger. We are so glad to see him improving. Must be brief this time. More soon.

With love,

E.L.K. Beard.

Kuliang, Foochow,
Sept. 17th 1905.

Dear Father:-

It was good to get your letter about two weeks ago. The account of your peddling trip that stormy Saturday night interested us all and specially the children. You were fortunate not to have had an accident. The paper came in the mail following the letter. I judge there will be work for someone repairing roads and dams etc. I shall be interested to learn if Ben gets his full pay for his work on Center Street last year.

I have sent the Derby Savings Bank the blank filled out as requested. Your note is down in Foochow under lock and key. The first time Ellen or I go down I will get it and send it to you. I am quite sure they amount $262.50 is correct.

I suppose Phebe must be home from Europe by this time. We had one good letter and several postals from her. She seemed to be enjoying herself immensely. We could see thro her eyes a little while she was in Naples for we spent one day there.

I am thinking apples, pears, peaches, plums, and grapes are abundant at home now. We have had a good taste of all these this summer but they are all gone now, and our fruit consists of two Chinese kinds – one a little round ball with a shuck as thick as a chestnut, then a thin pulp and then a big seed, and the guava- we did not any of us like these during our first term in Foochow but Ellen and the children are eating quantities of them now.

For almost six weeks now the bed has been my habitation. During the first week I was up and dressed most of the time and did the necessary work. The second week I was up every day but stuck pretty close to my room. The third week my appetite left me. This pleased the doctors and they told me to stop eating. For ten days I ate nothing- drank water. The doctors said my liver was the culprit, and it was in a bad way. I am poor as a crow but my strength is returning some. I have been eating for nearly two weeks now- began with three grapes once in two hours- only sucking the juice, ejecting the pulp. Now I have steak once a day, boiled potatoes- corn starch pudding, tapioca pudding, boiled eggs, tomatoes, and since grapes and apples (so called) have gone I am eating canned fruit- cherries, peaches, apples, pears. I eat a qt. tin of this in two days. I can also have bread. Every night is almost sure to bring me good sleep. I have sat up while Ellen cut my hair last Tues. I am writing this lying in bed. But I can feel myself getting stronger all the time and the doctors say I'll be all the better for the enforced idleness. There has been no pain any of the time. I have simply had to lie still and be patient.

The great disappointment to me came when I found I could not attend the Student Summer Conference which I had arranged for to be held in Foochow Sept. 3-10. But God took hold of four Chinese young men and made of the conference the best one held in China. Of these four Chinese young men Mr. Ding Ming Nong was most prominent. The Conference taught the lesson that God's Holy Spirit works directly thro the Chinese. The most powerful speaker was a Chinese Diong by name from Ku Cheng. They said he was a Moody [Dwight Lyman Moody was an evangelist of Protestant beliefs. He founded the Moody Church in 1864.]. He not only carried his audience with him but he moved them to tears and brought them fact to face with their sins so that they were convicted- and those were Christian young men, some of them studying for the ministry.

When Ellen wrote last Geraldine and Dorothy were a little under the weather. They are all right now so with the exception of myself we are well. (Dorothy still not quite recovered.)

Letters from Putnam tell us they are well and that Etta has another boy [Fulton W. Hume. Her other two sons born previously are Donald and Myron.].

We all send lots of love to you all

Will.

Fri. a.m. Sept. 22. Yesterday I was up and dressed and at the table for b-fast and dinner. This morning I am at the table dressed and at the table the little girls are all right. Will.

Kuliang, Foochow,

China, Oct. 1- 1905

Dear folks at Home:-

I wrote father more than a week ago before I began to sit up. A week ago last Wed. I got up and put my clothes on over my pajamas and went out to breakfast. Then I lay down most of the time till dinner, took dinner with the family, but then undressed and went to bed. Thurs. I took all meals at the table. Fri. I walked half round the house out doors. Sat. I walked up to the next house. Sunday I walked over a quar. of a mile, and from then it has thus far been a steady gain. This afternoon I walked at least three miles.

We are still on the mountain- the latest we ever remained here I think. Only yesterday did we know anything definite about what house we could get- everything seemed to go against us, and it looked as if we might be compelled to move over to Ponasang into the same house in which we lived the last year before going home. This would please the children- for they say there is no house in Foochow as good as that one. But yesterday a note came from Ven. Archdeacon Wolfe of the Eng. Mission saying we could have a house he is building and which I have been trying to get since last June. It is not yet finished but this does not disturb us. The International Comm. have also written telling us to purchase land and build. So within a year we hope we may have a permanent abiding place.

The weather up here on the mountain is cool 60 degrees yesterday morning. To this is added rain for the past three days. We put on a few more clothes and rather enjoy it. Ellen went to Foochow Wed. and returned Friday. We were sleeping under double blankets here, and she could scarcely endure a sheet over her there, and wanted a fan all day. She got father's note. I have torn off "Beard" as father wrote and enclose it.

We had onions fried in goose fat this evening. I shall never forget some onions which mother once fried in chicken fat. I remember we had a lot of old hens that were very fat- so fat that we dared not sell all the fat and mother tried [tied?] it up and saved it. She took the spider and cut up onions until they were heaped up and made a cone. Then she added the chicken fat and the whole thing fried down to less than a spider full. But my! they were good. Well those we had tonight were most as good.

There are five families of missionaries still on the mountain. One plans to go tomorrow, the other three are here because of health, and we shall plan to go the last of this week. I plan to go Tuesday and see just how the land lies,-housewise.

The American papers I see are beginning to realize that China is a nation of living human beings. The Boycott is actually bringing the "powers that be" to their senses. I think this Boycott is one of the surest signs that China is waking up. It will be a long time before she ever will get her rights at the canon's mouth, but she will find other and just as effective means. The truth is that Eng, Ger. and the U.S. want the market that China offers. And the increase of the imports in foreign goods- chiefly manufacturers and food products- is amazing. To keep this market the western nation will be more nearly just in the future in their dealings with this nation, which in the past all have treated in a way to further their interest of the foreign powers with little thought of the justice in the case. If you want the proof of this statement get the first Vol. of Smith's "China in Convulsion" from the Shelton S. School Library, and look up the treaties that foreign powers have made with China- exacted from China would be a better way of putting it.

We are now having some fine fruit and nuts, bananas, pears, guavas (which we now like), green oranges for orangeade, pumelo, chestnuts which we boil, and new peanuts, the new sweet potatoes are delicious, and we get them out of the fields all about our house, for 10 lbs. for 74 gold.

Ellen has not been quite well- a little bowel trouble for a day or so but is better- the children are brown as fall nuts and all well. Gould went in swimming a week ago in the morning and now he is shedding his back's skin.

With lots of love to all from all.

Will

[This letter dated Oct. 8, 1905 was written from Kuliang, Foochow, China by Willard to the folks at home. Ellen is now having digestion troubles. Kuliang, Foochow, China.

Oct. 8th 1905.

Dear folks at Home:-

As the address at the top indicates we are still on the mountain. These Oct. days here are superb. Sept. was rather damp and rainy but Oct. has been mostly dry and beautiful. It is a great place here now to get strong and brown. I wish you could see the children. All four are perfectly well and brown as nuts. Ellen has not been perfectly well for over two weeks. The trouble she thinks is with her digestion, and the remedy is fasting. I am fasting also. Every day from b-fast to dinner, from dinner to supper and every night from supper till b-fast next morning. Often the time seems very long. From the time I began to eat- about four weeks ago I have steadily gained in every way. Last Tuesday I went to Foochow. Archdeacon Wolfe had written me the Sat. before that one Community man who had rented his house had thrown up the agreement and he would let us have it. So I went down to see about it. He promises the house to us, but it will not be finished ready for occupancy till after the first of Nov. Until that time the Meth. Mission will allow us to remain in the house we occupied last spring. So it looks as if we were provided with shelter.

There is a big auction in Foochow tomorrow beginning at 10 a.m. Ellen wants me to go so badly that she is going to let me start at 6:30 and she will see to getting some 8 loads of our things off and shutting up the house. She and the children will start soon after dinner.

Bowel trouble has been very prevalent all about here this last two months. When in Foochow last Tues. and Wed. I found a sister of Mr. Simester of the Meth mission, on her way to west China, visiting her brother here, sick with disentary. Another missionary from Amoy was in Foochow sick with the same. A fever called Dengy [Dengue] fever is quite prevalent just now in Foochow- it is of a gripe nature.

The children will begin school again Tuesday I expect. They look forward to this with little pleasure I am afraid. And we do not greatly regret to two weeks they have not attended since it opened this fall. The teacher is not one that would command a high position at home. I have not yet been able to find Flora's twenty pupils at $50 gold a year. Then the number is so uncertain from year to year, that I would not think it wise to come out dependent entirely on the pupils she might get or even have promised, for no one can make such a promise for even six months ahead here.

We are taking a monthly magazine this year called "County [Country] Life in America." I wish you would send 25 cents for the September number. There is an article "cheap farms in Conn." that Stanley would like to read. Address Doubleday, Page and Co. 133-137 E. 16th St. N.Y. City. Stanley and father will also like to read another article in this number- "How to improve the texture of the soil." To us out here the best feature of the paper is its pictures. They are the only very nice pictures that come to us. And they are first class in every respect. We talk of cutting some of them out and framing them.

Thursday Oct 12- We all came down to Foochow Monday. All well

With lots of love

Will

Foochow, China
Oct. 22 – 1905

Dear folks at Home:-

Gould has written today to grandpa Beard, and has his letter all ready for the stamp. It is now 8:30 p.m. and I know if I do not write now I shall not do so for at least another week.

The most important news from Foochow is the call that came to Mr. Simester, of the M.E. mission, from God to receive his reward and enter on his rest last Thursday morning at 6 o'clock. He had been ill for nearly two weeks with what we call here the Dengue fever. This is not considered serious and under ordinary conditions does not seem to be. But Mr. Simester had worked very hard while at home on furlough and on reaching the field here about a year ago now he pitched into the work with his whole save and strength- this last summer he spent at Sharp Peak and studied the written language with all his might. He also had a building in process of construction here in Foochow, - was Pres. of the Theol. Sem'y and had charge of a country district. He began the term in the Sem'y early to close early planning to go into the country 150 miles or more for evangelistic work in Jan.- Feb. With all this work he was very tired and he so expressed himself before he was ill at all. So the fever had a big advantage.

He leaves a wife and four little children. The eldest nine years old last July, and the youngest born a year ago last June in Ohio. He was home at the same time we were. I met him once in Boston and lunched with him. Of all the foreigners in Foochow outside the A. Board mission I felt nearest to Mr. Simester. The whole illness and all seemed to me very sudden. I can not make it seem that he is not here.

I wrote you about an auction of household furniture I attended week before last. Last Friday there was another. I spent another $4.00 mex. for flowers. So now we have about 275 pots in all. They have cost us about $5.00 gold.

The Dengue fever is very prevalent all about the city. Most of the missionaries and many of the Chinese in Foochow city proper have had it. I hope it will stop now. The weather was very hot for this time of year until Thurs. when it rained and Fri. was cooler yesterday was beautifully clear and cool. Today has been a beautiful day.

I have promised to hold services with a large class of Bible women each evening next week or rather this week beginning tomorrow evening. You will like to hear that last week I gained nearly 7 lbs. in ten days. Twice last week I played tennis. But my running legs are not in good shape yet.

We have all been well. Ellen immensely enjoys caring for her flowers, and she thinks it does her good. Last night no Fri. night a big fat house mail came – a good letter fr. Ruth- one fr. Mr. Lathrop- and one from Elbert and one from Etta Mr. Lathrop wrote the day after Phebe returned from Europe. All the letters contained good news. God is dealing very kindly with us all. I trust we may all give Him our best time, strength and powers, and thus be useful to Him in advancing the Kingdom.

All send love to all

Will.

[This letter date Nov. 5, 1905 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the folks at home. The Annual Meeting of the American Board meets in a week and they will be talking about Revivals. A teacher in charge of the girl's school has Dengue and it has affected her mind. Ellen has Dengue now, as does Mr. Ding's wife and father. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China
Nov. 5th 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

We are feeling the cold today for the first time. The first thing I heard this morning was Gould dashing from the room in which he sleeps thro our room to the bureau where his heavy winter undershirts were. Dorothy has been most all day with her usual clothing. I am writing with an overcoat on this evening. But the weather is beautiful.

I walked over to Gen Cio Dong this morning = the first church in Foochow suburbs, near Ponasang. The Annual Meeting of the Am. Board begins next Wed. I am to speak on Friday afternoon on Revivals outside of Wales. The Friday afternoon session is given to the "Fukien Revival Society"- you may think this rather a queer name, but that is the literal translation. The Chinese of the three missions in Foochow on their initiative have united and are holding meetings in the interest of evangelization and they call the organization as above. There is much in the very fact of the organization to give us joy and hope. It is a sign that the Christian Chinese are alive to a sense of their responsibility to tell their countrymen of God's love for them.

Miss Garretson who has charge of the Intermediate School for Girl's at Ponasang is quite ill. It started last week with the "Dengue." But she has been very tired for some time and her mind is seriously affected.

We are still in the same house, watching the new house which we have rented slowly approaching completion but never reaching the desired condition. The International Comm. have sent me $2500 with which to begin to provide for a residence. About Nov. 15 a house and fine grounds are to be sold at public auction. We are waiting to see if this will answer our purpose, and if we can afford to buy it.

Last Thursday a little boy came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin. Mrs. M is doing nicely I believe, but no one has been allowed to see her yet. Ellen began with the "Dengue" two weeks ago tomorrow. She came down and took dinner with us for the first time yesterday. She is obeying the Doctors orders and getting up slowly. I hope this cold weather will stop it. Mr. Ding was in this afternoon. His father has been quite ill for some time with other troubles he has had the Dengue. But is getting better. His wife is very sick. She was not at all well during the summer. He took her down to Pagoda Anchorage in August and she was better. But is much worse now. Poor fellow! God is giving him much sorrow these days. He frequently asks to be remembered to you.

I attended another auction of household furniture last Monday, and came home with a sofa and two large arm chairs all upholstered in imitation leather. $30.50 mex. or about $14 gold for the three pieces. They are practically new. And they say the furniture in the house referred to above is also to be sold at auction in the near future. But with all this rents are very high and very scarce. The lead priest of the Catholic Mission here owns a house. The man who has rented it for some years- thirty for all I know, asked $80 a month. The renter hesitated, and within two weeks five persons were after it and the price jumped to $100 per month.

We think of you as eating apples and pears, with peaches and grapes gone. I wish we could have some of your apples. But I doubt not you would enjoy taking breakfast with us. First we would ask you to have some pumelo, then two kids of oranges, bananas, persimmons, dates, boiled chestnuts, peanuts, and English walnuts if you desired. After these a little oatmeal with bread and butter or a hot gem, a cup of Postum or real coffee if you preferred and that's all.

I hope to hear better news in regard to Oliver and Flora in the next letters. The children are well and hearty and, tell Flora are "developing rapidly."

With Love from all to all

Will.

[This letter dated Nov. 26, 1905 was written from Foochow, China by Willard to the folks at home. Miss Garretson, who was in charge of a girl's school will leave China because of problems with Dengue fever. The talk in Foochow is of revivals. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China, Nov. 26th, 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

My last letter was dated Nov. 6. Yours to us Nov. 12 and 21. The children wrote you Nov. 16.

To begin with ourselves, we are all well. The teacher of the school which the three older children have been attending was taken ill a week ago, with slight hope that she will be able to resume her duties. The children are studying at home. Flora has written definitely about coming out to take the school next fall. I am looking up dates to write her as fast as my daily duties and strength allow.

We had the pleasure of entertaining Mrs. E. H. Smith and Helen Huntington and Edward Huntington four days last week. Mr. Smith is making an extended tour in the Ing Hok field and Mrs. Smith and the children are staying in Foochow. The McLachlin boy is 24 days old today. Mrs. M. is getting on as well as can be expected. We are making plans to welcome another young secretary to our home next Feb. We are still in the old Meth. House and are wondering if the new house will be finished in time to receive the new secretary. The Meth. missions however do not now need the house so we are living in contentment.

Miss Garretson, who has been associated with Miss Newton in the Girls School at Ponasang has had a serious breakdown which has affected her mind. At first it was thought some one would have to go home with her immediately but she is much better now and plans to leave Shanghai the last of Dec. We expect to go into the city and take Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Hodous.

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China Dec. 7th 1905.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last letter started for Shelton on Thanksgiving Day. It would have been a nice thing to do to write to James and Leolyn on that day- the first anniversary of their wedding day. But I could not get it in. The memories of the day one year ago are very fresh.

This year we all took goose dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Hodous, and their two children. Mrs. Smith and her two children- Mr. Smith was away in the country- and Mrs. Whitney- Dr. W. is in Shanghai. In the afternoon I preached in one of the series of evangelist meetings now in progress in the city station. My part in these meetings closed last Tuesday. I have preached at twelve meetings.

This evening I take the boat to go to Hing Hua. Tonight I go down nearly to the Anchorage,- wait till the tide rises- go up the river on the other side of the island and Fri. and Sat. travel by land about 45 miles to reach Hing Hua. I am going down to see the Y.M.C.A. in the college of the Meth. Mission there, and plan to get back home the last of next week.

Ellen and the children have just come in from a sort of farewell party given to Mrs. Simester and her four children. They plan to start for the U.S. in a few days.

The weather has been very hot for a few days- today 76 degrees at noon. All four children were barefoot today.

The last mail brought letters from Stanley and Phebe. How I wish I could have been at home to help father get in his corn and fix up for winter. With the new bath room I suppose you will not need to go to the shore anymore, - great saving in expense!

Have we written that the teacher of the school wh. the children have been attending was ill? And that there is not prospect of any more school until Flora comes out?

Father need not bother about my life Insurance this year- or it will be next year- I can send the check direct from here.

The good work continues for the Kingdom. Last Sunday saw twenty of Christ's soldiers in the large open space in front of the Viceroy's Yamen in Foochow city preaching Christ.

All are well and all send love to all

Will.

In February, 1905, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. McLachlin and Mr. and Mrs. Willard L. Beard arrived in Foochow, appointed by the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association as Secretaries for Foochow. Mr. Beard had been in Foochow from 1894 to 1903 as a missionary of the American Board. Mr. McLachlin was a newcomer.

The Association has now five foreign and 18 Chinese secretaries on the staff with a membership of 2,400 and a yearly budget of $25,000. Property was purchased near the north end of the Bridge of Ten Thousand Ages in 1911, and the Association has there a modern building with all modern equipment. On South Street in the Walled City property was purchased in 1913 and this branch is filling the need of a large constituency within the city. In 1922 the Association acquired a large property five miles up the Min river from Foochow, on the east bank, where three conference buildings have been erected.

Hot springs, utilized by the provident Chinese for widespreading bathhouses, are found toward the East Gate while a trip there can easily be expanded to carry one over Curio Street, a section amply described by its name, where antiques and fakes can be bought in large quantities. To those interested in temples the Confucian Temple, inside the city walls, and Sa-sieng-se (Lichee Temple), a few li outside the West Gate, are most appealing. The last named is famed for its flowers and its finely carved pillars of stone.

Mission work of all kinds, from kindergartens to institutional churches and schools for the blind, can be seen with little effort. A fine example of modern industrial plant with some welfare work carried on for its employees is the Foochow Electric Co., Ltd.

Dear Folks:-

There is not time to write a letter so I am just sending a postal to tell you we are all well. Gould and I spent Sunday on the mountain at our cottage. The summer residents there give money for the carrying on of Christian work there through [throughout] the year. E. is in charge this year of the chapel, and I went up for her, -preached in the morning and held communion in the afternoon. - The weather has been very rainy and cold, but it changed to clear and warm. We took heaviest clothes but did not need them, -the foreign Week of Prayer began Sunday. - Everyone is talking "Boycott" but Am. flour and oil are everywhere in evidence.

All send love Will

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last mail came in Thurs. evening. There was not a word from either home and we could not understand it. But Friday evening just as we were leaving the house to go over to consul Gracey's for dinner. At 8 p.m. the postman came with four letters, and the pleasant remark that we could have them by paying him 60 cents. The letters were all from our home friends. Two cents U.S. postage takes a letter of 1 oz. to Shanghai, - but it takes 54 to send it to Foochow. I address and stamp letters to the two homes and to the Y.M.C.A. rooms in N.Y., - with U.S. stamps. Then enclose these in another envelope, seal it, and address to the Y.M.C.A. office in Shanghai, paying 2 cents Chinese stamps for each ½ oz. They open the package and re-mail the letters to the U.S. in the U.S. Post office in Shanghai. Letters to strangers I usually pay 10 cents Chinese stamps and send direct from Foochow, because they are sure to reply with a 2 cent U.S. stamp. And then I must pay shortage 3 cents X 2= double the shortage 6 cents X 2= 12 cents mex. Or it costs us six cents gold to get a letter with 2 cents U.S. stamps. Well I am writing this just for your information. When we get such good news and so much of it, we deem it cheap for 60 cents.

The Week of Prayer has been very interesting and helpful this year. In every meeting we have had brought before us facts of the growth of the kingdom of God, in all parts of the world. This growth has been phenomenal in many lands. This fact together with the revivals in Foochow during the past two months has made the meetings very inspiring.

In addition to the union prayer meeting each afternoon, there were exercises in connection with commencements of Boys and Girls schools Mon, Tues, Wed, and Thurs.

I have bought over 2000 lbs. of potatoes- not all for ourselves - some for Flora when she comes [see note at end of letter]. The letters Fri. mentioned the tea for the first time- I am glad it arrived safely, and I hope you will be able to drink it.

We were specially glad to hear that Oliver was so well. Annie wrote Phebe that B-port was building up fast around them.

We hear much about the Boycott, and I see placards up in various places, yet Am. flour and oil are being carried thro the streets continually.

We are still in the old Meth. House. I have a promise of a piece of land on wh. to build. All are well and send love to all Will.

On her return she was appointed principal of the Montrose School in 1924. Mr. E. B. Sturges, Scranton, Pa.
U.S.A.

Dear Mr. Sturges:-

Will you accept an invitation to take a country trip with me? We start from our home in Foochow at 9:00 p.m. Thursday. Our outfit is a cotton bed 2-in. thick for a mattress and blankets to keep us warm, some extra clothes for a change when we have to travel in the rain and a basin, towel and other toilet articles. All these must go into a light bamboo basket and the whole must not weigh over 40 lbs. In another bamboo basket we put our food for the journey. This must also come within the 40 lb. limit. The two baskets are carried by one man on a stick across his shoulder.

The first night we sleep on a boat which, while we sleep goes down the Min River some ten miles, and we wake Friday morning to find ourselves anchored at the mouth of a creek leading inland from the river. As soon as the tide rises the boat carries us about ten miles further. Our breakfast is cooked over an earthen ware stove 8 in. in diam. and 10 in. high burning charcoal. By ten o'clock the boat reaches the extreme navigable point in the creek, and we start overland on foot. The bedding and food are carried by one man and three others carry a sedan chair in which we will ride part of the way. We are told that we have 8 puo or 24 miles to make that day in order to reach a certain village where there is a Christian chapel for the night. About noon the coolies are hungry and we all stop at a village where cooking is going on, and with the coolies we buy a bowl of rice and a bowl of sweet potatoes piping hot and taking some bread and jam from the food basket we eat dinner. Our chair is a log of wood or a stone, our table the flat top of the food basket- all out of doors in the open. The Chinese are eager to see the foreigner eat and crowd about on all sides. They are much interested in the bread and even reach to feel of it but are persuaded to feast on it with their eyes only. We are not over 20 miles in a direct line from Foochow, yet the brogue of the people is very pronounced and only a few can talk with us easily. It is pleasant to chat with them as we eat, and we are already accustomed to keeping our elbows in the wall to make room to lift the food to our mouths.

Just as darkness comes on we reach the chapel. The "Prophet's chamber is in readiness with the wooden table and the loose boards on the two wooden stools for our bed. The table is not crumbed between courses so we are soon in bed preparing for the next day's journey of 25 miles. About 5:30 p.m. we approach the gate in the wall of Hing Hua City on the coast a short distance South from Foochow on the map. About 100 boys and young men are playing in a field near the gate. As we approach they gather near the road and one of them asks in good English if this is Mr. Beard. They prove to be a delegation of the students from the Meth schools in Hing Hua to welcome us. These hundred boys and young men make quite an imposing procession as they march thro the street of the city in their uniforms of black with yellow braid.

Sunday a.m. we speak in English and Rev. W.N. Brewster, senior member of the Meth. Mission in Hing Hua, translates for us. The church, seating 600 is full. The 160 boys and young men of the schools are there, and the 60 girls and women from the boarding schools are there, beside many business men and farmers from the city and surrounding country. Most of the 40 Theological students are away preaching for the day. In the evening Mr. Brewster translates again. We are only about 40 miles in a straight line from Foochow, yet Chinese from the two cities cannot understand each other.

Monday morning at 11:00 we meet the young men and boys only. The address is in the Foochow dialect and translated into the Hing Hua by a Chinese teacher in the school. The subject is "prayer." All but three of the students are professing Christians. But when asked how many pray each day only about 12 rose. They are asked to seriously think of the matter for 24 hours. Monday p.m. is filled with personal interviews. This is specially encouraging because it has been difficult to obtain these with Chinese young men.

Monday there is another address before the students of all schools. Tuesday until 11:00 a.m. we look over the mission plants: -preparatory school, high school where all students study English, theological school, industrial work, - weaving, printing, soap making, cabinet making, basket weaving (the product on sale at Marshall Field's, Chicago) furnish the means by which 100 students are paying their own way thro school. Then there are the buildings for work among women and girls and the residences for the missionaries.

At 11:00 a.m. the chapel is filled with 200 students and teachers. The Chinese teacher translates again as the address on "sin is" is given in Foochow dialect. At the close of the address 100 boys and young men are on their feet promising to meet God every morning in prayer.

Tuesday afternoon is filled with interviews. In the evening the meeting takes the form of confession and prayer. The worst man in school who has once been expelled, rises and confesses to having cheated in examinations and to having been disrespectful to his teachers, naming the teacher who is present. He himself leads in prayer. Prayer rises in volumes. At least 50 are praying at the same time. This continues for ten minutes. The Spirit is at work in the hearts of these young men and boys. We are confident that it is deep for all tell us that it began in the hearts of a few picked men who attended the Summer Conference held at Foochow in Sept. 1905.

Wed., Thurs., Fri. and Sat, we traveled 100 miles over the mountains stopping at Christian chapels at night and encouraging the workers. At 5:30 p.m. Sat. we reach Ing Hok City, a station of the Am. Board where we have worked four years. Sunday a.m., p.m. and evening we are with the church members the 20 boys in the school the workers in the hospital and the teachers. Mon. at 1:00 p.m. we take the boat down over the rapids of the Ing Hok river toward Foochow. All night the men work at the oars and tie up just as it begins to grow light Tues. a.m. We are six miles from home. At 9:00 a.m. we find the dear ones all safe.

Country touring is the cream of missionary work. The person who visits missions in foreign lands by touching the port cities and viewing the college buildings and other machinery of the work, meeting and speaking to hundreds and possibly thousands of students in these centers, thinks he has seen and knows the work. Never. The real missionary work is done in the quiet country places.

I think of Mrs. Boies and her daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Odell as on their way to China. Please remember Mrs. Beard and myself to Mrs. Sturges, Miss Sturges and your son.

Very Sincerely Yours,-

W.L. Beard

Dear Folks at Home:-

I am sending you a copy of a letter that I am writing to Mr. Sturges, one of our supporters in Scranton, Pa. You may find something interesting or useful in it. The postman came again yesterday and offered us a letter from Putnam and one from Shelton for 44 cents. We paid it gladly, and got a lot of good news.

All are well and send love

Will.

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China Jan., 26th. 1906.

Mr. John R. Mott
3 West 29th. St.

N.Y. City
U.S.A.

Dear Mr. Mott:-

When my last quarterly report started for New York I was just getting about after a rest of six weeks in bed. It has been interesting during the past three months to watch the steady growth in strength and in weight from 140 lbs. in Oct. to the normal weight of 175 lbs. which was reached only two weeks ago.

We are still living in the Worley house of the Meth. Mission. Altho they expected to need it themselves the mission has kindly allowed us to remain. Archdeacon Wolfe of the C.M.S. has promised us the rent of a new house which he is now building, when it is completed. We hope to move into it before the hot weather next spring. Scarcely a day has passed during the purchasing of real estate. Just as I write I have the promise of a piece of land sufficiently large for one residence. This is only a promise. There is reason to hope the land will become ours, but until we have the deeds it will be unnecessary to report further.

I have already written you somewhat fully of the revivals in the Anglo-Chinese College and in the A.B.C.F.M. College here, showing that God used the Associations in these colleges as the instrument thro which he worked and also that these revivals had their source in the Student Summer Conference held here last Sept. Quite recently I have sent to you a full account of my visit to Hing Hua and the results, - 100 young men pledged to keep the morning watch.

At Christmas time I visited Pagoda Anchorage and two places inland from there, also the Anglo Chinese College in connection with the Foochow Arsenal. This school is entirely under Chinese control, with no foreign influence of any kind as far as I could ascertain. We were very kindly received by two of the Chinese teachers and several of the students. On an invitation to come again I arranged to go the next week with Mr. McLachlin. A Chinese Preacher of a self supporting chapel about half an hours walk from the college was also invited to meet us at the college. The head master of the college met us very pleasantly and showed us over the buildings. There are four Chinese teachers and 44 students. Engineering and Navigation are the two principal courses. Some of the graduates go into the Arsenal, some on board the gunboats. The text books are in English, and the teaching is all in English. Four of the students are interested in Christianity. While distinctively Christian work cannot be done inside the college, yet the chapel referred to above makes a point of contact for such work. We left a few copies of "China's Young Men", accepted the invitation of the head master to go to his house and during tea, looked at his library of English books and left with the hope of following up the opportunity next year (Chinese).

In Oct. I spent six evenings with leading women workers of the Meth and Eng. Missions. These women are the mothers of the young men whom we must influence to enter Christian service. In Nov. and Dec. I was with five churches of Foochow in special evangelistic services for over two weeks. These services and other special occasions have afforded opportunities for over 40 addresses in Chinese during the quarter.

To my mind the most significant step taken by the church in Foochow during the year was the organization of the "Foochow Revival Society" about Oct. 1st, 1905. As far as I know the idea was evolved and the society organized entirely by the Chinese the society is one of the fruits of the reports of the good work done in Amoy a year ago and of the Welsh revival. The three missions in Foochow are united in this movement. For the first two months delegates from each church in and about Foochow met monthly, semi-monthly, weekly, listened to earnest addresses and prayed much. About the middle of Dec. the City Evangelistic Band was formed entirely of volunteers. These were about 30 in number, - from all three missions and from all occupations, - pastors, teachers, colporters, carpenters, shopkeepers and other business men. These meet each Sunday afternoon for half an hour's prayer service then go out on the streets and tell men of Christ. The first Sunday they were in front of the Foochow Viceroy's Yamen. Last Sunday in two different places a crowd was seen gathered about a single man who was telling them of salvation. Thus far on conservative estimates over 12,000 people have heard the Truth from members of this band. There has been no opposition and the crowds have invariably been respectful and attentive. When a Chinese business man preaches, with no eloquence, - merely saying over one sentence, as one man did recently, "I am a Christian. I believe Jesus Christ. It is better to worship God than to worship idols", - the charge cannot be made to him that he is talking for foreigner's money. I hope for much from this society.

After much prayer and consultation with missionaries and leading Chinese workers, we have asked two English speaking Chinese to help us in the work next year. Both men are second generation Christians trained in mission schools, and for four or five years have done excellent Christian work, and from all sources we hear only good concerning their character, ability and efficiency. Their salary will be about $375 mex. each for the year, or $375 gold for the two. Toward this we have the $100 gold asked for our personal teachers. The Balance I guarantee. Neither of the men has yet accepted. If one or both do accept, we shall ask the International Committee if they are willing to meet the expense. I do not think it will increase our budget, but it will need a transfer of items.

You will also recall that just before leaving the U.S. I turned into the treasury of the International Committee thro Mr. Wilson of the Washington D.C. Association a check for $200. from one of the Corby brothers of the Corby Bakery, 2301-2307 Brightwood Ave Washington, D.C. I wrote Mr. Andersen that it would not accord with Mr. Corby's wish to have this used for salary. He desired to give it toward the opening of a chapel or something in that line. It has not seemed to me wise to use it in that way. I am quite certain Mr. Corby would be pleased to have it go toward the support of one of these young men if they accept our proposition.

Very Sincerely Yours,

W.L. Beard.

Dear Folks at Home:-

How does it suit you to have me sending copies of these report letters and a word in private at the end like this? I expect you really get more from me than if I did not send these to you. This is the 2nd day of the Chinese New Year. The New Year's day- yesterday was a very lovely day. A crisp air and the sun shone bright all day. Today has been cloudy and it rained this evening. I am wondering what the men think now who told me yesterday that when it was pleasant on New Year's day it would be pleasant for a long time afterward.

This afternoon began the Chinese Week of Prayer. The three missions meet together for this. It was one of the best Chinese prayer meetings that I ever attended. Yesterday we were entirely devoid of servants. We sent them all home on the last day of the Chinese year to stay till today. Ellen asked Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and their six children over for dinner. We had a table full of children- all nearly of a size. The oldest Gardner boy is 14 but he is only slightly larger than Phebe. There were children enough to make a respectable football team. We gave Gould a football for Christmas and they all had a jolly good time with it yesterday. On Tues. evening Ellen had what is called in high Foochow Society a "dinner party," fourteen of us from the U.S. and Ireland and Eng. ate together. On Wed. evening I was one of a "Stag party" of six to meet a young man just out from Dublin University for work in Fu Ning- 100 miles north from Foochow on the coast.

Have I written that Phebe's Christmas presents came all right and we send thanks for them. Just after Christmas until now, I have been too busy to be at all social- except as I was forced into it. This report should have been off Jan. 1-5. Tomorrow I have about two hours more of writing and then I'm going to hold up a bit and help Ellen hang some pictures. We have been thinking we might move almost any time so have not hung many pictures. But now that we have decided to stay here for a couple of months we may fix up a bit.

All are well and all send love

Will.

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China Feb. 11th, 1906.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last two letters from Foochow went as a sort of tail end of reports. They however served to let you know how we were. During the last three weeks the schools have been closed for the Chinese New Years vacation, and week before last many of the foreignized stores, the Printing Press, Banks etc. were closed, so comparative quiet reigned. This gave one time to do some writing that had long been waiting.

A week ago yesterday the children and I went into the streets to see the lanterns. Friday was the day of the Chinese Lantern Festival, and for ten days previous to the festival, certain streets are occupied by the vendors of paper lanterns, made in all conceivable shapes. Each of the children selected a lantern as we walked along. Then we stopped, only for an instant and the crowds became almost crushing. So after the children had made their selection I took them into a shop where I was known and left them in the back room while I went out and bought the lanterns. Here are some of the bargains. The man of whom I bought Gould's lantern asked 45 cents. He accepted 20 cents and carried the lantern - a large one- half way home for me. Another man wanted 10 cents a piece for the round globe lanterns about 8 in. diam. He let me have 6 for 10 cents. When these lanterns had the candles in them and lit they made a very showy appearance in the evening. We talk every year about how we wish it were feasible to take some of them home to the U.S. but it is almost impossible. They are so fragile. They are intended to furnish a few days or evenings of sport, and then are used up, and next year new ones are made. The lantern Festival was last Friday. That day a few lanterns were displayed. On Sat. you could hardly find one.

Today the Young Men's Bible Class met for the fourth time. There were 12 present.

Last Monday was my 41st birthday. The children had conspired with Ellen to have a party. It was very amusing to hear the secrets kept, and to see the expressions when I looked surprised as for instance when Phebe read aloud one of the letters accepting the invitation in my presence before she thought of it.

Last Wed. the missionaries gave up to prayer, -three sessions- a.m., p.m., and evening. Each session was devoted mostly to prayer. On that day Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. Hartwell, Teddy, Nela, and Christine came up. Some of them have been with us until yesterday afternoon. The Am. Board had a business meeting Thursday. The Hubbards started home Friday afternoon but the wind was dead ahead and the waves so fierce that they dared not go on so we had all but Nela, who went to Ponasang, another day. They went home yesterday p.m. The children have made things lively for four days. How is Foochow tea?

An Am. mail has just arrived- No letters from you yet. They may come in tomorrow.

The young man who is to help in the Y.M.C.A. work this year arrived in Foochow from Ku Cheng 100 miles N.W. yesterday. I trust this will mean much for the works here. I'll close this here with – we are all well. - There may be more news before the mail goes.

Lovingly

Will

Dear Folks in Shelton:-

This morning at 3:30 a little girl came to our home much to the joy of her sisters and brother. Phebe said a little while ago its too bad for Gould tho. not to have a little brother to play with.

Ellen awoke at 2:00 o'clock. The Dr. arrived about 2:30 and left about 4:00. We went back to bed and slept till 6:45. Every thing went as nicely as possible.

We have been too busy to name her as yet. Ellen talked of Marjorie but the children do not like it.

You doubtless hear of the troubles near Amoy. All is quiet as far as [I] know in this region.

He talks about some of the Chinese colleges and the opportunities for them to get in them to teach English and Christianity. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]*

[After Feb. 17, 1906]

Dear Folks at Home:-

The last mail brought a letter from you to Geraldine. This told us of the arrival of the new cousin in Bridgeport, and of the illness of Ruth. We trust that Leolyn and the baby [On Jan. 26, 1906, young Leolyn M. Seaver Beard was born to James and Leolyn Seaver Smith Beard.] are doing well. And we hope for the best news about Ruth. Flora writes that she is planning to come out in the Autumn. I have just pounded off a few lines to her regarding this. Both Ellen and I tried to write you by the last mail but both of us failed. No news was good news this time however. Both Ellen and Marjorie are doing the perfectly proper things every day. Marjorie does not kick unless she feels badly, not even when I do not bathe her every day, as I am not doing today. She knows that the night is the time for sleep, and she is coming to know that the day is for activity. Ellen has not had any pain since Marjorie came, she sat up about two hours yesterday in a chair. When the children heard of the arrival of the little cousin we were at the supper table. They made such a clapping and shouted so that Ellen heard them up stairs with the doors all closed. There is also great rejoicing over the news that Flora is planning to come out for the school.

We have one opening into one of the Chinese Colleges in the City, and have entered it. I have the privilege of meeting about twenty five young men one hour a week to use the time as I like. It was given out that I was to lecture to them on Christianity last Saturday. Most of these boys know nothing about Christianity. We have visited the Highest Government College in the City and there is reason to hope that we shall get into it to teach English. Another college wants music and we hope to supply it thro one of our Chinese secretaries. Another Military college wants preaching- at least we are told so, and we are on the watch to get into this college also.

Keep us posted with regard to Ruth.

Very lovingly,
Will Feb. 1906

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China March 25th 1906.

Dear Folks at Home:-

During the past two weeks I have done very little writing of any kind. This last week on Tues., Fri. and Sat. I went into the city to visit the Chinese Colleges. This means a long half day each time. We have been doing regular work in two Colleges for over two weeks, and one of the Chinese Assistant Secretaries has preached in another this a.m. We have not yet got into the highest Government Schools. - That is to do regular work and we have been into the colleges and had a pleasant call with both teachers and students, and negotiations are still going which we hope will end in admitting us to the colleges so that we shall have influence there.

Ellen and Marjorie are both doing the proper things every day. Marjorie was five weeks old yesterday. She celebrated her fifth week birth night by sleeping from 9 o'clock Fri. night till 6 o'clock Sat. morning. She seldom wakes more than once during the night and then eats and goes right to sleep with out a word. Ellen is all about just as usual. The other children are well and- tell Flora, are developing fast. This evening the three older ones kept themselves and their parents nearly convulsed reciting the attempts of a carpenter, who has been working for us, to speak English. The children enjoyed using his tools and while they were with him he asked them how to say various words in English- of course he made laughable work on many of the words. We have had three wash stands and two commodes and a cheffonier [a cabinet with doors for storage of linens or other odds and ends] and two dressers made of the pine boards that our goods were shipped in from the U.S. Ellen is getting to be an architect of no mean reputation- she has designed the different pieces. When stained or painted these pieces of furniture cannot be detected from good hard wood pieces- unless closely examined.

How is Ruth? We have heard nothing since the letter that told of her operation.

For the past three Saturdays we have spent the afternoon in planning for the Summer Conference. Yesterday we finished the program.

A hard thunder storm is on as I write. We have had several during the past three weeks.

I think the deputation from the Woman's Board of the Interior has come to Foochow since I wrote you. Mrs. Moses Smith, Misses Star and Beebe. They went to Ing Hok last Monday.

A week ago yesterday we received a letter from Mrs. Boies of Scranton, Pa, U.S.A. written at Calcutta, saying that she and her party planned to reach Singapore March 14th- spend a few days there and in Hong Kong, and then come to Foochow. She asked me to engage "three double rooms at the best hotel" for them. There is one hotel here which no one allows any friend to stop at. Business men- such as dentists, piano tuners, etc. say it is hard to eat the food and meals are served at any time when the proprietor gets thro playing cards. So we have hired extra servants and plan to keep them ourselves.-good night- while I help bathe the queen of the house, - and get a nights rest- more tomorrow.

Monday a.m. - Last week was very warm- with one cool day- Thursday. Mr. McLachlin, Gould and I started on that day at 7:30 a.m., took a boat down the river about five miles to the foot of Kushan mountain- then walked up to Kushan Monastery- stopped there an hour- asked them if they would rent part of the Monastery to us to hold the Summer Conference, they said "No." It took only a little "brass" facedness to ask these heathen Buddhist Priests- idol worshippers- to let us hold a Conference of Christian workers in the same halls with their idols. Then we walked on to Kuliang reaching our own cottage there at 1:10 p.m. The way food disappeared when we got to work at the lunch would make the wheat growers in the west of the U.S. happy. Gould did eat as if he was half starved. After lunch we viewed Mr. McLachlin's new house and a hole in the side of a hill, as yet and then started for home reaching there at 6:30 p.m. to find four men in my study to sell land I bought another piece. If all goes well this will make enough for our two houses.

You have not written anything about the troubles in China. Mrs. McLachlin's people are very anxious and many are writing anxious letters, but all goes on as usual here.

All send love to all

Will.

Rev. Willard Beard, a former resident of Huntington, is at Foochow [Foochow], China. He was a missionary of the American Board but is now employed by the Young Men's Christian Association in missionary work. He is one of the most efficient of our young men in China. Both he and his family have suffered illness the past year but have now recovered. A welcome letter from him was read at our annual meeting, telling of the marked religious interest there.

Washington's birthday was observed by a tea party at the parsonage. The tea used was sent by Mr. Beard from China.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I can write only a line or two to let you know that we all are well, and happy. We have not heard from any one at home since I wrote last. We want especially to know how Ruth and Leolyn are.

Mrs. Boies cabled that she planned to start from Hong Kong Friday last. This should bring her to Foochow tomorrow. We suppose that in the party are Mrs. Boies, her two daughters, Rev. and Mrs. Odell = her pastor. We hope they may have to stay a week. They wrote asking us to engage rooms- three double suits in the best Hotel. We have hired a second cook and another "boy", and will take the Boies ourself, the Macs will take Mr. and Mrs. Odell.

We are planning to live them out. I do not know whether we shall succeed.

More next time.

Hoping all are well

Dear Folks at Home:-

My correspondence register does not tell the truth for it says I wrote last over a month ago. This I am sure is false. I am writing in a room where the ther. is 74 degrees above, - the hottest and sultriest yet. We have had a good Easter tho. with no rain. Ellen and the four older children attended the English service this a.m. Marjorie and I looked after the house. Marjorie wanted a lunch soon after her mother was out of sight. A rag wet in water and a little sugar tied in the rag was an effective charm.

Two weeks ago we became the owners of a piano. The Commissioner of Customs- Mr. E.B. Drew,- an American, is about to leave on furlough and wanted to sell. The piano was made in Chicago and has been in Foochow only about 7 or 8 years,- it is among the best in Foochow. We gave $300. mex for it. Phebe is taking violin lessons and doing nicely- on the two strings left to her violin.

April 3rd Tuesday, Gould, Geraldine and I got up at 4:30 a.m. and took the launch at 6:00 a.m. to meet the steamer on which were coming Mrs. H.M. Boies, her daughters Ethel and Helen, and her pastor and his wife Dr. J.H. Odell and Mrs. Odell. The steamer arrived about 8:30 a.m. We found all the friends all right, and between 10 and 11 o'clock we all reached home. Mr. and Mrs. Odell were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin. The others by us. While they were here life was rather strenuous for us. They had written me to engage for them three double rooms in the best Hotel in Foochow. Well Foochow people never allow their friends to go to the Hotel. So we engaged the best cook we could find in Foochow and an extra man to wait on table etc. and an extra man to do rough work and promised our own servants tips and told our cook who was to do all the purchasing of food that we must have things right without regard to cost. So we had a bevy of six men and two women to keep straight all the time and for some of the dinners there were three or four extra men. Oh yes there was another woman to wash the house all the time.

Tues. p.m. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin and Mr. and Mrs. Odell came over and had afternoon tea with us and we decided on the program for the time the friends were with us. Wed. a.m. Mrs. Boies wanted to see some lacquer work and the Bank. In the afternoon the monthly Concert of Prayer was held at our home. I was to have charge. Mr. Odell spoke of the revival in the Punjab, India. There was a very large attendance. After Mr. Odell's talk Dr. Wilkinson (C.M.S.) spoke of his work among opium smokers.

Wed. evening we invited the Presidents and their wives and some of the foreign teachers of the Colleges in which there are Y.M.C.A.s, to dinner. There were 19 at dinner.

Thurs. a.m. all the friends Mr. Mac and I went into the city. Before starting Mr. Odell addressed some 600 students of both sexes in the schools of the M.E. Mission. They met in the large church for morning prayers at 8 a.m. After Mr. Odell, Mr. Boies spoke a few words of greeting to them. Thurs. p.m. Mr. Odell addressed an audience of 600 young men at Gen Cio Dong= Dudley Mem'l. Thurs. evening all took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin and some friends.

Friday a.m. Mrs. Boies visited the Girl's schools of the M.E. and C.M.S. Missions. Ellen went with her. In the afternoon a reception was held for the friends of Mr. McLachlins. In the evening we had invited eight of the representative young Chinese men to dine with the friends. At this dinner Mrs. Boies met the leaders in Christian work in the College and outside of the colleges. She was much interested with a young physician who is Dr. Rennie's assistant in the native hospital. Monday a.m. she visited the hospital and left $50.00 gold for it.

Sat. Mrs. Boies, Mr. and Mrs. Odell and I went into the city to see the Am. Board col., took lunch with the friends there, stopped in the p.m. at a fan shop and bought $25.00 of fans,- then visited the Blind Sch. for Boys and Men's Hospital under Dr. and Mrs. Wilkinson C.M.S.

Sun. Mrs. Boies spoke to M.E. Girls at 2 p.m. Mr. Odell preached in English at 3 p.m. At 4:30 p.m. the Y.M.C.A. bible Classes met (33 present). Mr. Odell talked with the class which uses the English language, and then spoke thro an interpreter to the combined class.

This finished the work. Monday at 5:30 p.m. we i.e. the five friends, Mac and I started for the steamer. Some 20 young Chinese men waved the chataqua salute [the waiving of handkerchiefs] to them as the house boat swung out into the stream. Just at 12 midnight we said "good bye" to them on the steamer and the house boat hoisted sail and we were on our way home.

After looking over the property which we have bought and seeing the house now standing on it which we had thought of repairing and changing, Mrs. Boies handed me a check for $1000 gold and said the house must be torn down and a brand new one built.

Last Monday was Easter Monday, and there was the usual long service- the large church was crowded-packed at both a.m. and p.m. sessions. The ther. stood at 78 degrees in the evening. Yesterday Wed. it dropped to 60 degrees. The service of Monday was very inspiring. Everyone was happy and pleased.

Tues. Mac and I went to Kuliang. He is building a cottage.

We are all well. Marjorie was vaccinated last Sat. and feels a little punish. Mac and I start for Shanghai- I take Gould along to visit with Mr. Lyon's little boy, - about April 28th.

All send love to all

Foochow, China
April 29th 1906.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It seems that I wrote you two weeks ago. The past two weeks have gone as usual very swiftly. Last Sunday at 3:00 p.m. a Comm. met to talk about the Y.M.C.A. Constitution and Bylaws. The Bible Classes meet at 4:30 p.m. At 4:10 we had not finished the first article of the constitution. I began to wonder what we should do for when the young men came for Bible Study the Comm. would have to stop its work. But just then it began to rain torrents, and this kept up for two hours. The Comm. sat straight thro till seven o'clock and finished work. I did not feel much like writing letters that evening.

A week ago yesterday Mr. Arnold the new acting Vice Consul (Consul and Mrs. Gracey have gone home on furlough) and I went into the city to see Ding Baik Cieng the Commissioner of Education and of Rail Roads in Fukien Province. Mr. Arnold took Mr. Ding's photo. We had a good audience over two hours with the Commissioner.

The plans for our new house are ready and I have given them to the contractors.

That is a very poor drawing but you can get a little idea of the plan. The room 12 X 15 above the sitting room will likely be Flora's.

I took Marjorie's photo the other day and am sending you some of them, the one with Marjorie's face close to Ellen's is very bad. I send the other just as a sample- altho it is very poor. Will you give the one marked to Ben and Abbie.

A week ago today we heard the first news about the earthquake in San Francisco. It shocked the whole community. Dr. and Mrs. Whitney of the Am. Board have two sons in the city. But I think they feel somewhat relieved about them. Ven. Archdeacon and Mrs. Wolfe have a son there also. They are much exercised.

The Y.M.C.A. Secretary's Conference for Korea, China and Hong Kong is held in Shanghai May 4-10. Mac and I plan to attend and we are planning to take Gould with us. Mrs. Lyon has invited him to come to see their son David- about Gould's age. The woman folks will thus be left alone in the house.

Shanghai May 3rd, 3 p.m.

Gould and I reached here last evening at 10 o'clock- slept on steamer- got up this a.m. and found breakfast. Then found our rooms etc. Gould is at Mr. Lyon's with David, their son about Gould's age. Gould had a great time on the steamer. I did as I usually do on this trip- went to bed when the steamer left the river Min and got up when she entered the Yangste [Yangtze],- yesterday p.m. Gould had the run of the ship to do as he liked, and he thoroughly enjoyed it.

We left Ellen and the girls all well last Monday evening.

All send love to all

Will.

I send only two photos this time.

Foochow, China May 14th 1906. [Letter written on Y.M.C.A. Stationary that is pre-printed with "Foochow, China".]

Dear Folks at Home:-

Gould and I have been in Shanghai since Wed. 10 p.m. May 2nd. We slept on the steamer that night, - took breakfast on shore in the morning. The Y.M.C.A. Secretaries' Conference began Friday morning May 4th and closed at 10:30 last evening= May 10. Any kind of a Convention or Conference is hard work and this one has been no exception. I have found it very difficult to get time even to write two short letters to Ellen during the time we have been here. Gould is getting tired too. He and David Lyon have visited rather hard- at night when they should have been asleep. One night they returned with the promise of or rather to take a cold plunge in the morning. At 3:30 a.m. Mr. Lyon was wakened by noise and on getting up found the two boys up and preparing to jump into the bath tub. Of course they went back to bed but I am afraid not to sleep.

I have just heard that a steamer is likely to leave for Foochow on Wed. morning, so there is hope that we may get home sometime. The Conf. closed last Thurs. evening. It is now Monday. Time does not hang heavy on our hands but one had much rather be at home.

Yesterday I preached in the Foochow dialect to about 40 Foochow speaking people. Today I plan to go out to see Gilbert Reid and his International Institute, and get if possible 2 photographs for Miss Newton which she sent to the St. Louis Exposition and which were in some way diverted from their intended destination in the rooms of the Woman's Am. Board in Boston. Then I plan to go on the Nang Yang College take tiffin and after tiffin meet some of the Foochow boys in Nang Yang Coll. I plan to take Gould with me. It is a ride of 5 miles in a richsha. We will likely take two men- one to pull and one to push. This Coll. is entirely under China's control. They have two or more foreign instructors, one of whom is Lacy M. Sites Ph.D. - son of a former Foochow missionary. He and his sister- both born in Foochow live in a nice house adjoining the Coll.

In 1901 there were 4 Y.M.C.A. Secretaries in China. There were present at this Conference 20, four did not come. One is at home. So there are now 25. One of the most interesting parts of the work is that in connection with the Literate problem. In 1901 the International Comm. were asked to find and send out several men to make a specialty of the Literate problem. At that time the Chinese Literate was a conservative, proud, long-gowned, round-shouldered man always having a know-it-all air about him, and always disdaining anything foreign. But this man has gone thro a complete revolution during the last 5 years. He has not yet stopped revolting. He has put on gold-bowed spectacles for his tortoise-shell goggles; he has pulled his head up on top of his shoulders; he is progressive, less proud, and anxious to know things foreign. 10,000 of them are today in Japan, -with the determination of learning all there is to know of western knowledge in two years!!! And this thro the medium of the Japanese and English languages- not a sentence of which they understand when they leave China. The old system of examination is all gone [Confucian Examination System]. The old examination Hall in Foochow with its 13000 stalls is slowly disappearing. No one yet knows on what basis degrees will be given.

All this changes the problem of the men who were sent out especially for work among The Literate. But it makes the problem much less technical. In Foochow we are now actually working among these people in the College in Foochow city.

Well it is most breakfast time and the mail for the U.S. closes today here in [unreadable word] so I must close and seal this.

The word from Foochow was a good one- all were well.

We are looking for word from Flora giving something definite about her coming out next fall.

With love to all

Will.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The penciled letter enclosed was written a week ago but I wished copies made to send to Putnam and to Dwight Goddard. I was in Ing Hok during the week and after the copies were made the letter still remained and I am sending it in tomorrow's mail.

I was off for Ing Hok last Monday at 7 a.m. Reached there to take dinner with Mr. Smith Tuesday noon. The heat was not very bad and the weather was endurable all the week. I spoke at the Conference of the workers of the field, on Tues., Wed., and Thursday evenings beside attending all the sessions (5) of the Conference. We started for Foochow by boat from Ing Hok about 2:30 from Friday and I reached home yesterday about 10 a.m. and found all well. How Marjorie does grow!! She is now practicing for an oration- she has not divulged the topic or the occasion on which it is to be delivered. I can hear her talking up stairs now, - and from the noise I know her talk is very amusing to her mother, sisters and brother who are with her.

The mail which came last week brought news of Ruth's convalescence, and of Elizabeth's going to the Hospital or Sanitorium. We are praying God to very graciously heal both these dear sisters. The same mail told us that Flora's resignation was accepted and her face was China ward.

For two weeks now we have had quite steady hot weather. The family have however stood it pretty well. Marjorie and Dorothy have a little prickly heat. We hope to be on the mountain a week from today. Phebe is 11 yrs. old tomorrow. Leolyn's letter came by last mail.

I am to deliver the address at the Graduation of the students at Dr. Woodhull's Hospital day after tomorrow.

May God be merciful and comforting to you all, and keep you Lovingly Will.

Foochow, China, July 1st 1906.

Dear Folks at Home-

Last Monday Ellen, the children and I went to the mountain. I got things fixed up that day and went back to Foochow Tuesday a.m. Wed. about noon the Am. Consul wrote me that the Chinese Deputy who was appointed to go with me to Hok Chiang to investigate some charges of persecution was coming at 2:30 p.m. to meet me and arrange to start. The same letter asked me to take dinner with him in the evening.

At 9:00 p.m. I left the Consulate and at 10 o'clock I was going down the river on a house boat. The next morning at 7:00 we left the boat and got breakfast and started for the 18 mile journey. For the first two hours it was very hot, but about 10:00 a fine breeze came up and it was comfortable the rest of the way. We reached Hok Chiang a little after 5 p.m. I went to the home of Mr. Carpenter. He was planning to start early next morning for Kuliang, but left the house for me to live in while in Hok Chiang.

Friday I called on the Hok Chiang magistrate and the Chinese Deputy and arranged for trying the cases- put two on for Saturday afternoon. They tried to bring them on Sunday, - then put them off till Monday. But a little insistence placed them for Sat. - The Hok Chiang magistrate takes so much opium that he has no conscience and little mind or body left for any work.

At 2:00 p.m. yesterday I was on hand but had to wait till 3:00 before all was ready for the trial. It is not pleasure, looked at from any view point. The poor people who are questioned kneel on the stone floor- this was a little more than I could stand and after a quarter of an hour I told them to sit on the floor. Then the official (Chinese) cannot speak the dialect and a yamen underling does the translating. He yells at the side which he does not favor and asks the questions in an insulting manner, but is very suave toward the side which has put $10.00 in his hands. Well I called him down. A woman said she had been beaten and cut by one of the persecutors. I called her to me and looked at the scars and made the Deputy look at them. Then I asked her why she had not shown them to the official, who sat nearby. She said she had done so. I asked if the official had not punished the man who beat her she said "no." This was tough on the opium sort of an official but he had to take it.

We did not finish this first case yesterday. We sat there from 3-6:30 p.m. and it was hard work. I then took a Chinese supper and Mr. Caldwell and I started at 7:15 for Ngu Cheng 14 miles distant. We arrived at 11:15, - this morning I preached here in Chinese. Tomorrow plan to start for Hok Chiang at 5:00 a.m.

Love to all Will.

Dear Folks at Shelton:-

I have been trying to get a letter in the post for you all the week. The mail goes in half an hour so I can only write enough to tell you that we are well, and most interested in the letters that come from Connecticut. Oliver wrote recently. I mailed the letter to him on May 4th at Shanghai. He answered it on June 4th and I received his reply July 10th. This is very speedy work.

I suppose this is about the last letter Flora will receive from us before she leaves. I am looking carefully for the date of her sailing and the route she plans to take. We have not burdened her with things to buy for us. The fact is we have too many things now. And we know what it is to be loaded down with a lot of errands for others. It is nice to be helpful tho.

I hope Ruth is continuing in the good road to strength and that Elizabeth is doing well. When Ben [Willard's brother] gets all his business so systematized that it will run itself and he finds nothing to do and his bank account is so large that the vaults are in danger of bursting, he and Abbie and Wells must take a trip around the world and stop a time with us.

The mail is closing so Good Bye.

With lots of Love from us all,

Will

Dear grandma,

Papa has been sick for four weeks today and he has seemed to be gaining five days and is getting well all the time. Now, Geraldine and Dorothy are getting better, too. Today is papa's and momma's eleventh wedding anniversary.

Last night papa heard something fluttering and did not know what it was. This morning we found out. Gould this morning on the windowsill which his cloths were, he saw a beautiful yellow moth. At the top of his wings he has a kind of gray priest color, then two kind of maple leaves in the middle of the whole moth. Then there are spots which are black, then "Dorothy's Writing" so, mmmm. Only a little more spread out.

Mamma is going to ask Doctor for some medicine to put him to sleep with, when she comes to see papa.

With much love,
Phebe K.

Foochow, China.
Sept. 9th 1906.

Dear Folks at Home:-

It has been a long time since I have sat down to write a leisurely letter to you. I am at that task now, with a feeling of pleasure. All summer long I have been trying to catch up the correspondence that had been put off during the spring and early summer because I was away from home. The last letter of that work I mailed Friday- day before yesterday- nine pages of answers to questions for a paper on "Education" to be read at the "Centinery Conference" in Shanghai next Apr. and May. My work in the Summer Conference for students here was finished today at 11:00 o'clock. I hope for a vacation of almost two weeks now with only two spots to write during the time.

Friday Aug. 31st I came down from the mountain for the Conference which began Sat. evening and which closes this evening. God has been working in ways that none of us could have thought of during the week and indeed during the year- in ways that materially affected the Conference.

1. The Anglo-Chinese Coll. of the M.E. mission had trouble between the Pres. and the students in May. Students all left, and the Coll. closed. We were to hold the Conference in one of the buildings of this Coll. and the heads of the entertainment Comm. were students of this Coll. When they went home, these important Comms. also went home and we had to plan to borrow, rent or buy such things as mosquito curtains, pillows, bed coverings, lamps, tea pots and cups, etc.

2. We had counted on one of Secretaries coming from Shanghai to help in the Conference. No one came.

3. A typhoon Aug. 27-29 hindered nine men from one delegation- Hing Hua from coming. Three men from there walked overland and have been at the sessions of the entire Conference.

4. Monday evening a note was received while we were in session- at about 7:30 o'clock from the mountain saying that Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin's boy was critically ill and that he must come up immediately. He started and reached his mountain cottage at 11:30 p.m. - about 40 minutes after the little boy had passed away. He woke in the night and refused to nurse, but about 4 o'clock in the morning he took a cup of Mellin's food and milk and seemed all right. About 1 p.m. he had a convulsion, the Doctor was called immediately - two of them and a trained nurse. Other convulsions followed. He was not himself again, and passed to his new home at 10:45. Tuesday they brought him down in a little coffin made of boards from home boxes. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin arrived about 4 p.m. We had the little grave all ready. A short service had been held at Kuliang before they started. At the grave I offered a prayer and it was all over only 27 hours after the Dr. had been called. Mrs. McLachlin felt it very deeply but bore up bravely. This of course took McLachlin away from the Conference and added to my work.

5. Friday noon a note came to me from Uong Siong Dek who is leading one of the Bible Study Classes saying that his wife who was on Kuliang with their children had just sent down coolies asking him to come immediately. This took away the leader of one Bible Class and he was also to give the address this morning. But we have had a good conference. This afternoon every man testified to the help he had received and every part of the Conference came for its share of giving blessing. I have conducted each day a class in Personal Work- one hour a day.

Ground was broken for our new house during the week. The property is nearly all walled in. We hope to be able to use the new house next January.

It has rained much during the week, and on Friday and yesterday the weather was much like a typhoon but it has today settled down with a good steady rain. I expect this may be called the Equinosial [Willard may mean an Equinoctial storm, which according to Dictionary.com is a storm of violent winds and rain occurring at or near the time of an equinox and popularly, but erroneously, believed to be physically associated with it.]. I hoped to get back to Kuliang tomorrow.

We are looking anxiously for Flora's letter telling us the date of her sailing. Five pupils that we had not counted on have spoken to us about coming. Many are glad of the prospects of a teacher. I have had a letter from Ellen most everyday. She and the children are well. I am afraid they are longing for sunshine. Rains are so very wet up there. I enclose one of her letters to me which you may send to Putnam if you like. I think of you are all scattering again- This time for very remote fields of work. But how small the world is getting, and the same Father cares for us all.

With lots of Love to all Will.

A paragraph in the Annual Report of the Kuliang Council report dated August 17, 1936 tells some of the history of the bathing pool on Kuliang..

"This pool was built before 1900 by Messers. Ramsay and Schlee, merchants in Foochow. In the fall of 1906, after the owners had left Foochow not to return, the pool was offered for sale for $50.00. Rev. W. L. Beard purchased it for that price. Not wishing to keep it privately, he offered to share it with a few friends, and it was agreed to form a stock company, limiting the share holders to 20. The official name was: "The Kuliang Bathing Club". On August 14th, 1914 this club passed the following vote: "That the Club should hand over its balance, and its responsibilities to the Public Improvement Committee."

Dear folks at home:-

We have traveled so fast that I have had no time for letter writing. Mary and I had a pleasant trip all the way across. Perhaps she has told you of our pleasant acquaintance with Dr. Maloy of Riverside. I left Mary in her care from Oakland. I stayed in Oakland over the first night in company with a young lady who was on our sleeper. The next morning we went over and saw what is left of San Francisco. I spent the rest of the time until the sailing of the Siberia at the Y.W.C.A. of Frisco. My bill for two nights and meals came to $1.20, so you see I was not fleeced. I got fleas(ed) in the bargain. They made me scratch for a day or two but I think I have lost them now.- The ocean has been most beautiful and as smooth as one could wish. There is a long swell here which has upset a number but I have been unusually hungry for each meal and have eaten the menu end to end. It has been so dry that my shoes keep a fine polish and to-day the passengers are out in the thinnest of dresses. Each night we go to dinner in full dress. The men appear either in full evening costume of tuxedos. I rather like it. The dinner hour is one of much mirth for every one comes in the best of good feelings. There are all sorts of people on board. Cook and Raymond and Whitcomb have each a 'round the world' party on board. There are missionaries, tourists, business men, and people returning from the "States" to Honolulu. I am sitting next to a very delightful little Honolulu woman, who has enlightened me much on the points of interest of her island home. One of the young ladies of my cabin is a part native. She bears the New England name of Adams and is returning after a summer's visit to Maine. The other roommate is a little girl from Tennessee who is going out as a missionary to Osaka. She wears her dress to her ankles and her hair down her back, and looks like a sweet girl graduate from a high school, instead of a B.A. from college under appointment for missionary work. She has just been in swimming in the tank on board, and the only reason she doesn't dance is for fear of shocking the other missionaries- of where there are quite a few.

Next day- I had a very pleasant talk yesterday with a young Englishman who (in company with another gentleman of his own country) making a tour of the world. I was much interested in his description of U.S. and Canada. He had spent 47 days in sightseeing. I wish he would tell me his impressions but his English breeding does not seem to allow him to do that.

I am going to mail this in Honolulu and will write again from Yokohama. With love to you all and hoping you are all better.

I am yours lovingly

F. Beard.

Dear Folks at Home:-

One of the very few times in my life I have missed the boat and am compelled to lie idle for a time. My work at Ciong Ciu or as the people here call it Chiang Chin was finished last evening at 11:00 o'clock. I should have taken a boat at once, gone to bed on it and let the men tow it down to this place to be here at day light this morning. But Mr. Boot with whom I have been staying for four days persuaded me to stay the night with him. We ate breakfast at 5:30 this a.m. started at 6:15. But the wind was very strong up river, and the tide turned against us about 9 o'clock and when we reached here the launch had gone and our only way to make Amoy today was by paying a special launch $50.00. I think we are about 12 miles down river from our starting point and about 15 miles still above Amoy. This must teach me to be on the safe side- I should have insisted on taking a boat last night. I started from Foochow last Wed., came to Amoy, reaching it Fri. at day light, went to Mr. Pitchers for breakfast- started with a 5:30 breakfast Sat. a.m. for Ciong Ciu and reached there at 2:30 p.m. Sat. I have had four days of very strenuous work here. A city Y.M.C.A. has been organized. I have already written out a full report wh. I shall try to send to you.

Just before we reached here this morning I met Mrs. Kip, an elderly widow- missionary of the Reformed Ch. in Ciong Chu. She had come from Amoy this morning and said the steamer for Foochow was in Amoy harbor. This steamer would naturally leave this p.m. But there are three steamers on the Hong Kong- Foochow run and the trip is eight days, so I shall hope to get out of Amoy Sat. or Sun. and reach Foochow Sun. or Mon. Flora is due in Shanghai today, so I am a little anxious for I want very much to be back to meet her.

I forgot to say that I am here with 4 small slices of bread, 3 pieces of cake and 4 little crackers. This morn I took dinner with the newly elected first President of the Ciong Ciu Y.M.C.A. He has a store here and came down this a.m. to see about it. I am to have supper with him also. As it is 5:30 p.m. I'll plan to finish this later.

S.S. "Haitan" Amoy Harbor Oct 22 Monday - noon.

I reached Amoy Friday at 1 p.m. to learn that I must wait till today for a Foochow steamer. I have been busy all the time. But it has been hard work. I found letters fr. Foochow on Fri. with Flora's letter of Sept. 5th telling of Phebe's [Willard's sister] critical condition. I can only leave it with God and hope for better news in [the] next letter. Then I learned that the "Siberia" was ahead of time, and if Flora came on her she is, in all probability, in Foochow before this, and I am not there to meet her. By not going up last week I escaped a very rough passage. The weather is delightful today. Trusting all to God's wisdom and love. Will.

To meet Miss Beard

Dear Folks at Home:-

I have been in Foochow for nearly a week. Don't think I have forgotten you because I have not written. The truth is that it has taken all this time to get landed- not my effects- but myself. It is only yesterday and to-day that I have been free from the boat motion.

I have written you nothing since I left Yokohama- although it was my plan to mail a letter at each stopping place. We left Yokohama just at night and met a rough sea which rocked the boat badly- so the passengers said- I slept through it all. The next morning we awoke in a beautiful water with sloping mountains each side. Our ride through the Inland Sea kept us busy spying out each new scape before it was gone. We wound about through the islands in a very crooked path and one spot had to turn almost a right angle. We went through the strait of Shimonisaki just as the sun was setting- most gloriously. After dinner we looked out and the lights were so numerous on each side in the distance that we were sure we must be passing some Japanese villages- but they were really the lights of the fishing boats which must have been literally hundreds, in number. We anchored early on Sunday at Nagasaki, and got on shore about 9 A.M. We went to church on land and our first entrance was in a Japanese service. Here I found Bessie's friend Mrs. Heicher. We went on to an English Church and after the service I went to tiffin with Mr. and Mrs. Heicher. They had been on land only for two weeks but were most cozily fixed in a little house with a beautiful view of the harbor and its surrounding mountains. As I ate I could see that most wonderful feat of coaling- going on in the harbor. It is one of the sights of the world. There were at least eighteen huge lighters of coal which attached themselves to the sides of the ship. There must have been fifty men women and children on each. Some large steps made of bamboo were hung to the sides of the Siberia and then the people went to work with small soft baskets- possibly holding six quarts. Some shoveled the coal into the baskets others piled them others formed a living chain and passed the coal up and into the bins of the boat. They must have gotten to work at 9 A.M. and at 5 P.M. we were moving out of the harbor with coal enough to last for the trip to Hong Kong and return.

On Tuesday early we were piloted in over the reef to Shanghai. We were anchored several miles from land but our boat was surrounded by beggars asking for a "cash". We were taken off in a launch and landed when a train was waiting for us at the mouth of the river. The ride of twenty minutes took us through a low country full of rice and cotton fields. Everywhere we could see the coffins of the Chinese dead waiting for the auspicious day for burial. They were covered but some of them showed a long waiting.

Shanghai is a very cosmopolitan and up to date city. They are putting in a trolley line and when I went to bed I turned out the electricity. The building in which I was entertained is a part of a block which is a part of a section, owned by Li Hung Chan's son. It was a most attractive part of the city- really on the very edge and in the country. I was met by some of Will's friends and was housed and cared for by them as though I were an old friend. It was really very novel and decidedly pleasing and comfortable.

Fortunately there was a boat going out to Foochow the next morning so I embarked in a tiny steamer on a very choppy water. Things were decidedly rough but we did not reach the ocean until after tiffin. There were just six cabin passengers- three of us women. Our little steamer rocked and rolled so that it almost took water, and - I took one meal out side in a hurry. All night it was rough but after an hour's discomfort I slept and thoroughly enjoyed the next day's even rougher weather. The Chief engineer told me that the engineers were seasick so I thought a land lubber had a right to feel a little upset. Just at night we anchored in sight of Sharp Peak and waited for dawn and a pilot to help us over the reef and up to the Anchorage. We were kept in suspense for more than two hours waiting for medical inspection because some poor wretch of a Chinese had taken an over dose of opium and in consequence had "shuffled off this mortal coil" during the voyage. As soon as the doctor came on board we were allowed to get off. In the distance I saw a house boat flying the U.S. flag. It contained Ellen and all the children, Mrs. Hubbard and her children, and Mr. McLachlin. Will was to arrive in about an hour on a steamer from Amoy. We went on shore and climbed- as steep an ascent as I ever went up- to Mrs. Hubbard's house. The view from the top was beyond describing. We could look for miles in every direction. Across the river I counted four chains of mountains one back of another. From the window we could see the river for miles and by the sloping of the mountains we could follow the windings of the river much farther, so that the smoke from the steamer was discerned for some time before she came in sight. We all went down to the house boat and were ready to welcome Will but he hadn't come. Afterwards he explained how he had gotten left away up in the country and had to live on Chinese food for two days. Well, disappointment is a feeble word to express our feelings. However there was nothing to do but go home. By this time the tide had turned so that Mrs. Hubbard made arrangements for us to stay all night. However the boatmen were willing to risk going with the strong wind in our favor so we finally sailed away at 4 P.M. We flew along for about half the distance and then we had to put up with occasional bursts of wind. The scenery along the river is very beautiful. In some places I could count five chains of mountains in view- one back of another. Ellen had her cook and table boy along with her so we had a most delightful picnic supper on the boat- eaten off of a real table, and sitting on chairs. She also had bedding along so that we could have slept comfortably if it had been necessary. However we reached Foochow at 8 P.M. and in half an hour my trunks were up and we were soon in bed.

I would give a good deal to hear how you all are and to know if Phebe has gone to Framingham yet.- I shall be sending home before long for supplies. My cards have already gotten to an alarmingly small number. I cannot remember where I left my plate but if you find it will you please have a hundred cards engraved.- I reached here with $50 in gold in my garter purse so you see I was hardly a spend thrift on the way.- Will Phebe send me a sample of her linen dress? I cannot find the one I cut- and there are so many qualities here that I do not dare to trust to my memory. Lovingly- Flora

Flora arrived all hale and hearty last Friday. I had not yet returned from Amoy to Ellen and the children- even Marjorie went down to the Anchorage in a house boat to meet her. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin also went and the Hubbards also join in the fray.

On Friday of this week a big reception was given- worthy of a big gun just come to town. I got home just an hour before the people began to come. School begins next Monday.

How I would like to drop down on Aunt Louise for just one week of solid rest! Give her my love and the love of all the rest of us.

Your Loving brother

Nov. 3, 1906.

Dear folks at home:-

I think my last letter stopped with my reaching Foochow. I had reached the 2 cent limit so waited to tell the first impression later. I do not know whether it is wise to tell them all or not- I am really getting my nose deadened a little.-Perhaps I said it once- but it is worth repeating- Foochow has a most charming natural setting. In whatever direction we look there are mountains and then the river is always an additional beauty. The trees are nearly as picturesque as those of Japan- so there will be a pretty little spot- even in a grave yard.

I already own my chair and have had one ride. Had I been alone I should have been frightened beyond measure, but I calmed myself that others had been that way and survived. We went for two miles through the chief streets of the city. They were crowded, narrow, shiny, dirty, and smelly beyond words. They kept growing more and more narrow until I wondered how my chair would ever run a corner, or get by another chair if we met one. Besides, our coolies were in a very great hurry to get back so they were hurrying and in order to facilitate matters were continually calling loudly for people to get out of the way. We really went in very good time but as we were to attend a prayer meeting the poor coolies were disappointed in getting back early. It is really very much better to go through the streets by chair than walking. The other day Will and I took a short walk and I found the shiny stones rather dangerous. We went into a silk shop and I came rather near getting a dress but finally put off the day. I am making inquiries for Phebe's embroidery and hope soon to be ready to place it when the sample reaches here.

Written on back: "This is a very good picture of a street in the city of Foochow".

My school opened on Monday with eight scholars. Two more will come next Monday. The M.E. Conference is in session now and it is possible that their changes may bring still more children. I rather hope to have a few more. I expect to start a class in calisthenics or "drill" as the English call it. That sort of thing appeals to the people here.

I have just been with Will to see the boat which is to take him on his Shaowu trip. We took a sampan which was rowed by two jabbering women- telling their marine neighbors about the children with us. We crossed the river and after bumping into some of the boats we finally found Will's boat. There was little besides boat about it but it seemed clean. I think if I had to live in Chinese houses I should chose the river boats. They seem quite clean and entirely free from smells. The sampan we were on is the house of a family. There was a small shrine in one end and some Catholic beads and a tiny cross hanging on one side so it looked as if they were divided in their religion.

Will expects to be away for six weeks at least. His new house is growing quite fast these days. He is hoping to get into it by February.

You should see the curio vendors! We had not finished breakfast of the fist morning I was here before a woman was here to sell me some Chinese dolls- in costume. Ever since they have not ceased to come. Today, when we came back from the river there was an idol about 18 in. high standing on the front piazza staring at me to be bought. I declined and just a moment ago I was interrupted to go to look at some articles of drawn work.

There is one dainty thing here in China on which there is no blemish- and that is little Marjorie. She is the plumpest, pinkest, happiest little piece of humanity I ever saw. She is also an independent youngster- and her smiles are few and as fine as one can wish- when she does get gracious. I wish you could see her eat! She prefers her amah except when she can get her mama and papa.

I am enclosing some of the announcements concerning my advent into Foochow life and society. I have met nearly every one now, I think, but they are no where nearly straight in my mind. I am an Episcopalian or rather, a Church of England attendant. King Edward is prayed for every Sunday and Roosevelt is not even mentioned. But, don't worry for fear that I forget my own country.

Will you see if you can find my card plate and have a hundred cards engraved for me? I would like them as soon as you can send them to me. My cards are getting very few in number, and I shall need some here I wish I could remember, where I left it, but I can't. It is in a bluish gray envelope and has my name engraved on it. It is folded to be nearly the size of the plate- and you will find the envelope rather heavy as the plate is copper.

We are all well and happy and hope this will find you so.

I received my first home letters this week. A letter from Phebe and Ruth and one from Leolyn forwarded.

Lovingly- Flora.

On back is written in Willard's handwriting: "Miss Newton's chair. These men have carried Ellen and me often."

[This letter dated Nov. 1906 was written from Foochow, China by Flora to her brother Stanley. She is glad Stanley is back at college. [Nov. 1906]

Dear Stanley:-

Your postal reached me on the steamer at San Francisco and was a real comfort for it let me know of your safe extrication from the great New York maze.

The last letter from home told of your return to college and I was rather glad to hear that you are out of the way of farming utensils for they seem bent on finishing you. I only hope that your summer's strain of work has not used up too much of your energy. There is one comforting thought about it and that is that it can't be repeated for a while. I was relieved to hear that the fireplace had really become a thing of enjoyment. I did not know but that it really meant to smoke. Anyways I wish you could see the kitchen stoves out here. They are made something in the style of a blacksmith's forge only much smaller and everything is cooked over charcoal. The cook produces the most delicious bread and pastry so I can recommend them but for myself I think I prefer one of our home stoves. There is too much planning and rigging up to suit me. There are very many things very agreeable to living here but with all the seeming luxury of servants, all of them put together are not good as one efficient one in U.S. People here do not think of lifting a finger about their house work -except the missionaries- and they do not do much. Such mode of living is almost imperative in order to be respected among the Chinese. They are a servile people. - Well, I want to tell you of a conversation on the steamer coming across the Pacific so I'll leave China for this time. There was a very fine young doctor and his wife going to some station in northern China. He was a graduate of John's Hopkins and seemed to know quite widely about medical colleges. He said he chose that school because of the special advantages for hospital work. He had - and the best half of each class has- two solid years of hospital practice after one year of observing. The first year is pretty generally given up to study. He says the criticisms given that it is mainly for research work is the result of immature knowledge of what they are doing. He says that nothing is done to spur a man on. He is free to go his own gait but so can do little or much as he wishes- and so work out his own bent. Yale sends every year next the largest number of men. I think the University of Wisconsin leads. Certainly if he is a product of what they turn out I should choose that first. He was quite an all-round man. He could sing and play, was an athlete and I feel sure was a good physician. He is going as an assistant to some doctor (missionary) and is to spend his spare time studying the diseases of China. I really hope that you will decide to go there- to John's Hopkins.

On Thursday, Will left for an eight week's trip to Sha-o-wu. It seems to me a long time to be away from one's own family. It is leaving his new house in the care of Mr. Maclachlin also. The house is going up quite fast. You would be interested in the material and the building. The bricks here are more like tiling quality but are less breakable. They are wider and longer than ours and not so well shaped. They are liable to be warped. They are laid in mud made from the earth about the house. The foundation walls up to the living floor are two feet thick the rest of the way is to be 6 in. less. There are to be enclosed verandas on two sides of the house. The house in which we are living now has them all the way around the house in both stories. It is a necessity if one stays in the city through the summer because of the intense heat. Will does not like the gloom coming from the constant shade of them, so he is not having as much piazza put on. He has made a plan of his compound which I think he intends sending home so I'll not tell you of its ramifications. There is no such thing as a well proportioned compound. One buys a small piece from one source and by getting several adjacent ones gets his compound. It is full of graves and the heaps of bones or decayed coffins are lying about to be reinterred somewhere else. When that place is bought the same process is repeated. There is no such thing as 'rest' here. One is impressed with the ancientness of the country for every available spot is bound with graves.

Wishing you a Merry Xmas.

I am

Your loving sister

Flora.

[This letter dated Nov. 1906 was written from Foochow, China by Flora to her sister, Ruth Beard. She tells Ruth about the children in her school and of all the people she is meeting. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

[November 1906]

Dear Ruth,-

Your letters have been like apples of gold in pictures of silver. The others are too busy to tell all the details- which are very important by the time they have traveled to here. It sounded rather good to hear of "fall weather" for there is no such thing here. The cold days seem dreary but do not make one think of winter. I wore my winter hat this afternoon, but it felt too warm and I shall give it a rest before I get it out again. I wish I had brought the one Helen had of mine.

You wanted to know about my school. Well, it is rather small at present and I am living in 'hopes'. I have nine children- Will's four, two Hubbards, two boys from the community by the name of Segerdal- nice little fellows - half Irish and half Sweede, and one Eurasian. Dr. Kinnear's family is expected back soon and the Main family which will probably mean four more. The French Consul would have sent his boy only that he leaves port for good this month and it would not pay to begin school. I should like more children but I guess I'll have to wait and let the people see what I am able to do. Mrs. Segerdal knows the community people very well and has been very kind about advising me towards what they would like in a school. She likes what I am doing and perhaps it will be as good an advertisement as I can have. Several ladies have called on me and tomorrow I shall return my first call- at the German Consulate. His wife is an Eurasian but a fine woman. I am told that her husband has the finest grounds in the place. I'll tell you in some of my letters about what I see. I have met- at my reception- the English Consul and Vice Consul. None of them have their wives here so I shall probably get to know them very little. The Eng. Consul's wife does not live with him. She and their daughter are living somewhere in Europe. He is a queer little man and does not inspire one with confidence. Consul Gracey's wife was not well here so she is at home. The Vice Consul is a young man with a wife. He is a Californian. I have now met all but the French and Japanese Consuls or some of their families. I have a few small remembrances which I am going to send home when Will ships Mrs. Boies' tables- some time in February. They were meant to be your Xmas presents, but it seemed best to wait till that time for sending- for safety. Yesterday Ellen received word from the Chicago firm from which they expect a shipment soon that they should omit the order for salt as the Chinese government was confiscating all salt that enters the country. It has a government monopoly here and is very expensive- that is any imported salt. One does not feel like eating any more of the Chinese food than necessary- after taking a trip through the streets.

I was delighted to think of you actually going out into society again and I hope you will continue to go at least once a week for it is a good thing to have some new sight to think about. I wish you could see a few that I can't get time to put in. Will would be delighted to have you accompany him on his up country trip. It takes three weeks to get there. Things move slowly here. Time is of no account to the Chinese. If they would only use it to produce a perfect article one would rejoice but perfection is a thing they do not know. "Seven truths right" is their standard. If seven cash out of ten are good they will accept the three spurious coins. It seems emblematic of their lives in all ways.

Write every time you don't know what to do and I'll be glad to read it. With a Merry Xmas
I am

Yours

Lovingly

Nov. 1906.

[This letter dated Nov. 30, 1906 was written from Foochow, China by Flora to her sister, Phebe. She tells Phebe that there are more engagements in Foochow than in Shelton. When Phebe sends a sample of linen, Flora will have it embroidered for her. Flora tells Phebe a little bit about baby Marjorie who would be nine months old by now. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Nov. 30, 1906

Dear Phebe:-

Your letter was a grand surprise on the steamer and again when I had been here for a week. It was good to get letters but I hardly dared to open the Shelton letter. It was so good to hear of everyone's being better. I am hoping to hear that you at last have a good woman in the kitchen to help you. I am rather glad that you are having the longer vacation, but sometimes wonder which would really be the harder. At any rate it will be a comfort to mama to have you at home for a while and Ruth will enjoy it.

I am an old stager here now for there is a newer one- a Dr. Draper I met her last night. She came all the way from Seattle with a Dr. Williams who is returning from his first furlough. It looks to me as though cupid had been shooting and had bagged his game. I have heard of more engagements and weddings in this place than Shelton could get up in the same time. Mary's friend Miss Worthley has just come out with a sparkler and the announcement that she is to be married in April. Don't worry about me for there are none left now- except the vice-consul and he is several years too young.

It is the 16th of Nov. and I am writing with the windows all open. I wonder if you can say as much? We have had delightful weather since I came- only one rain. I have been so busy that I have not done much sightseeing but I am getting in what I can. Sometime this week we are going to take a walk across the rice fields to the foot of the mountains where there are two villages in which nothing but flowers are raised. It is just the time for chrysanthemums and they are beautiful.

I hope before this you have mailed your sample of linen. How would you like wisteria? I saw a beautiful waist embroidered in that flower with the spaces filled in with drawn work. It was arranged thus [sketch] 1,2,3, and 4 are wisteria and 5 and 6 are drawn work. Please spare my crude drawing. Last night I saw one of chrysanthemums like this [sketch] with drawn work in the middle. It was very pretty. If you will let me know at once which you want, I will be ready by the time your answer comes to have it done.

Will you tell me the name of the people in Shanghai where you told me to go- a sister of the lady with whom you boarded in Framingham? I have in some way gotten the name Low in my mind and am not sure.

I am sure that the person in the Sentinel article is Miss Gausman. It tallies in every particular. I am sending the article on to Miss Palen. I do not think she has the reading of the Sun and I know it will interest her.

I had nearly left out the most interesting bit- and that is Marjorie. She is the dearest little girl that ever lived. She said 'pa' the day that Will went away. She is as happy as a queen and as fat as a little pig. (Will doesn't like me to say 'pig' because he has forgotten how pretty the little pigs used to be at home.) I just wish you could see how cunning she is. Some day Ellen and I are going to take some pictures of her in her cupid costume. She is the straightest little creature. When she has her back turned she is exactly like that little bas-relief of a baby that every one likes so much.- Do you suppose you will have the time to make out a list of hand work that could be given to small children and kindergartners to do. It is proposed that I have a morning class next summer on the mountain and the work will be principally manual training. I can use any of all of the reed and raffia in the attic but do not send it just yet. In a month or two I shall be sending for some things and will tell you more explicitly.

Wishing you a Merry Xmas- Yours lovingly
Flora

Trip to Shaowu. 11/15, '06- [1906]

Nov. 16th

Five different interviews were held with the broker and boatman before the price ($65.00) was agreed upon for a boat to take us to Shaowu, - 250 miles up the Min river from Foochow.

Thursday at 10:20 the boat swung into the river against a strong headwind out with the tide in our favor.

Mr. McLachlin and Ellen went with us to see us start. Mr. Hodous- Am. Board-, Uong Kaik Gieng- one of the Y.M.C.A. teacher-Secretaries- and myself are the only passengers. Muk Hauk is the cook and servant. There are several boatmen. The captain promises to join us at Ciu Kau= the village at the beginning of the rapids 70 miles above Foochow. There will then be 12 men on the boat. We eat, sleep, cook- live in a space 20 ft. X 9 ft.

Written on back of photo: "Foochow, China. Nine men pulling the boat up rapids. Shaowu method of climbing the river."

Magnified

Thurs. at 1 p.m. we were at Hung Sang Giu- 5 miles above Foochow. At night we had made another five miles. Friday the south wind blew softly and we anchored at Ming Chiang Kan 45 mi. fr. Foochow.

Hodous is behaving fairly well. I made him take a swim before breakfast both yesterday and today- Sat. He growled a little because I routed the boatmen out at daylight yesterday, and he thinks I have more floor boards under my bed than he has under his, but we got on fairly well together. Kaik Gieng shames us by studiously reading zoology, and asking such difficult questions as the explanation of "I am that I am."

We have read two chap. of "Coniston". Kaik Gieng will reserve his review of the book until he has heard more. To him the language of these first two chap. is suggestive rather than lucid.

Nov. 18th at Ciu Kau.

Yesterday the wind blew down river all day. 1 ½ hrs. at noon were spent in repairing the rudder. We anchored at night about 2 miles below Ciu Kau. Just as we were going to bed the S. wind sprang up and some 30 large boats- empty, going up after wood, came up the river. They bumped into us and made an interesting half hour.

This a.m. at 7:30 we were at Ciu Kau. There is no chapel here now. But we have met one man who says he is a Christian and we are going to his shop this p.m. for a prayer meeting. It is a lovely Sunday morning and we are having a real day of rest. The purple asters are beautiful, they are about the only flowers we see.

Tues. Nov. 20th

Last night we stopped about 2 miles below Sang Du Kau. In the a.m. Kaik Gieng, Hodous and I left the boat a little after 8 and walked till after 11. We found the road difficult [to] follow and got into rice fields and forests and on rocky places, but came out all right at last. I wrote Brockman, Hinman and Arch. Wolfe yesterday, and will mail the letter when an opportunity presents itself.

Last night was cold but as I jumped into the water this morning it seemed warm and the day has been beautiful. This is an ideal life for rest. We get up about 7 a.m. - half an hour after the boat starts. There is over us- after the men get up one bamboo mat, about 12 ft. long- open at both ends. When the wind blows down river the air is perfectly fresh in our "bedroom" and sweeps thro it so as to almost take the hair off our heads.

Our first move is to watch for a good place as the boat moves up the river, and jump in for a swim. Then there is a quiet time after dressing and then comes our breakfast, - a banana, pumelo, peanuts and oatmeal or parched rice with bread and a cruller. Then we watch for an opportunity to get on shore and walk till 11 o'clock- unless we get lost when the walk is extended. This breaks the monotony- as it did yesterday. Today we saw two small boats swing out into a long rapid and tie up to a raft of logs as it was going down. Only 4 men on the raft and the raft in a rapid needed the full attention and strength of each of the four. The 2 boats carried some 12 men. The raft had some 200 bundles of wood on it. That wood seemed to be in the air in a jiffy and then it fell into the boats and the boats pulled ashore and the rafts went down the river- lightened. Query- what was the provocation that made the men steal the wood? Will there be a law suit?

Wed. Nov. 21.

This a.m. we were moving at 6:30. It was cold last night, but the cool air only made the water all the better for our plunge this a.m. We were moving along a large lake below rapids. The water was deep-so deep that when we jumped in we could not find bottom. After breakfast we got off and walked to Hu Lu Sang and bought some potatoes and hung gang. The boat reached us at 12:30. Four yrs. ago I reached Hu Lu Sang at 1:00 p.m. so we are 30 min. ahead this time. The owner of the boat caught up with us and came aboard as we left the boat this a.m. Kaik Gieng got scared at the long tromp Mon and has not left the boat since.

For dinner we have rice- taken fr. the general store, potatoes, bread and meat. The meat will last up this week. It is very nice- used as puoi= a condiment.

The day is a perfect one- at 2:30 now it is quite warm with no overcoat. We plan to take dinner at Iong Bing tomorrow.

Our afternoons are spent in "resting", reading writing, and "Coniston"- Its great. For super we have rice with milk and bread and jam and cake. Bananas, peanuts and pumelo are a delight. At 7:30 the boatmen are snoring rapturously and Hodous begins his solo about 8:00.

Friday- Nov. 23rd at Sa Ka Kau

Yesterday Nov. 22 we left the boat about 10 o'clock and walked to Iong Bing reaching Dr. Skinners about 12:30. The M.E. Mission have here on the highest hills in the city three residences, a Boy's Sch. and a Girl's Sch. and a Hospital,- all of brick. Also a brick church. The buildings are ready for the work. At present there are 12 boys in the school- many of these from Ku-Cheng- the hospital and schools must be filled. There are probably few better plants in China. About 4 acres of ground are owned. Iong Bing is important politically- Here are the Do Dai, ruling Shaowu, Gien ning and Iong Bing prefectures. Then the Prefect, Gaing etc. from Literary standpoint Iong Bing is not important. There is one Normal School with 19 students and 4 teachers and three smaller schools with about 56 pupils- No Eng. is taught and there is evidence that these schools are only the old Colleges with a new sign hung over the door. Iong Bing is not important- commercially. We plan to start for Ka Bang tomorrow morning.

Tuesday 10:00 a.m. Nov. 27.

Sat. found an empty boat at Sa Ka Kau that took us up to Ching Chin. 2 puo for 80 cents. We then walked to Ka Bang 3 puo, arriving at 5 p.m. Preacher Uong and preacher Lek of A Long met us about 5 li 1 ½ miles fr. K.B. I led prayers Sat. evening, preached Sun. morning and Sun. evening. Hodous preached and conducted Communion in p.m. Great changes have taken place at Ka Bang since I was there 4 years ago. There is a nice clean, new chapel there now owned. Then we worshiped in the room with idols and incense was burning as we worshipped; most of the people have Bibles and can read them and find passages. The women are especially proficient and the children are learning; then only a few of the men had Bibles- the women did not know a character. Sat. evening 6 of the women repeated Rom. 12. One of the women played the organ and the singing is good- wonderful for a country chapel. This came fr. the organ we gave to the young preacher at Uong Dai who is a musician by nature. He spent one of two summer vacations at Ka Bang and took his organ up and taught this woman and 1 or 2 others. Sunday evening we had a good prayer meeting at the close- all the women and little boys prayed. Hodous and I did not touch our own food till mor. For breakfast- accepted invitation to the tables of different ch. members.

Monday at 8:30 we were off for Mok Dai reaching it at 5 p.m. = 6 puos = 20 miles. Dr. Walker met us just as we entered the village, having arrived that morning. We ate supper with preacher Guang in honor of the birth of his third son. Then we had a nice sermon. The people here have just purchased a nice location in the heart of the village- the place is all walled in - about 125 X 175 ft. with the frame of a house and good roof with one room finished. There is the middle suite- wide and two suites on each side, - good post and roof with nice space in front and rear. Also two large gardens outside walls. $200 will make of it a fine chapel and parsonage.

This morning we are again slowly climbing the rapids which are steep- numerous. If I come this way again I must go from Dong Bing – 9 puo to Sa King. Then 4 puo to Ka Bang, while the boat moves up Mok Dai and wait. This saves a day.

Dec. 1- Sat.- Just above Sung Chiong. Last Tuesday we reached A Iong just in time for super. Then went in to the chapel and had a service with the Christians – about 15. There is little change in this place in the last 4 yrs. Slept on the boat at night, and the next morning walked in toward Li Dong arriving at 5 p.m. 15 miles. The service was held in the same Ancestral Hall as we used 4 yrs. ago. They still have the same little 10 X 10 chapel which does not appear to be much used. There were only 6 or 7 of the members present. They expected us three days before and had got tired waiting and were scattered. There are about 10+ members here. Thursday we walked to Iong Kau, - 15 miles. Thurs. evening I conducted a street meeting. There are 3 Western medicine shops on the street at Iong Kau. Two are kept by C.M.S. young and one by a Meth. The C.M.S. men invite the Am. Board pastor to hold preaching services in their shops. The speakers stand behind the counter and the audience fills the street and door steps, while the [word unreadable] sit inside the shop. At the time services which we held on Thurs. and Fri. evenings about 130 were present at each service. The best of attention was given. Both the Foochow and mandarin were used and as far as I could observe were equally understood, - the mandarin better the first night and the Foochow better the next night. Friday morning we all attended the funeral of preacher Knok. He was the preacher at Iong Kau for many years till his age made it wise to place another man there. He was in the Tai Bing [T-Ping was written in green ink below the name Tai Bing probably by Don MacInnis] rebellion and always carried an ugly scar on his forehead received when Sung Chiong was taken. In the afternoon a service was held in the church, - about 100 present. The service was 2 ½ hours long, 5 speakers. In the evening another street service. Haik Gieng has made good friends with Lien Sieu Sang of Shaowu. He captured the audience yesterday p.m. and evening also. On the street at I.K. are purchased condensed milk, canned plums and pine apple,- we could have bought foreign straw hats, pins, thread, enameled ware utensils, flour, ETC, ETC. The drug stores were well stocked with foreign medicines – in well labeled bottles. I also found a good photographer there.

This a.m. we rode as far as Sioh Ka Kau, stopped and sent the boat on while we held a service with the members and learners – about 15,- then we walked 6 miles to Sung Chiong where the boat was waiting. At Sioh Ka Kau we saw a man dressing a dog- what for?

Tuesday, Dec. 4th

Sat. night we stopped 20 li above Sung Chiong. Sunday morning we three foreigners walked back to Sung Chiong for service. The Chinese, Kong, Lik, Li, Sien stopped at Sung Ch. Sat. evening. The service at Sung Ch. Sunday morning was attended by about 70 men and the interest was very marked. Knok S.S. was here and died here. The station will plan to put another man here. In the afternoon we preached to a crowd on the street till 3:30 p.m. and then walked 6 miles back to the boat.

Yesterday, Monday. We stopped at Cui Kau Cai. The boat moved up 10 li = 3 miles. We took supper with the preacher Haeng – 5 Chinese and 3 foreigners- He has a wife and 6 boys and 2 girls and cannot attend the annual meeting at Shaowu this week lest his family should receive an increase while he is absent. Four years ago a son was 19 hours old when I reached his house. I gave this little fellow $1.00. It seemed pretty tough for 8 of us to pounce on to and eat him as we did.

In the evening we held a service at which five of us spoke to about 100 listeners. Then we eight walked 3 miles up to the boat. We in this way should reach Na Kau to night. There are only 25 miles to make between Na Kau and Shaowu.

I can see a great change in the number of people all thro here who understand the Foochow dialect. Four years ago I spoke once in Iong Kau without an interpreter. They asked to have an interpreter after that. This year they have asked both Hodous and me not to use an interpreter in every place above Iong Kau.

At Sung Chiong we visited the official school- some outward signs of new learning but no English and little of modern books.

Kaik Gieng walked some 12 miles yesterday. He did not walk with us this morning. The weather is perfect- warm, pleasant and the water continues good for the morning dip- only it is getting more and more difficult to find deep water.

Friday at Shaowu. Dec. 7th

Tuesday evening the boat had to tie up about 2 miles below Na Kau. The rapids for about 4 miles below Na Kau are very steep and numerous. We walked in to Na Kau, took supper at the pastor's house and held service in the evening, then walked down to our boat. Dr. Walker engaged an extra man for his little boat and planned to go thro Shaowu Wed. We stuck to our boat Wed. pretty tightly. We had been in bed late every night since we reached Ka Bang, and had spoken at one or more services, beside doing a lot of walking every day for 11 days and we rested Wed,-the boat made only 12 miles.

Thursday we left the boat at 9 a.m. walked up to the coal mine, and climbed to the mine itself. Hodous, Sien S.S. and I went in. Kaik Gieng went in a little way but it was dark, damp, hot and then we struck water some 75 ft. from the entrance. Kaik Gieng turned back at this. The rest of us took off our shoes and stockings and waded thro to where the man was digging the coal. I have a piece of the coal that I saw fall after one of his blows. No machinery is used. A passage way about 5 ft. high and 4 ft. wide is made by supporting timbers 6 in. in diameter. At the end of this the miner uses a common pick and the coal falls. When he has dug about 5 ft. ahead of the retaining timbers, he puts up more timbers and continues the process. The water is pumped out with common field pumps- foot pumps. Only 2 men are now digging and the coal is all carved out by three men with dang sticks. A little over a ton is mined in a day.

Tuesday Dec. 11th at Shaowu.

We reached Shaowu last Thurs. a little before 2 p.m. Found all well. Took dinner with Dr. and Mrs. Bliss. That evening most of the workers in the field had already reached Shaowu. A blind preacher had come over from Kiang Si with Pastor Ieu's nephew. He preached in the evening. Friday we visited the different buildings in the mission here. They have a fine working plant. There are now 1 brick residence, occupied by Dr. and Miss Walker, 1 brick residence nearly completed, one fine brick building for the Boy's School, occupied with 60 boys, one brick building for the Girl's Sch. nearly completed, 2 good brick churches, one men's and one women's dispensary, beside the old East Gate residence and three old wooden buildings used for Theology, pastors residence etc. They need 2 hospitals, ladie's residence, and woman's sch. building. The most imperative need is for another missionary family at once.

Friday evening the Annual Meeting proper began. I spoke - using the Foochow dialect, Pastor Ieu translated. Sat. a.m. Mr. Hodous spoke, after which Ieu Si Ung, nephew of Pastor Leu asked to speak. He has been living over in Kiang Si 5 days journey from Shaowu, where he has a drug store. He told his Christian experience while at Kiang Si he was asked to preach. But not being at all fluent he did not wish to. Being urged he consented then began to fear lest he should have nothing to say. All Sat. p.m. and all that night he prayed. He went into the pulpit with fear, still praying, just before he was to speak. Suddenly all became bright, something within him seemed to give way and great joy filled his heart. He wept for joy. This experience was twice repeated during the week that followed. He started a prayer meeting in the early morning. Some 20 men became filled with the Spirit. For some months he has been much concerned for a deeper spiritual life among the workers in the Shaowu field- which is his home field. At his own expense he has brought over with him a young man who has lost his sight, who has learned to read the raised writing and who has power as a preacher. For one whole hour Si Ung spoke- of his own experience and of his desire for a deeper spiritual life among the believers in the Shaowu field. He got the people to gather daily at 6 a.m. for prayer. I attended three mornings. It is still dark at 6 o'clock. You go thro the silent street to the church. As you enter all is quiet and dark except one small lamp on the table in front of the pulpit. You think no one is present, but as you go up the aisle nearly every seat is occupied with men kneeling in silent prayer. This continues for 10, 15, 20 minutes. Then someone prays audibly, another prays, two, three are praying at the same time, one sings a hymn- if it is not known to the others he sings it alone, then repeats one time, ten, fifteen times. This continues till 7:15. We have been kneeling for an hour and a quarter. When we rise- as with common consent, for no one is leader, it is daylight, 75 men are present. Most people all have offered prayer. Some have broken down. It is a strange experience, and proves that there is a spiritual power in prayer. For we cannot understand more than now and then a word of any of the prayers uttered yet this was the place of prayer and naturally so- understood to be so thro the medium of spiritual language. At 9 a.m. Mr. Hodous spoke on "Our Father who art in Heaven."

No session had been arranged for Sat. afternoon. But just as some of us were starting for a walk Pastor Ieu came from the church to tell us that the people were all assembled and waiting for me to speak to them. I went with him and found the church filled with men and women. Ieu Si Ung, who had told his experience in the morning asked if they might have a session of prayer first. He said a few words and then men began to pray, - some standing some bowing in their seat, some kneeling. He asked them to pray earnestly for the filling with Holy Spirit. One man prayed with much feeling for those present and for the unsaved in China. The sobs of men were heard. Men were weeping in different parts of the house and crying to God for mercy. Then Mr. Ieu Si Ung sang a hymn one line of the refrain Kaing literally translated "Use Lord's precious blood wash clean my heart." The whole audience joined in this with groans and loud weeping for some ten minutes. After this there were prayers and confession of sin. One of the pastors tried five times to announce a hymn but was interrupted as many times. Strong men wept aloud. All of this consumed an hour and a quarter. They asked me then to speak but I refused. The Holy Spirit was in charge. For another half hour men spoke or prayed with a quieter emotion. Then, being requested a second time I said a few words and the meeting closed.

The session Sat. evening was marked by earnest attention. Sunday a.m. the church was crowded. 225 people partook of the communion. Sunday afternoon services were held in these different places, Mr. Uong Kaik Gieng a young man who is with us on this trip- a Foochow man in training for the Y.M.C.A. Secretaryship- in one place, Mr. Hodous in another and I in another. Sunday evening Hodous spoke again followed by Pastor Ieu. Mon. morning Mr. Hodous spoke on "Hallowed be thy Name." Mon. afternoon the dedication services for the new Boy's School were held. The Annual Meeting closed in the evening. Mr. Uong spoke, thru an interpreter, for nearly an hour on the heinousness of sin and the necessity of getting rid of it.

Dear folks at home:-

I am mailing at the same time two orders for books that will amount to about $3.50 from The Macmillan Co., for some (6) Geographics, and not more than ten dollars from Buy H. Sanborne and Co., Boston, Mass. for twelve arithmetics. I have asked them to send the bills to papa as it will save exchange and a lot of other bothers. I will give Will the money and he will give papa a check for the amount. I am ordering a few more books than I need as news has arrived here that three families are returning, which probably means four more children for me.

The days are whizzing by although it does not seem as though I did so very much. Not having books to help me out, I have to spend a lot of time on my school, so I am waiting impatiently to get my books.

We have been having two weddings for excitement this week. At the American wedding the Consul gave the bride away, and at the English wedding, today, the rector gave the bride away. He said he was perfectly willing to give her away as he didn't want her himself. I thought he was quite witty for an Englishman. Both bridegrooms were ill. One of them is just recovering from typhoid fever and the other is suffering from too strenuous a summer's work.

I wish you could see the beautiful flowers here. I had some chrysanthemums given me the other day that measured 15 ½ inches around. They were perfect balls. Mrs. Hodous gave me seven poinsetta blooms that measured 10 or 12 inches across. They grow six feet high here. All one has to do is to stick a stalk in the ground during the rainy season and nature does the rest. Heliotrope grows in great bunches and is beautiful.

Will's new house is growing quite fast. It is now up to the second story. It begins to show what it is to be and I should think when it is done that it will be one of the most up to date buildings here. Ellen and I were over to see it this afternoon. The steps and trimmings are a lovely gray granite, which looks very fine with the brick. The pillars are of brick and are circular. A special mold was made to have them that shape. All this may sound rather extra but I do not suppose that it adds much if any to the cost, as labor is so very cheap here. However, they will be the only ones of the kind in Foochow.

To-morrow there is to be a big meeting in the city of the Anti-opium league. There is a very large one here and several of the members are officials, who are much interested. I shall not be present but have already heard of the remarkable qualities of the principal Chinese speaker. He has been educated in Europe and is now back in his native land for the first time in over 40 years. He has a son who has been educated in Oxford.

Will is still on the way to Shaowu. He has been gone not quite three weeks. It seems a very long time to me and he will not be back before the middle of January. We hear from him two or three times a week-glowing tales of autumn leaves, the fine weather, scenery, etc. There is a deal of pleasure in such a trip. I should have liked to have gone with him.

With love to all-
Flora Beard.

NEAR DEATH'S DOOR.

James H. [should be D.] Beard [Willard and Flora's brother] Undergoes Operation for Spotted Fever and Is in Very Critical Condition

J. H. Beard, son of O.G. Beard, of this place, who is now residing in Bridgeport, is very ill, and last night underwent an operation, which it was hoped would result in final restoration to health. The disease was diagnosed as cerebral spinal meningitis, and his condition was very critical when the operation was decided upon. The operation was entirely successful, and over an ounce of superfluous matter was removed from his head, which seemed to give him almost instant relief. Early this morning word was received that the patient was rallying from the effects of the operation, and it was hoped that he would eventually recover.

At noon again the condition of the patient was inquired for and it was learned that he had grown much worse, and at the present writing it is believed that he will not live the day out. His condition became worse during the morning, and the patient sank rapidly. Mr. Beard was married about two years ago to Miss Leolyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Smith, of this place. The young couple have a host of friends in these associated communities who will regret to learn of Mr. Beard's serious condition, and will hope that the life of the young man may be spared.

JAMES D. BEARD SUCCUMBS TO CEREBRAL MENINGITIS

TAKEN SUDDENLY ILL WHILE TEACHING BRIDGEPORT SCHOOL.

Well and Favorably Known to Shelton People- Graduate of Amherst and Was Winning Golden Opinions as Educator

As was foreshadowed by reports from the bedside of James Daniel Beard, Friday noon, death ensued early in the afternoon, in spite of all that medical skill could accomplish. The news of the death of this young man, following so closely the first tidings of his illness, was a distinct shock to this community, where he passed his early years, and where nearly all the people were personally acquainted with him.

He was apparently seized with the disease only a few days before its fatal termination and few of his friends here knew of his illness until a short time before death ensued. He was attending to his duties as supervising principal of the school in Bridgeport, of which he has been in charge for over a year, when he was attacked by what seemed to be neuralgia, his head aching violently, and as this continued he decided to remain at home and send for a physician. The trouble was diagnosed as cerebral meningitis, and every device known to medical science was employed to combat the terrible disease. While the disease was confined to the head, and the spine was in no way affected it was impossible to check the trouble, and although the operation performed seemed to mitigate the severity of the disease, the patient was unable to rally and death ensued early Friday afternoon.

The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Beard, of this place, and was born in the homestead of Long Hill avenue, receiving his early education in the local schools, and later taking a course at Amherst college. He was graduated about four years ago and took up the work of teaching, in which he was very successful and bade fair to rank high as an educator. He taught in Litchfield for nearly two years and resigned from that place to accept the position of supervising principal of the new school erected in Bridgeport about two years ago, being its first principal. He won golden opinions for his work in that city and was looked upon as one of the most promising young men in the profession.

Two years ago last Thanksgiving he married Miss Leolyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.R. Smith, of this place, and to them was born a child some few months ago, and with a beautiful home and promising outlook in his chosen calling it seemed as if a happy future was in store for him. He was but 28 years old and until the fatal seizure seemed in good general health and vigor. From all classes of people are heard expressions of sympathy and sorrow for the untimely end of this young man while those who were personally acquainted with him and his family are grief stricken by the sad catastrophe.

Dear Mama:-

Where time is of little value it is hardest to get. There is no such thing as "time" to these Orientals. The other week I went over to spend Sunday with Miss Newton and left word with my coolies to come for me so that we could start for home at 7:45 A.M. I waited until 8 o'clock and then started, with a coolie, to walk. When I was within five minutes of home I met them just starting- at 8:30 A.M. They went on and got my chair but got no pay. I wonder if it will do them any good? I cannot get used to treating them like children and punishing them as though they belonged to me. However, Ellen does it, so I get out of that disagreeableness.

Last Saturday we took a walk to the Flower Village across the plain at the foot of "The Alps." It was a very pretty view as we looked down upon it from the hillside. We took afternoon tea and spread out dainties on the broad stone of one of the huge horse-shoe graves and literally picnicked in a grave yard. - There really is no other place for one, for every available spot above tide water is covered with graves. We bought forty beautiful huge chrysanthemums for thirteen cents gold. They would have cost twenty times as much in New York. These villagers refuse to sell the plants but I found a root with two nice young plants on one of my flowers, so I am letting it grow. When we came to pay for the flowers we could not get money enough among our whole crowd so one of the villagers volunteered to walk clear over here for his pay.

Well, Xmas promises to be quite gay. Next Saturday we are all invited to the dinner given to the kindergartner's and orphans. It will be a'la Chinese and I think rather interesting. On Xmas day we all go to the home of President of the college. The next Saturday we go to a Christmas tree at a large school under an English woman.

I am sending for six histories from Ginn and Co., New York City. The bill will be somewhere near four dollars and I have asked him to send a copy of the bill to me (if he wishes to keep the receipt) so that I may know just what to charge the children here. In February I am planning to send a draft which will help to equalize myself a little on my home debts.

So far I have nine children. I laughed when I read your query about my 'assistant.' However, after Xmas I am to have a little boy for private tutoring and I expect two more children- at least- from the four families who are returning from America. Besides, I am organizing a class in "drill" (calisthenics) which will mean a little more money. I did so want to pay up the whole $300 this year.

It is getting late and I must go to bed. I am feeling not very kindly toward Taylor and Gregory to-night because my watch has gone back on me and it is now in the hands of a Chinese jeweler.

Lovingly- Flora. Dec. 19.

Dec. 26. - In the stress of getting ready for Xmas these letters got stranded in my pigeon hole, so I'll tell you of our Xmas Day. Our children are the only ones in the mission group here so they got very generously remembered. It took over an hour yesterday to open the gifts and get them all duly examined. Then it was time to get ready for the dinner. At 1 P.M. we went to Mr. and Mrs. Gowdy's. (By the way Mrs. Gowdy was a classmate of May Palmer's in Wesleyan). There were thirty three people at the long table and a jolly company it was. My seat was next to the U.S. Consul, so it was without saying that I had a good time. I am enclosing my menu so that you can see what we did. Each one had to find his or her place by finding a picture which illustrated something about oneself. The rest of the card explains itself. The table looked very pretty and quite Christmassy. There were strewn over the table little bunches of banyan leave- the straight edged leaves- and clusters of bright red berries that grow on branches of the scalloped leaf- enclosed. One of the ladies had brought out a Holly decked set of paper napkins and tumbler doylies so we really had everything but mistletoe- and there wasn't need of any of that. Cupid has been very busy and has literally worked himself out of material for targets.

 Coffee

In the evening I took Mrs. Maclachlin's place and played for her class of girls to sing at the Christmas exercises. They sang very well, but I wish you could have heard an anthem sung for a dozen young women trained by a Chinese teacher. The Tower of Babel could not have been more of a jargon of voices, and they sang on in all the bliss of no nerves. But the prettiest and loveliest thing of all was the little orphans- about a dozen and a half had a little bird game. It would have wearied the little Americans with its length but these little girls acted it all the way through totally unconscious of their audience. It was a game gotten up by their Chinese teacher by just seeing pictures in Kindergarten magazines. (By the way Foochow enjoys the distinction of having the only Kindergarten training school in China. Young ladies come from all over the empire to train here. The school is in some way connected with Miss Newton's school). To go on with the game- several little girls made a nest and two of the tinest were birds. The father and mother birds flew about getting nouns and would return with a long piece of vermicelli on their mouths. They would go up to the baby and literally drop it into its mouth- It was so cunning. There the babies had to be taught to fly. I could have watched much longer. We stayed an hour and a half and then Dorothy's eyes began to get very droopy so we departed.

I think we have had fire crackers enough to celebrate the Fourth of July for the whole of Shelton. We were wakened yestermorning by bushels of them going off all at once and the boys at the college are still at it to-day. They have their races and the shouting would indicate a fierce tussle between Yale and Harvard at home but here it is nothing more serious than some potato, egg, or three legged race. The result is all the same for it meant outdoor exercise.

Tell papa to let me know the exact amount of each of my bills as they come in for I want to keep my accounts straight.

Hoping to hear from you all soon I am-

Yours lovingly-

Flora Beard.

[About Dec. 1906]

Dear Mary:-

Your letter was most welcome and I wish I could have had one to reach you as soon as yours came to me. Yes, I had just as lovely weather as you. The ocean was fine all the way. The night after we left Yokohama the ship rolled very badly so that several were seasick again but I just slept through it. Friends of Will met me at Shanghai and took care of me but I only stayed 24 hours when I took the little coast liner down to Foochow. We were out in very rough weather. The waves tossed us about like a cork and I imagine the supper dishes went into smithereens for I heard them slide onto the floor. I was in bed with my first attack of seasickness. It was quite a successful attack for the next day I felt fine and was able to enjoy a whole day of the roughest water I ever saw. We were in the edge of a typhoon but fortunately we were going with the wind so that we were spared some of the worst features of the storm. Even the engineers were seasick so I guess I had a right to be. The sea was beautiful. We would go away down in the trough of a wave and then climb to the top and all the time we were rolling sideways. It was fine and if I am never any more seasick than I was I shall not mind such a little thing, - I am glad that you like California and that you have such a view for every day living. I, too, look out onto a range- in fact several ranges- beyond the city. From our back windows we look over the city of Foochow. We are about four miles from the walls. I have not yet been into the city, for the streets are so smelly that it is sickening to me to go through them even in my chair, - I was interested to hear about your school and hope you will tell me some more when you write again. Do you enjoy the work with the girls or is it a grind? My school opened with 8 scholars and now I have one more. Three of the families who send children are in America and today I heard that they are really returning which will probably mean four more children for me- which will make me feel much better, for I did want to make my expenses out here this year. Mary, they have asked me to start a class of calisthenics- which, I suppose, must be carried on something in the style of a drill. Do you know of any exercises that would be pretty with fans or hoops, or anything else? Do send them to me if you know of any- when you tell of the fruit you have it makes me think of our own- only ours do not grow in our yard. Will buys persimmons, oranges, pomelos and bananas in quantities as large as bushels. We have for breakfast and tiffin [lunch], two kinds of oranges, bananas, pears, pomelos (rather just one) persimmons (sometimes two kinds), dates cooked in honey, chestnuts (boiled) and peanuts. If you could see the children's plates piled with one of each of these you would wonder how they could eat them. But we do. I do not like to drink any more of the water than is necessary so I am glad of the juices of the different fruits. There are so many beautiful places to go to, and so many pretty things in the shops to buy that it is almost beyond endurance to not buy. I am just biding my time before I begin for I want to know when I can get the best. The carved tables and screens are beautiful and very reasonable. The lacquer shops are about five minutes walk from here, but the [letter ripped]- gold lacquer, is made only in the city. Foochow lacquer is the first in the world- even surpassing Japanese lacquer. I am surprised how much a box 15" X 6" X 2" would cost and the man said $10 gold. He finally came down to $8, but I did not give him the order. They put in real gold and there are about 18 coats of lacquer put on it, - I am sending in this same mail a small silk covered card case. I think the bridge is the sacred one at Nikko. I did not see it. We went to Tokio, and to Osaka but had to take up the rest of the time in seeing the ports. I took lunch with Bessie's friend in Nagasaki. They had been there just two weeks. It is a most beautiful spot- mountains all around. - The engagement of Miss Worthley here to Dr. Sites of Shanghai was announced about two weeks ago. I had the opportunity to wish them well. They both look surprisingly happy. - Keep my fan. I was glad to know where it is. It may stand you in stead and I can replace it for I am in the land of fans. - I hope this reaches you for Xmas. The little trick of sending mail to Shanghai is all up, so now I pay my 5 cents gold as all the rest have to do. - Give my love to Miss Wright and her friend and keep a lot for yourself as well as all my best wishes for a happy Xmas.

Very lovingly yours- Flora.

P.S. We are all well. Will is off on a six or eight week's tour and it is rather lonesome without him. However there are lots of nice people here who have been very good to me so with Ellen and the children I am not stagnating. - F.B.

[Jan. 6, 1907]

Dear folks at home:-

This has been a gala week. It began with New Year's day. Ellen invited guests so that we sat down nineteen in number. They were all American Board people except Mr. and Mrs. Maclachlin [McLachlin]. While we were at the table three people came to call so that we had a house full. Then Ellen and I went to a reception given to a young man- Dr. Sia- (I'll tell you about him later). In the evening we went out to dine at the house of one of the customs people. There were nine of us at the table and we represented six different nations- Ireland, England, French, Swede, Canadian, and U.S. The next day we went to welcome a new missionary and his family. On Friday we were invited to a dinner given in honor of Dr. Sia. He is a graduate of the Methodist college here and was also educated in U.S. He has just received the third degree from the Emperor and Empress. They conferred it in person. She shielded her face from view by a book, during the ceremony. This degree is equal to L.L.D. in U.S. It is usually the result of about forty years of unusually fortunate studying, but this time a special examination was given in English for the benefit of those who have been educated in the western knowledge. He is to have a seat on the Board of Education and an honor will be given him unprecedented in Chinese history. He will not take the lowest seat of honor but will take the fourth or fifth up. He will be working with men nearly forty years his senior. He takes his high honors very modestly and appears just as you would expect a broadly educated man to appear. He has a wife and little year old child in Shanghai. He came down only for a short visit to his mother and sister before he goes on to Peking to open a school of medicine. I had a very interesting conversation with him but cannot relate it. He belongs to a wealthy family here, and his sister is in one of the schools. I am seeing many "first" things in the awakening of China. People (foreigners, I mean) come from all parts of China to spend the summer here, for it is one of the most beautiful spots- naturally- in the country. Yesterday I was asked to two teas, so you can see my time is not hanging heavily on my hands. This last week I organized a class for "drill"- calisthenics. There will be sixteen in it. Mr. Main's family reached here yesterday, and I expect that will mean two more scholars. Then a little boy comes to me for an hour each afternoon, so my days are pretty full. - My books have not yet arrived but I hope to see them soon. They left Boston Oct. 8. This last week I received a box from the European trip friends. It had some lovely remembrances - one from each of them. I thought it was very lovely of them to think of me.

It is over a week since we have received any home letters and I am beginning to feel a paining in the region of the fifth rib, left side.

I wish you would get a plain pattern of a nine gored skirt and send me. Get one size 28 in. waist measure. I shall want to make some clothes soon and found that I had no skirt pattern.

With love to all- Flora Beard

He is pleased to report that over 200 young men met at the new City Y.M.C.A. recently. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]*

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China Jan 16th 1907.

My dear Oliver:-

I got home from the Shaowu trip a week ago this evening, - found all well and happy. The hardware arrived so I got it up to the house Friday. I want to thank you again for all you have done. I am only afraid you have had a lot of bother. As soon as I get my bearings and things a little straightened out I'll send you something better than thanks.

The family is prospering. The children are doing more in a week at school than they did in a month-I might say ten- last year. Mr. and Mrs. Main of the M.E. Mission have just returned and put 2 boys into the school and Flora is tutoring a little chap at the price of tuition for one so she now has 12 scholars @ $100 mex. a year. This will net her over $600 gold. Her board is about $175 gold a year. She will probably earn more here than at home. Marjorie beats the others in health, strength, size and good looks and deportment.

I had a great trip in the N.W. part of the province, - walked 400 miles- went by boat 600 miles- visited 24 centers of Christian work. Made 34 addresses and gained 5 lbs.- Lived straight Chinese about ¼ of the time- slept out of doors some of the time,- saw ice 3/8 inch thick and snow on the mountains – no fire,- jumped into the river every morning till Dec. 6. Two good revivals in Shaowu while we were there- 30 for the first time confessed Christ, - the most successful trip I ever took, - kept well all the time. Was gone from Nov. 15th- Jan. 9th.

Sunday 212 young men met at the building we have rented and fitted up for the headquarters of the City Y.M.C.A. This evening the active members met and started a Board of Directors. All thus far goes well. The young men are taking hold with enthusiasm and are acting in a business like way.

Give our love to all

Yours

Will

Foochow, China.

Jan 18th 1907.

My dear Elizabeth:-

Your good letter came just as I returned from the Shaowu trip. I want to tell you how much I like the tie you sent me. I received it only a short time before I started for Shaowu and did not wear it until last week. I was getting just out of a real nice tie for best and beside being a pretty tie this one came just at the right time to be very useful to me. Thank you very much for it. I am very thankful to the Father for bringing you so far on the way to complete recovery. And how we did rejoice when we heard that Phebe was well! I was in Amoy when I heard of her illness and I did not know anything more till I got back to Foochow and found Flora here.

I have had a very pleasant and profitable tour up river- thro Song Bing, Shaowu, Tai Ning and Giong Ning Gaing. Now you know all about it!! Well we started Nov. 15th at 9 a.m. I got home Jan. 9th at 8 p.m. Mr. Hodous and I walked during the trip 400 miles and went nearly 600 miles by boat. We visited 24 different centers of work. The three of us made 97 addresses and different fellow travelers made 25 more, so in all the trip was the occasion of 122 address[es]. Mr. Uong preached to please the most staunch followers of Jonathan Edwards. He painted Hell in as bad a light as the language would express and told the people- sometimes street crowds- that they were on the road to Hell. My diary will give you a little idea of the revivals in the Shaowu Annual Meeting and in the Boy's Boarding School at Shaowu.

The hardware for the new house came day before yesterday. Mr. Brand- a business man- has been waiting for his part of it for two months and over. In fact he had bought some native hinges and fixed up his doors and windows and has moved into the house. So I have been quite busy dividing the order. The week of prayer was held this past week and I got away to attend just two of the meetings. This afternoon the first meeting of the Foochow City Y.M.C.A. was held. 225 young men were present. 133 have signed application blanks for membership. A house has been rented and fixed up for the Y.M.C.A. building.

Mr. Mott will visit China next March. He will be present at the national Y.M.C.A. Convention to be held in Shanghai in Mar. or April and possibly he will come to Foochow. I shall be very busy working up the delegates all over the province to attend this Convention. The number 26 must be decided on before Feb. 14th- I may need to visit Amoy and Swatou.

We are all well. Ellen never was so stout since we have been in China. Marjorie is a handsome baby and "developing fast"- Flora says so. Two new scholars are now in Flora's school and she is tutoring one little boy one hour a day- so this makes 12 in all.

The new house is a beauty. The roof tiles are laid on loosely. The building paper is here. I am trying the experiment of putting this building paper on under the tiles. Part of the floors are laid.

The last pages of the diary of the Shaowu trip may be delayed some in reaching you as I want some people here to read them.

I think of Phebe as again in her school and I hope you are now at home for good. Why don't you and Ruth go into the poultry business? It is healthful, pleasant, and lucrative. There is abundance of room all about you and the capital required to start, small. I bought 7 capons and brought down from the Shaowu district with me. My pig is growing fast. I want to get time to go and buy some good food for him and get him fat so as to kill him in another month. Come over and have some home made sausage with us, - and some ham.

I must close now for it is time.

Tell all the folks we sent lots of Love to each of them
Will

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China Jan. 18th 1907.

My dear Oliver and the Rest:-

Your letter telling so vividly the facts of James' illness and death came last evening. [According to his death record, James died of "Cerebro meningitis" and "Paralysis of nerve centre".] We were all out when the mail came. Flora and Ellen came home first. Mary's letter to Flora only referred to the matter and Ellen opened my letters and the papers and they first learned the whole truth. It came pretty hard on Flora. I was attending a Y.M.C.A. meeting and did not get in till 8 o'clock. Flora met me in the hall and I learned the news then. She ate no supper- slept little last night, ate a very light breakfast in bed this morning but was up for dinner and has been out for a walk this p.m. So she is all right now.

Just as I was reaching Shaowu and just as we were in the midst of very successful meeting there you were in scenes of sadness. I am very thankful for your clear statement of the facts in James' illness and death. It takes all the mist and haze away from events of this kind to know the particulars. It is a great relief to know that he suffered so short a time. It is also a source of comfort to know that his wife and daughter are well provided for.

I was with James much while at home and I was impressed 1st that his ideals were right. He wanted to be of use to his fellow men- we talked this thro in Broad Brook [Broad Brook, CT- near Hartford] the May after we reached home. 2nd I felt all the time that he was using up nervous energy faster than he was restoring it, so I know just what you mean when you write that you think of him now as at rest. We are all proud of his success. His short life has brought honor to his parents. Father and Mother ought to be the happiest and most contented people on earth. They have reared and launched ten children in lives of usefulness- every one of them honored by their fellows and holding the confidence of the best people.

I remember you telling me you should watch my letters to see if their tone indicated whether I was satisfied with the change I had made in my work. I wonder what you have discovered. The fact is I hardly know myself. I am sure tho that thus far my opportunities have been broader. I have seen much of man and places that I should not have seen in the other work. I have had things pretty much my own way. Since I came back Brockman has not been in Foochow. This is at least a proof that he is not worrying over Y.M.C.A. matters in this province. The Association is just organized here in Foochow. Our city problems in this sphere are just commencing. I do not however intend to tie myself down to this work- McLachlin will see to this altho I must be mainly responsible to it. I shall work in the larger field of the province.

Love to all Will.

Dear Mama:-

Mary's letter was the first to suggest the sad news. She did not tell what it was and I was nearly wild until Ellen let me open Will's letters (he was away) for all the letters were addressed to him. It has, indeed, come with a shock and never again will I feel only gladness to get letters from home. It has rounded out a year filled with sadness to the brim. I cannot wish James back as much as he had in life to enrich it, but my heart is full of sadness when I think of Leolyn alone. Little Leolyn will be a blessing to her every day, for a little baby's innocence and daily growth are a solace that can't help but soften the hardest blow. Little Marjorie has been the greatest company to me here. It has been very hard to be away from you all at this time, and I cannot help but think how much harder for Mary. She tells of every one's kindness and especially Miss Wright's so it makes things easier to think about. The articles in the papers were comforting with their tone of outside appreciation of his sterling worth, and I was glad that Herrick and Elbert could come. I am sure James would have liked it so. There certainly have been many things to help bear this first great sorrow and we ought to be very thankful for them. The memory of Leolyn's and James' married life will always be one full of pleasure to me and a proof that love really does exist in an ideal that can be realized. They have been so happy!

To-day I am alone with the children and the servants for Will and Ellen have gone to the mountain on business. They started at 7:30 A.M. and will not be back until after 6 P.M. I am going to attempt to give Marjorie her bath, but am not sure of what success I may achieve. It will be much like trying to wash a very lively fish for she loves her bath and keeps up a continual squirm during the process. I wish you could see her straight fat little body. If you have ever seen that little bas-relief of a baby (which is sold in plastic for a quarter) you have a good idea of Marjorie. She is just beginning to say "mama" and "papa" and has quite decided notions that they are a little more of a choice morsel than even the Amah- to say nothing of her auntie and the children. I now have eleven pupils in school, a little boy who comes to me an hour four days a week, and a class in "drill" twice a week to keep me busy- and it does. In about three weeks I shall send home a draft for $100. Eighty five of it is to go to mama, then to Stanley for his graduation present and the rest (five) to papa. I will send later enough to reimburse him- when I know whether my orders reached their destination. I had hoped to pay up the whole amount mama gave me- this year- but it will be impossible. However, if all goes well I shall send another hundred home in June. There are prospects for a larger number of scholars next year, and then I hope to have a summer school on the mountain for eight or ten weeks. I shall want to do something with our children and might as well have more and earn a little- for the following summer I want to go to Japan.

I shall hope to hear from you in the next mail. It has been two weeks since any word had come from you.

With love and sympathy to you all – I am

Lovingly yours-

Flora Beard.

I have just heard of the bereavement you have sustained in the loss of your beloved brother. I think that I will write to you [your] aged and honorable father and mother and your people at home soon on this affliction. May brother James' gentle, manly and kind manner be left to us and with us and may our last day be like his full of happiness and peace at heart. I assure you that you have my deepest sympathy for I know brother James so well and have thought of him so often and so much.

[This letter dated Jan. 30, 1907 was written from Foochow, China and was by Flora to her mother on her mother's birthday. Chinese New Year's vacation is coming up, so school will be closed. She has noticed many "queer" things in China. She describes a Chinese wedding she attended that week. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Dear Mama:-

Today is your birthday. I hope it has been one of peace- for I can hardly expect it to have been full of happiness. It is now two weeks since the last letters came from home. It seems a very long time with no news from you. The last letters brought it very forcibly to mind that we cannot know what is taking place with each other at the same time. There is one comfort here- my days are crammed full of work so that they are going by very rapidly. From Feb. 8 to the 11th, I am to have a vacation- during the Chinese New Year's. All the schools are closing this week and I have had to decline all their invitations to commencement exercises. It seems rather queer to graduate classes now but one has to get acquainted with many 'queer' things. For instance- the Chinese have been getting in their year's worshipping since Xmas. Every morning and evening the temple gong rings eighteen times quickly then eighteen times slowly- three times. I suppose this is the time when they do the "three kneelings and nine knockings of the head."

On Monday I went to the first Chinese Christian wedding when the ceremony was given in English. The bride was the head teacher in the girl's school. She was very sweet and so shy and modest. Her husband is a wealthy tea merchant whose business is in Amoy and Formosa. He provided her trousseau and told her to get anything she liked, which she did with the aid of the American lady at the head of the school. Her wedding dress was a very dainty lavender satin trimmed with narrow bands of white satin and real lace. It was most becoming and in perfect good taste. The Chinese dress is worthy of imitation in more ways than one. It is simple and well adapted to work or play. The groom was dressed in foreign clothes and had no cue. Will and Ellen went to the wedding feast afterwards. The bride attended but the groom gave his feast later to his friends. At the Chinese feasts the two sexes have their tables in separate rooms.

I am enclosing a handkerchief for your birthday present. Please wash it before you use it. I send it to you as it is because I want you to notice the fine-ness and perfection of the work. It is done by a young man and his sister, both of whom are paralyzed from their hips down. One of the ladies here provides this needle work for just such helpless people. She thinks they are afflicted with tuberculosis of the bones or joints.

With love to all and many wishes for a year of peace to you.

I am

Yours lovingly-

Flora Beard.

Foochow, China.
Jan. 30th 1907

My dear Mother:-

Today you are sixty five years old if my reckoning is correct. I have an hour that is not full and so I'll use it chatting with you.

Yesterday at 2:30 p.m. Gould and I started on foot for the City. It rained hard and Marjorie was not well-teething we think- so Ellen did not come in the Seminary- of which I had charge during our first term in Foochow- had a reunion last evening and we were invited in. I brought Gould in to buy some shoes for him. We found a pair in a Chinese shop- foreign style- that fitted him exactly. I was much surprised at the great change that has taken place in the stores in Foochow City. They have gotten much foreignized in the last two years,- not only are they full of articles- shoes, stockings, stores, underclothing, both wool and cotton, pencils, pens, candles, ink, gloves, rubber boots, towels, blankets, etc., etc. Before we went home four years ago there were just two places in Foochow in the foreign settlement where some of these things could be bought. I also found a nice pair of rubber overshoes which I bought for Phebe.

The Seminary boys and teachers had a good feast last night, then a nice reunion. All the classes but two were represented. It was to attend this that I went into the city. It rained hard all the way. I wore my old overalls to keep my pants from getting wet. Ellen saw me start and said she hoped I would meet no missionaries. The overalls saved me from getting wet thro. Gould thought it fine fun. He went to bed at Mrs. Hinman's about 9 p.m. I followed at 10:30. This a.m. I let Gould stay in the city with me to attend the Graduation exercises. Gould and I sat on the opposite side of the church. I had decided to leave at 12 and go home. So at 12:15 as the audience rose to bow to a Chinese official we ran out and found Ellen had been of the same mind so we three walked home together.

Friday Feb. 1

Marjorie has the measles according to the doctors diagnosis- but he says a very light case. All others are well.

Last night we had a good heavy frost,- a rare thing in Foochow.

I must close with this and

All our love to you all

Will.

Dear grandma Beard;_

I am in the city in Mr. Hadouses house. We were planning to climb the city wall, we don't live in the city but we live in the suburbs over on the south side it was rainy yesterday and threatens to rain today.

Aunt Flora is getting along nicely. We went to a Chinese fiest lastnight.

Give a kiss to all.

[About February 1907]

Dear folks at home:-

There are letters from mama, Ruth, Phebe and Aunt Louise here to be answered. My correspondence had piled up until one pigeon hole has refused to hold it- for I have written no letters except what the home folks have received, for over a month. My time and thoughts have been more than filled and I was glad to have a week's vacation during the Chinese New Years. An attack of influenza made the time doubled so I shall open school again tomorrow. I have fourteen scholars now- for the new French Consul wants his little girls to come to my school. I shall have to teach them English from the very first word but it will be interesting because I have never done such a thing. I hope to be able to exchange lessons with his wife for she is very anxious to learn English. They have been in Germany for six years so they all understand and speak German. - Families are arriving every month with children of school age and things look as if I were to have all the work I can do. Nearly every week, tokens present themselves to show that people are getting interested in the "American School."-Will is away for a week at Ing Hok so Ellen, the children and I are here by ourselves. The Hubbard children went back home with their father when the doctor said I had the influenza. They will return to-morrow, I expect. It seems so good to be by ourselves.

Before this reaches you I suppose we shall be in our new house. A family will reach here the middle of April which will need this house so we will have to move out the first of April. Our new house will not be done but will be livable by then. My furniture will hardly get ready for my new room, but I shall not care especially as I can use the spare room with what I have now. I designed and gave to the furniture maker drawings for a bureau, washstand, wardrobe, screen, rocker, writing desk, chair, and five picture frames of either Canton black wood or hard wood. He is to paint the first five pieces white. The desk and chair are of a very beautifully grained light brown hardwood. My room is to be in blue and white. I have just designed my fireplace and mantle. It costs no more to have one's own ideas carried out than to take those of the contractor. I have arranged to have a double shelf over my fireplace and to have the lower one arranged with glass doors to keep the dust away from the books within. I have a round corner with three narrow windows in it each with a low deep window seat, which I shall have cushioned. A large wide door opens onto a large wide upper veranda which looks out over the plain and the mountains in the distance- a beautiful view. I forgot to tell you that I get my furniture altogether for $45 silver or about $21 gold. It remains to be seen as to how well it is made. I will write of that later. - Did I tell you that my cards came a few days ago? Now the six geographies, and the right amount of paints and crayons have come, and I am waiting for the arithmetics and histories. Soon I shall order my spellers and then we shall be equipped. I am still waiting for $150 tuition in order to send home my draft. Lovingly- Flora.

Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China Feb. 10th 1907.

Dear Folks all:-

I am enclosing a letter which Mr. Ding Ming Uong sent to us when he heard of James' death. This to me was masterful in its use of the English language to convey sympathy. I am also enclosing a copy of an account of the revival in the Boy's School at Shaowu while I was there in December last. Use this as widely as you like.

Marjorie is quite herself again. I think she felt being shut up and not seeing the other children more than she did the measles. Dr. said they were only German measles. The eruption lasted only two days. She has been very interesting today. This evening she and Dorothy had a fine play with an old table napkin. She would throw it about and laugh as if she thought Dorothy and she were about of an age.

Flora's school closed Friday to begin again a week from next Tuesday. Chinese New Years day is next Wed. and even the School for the children of foreigners is effected. Flora is working hard and making a success of the school. She is also "taking" well with the people of Foochow- they like her.

Dr. Kinnear's people arrived last Wed. evening. Mr. Peet's family should reach Hong Kong next Wed. Chinese New Years will likely delay them a little in getting up to Foochow.

Things are very quiet in Foochow just now. All engaged in Educational work have gone off for a change and rest. Miss Newton is at Sharp Peak.

The new residence goes up very rapidly- better rapidly approaches completion. Floors are all down. All first coat of plaster is on where there is lath. The brick walls will so quickly absorb the moisture that these will be plastered last. The second coat of white plaster is on four rooms already. Windows and doors and blinds are all ready to hang. No rain yet. The rains are holding off wonderfully. Last night it rained and this morning it was foggy and damp. But about noon a fresh breeze sprang up from the west and the sun has been shining all the p.m. with a fine drying wind.

My pig is a fine one. I wish father could see it. Since I got back from Shaowu I have been looking at him everyday. I bought seven dollars worth of rice for him the other day, and he is showing good keeping. I'm going to kill him myself if all goes well. The cook and the washerman left us last Monday. The coolie went home for a vacation which we had previously promised him, on Wed. This left us with a boy of 16 yrs. and a rough green man who feeds the pig, etc. Ellen has been chief cook and washman for the week.

Flora is spending the Sunday with Mrs. McLachlin. I wonder if James dress coat and vest are disposed of. I could take them if no one else want them. I mention this just to help you out. Ruth's last letter arrived a few days ago.

This is the month of our birthday. I was 42 last Tues. Marjorie will be a year old next Sun 17, father 65 next Mon 18, Flora, 36 the 25th.- James' came the 20th did it not?

All are well and send love to all

Will.

Are the "sureon" glasses frame of James' gone?

Do not mention either this or the coat and vest unless perfectly natural. W.

Feb. 11, 1907

Dear Mama:-

It is the last of the old year (a'la China's), and this may be the only letter from us for a month as everyone- I mean the Chinese- stops work and mails are few and far between. The last mail brought Ruth's letter. I hope you are quite over the rheumatism by this time. I shall look longingly for letters to tell how you are. The last mail brought my calling cards- one hundred of them. There was no bill but I shall look for a letter telling me of all the bills as they have come in to you. I think I shall have one more order of books- spellers but will write you when I order them- This is my vacation week. I am spending it in resting, mending, cutting out clothes, planning the furniture for my new room in the new house. Will is having many expenses so I offered to get the bureau, wash stand, and wardrobe. He has asked me also to design the mantle- as I can have just what I wish at no extra expense. It is very interesting to see the workers work. The boards are sanded (right in the house or yard), planed, and made into cornices, or anything needed. The tools are made on the spot and every nail is hand wrought. Some of the floors are nailed down with bamboo nails. My furniture will not cost over $40 silver and then I shall have nicer than I did at home. I presume I shall have to pay for an addition on Will's summer house as it means that or pay $200 to rent a cottage by myself- which I do not care to do. This was a surprise to me- as have also been several things about the way the people here do. However I am just going to do as the Roman's do and hope to come out of the big end of the horn. All my patrons have expressed their appreciation of my work so I am hoping it may bring me more work.

Lovingly- Flora

Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]*

[Mar. 7, 1907.]

Dear folks at home:-

Enclosed you will find the check for $100. $85 for mama, $10 for Stanley, and $5 toward my account with papa. In June I shall send a check large enough to clear myself with him. I fear this will be all I can send to mama this year as it is decided that I will build onto Will's mountain house which will mean nearly $200 silver, before it is done. That with over $50 (silver) for furnishing my room here will use up my revenue pretty closely.

If I did not build, it meant giving $50 (S) for rent somewhere else. That amount for three years would amount to what I am spending and then no special good would have resulted. Now, Will will be in an extra room, when I am done with it- and as the children get bigger they will find it not as pleasant in their present quarters. Every one out here owns his own bed, and I have already sent to Chicago for mine.

Well, I have one more scholar, and two more enquiring for April and May. I also have booked myself for 5 hours a week teaching English to the young men in the Y.M.C.A. classes. I am to have one class in Beginning Eng. and one in advanced. I could have gotten a dollar an hour for it but said I would give the 5 hours for $4. I am doing this on purely selfish motives so it cannot be called missionary work. I wished to try my ability to teach English to the Chinese by means of phonics, I wanted the extra cash, and I wanted to know the Chinese first hand. I have already read nearly a dozen books about them and their country but there is nothing that can equal a personal knowledge, even if it be limited only to a few.

The last mail brought letters from Annie Gilbert, Abby, Leolyn, and home. Tell Helen her letter was a most welcome one and someday it will get answered. My pigeon hole is full of letters waiting for a spare moment. I shall get some in the summer time, if not before.

Yesterday baby Marjorie had a small operation and has come out of it as though nothing had been done. About two months after she was born a spot in the very front edge of her hair began to grow until it had become as large as the top of a red raspberry, which it very closely resembled. The doctor said there would be serious danger of injury by a bump and it had better be removed especially as it was increasing in size. They gave the little girl chloroform and she appeared exactly as well and happy as ever. We all feel glad that it is so well over.

With love to you all-

Flora.

[This letter dated April 7, 1907 was written on lightweight Japanese columned paper from Tokio, Japan by Willard to his mother. He is at a Conference where there are men from 25 different nations. The languages have to be interpreted. Willard feels that God is transforming the leading men of Japan to work with the Western nations to know God and give Him allegiance. He has gone to many garden parties and receptions after each day of the conference. His next stop is the Centenary Conference in Shanghai. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Tokio, Japan. Apr. 7, 1907

My dear Mother:-

The Conference is nearly over- the session this evening closes it. It has been to me unique in that it brought together the ends of the earth. It is the first International gathering of any kind held in Japan. It is worthy of mention that this should have been a gathering of Christian students, in the interest of world wide Christianity. Men are here from 25 different nations. One realizes that while little is said directly about peace among the nations yet the forces that go to make for universal peace are met here as in no other place. The diplomat - representatives of government may meet at the Hague,- and must meet, but without the formation of Christian Brotherhood of the Nations, compacts and laws could not avail. Here there is just one barrier to the closest union of heart and purpose. Whatever one may say, so much depends on the medium for converging thought that much of the spiritual good that comes from these Conference must come thru the expression of thought.

Everything has to be translated. If an English speaking man addresses the audience his thought is put also into the Japanese. If a Japanese addresses the audience he is translated into English. Twice a German spoke and was interpreted into Japanese only. So much translation is wearisome after days. Once a German was interpreted with Eng. then that into Japanese - three men stood side by side. Nevertheless one realizes by this that God is not confined in His works to any one sphere, and when one sees as we have seen during the past five days, the Japanese crowding the hall as student delegates, the Japanese acting as ushers,- with no foreign assistance, the Japanese as business Comm.- all the business of the Conference has been reported by a Japanese who gave the motives in the two languages each time, and the Vice Pres. of the Conf. is a Japanese and many of the addresses have been given by Japanese- when one sees these things day after day, and then goes out among the people where modes of travel are the same as with us- where street car conductors and motormen are even more courteous than with us, and all the signs of an advanced civilization are apparent at nearly every turn, he realizes that God has transformed many leading men in Japan and is using them side by side with men from Western nations to help Him make the men of the world know Him and give Him Allegiance.

Yesterday afternoon Count and Countess Okuma invited the delegates to their beautiful gardens. Count Okuma addressed the whole body of delegates expressing his sympathy and cooperation in the purpose of the Conference to help young men. He was careful to not commit himself as a believer in Jesus Christ, but he had good words for Christianity. The very fact that he asked the Conference to be his guests was a proof of his sympathy. He is the founder of a large Japanese College- 5000 students in which Mr. Abe- a classmate in Hartford of mine- teaches. He was in the Japanese Parliament but has resigned from office. Thru the influence of a Christian member of Parliament who is a good friend of Mr. Abe. I was allowed to go thru the buildings with Mr. Abe on Friday morning. Each day of the Conference there has been some kind of a reception or garden party to occupy the two hours between the closing of the p.m. session and dinner. One day one of the Imperial gardens was opened to the delegates and the Am. Ambassador received the delegates one afternoon.

Friday noon Mr. Woodward and Mr. Gleeman asked all the International Secretaries to lunch. These men I met in Washington D.C. Mr. Woodward is senior partner in the largest Dry Goods = department store in Washington and Mr. Gleeman is a former Sec'y of the Washington D.C. Assn. and a successful business man in Washington. They are the first of a committee of laymen from the churches in the U.S. to visit mission fields at their own expense and report to the home churches. This Comm. consists of 100 men I understand. Each man looks up the work of his own denomination, but they go in groups as they like- at their own expense. They are unfettered and under orders to no one. This movement is of great moment to the cause of missions.

Then last evening Mr. Severance a business man from Cleveland, Ohio, asked all Presbyterian and Secretary of the International Comm. to a dinner,- some one hundred were there. These were very delightful occasions,- especially as I am staying in a Japanese Hotel and living on Japanese food.

A letter from the Foochow people written Mar. 25 said they were well. I plan now to go back to Shanghai- stay there for the Centenary Conference and get home about the middle of May. I would not attend the Conf. if I were not on a Committee that meets before the Conference for business.

This is already too long so Good bye with lots of love to all- and I am praying that the Father may keep you all in peace and joy. We have so many, many things to make us joyfull.

Will.

Young Men's Christian Association

Tokio, Japan Apr. 7th 1907.

Dear Ellen-

The only deficiency in this days happiness is that you could not be here to enjoy it with me. It began yesterday- first in the meetings which have all been good and which have also been increasing in interest. But the association with friends during the intervals between sessions has been delightful. I wrote you of the lunch given by Messrs. Woodward and Gleeman on Friday noon. Last evening Mr. Severance of Cleveland had nearly 100 at dinner- Presbyterians and International Secretaries and wives. I feel like an odd one for Mrs. Brockman, Lyon, Lewis, Rutledge and a lot of other Mrs.'s are here. Mrs. Lewis was good to sit beside me last evening and Mrs. Lyon across the table and a Mrs. Pearson on the other side. It was one of the pleasantest occasions I have had in a long time. I came near not going- for I was tired and lonely, but as is usually the case it was just what I needed. I took the wrong car when I started home and went- somewhere. I could not say a word, and could find no one who talks Eng. I have carefully carried in Chinese characters the names of the Y.M.C.A. and of my Hotel. But when I changed coat and vest I left all these at home. I bethought myself as I stood there- I have no idea where- that I had put on a slip of paper the place where I left the car to go to the Hotel where the dinner was served. This fortunately was still in my pocket, and I took a car back- which proved to be the one I should have taken in the first place.

This morning Prof. Bosworth gave a most helpful talk on Prayer to the Heavenly Father. This afternoon Brockman gave a very optimistic address on the responsibility of the students of the orient to evangelize the world. The Conference closes this evening with a farewell address by Mott.

I shall not go as I intended tomorrow. I take the "Kaga Maru" which starts tomorrow from Yokohama, but I take the train to Kobe and board the steamer there on the 12th- probably the 11th and start the 12th. This gets into Shanghai the 16th I think. As I wrote you yesterday I am afraid I cannot get to Foochow till after the Centenary Conf.- unless there is imperative need.- I wish you could come up for the Centenary Cong. You would enjoy it ten times as much as I. Bring Marjorie and Amah. If you will consider it and will come wire me Committee, Shanghai, "Haeen", Beard. "Coming" is not necessary. I'll understand. If you will come I'll go in my old clothes another year, and do anything you'll consent to or suggest to save the money. I wonder how you are getting on for money. The draft must have come for some L60. But it will do you no good,- unless you are drawing heavily on the Bank and it will allay any apprehension on their part to know that you have the draft.

Supper is ready. So Good Bye,

Your loving,
Will

You have all been very real to near to me today.

Young Men's Christian Association

Kyoto, Japan Apr. 10th 1907.

My dearest Ellen:-

Yesterday at noon the three Foochow Chinese delegates were at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. of Tokio as guests with all the other delegates from China at a Chinese feast. After living on Japanese food for 12 days-except as I was out to a lunch or dinner given by some of the Am. business men or by Japanese Counts or Barons, - this Chinese feast was good. It was not too rich. The speeches after the feast also were good and will help to interest the people from China- both Chinese and missionaries in this work among the Chinese students in Tokio.

At 3:30 p.m. we four- mentioned above- took an express train for Kobe. It reached Kyoto this a.m. at 5:20. I sat up all night between two of the boys, but I got a little sleep. It was pretty tough tho. In the station all was quiet and I lay down on a settee and had nearly an hour of sound refreshing sleep. Then a grand good breakfast -delicious fish and potatoes, 2 boiled eggs, - three daintily browned hot cakes - a cup of coffee and bread and butter, all for 52 sen. Then I went to a Japanese barber shop- got a shave- I gave him my own razor and brush and soap- then I got a good wash and felt like a new clean man. A rickshaw brought me here in about 45 minutes, - at the home of Dr. Otis the Girl's School, and Doshisha. There are 750 students in the Doshisha- about 170 girls. The rest Boys in the Academic, Collegiate and Theological Department. About 30 in The Theol. Dept. - There are five large brick buildings- Library, Administration, Chapel, Recreation, and Chapel. The dormitories are wooden buildings like our old house at Ponasang, and the girls sch. and Kind. are of wood also. I am planning to go and see some stores this p.m. and take the 3:58 train for Kobe. I hope there to be able to change my steamer ticket for a R.R. ticket to Moji and go on by rail stopping at Okayama to see the orphanage and the Am. B. work then go on to Yamaguchi where Cass Reed whom Mac and I met at Pacific Grove. He is teaching English there. I shall thus hope to see at close quarters a Govt. School in its working. The stop here at the Doshisha will be valuable to me on the Common Educational Work for the Shanghai Conference.

Tell Flora I =Just leaving Kobe at 10 a.m. Friday Apr. 12-

Mrs. Carey called us to lunch as I had written the three first words of the above paragraph. Tell Flora I bought in Tokio one piece 20 yds of white cotton crape- but I paid 5 yen for it. I am not afraid that I was cheated- only that this may be better in quality than she wanted. It was in the largest one price dry goods store in Japan, and this was the cheapest they had in the store. I could have gotten cheaper- but I did not know where to go for it and time was valuable to me. Every minute was filled while in Tokio. All the purchases I made were while on my way to and from the sessions of the Conference- except as I went out to this dry goods store. Every thing there was of first quality I should judge- and the prices were according to the quality. The cheapest umbrella in the store was 5 yen 50 sen- nice silk.

I left Dr. Carey's in Kyoto at noon Wed. and went to see the cloisonné were made. The cheapest piece in the store was $18. I did not buy. Then I went to see the Satsuma made, and I could bring away a little something for you there. Then I took the 3:25 p.m. train for Kobe and just caught the last launch for the steamer at 6:15. Found Mr. and Mrs. Lewis on board. Now the Brockmans, Lyons, Dr. Parker, Misses Matea, Wainwright, and Miss Shaw are here,- it is a beautiful morning. How I wish you were here!!! I cannot mail this till I reach Shanghai so I'll not end it yet- but just put in some love right here, and write more later.

Will

Monday morning Apr. 15th

It has been just one month since I left home. Ten days from today the Centenary Conference opens at Shanghai. I wonder if I shall see you there- or what I shall hear from you when I reach Shanghai tomorrow. - It has been three weeks since you wrote the letter that I received in Tokio. And I am wondering if you are all over in the new house- if the land is leveled- if the gate house is built- if the tennis courts are finished etc. How the servants are behaving- how the Y.M.C.A. is coming on.

The trip thus far has been smooth. I have done full justice to the cook's reputation three times a day without a failure, and have not yet been sick. Yesterday we held a service in Chinese in the morning and one in English in the afternoon. This steamer- a Japanese- provides hymn and prayer books. The company is nearly made up of missionaries- from the Tokio Conference and a Mrs. Cousland and daughter from Swatow returning. A lawyer and a traveler complete the European list- outside of Missionary and Y.M.C.A. people- then there are one or two Chinese passengers. The sea is perfectly smooth - we started at 11 a.m. yesterday- should reach Shanghai tomorrow about noon. - It is a long time to be away from home- especially on top of the long Shaowu trip. May God be a Father to each of you and keep your body mortal and spirit. You are all very near me-

Tuesday evening: - At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, in my own room on the 3rd floor:-

What a feast of letters I have had this afternoon and evening!!! I mailed a letter this p.m. that should start tomorrow. This will likely go in the Haeen Thurs. a.m. Many people are already here from many points- I saw Mr. Warusheen, Miss Ledy and Miss Ramsay and I hear Dr. Whitney- Mr. Martin- White, Dr. Smyth etc. etc. are here.

I shall try to send down something by the boys Lik Daik [he may be referring to Mr. Cio Lik Daik] etc. tomorrow night.
Lovingly Will

[April 14, 1907]

Dear Folks at Home:-

It was a good July scorcher here yesterday but today is a "what-is-so-rare-as-a-day-in-June day? A mild thunderstorm last evening did some of the transforming. - I am shocked to see that so long a time has elapsed since I wrote my last letter to you. I have been away over Sunday for the past two weeks and so my letter writing has had to wait. Easter Sunday I spent with Miss Newton. Every once in a while she and Miss Hall send for me to spend Sunday with them. It is such a rest and change and they are such lovely people to be with that I am delighted to go every time I am invited. Last Sunday I spent with Mr. and Mrs. Newell [Mary R.] in the city. They had been housekeeping only two weeks and are as happy as the can be. Miss Harwell occupied a part of the same house. She took me out on Sunday afternoon to see some of their mission churches and schools. We visited four and saw most of them in their services. When we departed the whole assembly came to the street to see us depart- an act of Chinese politeness. Mr. and Mrs. Newell had invited a young man and his wife who have very lately come to the city, to attend church with them, so that I had an opportunity to meet another foreign educated Chinese. His wife could not understand his dialect nor he hers nor the Mandarin, so their courtship (for they really did woo and win) was done in English. She is a Pekinese- and a fine looking young woman. Her husband is teaching in the largest boys school in the city and she teaches Mandarin in the native girl's Normal School. Both these schools are under municipal control. The latter was organized a year ago. Both gave me a cordial invitation to visit their institutions of learning and I intend to do so some day.

To-day has been a great one for Marjery [Marjorie]. She went to church for the first time and was as good as gold until some one stared at her when she wept. She is quite a little embarrassed when there are many about her. This afternoon she has been walking along- taking six or seven steps. She was as highly delighted as the children and even the dog joined in the general congratulations and allowed little Marjorie to pat him.

Between the Indian Jubilee and the Centenary at Shanghai we are getting quite a deluge of visitors from home. The Methodists have had at least two dozen visitors and the other denominations a few. Drs. Hitchcock and Creegan were here last week for a few days. I was so happy because Dr. Creegan remembered me. I had quite a time trying to call on him for every arrangement seemed to conflict. Finally I go up at 6 P.M. and went down to the boat as he was leaving. I rode down the river a short distance and visited with him, then walked back.

I am enclosing a picture of my little scholars. Four of them have left. I am not entirely sorry for as the hot weather comes on one feels less and less like work. This whole winter has been a most strenuous one in many ways. I shall be glad when we get through with building and when we can get settled in our new house. We expected to have moved before this but several circumstances have prevented and now we shall probably move over just before we go to the mountain and then finish getting settled when we come down in the fall. - Will is still away. He is now in Shanghai and we are wondering whether he will stay for the Conference or not. If it were not for the new house I am sure he would stay but as it nears completion there are several things that demand his care. There are just the fireplace mantles and the floors to be done now- and the glass to be put into the windows.

I am glad that the sick ones are all getting better. It seems as though all our friends had had a particularly anxious time this winter. I am glad for your sakes that warm weather is coming when you can get out again without colds. I am sending when the people go to Shanghai a piece of blue linen to Elizabeth for a dress. There will be twenty yards of it. It is narrow but will much more than make one whole dress. If she does not wish to keep the rest she may give it to someone - anyone she likes.

I meant to have told you of the little romance between Dorothy and Orren Main. (His picture can never tell you of his sweetness and unusualness). The other evening he went to the Worthley-Sites wedding and enjoyed it just as he does every pretty thing. The next day he said to Dorothy "When I get to be a man I am going to marry you, and have a wedding"- to which Dorothy said she would marry him. Then he said he was going to be an artist and Dorothy said "And I will help you." Orren's mama told this to me. They are both very unconscious in their affection but we older ones can't help but smile.

With love to all and to Ruth many wishes for more returns of her birthday anniversary- I am

Yours lovingly-

Flora Beard.

Obituary for Mary Jane Corbin Kinney from the Putnam, CT newspaper, May 3, 1907:

Mrs. Myron Kinney [Ellen's mother, Mary Jane Corbin Kinney]

The many friends of Mrs. Myron Kinney were saddened to hear of her death Friday morning, April 26th. The funeral services were held at her home in Putnam at one o'clock on Monday the 29th, and were conducted by her pastor, Rev. F.D. Sargent, who spoke appreciatively of her quiet but deep and true Christian life.

The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. The burial took place at Union on Tuesday, where a service was held in the church at 12:00 conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Roger, and remarks were made by a nephew, Rev. Harvey M. Lawson, who spoke feelingly of the beautiful character and noble life-work of his aunt, and read the following poem:

Our mother dear has passed away, She from our home has gone; Her gentle spirit took its flight, And left us sad and lone.

She was so loving, kind and good, Tho we shall miss her sure; Home will be never quite the same, When she is there no more.

Our sister in the foreign land, Will hear and saddened be; But she will thank the Lord above, For mother ?? as she.

We owe so much to mother dear, More than we could repay; She cared for all our helpless years, She taught us how to pray.

But God is good; He spared her long, Our home was full of joy, Now she is in a better home, Her peace without alloy.

The time had come for her to go, Her life-work had been done; Her busy cares and toils were o'er, The race had well been run.

She's now with those she loved long since, O happy meeting place, And best of all, she now will see, Her Saviour face to face.

O Mother help us each to live, According to her prayer; And then we know the time will come, When we shall meet her there.

Mrs. Mary Jane Kinney was born in the western part of Woodstock, Ct., March 14, 1831, and was the second of the six children of Deacon Penuel and Mary (Chamberlain) Corbin. Of her brothers and sisters, one, Mrs. Sarah Lawson, died in Union, Conn., Dec. 31, 1885. The rest all survive her, being Mr. Anson Corbin, of Union, Mr. Frank Corbin of West Woodstock, Mr. Milo Corbin of Putnam, and Mrs. Viola Alderman of Worcester.

Her early life was one of those which was the glory of New England, where the children were taught industry, frugality, and, above all, the fear of God, which led them all to become sincere Christians. It was more difficult for the children at that time to get an education than now, but the one of whom we speak, diligently improved her opportunities, and besides a common school education, had the advantage of two or three terms in the academies of Woodstock and Dudley. She afterwards taught successfully several terms.

She was married to Myron Kinney, of Union, Conn., Jan. 3, 1864, and went to live in the south part of Union, at what was widely known as "Kinney's Mills." Here her five children were born- the first child dying while an infant of only a few days.

These years in Union were full of busy cares and hard work, and yet, whenever it was possible, she used to prepare all her little children on Sunday and, with her husband, take them regularly the two miles to church. Here is an example for present-day parents, who consider the great exertion necessary a sufficient excuse for remaining at home.

In 1878, partly for business reasons and partly to secure better education for their children, Mr. and Mrs. Kinney moved to Putnam, where they have since resided, and where they won the deep esteem of many friends.

Mrs. Kinney was very quiet and unobtrusive in her manner, and hence people meeting her casually might not at once appreciate her true worth. But those who knew her well testify that they never heard her speak one unkind or harsh word about any person, nor was any trace of jealousy or ill-will discernable. It was in her home she was best known and appreciated. She was one of those kind of mothers about whom it may be pre-eminently said; "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed."

They owe their character and lives of usefulness most of all to the influence of that quiet, gentle, sincerely Christian mother.

Foochow, China
May 16th 1907.

My dear Mother:-

I reached home last Sat. today is Wed. All at home were well. Marjorie could walk, - that is she could go anywhere if some one would hold her hand and she would go all alone for a few steps. She has now developed the whooping cough, - as yet she has it very lightly and it does not disturb her much. The conditions are very different from those under which the other children had it. As I am writing at my desk at 9 p.m. the ther. is at 85 degrees.

It was just two months yesterday since I left home for Shanghai. - I have attended four Conferences or Conventions. The World's Student Christian Federation at Tokio was of course worldwide in its conception and all its working. The last one at Shanghai was also world wide in reality and people were there from all the countries of the globe, altho it was a China Conference. The work of this Conference was in the hands of the older missionaries to a large degree. There were many of the younger people there to do the voting, but most of the talking was done by older men. Union was the theme from first to last. Of course there had to be one or two on the other side to help union along and once or twice a discordant note was sounded but the missionaries of China are much nearer each other now than they were a year ago. Another note of the Conference was that the Chinese church should have greater power in all matters of policy relating to the church in China. I shall send you papers reporting this Conf. in a few days, altho I do not know that you will care to wade thro all the matter. In the morning of the last Sunday during the service in which the Marty's Memorial Hall was consecrated- the names of the foreign missionaries who have been killed in China from the first were read 223. The number of Chinese killed for their faith is at present 1716- there are other names to be added. This was a very impressive part of the service. On Wed. morning the Conf. came together to hear the minutes of Tues. p.m.'s session. After these had been read and passed on the chairman called for a motion to adjourn- no one would make the motion. This to me was also an impressive moment. The delegates could not bear to separate and they remained and prayed for two hours. - The new house is about ready to be occupied. Some things are already in it. With [love] to all from all Will

Foochow, May 26th, 1907

Dear Mother and all the others:-

This has been a beautiful day in all respects. The past week has been rainy, hot and steamy. The nights have been – not good for sleeping or resting. But it cleared up yesterday and today has been just like a beautiful day the first of June at home. We heard the first bird that woke this morning and its song was one of Thanksgiving I am sure.

We have begun to move into the new home. All the things in the store room are over, - one of my book cases- our potatoes, cool, wood etc. Tomorrow I must go to the mountain to look after several things, and on Tuesday. Well Thurs. I shall hope to get well moved over. Then rent will stop with May 31st.

Today I have spoken for 45 min. in giving the report of the Conference at Tokio to the girls in the Meth. Girls School, and led the Y.M.C.A. Bible Class. I am teaching two hours a day in the evening classes. Ellen has a class of Japanese women an hour five afternoons a week.

Another of the Meth. Missionaries passed away very suddenly this last week. He came back from the Shanghai Conference last Monday,- not very well. He died of malignant measles and symptoms of small pox on Wed. at 5 p.m.

Marjorie has the whooping cough. Ellen thinks she has passed the worst. She is getting teeth- one of the bicuspid has just come thru and the eyetooth next it is almost ready to come. These experiences coupled with just beginning to walk and climb stairs are reducing her fat.

I am making out a small order for hardware and some other things which I plan to send to Oliver in a week or 10 days. Flora will send for something also. I just put in this notice so if you see Oliver you may mention it and if you are any of you wanting to send you will have the chance. I shall wonder if Oliver would rather not be bothered.

Since I came home I have taken my hams out of their 10 weeks pickle and smoked them, and we have eaten and given away most of one. They are good.

Flora went to the mountain a week ago yesterday and was much pleased. It was a beautiful day- when the mountain would appear at its best. I am glad her first impression was favorable, and I hope we shall not have typhoons this summer to greatly disappoint her. The school is doing well- as far as I hear all are perfectly satisfied. The English very seldom send to an American School- lest their children catch the American brogue.

Today has given me the home fever again. There is that about the atmosphere of the Huntington fields in spring- when apple trees are in bloom that always attracts me. How I should like to be at home on the farm these days! I suppose the corn is all in. The grass is luxuriant. The cows come home at night stuffed. The young cattle are loosing the last of the old coat. The trees are casting thick shade. The young chicks are numerous in the back yard. The barns are hungry for hay, which is growing fast in the meadows.

This is Mary's Birthday and I'll send this to her and let her forward it to Shelton. I wonder what spring is like in Cala.

It has been a long time since we have had a good home mail so we may expect one in a few days now.

I must close so I can get up at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning to start early for Kuliang.

All love to all

Will.

[The following was written by Ellen.]

I'll use this space to write just a word about James' glasses frames. I'm sorry I mentioned having them sent, in view of their intended use. I would not have said anything about it had I not supposed all the friends who use glasses were supplied and that these would probably be laid away in disuse. My reason for wishing to buy them was that I brought with me when we came back to China an extra pair of lenses in case of breakage of those I am using and it occurred to me it would be convenient to have these mounted on frames ready for immediate use. I shall of course pay Leolyn what they are worth. But I do not wish you to send them (if you have not already) if anyone else can use them or wishes to keep them

Yours with love,- Ellen.

The pattern arrived safely and all the books have come. F.B.

Dear folks at home:-

A letter from Ruth came in the last mail along with one from little Annie. It seemed so good to get a letter with all good news- for your letters have had so many sad things in them- yet I want to know all that goes on. Will is still in Shanghai. He has been at home less than two months since I came. It has been a very hard, busy winter here for with his being away it has left all the building to Ellen's care- and it has not been little. We have lived in a half settled state, which has been trying. We shall get moved into the new house before we go to the mountain, however. How I wish you could see it! It is really quite palatial, but its no more comfortable than this climate demands. Fortunately for me the weather has been mild- although I never suffered more from cold. Tell Ruth if she feels like knitting a pair of long bed socks that I shall be more than glad to buy the yarn. Zero weather at home is comfortable to this rainy season weather in January. Usually by this time the extreme heat has manifested itself but the delaying of the rains until now has spared me that so far. After this week, I shall have just my school and the Y.M.C.A. classes. This last week, I viewed from behind the scenes, a very interesting time at the Y.M.C.A. The Imperial Inspector of Mints is spending a few weeks in Foochow on business and also visiting friends - for he is a native of this Province. Mr. Mac invited him to speak at the Y.M.C.A. - which he accepted so a large reception was arranged. It was most interesting to see him arrive with all his retinue- and to meet all the other officials who had also come. He gave his speech- which of course I did not hear- for women are tabooed- as in America. However, one thing I heard that he said was that when the Commission was in America last year one member was so impressed with the college of Wellesley that he vowed he would start a college for the women of Peking fashioned on its ideas- which he has literally carried out. Did I tell you that I was invited a few weeks ago to visit one of the largest native schools for boys in the city? There are over a thousand boys in attendance. Also I shall go to see the first Normal School for girls- both are founded and supported by the government. Yesterday our new Viceroy arrived from Peking. I managed to see the last of the procession as it disappeared from sight over the bridge. About a month from now the Imperial Physician is coming for a visit in the haunts of his childhood for he is a native of Ing Hok here in our province. Mr. Mac says he will have them all over at the Y.M.C.A. so I may see some more great men of China. Some time ago the Board of Trade, consisting of six men, came in a body to hear one of the Consuls give a lecture. This all means a boom for the Y.M.C.A. for it establishes it on the social basis that it is intended for and also aids in the revenue which is so especially needed in the beginning of such an association.

I am sending Ruth's letter on to Will so that he may write to you from Shanghai. In about two weeks-when Will gets home I will finish my list of wants for a box from home. It cannot get started in June but I think there may be a shipment before Sept. as two young ladies are coming in the fall and I think it will be impossible to get their things off in June. One of the young ladies is a Miss Ward, daughter of Mr. Langdon S. Ward. She is to be at Ponasang where Miss Newton is. She is now teaching in Englewood under Mr. Sherman. Mrs. Sherman wrote in high terms of appreciation of her work and character. I have read it to Miss Hall (who is also at Ponasang) and she is very happy in anticipation of so lovely a co-worker. By the way have I told you that Miss Hall is planning to travel with me a year from now- going through North China and Japan. Two hundred fifty dollars gold will cover our entire expenses (each) and we expect to be gone from the middle of June to the middle of September. [Miss Hall may be the Alice Hall, who dies in 1909. Phebe Kinney Beard will be buried near her.]

I am enclosing a little remembrance for Ruth's birthday anniversary. Will you please let Aunt Louise see it and tell her that I can get embroidery like that on a very white silk which is said to be washable. The waist all ready to wear will be $6 silver or about $3 gold. I think it would be better to not have it made up. I intend to write to her just as soon as I have time. She has been in my mind for weeks but the days are so full that letters have to go. Just now I am interviewing pater et mates [Latin for father and mothers]- families about school next year. I hope to have all that settled by Jun. 1st. I have not yet sent E's dress. Lovingly, Flora

[This letter dated June 24, 1907 was written from Foochow, China by Flora to the folks at home. They have moved into the new house. It is hot but they have a nice breeze. Mosquitoes bother her when she sleeps out on the piazza. Willard told her that she has escaped most ills brought on by the climate. She plans to have a kindergarten on the mountain but has not firmed up plans for the next year. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

[June 24, 1907]

Dear folks at home:-

Since I wrote last there has been so much doing that I have written to no one. Did I tell you of my little exhibition of the children in calisthenics? I had about thirty people in to see it and they seemed to enjoy the exercises very much. The following week we moved over to our new house where we are camping until we go to the mountain some time this week. Things are not finished but the house is infinitely more comfortable than the old one. We have a fine breeze here from the south which tempers the extreme heat. A little over a week ago we had our closing exercises of the school. We counted over seventy five guests for the occasion and the children did themselves credit so that every one had a good time. Our new house is large enough so that every one had plenty of room. Since school closed I have been settling, darning and packing for the mountain. For several days the heat was so great that I just sat and darned. The wind tanned and burned me as the sun would on the river at home. Since then we have been having a fine cool spell so that I am getting caught up in sleep. My long chair on the piazza was a great relief those hot nights, and would have been ideal if the mosquitoes would only stay away. I have to tuck my net in very carefully all around my bed- and then I nearly always find two mosquitoes inside.

I am getting ready for my kindergarten on the mountain. It is to open the Monday after the 4th and will run eight weeks. That will give me the month of September for vacation. That with what I am getting now will give me my usual amount of summer's rest. Will says I have escaped far better than most people from ills resulting from the climate. I have had practically no trouble. I realize that my only safety is in keeping well. I have been very busy and that does much towards keeping well. There really is nothing else here to do but work. Society is so squall that I know if I depended upon it, the time would drag.

My plans for another year are not fully developed but it is assured me that there is enough to do. I have sixteen pupils booked for my school- whose range of studies will extend from Grade 2- through the 1st year high school. If I wish I can have a class at the Y.M.C.A. for two hours a week. I really hope I can do it for I am quite interested in the young men and they have seemed to respond so cordially to my teaching. We have gone only a little more than half way through the grammar and I would like to finish it.

Now has come an opportunity to teach drawing in the Normal School in the city. Only women attend therefore it must be a woman teacher. I am thinking seriously of taking the work provided I can fit in the time question. My work would have to be done through an interpreter. Foochow native schools have gone daft on western education. There are to be several kindergartens opened in the fall and everywhere English is being taught. They are going to the mission schools and colleges for teachers and they give enormous salaries. One man gets $180 a month for working only half of each day in teaching English. I am thinking of charging $50 a month just for two half days each week. However, I know nothing yet about how it will come out- and will tell you if there should be anything to tell. - I am enclosing a check of $75 to papa to pay for my bills. Please keep the remainder on my account for I am ordering several more books and some material from home. I will acquaint you with each item as I order. Have you sent the check for the bill at Wadsworth, Howland and Co.? If you haven't please deduct ten cents. They have played me a dirty trick, by sending an unstamped dun [bill or invoice] to me. I told them in my order to send the bill to you but it seems they paid no attention to my directions and now I have received two duns. I think I shall let them alone here after. I have received from Phebe two packages containing the sandals, 3 pairs of stockings, 3 pairs of shields, and 1 pair of gloves. When you purchase the things to come out in my box you need not get the white gloves I ordered- just the tan ones. I am enclosing a tan glove - the mate to which I lost in Japan. If you can match it I can use the glove for my right glove always wears out first. If you can't match it don't return it. - A few days ago I sent home a few pieces of embroidery to mama, in a Shanghai paper. I have not yet gotten Phebe's embroidery done, but think I have found my man to do it. I have the cloth and sometime hope to get it done. Foochow is not an embroidery center. Drawn-work is done here very nicely, but embroidery is done nearer Shanghai. Next summer I can do more than now, for if all goes well, I shall be for sometime in the embroidery belt.

Did Mrs. Burbrook send a bill for $2.76 to you? She sent (at my request) some underwear which with the postage amounted to that. I am not sure that she did not have some charges to pay so, if you will enquire, I will thank you.

We are all well, but a little weary with the heat.

With love to all-

Flora Beard

[June 26, 1907]

Dear folks at home:-

This has been a perfect June day and we are still in our new house although we are nearly packed for Kuliang. As long as the weather stays like this we are just as comfortable here, where we have more room.

I suppose, before I write this that Stanley has taken his degree and is home for the summer. I wonder if Mary got home in time to see him graduate?

I am sending to Shanghai- to be mailed to Elizabeth- the blue linen of which I wrote some time ago. It cost $5 silver which equals a little more than $2.50 gold so there should be no duty on it.

If you people knew how I read the Sentinel- even to the weather record- when it comes, I am sure it would be an oftener visitor.

Did I write that I am sending some embroidery to mama in a Shanghai paper? I am also enclosing some for Phebe in another envelope.

Congratulations to all the August birthday people.

Lovingly-

Flora Beard.

P.S. I am to-day mailing orders to

The MacMillan Co.

F.B.

If you have not packed our boxes will you please include in their contents if you can find in the attic-
An Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar

A Caesar if in good condition.

If Stanley wishes to spare his Caesar "Pony" I should appreciate it.

If you wish to get rid of the raffia and reed in the attic put the entire lot into box. Everything gets used out here. I am writing on a desk made from the boards of the boxes from the American shipments.

Will Phebe see if she can get two packages of needles like the one enclosed. It is broken and I have only one like it for basketry. F.B.

[After June 26, 1907]

Dear folks:-

Elizabeth's letter has arrived telling a little of Stanley's graduation. Congratulations to Stanley! Please do write and tell us all about it- even to your honors, Stanley- or else how shall we know. Too much modesty is not the kindest news when it has stretched away out here.

I also received a card saying a parcel is on the way from Liverpool for me. I suppose it must be the kindergarten material Phebe is sending me. It will probably reach here by the first of September- but will make some good Xmas gifts to these little benighted country missionary children.

With love-

Flora Beard.

Foochow, China
June 30th 1907

Dear folks at Home:-

June 30th and we are still in Foochow. Ellen and the children are beating the record this year. But the weather has been very unusual. Arch-deacon Wolfe of the Church Missionary Society, the oldest missionary in Foochow, says he never knew such a cool June in Foochow. The second and third weeks were rather warm but the past week we have slept under blankets nearly every night and I have worn black clothes most of the time. Flora went up to Kuliang yesterday afternoon. She will stay with Mrs. Smith until we get up. We had planned to go Tuesday morning, but it will likely be Wed. afternoon. Marjorie was well covered with prickly heat ten days ago but the cool week has entirely freed her from it. Our new home is in a cool place and we enjoy it much.

Since I wrote last each day has been much like all the others. The mornings I have spent in writing and in getting settled and "fussing" about the house. The after noons I have taught in the Y.M.C.A. classes from 3-4 and from 6:30-7:30. I have tried to get a little rest too, by cutting off all evening work and going to bed early. I came home from Shanghai feeling pretty "seedy" as the English say.

I have an order for goods of various kinds that I am going to mail to Oliver in the same mail as this- if possible. It is most as hard work to get off an order as to go shopping at home.

During the past three weeks I have attended three large Anti Opium mass meetings. At two there were public addresses and I was asked to speak at both places. The opium joints in Foochow were all closed three weeks ago today and they have not been reopened. Many of them are now tea houses, - these correspond to our soda fountains at home. But the reform has not got beyond Foochow in this part of the province. A week ago today the Anti Opium League held a mass meeting for the students in the Government Schools in Foochow City for the purpose of enlisting the help of these students in the outlying townships when they go to their homes for the summer vacation. It was more like a business meeting, and business was done. Yesterday another big mass meeting to get individuals to break off the habit was held. Men of official position and others of high business or literary standing made brief addresses. About twelve men spoke within the space of two hours. And every man hit the nail on the head. There is no doubt that public sentiment is against the traffic. Opium is still sold in some 500 places in the city and suburbs. But the public opium shop is no more and men must buy it and smoke it in secret.

About one month ago a young man from Foochow who has been studying in Japan sat on the deck of a steamer in Japanese waters. He was talking with a Korean. If any one hates the Japanese, the Koreans do. This Korean told the student from Foochow how illy Korea was faring at the hands of Japan and he said also that China was coming more and more under the influence of Japan and that Fukien Province was Japan's special sphere of influence. The Foochow student's patriotism was greatly aroused and he did the proper thing- jumped into the sea. Today an immense mass meeting was held in his memory- over 1000 they said attended. One man in his enthusiasm cut off his queue [braid of hair] and hung it on the door post of the temple where the meeting was held. Well China needs not enthusiasts now so much as level and honest heads.

But as I read the papers I tremble for my own land- but in a different way. Here the people do not know. There they know- But when a crime is unearthed and made public its poison is largely gone. That so much "graft" and other public wrong is uncovered is a good sign and indicates a healthy condition.

I think I must make one more trip into the Amoy field before I get to Kuliang for a stay. All are well and all send lots of love. Marjorie is developing fast - walks alone for exercise.

Your loving son and brother Will

Chiang Chin, Amoy
July, 10th 1907.

My dear Stanley:-

I reckon if I send this to you now it will find you at the old home- whatever you may decide to do for next year. I am having comparatively an easy trip this time. As soon as I got back to Foochow from the Shanghai Conference- about the middle of May I had to take over all the work of the City Association in Foochow so that McLachlin could devote himself entirely to the language. This he ought to have done two years ago, but he neglected his opportunities then and is bringing hard work on me now. I ought to have made this trip in May with the ther. in the 80's instead of in July with the ther. in the 90's. But this sounds like complaining- which it is not intended to be. Ellen and the children went to the mountain July 3rd- Flora went the Sat. preceding. I was there for July 4th and we had a great time. After the games from 4 to 5:30 the first 25 went to Mrs. Newell's to eat baked beans, bread and butter etc. At 6 these went on to Mrs. Hodous to take tea and cake while another relay started in at Mrs. Newells. At 6:30 the first batch went on to Mrs. McLachlin's for ice cream and the third and last 25 began again at Mrs. Newells. The first company finished at Mrs. McLachlins they went to Mrs. Mains and remained there till all 3 companies came to listen to the phonograph and afterward to watch the fireworks. All was finished about 10 p.m. The four older children took in all- Phebe won a race. Gould won a race, and I won a race in the games, and Dorothy took the prize with a little boy of her age in singing a piece. It was quite an American 4th of July, 75 of us together. Then Friday morning I came back to Foochow, and worked like a beaver to get off several letters- among them one to Oliver containing an order for a lot of different things. I intended to register it, and send it to the P.O. with that request but on my way to take the launch Sat. I stopped at the P.O. and they had not received it. We sailed Sun. a.m. at 6 a.m. reached Amoy at 7 a.m. Mon. I stayed there till 6:30 a.m. Tues, and took a river launch some 15 miles and a row boat another 15 miles to this place to see the city Y.M.C.A. that I helped organize here last

Oct. They have rented premises and raised over $300, which they have on hand. I plan to start for Amoy tomorrow about daylight and take the steamer for Foochow Sat. arriving Sun. with 3 Amoy people who will go to Kuliang for the summer. Then in August I am asked to go to Suatau [Swatow] - 50 miles below Amoy on the Coast. This does not agree with my inclination- this bumming over land and sea in the hot weather but if it helps men I am glad to do it. Really we are in the world first of all to be useful to each other and if this is always uppermost in our minds, we are doing the best things for ourselves and get the most out of life. I notice that when people begin to plan their lives with a view their own comfort or their own desires without reference to the good of others they get dissatisfied and are almost universally unhappy.

How I should enjoy being at home these days and helping you get the hay in! When I get over being useful in this work I hope there will be somewhere in old Conn. and in old Huntington [now known as Shelton] a bit of land for me to live on. I shall be interested to know what you decide to do next fall. I wish it were in my power to help you with foresighted wisdom to choose the course in which your influence will count for the most in making the world better but I can only ask God to direct you, and keep you in such close touch with Himself that you will choose rightly. I think of you all at home- Phebe, Elizabeth, Ruth, Stanley and Mary. Give my best love to them all- and - and [unreadable] them Ellen. The children and Flora send it also. Yours Will.

[This letter dated July 21, 1907 was written from China by Flora to the folks at home. She wonders if Mary will go back to California for another year and discusses some items she ordered with sister, Phebe. They may be taking in some visitors for awhile on the mountain and will need extra servants. Miss Newton had an accident and broke some bones. She mentions the folks back home having fun riding around in an automobile. Flora has six students in her kindergarten on the mountain. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Dear folks at home:-

May I answer all your letters in one? My correspondence has heaped up to mountain height for I have written almost no letters, outside those home, for six months.

Mary's description of the Easter mountain climb made me think of Switzerland. I know just how she felt all the way and how good the water tasted- and how the view was appreciated after the long climb. That horse back trip must have been delightful. It sounded like Ramona. I am glad it came in time to celebrate your birthday. A letter from Miss Wright says she is not going back to Santa Barbara. Has she gotten weary of the West or is her friend so much better that she is going to attempt living east again? I am curious to know. I am rather glad you are going back for another year but hope the East will want you later so you may be nearer home.

Well, Phebe, you are a capital shopper. Everything has come and in perfect shape. The sandals are on my feet every day and are every one's admiration. On these stone roads they are just the thing and give my feet just the ventilation they need in this hot weather. The girdles are more to my wishes than any I have been able to find for several years. If you have not already bought those I ordered from Howard and Barber, do not get them. Never mind if they are purchased for they will not be wasted. There is a queer custom here of sending around a "chit" announcing any superfluous articles and a buyer usually appears. There are several women here who are as large and larger than I am so if I do not want them others may. However don't buy them just for this. I hope before this papa has received my check for $75. I think it is best to keep my account squared with each of you at present. I am keeping my eyes open for all the good things here, but have not yet found the embroiderer that can do Phebe's work as she would like it. Foochow's hand work is rather inferior- or rather that part of it that has been adapted to foreigner's use. I am sorry to hear about Phebe's knee. I have heard of that trouble many times but could never quite see why it should be. I hope it has fulfilled the promise to be well soon. Didn't May Palmer surprise you all in taking her second trip so soon? Has she gone to study or to travel? How the family has been doing up Framingham! I rejoice how good it is to have home come to one.

Well, if there are only four people to be in Mrs. Trombly party Will and Ellen have decided to take them in. Our house is large and with some extra servants it can be done without too much trouble. We shall probably let them pay enough board to make them feel comfortable. We have one large spare room and the children's play room will be turned into a bed room. It is one of the largest and nicest rooms in the house. There is nearly enough furniture already so I know the rest will be found somewhere. This is entirely Will's proposition. The one hotel here costs $5 a day and then is not very fine. We can give them more comfort for much less money. I think Will has written or is about to write to Dr. Mills. There are some Shanghai people here on the mountain who know them- Dr. Newell is a woman who looks so much like Edith Gilbert that I have lost my heart to her already. She is a little older and possibly a little larger but has Edith's bearing. She has the same beautiful hair only it is prematurely gray.

It is a crown to her fact. She is in one of the Shanghai hospitals. - No, Phebe, there is no street or number. Just Foochow, China's all that is needed on my letters. Every one knows every one here. There are so few foreigners. The number of families is growing in the business line. Tea is being more and more handled by native firms and this year the exodus of business people has amounted to more than thirty in number. - Mama, it was quite a coincidence that your letter wishing to be remembered to Miss Newton should arrive so soon after her accident. Did I tell you about it? She broke her arm- between the elbow and shoulder- broke her collar bone, cracked her shoulder blade and dislocated her shoulder. It was a terrible accident but fortunately escaped the worst evil of not puncturing the skin at any place. The escape was only an eighth of an inch but that probably saved her life. Infection is always sure to follow if the skin is broken. The children of the foreigners have the worst looking legs here in the summer. They go barefooted and get mosquito bites which they scratch raw. Unless turpentine is applied directly and freely the results are unpleasant to the eyes. The little babies get skin diseases and look so unsightly at times. Little Marjorie had a bad face when the last picture was taken- the family group. It got well and there is no sign of it now. Well, we have been having quite as remarkable weather as you. It has been very cool here. We had no hot weather until the middle of June and then it was not unbearable. Yes, Mr. Newell was married a little over a year ago to a very lovely little woman who came out on the steamer with him. She went to Peking and had an interesting experience there, but was glad, I guess, to exchange it for Mr. Newell. - I hope in this that Ruth has received her collar safely. I forgot to put it in the letter and mailed it later. I was glad that Miss Brewster and Helen really did make that long-planned-for call. What a gay time you are having whirling over the hills in an automobile. Is it as fine as driving? - I shall be glad to hear that mama's foot is well. I hope she was wise enough to have a doctor see it. There are at present three sprained ankles here but they are done up in surgeon's plaster so their owner's can walk as usual. The other day we took a walk to Moon Temple. From the plains below Moon Temple looks inaccessible for it is built on the side of a mountain under a projecting rock of enormous size. The mountain side is precipitous but the path to it is very comfortable although extremely steep. We started from the top of our own mountain descended over 500 feet and crossed a mountain brook to climb another peak. We went down again a few hundred feet and then up again- where we saw a most wonderful view of the river, plain, city and mountains. I counted seven tiers of mountains. Then we climbed down to the temple where we had our lunch baskets opened. The priests at the temple were glad to give us hot water so we had tea and coffee to drink. There is one advantage in going off on a trip here. We have to take cold water along with us. It is never safe to drink when away unless the water is boiled. Every bit of our water is boiled and most of it filtered. I had a drink of sparkling spring water at Mr. Gardner's mountain house the other day and it did taste so good.

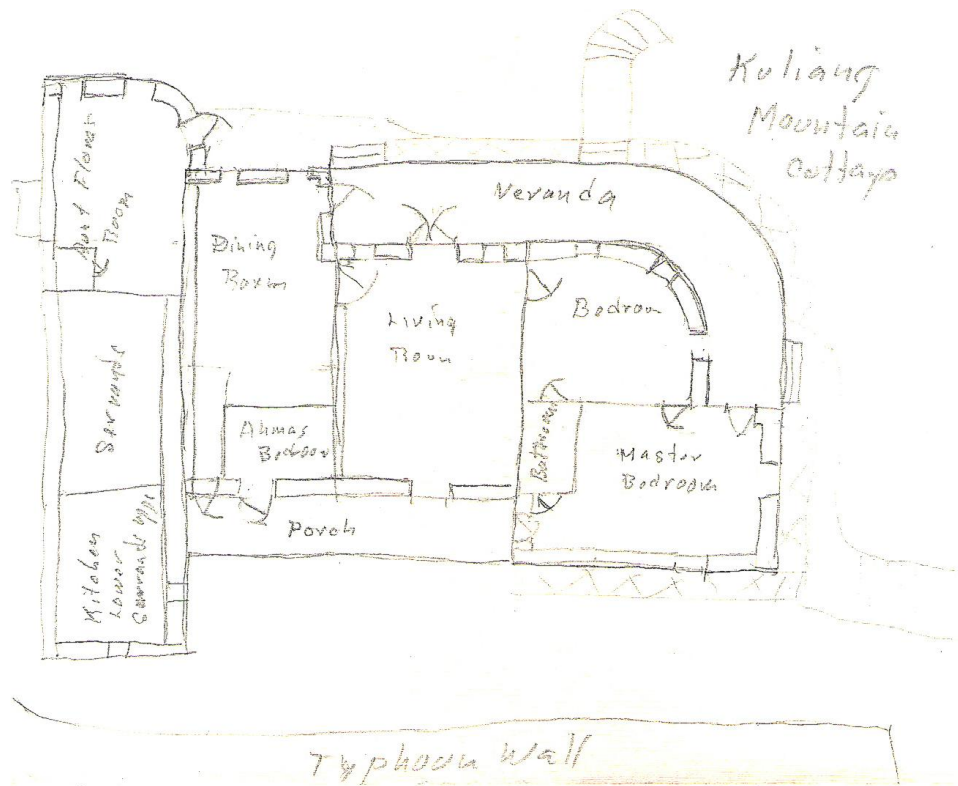

I started the kindergarten last week with six scholars. One of them is less than three years old. His amah comes with him and besides he is a very nice little fellow. They are a lovely little class. I am fortunate to have a mother who was a kindergarten [teacher?], to whom I can go for pointers. I know the tunes to the songs so with her help on the words I am getting along fairly. However, I can see more clearly that I ought to have had a two year's training to do it well.

With love to all-

Flora Beard

Kuliang
Aug 6th 1907

Dear Mr. Beard,

I have not had the pleasure of making your acquaintance as yet and I was thinking of paying you a call, but owing to the uncertainty of finding anyone at home this Tournament Week, I decided to express in a note a matter on which I would have sought a conversation.

You will be sorry to hear that I was considerably pained by the tenor of your address on last Lord's Day afternoon. I am sure you had no intention to speak otherwise than we are warranted by Holy Scripture and I hope it may be through a mistaken use of terms but it seemed to me that you ignored altogether the fact of "the grace of God" when speaking of God's "calling" and "choosing" man. The assumption which you expressed in the words "God's Faith in man" (which words were repeated over and over and ran through the whole discourse) seems to me to be unwarranted by any passage of Revelation. The sentence, for example in which you said "Jesus Christ came to save the world- yes, Jesus Christ came to show man an example- Yes but Jesus Christ came because He had faith in man" seems to me to need explanation.

Did you mention anything of man's degradation and sin and hopeless estate in separation from God, I might have interpreted the words "God's faith in man" to mean "God's faith in what He could do with man."

Had you once spoken of God's gift of grace whereby alone man can be brought into any state of acceptance or God's gift [unreadable word] without which man is dead to God. I should have accepted the unusual expression "God's Faith in man" as expressive scriptural truth in a new -fashioned dress.

But you neither mentioned grace as far as I know and you never altered the expression above quoted to mean "God's faith in the possibility of His work through man. Apart from some such explanations or modifications which need not have in any way lengthened your address. I consider your use of this phrase very misleading.

Are we led to believe from any passage of the Bible that "God has faith in man- "Man's heart is deceitful above all things," we are told "Put not your trust in the son of man in whom is to help" and scores of other passages might be quoted.

When you came to speak of concrete instances of God's calling of individuals what was God's expressed reason for calling Moses- Have we not the answer in the words "Who made man's mouth?" Because God was going to make Moses His channel- "a chosen vessel"- and instrument [unreadable word] a thoroughly capable agent.

When He called Jacob? Was it because Jacob was a fit character, or because He had faith in Jacob. As a leader of thought expressed it the other day "It is perfectly evident from the story of Jacob and Esau that the Divine choice of men is entirely independent of their merits. It is because the record of Genesis holds up the mirror to nature and reveals the glory of grace that the story of Jacob has, and will continue to have a perennial interest for us all". (Dr. Griffith Thomas of Oxford in the "Record" June 14) In the "calling" and "choosing" of the Children of Israel, it was not because there were more in number than other nations not for any pre-eminent suitability in themselves for they were a stiff-necked people but their choice was due to the love of God and because of His covenant.

I do not question the truth that God who made man can use man but I do call in question the use of the words "God's faith in man" without a clear and unambiguous explanation in accordance with scripture truth.

St. Paul says "By the grace of God I am what I am:- "By grace are ye saved" (including the "calling" and "choosing" and that not of yourselves

Chosen not for good in me
Wakened up from wrath to flee
Every Virtue we possess
And every victory won
And every thought of holiness
Are this alone.

Your address from beginning to end seemed to me to be rather an exaltation of poor sinful human nature rather than an exaltation of Divine Majesty. Mercy Grace, Faithfulness and Love.

It needs but a cursory reading of any of the Epistles to see how very prominently there is brought before us, the simpleness, unworthiness and incapacity of man and the Grace and Mercy of God and that our redemption and sanctification are largely for the purpose of magnifying His Majesty and Glory and Power. To take one of many expressions we have in Eph. III.10 Our purpose of the calling and choosing of the church" that now unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places might be known by the church the manifold wisdom of God.

We cannot in this age of [unreadable word] Doctrine be too careful in our maintenance of the scriptural perspective of man's relationship to its Almighty Maker and Redeemer.

We come as missionaries to China not because we have faith in the Chinese but because we have faith in God who raiseth the dead.

It was his belief in the power of the most precious Blood and in the power of Calvary's story brought home by the power of the Holy Spirit that brought John G. Paton to the New Hebrides, not belief in the degraded specimens of God's fallen creatures who inhabited those islands. We all surely believe there is something in us that answers to God's call and choosing there is a responsive chord in our nature- in the nature of the most degraded, else we should not have come to China but we believe, not in the Chinese but in the quickening grace of God- not that "God's faith in man" brings the soul of man to God but God's gift of the grace of His Holy Spirit (whose work you never mentioned) can work this otherwise impossible work "God's faith in man" is in my judgment quite another thing to God's gift of Eternal life.

It is a minor point, but I can receive no consolation comfort not encouragement from the history of King Saul or of Judas Iscariot- They are to be a solemn warning and a proof of the degradation of human nature.

I believe in this writing I am fulfilling the word which says If thy brother sin against thee, tell him his fault between him and thee alone and I have no doubt that you will take this letter though perhaps strongly worded as the letter of a brother Missionary whose last thought is to give offence to any brother.

Though asked by one who knew of my feelings on Sunday what I disliked in your address, I refrained from giving an answer until I had spoken to you.

Believe me

Yours ever faithfully
E. J. T. Stauler

Foochow, China
Aug 11th 1907.

My dear Mother:-

The last two mails brought no news from home either for Flora or for us. I suppose that the Commencements and the home comings, strawberries and haying are responsible. We always notice less letters about this time from home.

I had been on the mountain eleven days when the man who examines Consulates of the U.S. in China came to Foochow. The missionaries had asked for the removal of the interpreter at the Consulate in Foochow. He is a Chinese and besides recently having taken to himself as second wife a bad woman, he has for some time been accused of using his office for personal ends and of being hostile to the interests of the missions. Eight of us went down to Foochow Wed. p.m. to see the examiner- Mr. Cheshire. We found that the interpreter had also been making money out of passports given to Chinese to go to the Philippines, and the day after we were there, an answer from Washington demanded the immediate dismissal of the interpreter.

Flora's little kindergarten goes on nicely, and the older children (Phebe Gould Geraldine) (Dorothy is in the kindergarten) have short lessons each morning. I have been on the mountain so short a time and so few days at a time that I have had little time for real play. Committee meetings consume an immense amount of time. The tennis club is in full working order with ten fine courts, and the tournaments are half done. I am in two sets. One with a lady- we were beaten the first play so are out of it. But in men's doubles I have been successful twice and must play at least once more. I am treasurer of this and as this is the first year it has meant some work. Then 20 of us own a bathing pool wh. I bought last Nov. It proves a great pleasure to Gould and some of the boys. The girls also go in and get a swim in it occasionally. It has been built several years but was owned by two community men who left it largely to themselves. I bought it last autumn and now a club is formed and 20 different people - many of them heads of families use it with their families.

A Concert is to be given next Sat. This is the best thing that occurs on Kuliang during the season. The music- both part and chorus is of a high order. A week from today begins the Convention with two meetings a day. We are to have two speakers from England- Sloan and Webster. But I expect to miss the Concert and the Convention. There is to be a Student Summer Conference in Swatau- 100 miles South of Amoy- Aug. 20, 1 and 2, and a telegram from there yesterday said "come" so I must start next Thurs. and Fri. and be gone ten days or more. The weather for two days has shown signs of typhoons. This evening it is quite gusty.

Last Sunday at the Mission service I preached on God's faith in man and man's faith in his fellow man. Tues. afternoon I received a long letter from a young man, a graduate of Dublin University, Ireland strongly taking me to task for heresy. My trial is as yet announced and I guess the young man is nearly alone in his opinions. He was troubled because I did not sufficiently emphasize God's Grace and man's total depravity.

All the family are well. Marjorie is in a very interesting stage of her existence. She goes where she likes and does what she likes- except when she is hindered. You of course remember how hard this is for the little ones. And what with her brother and three sisters, parents, aunt and amah the little Miss Independence has her plans thwarted frequently. She does not rapidly develop in talking - but she is coming on. Flora speaks of her "developing rapidly" every few days.

Give our love to all
Your loving son
Will.

I believe this is the Kuliang bathing pool that Willard refers to in the previous letter.

[Aug. 18, 1907]

Dear folks at home:-

A month now with not a word from you. I've already had two nightmares over it, but Will says it's the usual summer dearth of letter- so I suppose I am getting my just deserts for not having written in former years. I've been pretty busy between my kindergarten, study, and society. Won't Phebe laugh when she hears about it. I am not only teaching kindergarten but training(?)(!) kindergartners(!!!) I have seven little folks ranging from 2 yrs. 9 mo. to 6 yrs. of age and they are lots of fun. There are two or three mothers who want to know how to use the material and to learn the songs so they come nearly every day to look on. The weather has been perfect so far so that they have been able to come very regularly. I have had their pictures taken and will send you one soon if they come out alright. The children sang at the picnic the other day and quite captivated their audience. They are so tiny that they were just as cunning and dear as they could be. I have had such a time getting the words for the songs. I know the music to most all of them - having taught over or under a kindergarten for the last eight years- but the words I know not. The book songs translated into Chinese was more an adaptation than a literal translation so that it has not been the help I had hoped for. However, one of the mothers was a kindergarten teacher and she has helped me out quite a good deal. I have two more weeks and then the whole of September for vacation. I still have half of my Latin to go over but I am sure that will take care of itself for the grammar has come back to me very well so far. I have done little studying for the diversions have been so many. After the first of September many people will be gone and we will be glad of something to do. This last week has been a tournament in tennis. There are some fine players here for it seems to be the game best fitted to the needs of the people. Last night was the annual concert. I had intended to join the chorus but I was glad last night that I had not. I sat on pins and needles under the drawls and the more than mediocre solos by the women- until one sweet little Scotch missionary who is a member of the royal Stewart of England say "My Ain Countree." All her family except herself and brother (who was home at the time) were massacred at Kuching. She hid under a bed and the Chinese did not find her. Well, she sang that song in such a sweet simple way that you just felt her love for it. The words are beautiful and her brother accompanied her. They are most devoted to each other. Will is off again- this time to Swatow- for about ten days he has gone to attend a student conference there. I have asked him to bring back with him three embroidered shirt waists- for Swatow is the place for such things. The weather may be too hot or he may not have time to get them so we may have to wait. I bought one the other day here, but they will be cheaper on the spot. I have the loveliest embroidered hat and if you want one send the size of the brim- the inside and outside lines- and the size of the crown and I'll get one embroidered for you. With the violet ribbon Phebe sent me and a bunch of violets under the brim I have a dainty hat. It happens to tone in with the violet divinity I brought out with me- and with my amethysts I am all violet.

I am enclosing a check to mama for seventy five dollars. When it came to paying for the addition here Will refused the money so mama gets it. I shall probably not send any more money home until next February.

Give my love to all and do write soon.

Yours sincerely-

Flora Beard.

[This letter dated Sept. 15, 1907 was written from Kuliang, Foochow, China by Flora to the folks at home. She plans to leave the mountain the next day. She talks about a hike she took on the mountain. She has now been in Foochow for a year. She mentions meeting a Mr. Storrs and how he was nice to her, but she tells the folks back home not to get up a romance. She updates the letter two weeks later. School has started for her with fourteen students. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

[Sept. 15, 1907]

Dear folks at home:-

This will be my last letter from the mountain this summer as I am going down to-morrow. It has been a most comfortable summer and not without some fun. Nearly every one is gone now, or will be, by the end of this week. It is so cold that I sleep under my heavy rug at night and a shawl is comfortable as I sit writing.- I had an all day's walk last week with Dr. and Mrs. Whitney. We started at 8:30 A.M. and walked until 1 P.M. before we halted for dinner. We climbed at least five peaks and enjoyed to the full the wonderful views from their crest. We followed for a mile or two on one of the mountain streams by the sides of which we found some huge ferns at least six feet long and over a foot broad. The ferns out here are beautiful and of so many varieties. After our lunch we started home and met Will and the children about half the way. We reached home at 5 P.M. and after a good hot bath I was ready for another jaunt. We had probably walked 18 or 20 miles and I was not a bit lame from it. I hope to keep up my ability to walk when I get back to work.- I just received a letter from Mrs. T.M. Ward, 13 Warren St., Newark, New Jersey, saying she had sent me some music which I had asked her to send. Have you received her bill? Please include it with my other expenses and send me an account showing my standing with you at home. I have never known the cost of my visiting cards which came shortly after I came out. Are you keeping an account of the postage on the separate parcels you have sent? I want to keep track of every cent you spend for me.

Do you realize that it is now a year since I left home? I celebrated the date by attending a small farewell dinner at Mr. and Mrs. Newell's for Mr. Storrs who went back the next day to his work. Mr. Storrs is one of the finest young men of the American Board Mission and has taken it upon himself to be nice to me several times this summer. I shall probably never see him again in China if my plans get fulfilled, so don't on this notice get up a romance.

A week from to-morrow my work begins, and I am wondering how my year will go. It is not quite so easy as falling off a log to teach missionaries' children and by the way some of the mothers have thought best to warn me of others makes me feel that there may be rapids in the way and some skill in steering will be necessary. However I have learned to pay little heed to such speeches and to deal justly with any offenders and I hope it will prove the right thing here.

Ruth, do you suppose you can find my old First Year Latin Book? I think it has a checked cloth cover on it and it was in that bookcase in the hall upstairs. It is rather to pieces but would be an immense help to me if I had it. I have been going over my Latin this summer and find it has come back much better than I had hoped. I am looking forward to some hard work and much pleasure in teaching it this winter.

Oct. 1st-(Two weeks later).

School has opened to-day with fourteen scholars which have accommodated themselves to four classes for which I am thanking my stars as it is going to make an immense difference in the amount of work to be done.

The school room looked quite like an American school with all American children and everything newly painted. I think the children all enjoyed being at work again. They are simply at a loss for something to do here without school. We are starting a manual training department in the room downstairs just to give the boys something to do.

It is quite interesting to see what we can get along without and how we can substitute one thing for another and make things do.

The mail goes out to-morrow and I have one or two business letters which must get written to-night as I shall have to say "Good night."

Lovingly-

Flora Beard.

Nov. 21st 1907.

My dear Mother:-

Geraldine has had this letter ready for nearly three weeks- it is too bad I did not know it. But the children get streaks on of writing letters, and they do not always tell one nor do they always address the envelopes. The result is that I occasionally find an envelope with a letter in it as I did the other day.

Both Geraldine and Gould have had malaria since coming down from the mountain. Each was in bed for a week. Dr. Rennie is giving them now a course of liquid quinine- each 5 grs. Before meals 3 times a day,- says they must keep it up for one month. The rest are all well. And how these children do eat! Just before we left the mountain our boy who was doing the cooking left and the boy who took his place had not made bread, so we were buying from the bakery for a few weeks- two weeks ago I told this boy he must make bread if he wanted the full amount of monthly pay. He began and surprised us all. His bread is so good that he can hardly keep up with the family. The boys especially- Gould, Teddy and Vernon call for bread till it seems as if they would burst. How were the mouths of five hungry boys, father and often a hired man ever filled at home?

Our papers are full of the financial crisis in the U.S. I wonder if it effects you at all. I see interest rates are rising much in England.

The weather continues very warm, cloudy, rainy and damp. Dr's. say this causes much illness.

All send love Will.

God deals very graciously with us. W.

[Foochow, China Dec. 22, 1907]

Dear folks at home:-

My letter writing to you has been most sadly neglected this fall. I am not going to weary you with excuses for there is too much else to tell. My school has been large enough to keep me stepping lively ever since it began. I have fourteen scholars- the picture enclosed shows them to you very correctly. They are nice children and bright- as you would expect from educated parents. Much of my spare time has been spent visiting at the different homes over Sunday- at Mrs. Hodous', Miss Newton's, or Mrs. Maclachlan's. I have spent three Sundays at the last name house, to keep Mrs. Mac and baby Margaret company while he was away in the country preaching. He is to be away most of the time from now until next May so I may be with her most of the time. I am much of a convenience to people in the way of 'keeping them company' but I enjoy it so both parties get what they want. I spent the Sunday before Thanksgiving with Miss Newton and Mrs. Hall. Miss Newton had then been ill a little over two weeks but was considered better although not allowed to sit up. She has been very ill ever since and now it is just a question of a few days more – which I hope may be cut even shorter, for life is only agony now. There is some obstruction in the bowels which does not allow food to pass, except by means of a high enema which is very exhausting to her. They have been feeding her through the bowels for some time but yesterday she had two sinking spells so she can't endure much longer. They keep her under opiates now for she had a severe stomach spasm and the suffering is too intense. I hope to hear at any moment that she is through with her suffering for it has been her wish to go while on the mission field. Her accident last summer has been more of a shock to her than she confessed, I think. She slipped on the stone walks (that are every where here) and did all four of the breaks just in that fall. She was hurrying so the force of the fall was somewhat greater. Miss Hall, her co-worker is getting rather worn with the strain of doing four women's work and having such serious illness in the house. Miss Garrettson [Elsie M.] and Miss Ward are expected next week some time so Miss Hall will soon have some relief, but Miss Garrettson is quite old and broken. It is not a very cheery atmosphere for Miss Ward to meet. The American Board people seem to be having a pretty hard time of it all around. Mr. Gardner is a nervous invalid- very miserable-; Dr. Kinnear has just been ill, now our taking care of Miss Newton; Mrs. Smith another nervous wreck; Mrs. Whitney just getting out again after an unpleasant encounter with a buffalo cow- and so I might go on with three or four more like instances. Mr. and Mrs. Newell are rejoicing over a dear little baby girl- Josephine Miriam- who arrived Dec. 12th. All are doing finely. I have not yet seen the baby for out here the mother is not allowed to get up for a month. Recovery from anything is always much longer than at home.

Last Sunday, I spent on a houseboat up the Ing Hok river and it was a most delightful and restful trip. A Dr. Ben [or Burn or Bern?] is visiting the missions here. She has been a missionary for seventeen years in the vicinity of Tientsin. She is now returning to America for good and is seeing China before she leaves. She is a most interesting character and knows how to get true pleasure out of it. We had a most comfortable boat which had two spring cot beds in it so that we slept fully as well as at home. We took a cook along to get our meals, so all we had to do was to enjoy ourselves- which we did – We started Friday evening and went down the river in the lovely moonlight when we awoke the next morning we were on the opposite side of an island right underneath "Old Lord Beaconfield's Nose"- a queer mountain profile which we can see from here. On closer view we found that it takes three separate mountains to make our picture of it. We ate breakfast in our cabin and then found just the right sized nook on deck where we spent the day except at meal times. As we turned up the Ing Hok river we saw our first orange groves- then we saw them on both sides- beautiful with the deep color of the Mandarin oranges. It was a sight for eyes and mouth! Farther up the river were paddy-fields and sugar cane patches- and then came the beautiful mountains sloping directly to the river edges. Such fantastic shapes! Faces in profile can [be] seen with almost no imagination. In one place the rocks on the slope of the mountains make a perfect rabbits head and in another was a rock resting on the top of a ledge which was the shape of a mouse's head, even to the ears. The mountains were beautifully green for we have had an unusually wet autumn- and the unusual fronts had turned a few trees to that oriental shade of red which one never sees in America except in Japanese pictures. We just drank in the sights, the quiet, and peace, and came home happier and better fitted for work for it all.

While I think of it, - none of you have said a word about received a check for $75 which I sent to mama last July or August. I am feeling a little anxious and hope you will let me know as soon as possible if you have received it. It was Will's private check on the Putnam bank. - I have sent some linen waists home- one to Aunt Louise. If she doesn't want it sell it to any one who wants to buy it at $2.50. I sent one to Ruth for a Xmas present and another like it which I thought Cousin Carrie might want. If she doesn't want it sell it for the same price as the above. I hope the hdkfs. reached Ruth in time, but I have my doubts. I happened to have some on hand so that they started in the return mail. Wouldn't the people like to have me send a dozen or so for next fall's sale? I am going to send a collar soon to Mrs. Lathrop or you to see if you would like some made for the annual sale.- I have been wondering whom Elizabeth was visiting in E. Haddam. Do tell me, for I can't seem to connect it with any one I know. I was delighted to hear of her visiting Stanley in New York. New York will not be quite so much of an unknown place to the Beards now will it. – Ruth's trip was quite a surprise to us. The first we knew about it was from the postals which she sent from Maine. How did you go- by rail or water?- I was sorry to hear of Mrs. Upton's death, but have often felt she was to be pitied. Some way her life has always seemed so limited, but she was a cheery soul for all of it and I shall always feel thankful to her for coming when we were in such straights that awful summer.- How in the world did Uncle Dan come to join the mason's? I shall be interested to know. - Didn't I write to you the conclusion of Gould's diphtheria? It was told all over the mountain that I had brought the disease. That I had worn a skirt for the first time in which I had care for my sister when she was ill. How the take got started I have no idea for I had said nothing about such a thing and besides had worn everything I owned during the year-long before this occurrence. However, events proved the untruth of this for another case broke out in a family entirely unknown to me and with whom our children were hardly acquainted. The disease had been raging among the Chinese and in all probability it has come up from the city in the clothes of the coolies. I shall always feel that Gould caught his from the kite which he got at about that time-fortunately it got away from him so it can do us no more harm. People out here have so few things with which to occupy their minds that when a thing does occur they begin to conjecture the course of events up to it. It was a cruel time to me, but I am learning several things and by the time I get home I shall probably be quite callous.

This is quite a fete week. Last week I went to a "small" dinner at the Consulate where Mrs. Gracey and most of her lady guests were in 'decolette' attire. Mrs. Mac and I were the only ladies whose dresses came up to our chins. We had a fine dinner and a good time afterwards. Last evening I dined at the bachelor quarters of two nice missionaries. I was surprised to see how homelike two unmarried men could make a house. Tuesday, all the Methodists and Americans on the Island here dine at the home of one of the Methodists. It is a community affair but a very happy one. The children are to have a Christmas tree. The children in this port have a lark of life for they are continually being feted. One of the community ladies is giving an Xmas tree to all the children in the port so that means two trees besides what presents they will get from home. On Thursday Consul and Mrs. Gracey have invited all the foreigners in the port to dine with them. It will make a company of about fifty people. Then I am to have three days vacation, in which I hope to do about a thousand things. At Chinese New Year's I am planning for a three week's vacation in which Miss Hall and I expect to take a trip up river. I am looking forward to a peaceful, restful and happy trip, for we have invitations- most cordial- to stay with some lovely missionaries at the different stops we plan to make.

We have received during the last week the notices about our boxes and we are matching the incoming boats- for the St. Patrick. I shall be glad to have my long sleeved underflannels for this sharp weather makes one think of thicker clothes. I hope they get here for the awful cold of the rainy season. It is more than zero weather at home for the dampness goes through everything.

Did I tell you that I have lost fifteen pounds in weight since last February? I seem to be still losing and I am calculating how long I can stay here and still have enough to buy a ticket for -to get home. So far it has been an improvement I think and I do not care if I lose fifteen pounds more, but I'd like to stop then. Where is Elizabeth? I've not had a word from her since- I can't tell when. Perhaps she is gadding about so much there is no time to write. I'm glad to know she is seeing so much of the world. There's nothing like 'going' to keep from stagnation.

With love to all-

Flora

P.S. I have sent Xmas remembrances to all but Stanley. His will come later. I hope they get through all right. F.B.

Foochow, China
Feb. 2nd 1908.

My dear Elizabeth:-

I'm beginning this letter tonight almost sure that letters from you all are lying over in the P.O. But you will know that I am writing before being punched up.

Today is the first day of the Chinese New Year. Every thing is quiet,- it was not quiet last night. Fire crackers were banging all night long- worse than in an American city where no restrictions are put on the small boy at Fourth of July. Every one is in his best and brightest. Flora walked over to the Y.M.C.A. with me this afternoon and she was much struck with the gorgeous head gear, coats, trousers, shoes, and trinkets she saw on people of all ages. A Chinese puts on good clothes on New Years day if he can get any, and he has good things to eat if he can get them. Then- if he has to starve all the rest of the year.

Flora was gone on a house boat trip from Monday to Friday of last week. We felt quite alone- mother and father will know how to sympathize with Ellen and me. Our family dropped from eleven to seven. But Thursday a Mrs. Brown came in and wanted to take meals with us for a week or two just while they = she and her husband were waiting for a steamer to start for home and Flora is back so we have a family of ten again. Flora is planning to start for Ing Hok next Wed.

Small pox and measles are prevalent. We were all vaccinated Friday morning. You should hear Marjorie say "Doctor Scratch." She is very friendly with Dr. Rennie and he is proud of it. He feared if she saw him scratch her she would not like him anymore.

The season has been very warm thus far- we have had a fire only some 16 or 18 days thus far. This morning the sun came out bright and warm and we sat on the veranda to read.

Yesterday I opened some Soda and Graham crackers from Zina's [Willard's cousin, Zina Chatfield, son of Theodore Edward Beard.]. They are good. I forgot to mention the beautiful pictures which I suppose Phebe sent in Flora's box. They are beauties and just the thing that I like most.

All are well and all send love to all
Will.

[This letter dated Feb. 12, 1908 was written from China by Flora to her sister, Mary. She tells Mary about her houseboat trip, a trip up the Min River and a trip to Ing Hok. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

[Feb. 12, 1908]

Dear Mary:-

Your postal and letter have both been most welcome and much appreciated though I have been a long time in letting you know about it. The last few months have just flown by and this has been my first breathing spell since September. I am having a three weeks vacation now, and then for another grand scrabble until the first of June. I have been having a few treats lately that may interest you. About two months ago I took a houseboat trip off with a Dr. Burn- a missionary who is about to return home for good. She was capital company and we just sat and drank in the scenery and ate and slept to our fill. The days were fine and the wind in our favor so we just enjoyed the mountains. It was quite a lark for us for neither of us could understand a word of our crew. We had a cook who prepared our meals for us and as we were going nowhere in particular we got along all right and had a fine time. Two weeks ago Miss Bosworth and I took a trip up the Min River and had a nice quiet rest of it for four days. Now four of us- Miss Bosworth (one of the M.E. missionaries), Miss Hall, Miss Ruth Ward and I are off for a week's outing up the Ing Hok river. Our houseboat is fitted up most luxuriously and with a cook and a boy to look out for us we are living highly. The first day we took a long walk over the mountains to a very pretty waterfall. We crossed the mountain creek a dozen times if not more. It was a very beautiful walk. The next day we climbed another mountain to a very old Buddhist Monastery. It was very steep climbing up over a thousand feet but the landscapes were changed at each step so it was worth the while. Now we are at Ing Hok where Mr. Goddard and his wife were. It is situated on the banks of this lovely mountain stream with a veritable Swiss mountain scape. We came up over twenty four (we counted them) rapids and I am listening to the twenty fifth now. To-morrow we go down and I am looking forward to the shooting of the rapids with the eagerness that a boy enjoys the steepest hill in coasting. I should have explained that we had to leave all our elegance in living behind when we started up the rapids. It was an experience to see these hardy river men get us up over such rocks and such swift torrents. In one place our boat bumped on both sides against high rocks and the men pulled us up through the worst places by long bamboo ropes. One man pushed the boat and several times we saw him lift us off the rocks by just putting his back under the side of the boat. Oh! it is great!

Did you get the collar I sent you for Xmas and the six little wheels of lace to match? As I have not heard from you about them I have worried a little bit lest you did not get them. I sent them quite early so that you should have them on time. They should not have bothered you in customs for the whole thing did not represent over $1.50 gold. I think if you hired the collar with white chiffon it would set it off more.

Would you believe me if I tell you that we have picked great bunches of violets and bridal wreath and that the plum orchards are in full bloom? They look like drifts of snow from our windows here. But perhaps in California you are having the same things.

I hope you will forgive my seeming neglect and write to me soon, for I hope to do better in the future. Letters have been an impossibility for me for months and my pigeon hole is full of stuffing of the ones that should be answered.

With all love-
Flora Beard.

Ing Hok, China
Feb. 12, 1908.

At home.- I found your letter here when I returned and was glad to hear that you received the collar all right. Did you have any trouble with duty? Please tell me when you do. Now about getting a collar for Miss Coleman. If you wish to be especially nice to her for any reason I can get some for her. I am not anxious to send things home to everybody for the mails may think it time to intercept the parcels and ask for duty. I want to send little things from time to time to my family and friends and I do not feel rich enough to pay the 80% duty on all my gifts. If I get collars for her I shall feel like asking enough to cover all expenses. Please understand- if she is a friend of yours I shall be very glad to do it, but if it is merely to gratify a whim I am not particular. If she will write a note to the enclosed address I think she will get samples and be able to make her own choice. Let me know and I will do what you say.

Lovingly - Flora.

[This letter dated Feb. 23, 1908 was written from Foochow, China by 12 ½ year old Phebe K. Beard to her Grandpa and Grandma Beard. She tells about their school Field Day run by their teacher, Aunt Flora. She tells a little about Marjorie. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China,
Feb. 23, '08.

Dear Grandpa and Grandma Beard:-

We had a sort of Field Day yesterday. The children in Aunt Flora's school took the largest part in it. We were supposed to have ten events but we cut out event after event till we had only about six or seven. We wrote to an American Community lady, and to some Missionaries in the city. The rest of the people we went around and invited by word of mouth. We invited Consul and Mrs. Gracey. They were glad to come and most of the rest came too. Consul or Dr. Gracey was judge. Mrs. Gracey was prize giver. Gould beat in threading the needle race and Dorothy beat in the shoe race. Most of the children thought the "relay race" was fair, but you see it was the first time we had tried it so we didn't do very well. Gould bumped into a shy boy of their team named Harry and knocked the flag out of his hand and broke part of the stick. The 1 class beat the relay race. It is a rather hard game to play but it is fun when done right. Altogether it was a pretty fine thing for the first time I think. That afternoon after the sports were all over the boys went down to the recreation grounds to watch a game of football while the girls took a friend's cart and coasted down some of the hills around here.

Friday night or rather evening we had a molasses candy pull. We had two friends from way down the river (boarders) and two others that live right here. We were quite successful. While pulling I got a blister between the thumb and first finger. It smarted quite badly at first but it is alright now (Sunday evening). We let the two friends that live here take their candy home, the candy they pulled I mean. The two friends that live way down the river board here to come to school so they kept their candy here. It isn't all gone yet.

Marjorie is quite a big girl. She is two years old had her birthday week before last. She received her Xmas gifts and was so happy with them that she grew selfish. The Teddy Bear has twice lost his voice but has got well again and talks quite well now. I know she would send thanks for them if she could talk enough. Just now she said, Oket for lookat , "doggie eat," about as plain as could be. She takes up the news and story papers and pretends to read them. She is very fat. When she tips a glass of water of the table or does another thing similar to it she says, "Wy, wy wy," but it makes no impression whatever on her. She tells herself "no, no, no" very plainly but she just does the thing all the same. She is quite jealous. She will begin to cry if any body gets in to mamma's or anyone else's lap. She says a lot in Chinese, too.

Sending lots of love to all of you and hoping you are all well, we are and trying to enjoy ourselves which we do pretty well though we don't have any snow.

I am your loving grandchild,
Phebe K. Beard.

Willard signed a lease for a new house for the Y.M.C.A. He wonders if the financial crisis is affecting them at home. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Foochow, China
Feb. 28th 1908

My dear Mother:-

Phebe has written to you and grandpa and offers to let me put in a few words. How helpful it is to have children large enough to take the initiative! Phebe is most thirteen years old. When I was thirteen father bought me a cut a way coat and a stiff hat. I was too much of a country bumpkin to wear either and altho it was spring I wore my old cap to church rather than wear the dudish hat, and the last I knew the coat was as good as new.

All the children are growing very fast. Ellen has just made Phebe a new dress with the first lengthening. That indicates she is no longer a little girl. Gould is getting to be a big boy. I was much interested to see him in the sport yesterday. In the hop, skip and jump he stepped over the starting line and was thrown out. But he stood it like a man. Geraldine, poor girl, had a chill yesterday and could not attend the races. She can't seem to get rid of the malaria. She took 5 grs. of quinine 3 times a day for 1 month in Nov. 1907 and again all thru Jan., but yesterday's chill shows some of the disease is there still.

This last week I signed the lease for a new house for the Y.M.C.A. I had to give $1300 a year rent and rent for 3 years. McLachlin will take the upper story of the house and pay half the rent. But this will make a budget of over $2000 for the Y.M.C.A. This they feel is pretty stiff. But they raised over $1600 last year and I have faith to believe they will pull thru.

I wonder if you have seen anything of Fred Sumner in Milford. I think he went there last year. The last mail brought a lot of letters from home to Flora and us. It is sad to hear of Aunt Margaret's condition [Wife of Willard's father's brother, James Henry Beard]. We wonder what Helen [James Henry Beard's daughter] is doing, and what they are doing with the house. How nice it is to hear of Uncle Will's good health.

We are greatly enjoying our food stuffs from Century Farm and from Zina's. The oatmeal Ellen says is the best she has had for a long time. This is saying much for I always get the best from San Francisco Freight, etc. costs no more on a good article. The rye and corn are delicious and this evening we had the first taste of the farina. The crackers are good too. The box containing my shirts- the hardware etc. has not yet turned up. The brush for Alabastine is also in this box.

Does the financial crisis effect you greatly? I saw the notice of Burkharts death due to the monetary condition, in the Sentinal. It must be more difficult than ever to get help on the farm.- It is a strange condition- 1000's leaving New York for Europe weekly because nothing to do, and the Japanese and Chinese clambering to get in from the west.

God deals graciously with us. We meet you all every day at His throne, where distances are obliterate.

All send love to all
Will.

Foochow, China
March. 16th 1908.

My dear Mother:-

Your letter to Ellen written in Feb. reached me while I was in the city with Gould for the Sunday. A week ago= Mar. 6,7 and 8, we held a Conf. for the student leaders, and directed most of our efforts toward Bible Study and the reaching of the non-Christian Students in the mission colleges. In the Am. Board College there are only some 50 Christians in the whole body of 230 students. The proportion in the Meth. Anglo Chinese Coll. is about the same. Each of these colleges is trying to get 100 men to daily study the Bible privately. The Chinese Y.M.C.A. Sec'y and I promised to attend the Foochow Coll. (Am. Board) Y.M.C.A. meeting last Friday evening to help them make it a Bible Study Rally. I got pretty tired before Friday came and Mr. McLachlin persuaded me to take a rest over Sunday. So here I am. Gould came in with me and we have had a quiet rest. Gould has been with Vernon Peet most of the time. They are both back in school now. I shall go home this afternoon.

I have realized that my letters in all directions are fewer than they used to be. There are more irons in the fire than I used to have. There are some limitations to the work as a Board missionary. At least one can stop at certain times. But it seems sometimes as if there was no stopping place in the Y.M.C.A. work. And when you add a general kind of work that seems to fall to my lot, - and which I very much dislike to refuse- because I know the language and the people, it makes pretty full time. Just now in the Y.M.C.A. I have to look after the repairing of the newly rented building, and the organization of the day and evening classes. We have over 30 students in day classes. These study Chinese in the morning, and English in the afternoon. There are 9 hours of English to provide and four teachers, Ellen, Mrs. McLachlin, the Chinese Sec'y (Mr. Cio) and myself. Then there are two evening classes, one fr. 5-6, and one fr. 8 to 9. I take these, - both in Eng. One is an advanced class and one a class of Japanese and Chinese mixed. Then there is a Sunday Bible class that I lead if I am not away. This has suddenly increased in numbers to 30+ since we are in the new building. Then there is a course of lectures- weekly for the Y.M.C.A. members. It is not easy to find the lecturers. And for all this work we must raise some $2000 in Foochow.

Then there is the work among the Student Y.M.C.A. in lines altogether different from the City Association.

Then I am Pres. of the North Fukien Tract Society. This Society has been in a semi dormant state for 4 or 5 years. While conditions have changed, the Society's methods have remained the same as they were ten years ago and it is behind the times. We are striking out in two new lines this year. 1. A prize is offered for the best Chinese essay on ten different subjects by Chinese or Foreigner Christian or non Christian. We give the subjects like, "The present state of the fight against opium", "The Duty of an Educated man to his country", "Christ and the World's great Leaders." 2. We are opening a Public Reading Room to be stocked with the best newspapers in the Empire and also with modern Chinese books and monthly periodicals both Christian and Secular. This in the center of the City of Foochow- near the Viceroy's Yaman and we hope thru it to influence the best life of the city and province.

Mar. 21st- Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wade Hicks Sec'y of the A.B.C.F.M. arrived here yesterday just in time to take lunch with us. They want a steamer next Thurs. or Fri. for Shanghai, but it is hard to get. - All are well. - We opened the last box- the one that was delayed- night before last.

Lovingly Will

[March 22, 1908]

Dear folks at home:-

Your letters have been arriving nearly each mail and have been most welcome. I have been trying to get time to write - for the days are so full that letters have had to be put off. First of all, I want to thank you all for the many remembrances in the Xmas box. It was only a few weeks late- and was quite as welcome, for out here we celebrate any event when we have the materials, quite as much as on the special date. I think of Ruth every night when I put on the long bed socks and if she uses all her imagination she cannot think how much comfort they have given me. It was positive suffering last winter instead of sleep at night just because my feet would not get warm. I have not once been so troubled this winter- thanks to the socks. The knitted slippers get used every night and morning so you see how I needed them.

Tell Leolyn and her mother that I shall write as soon as I can to thank them for the sweet tie and pin. They got here just in time for me to christen them at Mr. and Mrs. Newell's house party. Every one admired them- and I enjoy wearing them. I found everything but one, pair of gloves. On the bill they are marked $1.00 so I suppose they are the long sleeved white silk ones. If there was a mistake made and they were not sent will you please send me a pair No. 7 as soon as you can by mail? One uses such things out here much more than at home. When people go out to dinner in the evening they wear gloves as though to a reception. There is so much of such formality here in the community society. I do not go out much but wish to appear properly clad when I do go. - The children are busy with the patchwork pieces you sent. I hope they will last them through the long summer, for there is so little for the time of the children on the mountain.-You asked about the picture of James, Leolyn and the baby. Have you another one to spare for I should so like to have one by myself? - a week later at Ponasang-. I am sitting in Miss Hall's room while she is at C.E. meeting. I do not go because I've been once to see them and as I do not understand it gets rather monotonous. We miss Miss Newton very much here. [Miss Ella J. Newton died.] Everything seems changed and Miss Hall has been through a good deal of anxiety, but now things are getting settled and running along smoothly. Miss Ruth P. Ward is a treasure. She was one of our party at Chinese New Years on the Ing Hok trip. Here quiet enjoyment of things was most interesting to share. We all had a good time and it did us lots of good. I am thinking of spending the few days at Easter time at Mrs. Hubbard's down at the Anchorage. She has asked me many times and I have had to refuse so many times that I may go this time.

Do you girls want to do anything for your hdkf. sale next Dec.? It has occurred to me that you might like to get some of these linen drawn work ones for the sale. It would be well to let me know a little earlier.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks of the American Board are here now and we had a pleasant afternoon with them here yesterday. They will be in port until Friday.

Will write again soon-

With love- Flora Beard.

My dear Mother:-

It may be there is a letter lying in the office here from you. We do not have the mail delivered on Sundays, and altho the mail came in today we shall not see it till tomorrow. We have not had letters from any one at home since we last wrote.

The weather is getting hot. Last week we had two days very uncomfortably hot and then three cold days when we wanted fires in the house and yesterday it came off hot again. Gould and three of his boy friends had planned a walk over the "Alps" = the name of a range of hills on the island on which the foreign settlement is situated, about 500 ft. high- none of us had ever been there and I thought I would go with the boys. So at 8:50 a.m. we started. We reached the end of the journey at 10:30 and I found a nice shady nook for the boys who had taken a lunch along and who declared their stomachs would do as well as a watch. I walked back home for dinner. The boys returned about 5 p.m. When Ellen asked Gould when they ate dinner he said they began as soon as I left them and ate a spell, then talked a while and ate some more and really did not get thru eating that after 3 p.m. when they started for home. They declared they had the time of their lives. The day was very hot. Today has shown over 70 degrees in my study.

The Superintendent of Government Colleges in Foochow City has asked me to find for him a graduate of an American College, who is fitted to teach Chemistry, Physics and Mathematics 40 weeks in a year, 26 hours a week in a contract for 3 years, with $200 mex. a month for salary. The salary begins July 1st 1908. He must be in Foochow ready to start work Sept. 10th 1908. One months salary is guaranteed after July 1st 1911, - unless a new contract is made for another term.

Last night the head of one of the high schools sent to ask if I could procure for him a teacher under the same terms and conditions- except the salary would be $100- mex. instead of $200 mex. per month.

I have written Mott of the first proposal and asked him to find the man.

Work in the Y.M.C.A. goes on nicely. Students are continually coming in. We are turning them away, for the classics are too far advanced to let in new ones now- unless they have already studied some.

It is also very gratifying to see the members frequently coming to the building. We have a very pleasant location and beautiful grounds- I have had several pictures taken this last week of the building, grounds, students and views from the building, and will send to you soon.

Last Thurs. was a great day for the Anti Opium League here. 1000 persons gathered in the Methodist Church and listened to the Commissioner of rail roads for the province and his Secretary speak on the topic. Then the President of the Anti Opium League spoke and he was followed by two or three good speakers on the same topic- all Chinese of course. After this meeting the whole company went out on the hill side where 400 opium pipes with as many lamps and opium smoking utensils had been arranged in big iron kettles, and had had kerosene oil poured on them. Already 1000 people were there. The matches were applied and all burned up. The odor of the opium was something fearful. Then the Chinese dignitaries went to see the girls at Miss Lambert's school at their calisthenics. These high Chinese gentlemen had never seen anything like it, and of course were greatly delighted.

Flora is spending Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Kinnear. School goes on nicely. It is very gratifying indeed to see how much interest the parents take in the school, and how grateful they are to Flora for her work. The girls are doing nicely in music, and even Gould got up early yesterday morning and ask Aunt Flora to hear his piano lesson before he started in his walk.

The photo of Wells and Daniel [Willard's nephews- the sons of Willard's brother, Bennett Nichols Beard] is superb. It is a very happy position and the artist caught them just right.- I'll save the remainder of this sheet to put any last word on before the mail goes. We are all well.

Mar. 30th

Yesterday Ellen was 40 years old. She received a beautiful rose and a rattan chair for a birthday present from children and husband.

It has been very hot today. Boys and girls except Phebe barefoot and Marjorie in low neck and short sleeves.

All send love
Will

Foochow, China

April 5th 1908.

My dear Mary and the Folks at Home:-

It seems a long time since we have heard from you, Mary. I wonder how school is going this year. I have turned teacher that is I am responsible for five hours a day of teaching English five days a week. I can find someone to take one hour a day usually and often I get out of two hours a day. And I am just agreeing to teach three hours each Saturday morning in the Government College in Foochow City. This is only for this term. And I do not anticipate that I shall have to teach as much in the Y.M.C.A. classes next fall. Ellen is teaching two hours a day and when I play football or hockey she takes one of my classes.

I am using some of the nice paper that came in the last box from home. I feel extravagant. But it is nice all the same and I suppose- up-to-date. The paper I bought of Oliver when I was at home is only about half gone. In the box I found a doz. pairs of white canvas gloves- fleece lined. I remember he had a lot on hand just before we left for China. I would have bought him out of these as well as of the paper if I could have used them.

Last Friday evening an entertainment of tableaux and music was given by Foochow talent, assisted by a Mr. and Mrs. Playne who are stopping here for some work connected with getting out a book on South China. The tableaux were good. The tickets were $2.00 proceeds went to the Native Hospital. One of the chief items of interest to me was the fact that I wore my dress coat for the first time.

We are making a fruit orchard of our grounds here. This past week we have planted 4 peach, 2 plums, 2 pumelo, 2 orange, 1 mandarin orange, one lai che, 1 biba, 1 tigers eye tree beside several flowering shrubs. The petunias, verbenas, and Marguerites are now in their prime. The pansies are the children's delight. We still need rain, altho corn that I planted a little over a week ago is up nicely. We enjoy our own garden immensely. Things like lettuce that we eat fresh- without boiling taste so much better if – here in China- if you can pick them out of your garden. Cauliflower, cabbage, beets, onions, parsnips, kale and tomatoes are also doing well.

The weather is getting hot and the children are discarding shoes and stockings. All are quite well. Marjorie is trying to be as big as the other girls, altho she finds it hard work. She seems to realize that Dorothy is the nearest to her age and Dorothy can get to do or say almost anything. She has one long nap just after an early dinner and goes to bed about 7:30 and sleeps till after 6 in the morning. The amah puts her in the bed, closes the door and that is the last. There is one little girl in the next house who is some three months older and two more little girls 5 min. walk away who are 4 or 5 years old. All are to Marjorie "Beba", and she looks at them and treats them like babies. She talks very plainly. Ellen was saying only the other day- "We are not going to have in Marjorie the pretty baby talker that Geraldine was."

I am writing this letter hoping that you will send it home after reading it. I suppose you have had strawberries in Cala. We have all we want- a few from our own garden. Oranges are still good and I ate the last persimmon this morning. Bibas will soon be in market, and after that fruit will be plenty. I smoked two hams last week. They are good- come over and have some- also some fancy sausage. With love to all, and commending all to God- Will

Foochow, China.

April 12th 1908.

Dear Folks at Home:-

We have just read Flora's letters from Vinnie, Anna [Vinnie and Anna are Zina Chatfield's sisters- cousins of Willard's.], Ruth, Mother and Phebe. The mail arrived Friday with papers for three weeks. It makes a grand jamb, and with so much at one time we are subjected with reading for a week or more- never too many letters tho- and for the past ten days news from U.S. papers has been scarce. We are very glad to see that you were all well. We were also much interested in the accounts of the Evangelistic meetings recently held in Shelton and Derby. There was also an extended notice of them in the last Sentinel you sent us. I am glad to see that their effect has been so broad and so quietly forceful.

The Anglo Chinese College of the Methodist Mission has been holding special meetings for a week. Forty boys and young men has said they wished to become Christians.

Last Tuesday I accepted an invitation to a feast at the Administration Building of the College in which the young man, of whom I wrote last time, has been asked to teach. It was not an elevating occasion. An Englishman who is teaching there now, a German who has been engaged to teach, three Japanese who are teaching there now and myself were the foreigners. One blushes to be classed with the "foreigners" at such a place. But it is well for the "foreigners" that some of their number are straight and honorable to represent the best life of the so called Christian nations.

On Wednesday Dr. A.E. Cory of Wuhu- near Hankow of the Yangtze river arrived. He is the Secretary of the Bible Study Committee appointed a year ago by The Centenary Conference in Shanghai. He had been in Hong Kong and Canton and I telegraphed him to stop at Foochow on his way up the coast. He has visited the Boy's Colleges of the three missions and spoken at each. This afternoon he preached to a company of missionaries on Bible Study. The children, except Marjorie, went and said they had a "good sermon." On Thursday and on Friday a.m. I called with him on nine different missionaries to consider how we could help the Chinese pastors, preachers and other workers to know the Bible better. Friday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock these nine men met in our parlor to further discuss the subject. The desirability was conceded at once, so we went at once to the methods, we did not want an extra committee, and it lay between putting the work on to the Sunday Union for Fukien Province, the Y.M.C.A. or the North Fukien Tract Society. I am President of the first and third of these and Secretary of the second so I was "in it" all round. We at last put it on the N.F.T. Society and that society held a meeting on Sat. p.m. and delegated the Y.M.C.A. to arrange for a yearly Conference of Pastors, preachers and other workers for Bible Study. We are also planning for a Student's Summer Conference to be held the first week in September.

Did I write last week that all the boxes had at last arrived? The coat and vest are a perfect fit- for all I can tell, and Flora says and Ellen says to. Therefore I'll believe it.

We have just had the transom lifters put on this past week. Without them transoms are of little use. The wood stains and the Alabastine must wait till we have a smaller family and less work. How we do enjoy the crackers from Zina's. The ham and sausage continues good and all who get any of it are good enough to say it is a treat. I hope they all tell the truth. Strawberries are nice but scarce this year. The shirts that Oliver sent are beauties. I have worn only one. That one fitted to perfection. I have had two dress shirts made by my tailor $2.00 mex. each- about 95 cents gold and I have ordered a pair of dress pants.

Geraldine is a little off her best- she has had the nose bleed the last two days. I think it is partly due to malaria and partly to the warm weather. Marjorie is getting her back teeth and is a little "off feed" but otherwise all right. The rest of us seem to be holding our own.

And all send love to you all

Will.

[This letter dated May 27, 1908 was written from Shanghai, China by Willard to his mother. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

Shanghai
May 27th 1908

My dear Mother:-

I mailed a letter to you two days ago here in Shanghai- just mentioning the fact that I was here in response to a telegram from Lyon who is leaving for home on the steamer next Sunday for a rest. I saw him Monday and finished my business and went about the Foochow steamer last night. She was advertised to start at daylight this morning. But just before breakfast the Captain came on and said she would not start till tomorrow morning, so here I am with a whole day before me. These coast steamers accommodate their sailing times to the freight not to the passengers, who really cut a very small figure in the business of the steamship co.

Mr. Lyon wanted to see me to place before me this proposition.- The Centenary Conference last year appointed a Committee on Bible Study. Mr. Lyon is Chairman of that committee, and Rev. A. E. Cory of the Christian mission in Wuhu, way up the Yangtse, is Secretary. Mr. Cory has traveled a little for the committee- has been to Canton, Hong Kong, Amoy, and Foochow. He staid with us while in Foochow a little more than a month ago. But altho his mission is willing to release him to travel half the time in the interest of the promotion of Bible Study, his wife's health is such that he cannot leave home for this work. So he and Lyon agreed to ask me to take up the work that he had begun. It is really to visit the different centers of mission work and arouse the missionaries to make definite plans for helping Chinese pastors, preachers and other Christian workers to lay more emphasis on, and take more time for Bible Study.

I did not tell Lyon that I would accept the work, but I told him I would give the matter my most prayerful and careful consideration. It is a very important task- probably nothing in the activities of the Church in China is more important. And the incoming of Japanese books, atheist and materialistic, books that staggered the Japanese Church fifteen to twenty years ago, makes it doubly important just now that the Chinese Church should have not only a reason for its faith gotten from a first hand study of the Bible, but that it should make that Bible its rule of conduct as well as of belief. The nation is in danger just now of worshipping Learning as an end in itself. And the younger portion of the church do not have the knowledge of the Bible that the older portion possessed. So the need for this work of promoting Bible Study can hardly be exaggerated. But the other question is am I the one to do the work? After talking with Ellen I shall telegraph Lyon our decision. If I take it up it will mean that I shall be away from home about half the time. This is very distasteful to me. I have had enough of it- and travel on these coast steamers is the worst of all travel. Of course there is the compensation factor that it will take me in most all parts of China, which must have no weight in making our decision.

With love to all
Will.

[This letter dated May or June, 1908 was written from China by Flora to her mother. She asks her mother for advice on whether she should accept an offer to continue teaching year after next. She says she is getting tired of the East and cheering everyone up all the time. Letter donated to Yale by family in 2006.]

[May or June, 1908]

Dear Mama:-

Mr. Foster has just written offering me $825 a year and the best position he can give me for year after next. He wants me to let him know early in 1909. What would be your advice from that side of the world? I shall have, I suppose, the same fourteen children of last year and there are two more who want to come. That fits me out for this year. Some of the children will be going home next summer and I do not know where there will be any to take their places. Mr. and Mrs. Main's health are each in such condition that the doctor has advised them (say nothing about this in your letters to me) to go home. They have gone away to spend the summer hoping to get strong enough to stay on, but there is nothing sure about it and they may have to go home at any time. If my number gets too depleted it means so little money that I do not feel I can afford to stay. Another thing- if I come home next summer it will take every penny to get me home and I'll not be able to pay you the money I want to this winter.

I am having about enough of the East. Being alone in my work and every one expecting me to cheer them up is getting to be humdrum, but I'll wait till I hear from you before I do anything decisive- unless something turns up to show me the right thing to do without any doubt.

Let me know what you think about it, please.

Lovingly-

Flora Beard.

Young Men's Christian Association

Foochow, China June 7th 1908.

Dear Folks at Home:-

The past week has been full of events. Tuesday afternoon Flora had closing exercises for the school. 104 persons came to our home to hear the children. The whole affair was a complete success. The mothers and fathers of the children were justly proud of their offspring. The children have greatly improved in their singing. Phebe won laurels at the piano and Geraldine was not far behind.

As a social event for the Port it also ranked high. Those who call themselves the 400 were all here. The house lends itself to such an occasion perfectly. The only break was made when I announced that the Monthly Concert of Prayer would be held at our home the next afternoon= Wed. and that Mr. Shelley, a Christian Merchant from Melbourne would speak. The wife of one of the merchants= herself a Chinese woman and the couple were married several years after the oldest of their children were born= took offense at the word Christian as too discriminating, and her husband has spent a dollar to circulate an express which read something like this: - That almost extinct species the Christian Merchant having been imported to Foochow, we are now in need of a Christian Banker. He need not know anything about banking but he must be able to make an address. Some of the business men say that Mr. Shelley does not know much about business methods in Foochow. The phrase Christian Merchant was taken from me. Notoriety is cheap.

On Wed. some 60 were here at the monthly concert. Mr. Shelley spoke on keeping "sharp" as God's tools. All present were greatly pleased and many said it was a helpful and fresh meeting.

Some day or two before I left for Shanghai this same lady referred to above= Mrs. Siemssen had written Ellen asking if we would accept the gift of a pony for Gould. They got it for their little boy but he was not "keen" on riding. Ellen answered that we would take it but would have to wait till I returned from Shanghai to fix a place for it. We sent for it Wed. morning. When the girls came from school at noon, they rushed in the gate as usual, and the pony called to them when he heard the gate open. You should have heard the shout as they saw the pony, "Whose is it?" "Is it ours?" Then Gould came in and the pony called again and he fairly leaped into the air with delight. Well he will have something to do now to take care of the goat and the pony for we cannot afford a man to care for it.

Then this week we opened a shipment from Montgomery Ward's with shoes for the family and lots of other things – among them a nice large cart for the children.

Last night at the Y.M.C.A. we had a lecture on the natural Resources of Fukien Province- the building was crowded and the lecturer- a Second Degree Graduate- Chinese spoke for an hour and a half – not a man moved and the whole audience rose and asked him to speak again in the near future.

Yesterday Dorothy was allowed to get up for the first time since breaking her collar bone. She took such liberties in walking all over the house and yard and running up and down stairs that her legs- which had been in bed for nearly a month are very lame today.

All are quite well and send love
Will

[June 13, 1908]

Dear Mama:-

School is done and I have been busy a week trying to get things done up so that there will be no need to hurry back in the fall. I am having my school room done over- the walls and floor, a tailor has been sewing for me three days and is on the last dress, and my room here is to be cleaned and shut up for the summer. I expect to have everything done by a week from tonight- Jun. 20. We leave on Sunday for Formosa where we spend until Saturday while we wait for our steamer to go on to Moji, Japan. Miss Dobbins, the new Y.W.C.A. sec., is going with us on her way to Tokyo. She has been advised to spend the summer in Japan as she seems to be having trouble in the getting acclimated here. The sun and heat affects her head very badly.

I am mailing mama's 4th of July present to-day, by sending it to Shanghai by Mrs. Main. I hope it reaches you safely. I have divided it so you must look for two packages. I am also sending a paper which contains an article written by our consul about my closing exercises. We had one house full and the children enjoyed it.

Will try to write once more before I leave. I shall be so glad to get away for I am too tired for any good use.

Love to all-

Flora Beard.

[June 17, 1908]

Dear folks at home:-

Will you please get one copy of Kelsy's 'Caesar's Gallic War' at Gardner's and mail it to me in care of Y.M.C.A., Shanghai, China? I can get it there on my way back from Japan and save postage.

To-day I received word from Washington that the silk gloves were held up by the postal authorities for not being correctly mailed. I am writing to Washington that I do not know by whom they were sent but he may mail them to papa. Then you had better remail them to me in a parcel direct rather than in a newspaper. The wash cloth case got here safely. I should like to know how it was that the gloves got to the Dead Letter Office. They have the full correct address here in their communication to me. Please send the Caesar at once so I may get it in Shanghai.- I can use both pairs of gloves so do not worry about sending double quantity.

Ruth, tell Lucy that I shall be very glad to get the waists, but will be unable to do anything about them here until I get back. It may be that I can find just what they want in Japan.

I will see about your dress when I return. In the meantime you may change your mind when you see the silk waist I sent home- or Lucy may rather have that in pongee, embroidered instead. I think the Pongee would be cheaper. Either the pongee or white silk wash beautifully so are quite as serviceable. Would you like some of the pretty materials one can get in Japan for your gown instead of the linen. They have some very pretty wash stuffs. Let me know at my Yokohama address – just Care of Gen. P.O.

I am enclosing a cuff of a set which I began for Aunt Ella. I gave her the rest of the set before I left home. Maybe she has worn out the collar by this time or it may be out of fashion- but here it is- if you will please give it to her.

Do you know whether Stanley got his silver tooth-brush holder I sent him? I feel a little anxious about it for I foolishly put it up in a very small bundle. I sent home mama's Fourth of July (got mixed on my dates) [she wrote Xmas and scratched it out here] present- in two parcels- for I thought you might like to use it this summer. Don't be too choosy of it for it washes beautifully.

I start on Sunday- at least that is the date scheduled for departure. It probably will be either Sat. or Mon.

Love to all-

[Jun. 27, 1908.]

Dear Folks at home:-

We- Miss Hall, Miss Dobbins and I – are on board, the Japanese liner 'Saikio' going up from Formosa. The sea is calm, the boat excellent, and we are the only foreigners on board. We are trying to be as polite as our fellow passengers and I fear are rather awkward in our attempts.

We left Foochow a week ago to-night on a little dirty Japanese boat. Cockroaches played tag over our cabin walls, our bed linen had not met a tub for some time and everything was terribly stuffy. To add to all this there was a 'beam sea' on and Miss Hall and I spent our time emptying our already empty stomachs. We did not have a moment's peace until we anchored in Tamsui harbor in Formosa. We were a ragged looking trio. I left Miss Hall and, Miss Dobbins by the 'stuff' and started out to find a gentleman whom we had met. We were taken in by the Canadians Presbyterian Missionaries and cared for royally. It turned out to be the very house in which Dr. Mackay the pioneer Formosan and missionary had lived. We saw the schools and met all the people of the mission, also the British consul and his wife. We called on Mrs. Mackay- a Chinese woman, though very much foreignized. We walked out to Dr. Mackay's grave- just outside the foreign graveyard. He would not even be buried with his own people. We were struck with the unity of the work, and the workers. We spent two days sightseeing in Hokuto and Taipeh. We called at the U.S. Consulate which just now is being cared for by an Englishman. He secured passes for us so that we saw the whole process of opium making even to the poor wretch testing it. We saw the stuff boiling and later all put up in kegs- over a $100,000 worth. Next we visited the camphor factory where I suppose at least half of the world's supply comes from. It was purity after pollution. We saw them shoveling up the snowy camphor into boxes and putting them under presses and the odor was so cooling. It was so strong that we could not stay in the same room for it choked both our nose and eyes. We saw the huge tanks where the vapor is condensed- very ingeniously arranged so that they make three grades of camphor. We visited the famous sulphur springs about a mile out from Hokuto. It was fittingly hot for a walk to the infernal regions- for the perfect dearth of vegetation and the stifling fumes from the geysers and the furnaces, made me think of the pictures Dante has painted of the Inferno. I think I never took a hotter walk. I was really afraid we would get prostrated with the heat. We walked back and cooled off at a picturesque Japanese Inn- and shocked the little table waiter by drinking five pots of hot tea. We were glad to get back to Tamsui where we sat in the evening and enjoyed the beautiful cool sea breeze. The only thing to mar our stay was that these kind people refused to take a cent of remunerations for our stay. Missionaries won't take a cent and one is almost always obliged to stop with them unless one can live like the natives.

We wrote over to Keelung from Tamsui for our boat and they telegraphed back that rooms would be received for us. Later they wrote that they would like us to be on hand for inspection at 2:30 P.M. The boat was to start at 4:30 P.M. The train we had planned to take would get us there just in time so we had a last whack at the shops in Taipeh. We got some lovely Panama hats- eight in all- and started for the train. Behold- a change in the time-table that day, which left only one train for us which arrived only a half hour before...

[The rest of this letter is written on columned Japanese paper where Flora wrote top to bottom, right to left.]

...the boat left. We telegraphed on ahead and were met at the train by a dapper little Jap who took us at once to the boat, settled our baggage and tickets and most politely bade us adieu just as they pulled away the gang plank. It was the closest meet of a steamer I ever made. We never heard a word about inspection but were asked the usual questions of who we are, where we came from and where we are going to. When we left Foochow we were asked these questions twice and then when we landed at Tamsui the interpreter of the police came on board and asked them all over again. Japan will know all about us by the time we get through this summer at this rate.

On board this steamer everything is European, - at least all things we see. There are only men in the dining room. We wonder where the women eat. Our dining room has just fourteen places at the tables. The officer at whose right I sit always stayed as long as we do and most politely bows us out.

To-morrow Miss Hall and I land at Moji for our trip east, thro the island. Miss Dobbins goes straight to Tokyo, from Kobe. She has had to come over to Japan for her health. The climate of the east has had such a serious effect on her nerves. She has not been free from head ache in the back of her head since she came, about two months ago. She is the new Y.W.C.A. Sec. We all hope this summer may set her right for if it doesn't it means she will have to go home. We shall hope to find letters waiting at Yokohama for us.

With love to you all.

Foochow, China
June 29th 1908

My dear Flora:-

A week has slipped by since you said good bye to us all. It seems much longer. Of course last week Mon. Tues. and Wed. were full with examinations all day and a class in the evening for me, beside other duties. The Pres. of the Commercial Coll. paid for a telegram to order a teacher from the U.S. for his school. This took two interviews.

On Sunday Mrs. Beattie with four children and Mrs. Montgomery with one, and two amahs and three or four men servants arrived they thought they saw the wake of your steamer over toward Formosa. Gould and I went over to Jardines at 12:15 and waited for them till 2:45 - without dinner fortunately they had had tiffin on the steamer. I got them home with 27 loads of baggage and made my Y.M.C.A. Bible Class at 4:00. Then Monday morning they were off bag and baggage at 7:20. - It was an easy thing to do - altho when Ellen first thought of it, it look prodigious and it was such a help to them!

On Friday I went to the mountain and found it pretty well inhabited. Worley's, Cooles, Butlers, Ward, Perkin, Storrs, Hodous, Newells, Gardners, and others. The new P.O. with its new road is a great improvement- so people say. The same day Mr. Cio Lik Daik went to Kushan to see about the getting of the Monastery for the Summer Conference. When it comes to talk real business they refuse. So we must find another place.

Galen M. Fisher General Y.M.C.A. Sec'y for Japan was to have stopped in Foochow yesterday on his way from Shanghai on board the N.D.L. [Norddeutsche Lloyd] S.S. Kleist, but he did not make it. I heard the steamer arrived too late to come in on the tide and will be here today. Mr. and Mrs. Jack from Formosa are coming over to stay with the Newells I believe this summer.

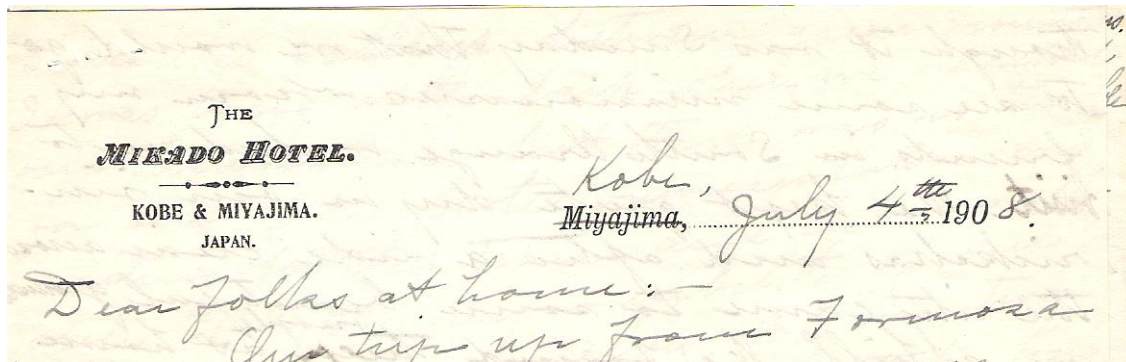

Sat. evening we had eight night blooming cereus open. It made a very pretty eight and the fragrance was delicious.

We are still in Foochow,- hoping to go to Kuliang the last of this week. The air is still fresh and we get a good breeze every day some time. Miss Fink reported that you were quite comfortable settled on the Amoy Maru. I hope you had a pleasant trip and will get to Yokohama all right. Remember us to Miss Hall and Miss Dobbins if you see her. Perhaps you will send this on home sometime.

With love from all

Will.

Kobe, July 4th 1908.

Dear folks at home:-

Our trip up from Formosa on the Saikyo Maru was a very pleasant one. The sun shone every day until the one on which we reached our destination. We awoke in a pouring rain. Here in the East a wharf, which the boat can reach, is a rare thing, so as usual we were taken to the shore by a launch. Fortunately the rain slackened and the launch landed us at the ferry Moji. Here began the fun in making our way in a land whose language is unknown to us. We found we did not have the right change and something was not satisfactory about the bill we proffered. We had a group of ferry officials and passengers about us all trying to explain in their language but we did not find out until we reached our hotel that the bill was Formosan and that it was worth only $.95. It did not take long to straighten out matters. After dinner we decided, even though it was Sunday that we would go to see some missionaries whom my friends in South Orange wished me to visit. We kept quite dry in our jin-rickshas and after a ride clear across the city came to some beautiful grounds on a hill. We found the people at home and had a most enjoyable afternoon with them. They are Baptists and we had the opportunity of hearing about the work of another denomination. - The next day we started on our railroad trip eastward through the island. Our destination for that day was Miyajima, the sacred island. We took a local train to a small station, Miyajiri, and got off just to see the sights. We had expected to have to eat Japanese food but were surprised in having some very decent steak and bread brought in. We took a walk up through the village street and succeeded in attracting every youngster in town if nothing else. There was nothing in particular to see, but just a typical little Japanese village. We took the train again and enjoyed some magnificent scenery- sometimes the Inland Sea and sometimes beautiful Swisslike valleys between green mountains. It was long after dark when we reached our destination but there was no trouble for one of the hotel representatives was waiting for the train and he immediately took the responsibility of our baggage and ourselves. We were two tired people and it did not take long for us to get to sleep. When we awoke in the morning we found ourselves in a most picturesque spot. Our hotel was perched on the steep slope of the mountain covered with laurels, pines, and all sorts of beautiful greenery. We had been lulled to sleep by the sound of a little mountain brook. There was no disappointment when daylight showed us its limpid waters tumbling over clean stones and flowing over white sands. We took a walk up the mountain side and felt refreshed with the pure air and pine odors. Everything was so clean. There is no agriculture done on the island. There are a few tame deer who will eat out of one's hands and they were about the only animals we saw. The mountains with their wooded sides made me think of the Black Forest, they were so beautiful. We spent a day and two nights here and wished we could stay longer in all the beauty. We visited the temple and the thousand matted room which is said to have been built out of the wood of a single camphor tree. It is at present adorned by thousands of wooden ladles. Every person buys one, writes his name on it, and has it nailed up for good luck. We saw one with Burton Holmes's name on [Burton Holmes was America's most famous travel showman and even has a star on Hollywood Boulevard.], but could not spend time to read all of them. The custom started just after the Japanese war with China when the soldiers were housed in the building. The Japanese words for ladle make a pun on the words for Chinese so these were put up for fun. As we were going to our train we saw the Shinto priests form their procession and solemnly walk to their worship. They looked very gay with their orange, green, black, white and violet robes. As we steamed away on our ferry the island looked very beautiful and we were sorry to lose the sight of it. We had an hour or two at Hiroshima when we went to call on some Y.M.C.A. people. They very kindly took us to see the place where "The Lady of the Decoration" was written. We saw the kindergarten and met all the people who know the author, Mrs. Macauley. It is one of the largest institutions in Japan with about six hundred students in all. It was afternoon so we did not see the little tots, but we saw the training classes, classes in drawing, serving, gymnastics, etc. We took the train and went on to Okayama where we spent the night with Dr. and Mrs. Pettee. Here we saw the largest orphan asylum in Japan, which has numbered as many as 1200 inmates. We went to chapel in the morning and saw over four hundred little waifs arranged in rows. They stood for more than half an hour listening to the story of the speaker. Their characteristics seemed very similar to those of the same class of children in our own country. They are divided into groups of about ten in cottages with a "house mother" to care for them. Many of the children were in other parts of Japan on farms or in private families. About sixty were learning agriculture in another place. They have to have chapel out of doors because they have no place that will hold the large number. It was very interesting to see the different departments and hear about the most perfect system of running this huge institution. Many of the boys have grown up to hold responsible and honorable positions. This is the institution with which Rev. Sao Abe, Will's classmate, has some connection. We saw the church where he preached, when in Okayama. Mrs. Ritter took us to see the famous park here which was originally the grounds of the castle which faces it. The gardens are full of beautiful little nooks and ingeniously arranged bridges and paths. We fed the storks and after a parting look had to go to our train. Here we met with a most interesting experience. Miss Adams, one of the A.B.C.F.M. missionaries, was just taking the train to go home. For years she has had to pass through the slums of the city on the way to her work. The little urchins were very rude to her, even throwing things at her. She felt sorry for them and tried to win them. It took a long time to get their confidence but she did finally and gathered together a little Sunday School. From that in the fifteen years it has grown to a real slum mission, with its school, hospital and other departments. The government has appreciated the need of her work and is in sympathy with it. She teaches in a boy's government school and uses the money for supporting the kindergarten. This morning the whole boy's school was down to the train, all drawn up in line and their shouts of "bonsai" as the train moved out of the station must have been very precious to her. There were nearly a dozen ladies at the station - ladies of the highest social rank. It was such good fortune for us to see them. Their dresses were such beautiful ones. Nearly every one was dressed in some shade of gray and their sashes matched in shade. All were in exquisite taste. Their greeting was interesting to us. It took three low bows to complete them with something said between each bow. These ladies were wives of professional men. Even the mayor of the city was there to do her honor. We were so glad to have seen it all.

Now we are here at Kobe College, a beautiful spot on the side of the hill. Unfortunately the students are gone so we shall not be able to see the work of the institution, but the buildings have been most interesting to see. There are seven teachers, all of them strikingly well educated and refined in manners. Their home life has been so restful to us. We have done little but rest since we arrived. Some way I seem to have 'petered' out and it is so good to just lie still. The weather is very cool and so refreshing to us. So far the rain has not interfered at all with our goings.

On Tuesday we start on again. This time to Kyoto, where we may stay nearly a week.

We have been away from Foochow two weeks and have not had a word of mail from anywhere. We are getting hungry for some. There seems to be some hitch in forwarding our mail. The postal authorities move slowly. There is always such quantities of red tape here but one usually gets it after awhile.

With love to all- Flora.

The Mikado Hotel.

Kobe & Miyajima.
Japan.

Kyoto, July 13, 1908.

Dear folks at home:-

Here we are in Kyoto, housed in a real little Japanese house, with sliding partitions, mats, garden, and all. Our hostesses are two simple English ladies and we are their guests, as much as if we were old friends. They have lost their money and are teachers of English to private classes of educated Japanese. They are rather alone here for the foreign community is small and they like to take travelers not only for a compensation but because of their company. Every day they map out our day's sightseeing and their trusty Kuruma man is as good as a guide so we have just congratulated ourselves on our good fortune in finding the place free for us. They have just the room for two so we have all the quiet and pleasure of a home. We had planned to go on to-morrow but on Friday is one of the biggest temple festivals of the year and our hostesses have been so good as to let us stay, that we are going to get the rest of our shopping done here and not make such long stays in Yokohama and Tokio.

When I last wrote we were in Kobe at Kobe College. We had a most delightful stay there. On Monday morning we visited the "Glory Kindergarten" with Miss Howe at the head. Phebe would have thoroughly enjoyed seeing her and the children. She has an ideal kindergarten and will have no other for she wants to instill into the Japanese minds only the highest ideas of the work. It is the one copied in Japan more than any other. While there we met the Hon. Mrs. E.A. Gordon, who has written several books on travel and is now in Japan studying Shintoism. We would call her a frump in America. I thought I should disgrace myself in her presence by laughing she was so funny but I managed to spare myself. Miss Searle the principal of the Kobe College showed us all about their fine buildings. It really seemed like going into a like institution at home, only the finishings of the buildings were even in better taste. The Japanese woods are so exquisite in color and so capable of polish that they are very handsome. Then too the furniture is so beautifully finished that the rooms appear elegantly furnished, whereas they have perhaps cost only a modest sum.

We left Kobe Tuesday morning and arrived here in the afternoon. We called at Dr. Davis's and, while we were waiting to hear from these ladies, he took us about, the grounds and buildings of the Doshicha, and through the Royal Palaces. The interpreter was gone so he did the honors. We had to have a special permit which the ambassador at Tokio [Flora wrote a "y" over the "i" in Tokio indicating her uncertainty of how to spell it.] had granted us – as he does to any American who applies. The building is situated inside high walls- and all in a large park. It was the home of the present emperor before 1869. The architecture is simple but some of the rooms contain very wonderfully carved 'rammia'- a space near the top of a side wall left for ventilation. Some of these carvings had different pictures on each side. Some were done in colors also. Many of the rooms opened into each other making a vista. All of the sliding screens were decorated mostly by a famous artist – Kano. One room would be done in bamboos and tigers, another in pine trees with snow on them, another with storks, others in geese, fans, goats, etc, etc. The throne room was decorated by life size pictures of Chinese mandarins. The throne was a silk canopied dais, upon which is a chair handsomely inlaid with mother-of-pearl. This was the only place where we saw a chair placed for the emperor. In all other places was the dais with a square mat in the middle. The whole palace was simplicity itself- an illustration of how the emperor in feudal times lived.

The next day we spent at Nara, once the capital of the Empire. The ride over in the train wound its way through bamboo forests, tea farms, rice fields, and fruit orchards. The scenery was very pretty. We would pop in and out of tunnels so fast that it made me think of a magic lantern show, for each interval of darkness brought a new picture. The tea farms interested us for they were so well cared for. The tea plants were nearly three feet high and resembled a neatly rounded hedge of box- only there were great fields as far as we could see on either side of the train. There were pickers every where in their picturesque head dress- their heads all mound up in white with an inverted basket hat on them. The fruit trees had their boughs all held up by arbors extending along the entire length of the rows, and presented a very neat appearance. We are having the most delicious peaches, apples, and summer oranges. The last named fruit resembles a grape fruit somewhat – only not quite so bitter. We very often buy them when on the train for they quench one's thirst very well. At Nara were so many beauties. The road in the park was lined with huge cryptomerias and the grassy lawns were everywhere the feeding places for scores of deer. The pretty creatures were so tame that we fed them- I had fifteen about my kuruma at one time. In the lake we saw dozens of tortoises sunning on the rocks and the usual giant gold fishes fighting like pigs for the food thrown to them. There were hundreds of stone lanterns lining the roads to the temples. We visited several of the temples and saw the 'dancing girls' but did not see them dance. We went to see the great "Daibutsu" the largest image of heathendom in Japan. It was so surrounded by scaffolding that it was rather hard to really see it. They have most ingeniously planned to get money from travelers. They get the people for a small consideration- to write their names on the tiles before they are baked. We saw hundreds of them- among them the name of Burton Holmes. We did not indulge. We ate our lunch on the grass under the trees beside one of the picturesque little lakes. Then we went to see the queer twisted tree composed of six different kinds of trees. On it were hundreds of little twisted pieces of white tissue paper- each a wish which is supposed to be sure to come true. There we saw the wonderful trained trees, pine and cherry, where the limbs must be nearly a hundred feet long, propped up clear to the ends. We see these trees everywhere- carefully propped. We went to the great bell and our kurum-ia rung it for us. None of the bells here are rung by a tongue but by a huge stick striking the outside near the rim. The tone that came was beautiful but nearly knocked us over with its volume. It vibrated for more than ten minutes. Later we heard it at a distance and one can never describe the quality of the music. The bell must be over ten feet high and nearly a foot thick. It weighs many tons.

Thursday we spent going through the Nijo Castle, which was the residence of the Shaguno until the present regime. If the Mikado's palace was simple here we saw how elegantly his rulers lived. The gold- which is real gold leaf- of the screens made the castle very rich in appearance. And the paintings and coffered ceilings were extravagantly beautiful. It is wonderful how the artist was able to paint such tigers when he probably had never seen one. There are several very famous pictures here- the one I enjoyed the most was the sleeping sparrows.

On Friday we went to the shops. They were even more fascinating than the castles. Such beauty, such costly things and such quantities, I never saw before! It was embarrassing to us because we could not purchase but the clerks were extremely polite in showing us about. If we stopped to purchase, a cup of tea and little cakes were immediately brought. We feel almost surfeited with beauty, the shops are so full of it.

Must close now and will write more later.

Lovingly-

Flora Beard.

Kuliang, Foochow. China July 19- '08

Dear Folks at Home:-

I am sending you a letter from Flora. She is evidently having a good time. The weather is cooler in Japan than they found it in Formosa. This year is exceptionally hot in Foochow. Since July 1st the ther. has reached 90 degrees sometime everyday in Foochow. It has risen to 100 degrees in some of the offices. We never knew it so hot here on Kuliang. A week ago yesterday I walked down the mountain, rode across the plain, brought 80 lbs. of peaches, had four men to peel and preserve them- worked all the time in our house down there, attended a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. 5-7 p.m. and then came to the mountain arriving at 11 p.m. It was a perfect evening- with a big moon and the trip was much pleasanter than in the hot sun.

I have had a whole week here now. Marjorie is all right again- but she is much thinner than before her fever. Dorothy was in bed two days last week with fever and diarrhea but she is all right now. The children greatly enjoy the bathing pool. I went over four mornings last week before breakfast. Gould is getting to be quite a swimmer, and Phebe can swim 30 or 40 feet. Geraldine says she can swim two feet. Gould takes the whole care of his pony, and this is a good thing for him because it gives him regular work. The roads are so full of steps that riding is not much fun.

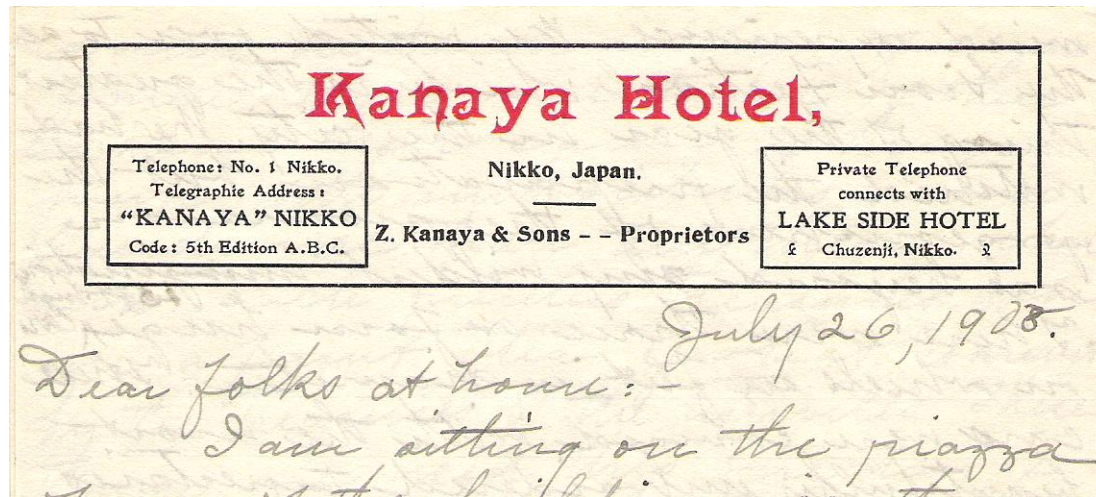

The weather has been superb for over two weeks- not a drop of rain and a beautiful moon each night. Friday night we had a slight shower- yesterday another. Last night it drizzled much and today we have had a good hard rain that must have wet down thru. In some parts of the province crops are burned up. Just here the rains will save them.

Tomorrow I act as Pres. of the Fukien Sun. Sch. Union at its meeting and also on Tues. a.m. when I am to conduct a Bible Class as a kind of model.

All the children are sound asleep. Ellen is reading. All send love. Will.

Kanaya Hotel.
Nikko, Japan

July 26, 1908.

Dear folks at home:-

I am sitting on the piazza of one of the buildings in the group of temples at Nikko. We are in the shadows of an immense grove of huge Cryptomerias. It is after 4 P.M. so all is closed up and it is as quiet and secluded as in a front of a home with the birds calling and singing. It had been an ideal day for the beauties of Nikko. The red lacquer and the colors of the gay paintings have stood out their very brightest, and the sunlight through the openings of the foliage has been beautiful to see.

It has been over a week since I have had leisure to write so I will go back to where I left off at Kyoto. I think I told you about going to Nara and Lake Biwa with that interesting trip through the canal in the tunnel- a most weird experience. We waited over to see the Gion Festival which is the greatest thing of the year in the city. We had watched the preparations but the gorgeousness of the procession was beyond my wildest imagination. There were three or four huge 15 ft. high cars on wheels six feet in diameter. These cars were covered with the most beautifully embroidered tapestries with great silk tassels dangling at each corner. There must have been two dozen people in each one. The first one held three children, the middle one supposed to be a queen of the olden time. From time to time she went through some automatic actions as though giving to the crowd below. She looked for all the world like an image when she sat still. Two men, each holding a fan, and holding on to a tassel were singing and acting with the fans, while this ponderous vehicle was being dragged by sixty or eighty men and boys. In between the lines of the propellers walked dozens of men dressed in costumes antique. In between these high cars would come some shrine carried on the shoulders of dozens of men. There were twelve of these cars and then came a huge junk with embroideries more handsome than anything we had seen. Such priceless treasures gave on a faint idea of what is meant by the treasures of the temples. These things are used this one day of each year and then put back in their resting places for the 17th of July of the next year. In the afternoon we saw the other part of the procession which consisted of men dressed up in ancient warrior's suits of mail. They walked as though they were much encumbered. There were several floats (we would call them) illustrating some phase of ancient life, but the most interesting part of it all were the shrines, in which may have been some gods. These were carried on huge beams and cross beams so arranged that eighty men could help in carrying it. These men were bobbing their heads and shouting some lingo that helped them to keep in step. They acted like mad. Behind marched a relief squad shouting in the same insane way. The streets were all trimmed in lanterns and awnings and every one was out in his gayest colored kimono. The children were especially bright. They looked like gay butterflies with their long sleeves fluttering in the wind.

The next morning we left for Gotemba where we were to spend Sunday with a friend of Miss Hall's. We reached there after dark and had a long walk out to her house. When we waked up next morning there was Fuji with the clouds rolling away from that beautiful crest. We sat at the breakfast table and feasted our eyes on the sublimity before us. By the time we were ready to go the church you would never have guessed that Fuji was within a hundred miles of us, for the clouds left only the gracefully sloping base in sight. After church I went home with Miss Moore, (who was my cabin room-mate on the 'Siberia') and had tiffin. At 3:30 P.M. we had tea with Mrs. Hill whom I had met at Shimoniseki. Then it was time for church again and a walk home to Miss Hall's friends. The next morning Miss Brown, Miss Stowe and I started for a walking trip through the Hakone district. We had a guide (or rather a coolie who acted as a guide) and started at 8 A.M. It was all the way up of course but when ever we wished to halt for a rest there was Fuji in all his glory to gaze at- for this morning there was not a cloud anywhere near. We saw all the gracefulness of the curves of outline and the beautiful slope of the base as it spreads out over the vast plain. It is the only sight I have seen in Japan that has reached the sublime, and I have seen Nikko! Before we reached the top the clouds had rolled over but from the crest of the ridge we saw the beautiful Hakone Lake. I can't tell you of all its beauties but it was not unlike the Scotch lakes. We had quite a scramble down on the other side and then a long walk across the lowlands to the lakeside. We walked through an iris field which [was] beautiful. They were just the wild ones but the variety of shades made a pretty sight. We halted at a little tea house on the side of the lake and ate our lunch. Then we took a boat across the lake, or rather the whole length of it, to our hotel just in the edge of the town of Hakone. The next morning we had the rare pleasure of seeing the reflection of Fuji in the lake and we felt fortunate indeed. It lasted only about an hour for the clouds again came over and that was the last of Fuji for me. We started out again with a guide to walk over the Myanoshita and had an interesting time between scenery and shrines and shops until we reached Kozu by the sea where I left my companions and went on to Yokohama. It was so good to find mama's letters for it had been a month since I had heard from either you or Will. On Thursday Miss Hall, Miss Carpenter (an artist whom we met in Kyoto) and I came up here. It was raining hard- but that is Nikko weather. We finally got settled all three in one large room having five windows and on the ground floor. On Friday we donned water proofs and with rubbers and umbrellas started for the temples. The first sight which met our eyes was the sacred bridge of red and black lacquer and gold trimmings. Then a ten minute walk under an arch of cryptomenias brought us to the first gage. If I were to describe each in detail you would be in a maze of similar words so I'll only say that for richness of color, large amounts of gold, and beauty of setting, the world cannot equal what is to be seen here.

The next day we took jinrickshas and two men each to go over the mountains to Chuzenji- a beautiful lake high up in the mountains. It was a beautiful ride- much of the time right over the middle of the river bed, where a road had been made by filling in the piled up rocks with sand. We often had to cross bridges over roaring waters and the views were often very pretty. The clouds were moving about the mountain tips but would never go away. There was just enough sprinkle to keep us comfortably cool. Just a few minutes before we reached the lake we made a little detour and saw a beautiful waterfall which made a leap of 250 ft. into the valley below. It was one of the most beautiful falls I have ever seen. When we reached the lake the sun came out in all its glory and the clouds kindly fled so that we saw every tree and mountain in the landscape. After eating our lunch by the side of the water in a little teahouse we started on the descent and reach the hotel a little before 6 P.M. To-day has been Sunday and we have been enjoying the cool and calm of these magnificent cryptomerias. It has been good to get out of the frivolity of the hotel verandas into the quiet of nature.

To-morrow, we go to Tokio where we expect to stay until Friday when we shall go up to Karuizawa for the month of August. We are going to be with Mrs. Fisher, 23 North, Karuizawa. Her husband is in the Y.M.C.A. work in Tokio and we count ourselves very fortunate to get into a private family where we are to be the only guests.

Will write again when I reach Karuizawa. I hope Aunt Louise is very much better. Give her my love and tell her that I am only waiting till we get settled to answer her letter.

With love to everyone-

Flora Beard.

Aug. 2, 1908.

Dear Aunt Louise:-

When you wrote your letter there was snow on the ground and now the only place it can be found here is on the top of Fuji. We saw several streaks of it still remaining in July. We-Miss Hall and myself- have been spending the month of July travelling the length of Japan and seeing a few things. Fortunately for us the weather was propitious and so we saw much more than July usually allows people to do. It is only this last week that has been hot. We had intended to go to Tokyo but gave it up till later. We have still some shopping to do, for I am getting my trousseau for coming home. Yesterday I received a letter with such a fine offer that I feel like writing and saying I'll come home next summer anyway. I really am not sure of pupils enough to warrant more than this coming winter. I would like to stay one more year and see Northern China, but time will determine what I am to do. We have been having great experiences. Neither of us knows a word of Japanese but we have always managed to get out of our scrapes gracefully, but I imagine the Japanese have had more than one laugh over those two American women. It is very queer to feel one's self watched and registered every where. We had not left China when an official came and got our statistics and on every occasion possible we have been asked for them. It was queer to have a train conductor take out his paper read it over and nodded his head to himself that everything was right. One day we were following a friend's written directions to find a certain house in Hiroshima. We made one mistake but everything else tallied even to the Japanese house with white curtains for which we were looking. But when we went to the door we found the contents of the house were not the people we wanted to find. With a move of his hand the gentleman made us understand that we were to go in another direction, which we did and found the right place. We saw our friends at tiffin so we thought we would walk down the street a ways, and not disturb their eating. At the end of the street we decided it was too uninteresting and were just turning back when we discovered a white suited policeman following us. He made us understand that the place we wanted was back a ways, so we could not get lost in Japan if we wanted.

I wish you were here to go shopping with me. You would wish you had a million dollars, things are so pretty. We have seen so many beautiful things but they were all miles beyond our modest purses. We have bought lots of little things which will be very lovely when we get away from Japan.

Our veranda looks right over to a living volcano which gives us daily exhibitions. The night we arrived its top was all aglow and the smoke arising and curling off is a beautiful sight. Just now we hear the roar of its seething- a noise something like an engine letting off steam. We expect to climb it in a week or two. Parties go up every week. We saw Fuji in all its grandeur – a most sublime peak, rising majestically out of an immense plain, all isolated. Several of my friends have been to its top but I shall not attempt it this time.

We shall stay here in Karuizawa until the First of September, when I suppose we will have to turn our faces back to China. There are about a thousand people here, nearly all of whom are missionaries. There is lots going on but I am not trying to be in the services.

I hope you will get the time to write to me very soon. I have been so sorry to hear of your illness and hope you are long ere this quite well again. I wish you could come out here and see the sights for I am sure they would lure you. Lovingly- Flora.

Dear Folks at Home:-

I am sending two letters from Flora that have recently come. She seems to be having a good time. She is very fortunate to get into Mr. Fisher's family. He is the National Gen'l Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. for Japan, and a very nice man. I sent your last letters to Flora.

Thus far the weather is delightful. Not one rainy day since we came to the mountain. But it makes one's heart bleed to see rice fields with cracks 1 in. wide in them and the rice all dead, and the potatoe fields hard and dry and the vines withered. Sat. we had a nice shower that did some good but we need ten like it.

Yesterday we closed the Convention in English, and the Chinese Convention began. We had a very good convention. The spirit was good. I attended all the meetings but one. That one I omitted to get a rest and Phebe, Gould, Geraldine and I walked to Kushan top- starting at 8:15 and getting back at 12:30. It is about 4 miles up there and you see a long distance.

Bathing is still very interesting. The four older children go in every day and the three older ones are swimming nicely. I get my bath and swim before breakfast. Tennis will be the rage for the rest of the season. Kuliang is full yesterday. The chapel would hardly hold the audience- either Chinese or foreigners.

I'm going to put this into the morning mail. I may write again before night of the arrival of a new member to our house. It is now 9 o'clock [a.m.]. The news may get to you on the same mail as this.

All are well and all send love.

Will.

P.S. Marjorie went to church Thursday p.m. when I spoke,- at her own request and on her own promise "No, no talk, No no ky [baby talk for cry]." She was very good, and again yesterday she did the same.

Dear folks at home:-

It is raining so I am improving the opportunity to get to the bottom of my letters 'due'. I have been looking for a letter from you- but in vain. I expect it is the old tale of the busy summer and I must be patient till the fall. I found your letter waiting for me at Yokohama and was glad to have it but I want another now. We have been in Karuizawa now for two weeks and we have taken great strides in getting rested. We've done little except eat, sleep, and walk. I have written nearly two dozen letters so I am getting my pigeon-hole nearly empty, and I hope my friends will take a new lease in believing in me.

I had a letter from Miss David in East Berlin, telling of the death of her sister, Mrs. Heald, early in May. I was really glad to hear it for she has been such a care to her friends and Miss David could not care for her personally, so it was torture to her to see her sister in such a bad state. Her mind was really gone.

A letter from Hattie Wildrun told of her visiting in Shelton and seeing Helen at the Library. She said that Mr. Maine (the man who came to our house to hire me for E. Berlin) is dead. Miss Maine is still living-with her sister in Middletown, Conn. They had all moved to Middletown and rented their house in E. Berlin.

We did some mountain climbing the other day and I met more than my equal so I prudently stopped. All the climbs about here are very steep and just wind a person in no time. This day we went by train down through the 26 tunnels that we have to pass through to get down from on high perch. We walked about 3 miles to a tea house at the foot of the climb and halted for our lunch. At 1 P.M. we started around two or three peaks to the one we were in search of. Then came some real rough climbing up to another tea house where we drank tea, rested, and enjoyed the wonderful panorama below and above us. The real climbing began soon. We wound about and up and came to a huge natural arch of rock over a hundred feet high. We passed one and scrambled up over a large rock and finally came to the second natural arch. In order to go through that and to climb on to the top of the crags one had to scale rocks holding on to chains. I was foolish enough to be afraid, and for fear I should keep some one back I did not go any farther. It was very exciting and the view from the top was worth the trouble so every one said. I had walk[ed] enough as it was and have been nursing blisters and lame muscles ever since. We are booked to climb Asama on Friday night of this week, so I am doctoring my sore places for all I am worth. We take horses for the 12 miles to the foot of the volcano- starting late in the afternoon. It is moonlight, and with our lanterns we shall escape the heat of the sun and still have light to see. We go up at night in order to see the glow from the fire in the crater, and to see the beauties of the rising sun. We shall get home about noon on Saturday.

This will be the last big climb I shall attempt here. I have worn my stockings to nothing and my shoes are in worse condition than I ever wore any before. I wish some of you would get a half dozen pairs of black stockings at Howard and Barber's (the 25 cent quality) and send them by mail (parcel post) to me. I am just at the bottom of the dozen that came in my box. One half dozen lasted me hardly a week a pair. The three months in the box seemed to have rotted them. The others have gone with this summer's hard wear. Did I tell you I had received the brown stockings safely?

I will write again in a few days, so hoping you are all keeping well, I am,
Yours lovingly- Flora Beard.

Aug. 11- 1908

Dear Folks at Home:-

Yesterday morning I mailed a letter to you containing two from Flora, and saying I might write again soon. At 1:15 p.m. Miss Kathleen appeared on the stage and sang an original composition which we were all sure had never been produced in the world before. Her musical powers called forth many favorable comments from the audience. She is a fine strong baby. After she was washed and dressed she took refreshments and went to sleep. That has been her occupation even since. It is now 9 a.m. At 5 she awoke but took only a lunch and has slept since. Ellen is resting nicely, and all is as well as we can desire.

Kathleen is one name decided on. The children want another name. She was about three hours hold when the mail came in and we read the sad news of Aunt Louise's death. [Phebe Louise Nichols, sister of Willard's mother, Nancy Maria Nichols died July 3, 1908 of kidney cancer and shock according to the death certificate. She had not been feeling well for 6 months.] It affected me much. She was much like an elder sister to me- more like a sister than an Aunt. I have noticed in the letters from time to time something that indicated to me that she was not happy. This may have been due largely to her physical condition. But since Grandmother went she really has had no one thing to serve as an absorbing aim in life, and I wonder if this did not have something to do with her health. I wrote her some two or three months ago. I wonder if she received it.

To get this in the mail today I must close now.

With Love to all

Will

Dear Emma and all the People:-

Phebe has told you most of the news. Ellen is getting on finely. Today Kathleen is 13 days old. Ellen was dressed and sat on the veranda just outside the veranda door in the rocker and ate dinner. Kathleen continues a very proper baby. She just sleeps and eats. Thus far we have not been up at all at night with her. The other children think it a very great privilege to see her bathed. I usually do this just before going to bed myself but as I was away last night and she did not get her bath, I gave her the bath just after prayers and the children were all there. How they beg to hold her "with only her little shirt on."

For our little foreign Sunday School we want some lesson cards for the infant class, - such as Miss Brown used to teach. I wonder if they ever have any left over. We want 5, and if they were old ones it would be all right. If they have them could you ask them to send by mail to me enough for one quarter- I'll pay for them. If they do not have them could you order 5 sets for one quarter. Send to me. I enclose a check for $1.00. I do not know the cost nor the address.

I shall be be watch[ing] with interest to see where Willis [Willis Hume, husband of Etta Kinney] goes next.

This has been a very busy summer on the mountain for me, and a busier time is coming. I was glad you and father [father Kinney] and Elbert got off for a few days to the shore. I judge it has been very hot in the U.S. this year.

All send love to all

Dear Mother – and all at Home:-

Phebe has given you the important news, i.e. that Ellen and Kathleen are doing perfectly to date. Ellen sat on the veranda in the rocker just outside the dining room door and ate dinner with us this morn. A rainy week has put an end to the drought- and now it is clear again. Tennis has had to hold up for a whole week. But the bath is improved. We did not change the water-except as it was changed by the little stream that ran thru,- for three weeks. The well ran clean dry the very day before the rain fell.

Next Thursday evening I give an account of world wide Y.M.C.A. before a literacy circle here on Kuliang. The next week begins the Summer Conf. and Lacy and Grout will be coming for the Gov't college and work will begin in earnest altho I do not see where the hold up has come this summer.

[Before Sept. 5, 1908]

Dear folks at home:-

Mama's letter and Phebe's came yesterday. Both of them are most mysterious. The only fact that I know is that Aunt Louise is gone- when, where, and what the trouble was, I shall probably have to wait to find out until I get to China. If you could only have sent the letter to me it would have delayed the reaching China not more than four days. As it is I wait four weeks to know the rest of the news. What does mama mean about "Walker", his "confession" and "long wait"?

We have a week more here before we start for home. We are both feeling about ready to go. This month here has done a lot for us in the way of rest. We took our last long walk last week, when we climbed the Volcano Asama. It was a most interesting trip. We left the house here at 7 P.M. A hard thunder shower was coming up, so that the night was about as black as it could be-between the flashes. We had horses to take us over the ten miles to the spot where the real climb begins. It was a weird spectacle to see the bobbing Japanese lanterns and the faint outlines of horses, men, and occasionally a tree or hill, and then to have all as plain as day when the flashes of lightening came. We were going away from the shower so we did not fear rain and besides the moon was due to rise soon. We reached the end of the horseback ride at 11 P.M. and there we halted until our lunches and maps came up. Then the rain began to fall exactly as it does at home when it starts in for a settled affair. It stopped, though, by the time we wanted to start on, so aside from getting our skirts wet, we did not suffer from it. By this time the moon had struggled through the clouds and we had plenty of light for the long climb. It was one of the steepest climbs I ever took. After the first mile we had no bushes- the path was up through ashes. It was a good hard one so there was very little slipping, and we had to rest very frequently. It was after 4 A.M. when we got clear to the top ready to look down into the crater. The last climb was the worst, through soft wet ashes and stones as large as my head.

It was the greatest sight I ever saw looking into that great hole with the fire roaring up like a million blast furnaces. The men tried to throw stones into the center of the fire but it was too far for them to succeed. It is over 2,000 ft. down to the fire. Fortunately the wind did not blow the fumes over our way. Sometimes the people have to just be face down in order to escape being smothered by the sulphur fumes. It is impossible to keep silver bright here. Well, we watched the sun rise over the billowy clouds below us, ate our breakfast, and then started down. We had a lovely morning to go home in and reached our house about 11:30 A.M. After a good hot bath and a dinner we went to bed. It did not take long for us to get to sleep.

Yesterday we had quite a unique wedding here. The people married were English and neither had ever seen a wedding. She had just arrived and they had had to wait three weeks- according to the law in English consulates here in the East- before they could get married. The young people here trimmed the church very prettily and lots of people went. The bridegroom was introduced to his best man in the morning of his wedding day, and there was no rehearsal, so it was quite impromptu. After the wedding party were in place in front of the minister he gave out a hymn and we all sang then he began the ceremony. It didn't take long and then the happy couple walked down the aisle and took their jinrickshaws back to a friend's house where a wedding dinner was served.

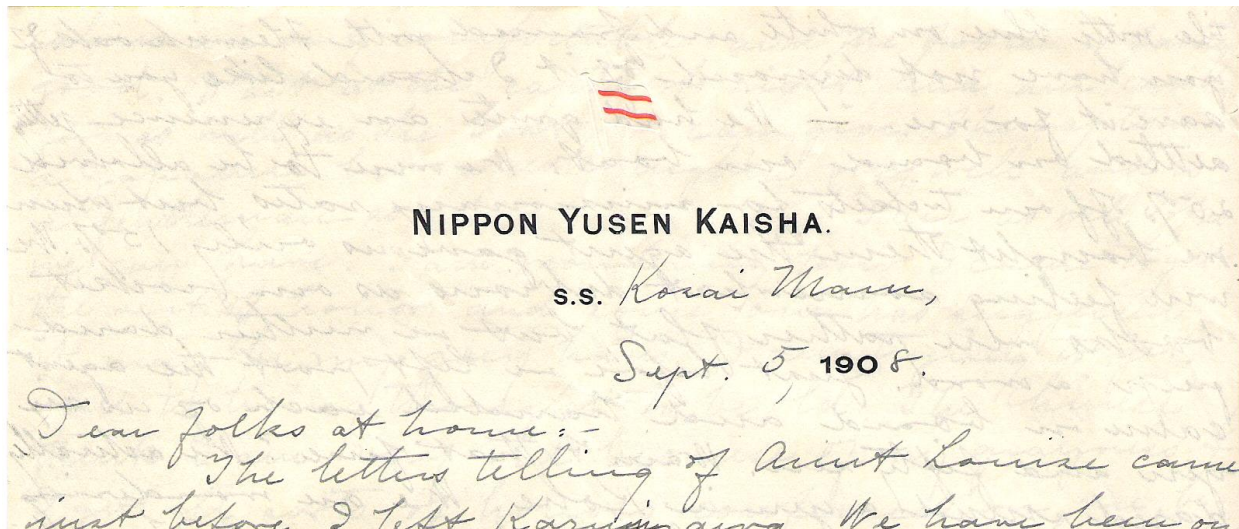

Tell Mary that the Miss Petter is a sister to Betty Petter that she knew in college. She and her father and mother are expected here to-day. She teaches in the Kobe College and expects to go home next summer to be married. Betty Petter is teaching in Nutley, N.J. - Think I shall probably write once more before I leave Japan. We expect to get back to Foochow about Sept. 15th.

With love to all-

Flora.

I shall wait anxiously to hear about Aunt Louise. I can't imagine what you mean. You can't think how hard such things are here. It came so unexpectedly that I can not make myself believe the truth. You write as though I knew everything and I know nothing. - F.B.
