of Wei Hsien our children have their happiest memories with able and vigorous Frau Netz, with the boys home from Chefoo organizing at play "The Cadwalleders" and "The Bloody Triangle". There also was many a meeting of the Mission, of the University Board of Managers; where the American ladies tried to learn to make tea so our English friends could really enjoy their inevitable afternoon cup, and where we ~~brought~~ taught our English friends to eat ice cream with some degree of reality. At Wei Hsien the Presbytery often met and many student summer conferences were held; where once came Pastor Ding Li-mei and, with unprecedented response to his appeal, a spontaneous revival for the ministry broke out, which ended in the formation of a National Student Volunteer Movement for China. From Wei Hsien many young and highly equipped pastors and teachers were sent to far distant places such as Hunan Province, the Island of Hainan and the Home Mission to Yun-nan Province. These, and many other items have been a part of the great work centering at Wei Hsian.

In this new day we may not be able to prophecy what the future may be, least of all we who are so far away and unable to share with you in the privilege of being in China in this great period of transformation. These are difficult days; such periods of change have always tried men's souls and will continue to do so. One thing is secure--the great fifty-year work at Wei Hsien. That abides and cannot be taken away. Its influences are still working in many parts of China, often in
