NEW YORK UNIT OF THE CHINESE STUDENTS' CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

January 21, 1936

Dear Friends of the C.S.C.A.:

Greetings from the New York Unit of the Chinese Students' Christian Association! Again we are cordially inviting you to attend a Chinese New Year's Gathering and Dinner at the Riverside Church (use Claremont Avenue entrance) on Friday, February the seventh, at six-thirty o'clock.

We know that many of our American friends are interested in Chinese cooking, so our Chinese members will give us a Chinese dinner. After dinner there will follow a special program, including a tableau of a Chinese tradition, such as a New Year's celebration. Dr. J. L. Stuart, President of Yenching University, will also speak. Other Chinese members will sit with their friends at the dinner and comradely use chopsticks if they so desire.

We do hope that our members and friends will come not only to enjoy the dinner but also to join in the program with some anecdotes.

We are enclosing ~~two~~^{one} tickets and ask that reservations be made in advance so we may know how many to expect. ~~The subscription is one dollar, and checks are made payable to Miss Kwei Tsai, our Treasurer.~~

Cordially yours,

The New York Unit

We hope that you will accept their nomination.

As you will see from the enclosed pink sheet, we are counting on having the pleasure of your presence at our February 7th dinner.

JLS - Feb. 7 - Chinese Students
1936 Christian Association

In speaking to a group of Chinese students so far away from your native land, there seems to be only one fitting topic and that is the anxiety I share with you over the threats of military aggression in North China and the enforced political changes in that region. How serious a ^{menace} ~~threat~~ this is to the integrity and national welfare of China, you are fully aware. Instead, therefore, of discussing the issue as such, I should prefer to lift it above the plane of the concrete ^{antagonisms} between Japan and China, and ask you to think of it in its deeper significance. This as it seems to me, is a struggle between material or military force and ^{certain} other ^{will} ~~must~~ ^{will} in the end prove even more potent. (1) The first, and by far the most important, of these is the rising tide of Chinese national consciousness. There are many evidences of this, but I shall select three in which I have been especially interested. The ^{first}

→ ~~LAST~~ of these is the extremely significant fact that despite all forms of inducement or intimidation, none of the leading men in the present government has succumbed to the persistent efforts to persuade them to undertake movements of ^{secession} ~~cessation~~ from the Central Government. In contrast with many of the ^{venal} ~~venal~~ Mandarins of the past, this indicates a growing patriotism and a sense of ^{public} ~~growing~~ responsibility which will be a strong factor in preserving international ^l ~~national~~ unity. The

The ~~second~~ ^{second} indication is in the wide spread and passionately earnest student protests against recent interference with China's internal affairs and the appeal ^{to} of the Central Government to resist such encroachment. The heroism, the hardships endured and the determination to exert their influence to the utmost, spring from a powerful and spontaneous patriotic ^{purpose.} soundness. The students can be regarded as registering typical Chinese attitudes, as other classes of the people also become aware of what is involved, and in themselves ^{They constitute} a source of latent potentialities for all such internal reforms, and ^{such} preparation for national defences as ^{will be} they are needed. The

The ^{third} ~~THIRD~~ form in which the new national ^{consciousness} effort is expressing itself is in the ^{new} interest, (especially among the intellectuals), in rural reconstruction. The plans now being put into effect in various aspects of rural progressive measures, and the ^{about attention} active addition to these, are thoroughly constructive in aim and patriotic in origin. ^{R(2)} Another source of spiritual influence ~~influence~~ lies in the international idealism in the West which at present seems dead but is only dormant.

The ^{mood} ~~mode~~ of ~~our~~ racial isolationism in America, and ~~of~~ the conditions now prevailing in Europe, will not prevent renewed efforts to find some method of attaining collective security, restraining irresponsible military conquest and putting an end to war as an instrument of national policy. ^{#3} Let us not forget that public opinion in Japan has at present no chance to become articulate and ^{that} there is an influential liberal sentiment which shares in these higher ideas of international relationships, and which seeks friendly co-operation between China and Japan, rather than the use of military coercion. Through such processes as these, and others which will suggest themselves to your own minds, the Christian spirit can express itself and be a powerful stimulus. Christian faith and active effort can unite those in all countries who seek a better world, in opposition to a group, in any one nation, which relies on scientific instruments of slaughter for national aggrandizement.

Under these conditions, one of the most useful contributions of such a Christian group as is gathered here this evening, lies in the cultivation of hope. I do not mean mere optimism based on various factors which aid China in her present danger, but the sort of hope that is religious both in origin and outlook, resting on a belief in the supremacy of right and justice in a world which can draw on the spiritual reality at the heart of the universe as revealed in the life and teachings of Jesus. Such faith ^{expressed} ~~produced~~ in human forms of service and sacrifice, which when once sufficiently aroused, will prove ^{invincible} invulnerable against any merely military power.

All of us certainly enjoyed your inspiring talk last Friday night. We realize that such an important situation created by the Japanese in North China must be realized, and all the Chinese people, including our fellow students abroad should take special action as to how to save such a situation.

As you have noticed in our January issue of the Chinese Christian Student, we have your Board of Trustees' announcement that Yenching University should be kept in Peiping under any political circumstances, and also the cartoon on the third page on account of concentration, which portrays something on the Japanese aggression in North China.

It was the action of our last Central Executive Board that we should pay special attention to publish more of the facts of what is going on in China regarding our neighbor's actions. So, we wish very much that you will be able to send us a digest of your talk on Friday night for our coming issue of the Bulletin. We will go to press this weekend, and hope that you will find it possible to give us a resume.

On behalf of the officers of the New York Unit of the Chinese Students' Christian Association we want to thank you very much for your fine talk to our members and friends last Friday.

My wife wants to ask whether you will be able to take lunch or dinner with us this coming weekend. Please let us know at your earliest convenience, for we would like to invite some other friends also. Our

Explanations

Marking system of Yenching University:

Letter	Grade	Merit Value
E	Excellent	2.0
G	Good	1.5
M	Medium	1.0
P	Passing	0.5
F	Failure	0.0

Grade Ratio of a semester's work, of a year's work, or of several years' work, is computed by dividing the total number of Merit points obtained by the total number of credits obtained by the student. In the case of students who enter the advanced standing, their work in former institutions may be given credit, but such accepted Advanced Credits will not be used in the computation of the General Grade Ratio.

Status: Students whose General Grade Ratio is 1.00 or above are in good standing. Only students who are in good standing are allowed to graduate. Students whose Annual Grade Ratio falls below 0.80 or falls below 1.00 for two consecutive years are dismissed on account of poor work.

Credit hour in this College is 50 minutes of class work per week throughout a semester of 18 weeks requiring about 2 hours of outside preparation. Three hours per week of Laboratory, Praticum, or Field work, throughout a semester is equal to one credit hour. The classification of students is based on the following table:

Classification	Credits
Sophomore	32-67
Junior	68-101
Senior	102-135
For Graduation	136

To the President,
University of Wisconsin,
Wisconsin,
U.S.A.

Sir:

I take great pleasure in supporting the application of Mr. I. Lai Cho for admission into the Graduate School of Wisconsin University. Mr. Cho has been with us for almost four years, during which he has always done faithful work, as can be evidenced by the fact that he was the recipient of the highest grade in many courses. Upon his graduation from Yenching University this June, he expects to pursue higher studies abroad. I am sure he will prove himself to be worthy of the name of a Wisconsin student if given the chance.

Yours very truly,
