Memorandum on the Harvard-Yenching Institute Library at Yenching University

TO: Dr. Eric North
Mr. B.A.Garside
Professor J.Leighton Stuart
Mr.Kiem Ma
Mr. T.H.Tien

50,000
From the account of the Treasurer's Office in New York I have found that for the period January-June 1927 the Harvard-Yenching Institute had granted the Harvard-Yenching Institute Library at Yenching University M$25000. Another grant of M$25000 was made for the period 1927-8. This total of M$50000 had all been sent out from New York to Peking.

On the budget of the Harvard-Yenching Institute for the year 1928-9 I have found there is a grant for 1928-9 of G$15000, for the Institute Library at Yenching. I understand however that of this amount only some G$4000 was sent out to Peking recently, in answer to a cable request from Yenching for more money. I also understand that the trustees of Harvard-Yenching Institute had not yet received the full income for the present year, therefore there is a counsel for caution, and it would be worth while for the Library Committee not to spend this $15000 until the money is actually in their hands.

When I learned of the cable request for more money for the Harvard-Yenching Institute Library I was rather startled. I did not see how we could have spent so soon all of the M$50000 already sent to Peking during the past two years, unless some unusually big purchase had been made since my departure from Peking in July. If there has been some unusual collection bought, I should appreciate it if either Mr. Ma or Mr. Tien would inform me about it. I think that in my discussion with the Harvard group this information will be of some value.

Before my departure from Peking there had been some discussion as to the possibility of having a good Harvard-Yenching Institute Library bookplate made in America. There was also some discussion on the desirability of buying a photostatic machine for the Harvard-Yenching Institute Library at Yenching. Recent conversations with Professors Porter and Von Staehl Holstein seem to strengthen this point. Professor Von Staehl Holstein especially feels that when he returns to Peking he will have frequent need for such a machine. If the bookplate is to be made and the machine is to be bought, naturally the charges are to be made on the Harvard-Yenching Institute Library fund. But I hesitate to go ahead without formal action by the present University Library Committee. Therefore if you think it worth while to do so I would suggest that formal action be asked by the Committee authorizing me to go ahead, at the same time authorizing the New York Office to pay the bills. If in a cablegram from Peking such words can be inserted as: "Hung Bookplate machine" I shall understand that I have the formal authorization to proceed.

from this office on this account, which cover for the period since July 1st, sixteen pages in our ledger. We assume that a report of this kind would be of no particular value to Dr. North or to the Trustees of the Harvard-Yenching Institute, and so will not impose it upon them. I will try to discuss with the Chairman of the Library Committee the possibility of a systematic ~~report~~ report as to the use of these funds, and it may be that something can be supplied. However, from what I know of the purchases, it would certainly be a large task to classify and describe these in any topical plan.

I think that Schedule 9 of the audited accounts supplies all the other information which Dr. North will require. If not, we shall try to supply further details, if you will advise us.

Dear Dr. North:

I have done something for which you may not thank me, but I hope I have not made you a lot of trouble. Professor R. E. Saleski of Bethany College, West Virginia, has written me several times about the possibility of a fellowship for study at Yenching next year. His letters sound as if he were an able man. In the last one he says that if he should not obtain a fellowship it would be a great help if he could get some kind of an appointment at Yenching for a year or more, and asked me about communicating with the authorities of Yenching in this country. I gave him your name, telling him that you would be able to tell him about conditions, at any rate. If you think I acted improperly, please don't hesitate to let me know, and I will not offend again in this particular way.

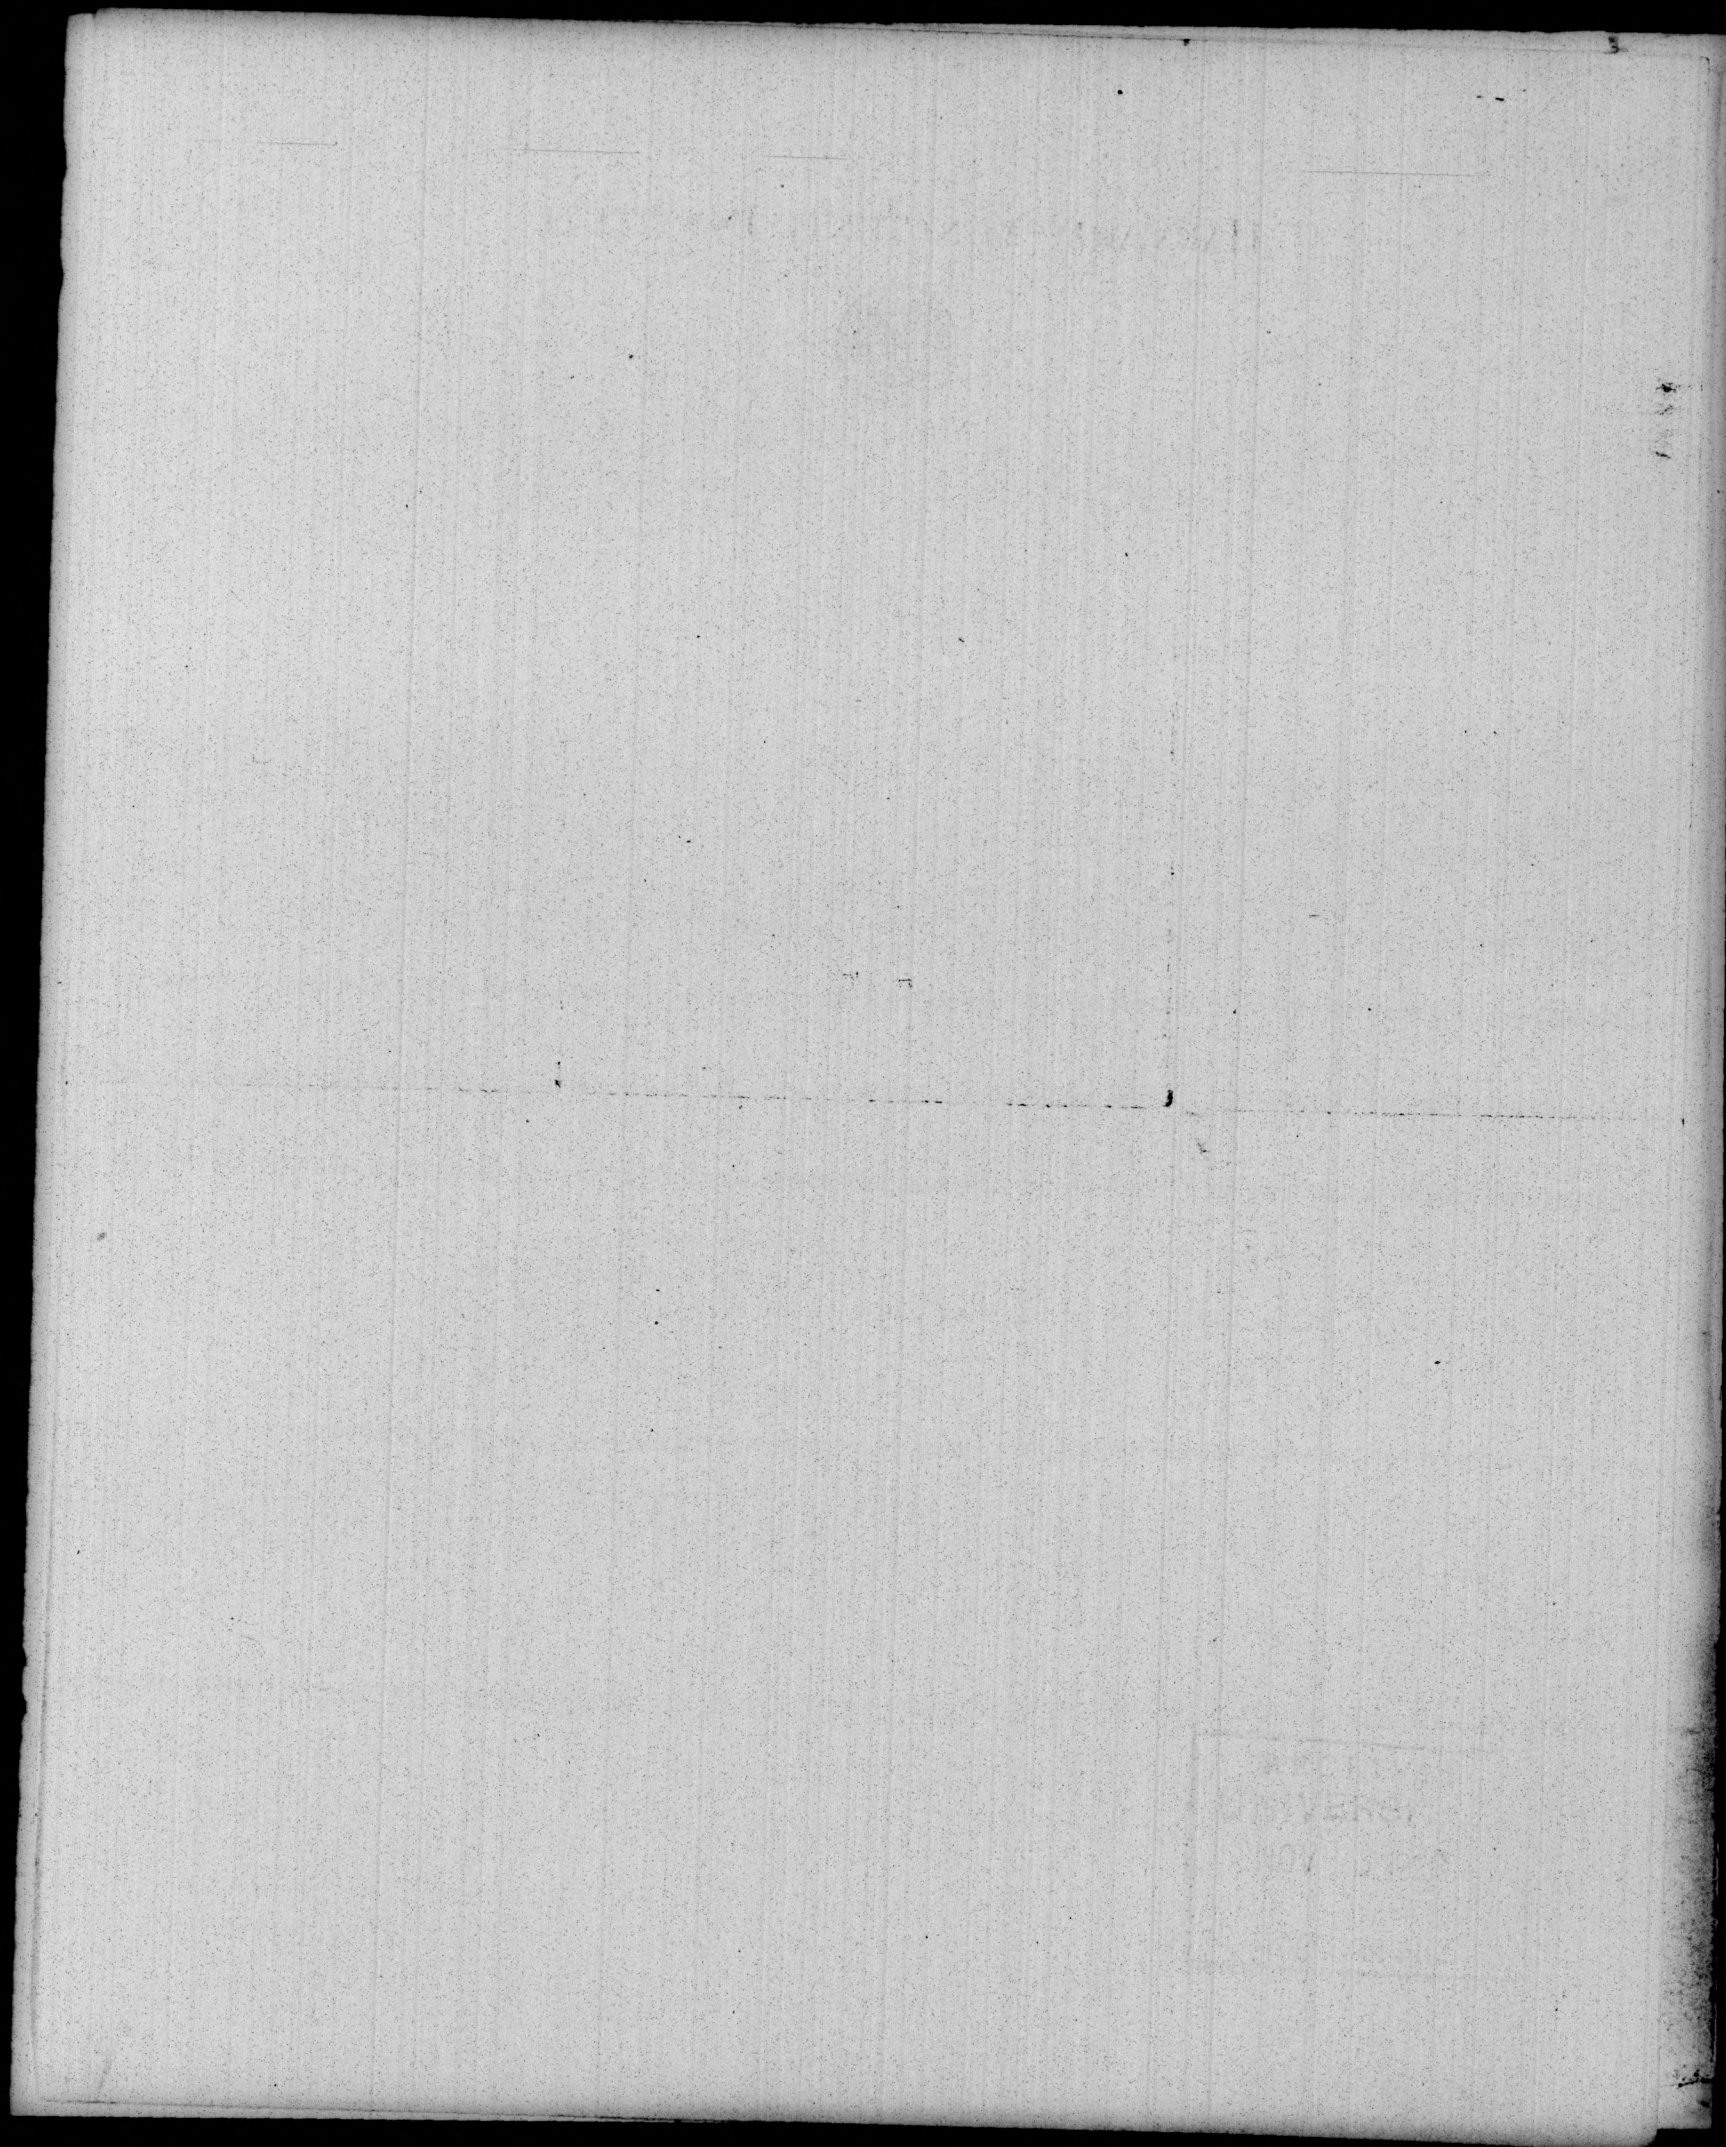

Saleski has an A.B. and an A.M. from Harvard, a Ph.D. from Freiburg in Baden, and has been teaching German, with a little French and Spanish, at the University of Delaware and at Bethany College for ten years. He is an assistant director of the Linguistic Society of America, this last appointment being what especially leads me to believe that he is a man of ability.

I believe that a copy of the attached Minutes of the Meeting of the Trustees of the Harvard Yenching Institute was sent you some weeks ago. So you are already familiar with the actions taken.

As regards the different financial items covered our understanding is as follows:-

- (a) The M $400. from contingent fund for increasing the allowance for Chinese sinologists at Yenching is being disbursed to the Field with the other budget remittances. We sent the first half of this on November 13th and plan to send the remainder about the end of March.
- (b) The M $1000. from the appropriation for Museum Aid on the anthropological expedition to Fukien we understand to be included in the original appropriation for Museum Aid. So nothing new is involved as far as our office is concerned.
- (c) The M $300. for Mr. T. H. Chen we likewise understand to be included in the original appropriation for publication. So no particular note by our office is necessary.
- (d) The payment of the rental item in the budget for 1927-28 in an amount not to exceed M $2,000., from the balance we held on the budgets for the last two years, is an item on which I am writing a separate letter to Dr. Galt. I will see that you are supplied with a copy.

Dear Mr. Garside:

Mr. Johnson has asked me to send to Mr. Davis the data as to the name in which any stock which the Hall Estate might give to the Colleges should be registered, and also the place to which the stock certificates should be sent in the case of each institution. The list which Mr. Johnson has handed me covers the following institutions:

Yenching
Lingnan
West China
Nanking
Fukien
Shantung

I presume that we ought to specify the corporation name as the name under which the stock should be registered, and then give separately the name of the treasurer of the Institution and then the place to which the stock and bonds should be sent. I do not know whether you will wish to have any of this stuff sent to the organizations that safe-keep the securities for us or whether you prefer to get it in your own hands and count it before you turn it over to them. Some of the amount furnished will be in stocks and some probably in Government negotiable bonds which is one reason for being sure of the safety of the matter. If you will give me the information, I should be glad to send it to Mr. Davis as I will not have many more opportunities of forwarding the interests of these Institutions in this quarter.

Herewith we are forwarding to you an extract from a letter from Dr. Galt which concerns the Harvard-Yenching Institute funds. Unless I am mistaken, I believe Mr. Garside, in a recent conference with you, gave you several copies of the "Schedule 9 of the audited accounts" to which Dr. Galt refers in the last paragraph of the excerpt, so that you will have in hand all the facts you need.

Extract from letter from Dr. Howard S. Galt, dated November 30, 1928.

Your letter of October 24th.

This letter is addressed to President Stuart and myself. We note your comment regarding the Harvard-Yenching Library funds for our Library here. We have assumed that the amount placed in the budget for the Harvard-Yenching Institute as reported out from the New York office by President Stuart last spring, and bearing date of February 23rd, was fully authorized for the year's expenditures. This item was L.C.$30,000. The Library Committee, as I wrote you in the summer, has been spending funds very rapidly, due to advantageous conditions in the book market, and has been going forward during these autumn months on the supposition that the full $30,000 would be available at pro rata sums per quarter. The remittances from New York have not kept up with this program, and accordingly, a few days ago, we cabled again for funds to meet the present need. Supposing that these funds were to come regularly, this Office has already allowed the Library Committee to overdraw somewhat on this account. The paragraph in your letter just referred to indicates that the Trustees of the Institute "are anxious to go slow on expenditure of funds for the Library" pending further information as to the availability of funds. In this connection I should now report the receipt of a cable yesterday, reported to us from the President's Office, stating that L.C.$4000 for the Harvard-Yenching Institute Library was sent by mail November 13th. Also, the cable states that you hope to be able to send another remittance during January. We have reported these circumstances fully to the Purchasing Committee of the Library, and have urged them to slow up the process of purchase, so as not to proceed more rapidly than the receipt of the funds permits. If the hesitancy on the part of the Trustees which you mention means a revision of the budget so that this item of L.C.$30,000 may be reduced, we should certainly be informed of this contingency at once. In the meantime, we will try to restrain the Committee here, as I have just indicated, and will request you to transmit funds promptly as they are available, and to inform us fully of any further uncertainties or changes of plan.

My dear Dr. North:

I have discovered that the enclosed schedule which accompanied Dr. Galt's letter of October 22d was not copied when the excerpt of his letter was sent you on November 30th. With the thought that you may wish to include this schedule in any report you may make to the Institute, I am enclosing three additional copies of it.

May I inquire whether you have heard anything regarding the publication of the "Yenching Journal" during 1928? The last issue we received was the one for December, 1927, and last August I directed an inquiry to Dr. Stuart on the matter of the issue scheduled for "late in the spring", but received no reply. I notice that the auditor's report indicated that a balance of a few hundred dollars was carried forward in the "Journal Fund" account, so that I presume there was no issue last spring, but I have wondered whether any had been planned for the current academic year.

At Mr. Garside's request, I am enclosing the Trial Balance, Cash statement, and Budget Summary for the accounts of the Trustees as of November 30, 1928.

Dear Mr. Garside:

After telephoning you this morning, Mr. Davis telephoned me again and said he realized that you were really the center of the Universities and he would telephone you, especially as he wanted some help in getting in touch with the proper people for Chosen, and Allahabad.

I presume Mr. Davis will tell you the same thing that he told me with reference to the legal procedure, but I am jotting it down here so that I will at least discharge my responsibility in the matter.

As I understand it, before long, the lawyers in Niagara Falls will send to the officers of the Institutions a form of "consent to accept securities as of a certain value." This is needed to specify the court procedure and should be returned as soon as possible, I judge, so that no delay will need to take place in completing the transaction. At the same time, or a day or two later, the lawyers will send the form of an official receipt which I suppose will have some statement on the terms on which the gift was made. They desired to have this signed by someone who is authorized legally to bind the Institution in such signatures so that the receipt will be a legal receipt. It may be that in some cases there will be need for specific action by some committee of the Institution concerned to authorize the acceptance of the terms and the receipt of the funds.

I understand that on the 28th of December Mr. Davis plans to make the actual distribution, and to do that the receipt will have to be ready to be exchanged for the securities. He does not know yet just what his plan will be for delivery of the securities, either at his office or at the bank or in some other way, but will let us know that.

Dr. Eric M. North,
Secretary, Trustees of Yenching University,
150 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Dr. North:

In accordance with our telephone conversation,
I enclose a copy of what Mr. Johnson left with me the other day as the list of funds he is to turn over to us:

- (a) In the Special Fund for the benefit of certain named institutions; and
- (b) In the General Fund for the Institute.

I also enclose a memorandum on the problem of the high percentage of Aluminum Company securities. Any views which you or Mr. Barber may have on the problem will be much appreciated.

Yours very truly,

MEMORANDUM RE HARVARD-YENCHING INSTITUTE FUNDS

Funds to be turned over to the Institute consist of two divisions:

- (1) Special Fund - $1,900,000, given "subject to an express charge for the payment of the income thereon to institutions hereinafter described."
$900,000 of this fund is in preferred stock of the Aluminum Company. The rest is in diversified bonds.
- (2) General Fund - The book value is given as $4,759,003, but this includes $312,000 cash from which various commissions will be paid before we receive it. For convenience, call the value of this $4,500,000. Of this amount $1,500,000 is in preferred stock of the Aluminum Company and $1,450,000 in common stocks of the Aluminum Company of America and the British Company, Aluminium Limited. The remainder is chiefly in diversified bonds.

The question arises whether in both of these funds the proportion invested in the Aluminum Company is not too great for trustees to hold. Both funds are turned over without any request by the Hall trustees to continue to hold these stocks.

Mr. Johnson has expressed to me orally his personal opinion, as well as that of Mr. Davis, that although the present market on the common stock is too high, it would be foolish to sell the common stock.

One solution as to the general fund would be to take advantage of the provision in the by-laws which permits the Treasurer of the Institute to mingle funds with that of the University. This would insure diversification to the Institute and the opportunity for future gain to the University, and therefore to some extent to the Institute. The difficulty is that the common stock at present pays no dividend. This is not a difficulty for the Institute if the funds are not mingled because we probably do not need the income for a while, but it would make adjustment with the University somewhat complicated, though this should not be insurmountable. Messrs. Cohn, Franchot, Runals & Robillard, counsel for the Trustees, have apparently told Mr. Johnson that they doubt whether the special fund of $1,900,000 should be mixed with the general fund, a fortiori mingling with the University's fund would be doubtful. Even if this is so, it is to be noted that the special fund contains no common stock. I should think that if the proportion of preferred stock is too high that some of it could be sold to the University for sound general securities. Mr. Adams tells me the mechanics of keeping this $1,900,000 separate is not unduly burdensome.

HARVARD-YENCHING
INSTITUTE

TRANSFER

December 21, 1928.

Dear Dr. Stuart:

I was much interested in the meeting of the Administrative Committee of the Harvard-Yenching Institute yesterday. It seems to me that the general policy adopted is sound, especially in respect to the emphasis that is being laid on the building up of the Chinese library and the opportunity given to Chinese scholars to carry on their studies in these unsettled times. The publication of a journal also seems desirable, especially in view of the low cost of printing here.

With respect to publication in English, I think this may well be left mainly to the Cambridge section of the Institute as you propose. I do, however, believe that it will be desirable to print at least brief abstracts in English of all journal articles, if possible incorporating those abstracts in the journal itself. One or two pages might be sufficient for this at the start.

I suggest that the editors get the librarian to look over their references and see whether they are adequate and in proper form from the modern bibliographical point of view. Such assistance may be specially important for scholars who are not acquainted with American bibliographical methods. If special attention is given to this feature it should enormously increase the value of the journal to western students by facilitating their access to original sources.

I think it might be desirable at the next meeting of the Administrative Committee to present for confirmation all the appointments which it is proposed to make for the coming year, in so far as they have been settled by that time. For each individual there should probably be given a brief curriculum vitae, showing:

- Date and place of birth
- Institutions at which educated with dates of entering and leaving each and degrees received with date of each
- Experience, positions held, with dates
- Research record, showing nature of special studies pursued since graduation
- List of publications with references to the journals in which publication appeared, or date and place of publication in the case of books
- Opinions of other scholars on whose advice the appointment is to be made should also be briefly stated
- On appointment of persons not hitherto on the staff the recommendation of the Faculty Committee should be stated
- There should also appear a summary of the proposed terms of appointment; the length of service proposed, salary and any other material points

Dr. J. Leighton Stuart

December 21, 1928.

Such a statement will enable the Committee to act more intelligently and should therefore lead to a greater interest in the work, besides constituting a very useful record for further reference.

With regard to the budget, as I stated in the meeting, I believe that the salary list, showing names and amounts to be paid in each case, should appear in the budget.

In the matter of scholarships and fellowships I suggest that rules be drawn up for sanction by the Administrative Committee. They should state the principles on which appointments are to be based, the amount of stipends to be paid, the periods for which granted, etc.

With respect to museum aid, I believe no grants to other institutions should be promised or paid without the approval of the Administrative Committee. Since the Institute is itself building up a collection, I question the advisability of contributing to other institutions for the same purpose, especially in these rather unsettled times.

I understand that you will prepare a draft of by-laws for the Administrative Committee, showing the powers which you recommend to be given to it and that you will include in that draft a statement of the functions and powers that you think should be given to the faculty committee. This seems to me a matter of fundamental importance, the initiative in which can appropriately be taken here, though the decision must be made by the trustees in Cambridge. Such drafts should be submitted to the Administrative Committee before forwarding to the trustees for action.

With regard to financial reports, it does not seem to me necessary that hereafter remittances for different items should appear separately. It would be easier to understand the report if receipts and expenditures appeared in separate sheets. The report of expenditures should show in separate columns the amount of the budget provision and the actual expenditures. I take it that the latter are almost exclusively in silver.

Items in which expenditures are incurred outside the local budget for account of the Cambridge section should appear in a separate statement.

I am looking forward with much interest to the development of the work of the Institute and am glad of the opportunity to have even a small share in it.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. J. Leighton Stuart

P.S. I have just received minutes of the Executive Committee of the Trustees held October 22 from which I note that a proposal to spend up to Mex.1,000 on an anthropological expedition to Fukien is approved. This matter was not brought up yesterday. My own opinion is that since anthropology is not yet highly developed at Yenching, it would be a mistake to send an anthropological expedition. It may be that the studies are rather sociological than anthropological and in that case I should be willing to reconsider. If any work in anthropology is considered I suggest that you take the advice of Dr. Davidson Black, our professor of anatomy, who is thoroughly familiar with anthropological methods and has himself made important contributions in the field of physical anthropology.

Dear Mr. Coolidge:

Dr. North has sent to me a copy of two different memoranda which he received from you.

My judgement would be that all securities and cash turned over to Harvard-Yenching Institute for any purpose whatsoever should be held intact, (not distributed and not mingled with Harvard funds) until there can be a full meeting of the Trustees in order to discuss the matter fully. If the Hall Estate trustees definitely require that distribution or diversification be made by a given date, then the suggested meeting of the Trustees should be held before that time.

As to whether the proportion of the special fund and general fund invested in the stock of the Aluminum Co. is not too great for the Trustees to hold, my mind is open. I think the Stock of the Aluminum Co. may be selling at too high a figure ~~right~~ now, but I doubt the wisdom of selling any of it because I think within a reasonable time that stock is going to be worth ^{more} than the present market. I like the stock of Aluminum Limited of Canada very much and would hesitate to sell much of it at the present market.

I hope that you and yours are enjoying the holiday season and with kindest regards, I remain,

Sincerely yours

We are planning to have our formal opening at the end of next September having deferred this twice because of political uncertainties. It would be very delightful for us to have you come to China for that occasion and in order to acquaint yourself with the work as projected here at Yenching. You might also form a judgment as to the extent to which archaeological research in the form of expeditions, etc., should be undertaken. If Dean Donham requires another period of rest could it not be combined with a trip to China at the same time. He would find Peking and its environments a good base for diverting and not too vigorous activity.

With a growing enthusiasm for our cooperative enterprise,

Very sincerely yours,

The Chinese Collection in The Library

Before 1924 there were only a few hundred volumes of Chinese books in the University Library. Beginning with the autumn of the same year, however, the University Library Committee, under the chairmanship of Professor William Hung and with the help of the new Library Special Fund, has been steadily acquiring a very good collection of standard Chinese works. By the summer of the following year our Chinese collection numbered about 35,000 volumes.

Since the Spring of 1928 a special effort has been made in further building up the Chinese Collection with the financial help of the Harvard-Yenching Institute of Chinese Studies. A Sub-committee on Buying Chinese Books was specially appointed. During the year the conditions were favorable for this. A period of business depression, especially in the book market in Peking, combined with the removal of the Capital and the unsettled conditions all over the country brought many private collections into the market. Under these conditions we have been able, at very small expense, to build up a large collection of Chinese books. Our collection now numbers about 100,000 volumes, and should in the near future compare favorably with any other kind in the country.

In China, books are usually classified under four sections, 1) The Canonical Works; ~~Ching~~ 2) History; 3) The Works on Science, Philosophy and Art and 4) Literature. In the first section we have acquired all the classical or canonical works and all the authorized commentaries on the classics such as the First and Second Series of Authorized Commentaries on the Classics. Altogether, we have bought more than three hundred valuable works in this section. In the second section we have acquired all the ~~the~~ standard histories dating from ancient times to the beginning of the Ch'ing Dynasty. We are also now in possession of "Chiu Tung" which is an encyclopedic history of political and social institutions. In addition, we have bought a large number of the detailed histories of particular districts. We have bought practically all of these District Records in Peking bookstores, and are planning to make a complete collection of all the District Records of China. Even as we stand today, no institution in China can surpass ours in this respect. These local histories will provide scholars with a mass of material for the writing of reliable Chinese history. In the third section we have acquired all the philosophical works written during the Pre-Ching Period. We have now a complete collection of all Chinese works and all translated works on Buddhism and all the works on Taoism. We have yet to complete our collection of the philosophical works of the Sung, Yuan, Ming and Ch'ing Dynasties. We have also many important works on painting and calligraphy. There are in the Library about six hundred books on archaeology, including those on bone characters, seal characters, bronzes and stone tablets. In the fourth section we have acquired a good many literary works of the T'ang, Sung, Yuan, Ming and Ch'ing periods. In the T'ang period, we have secured a Sung edition of Han Chang Li's collected works, besides all the standard works of the period. We have already more than fifteen hundred volumes of the literary works of the Ming period and more than two thousand volumes of works belonging to the Ch'ing period. We have already on our library shelves more than half of all the works belonging to this section. Moreover, we have now in the Library two large Chinese encyclopedias, the Tu Shu Chi Ch'eng and the Tse Tu Yuan Hui, as well as all the Imperial works in the Ch'ing Dynasty.

Special Rare Editions in the Library

Although the Library Committee is not at the present time making any special effort to secure rare editions, the following books are perhaps worthy of mention:

One volume of Yung Lo Tai Tien (Book 8811). The Yung Lo Tai Tien was the biggest collection of books made during the reign of the Emperor Yung Lo of the Ming Dynasty. The collection has been scattered all over the world and most of the books have been lost.

The Huang Shan Lu Tao Pi, an original work of Huang Shan Lu, a famous scholar of letters of the Sung Dynasty (A.D. 959-1279). This particular work was printed in the Sung Dynasty and was listed in the Tien Tu Lin Iang Collection of the Imperial Palace. The Seals of the Tien Tu Lin Iang and of the Emperor Chien Lung can both be found in the book.

With the enthusiastic aid of Professor Jung Keng, we have been able to acquire a splendid collection of books on Chinese archaeology. One of the rare books in this collection is the Yu Hwa Huan Chin Wen, containing the rubbings of the ancient bronzes which were possessed by such eminent scholars as Pan Ying, Chen Chai Chi and Wu Da Sun.

We have also in our possession some very interesting manuscripts, among which are to be found;

- The Sheng Ping Pao Ia
- Mr. Chang's Notes on Bronzes and Stone Tablets
- Mr. Chin's work on Ancient Coins
- Mr. Wu's work on Ancient Bricks
- Sun Yi Hsiang's Notes on Shang Shu
- Sun Yi Hsiang's Notes on Ancient Seal Characters

Procedure in Buying Chinese Books

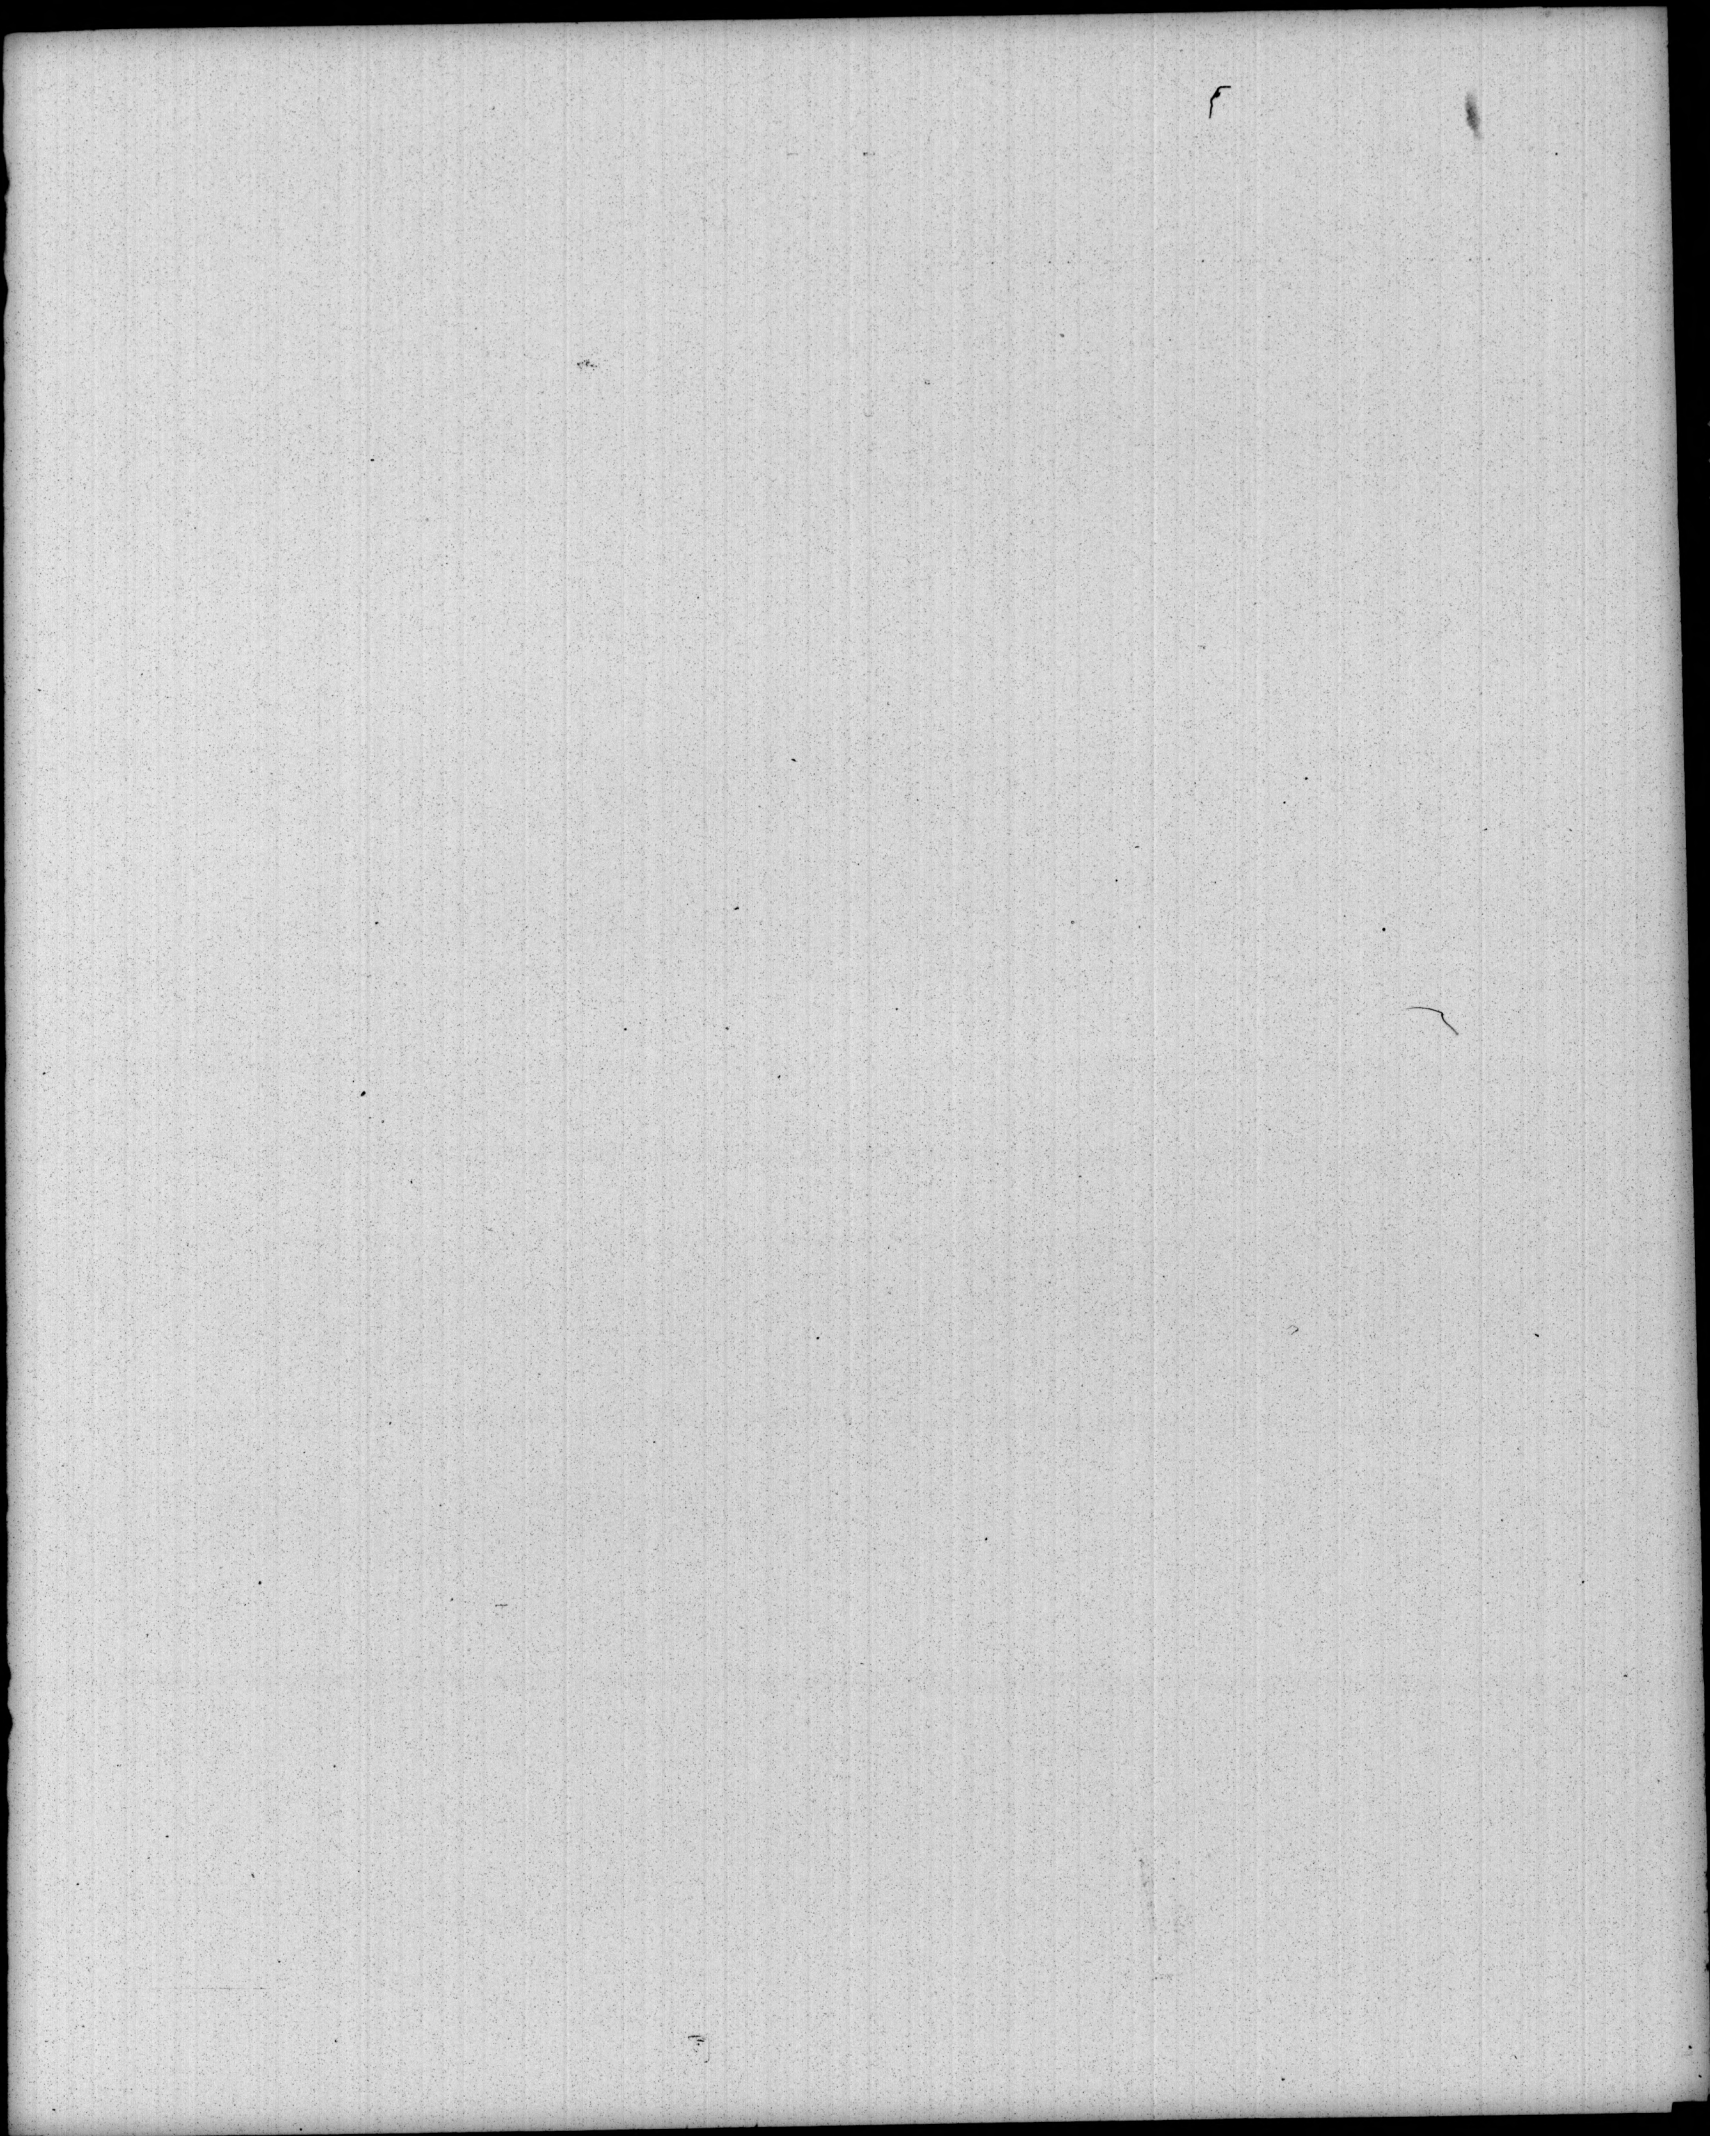

The question of the buying of Chinese books is one of the utmost importance. Not only is technical knowledge required concerning the contents of the books, but also much experience in such matters as editions, bindings, paper, and form of characters. There is no fixed price for old books. Valuable books may be procured at very low prices by those who thoroughly understand the proper way to proceed in the purchase of such books.

We may take as an example the purchasing of the "Eight Thousand Volumes of Bibliography" which is considered one of the standard works in bibliography. The titles of the volumes which the Library has not yet acquired must be telegraphed with their respective Arabic numbers and sent to the book dealers in Peking. The book dealers thereupon send one or two of the volumes as samples to the Library together with the price and name of the present owner. When many samples have come in, these are compared, with a view to securing the best editions at the most reasonable prices, and the purchase is then made to the best advantage of our library.

Cataloging and Classification.

We have had to work out our own scheme for classifying the Chinese books of our library which is an "Extension of the D.C." for both the classics and modern works alike. Our cataloging system is also a new experiment in the cataloging of both old and the books. We are just now experimenting with this matter, and are looking forward with interest and enthusiasm to its fuller development.

Publication of Valuable Manuscripts

During the past year we have been engaged in publishing some very valuable manuscripts, the most outstanding publication being Sun Yi-shang's "Commentary on Shang Shu" and his "Notes on Ancient Seal Characters". Sun Yi-shang is one of the few outstanding scholars of the Ch'ing Dynasty. His "Commentary on Lotze" and his "New Interpretation of Chow Li" have been widely recognized as a great contribution to Chinese studies. He has also written several valuable works on philosophy. His collected works amount to about one hundred volumes. It had been generally understood that all his works had already been published but to our surprise we found that two of his very valuable manuscripts had not yet appeared in print. As soon as we were able to secure these manuscripts we proceeded with the printing of them. We decided on wood-block printing in order that in form the printing of these two books might be in keeping with their intrinsic value. These two books when published will arouse among Chinese scholars a very real interest in our Institute.

We have also published a book on some of the ancient bronzes found in the old palaces in Peking. It was through Professor Jung's painstaking and thorough-going investigations that we are able to reproduce them in such good form. Mr. Jung has carefully selected ninety-two of the bronzes and has added his own annotations.

We are just engaged in publishing an historical work edited and translated by a scholarly historian, Mr. Chang Hsing-lang, which is entitled "Marco Polo's Travels in China". Mr. Chang has not only translated the original book written by Marco Polo, but he has also made many corrections along two lines. In the first place, in comparing the book with Chinese contemporary history he was able to correct some of the mistakes in Marco Polo's work, while at the same time he corrected some of the mistakes in the Chinese historical works, especially those relating to the Yuan Dynasty.

The Yenching Journal of Chinese Studies. This journal is edited by Professor Jung Keng, a specialist in the ancient Seal Characters. It was published just at the time when the Journal of Sinological Studies in the Peking National University ceased to function. Our journal, in its form and in its material, stands foremost among Chinese publications and is actually taking the place of the Peking National University periodical. Even the Central University in Nanking has not yet been able to produce anything that can compare with our Journal. It has been highly spoken of by many book reviewers, and some of the articles published in it have already made valuable contributions. These include "The Sinicization of the 'Western people' during the Yuan Dynasty", and "The Traditional Omission of the Imperial and Sacred Lines in Chinese Writings" by Chen Yuan; "The Place of Confucius in Chinese History", and "The Confucianist Theory of Wedding, Funeral and Sacrificial Ceremonies" by Fung Yu-lan; "The Philosophy of Chu Hsi" and "The Philosophy of Wang Yang-ming" by L. T. Kwang; "Some Ceremonial Utensils and Musical Instruments of the Yin and Chou Dynasties and Some Utensils in the Han Dynasty", by Jung Keng; "The Boundary Trenches of the Ch'ing Dynasty", by Wang Kuo-wei; "Mathematics in the Earlier and the Later Han Dynasty and of the book 'Chia Chang", and "Scientific Inventions in Chinese History", by Ch'ang Yin-lin.

It will be of great help to those who are doing research work in Chinese studies. He is at present Vice-president of the Pu Jen University in Peking. He has been recently appointed Chairman of the Yenching Faculty Committee of the Harvard-Yenching Institute to take effect after July 1, 1929.

Mr. Jung Leng is a specialist in the Ancient Chinese Bone and Bronze Characters. He has edited a dictionary of bronze characters and published other works in this field of research.

Mr. Hsu Ti-Shan is a Sanskrit scholar and a specialist in Buddhist literature.

Mr. Fung Yu-lan Ph.D. is a pupil of John Dewey and also a student of Chinese Philosophy. His book "A Comparative Study of Life Ideals" is a good exposition of Chinese philosophy during the Pre-Ch'ing period as compared with ethical studies in the West.

All four of the above mentioned professors are members of the Academy of Philological and Historical Research in Nanking.

Mr. L.T. Huang Ph.D. is thoroughly trained in Western philosophy in addition to his Chinese scholarship. Apart from his degrees from the University of Toronto, he early obtained a degree in the Imperial Examination. He was for some time Dean of a government college in Central China and is now professor of Logic and Chinese Literature in Yenching University. Besides his teaching work he is engaged in writing a history on Chinese Philosophy during the Sun, Yuan and Ming periods.

Mr. Chang Hsing-lang is a historian and an authority on the geography of Central Asia, as was his father before him. He studied Chemistry in the United States, England and Germany, and received the degree of B. Sc. at Harvard University. He has just translated and edited "Marco Polo's Travels in China". He was for some time professor in the National University in Peking and is a well known scholar.

Students

We have fourteen students majoring in Chinese, with quite a number majoring in other departments because of new facilities in Chinese subjects, and with sixty-seven who have elected Chinese courses. All this indicates a growing interest.

There are three students doing research work in Chinese Studies. Mr. Ku Tung-jen is specializing in Chinese Opera. Mr. Lo Kun-tsun is doing some research work in Chinese philosophy during the Pre-Ch'ing period, and Mr. Chang shu-ling is working on The Book of Odes. Mr. Lo and Mr. Ku have each been given a scholarship of five hundred dollars a year. Mr. Chang receives a scholarship of three hundred dollars a year and in addition works as an assistant in the Institute. These students are working under the leadership of different professors, Professor L. T. Huang directing the work of Lo Kun-tsun and Professor Kuo Shan-yu that of Ku Tung-jen. It has seemed preferable to limit these grants to a small number of specially qualified students and to give them substantial assistance, thus fixing a standard and attracting the best quality of students.

Subsidy to Institutions of Learning or Museums.

We have subsidized the archaeological expedition to Chinese Turkestan headed by Sven Hedin, and in a return any material that may be discovered may be freely used by our Institute in carrying on its research work.

This in no way commits us to the practise of assisting expeditions or other undertakings of this nature, and our policy in such matters is now under consideration. But for several reasons this special grant seemed to be advisable.
